Polio

Polio insurance can be carried but it does not prevent polio. It merely pays part of the bills if a member of your family contracts the desease.

The best insurance against police is cleanliness. The City has started a clean up campaign beginning now. The Lions Club voted to give their aid. Individuals and other organizations should join ir.

The Lions have a game with the Clarendon Independent team here next Sunday July 3rd and at Clarendon Monday July 4th. This is not a league game, the next league game being with league leading Washburn here July 10th.

Sunday the Lions were weak in several departments and the Goldston boys put up a good battle, leading all the way until the lucky 7th when the locals made 7 runs and put the game on ice. The final score was Hedley 10, Goldston 8. Babe Everett pitched all the game for Hedley, visitors used Reynolde, Blackman and Putman. In other games of the league Washburn defeated Pandandle by a one run margin and Groom split double header with McLean. The Claude St. Francis game was postponed on account of the harvest.

FARM VOTE:

Bait Is Set

There was more to the Brannan federal farm program than had met the eye. According to seasoned Washington observers, the plan would serve as a bait for the farm vote in the congressional races next year.

For instance, if administration leaders could extend wartime price support for another year, it would give voters a chance to pass on the controversial Brannan plan. Thus the plan could be dangled as a major issue when Democrats and Republicans began struggling for the important farm vote.

AT a midwestern Democratic conference, both Brannan, secretary of agriculture, and J. Howard McGrath, chairman of the national Democratic committee, made a plea for extension of the price support program as they began to plan for next year's tug-of-war with the GOP

McGrath, making it plain that the Brannan plan has Mr. Truman's endorsement, said continuation of the present relatively high-price support program was to be preferred to the Aiken long-range farm law passed by the 80th Republican congress. Unless congress acts, Mc-Grath pointed out, the Aiken law will go into effect next year.

The Brannan plan is designed to support farm income at a "prosperity" level, but at the same time to provide consumers with lower prices for perishable foods-especially meat, dairy and poultry products-when there are surpluses. It would use government payments to assure desired farm cash re-

CONJURER:

Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., who inherited a name and a smile to conjure with and wasted little time in conjuring with them, has been duly sworn in as a member of the house of representatives.

ROOSEVELT failed to get the regular Democratic nomination during the campaign so he ran on the Four Freedoms ticket. In so doing he scored a popular upset over the regular (Tammany) Democrat, a Republican and an American Labor candidate.

Indications were that despite opposition from many quarters, the administration's big new housing bill would get out of committee and go to the house floor for action.

RED CHINA:

Quiescent

Communism, like the worm in the bud, was creeping swiftly through China as the presence of the Red conquerors began to make itself felt.

And the presiding political com-missar snapped, "I'nis subject is not on the agenda."

About the only thing that did show up on the agenda throughout the country was the puzzled but ready acquiescence of the Chinese to Communist rule.

As a result, the nation appeared to be well on its way to assuming a regular orbit as a willing satellite

FOR THE MOST PART there have been no signs of coercion or compulsion in the relationship. There is every evidence that the Chinese Communists are in fact eager to follow the dictates of Moscow. Congress apparently wasn't fooling about its demands for more economy in government. ATLANTIC CITY, N. J.-It's good to get out of Washington now and then to gain a new perspective or viewpoint for assaying the whirlpool of Washington politics and the eddies and cross-currents surrounding the national government and its operations.

And here at this playground on the Atlantic coast one can watch millionaire and peddler's helper rub shoulders . . . dowager and shop girl alike charmed by fashions and furs in show windows . . . business executive and haberdashery clerk stride side-by-side down the famous board-walk along the city's mile-long beaches. Edison Convention

While here, your Home Town Reporter attended the 17th annual convention of the Edison electric institute, the trade organization of the electric light and power industry and related business in the United States. I listened to the speeches and aside from the technical talks they were much like political speeches. All viewed with alarm or pointed with pride to domestic developments.

They were boastful of the accomplishments of the industry. They were flecked with alarm over encroachment of government. They spoke much of "creeping socialism."

Probably the outstanding talk of this convention was that of Mr. Charles E. Wilson, president of the vast General Electric company. His speech was an admixture of pride in the industry, of pride in this nation and of our capitalistic eco-nomic system of free enterprise, of criticism of too much government interference in the power field, of criticism of the President of of the United States and the autnority he is assuming. "We have perhaps paid too much attention to what the President says and thinks," said Wilson. But your reporter was too much interested in what Wilson thought about the President. We were interested in what he thought about this thing called socialism, or "creeping socialism," about which all of us are concerned. And so he gave this reporter an exclusive interview, realizing as he did his convention speech would be old for weekly newspapers. For some 45 minutes he told your reporter of his experiences and impressions in a recent trip to England, where GE has a large plant, and the comparison of life under socialism or nationalization there and here.

Land of Opportunity

"This land of ours," he said, "is still a land of opportunity. We have not reached the peak either in production or in income. We are still going forward to better things, a higher standard of living where already we have the highest standard of any land in the world. What I cannot understand is why anyone would want to substitute any other economy for the system we have in the United States today, a system which has demonstrated its ability to serve every segment of American life with a richer, higher standard of living, so magnificent, so efficient as compared with any other system in the world.

"Why, for instance, would we want to go back to the bicycle economy of England, England where a working man can only hope about owning an automobile? Theirs is geared to a bicycle economy. So again I cannot understand why we would want to change to a system of socialism where everyone would be on a lower level of economic living. Where we would all be subsidized by the government at a standard of living necessarily lower than we have today.

"I do not believe the American people will stand for it if they know what they are being offered in the place of our present system-if they understand the economics confronting them. And that's what I think we have to do. There must be an economic educational campaign for the great mass of our people. We need to arouse them to an appreciation of what we have got, for what we have is good."

Lauds Rural Areas

Speaking of the rural areas, Wilson said: "The people of the rural areas understand the capitalistic system better than other people in America. They are the bulwark and backbone of the American system. Why the farmers themselves are capitalists. They understand our system. It's the people in the shops and the factories in the cities who need economic education." They are the only ones, he said, who do not view our system correctly.

Insure Success With This Vegetable Canning Guide (See Directions Below)

Vegetable Canning

GETTING VEGETABLES into the diet during the summer when the garden is literally bursting with them is

It's much more difficult during the winter to meet the quota of two vegetables a day, unless you've made proper provision for them. That's the best reason for canning at least, a good store of them when they're available in your own garden or those of others for they may be purchased inexpensively.

Canning vegetables is one of the best ways of feeding the family economically as well as satisfying them with valuable nutrients. Chart your course now, and then sail through the season, full speed ahead.

Clear the Kitchen For Canning Time

WOMEN who do their canning expertly organize their work on an efficiency basis such as is used in a factory. They actually prepare for the job before they start working on it.

Getting ready for vegetable canning means re-organizing the kitchen. Clear out table and shelf space that you need for jars and equipment.

Make certain you have all equipment clean and in working order before you get the vegetables into the house.

What equipment? You'll probably need sharpened paring knives for preparing the produce. Kitchen scissors that are not rusted will help in preparing some types of vegetables like green beans.

Have your canning spoons, ladles or dippers all ready in place where they're going to be used, next to the range.

Select Quality

For Canning Have you ever wondered why the corn you canned is dry instead of juicy, or peas are pulpy instead of moist and sweet? The fault may lie in the kind you chose for canning.

Only the highest quality produce should find its way to the can since canning cannot improve quality. It merely preserves it. Vegetables selected for canning are usually best when just slightly under-ripe or im-mature. Peas, for example should be sweet and tender; corn should spurt juice when pressed fingernail. with a Gnarled, bruised, wrinkled or otherwise imperfect vegetables are not fit to be canned. You cannot expect them to have good flavor and color.

Perfect vegetables rushed from from the can.

LYNN SAYS: Follow Vegetable Canning Pointers

On jars on which you have used a self sealing lid, do not turn the jars upside down, or bump or treat them roughly as this may cause the seal to be broken.

You'll need two to two and onebeets, carrots, string beans and jar.

the garden to the can in a minimum amount of time will give the most satisfactory results.

Clean Vegetables Before Preparation

Baked Potatoes

CLEANING the vegetables is the step after bringing them into the kitchen. This should be done before the skin is broken, or some of the valuable juices may escape. Dirt is not only objectionable in itself, but it may frequently con-a colander. Do not pour dirty water off the vegetables, as dirt may remain in the pan and then mix with the vegetable.

IN THE CHART given above, pre-cooking is recommended for the green vegetables such as peas, green beans and similar vegetables. This means immersing in boiling water for the designated amount of time to shrink or wilt them in order to pack them easily and compactly.

Pressure Cooker Is Recommended

TO PROCESS VEGETABLES properly, a pressure cooker is an invaluable aid. For vegetables, have the gauge read 10 pounds before you start counting processing time. The pressure should not be allowed to fluctuate since this may drain liquid from the jar and give a poor looking jar. It will also overcook the vegetables, or undercook them, as the case may be.

Vegetables are a non-acid food, and this means they require a high temperature to kill the bacteria which lurk in them. This is why pressure cooker processing is recommended for them. Fruits, which are acid, need much less processing time, and much lower temperature in which to have the bacteria killed.

Always follow the directions for your particular type of pressure cooker. One thing is generally true of all types, and that is to leave the petcock open for at least seven minutes during which time steam escapes from the cooker. Unless this is followed closely, the pressure may not be accurate, for all air must be exhausted before allowing the cooker to come to pressure.

Another safe rule to follow is to allow the vegetables to boil 10 minutes in an open vessel before tasting or eating after they are taken

After filling the jar with vegetables and water, you may find some air bubbles anchored against the sides of the jar. Remove these by running a spatula between the glass and the vegetable.

Jars which have been sealed with a self-sealing lid, should not be tested for sound until 24 hours after half pounds of the following for one quart of canned vegetables: whole of time to cool the contents of the

U.S. Agriculture Makes Fabulous Record in 1948

For United States agriculture 1948 will go down in history as a fabulous year, according to the 1949 Britannica Book of the Year.

"It was a year without a crop scare, with numerous record and near record yields achieved; the corn crop was more than 10 per cent above the previous record and fully 50 per cent above the previous year; the wheat crop was the fifth consecutive crop of more! than a billion bushels, one of the five largest wheat crops the country had ever produced; the cotton crop was one-fourth larger than in the previous year."

Prices, too, reached a record level in January, 1948, though they then broke sharply and continued to decline as 1948 crops were harvested, the new Britannica yearbook records.

"In spite of the break in prices, the volume of agricultural marketings was such as to provide a gross income to farmers of almost, 35 billion dollars slightly exceeding the 1947 record," the publication continues. "However, because of higher costs of production the realized net income had been de-

TO HAVE A HOME in the truest sense of the word means that the home should reflect those who

When you walk into a home, you should be able to get a certain feeling and insight about the family who lives there, even before you know them very well.

Properly furnished and decorated, a home will reflect your interests and hobbies. It will give some insight into the personalities of the people living in it.

Sometimes these qualities are all too transparent for a home can give the impression of carelessness, lack of interest and hobbies. The first thing to do, if that's the case, is to change it by making the home the interest and hobby. Make Living Room

Today's homes are quite a bit smaller that those of the past decade, and for this reason, every room must be used to the fullest advantage.

Place to Live

Gone is the "parlor" which was opened for company only. You may be fortunate enough to have a den, study or library which is much used, but for most families the living room is the center of most social and family activity.

If you don't use the living room enough and find yourself crowded in one of the other rooms, then do some simple remodeling or reshuffling of furniture to make the room

For example, if yours is a social family, and you like to entertain, plan plenty of comfortable seating

Decorate rooms to fit space in the living room. Group chairs and sofas into "conversational groups" which make sitting Take a critic and chatting a pleasure.

If everyone in the family reads Plan Music Corner If That's Your Interest

Does the family enjoy music? If this centers around the piano, this instrument will be the main interest in the living room. Try to arrange chairs and sofas so that you can enjoy sitting around listening comfortably.

Many families enjoy records, and if so, one of the best corners of the room should be devoted to this interest. The radio, phonograph or combination unit, should be the center of interest with chairs ar ranged comfortably around it.

Have plenty of storage space, in cabinets, for the records or albums or both. You may also want to have books and magazines on the subject in an easily accessible spot for this

Be Smart!

Dotted Swiss is a revival of one of the soft fabrics of a generation ago, but no longer is it confined to the typical styling of the past. It is particularly popular for the pretty draped effects of the current season. Another new and equally interesting interpretation is the dotted swiss for jumper dresses, so stunning in dark grounds combined with white or worn without a blouse when weather or occasion dictates.

Chambray Fashion

Two-toned chambray styles this feminine warm weather dress by Terry Rodgers. Unique appliqued cut-outs and a modified "pussy-cat" bow in contrasting chambray highlight the plunging neckline of this fashion-right casual. A skirt with fullness flaring out from the hips, gives that extra freedom which adapts itself for allaround wear.

How to Restyle Rooms

Take a critical look at your furnishings and see whether they meet with your approval. Eliminate them and substitute, and each comfortable chair to tute with something that would be be used for reading needs a light of more use, either practically or that will make this interest easy. decoratively or, preferably, both.

Sometimes it's wise to buy a whole matched set of furniture such as a suite of upholstered furniture. However, if this does not include enough of the pieces you'll need, or, on the other hand, contains too many have, then try selecting sectional or separate pieces that will be most valuable.

One family may need only two comfortable easy chairs, while another needs three or four or even more. These may be bought separately, to harmonize pleasantly, or covered to match other pieces.

You no longer need to have al one kind of wood in your living room. Dark and light woods are used together, in good taste, in the same room because they compliment each other.

Perhaps you've found a desk in one of the light modern woods. There's no reason why you can't use it in a room with some dark mahogany or walnut finishes.

A room with predominantly light woods may take on sparkle if you add a coffee table which is lacquered in black, dark green or deep

In Each Room

. If you have found a beautiful pattern for draperies, choose every thing else in the room plain colored. Too much pattern will make even a large room crowded.

With pattern in your wallpaper, everything else should be plain. That means plain draperies in your room and a plain colored rug.

When the rug is patterned, draperies and wall colors should be To add interest you may want to use rough textured material on covered furniture.

Give Room That Uncluttered Look

Even large rooms may look cluttered unless you treat them properly with decorating. Too many pictures unattractively arranged will easily do that.

It's best to arrange pictures in groups rather than singly. If they don't go together, discard those which have nothing to add to the

If built-in shelves will add space to the room, perhaps Dad or Junior can make those to get some of the books and magazines off table tops. Small shelves or shadow boxes are excellent for knick-knacks or

Wall-to-wall carpeting helps give a room a large, luxurious and uncluttered look.

Plain walls will give small rooms a feeling of space. Keep furniture simple, and have draperies textured rather than patterned.
