MESSAGE:

Tax Issue

Whether President Harry Truman's state of the union message to congress was "socialistic," as Republican partisans dubbed it, or "forthright and courageous," as in the eyes of loyal Democrats, remained a matter of opinion, but it was fairly obvious that in making it the President had cast a loving glance toward next November's election day.

He proposed a combination taxcutting-and-raising device that manifestly has no chance of passage in the Republican dominated congress but one that sounds good to a lot of

His plan, embodying tax-relief to the "little man," would give each individual taxpayer an immediate $40 tax cut for himself and for each dependent. To offset that reduction in federal income he proposed that corporation taxes be raised by 3.2 billion dollars.

Mr. Truman presented the scheme a "cost of living" credit designed primarily to relieve the small tax-

In a phrase certain to be quoted with relish by Democratic graters during the coming campaign, the President said he wants to keap revenue collections where they are and still help those who need relied to "buy the necessities of life."

Supplementing the tax proposals he called for a 75-cent-per-hour minimum wage, representing a 35-cent increase over the present 40-cent minimum. Although in the past he has favored raising the national minimum wage, the 75-cent figure was the highest flat demand he has

General tone of the President's message to the joint session led most observers to believe that he was swinging his administration back to "a little left of center," a point which generally is identified with New Deal philosophies.

Some saw in the speech a perceptible bid for the left-wing and liberal vote that Henry Wallace's third party is threatening to take away from the Democrats.

Republican reaction to Mr. Truman's speech was bitter and intense and the G.O.P. went ahead more determinedly with its own tax-reduction bill.

AND FURTHERMORE . . .

Taxes were not the only controversial issue touched upon by Mr. Truman in his message to congress. He also asked for: 1. The once-rejected 10-point anti-inflation program with power impose wage and price trols and rationing.

2. Universal military training. 3. Authorization of the fouryear Marshall plan. 4. Stronger and extended rent

5. Public housing for lowincome families and government action to cut building costs.

6. Modernization of farm price supports and broader crop insur-

7. Extension of unemployment compensation, old age and survivors' benefits, a national health plan and federal financial aid for education.

8. Admission of European refugees into the U.S. 9. Statehood for Alaska and Hawaii.

SURPRISE:

Back Again

Don't look now or you might see another one of those flying saucers. It seems as though they're back

Col. Guy F. Hix, commander of Godman field, Fort Knox, Ky., spotted one from the airport's observation tower and had it chased by national guard planes and followed from the ground by state highway patrolmen. The "saucer," said Colonel Hix, was "very white and looked like an umbrella. Pilots of the planes which pursued the object reported they had climbed to 20,000 feet and the disk was still above them. They estimated its speed at about 180 miles an hour.

Further evidence was provided by highway patrol headquarters at Elizabethtown, Ky., which reported receiving calls from cruisers whose occupants said the saucer resembled an "ice cream cone with a little fire at the bottom."

THIRD FORC Socialism?

Latest voice from among the less potent nations of the globe to rise in protest of the cold battle between Russia and the U.S. was that of Leon Blum, French Socialist leader and short-time premier of France. He called for a "third force of the world" to stand between the Big Two, even as such a middle group has stood between the Communists and DeGaullists in France. Blum said the international third force would oppose American capitalism and expansion as well as Russian imperialism and extinction of human rights. That force, he proposed, ought to be headed by France and Great Britain.

Blum was espousing on a worldwide basis an old and eminently workable theory - the balance of power. While Russia and America are battling it out on fairly even terms, Blum would have the two lesser nations step in to take control of the slight power balance that is left over and thus possibly be able to steer a course more to their liking.

Between Russia and the U. S., said Blum, "there is room for nations which want at the same time personal liberty and collective economy, democracy and social jus-tice." It was another plea for a middle course, and to Blum a middle course meant Socialism.

Training

Umtee, first U. S. experiment in proposed peacetime universal military training, has begun its second year with its future still obscured and indefinite.

More than just an experiment in youth training along military lines, UMT's possible adoption or rejection by congress this year is certain to exert a powerful influence upon this nation's course in world affairs. Some of its innovations, begun a year ago at Fort Knox, Ky., upon raw recruits to army life, now are being extended throughout the entire ground forces' training.

Brig. Gen. John M. Devine, commanding the program, reported that 95 per cent of the trainees "like it here" during their six-month training period. The second group of about 660 young men completed the course on December 20.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

From Sheepskin to Sheep

There aren't too many college graduates in our town. Good honest thinking, yes ... but most folks went from high school into farming.

No harm in that! But I admire veterans like Dick Newcomb ... who's 23, but going to college under the G.I. Bill of Rights. Intends to be a sheep farmer-but a betterinformed, more scientific farmer, with more know-how!

And veterans like Dick aren't letting anything interfere. What little relaxation they allow themselves is in the form of needed exercise, or books, or conversation and an occasional glass of beer with friends.

Seems as if, just by having their education postponed, they've put a higher value on it ... and on things like temperance (that glass of beer, for instance), understanding, and good citizenship. And from where I sit, when Dick gets his sheepskin-he won't have lost much time. He'll be an even better farmer than his Dad. (Exactly what Dad wanted!)

Every industry in Texas depends on the use of natural resources, in one way or another, for its existence. Good examples are the livestock and dairying industries of our state, in which God-created animals convert grass and grain into meat and milk for people who need them. And at the same time, the industry brings important incomes to thousands of Texas people.

Natural resources are of little value until they are put to use for the benefit of mankind. Natural gas, for example, must be gathered, processed and moved to places where it can be used before it gains value. Otherwise this important resource would be worthless or wasted. This is practical conservation of natural gas, for it stimulates industrial development, creates jobs and benefits all the families in Texas.

LIVESTOCK AND DAIRYING

Texas farmers had a cash income from their livestock and dairying operations in 1945 of more than 413 million dollars. Still they kept on hand some eight million cattle, nearly ten million sheep, nearly two million hoge and 1,575,000 cows and heifers for milk. This is a major factor in the econ of our state, and a splendid example of Free Enterprise at work.

Old and New Cookie Favorites Rank High For Snack Purposes

Do you like to have people dropping in just to be neighborly? Do you have youngsters who bring their friends home often? Then you'll want to have the cookie jar well stocked at all times with old favorites and new.

A cup of hot ehocolate and a cookie mean something to every youngster, especially when the weather is bit-1-61 ingly cold; and it also means something very special to your own friends who may just happen to drop in. Spread your friendliness and cheer in this way with others and you'll be a happier

It's easy to have cookies on hand if you select those that are quick to fix and easy to keep. You'll feel a lot easier about inviting people in if there's always a snack or two

In view of the prevailing high cost of butter and shortenings, the cookie baker must be careful to select recipes that spare these precious products.

Nut Macaroons. (Makes 31/2 dozen)

4 egg whites ½ teaspoon salt 1 teaspoon almond extract 1/2 teaspoon vanilla

3/4 cup sugar 3 cups cornflakes, slightly crushed 1 cup pecans, coarsely chopped 1 cup coconut

Add salt to whites and beat to a coarse foam. Add flavorings. Add sugar by one tablespoon proportions, continuing beating until liquid is stiff and glossy. Fold in cornflakes, nuts and coconut. Drop from teaspoon onto well-greased baking sheet. Bake in a moderate (350 degree) oven until delicately browned, about 15 minutes. Remove promptly from baking sheet.

Dates and syrup keep the sugar content low on these Date Drops. They stay fresh and moist for a long time, if they last, in a cookie jar or covered cookie tin. Use for snacks and lunch boxes,

If you like crunchy, fruity cookies, make these Date Drops. You'll find they keep nicely in a cookie jar.

Date Drop Cookies. (Makes 4 dozen) 2 cups flour
