Tax Refunds to Cover Portal Awards; Study Enemy's Food Needs; Congress to Press Probes

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of wastern Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Tax Relief The burden of portal to portal back pay will largely be shouldered by Uncle Sam when, and if, union members are awarded their substantial claims against industry as a result of Secretary of the Treasury Snyder's announcement that such outlays are deductible against taxes levied in the years affected. Because portal payments to workers will be liable to taxation, how-ever, the U. S. stands to recover some of the refunds in personal income taxes. In many instances, the portal claims run into hundreds of dollars per worker, leaving them open to a heavy bite under the high wartime gates. Under Snyder's ruling that industry could claim credits on taxes paid in the years for which portal demands were granted, companies would be able to take advantage of high rates and excess profits levies of the war years. At the same time, they would be entitled to a 6 per cent interest on the money collect-ed from them to cover their tax

FOOD: Enemy's Need

Declaring that the U.S. could not afford to permit the American flag to fly over a gigantic Buchenwald, former President Herbert Hoover undertook another survey of food needs in the U. S. and British occupation zones in Germany. In addition to providing for es-sential German relief, Hoover's junket was aimed at making the reich as self-supporting in food needs as possible. Improvement in the food situation would lead to a reduction in present U. S. relief costs of 300 downillion dollars annually. The former president had the assistance of two Co food experts on his tour, being accompanied by Dr. Dennis Fitzgerald, chairman of the international emergency food council, and former Ambassador Hugh Gibson, who aided him in World War I relief work. At the same time that Hoover headed westward, Hallam Tuck, his associate on the famine study tour of last spring, headed eastward to survey food conditions in Japan, Ko-rea and the Ryukyus. Tuck also will be concerned with the long—as well as short-range requirements of those Asiatic countries in an effort to boost their food output.

ing 20s, made the headlines the country over when he suffered a stroke of apoplexy and lay near death. His wife, faithful as ever, prayed at his bedside, and the rest of the Capone clan hurried in from Mercer, Wis., and Chicago.

Secrecy continued to shroud the Capone villa. While sleek autos, filled with mysterious characters, whizzed in and out of the private grounds, reporters and photogs waited outside to get their information second-hand. Capone had not appeared in public since 1941 and rumors persisted that paresis had left him with the mind of a 12-year-old. On the other hand, it was said that his supposed debility was a blind, that he was as hale as ever and running the gang's gambling and vice business at a distance, getting his cut out of the lucrative profits.

The watch-dog over efficiency of the war effort under President Truman while he was still senator from Missouri, the war investigating committee widened its scope under Senator Mead (Dem., N. In the wake of disclosures of the close relations existing between congressmen and army officers with war contractors, the GOP voiced its determination to dig deeper into wartime dealings.

Not always in favor during the liberal New Deal administration, the house un-American activities committee promises to enjoy smoother sledding under the Republicans. Now headed by Representative Thomas (Rep., N. J.) the committee laid plans for an early probe of Communism in government departments, labor unions, Hollywood, and colleges and schools.

in an effort to prevent serious breaks in commodities, Secretary of Agriculture Anderson announced that the department's commodity exchange authority would be freed of other duties to permit full time policing of the markets.

Anderson disclosed the move in the face of growing speculation. Remembering the big break in cotton last October and the alleged manipulation of butter prices in New York, department authorities acted to check future slumps affecting prices. Studies are being completed on the factors in the cotton break, with Anderson ready to ask for additional regulatory authority if warranted by the investigation.

Meanwhile grain prices remained strong as the government announced it would increase its wheat export program by 50 million bushels in the current crop year to a total of

This is the now-suit that fitted Sally so well only two years ago. It was a little snug last winter, but still wearable. Now it outgrown. Sally needs a new outfit—fast!

A lot of businesses are in the same spot as Sally. Their facilities are utgrown too. During the tight war years, they nursed out equipment along, patiently waiting for new materials and machines. And all the time they, too, kept on grow as. But a lot of things they've been needing still aren't available.

That's why so many businesses—our own included— like Sally, training at the seams, waiting for the new his is a friendly apology to those folks who've asked to be added to he service lines. Though we haven't gotten around to you we haven't forgotten you. We appreciate your patience, and want you to know that—as soon as the needed materials become available—we'll be happy to hon'ros theap espendable electric service on to you, too.

Valentine's Day

If you get into a party mood around this time of year, one of the most festive occasions for a gettogether can be on Valentine's Day. There are so many clever things you can do with food and decorations that it's just grand The occasion can be getting together with friends whom you like and hardly ever get a chance to have over. Or, if you want to honor an engaged or newly married couple the occasion is perfect. Be as frilly as you like for this is a romantic day. Pink and white are your colors, and hearts your motif. Arrange furniture in pairs as much as possible to carry out the theme of the occasion, and for refreshments, select your sweetest
