WHERE HAVE YOU GONE, Joe DiMaggio? A lonely nation has a broken heart.

It was almost like losing a parent, or other loved one this week when the news came that Joe DiMaggio, baseball's consummate hero, had died. Like an older relative, you know he had to go sometime, but you never would be ready.

My readers who are sports fans already know the part about DiMaggio being the last of a dying breed: a sports hero who was modest, gracious and always the gentleman. In spite of his many accomplishments, Joe DiMaggio was "just Joe."

Today's athletes could learn a lot by watching the old videos that we saw on Monday, when the TV networks dug up the old black-and-white footage that showed DiMaggio in some of his accomplishments, or doing an interview.

None of the clips showed DiMaggio doing a "hot dog" routine after blasting a winning home run, or getting the hit that established baseball's longest hitting streak. That's because he never engaged in this sort of activity. Very few members of his generation did.

You need to remember that for all of DiMaggio's career, professional baseball was THE main sport in America. The National Football League was mainly a New York City and Chicago situation, with a few other little-known teams. The NFL couldn't hope to draw a crowd equal to what Texas Tech does when it hosts Texas or the Aggies.

And the NBA consisted of a handful of teams made up of a bunch of short, white guys, trying, mainly in vain, to prove that there could be basketball past the college level.

DiMaggio hit the baseball stage when the nation needed something (or someone) to help the U.S.A. get over a devastating depression which had sapped the country's energy and had it reeling for one of the few times in its history.

DiMaggio sparked the Yankees, already known as the best in baseball, to ten league championships in his relatively short 13-year career. His career would have been longer, but he volunteered for the Army during World War II.

Joltin' Joe is best known for a record he set 58 years ago this coming season. In the summer of 1941—the summer prior to Pearl Harbor—DiMaggio broke the old pro baseball record of getting at least one hit in 45 straight games. His streak stretched from the middle of May until July 17—56 games in all.

In all the years in between, no one has seriously challenged this hitting record. Pete Rose was the only player for the rest of the century who might have broken the mark, but had to settle for a new National League mark when his streak was stopped at 44 games.

"The Streak," as DiMaggio's feat was known, sparked a popular song. Several years later, Simon and Garfunkel had the hit song "Mrs. Robinson," which contains the tribute to DiMaggio that contained the first line quoted at the start of this column.

Then, the hit musical South Pacific's music had a mention of the baseball player...."Her skin is tender as.....DiMaggio's glove." Ye Editor can't think of anyone, in sports or out, who has been accorded this type of recognition.

What's that you say, Mrs. Robinson? Joltin' Joe has left and gone away? (hey, hey, hey) this time to stay.

K'Leigh Scroggins finished second in the 100m hurdles at 17.74 and second in the 300m hurdles at 51.2.

Christen Stowers earned third place in the 400m run with a time of 68.12.

The 400m relay team of Elia Maruffo, Lety Vargas, Ashley Zehner, and Joyce Martinez ran fourth in the time of 56.6.

In the 1600m relay, Cano, Scroggins, Stowers, and Amber King also earned fourth at 4:36.6.

Ashley Zehner ran a 14.6 100m for fifth, Marisol

Antillon grabbed fourth in the 3200m at 14:13.2, and Stowers was fifth in the high jump at 4'10".

Sanford Fritch won the girls' meet with 181 points, followed by Panhandle at 114 points, River Road at 60 points, and Bovina with 56.

"Ole Timers"

By LANCE ESTES

Where have all the "ole timers" gone?

They were the "greatest generation" this world has ever known...

They toiled endlessly with blood, sweat, and tears. Yet not one complaint did we as youngsters ever hear...

It was their duty and they did it without question. They taught us by action "doing" was our lesson.

As we walk past boarded store windows, their memories still roam.

Where have all the "ole timers" gone? Why back to heaven of course, their HOME.

(Editors note: Lance Estes is a 1982 graduate of Bovina High School. He and his family are refurbishing the old hotel building on Main Street in Bovina which caused him to reminisce about "ole timers" in downtown Bovina.)

Scooter's Scoops

By SCOOTER RUSSELL

Local residents had all kinds of weather on Sunday night when it rained, hailed and sleeted, along with thunder and lightning. We were told that Bovina got a good shower.

We were up north at Spearman and had all this and also had snow that was still on the ground Monday morning. We had about nine tenths of an inch of moisture in Spearman.

NEWS AROUND TOWN...

Funeral services were held last Friday, for Ed Hutto of Clovis, and a former longtime resident of Bovin. Ed and his wife, Alta raised their five daughters and one son while in Bovina. Even though he moved to Clovis 24 years ago we still felt like they belonged to us.

Ed was a sweet, kind person and a fine gentleman. He'll be greatly missed. We extend our sympathies to his fine family.

Don and Juanda Murphy went to Lubbock Monday night of last week and met their grandson, Brandon and Melissa and their daughter, Jaycee, and helped Melissa celebrate her birthday. Also with the family were Melissa's parents, Dennis and Debbie Black. They had supper at the County Line Restaurant.

Santos Salazar underwent heart surgery and friends said she is home and getting along real fine.

Justin and Arlene Brozek are physical therapists at the Muleshoe Hospital and recently took training at Sedona, Arizona, which is located in the mountains near Flagstaff. The training was on neck and back therapy.

Their little boys stayed with Justin's parents, who came from Great Bend, Kansas and kept the boys. One day they took the boys to Amarillo and had dinner at the Red Lobster and had a good time with them.

Their other grandmother, Suez Smith, said the oldest boy, Jake, was upset at first thinking about being left and spent time crying one night before they left. The little one came in and wanted a drink of water. Jake looked at him and said, "Baby brother, you could get a drink from my tears!"

Nelline Spicer returned home Sunday from visiting with her sister and her husband, Adele and John Anderson of the Dallas area. She also visited with her son, Marty and his family.

One weekend she and Adele drove to Durant, Oklahoma and visited with good friends and one weekend they flew to Tulsa, Oklahoma and spent time with a sister, Elsie and her husband, T.J. They had a good visit together.

Mrs. Lorna Sikes is a patient in a Lubbock hospital, according to friends. Lorna and her husband, John, lived in Bovina many years ago and raised their family here.

I talked with Ella Jo Stormes Monday morning and she was telling me about little Tristen, son of Andy and Lori Stormes. He was flown to Dallas a week ago Friday and on Monday was listed in critical condition. He suffered with breathing problems since he was born and hasn't had many good days since. He has asthma, R.S.V. and pulmonary hypertension. Our thoughts and prayers are with the family.

We express our sympathies to Lupe Garcia, whose mother passed away Sunday. She was Tomas Diaz and died in the Dumas hospital after being ill for about three weeks.

She was survived by four sons, six daughters, 36 grandchildren and 82 great grandchildren. Her husband, Severiano, preceded her in death three years ago.

Polly Mills has been hospitalized again and word is that she is spending time with daughter Karla Winthrow in Littlefield for a time. We were unable to contact family members to find out about her condition.

Tammy Stormes Jones has been in Bovina visiting for a month along with daughter, Tiffany. Tammy's husband is in the service and they are stationed at Mary Ester, which is near Pensacola, Florida.

Tammy is the daughter of Sam and Ella Jo Stormes.

Les and Rose McCain enjoyed visiting recently with Rose's niece, Nancy Schaap of Hale Center. Nancy teaches school and was in Bovina judging the UIL events.

Grady Sorley had a nephew who suffered a stroke and passed away. He was Cliff Sorley, 47, of Houston. Both of his parents, Garland and Ruth Sorley, died during the past year.

The Sorleys also had an aunt who died in recent weeks, who was ninety years old.

As usual, thanks for helping with the Scoops. Leave a message on my phone or the Blade phone and I will return your call.

POISON PREVENTION

Accidental poisoning is one of the leading causes of child death in America. Last year, over 3000 accidental poisoning deaths were reported - many of them children. National Poison Prevention Week was established to alert the American people of the dangers of accidental childhood poisoning and encourage learning preventive measures.

Join with us in observing National Poison Prevention Week, March 20-26. By following a few common-sense rules, we can all do our part to reduce accidental childhood poisoning. Always keep harmful substances out of reach of children. Learn first-aid treatment for poisoning - or keep a first-aid book or chart handy. And finally, educate young children about the dangers of playing with all harmful substances.

An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure, especially where children are concerned. National Poison Prevention Week reminds us to safeguard our children from accidental poisoning - a killer that can be beaten.

"Coach Dewitt On Dribbling, Teaching, & Life"

I often write this column in the form of a "Dear Coach Dewitt" letter to my old high school coach, David Dewitt of Hillsboro, Texas.

Lest you think he is a figment of my imagination, Coach Dewitt is indeed alive and well. He is 76-years-old and retired after 34 years of teaching and coaching.

What I haven't shared (until now) is that he brought along a nickname from his college playing days--Dizzy Dewitt.

Fellow coaches and other adults called him "Diz". They say he got the name because of his "dizzying" moves on the basketball court.

A few weeks ago I wrote a Coach Dewitt column in which I wondered why they call bouncing a basketball dribbling and what he thought about social promotion.

This week I received a letter from Coach Dewitt. I know he will not mind if I share it with you. It should demonstrate why, after more than 40 years, Diz Dewitt is still my hero. This is what the coach wrote:

Dear Ron,

Hope this letter finds you and yours in good shape and thoroughly enjoying life.

I have really enjoyed the Friona Star, especially the "Out Here" which is superbly written. I have said this before, but you guys have a great newspaper.

Your sports pages are some of the very best I have seen. Your photos and Bill Ellis' write-ups are really great. I like the way you spread your sports program photos to all pages of your paper. This should help the kids interest to participate in sports.

I was sorry to hear about Friona basketball teams losing in the play-offs. I wish the Squaws could have beat Muleshoe so that Whitney, April, and Sheri could have some peace of mind. I know that both teams tried hard to win but it just didn't work out. Does Nathan King remind you a lot of yourself when you played for the Eagles?

Overall Friona High had a good basketball year. The Friona kids play so hard that they overcome any lack of ability that they may have. That's what it takes, Ron!

I would like to answer your letter about "what is dribbling" or rather, why do they call it by that name?

I watched the first basketball game for me when I was six years old. I was attracted to the town gym by all the noise of thumping, running feet and whistles.

As I remember, the players were bouncing the ball up and down as what we know as dribbling. This was back in 1929 so dribbling has been around a long time. As long as I have been interested in basketball, I can't remember it being called anything else.

When I first started playing basketball in the early '30s the dribble was frowned on by most coaches. Instead, you were to pass the ball instead of dribbling.

It is my understanding that basketball was invented so as to occupy the time between football and baseball. It is the only game that we play now that originated in the United States.

As you stated in your article, peach baskets were used for goals and after each goal a ladder was used to retrieve the ball. As you can see there was little or no fast breaks at that time.

The early basketballs had a slight oval shape to them and were a little erratic to deal with. The nice perfectly round basketballs came in the late '30s and '40s.

They tried to introduce rubber basketballs to high school play in the early '40s but you would have to rebound the dang things at mid-court.

The dribble they use now is a lot different than it was when you played. Back then you could not place your hand in the middle or under the ball while dribbling. Now the guys dribbling can carry the ball some distance before returning it to the floor. There is also a lot of "traveling" now which was strictly called when you played.

Ron, on the baseball coaching picture at Hillsboro High, I helped coach baseball when I came to HHS in 1953. I wasn't hired to be a baseball coach but wound up helping out whenever I could. I had a lot of fun coaching baseball and could have gotten good at coaching it had the people in charge desired to have a successful baseball program.

In those days, football coaches called just about all the shots and baseball wasn't on their agenda. Need I say more?

I know you took your baseball seriously and it wasn't fair to kids like you that really wanted to play the sport. They finally eliminated baseball from the program entirely.

Your article about Public School Week was right on the money. Education is important to everyone but is especially important to the young folk. Not every child is educatable the way we would like to educate him.

This fact causes, to some extent, what we know as social promotion to occur. For one thing, social promotion is so diversified from one school district to another that there is nothing close to a standard for it. It is very hard to establish a hard and fast rule for it.

I personally never have believed in social promotion. I believe the problem must be solved in, perhaps, the early grades--kindergarten through the 3rd or 4th.

I taught 8th grade science for many years and I would have some students who could read only at 2nd or 3rd grade level. At the end of each year the 8th grade teachers would have a meeting to decide on the social promotion for certain students. It was a real mess and I didn't like doing it.

I think you can see that the problem of social promotion must be remedied at the lower grades. If a kid messes around all the school year and doesn't pass a course, it is very unwise to pass him to a higher grade.

I had kids that were several years too old to be in my 8th grade class. I once had a kid that had to be absent one day so he could report to the draft board to be registered (18 years old).

I will try to write you some more on this subject later on. I loved all 34 years of my coaching and teaching and I believe that most kids are good kids.

Ron, I really appreciate the nice things you write about me. I am very proud of you in many ways. Keep up the good work, Ron!

Your friend and coach
Coach Dewitt

Thank you coach. Good to hear from you. Your influence and wisdom will be appreciated in the future as it has been in the past. Please feel free to write me anytime and thank you for reading our newspaper. You're the best! ron 50TH ANNIVERSARY....JE Sherrill, Jr. and Patsy Clem, were married March 21, 1949 in Tahoka. The family would be honored with your presence.

LAZBUDDIE VISITORS to the Friona Star office this week were these 3-8 grade youngsters. They were in Friona for the county spelling bee and stopped by for a newspaper tour. Standing in back, l-r, Teachers Sarah Black and Marca Morris and Monse Melendez. Meeting To Explore Community Goals

The Parmer County Extension Office is conducting an Open Forum to ask your views about the future for you, in your community and in this county.

The Open Forum will be held Tuesday, March 16 at the First United Methodist Church on 205 4th Street in Bovina. The meeting will begin at 6:30 p.m. and conclude at approximately 9 p.m.

The outcome of this forum will be a prioritized list of items that you and your fellow residents think could be done to help achieve the goals you might have for yourself, your family, your business or your community.

This list of items will be a basis for implementing programs and activities by the Parmer County Extension Service and other agencies within Parmer County for the next four years.

The forum in our county will be one of a series held in every county in the state. The Texas Communities Futures Forum is sponsored by the Texas Agricultural Extension Services and the Texas A&M University System.

"We look forward to your participation. We ask that you call the Extension Office at (806) 481-3619 if you are able to attend. We must have an accurate count in order to properly plan for facilities and supplies," said a spokesman for the Extension Office.
