Wise Owl

Well kids here we are again this year and you had better watch out. Don't do anything you wouldn't want known.

Joyce where have you and Toby been holding out these nights? Discovered any new lovers lanes?
Hey! I wonder what Curtis and Virginia have on their minds? You can have two guesses.
Tippie, I haven't seen you around much here lately? "What happen?"

Joan, did absense make the heart grow fonder, or colder? Didn't seem very cold last Wednesday night. What about this Bobby B?

Pat Murray, you're making a lot of trips to Clarendon lately. Have you got a new flame up there.

Well Pat P, I heard you were with a certain Fred Nance again. Keep up the good work. He's cute!

Jane M. just who is this guy from Memphis? Wow!

Well Carolyn M. I see you and Tom are together again, as usual. Didn't you like Hamy? Or was it yisa-verse?

Charlene S. and Lanell, you've been pretty quite lately. Aren't you having any affairs or are you just keeping them under cover?

Vinona, did you finally make up your mind whether it was Harry or Jerry S. you wanted to go with? Must have been Harry.

I guess that is all for this week. So watch out and be good unless you want to get caught.

Boy Scout News

The Scout and Explorer troop went to the district camp at Wellington last Friday and Saturday.

They were accompanied by Alva Simmons, Arthel Gibson and Clifford Johnson. The boys made a nice showing winning first place in the ground events and second place in the water events. Other troops at the Camp were Willington, Memphis, Clarendon and Shamrock.

Other names familiar to Clarendon's early settlers include W. A. Allen, Harry Gass, Ben Chamberlain, Harry Jefferson, Tom Arlington, Tom Martindale, W. H. Oliver, Ralph Jefferson, George Suddith, George Graham and Ray Carhart.

In 1885 a small town sprang into existence which was called Giles. By about 1890 it was known as the greatest shipping center in the U. S. It consisted of a hotel, two saloons, and the stock pens, and was usually called "Cowboy's Paradise." In 1895 a general store was opened by Mrs. E. L. Mevis, whom the cowboys called "Mother Mevis." In 1898 a schoolhouse was built, but the community was unable to pay for it. James Mevis, W. H. Rogers, H. Watt and G. Wihlenzohom (Continued on Page 4)

Last Rites Held For Laura Callen Aug. 15

Graveside funeral services were held August 15, at 2:00 p. m. in Hedley for Laura Callen, 76.

Minister R. C. Copeland officiated with arrangements being handled by Murphy-Spicer funeral directors.

Editor Recalls Early Days In Donley Co.

Donley County, named for Judge Stockton P. Donley, was created from Bexar County in 1876.

In 1878 L. H. Carhart made efforts to settle a colony of farmers in the county. A number of people, mostly Northerners, were induced to try the experiment, and founded a town on Carroll Creek near its junction with Salt Fork. The town was named Clarendon, although old timers disagree on whether it was named for Lord Clarendon of England or Miss Clara Carhart. It was better known to the cowboys of surrounding ranches as "Saint's Roost" because of the presence of churches and absence of saloons. A part of the lumber used in constructing the town was hauled from Dodge City, Kansas.

Not long afterward, the Fort Worth and Denver extended its tracks westward from Wichita Falls, but missed Clarendon by several miles so the town was moved, name and all, to the railroad.

In 1882 the county was organized, with Clarendon as county seat. G. A. Brown was appointed county judge, B. H. White county clerk, and James Otey tax assessor and collector. In an election that fall B. H. White was elected county judge, Albert Gentry Sheriff, James Otey tax assessor, Prof. Combs clerk, and Morris Rosenthal treasurer.

Other names familiar to Clarendon's early settlers include W. A. Allen, Harry Gass, Ben Chamberlain, Harry Jefferson, Tom Arlington, Tom Martindale, W. H. Oliver, Ralph Jefferson, George Suddith, George Graham and Ray Carhart.
