HAVING JUST COMPLETED a successful wheat harvest, our area's farmers have been given a shot in the arm, and things may be looking up from the agricultural standpoint for 1979.

For once, farmers who made good yields on a crop also got a good price in the case of the wheat farmers. Wheat sold for roughly a dollar per bushel more than it had in 1978, when the yields were also down.

At the present time, the price of corn and maize is good, and those crops are off to a good start in Parmer County. With the expectancy that there may be a grain deal made with Russia sometime during the year, this may help the price of grain remain at a good level for 1979. It is known that the Russian wheat crop fell far below the level needed to feed their population.

ON OUR RECENT trip to Tennessee, we came across an unusual solution to the energy crunch, and wonder why this angle can't be used across the country.

Having seen government offices such as post offices with their thermostats set at the 80-degree mark, we were somewhat surprised while visiting the state capitol in Nashville to note that the air conditioners were running full blast. In the state archives, in fact, it was almost "too cool."

Our guide for the day explained that the state of Tennessee has a system of reclaiming trash, burning it to produce the energy needed to fuel the heating and cooling systems for all of the state office buildings.

We thought this was an excellent idea, and solves two problems at once. Everyone has trash; in fact the problem in many of our metropolitan and/or urban areas is how to dispose of the trash. A system such as the one we were told about in Nashville should prove worth its salt in such areas.

CONCERNING THE ENERGY crunch, and the present effort on behalf of the president to come up with a positive energy program, we wholeheartedly agree with the critics who complain because the president has failed to include someone from the major energy-producing states, such as Texas, in his current "energy task force."

"It sort of goes along with the usual 'Washington Syndrome,'" states Texas governor Bill Clements. According to Clements, this is the rule which is stated as follows: "If you know anything about a problem, you can't have anything to do with helping to solve it."

We have to agree with Clements that this often is the case where the government is concerned.

TAKE, FOR INSTANCE the latest faux pas, one of the most ridiculous "solutions" which our fearless leaders have come up with in years. We are referring to the new dollar coins, which are virtually exactly the same size as quarter coins.

The mint people supposedly set out to provide a coin which would give more wear than the paper dollar bill, hence saving the taxpayers' money.

There is only one problem--the new coin by its very design and size is confusing, and has already proven so. We already have encountered people who have received the dollar coins in change, when they should have received quarters. Many businesses across the nation have adopted a "no dollar coin" rule, since they confuse, rather than help.

You would think that the new coin was the result of an eighth-grade civics class, rather than an agency of government. No, come to think of it, you would expect eighth graders to have more horse sense.

That the coins could make it all the way into being almost boggles the imagination.

By R.D. LOONEY
News Editor

The Bovina I.S.D. will be without the services of two of its top administrators this coming school year. Larry L. Wilson, Superintendent of Schools and Jim Noyes, Ridgelea Elementary School Principal, have submitted their resignations to the school board.

Wilson has been Superintendent of Schools in Bovina since 1977. Before coming to Bovina, Wilson was Superintendent of Schools in Darrouzett, Texas, 1975-77; teacher in Tahoka, Texas 1971-1975; teacher at Spearman, 1967-1971; and teacher at Stinnett, 1966-1967.

Wilson graduated from Stinnett High School in 1958 and received a Bachelor of Science degree in history and physical education from West Texas State University in 1962. Going further, he took his Masters of Educational Administration, also at West Texas, in 1966 and did graduate work at Oklahoma State University and Texas Tech University.

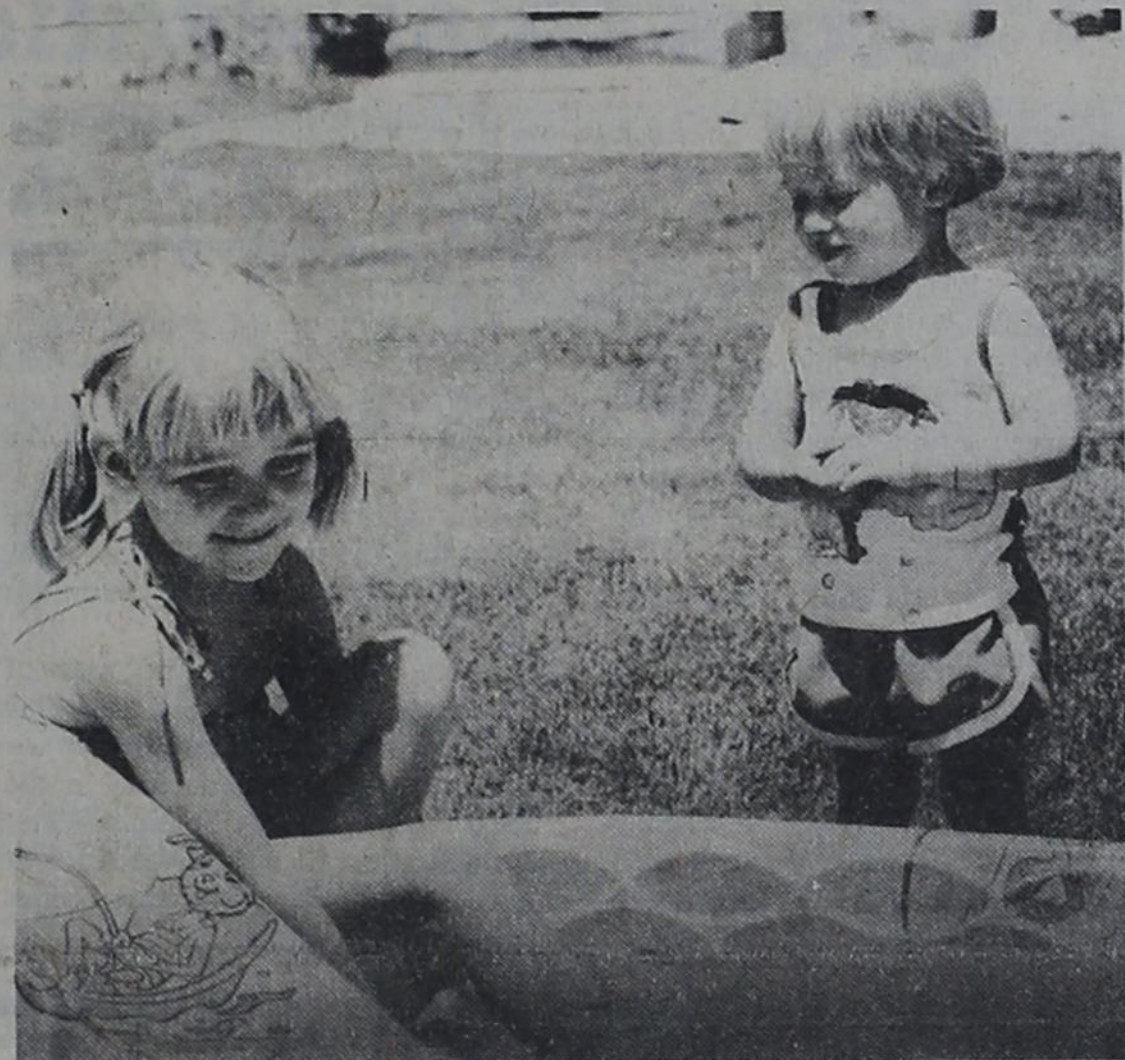

Wilson, his wife Barbara, and three children, Laura, Kelly, and Frank will be moving to Stinnett, where Larry will assume the duties of Superintendent of Schools.

Jim Noyes has been a faculty member of the Bovina I.S.D. for ten years. He was junior high principal for seven years and has been principal of Ridgelea Elementary School for the past three years. He also taught secondary math at Bovina High School.

Before coming to Bovina, Noyes was football, basketball, and baseball coach at Forgan, Oklahoma for one year, basketball and baseball coach at Arnett, Oklahoma for three years, math teacher at Dalhart, Texas for eight years, and Intern Superintendent at Borger for one-half year.

Noyes received his high school diploma at Leedey, Oklahoma and his Bachelor of Science from Oklahoma Baptist University. He continued his education at Southern Illinois University where he received his Masters of Science. He obtained his Administrative Certificate from the University of Texas at Austin.

Reminded Of Filing Date

Farmers who purchase interstate natural gas for agricultural purposes will not be eligible for priority use requirements unless they file a request with their local distributors by July 15, Texas Attorney General Mark White said Monday.

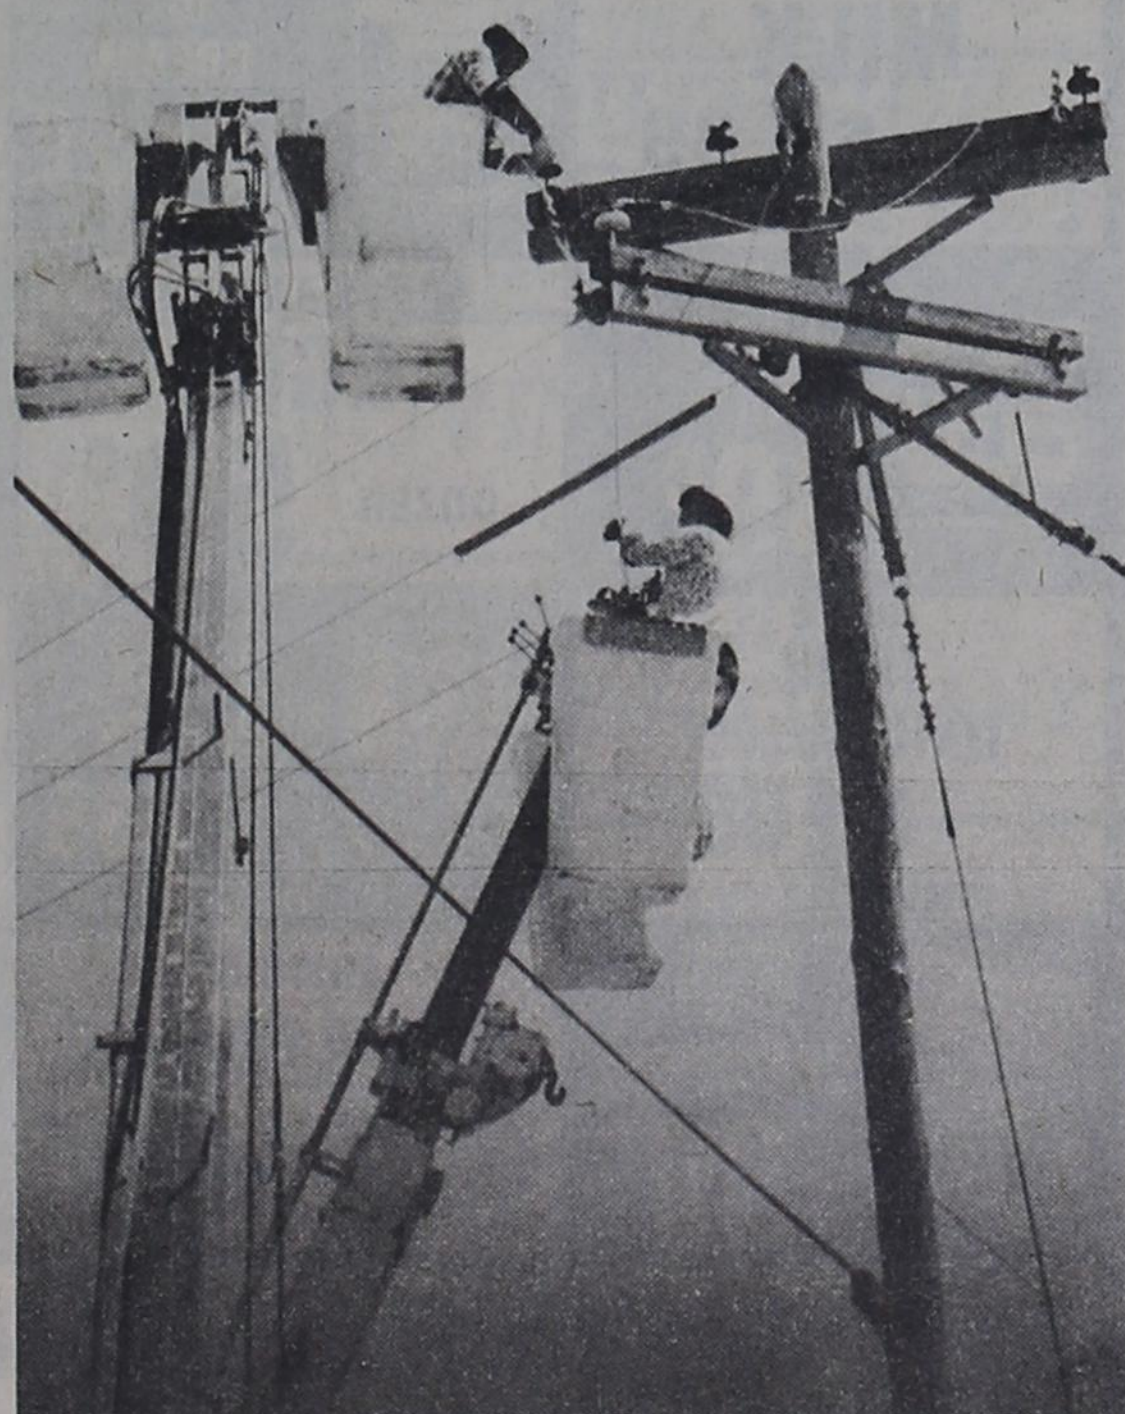

White said many High Plains farmers may not be aware that they need to request Priority 2 treatment by that date.

The Priority 2 classification entitles all essential agricultural users of natural gas purchased from interstate pipelines to 100 per cent of their current requirements.

The new classification system is part of a natural gas curtailment plan adopted by the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission. The plan is scheduled to go into effect November 1.

White said that after users file their requests with their local distributors, the requests will be reviewed and forwarded to their interstate pipeline suppliers by July 30.

Veto Will Cost County $31,466

According to Parmer County Judge Paul Fortenberry, Texas Governor Bill Clements veto of state assistance for county roads for the state fiscal year 1981 will cost the county approximately $31,466.71 to maintain the unpaved roads.

Judge Fortenberry has asked that the following statement from the Texas Association of Counties and County Judges and Commissioners Association be made available to county residents:

Today the presidents of the Texas Association of Counties and the County Judges and Commissioners Association of Texas expressed their profound shock and dismay over Governor William P. Clements' veto of state assistance for county roads for the state fiscal year 1981.

Derwood Wimpee, Rockwall County Judge and president of the Texas Association of Counties stated that he was extremely surprised by Governor Clements' action and expressed the belief the Governor may have been seriously misinformed about the operation of the Sunset Law.

"Based on the text of the Governor's veto message, it appears the Governor thought the Board of County and Road District Indebtedness could not operate after September 1, 1979," Judge Wimpee said, "Unfortunately, the veto wiped out the 1981 appropriation to the counties of Texas for road maintenance and construction even though the Sunset Act makes provision for the distribution of an appropriation to an agency being abolished."

Judge Jerome Decker of Medina County and president of the County Judges and Commissioners Association of Texas also expressed his surprise over the veto and gave his support to Judge Wimpee's comments. "I cannot believe that a program as vital as this one is, could be intentionally vetoed by any Governor of Texas," Judge Decker stated. "The County Judges and Commissioners of Texas have always strongly supported a modern and efficient highway system composed of state highways supported by an extensive framework of county roads," he added.

Both Judge Decker and Judge Wimpee expressed the belief that Governor Clements also supported the county foundation upon which our state highway was built.

On behalf of their respective associations, the two presidents released the following statement:

"In 1951 the Legislature provided that $7.3 million of the state's motor fuel taxes would be annually allocated to the County and Road District Highway Fund. This fund would be distributed every year to all 254 counties on a formula basis to provide some state support to the counties in recognition of the essential role county roads and highways play in the overall state transportation system. In 1951 the Legislature acknowledged that an efficient state system depended heavily upon the network of local roads maintained by the counties of Texas. From 1951 to 1979 every Legislature has appropriated these important funds to the counties. The Texas Sunset Act which passed in 1977, provides for the phased abolition of the Board of County and Road District Indebtedness. From 1951 to 1978 every Governor of Texas has approved that part of the General Appropriation Act that made the $7.3 million appropriation. Now for the first time in history a governor of Texas has vetoed this appropriation.

"Under the Constitution of Texas the only local tax source a county has is the property tax. Governor Clements veto will force all 254 counties to choose between: 1. a tax increase to make up for this unexpected early loss of state assistance; 2. a reduction of local road and bridge maintenance and construction expenditures. With legislation enacted this year, it has become far more difficult to raise property taxes for almost all purposes. With the required implementation of a number of new and larger tax exemptions, the early loss of state support for county roads could not have come at a worse time. It appears that this loss will result in a reduction in preventive maintenance and repairs to county roads and bridges. It may mean a much greater cost to the local taxpayer when major repairs are required today, more than half of all the roads in unincorporated areas of Texas are county maintained. With inflation and rising costs, the $7.3 million originally provided in 1951 has less buying power, however, it has been an important source of support for hard-pressed county budgets.

"On behalf of the county taxpayers of Texas, we respectfully petition Governor Clements to examine closely the effects of his veto. We feel that after serious consideration, this assistance to county roads will continue to be justified and desirable. Finally, we ask Governor Clements to include the restoration of the 1981 appropriation for county road aid in any call for a special legislative session."

Deadlines Near For Tax Forms

Patrons of the Bovina Independent School District are reminded that the deadline for applying for the 1979 tax relief for agricultural landowners is July 15, 1979.

Also, taxpayers who wish to apply for a $5,000 exemption from the market value of their residence homestead, or persons 65 years of age or older wishing to file for an exemption of $10,000 must do so by July 18, 1979.

Application forms for all of these exemptions are available at the school tax office at Ridgelea School. Anyone having questions pertaining to the exemptions are urged to call the office.

Growers Get Cash On Beets

Holly Sugar Corporation announced today it was mailing checks totalling nearly $950,000 to area sugar beet growers for sugar produced for the 1978 crop. This amount brings the total Holly Sugar Corporation has paid area sugar beet growers to nearly 10 million dollars. This averages $475.77 for the grower who grew 20 tons per acre and had a 15 per cent sugar.

Marketing of sugar from the 1978 crop will continue until October 1979 when the market year ends. At this time, final settlement is agreed upon by growers' representatives and Holly Sugar Corporation. The growers furnish the raw product (sugar beets) which Holly Sugar processes and markets the sugar then pays growers according to a schedule which is in the sugar beet purchase contract.

Calvin Jones, Agricultural Manager at Hereford, said at this point, this year's crop is ahead of previous years'. Growers need to make every effort to control diseases and insects and push this crop to attain maximum yields. With irrigation costs increasing, every effort needs to be made to control weeds which use large amounts of water.

Irrigation efficiency for sugar beets averages nearly .75 tons per acre inch of water. This efficiency can reach .92 tons of sugar beets per acre inch under good timely management practices.

Grass Conservation Urged

Here's a message for livestock producers from the Parmer County Soil and Water Conservation District:

When buffalo roamed the rangelands of Texas, they would graze an area, then move on. Several weeks later, they would come back and graze the same land again.

So the grasslands of Texas evolved while being grazed occasionally by buffalo, then rested.

If you are interested in improving your rangeland, remember the way buffalo would graze it a while, then rest it a while.

And a good way to do it is to use what range scientists call a planned grazing system. With such a scheme, pastures are alternately grazed, then rested in a carefully designed sequence.

Here's a question about energy:

Did you know that one of the great miracles of solar energy is the way grass uses the sun's rays to produce livestock forage?

It's a complicated process called photosynthesis. But what it boils down to is the fact that grass produces food in its leaves with the help of sunlight.

And--generally--the more leaves a plant has, the more grass it can grow if the season and moisture conditions are favorable.

But if livestock graze off most of the leaves, the plant has a hard time using solar energy to grow grass.

That's why most ranchers in the local Parmer County Soil and Water Conservation District try to leave at least half the leaves on their better grasses year-round.

For information on how to improve rangeland with a planned grazing system, contact the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Soil Conservation Service at Friona.

LIVING HEALTHY BY HOME CANNING

One of the many benefits of home food preservation--particularly if you're canning foods from your own garden--is using absolutely fresh produce picked at the prime of its ripeness, the ideal time. And, further, you can "put it up" without using preservatives, coloring or salt. That's right. No salt. In canning vegetables, salt is used only for flavoring, not preserving, so it can be eliminated if you want to.

Also, when canning fruits, you don't have to use a sugar pack. Sugar can be omitted entirely by packing the fruit in its own juice. To do this, crush or chop some of the fruit, heat it to a simmer with just enough water to prevent sticking. Strain the cooked fruit through a jelly bag or cheesecloth to separate the fresh juice from the pulp. Prepare the whole fruit for canning according to your recipe. For a hot pack, heat the fruit in the extracted juice or water before packing. Juicy fruits may be preheated without added liquid and packed in the juice that cooks out. Carefully pack the fruit into jars that have been washed and held in hot rinse water or a dishwasher. If necessary, add more boiling fruit to cover, being sure you leave the correct amount of head space.

If you like your fruit a little sweeter, try packing the fruit in a syrup made from brown sugar or honey. Fruit is usually canned in a syrup made from granulated sugar and water. Brown sugar may be substituted directly for the granulated sugar. Follow the proportions of ingredients given for a light syrup: 2 cups of sugar to 1 quart of water which yields 5 cups or enough syrup for 4 to 5 jars of home canned fruit. Honey can also be substituted for part of the sugar. Use 1 cup granulated sugar and 1 cup honey to 1 quart of water. When using honey, however, be sure to use one with a mild flavor so it doesn't overwhelm the natural flavor of the fruit.

Words With Special Meaning

Read Luke 12:22-31

Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil; for thou art with me; thy rod and thy staff they comfort me. —Psalm 23:4

The words of today's text hold a special meaning for me. My father read them in his last experience of family worship with us.

I have often quoted these words to the sick and dying during my thirty years in the Christian ministry.

About two years ago these words took on a still deeper dimension for me as I faced surgery for a malignancy. The experience was quite different from simply quoting the scripture to another, but I found personally that these words mean just what they say. I discovered that I could truly experience the Lord's presence even while walking through the valley of the shadow of death. I keenly sensed His presence even as the orderly was moving me into the operating room.

Christ does make a difference in the lives of persons. Knowing Him does not avoid unpleasant experiences, but it gives those experiences new and richer meanings.

PRAYER: Lord, so often I am inclined to be fearful because life has so many uncertainties. I thank You for the promise of Your presence in any situation I may face. Amen.

SAVING TIPS on electric air conditioning

CENTRAL SYSTEMS

- Set thermostat on 78° or higher during the summer.
- Check filters every 30 days.
- Close draperies and blinds to keep out solar heat.
- Trim trees, shrubs & leaves away from outside compressor unit.

- Keep windows closed. Open outside doors as little as possible.
- Keep the damper on your fireplace closed.
- Have a qualified serviceman check your unit seasonally.

WINDOW UNITS

- Buy units with the highest "energy efficiency ratio" (EER). They use less electricity to cool.
- Never vent the unit into the garage.
- Proper insulation in attics, walls & around ducts is one of the most important factors in holding down the cost of air conditioning. Make your home more energy efficient... and your energy dollar will go further this summer.

PICKLED CARROTS PROVIDE DELICIOUS UPDATE ON ANCIENT FOOD

Try this new canning idea with barbecues, picnics, buffets and cold meats.

CARROT PICKLES
 2-3 bunches small carrots
 1 cup sugar
 1 tablespoon mixed pickling spices
 1 stick cinnamon
 1 teaspoon salt
 2 cups vinegar
 1 1/2 cups water

Pickled carrots provide a very modern melding of two old timers, according to the home economists at Ball Corporation. Carrots are one of the earliest root foods; they come to us from the Dark Ages. The Greeks and the ancient Egyptians had already discovered the convenience of pickled foods. Although carrots were not the earliest foods to be pickled, they were among the first to be canned. Nicholas Appert, the father of canning, put carrots up in his canning factory which opened in 1812.

Cook carrots until just tender. Drain and remove skins. Leave small carrots whole; cut larger ones into pieces as desired. Combine sugar, vinegar, water and salt. Tie spices in a cheesecloth bag; add to vinegar mixture. Boil 5 to 8 minutes. Pack carrots into hot jars, leaving 1/4-inch head space. Remove spice bag. Heat syrup to boiling. Pour, boiling hot, over carrots, leaving 1/4-inch head space. Adjust caps. Process pints and quarts 30 minutes in boiling water bath. Yield: about 3 pints.

We will soon be having a "Grand Opening" of our new greenhouse, "Plants Plus." Watch for it. We have sweet alyssum, daisies, snapdragons, feverfew, and moss plants ready to set out now. Come by or call 225-6344. Robert Fowler and Sue Fowler. 50-2tp
