Trimbles Combine Artistry, Horsemanship As Interests

By JUNE FLOYD

Since the beginning of Bull Town Days, C.E. Trimble has been one of its most consistent participants and ardent supporters.

In fact, after Dolph Moten, who was editor and publisher of the Bovina Blade when the celebration was first initiated, served as general Chairman two years, C.E. served in the same capacity the next two years.

C.E., a native of Wheeler County, Texas, and son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Trimble, grew up in Mobeetie, where his mother still lives. Following his graduation from high school he came to Dimmitt to work for one of his uncles, O.B. Trimble, on a farm.

Then, in 1947 he came to Bovina to work for another uncle, George Trimble, a barber, farmer and cattleman. O.B. Trimble, who was known as Shorty, moved from Mobeetie to Bovina and established a barber shop here. Later, he sold the shop here to his brother, George, and moved to the Castro County Capital, where he opened a barber shop, which he operated for many many years.

At the present time Shorty lives in a convalescent home in Lubbock and George, who retired from barbering to become a full time farmer and cattleman, lives across the highway from C.E.

From 1950 to 1954 C.E. served in the United States Armed Forces and was stationed near Spokane, Washington. While there he met Esther Wutzke from Coeur'd Alene, Idaho. They were married in 1954.

After C.E. was discharged the couple moved to Bovina and C.E. started farming. He grew up on a farm and with horses and enjoyed them very much, so in 1964 he started breeding and racing Thoroughbreds.

Since that time his horses have earned a lot of trophies, ribbons and honors at some of the major race tracks in the nation.

A few years following Esther's death, C.E. was married to Joy Lindeman of Friona, who is an artist and teaches art in Friona Elementary School.

When they built their new house on the north bank of the Running Water Draw just south of town on the west side of FM 1731, the theme for the design, furniture and decorations was western.

The couple combined Joy's artistic talent with C.E.'s love for horses and came up with a very attractive and comfortable home. Photographs of some of C.E.'s horses, who have won races at Arlington Park, Chicago; Turf Paradise at Phoenix; Sunland Park near El Paso; and Ruidoso Downs, Ruidoso, New Mexico, have been framed and displayed in his bath room.

One original oil of a mare and colt, which Joy painted, hangs in the living room, along with one of a horse, which was painted by a friend and prints by Charles Russell and Fredric Remington.

As C.E. pointed out an original etching on glass featuring horses, which Joy's oldest son, Rusty, had given him, he said, "Rusty has some of his mother's talent and is especially good with horses."

Rusty and his wife, Lea, and three children, Bev, Brandy, and Becky, live near Oakley, Kansas. Joy's other two children are Connie, who with her husband, Ted King, and two daughters, Jenny and Jessica, live near neighbors to the Trimbles; and Ted, who lives in Lubbock. His wife is the former Joanie Clements, daughter of Jim Roy and Mary Jane Grubbs Clements, who live in Hobbs, New Mexico.

C.E.'s three children, Christie, Cathie and Charlie, all grew up in Bovina and are graduates of Bovina High School.

Christie, a graduate of West Texas

State University and the University of Texas School of Medical Technology at Beaumont, and her husband, Ben McCain, who also grew up in Bovina, are presently living in Oklahoma City, Oklahoma.

Cathie and her husband, K.W. Sharp, and two children, Jason, four years old, and Laurin, who is three months, live in Midland. She attended Levelland Junior College prior to her marriage.

Charlie, a 1982 graduate of Bovina High School, is a sophomore at West Texas State University, Canyon, and is the only one of the couple's children living at home.

Some of Trimble's horses who have made great names for themselves on the tracks are Sunny Cider, Crazy Frills and Parmer County Kid, who has been running at Arlington Park and Turf Paradise before he recently returned to Ruidoso Downs, where he won second place in a race early this month.

Crazy Frills set a record for six furlongs when her time was clocked at 1:11 3/5 in the Peter Hurd Handicap in 1976. Her record has not been broken yet. She died several months ago.

The Trimble brood mares number 15. They are kept on a farm west of town. Trimble also has two stallions.

The only two horses he has running right now are Parmer County Kid and First To Start. Both are at Ruidoso, where Bob Arnett is their trainer.

Truly a Prince, a two year old, is also in Ruidoso and will soon be running.

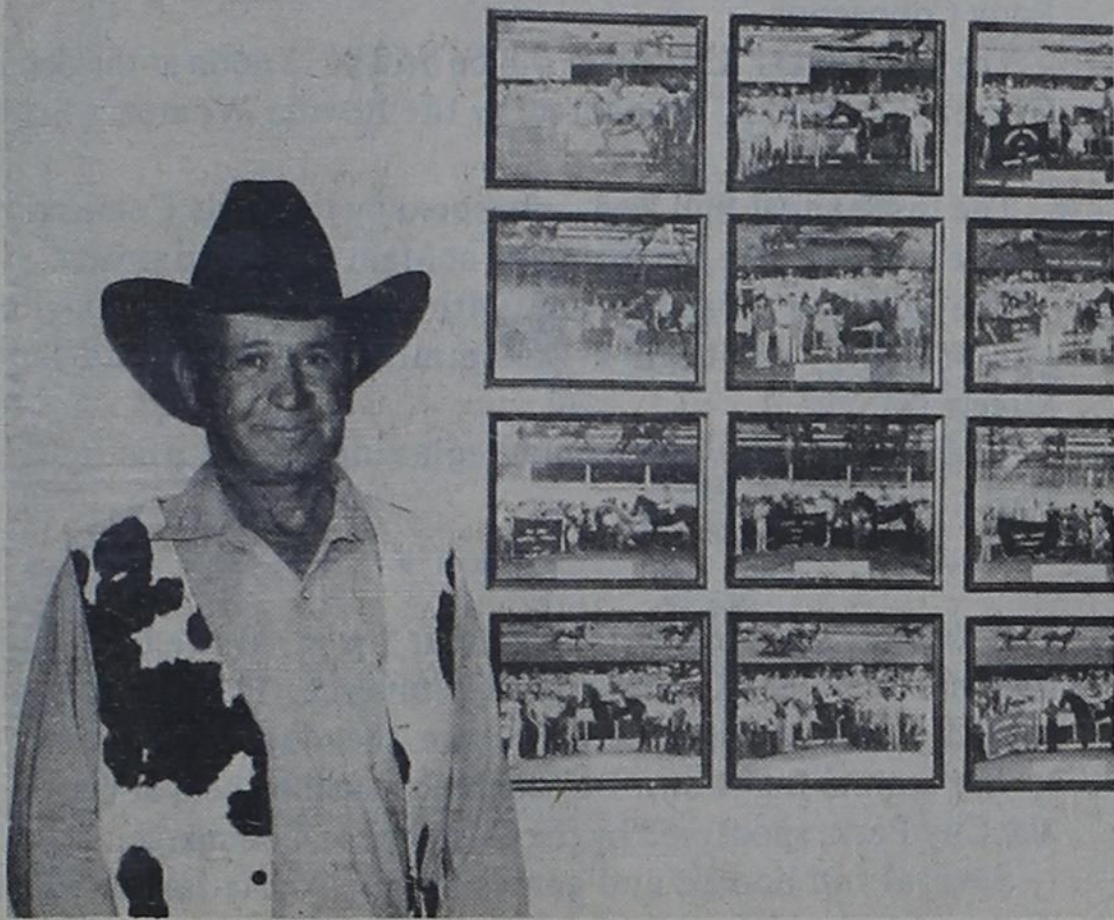

One room of the Trimble home contains a large number of paintings

A UNIQUE COMBINATION....When C.E. Trimble, a horse lover, and Joy Lindeman, an artist, were married their talents and interests blended together very harmoniously. He raises and trains the horses and she paints them. Parmer County's abundance of pheasants supplied models for the picture in the lower right hand corner.

Joy has completed and framed. Wherever she and C.E. go, she picks up ideas for paintings, weavings and other forms of art.

C.E.'s parting remark was, "Both of us enjoy our home, work, hobbies, children and grandchildren and keep busy most of the time."

ALL THESE AND MORE, TOO....C.E. Trimble, one of Bovina's horse breeders, is pictured here with part of the pictures of winners he has had on different race tracks in the past few years. The vest he's wearing was made from cowhide with the hair still on it, by his wife, Joy.

Sunday afternoon was exciting... getting to see Ben and Butch McCain on Channel 7 T.V. They did a tremendous job! These young men had a good start in life...with Rose and Les for parents and Doris Wilson for music teacher... We know they have a great future ahead of them and we're looking forward to seeing them on the Hee Haw Show November 19.

It can still rain in Bovina, even though it was short and sweet, last Saturday. Buck Ellison, who has lived in this area all of his life, said this had been the longest dry spell that we have ever had. The last rain, that was enough to call rain, was June 6. Predictions are for rain this week so maybe...

NEWS AROUND TOWN...

Anne Corn has had a busy and interesting summer. She spent six weeks in school at Denton; a week with her family, Charles, Heidi, Doris, Don and grandson Cole, at Surfside, playing in the sun; and, has just returned home from spending three weeks in Schonwald, Germany, visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Christian Swoboda. She also had a good time visiting several cousins while in Germany. Anne said while she was in Germany the weather was hot, even for a Texan. She said it was an unusual summer for them and temperatures were in the 90s.

Rosa Lee Tabor of Boca Raton, Florida, came to Bovina August 2 and visited her parents, Bessie and George Trimble. While here, the family attended the Ellison family reunion in Nogal, New Mexico. Rosa Lee returned to her home in Florida August 12.

Rosa Lee's mother-in-law, Jewell Tabor, came to Bovina for a visit and flew back to Dallas with her. Jewell Tabor, a former Bovina resident, is staying in Dallas with her brother and his wife, and taking care of them.

Members of the Elton Venable family attended a cookout and had home-made ice cream last Wednesday evening at the Venable home.

Those enjoying the good food and visit were Mr. and Mrs. Roger Graham and three children of Spiro, Oklahoma; Mr. and Mrs. Ronald McClendon and daughter of Metairie, Louisiana; Mr. and Mrs. Joe Langer of Muleshoe; Mrs. Margaret Moore and sons of Portsmouth, New Hampshire; Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Blaylock, Mr. and Mrs. Radford Venable and children, all of Bovina.

Claudia and Morris Reed of Longview had the thrill of seeing their oldest son, Allen, make the all-stars in the major league baseball and their youngest son Faron, on the all-stars team in the pee wee league. Our congratulations! These boys are grandsons of Artie Faye and Fred O'Hair of Bovina.

We're happy to report Pierceson and Virgie Adams are back home in Bovina. Pierceson spent time in a Georgia hospital after coming down with pneumonia. They were in Georgia visiting with their son Terry and his family.

We're also happy to report Jim Owens is home after spending time in a Lubbock hospital following an accident at Riverside that caused injuries. He underwent surgery and is getting along fine, but will be in a cast for about three weeks and has a pin in his hip. If everything heals correctly the cast and pin will be removed in about three weeks.

Louise Douglas spent a few days in Chamber To Have Booth

The Bovina Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture will have a booth at the City Park on Saturday, August 20 to accept new membership pledges and dues.

Family memberships and business memberships will be offered to anyone who would like to join the Chamber. "The Chamber needs your support and would appreciate new members," said a spokesman.

the Portales hospital, but is home now. She first had an infection in the lining around her heart and doctors were able to get that cleared and then she developed problems with her blood pressure. Hopefully she will be well soon.

Carl Rea is still a patient in the Parmer County Community Hospital. At this time, his wife Bess is at Prairie Acres in Friona.

Eugene and Molly Griffin and son Allan drove to Stinnett last Saturday and attended the wedding of Laura Wilson and Troy Smith, which was held in the First Baptist Church in Stinnett. Laura is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Wilson of Stinnett, former Bovina residents.

The Griffin's daughter, Fonda, was maid of honor in Laura's wedding.

Charlie and Virginia Steel flew to Boston recently and visited with Virginia's brother and his family, Mr. and Mrs. Garner Vinson and sons, John and Lee. Virginia said they live a few yards off the Atlantic Ocean. Garner's line of work is to train race horses. His wife's father was a jockey. Garner and his wife both work with horses and enjoy it very much. Virginia said they went to the races at Suffolk Downs in Boston and saw her brother's horse win the race.

While they were there they enjoyed sightseeing in New Hampshire and Massachusetts. They went to Massachusetts August 2 and returned home August 9.

Last Thursday, the Steels drove to Ruidoso sightseeing and came home the same day.

Thank you for helping with the Scoops...Have fun during Bull Town Days...

Twenty-Second Annual Ellison Reunion Held

The Ellison families held their twenty-second annual reunion at the Buck Ellison cabin in Nogal, New Mexico on July 22. There were seventy-three relatives and four visitors present. Several began arriving Thursday and continued through Sunday. Activities for the group included a golf tournament at the Inn of the Mountain Gods on Friday. Saturday, there were games of horseshoes and washers, ping pong, wahoo and 42. Trophies were awarded to all winners.

Saturday night was story telling time for the seven brothers and sisters of their memories of their early childhood days. This was televised and later shown on TV by one of the grandsons, Malcolm Terry of Lubbock.

Sunday, the family had church services in the "Chapel of the Pines" with Larry Warren of Brenham, Texas, bringing the message.

A business meeting was held and officers were elected for the new year.

The family enjoyed good food, visiting and a wonderful time together.

Those present for the reunion were: Buck and Dorothy Ellison, George and Bessie Trimble, Tom and Nannie Rhodes, Thomas and Virginia Rhodes, and Pat Read, all of Bovina; Hubert and Katie Ellison, Vick and Denise Christian, all of Farwell; Rosa Lee Tabor of Boca Raton, Florida.

Also, Aubra and Ruby Ellison of Brownwood; Howard and June Ellison of Price, Utah; Malcolm and Shearlene Terry, Melvin and Lois Terry, all of Lubbock; Mark and Allison Kirkpatrick of Amarillo; Johnnie and Lucille Glover of Tularosa; Ellison and Doris Glover and Christi Murray and Jay Glover, Laura Bradley, all of Alamogordo, New Mexico.

Also, Sheila Early and children, Jason and Shauna of Lubbock; Dorothy Sims, Scott and Jay of Happy; Mike and Dalene Sims, Doug and Donna Sims, Pat and Suzanne Sims and Brandon, all of Happy; Allen and Robin Rhodes and Cathrine of Amarillo; Roger and Leann Holt of Dallas; Willie and Lonetta Denney of Albuquerque.

Also, C.W. and Janean Grissom of Taiban; Kathy Grissom of Lubbock; Wesley Higgins of Corpus Christi; J.R. and Ellen Ellison of Brenham; Kimberly Ellison of Bryan; Larry and Margie Warren of Brenham; Roger and Sherri Bowers, Jennifer and John of Lubbock; Mary Lee Tidenberg and Rusty of Albuquerque; Janet and Henry Brandon of Roswell; Crystal Bowman of Clovis; Eloy and Tamra Ortiz and Justin of Amarillo; Lupe Ortiz of Clovis; and Don and Pat Nickson of Lorenzo.

Roping Fans Are Sought

Several residents have discussed having a regular night of roping at the Bovina Arena.

Those interested are asked to meet at the Roping Arena Friday night after 7 p.m. or contact Truman Trimm for details.

LOCAL SEAMSTRESS

Mrs. Lloyd's Sewing Talents Led To Local "Can-Can" Outlet

By JUNE FLOYD

Since its beginning Bovina has been a cattle town. Even though there's a lot of farming in the area at the present time, there are still a lot of cattle, horses, cowboys, cowgirls, et cetera.

No one would ever mistake it for a factory town in the true sense of the term. However, many many talented people live here and a lot of them sell their products, which are sometimes so numerous they seem to be mass produced.

During the late fifties and early sixties, when bobby sox and can can petticoats were very popular with high school age and younger women, the home of Buck and Freda Lloyd at 609 Third became "The Bovina Can Can" factory.

After Freda had made petticoats for her own daughters, Madge Loflin of Friona, who lived in Bovina at the time, came up with an original idea of sewing on ruffles and asked Freda to make one for one of her daughters, Norma.

Freda and her daughters liked the idea so well that the pattern soon became standard for can cans. The new sewing machine which was purchased in 1955 came equipped with a small hemmer and automatic gatherer.

These two attachments made the construction of a garment much easier and were used constantly in preparing the yards and yards of ruffles which were needed for each petticoat.

Freda remembers, "One time I sat down and figured out that I had done 400 yards of stitching for one can can."

She went on to say, "I preferred baby puckered nylon ruffles stitched onto knit tops, so I purchased the nylon by the bolt in different colors anywhere I could find it."

She also recalls, "The most money I ever got for making one can can was $26."

Freda made a wedding dress for each of her three daughters, as well as dresses for flower girls and other attendants.

She says, "I am so glad the girls wanted me to make their dresses and that I was able to do so."

Freda Hartsfield, daughter of Sam J. Hartsfield of Tyler and the late Mrs. Hartsfield, and Paul Lloyd, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. W.M. Lloyd, were married in Friona Methodist Church by Rev. H.L. Thurston, who currently lives in Hereford, March 11, 1934.

Freda, the oldest of the fifteen Hartsfield children, moved to a farm near the former location of the Syndicate Hotel in October of 1926. For the next seven years she attended school in Friona and was a member of the 1933 Friona High School graduating class.

The couple lived on a farm near Friona the first year they were married, then moved down close to Bovina. For many years, Paul, who is better known as Buck, worked for different farmers in the same area.

In the early days of their marriage Freda used her talent for sewing to provide clothing for members of her family as well as articles needed for her home. Later she sewed for the public to augment the family income.

The couple's five children, Paul, Pauline, Patricia, Penny and Philip, are all natives of Parmer County, attended Bovina schools and are graduates of Bovina High School.

The Lloyds lived at several different places for a number of years before buying their present home at 609 Third in February of 1956.

Since Buck's retirement, he and Freda have grown flowers and vegetables and he's a part time yard man.

They're looking forward to observing their Golden Wedding Anniversary early next spring and hope to have all their children and grandchildren with them.

At the present time Paul and his wife, Esther, live at Granbury, Texas, as do two of Paul's sons, Daryl and Colin Gale. Paul has two sons, Richard, who lives at Sharon, Oklahoma and Larry, who makes his home with Buck and Freda.

Pauline and her husband, J.B. O'Hair and two children, Karla and Rick, live at Odessa. Patricia and her two children, Kenneth Don and Teresa Magness, live in Canyon.

Penny and James Lawlis and daughters, Jane and Jodi, live in Amarillo; and Philip and his wife, Mary Ann, and sons, Anthony Louis, George Michael and Philip Shane, live in Canadian.

The couple also has eight great-grandchildren.

CAN CANS! CAN CANS! CAN CANS! Although they're no longer in style, Freda Lloyd, pictured here with her husband, Paul, who is better known as Buck, still has a few around to remind her of the days when their home was almost turned into a factory for these petticoats, which were very popular in the late fifties and early sixties.

UNIQUE QUILT... Pictured is Margaret Jo Moore and sons Neil and Logan of Portsmouth, New Hampshire, holding a quilt made by Margaret Jo. The quilt is a pattern of the United States, and is going to be Neil's birthday present from his mother. Neil will be ten years old August 19. Margaret Jo is the daughter of Elton and Marie Venable and she and her sons came to Bovina July 4 and will be here until August 21. Margaret Jo's aunt Helen Blaylock helped her with the quilt and the ladies made their own pattern. The quilt will be displayed in the window of Marie's Used Values on main street during Bull Town Days.

SHOW SET... Rouel Barron, Secretary and Treasurer of Bovina Roping Club, displays one of the trophies which will be awarded Saturday at the Texas and American Quarterhorse Show. The 23rd annual show gets underway at 10 a.m. at the Roping Arena. Thirty-two trophies will be given, 29 halter and performance classes, and three for reserve champion classes.

CITY'S MEETING PLACE

Spudnut Shop Closing Leaves Void On Main

The recent closing of Bovina's Spudnut Shop, which had been owned and operated for many years by Odie and Lula Kelly White, left a great big vacancy in Main Street's social life. The Spudnut Shop was the meeting place of many people in town, as well as visitors, to enjoy coffee and spudnuts and visit.

Odie, a retired farmer, spent part of his time out on his farm east of town, but most of the time he was on hand to help with the serving and cleaning up.

Lula's parents, the late Robert A. and Amanda Sanders Kelly, moved to the Oklahoma Territory soon after their marriage in Palo Pinto, Texas, in 1896. They filed on one quarter section of land in what later became Beckham County. Lula was the second of the four Kelly children born on the farm.

She and her sister, Gertie Gatlin, are the only living children of six children born to their parents. Gertie, who lived at Meridian, Texas, many years, moved to Bovina to make her home with the Whites following the death of her husband Charlie.

When the Robert Kelly family lived in Beckham County, they farmed in a rural community northwest of Sayre, which is the County Seat, where they went to shop for groceries and other necessities.

Their nearest neighbors were the late Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Newby, also Oklahoma Territory pioneers.

One of the Newbys' thirteen children, a daughter named Ruby, was admitted to the Farwell Convalescent Center on May 28. Two days later, which was Memorial Day, Lula White and Gertie Gatlin were both admitted to the same center.

The Newbys had moved from Beckham County several years before the Kellys moved to Hereford in 1930 and Ruby was married to Charlie Byrnes in Tulia in 1924.

Lula, Gertie and Ruby spent almost one month catching up on events in their lives during the sixty-five years they had been separated before Lula and Gertie were transferred to Prairie Acres in Friona. Later Lula was dismissed and is now at home.

Among the many interesting memories the ladies shared was the fact that all three of them had been born on the same section of land. The Kelly home was on the west part of the section and the Newby home was on the south part and there was a well worn path between the two houses.

They also remembered that doctors in that section of the country were very few and far between and that Lula's and Gertie's mother delivered Ruby.

The three started to school in a one-room school house, which all the children in the community attended regardless of their age. Later there were too many children for one teacher to manage so a partition was put in the room and a second teacher was hired.

SEPARATED 1918--REUNITED 1983...Memorial Day 1983 was the date and Farwell Convalescent Center was the scene of a happy reunion of three ladies who had been children together then separated for sixty-five years. Left to right are Gertie Kelley Gatlin, Lula Kelley White and Ruby Newby Byrnes. These three were neighbors and attended the same grade school in Western Oklahoma, but hadn't seen one another in many many years.

The two families grew large gardens and shared vegetables. They also killed hogs together and shared many joys and sorrows.

Mrs. Gatlin said, "We did our own butchering back then. When a beef or hog was butchered, it would be hung on the windmill tower. Nothing could get to it up there and the winters were always cold enough to freeze anything."

One of Mrs. Byrnes' fondest recollections was of Certificates of Perfect Attendance, which she was awarded two years in a row. The County Superintendent, who lived in Sayre personally delivered the certificates each summer after she completed the fifth and sixth grades.

Lula said, "When it was really cold out, the girls would all wear long black stockings and long underwear to keep warm. The girls never considered wearing pants. It just wasn't done back then."

After the Newby family moved and before Lula and Gertie finished high school, three smaller schools consolidated and formed the Sweetwater School, from which both the Kelly girls were graduated.

Ruby, who is a widow, had five children. They grew up in Dimmitt and Tulia. Her oldest son, Stanley, was the first World War II casualty from Swisher County.

The other four are still living. Tiny Jowell lives in Phoenix, Arizona; Paul lives in Clovis; Ray lives in Quinlan and Ruby Dell lives in El Paso.

She also has ten grandchildren, nine great-grandchildren and eleven great-great-grandchildren.

Lula's son, Bob, a graduate of Bovina High School, played football at West Texas State University and then for the Pittsburgh Steelers before becoming a coach. He is now a professor and college athletic director in California.

Gertie is childless.

BOVINA PUMP COMPANY

The Johnson Company Is Result Of Family Project

By JUNE FLOYD

The country home of Billy and Sandra Johnson and their three children, Scott, 21; Charles 16; and Sharlet, 14 is located several miles southeast of Bovina.

The Johnsons grow corn, wheat and other crops; the children are interested in 4-H Club and bring home a lot of blue ribbons and participate in school activities.

Scott, a graduate of Bovina High School, is a senior at Lubbock

Christian College; Charles is a junior at Bovina High School and Sharlet is a freshman.

All family members generally participate in whatever project any member is interested in, whether it is work or play. In the past three years this family involvement has extended into a manufacturing plant, which operates under the name, The Johnson Company.

Even though there are no signs directing visitors to the factory nor can the name be seen on any building, thousands of homes throughout the United States are annually decorated with Christmas and Easter decorations, which the Johnson Company has produced.

The spark of imagination which ignited the flame for the company's beginning was a red velvet Christmas stocking, overlaid with white lace, which Sandy, as Mrs. Johnson's friends affectionately call her, created.

After she had made the stocking, she decided there was a possibility that her idea would sell.

With this idea in mind and Billy's consent and support, Sandy went to the Trade Center at Dallas with it. A marketing agent there told her that a single stocking wasn't enough to interest him and advised her to return home and come up with a whole line.

Enroute home she came up with an idea for a complete line of Christmas decorations and the name of the company, which includes all five members of her family.

Her first showing included her original stocking, tree skirts with lace trim, balls and other decorations in velvet and matching nosegays.

With the help of her husband and children she was able to fill all orders. The kitchen, living room and basement all served as working areas. As Sandy worked filling orders she kept turning ideas over in her head about next year's line.

Almost before the last order was filled the family went to work on the second showing which Sandy had decided would feature a western theme.

This time they had a tree cleverly decorated with western lassoes, red bandanas, ribbon and burlap ornaments and topped with a man's straw hat decorated with pheasant feathers.

The line also included burlap cowboy boot Christmas stockings trimmed with bandana print; a burlap wreath trimmed with red rick rack and a red bandana bow with streamers; and a unique stirrup wreath.

This horseman's wreath, which drew favorable comment from all who saw it, began as two oak stirrups. These were backed by artificial spruce and tied with burlap and bandana bows and streamers.

Blue Chip Gifts of Lubbock featured these three items in its 1982-83 edition of The Gift Horse, which showed exclusive gifts for horse people.

Sandy says, "Billy wires all the frames for our wreaths and some of the rest of us finish them."

She also reports that probably the Stirrup Wreath has been their best selling item to date.

Her formal look this year is Victorian. The tree is decorated with nosegays and lacy tree skirts. Ornaments are metallic-copper, gold and beige decorated with heavy braid.

This display was set up January 6 as the first showing of Christmas gifts for 1983 began January 8.

The Johnson Company added an Easter line this year. It is made up of large and regular size decorated eggs and hanging baskets.

At first Billy, Sandy, Scott, Charles and Sharlet supplied all the labor for the factory, but soon extra help was needed. Sandy's mother, Mrs. Lucille Hart of Clovis, and Polly Mills of Bovina have been part time helpers for some time. The only full time employee is Kara Mills.

The Johnson Company also has a showing at a Denver market and orders are received almost daily from the East Coast to the West Coast with The Lenox Shop of Oskosh, Wisconsin, as one of the largest buyers.

Billy, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Levi Johnson, who live nearby, grew up on the farm and is a graduate of Bovina High School. Sandy is a graduate of Clovis High School.

The Johnsons attend Bovina Church of Christ and are active in local school and community projects.

Sandy says, "I worked outside my home a number of years and am enjoying staying at home. All of us enjoy what we're doing and it sure beats getting up at 6:00 a.m. to get to work on time."

READY FOR CHRISTMAS 1983.... This Christmas tree, which is decorated with hand made ornaments, was created early in January for the Dallas Trade Center market display. Sandra Johnson (kneeling) of the Johnson Company, manufacturers, designed the ornaments. With her is Kara Mills, the company's first full time employee.

A broken air conditioner can be the best thing that ever happened to your household budget.

The add-on heat pump is an efficient air conditioner that cools your home when it's hot. But that's not all.

In cold weather, the add-on heat pump works with your present furnace to help heat your home.

When your air conditioner breaks down, you have several choices. Repair. Replace. Buy a whole new system. All major investments.

Southwestern Public Service Company suggests that you consider a more efficient alternative, for much less than a new heating and cooling system: the electric add-on heat pump. The add-on heat pump is a very special air conditioner that works with your present furnace. Besides cooling your home in the summer, it helps heat your home in the winter.

As one of the most efficient ways to heat and cool, the add-on heat pump can really make a difference. And helping you manage electricity efficiently is one way we're working to justify your trust.

Jim Ellison Family Came To The Bovina Area In 1925

Early in 1925 Jim and Jeanie Stanley Ellison and their eight children, Hubert, Oscar, Buck, Aubra, Nannie, Mary Lee, Bessie and Lucille moved from a farm in Stephens County, Oklahoma, which is near Duncan, to a farm five miles east of Bovina.

Since that time Buck has farmed and ranched in the Bovina area. Two years later he was married to Mabel Ayres, whose parents were Mr. and Mrs. F.W. Ayres.

Mr. Ayres founded the Church of Christ here in the early twenties and built its first building. At the time Buck and Mabel were married December 13, 1927, the church did not have a full time preacher, so S.C. Wall drove over from St. Vrain, New Mexico, and preached twice each month.

On their wedding day the couple drove to St. Vrain in a Model T Ford and were married by Brother Wall.

For many years the Ellison home has been a few miles west of town. Buck and Mabel had Jersey cows, hogs and chickens during the early years of their marriage and experienced all the things other farm families did during the depression of the thirties.

They had two daughters, Jeanine and Patsy, and one son, Howard, who grew up here. The only one who lives here now is Patsy, who is married to Robert Read and lives between the Ellison home and Bovina.

Jeanine and her husband, C.W. Grissom, live near Taiban, New Mexico. Howard and his wife, the former June Jester, live at Price, Utah.

Buck says, "For many years we grew maize, hegar and kaffir, but later we got into cotton and corn."

He went on to say, "Since my retirement, I grow nothing except a garden and some hay. I have 50 acres, which is really not suitable for farming, so I grow hay on it for the Black Angus cattle I run."

Buck and Mabel always enjoyed travelling, but were unable to go very much during the early years of their marriage. One vacation Buck especially remembers was a trip to New Mexico one summer.

Euel and Maxine Hart were neighbors of the Ellisons and Mabel and Maxine were cousins. Early in the summer the two couples and their children began planning and making preparations for a trip.

Buck and Euel made bows for a 1929 Model Chevrolet truck and stretched a wagon sheet over it. When it was time to depart Mabel and Maxine had assembled cooking utensils, necessary food and a few extras.

Wives, children and supplies, which included bedding, rode in the back of the truck. All meals were cooked on open campfires and they went all the way to Fort Sumner for a few days. Enroute home they got as far as Clovis and after counting their cash on hand found they had enough to spend a few more days away from home, so drove down to Portales for a day or so.

In later years Buck and Mabel had a summer home near Carizozo, New Mexico, where they spent a lot of time. They also did a lot of other travelling.

Mabel died in June of 1977 and about two years later Buck was married to Dorothy Frazier of Portales, New Mexico. Dorothy, who had been a widow many years, was an employee of Eastern New Mexico University.

Dorothy also has three children, LaTrell Miehler and Lynda McGuire of Albuquerque, and Treva Sapenor of Sacramento, California.

Buck has eight grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren and Dorothy has four grandchildren and four great-grandchildren. They have a motor home and usually spend Christmas in California and the winter in South Texas.

They attend Bovina Church of Christ, where Buck has served as an elder for about 30 years.

One highlight of each summer is the Ellison Reunion, which is held at the Ellison cabin in Nogal Canyon. When Buck and Dorothy go up there, they pull a Jeep on a trailer behind their motor home, so they can enjoy the rough terrain more.

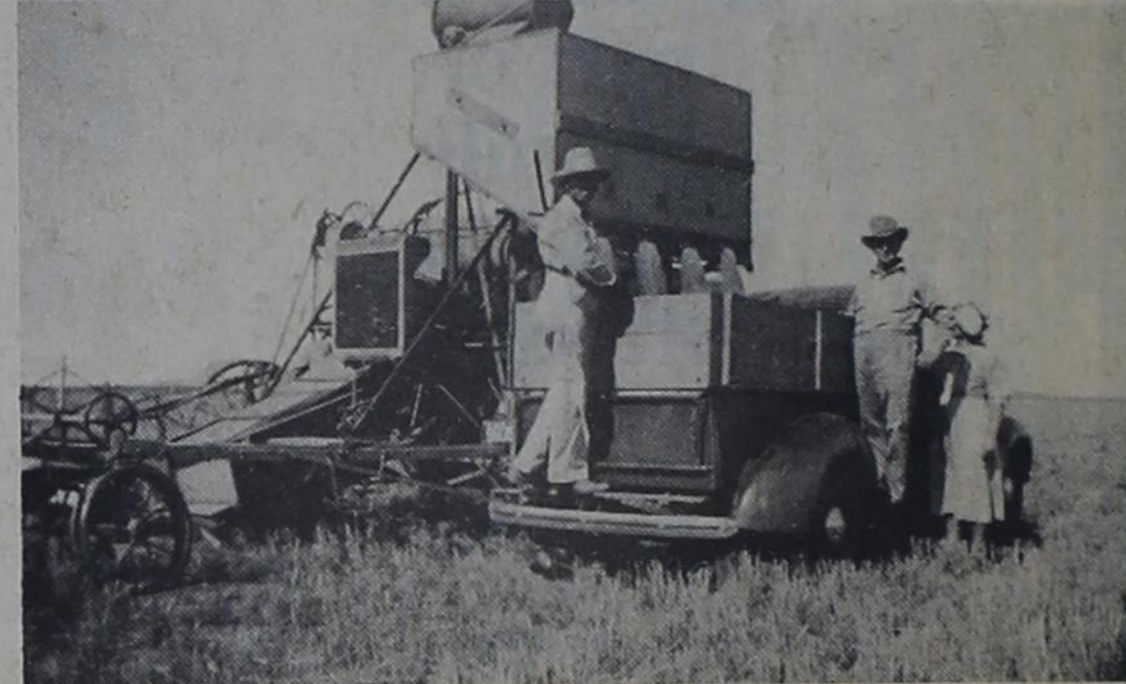

Two of Buck's sisters live here. They are Nannie, who is married to Tom Rhodes and Bessie, who is married to George Trimble. Hubert lives at Farwell; Aubra lives at Brownwood; Oscar was killed in a car wreck about 25 miles northwest of Bovina in 1928; Mary Lee and her husband, Charles Tidenburg, live in Albuquerque and Lucille and her husband, Johnny Glover, live in Tularosa, New Mexico.

Buck concluded his remarks by saying, "There have been a lot of changes since I've been here, but this is a wonderful place to live."

READY TO GO.... The late Ewel Hart and Buck Ellison, who lives west of Bovina, had finished greasing their combine and were ready to begin a day's work in the harvest field when this picture was made. Ellison asked, "Would you believe we hauled all the wheat we cut to the elevator in that pickup?"

THE WAY IT USED TO BE DONE.... Wheat harvest has come a long long way since 1939. This picture was made in a wheat field as grain was being dumped from the combine bin into a pickup truck. Ewel Hart is standing on the bumper and Jim and Jeanie Ellison are on the right. All three of these persons are deceased.

WE'RE PROUD OF ALL OF THEM.... Buck and Dorothy Ellison posed in front of pictures of their children and grandchildren for this picture. He said, "She has three children and I have three. She has four grandchildren and four great-grandchildren and I have six of each, so together we have a bunch and we're proud of all of them."

"The Good Times"

By MEG PAYNE

Just three more hours traveling time until we reach our destination; the beautiful mountains, the quaint little cabins, the aroma of pine trees after a summer rain.

I can hardly wait. One more game of "My Car, Your Car" is a headache making headway to a migraine!

I'm trying to reassure myself that I didn't leave anything at home, necessary for survival for the next few days.

Dog food, doughnuts, cereal, meat, bread, potatoes, coffee, medicine and plenty of paper sacks in case I start to hyper-ventilate.

My fatal mistake is packing the sacks in the very back of the van, under piles of everything that everyone else just has to have.

"Hurry, Hurry, Husband Harry," will not tolerate another stop for such trivia such as hyper-ventilation!

"If I have to stop this van one more time," he shouts, "we'll just turn around and go home."

But Dad, I can't go to the bathroom out here--there's nothing to hide behind and besides a snake might get me!" "Well why didn't you go thirty minutes ago when Sam went?" "Cause, he broke away from his leash, 'member, and you had to chase him in that pasture where that big bull was." "Okay, just hurry up, will you just hurry up."

"I'm goin, I'm goin," she replies, reluctantly.

"And will somebody please sit on the dog until she's finished."

"Everybody in? Yeah, yeah, let's go."

I knew it, I knew it, thirty miles down the road, I hear the familiar sobs, "Daddy, Daddy, I left Baby Betsy when I went to the bathroom." "OH DADDY," she screams, tonsils showing, "We can't leave Baby Betsy!"

At this point, everyone knows that silence is the best plan of action. We're approaching trauma. Sam ducks his tail and covers his head with his paws. The van turns around on the size of a dime and we're off at breakneck speed to rescue Baby Betsy!

At last we'll be traveling to the sounds of silence for the next hour. A refreshing thought.

I can use this time to re-group and give myself a gold star for remembering to pack everything.

Just thirty more miles--"Look at all those cars up there! Must be a wreck." "Let me see, let me see." "No, you rode by the window, now it's my turn." "I'm gonna hit you if you don't let me see!"

Screaming as calmly as possible, I jump to the back of the van, do a quick belt job on the kids and start choking the dog.

"Didn't you see the road sign?" "Congested Traffic" for twenty miles. It is not a wreck. There is nothing to see. Now just calm down."

As I make way to the front to compose myself, I find bread crumbs everywhere.

"O.K., explain, I demand an explanation." "Well, Susy sat on it and Sam ate it," my son replies with the usual smirky little grin.

"Would you all take a look at that car in front? That kid has the other kid's head caught in the window! His tongue's hanging out!"

Now that's an idea, I thought, as I scurry to my seat to take a look. Now that's funny. His face is turning purple. Oh, here comes Dad to the rescue. He, too, whips out a belt, ignoring the fact that his son is holding his throat, gasping for breath.

The traffic is moving again, and what should I see, but a bumper sticker that reads "Have you hugged your kid today?"

I'm at long last recovering from the bread episode as we approach the cabin.

"Kids, Sam, come on, we're going to take your picture over here by the stream. Come on, hurry, you know we do this every year."

Oh my--my camera, where's my camera? I forgot my camera.

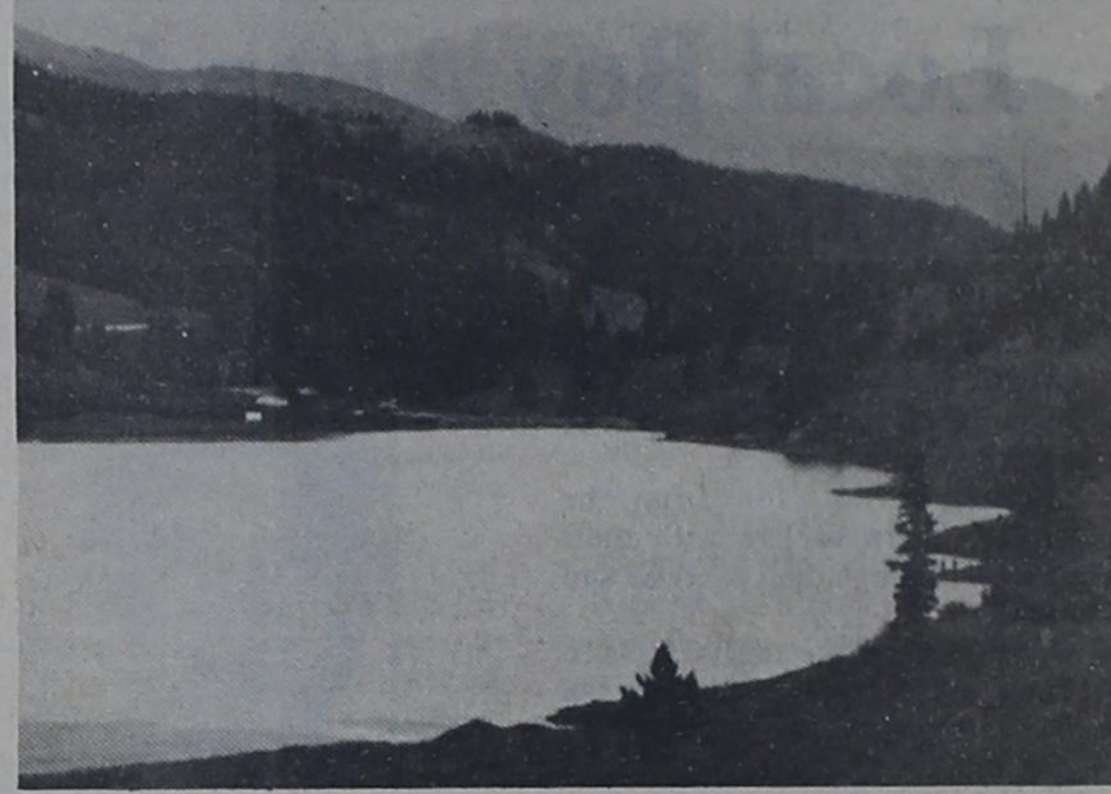

"You forgot your camera!" "I forgot my camera!"

"Well, where's Roger?" "I don't know where Roger is, I forgot the camera!"

Roger does a sneak attack behind me and screams, "Mom!"

Hysteria grips me, "Roger, where have you been? Well you just go over there, sit down and shut up!"

"Sure Mom," he replies with that smirky grin, "I just thought you might need your camera!"

LONGTIME RESIDENTS

Restoring Furniture, Collecting Items Are Hammonds' Interests

A few years ago J.T. and Myrna Hammonds built a new house at 700 Ridgela. Since that time they've been busy refinishing furniture, painting pictures and doing other little things toward making it into a home they appreciate and enjoy.

For several years these two studied art under the late Dr. Merritt of Clovis and their works are displayed on several walls of their home.

Since J.T. retired last year he has made good use of the workroom at the back of the garage. His current project is re-doing an antique Singer sewing machine, which his mother, Mrs. Oma Looney, who also lives in Bovina, bought soon after the turn of the century.

One old piece the couple has refinished and is using as part of the decor of their home is an antique bread bowl, which was also used by J.T.'s mother.

At the time bread bowls were standard equipment in every home, they contained a large amount of flour and when the pioneer mother started making biscuits she hollowed out a bowl shaped hole, poured in buttermilk, added salt, baking powder and shortening, which she mixed with her hand, then gradually added flour from the sides until the dough was the proper consistency.

These bowls were kept ready for the next biscuit making time at all times and were rarely washed. This particular one was in very poor condition when J.T. and Myrna decided to re-finish it. They did a beautiful job and at the same time were able to keep its antique look.

Two old chests with special meaning for the couple have also been redone and have special places in their home. One, originally a tool box, serves as a living room table and the other, which was built for Myrna by her dad when she was real young, is in the dining area.

Myrna's parents, Rev. and Mrs. J.N. Hester, moved to Bovina to work with the local Methodist Church. At that time Myrna, a native of Brown County, Texas, was a student at McMurry College, Abilene.

Her parents moved to Bovina in 1938 and she and J.T. met when she visited them in 1939. They were married two years later in the Methodist parsonage here. She taught in the local school system sixteen years on a regular basis and then did substitute work several years.

She enjoys scrapbooks she has kept from her years of teaching, which include newspaper articles, pictures and some work done by her students.

J.T. has lived here more than 60 years. He grew up on a farm and started to school at Bovina. His first job following graduation from Bovina High School in 1935 was working in a small grocery store which was owned by Sam Speits.

Later he was employed by the Cranfill Store, which was larger; O.W. Rhinehart, who was the Phillips 66 wholesales dealer and several implement houses.

During World War II he served in the United States Navy and was stationed at San Diego for some time. While he was there, Myrna and the couple's small daughter, Caroll, were able to be with him most of the time.

J.T. was an instructor in a Motor Machinist School in San Diego and also served in the Philippines.

Following his discharge he opened a Phillips 66 Station at the corner of Highway 60 and Third Street and operated it for several years. He also had a caged layer project on FM 1731 north of town for a few years.

Later he went to work for Charles Oil Company, where he worked until his retirement.

Myrna and J.T. are members of Bovina Methodist Church and have long been active in all facets of its work. They have both been Sunday School class teachers and at the present time J.T. is teaching an adult class.

He also is a lay speaker and a member of the official board.

GROWING PLANTS IS A SHARED HOBBY....J.T. and Myrna Hammonds are pictured here standing behind a planter filled with ivy and other greenery. Besides art, furniture restoring and home decorating, these two enjoy growing things and have a lot of house plants in addition to a well kept lawn.

Their daughter, Caroll Boguslawski and her husband live in Los Alamos, New Mexico. They have four children.

Since J.T.'s retirement he spends most of his time farming, doing yard work and reading. That is, when he isn't restoring something or other.

Myrna's hobbies are collecting Indian things--rugs, pottery, sand paintings and pictures; reading; growing plants; crocheting and doing other forms of needlework.

Both of them also enjoy traveling and are always looking for wild flowers whether they're on their way to the Gulf Coast, the West Coast, Central Texas or any place in between.

Local Boy Attends Camp For Diabetics

Jerry Pierson, 13-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. D.W. Pierson, spent several days recently at Camp Butman. This camp, held August 1-9, is for children with diabetes.

Besides having a lot of fun, the children learn to live with their diabetes through diet, exercise and insulin.

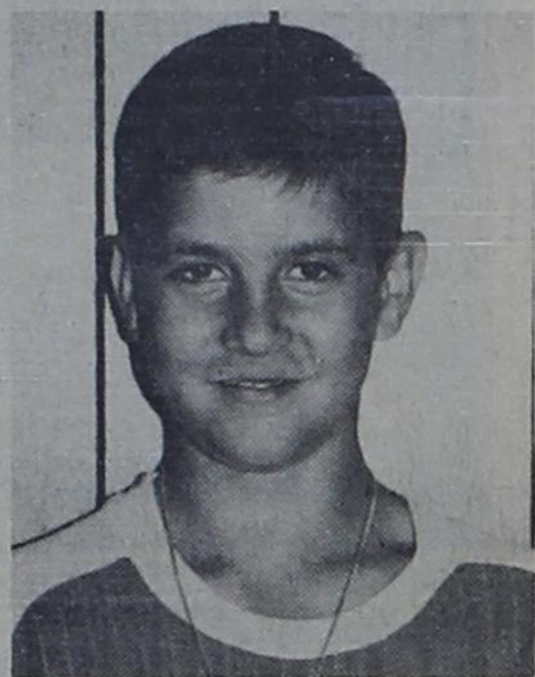

Children, unlike adults, have to control diabetes with insulin shots in the beginning, where as adults can occasionally control their problem through diet. Jerry gives his own insulin shots twice a day.

Camp Butman is a 160 acre camp located in beautiful Mulberry Canyon in southwest Taylor County. The camp has sleeping facilities for 120 people. Outdoor recreation includes a swimming pool, volleyball court, horseshoe pit and plenty of land with lots of hiking trails.

This year the West Texas District Rotary Clubs offered help for children attending camp. They paid the $100 registration fee for many children. The Hereford Rotary Club paid Jerry's camp fee.

Jerry was first diagnosed and hospitalized during the March Spring school break, while vacationing with his parents in Texarkana. He was in the hospital two weeks at that time. He came home for one week, then entered the Lubbock General Hospital for several days.

Jerry underwent surgery June 9 at Lubbock General to correct an impairment to his kidneys caused from the diabetes. The surgery was successful and Jerry now leads a normal life, thanks to many years of research.

Thad Rains, a 1979 Bovina High School graduate, is the Dean of Counselors at Butman Camp. This is Thad's fifth year as counselor and association with the camp.

Rains, who is also a diabetic, said the Bovina Lions Club made it possible for him to attend a diabetic camp in 1975. This was Camp Sweeney, near Gainsville. He said this was one way of repaying the Lions, to continue his work at Camp Butman.

Rains will complete his college work and graduate from Texas Tech in December.

Angie Jesko, of Lazbuddie, is also a counselor at the camp and has worked there two years. Two Friona children, Holly Snead and Julie Brown, also attended the camp.

Ex-Resident Writes Book About Early Days Locally

U.S. MARINE CORPORAL DAVID ALTON BERRY, son of the late Emmitt and Mary Berry, who farmed in the Bovina area in the twenties and thirties is pictured here in full uniform. He served in Iwo Gima during World War II and presently lives near Portland, Oregon, where he spends most of his time fishing.

A former Bovina resident, Alton Berry, who now lives at Kah-Nee-Ta, a vacation resort on an Indian reservation near Warm Springs, Oregon, has written a book and sent a copy to Harold Carpenter of the Oklahoma Lane Community. Berry is retired, but his wife of 46 years manages a hot mineral swimming pool and bath house.

Theme of the book is life in the Bovina area in the early twenties. Alton, the son of the late Emmitt and Mary Berry, is the brother of Vernell Campbell of Friona, Jean Brazil and Doris Lyday of Canyon and James Berry, who lives in Clovis.

Emmitt, who lived to be 86 years old, and Mary are buried in the Bovina Cemetery.

One of Alton's earliest recollections in Parmer County was the year of 1924. That year his father rented a farm from John Stagner on the halves. It was customary in those days for land owners to provide housing, farm equipment, horses and feed and seed while the tenant furnished the labor and provided for his family. At harvest time all crops were divided equally.

He remembers, "From our house to Bovina the only farm land was one quarter, which was owned by Will Parker, and there wasn't a fence from our farm, which was located about ten miles northwest, to town."

His father listed the land with four mules hitched to a one row lister and planted Kaffir corn, which you rarely see now. There were no spring rains, so Berry dry planted and prayed for rain.

"Then," Alton said, "it rained and he got a good crop and reaped a good harvest."

The John Stagner family lived on a farm near the Berrys and Alton treasures a picture of Stagner and his two sons, Lowell and Jack, pulling a one row turning plow while his father broke up a garden plot.

He also remembers that he and his brother, James, pulled No. 3 wash tubs across the prairie and gathered cow chips for fuel for the Majestic range on which his mother cooked meals for the family and the large heater which provided heat for the Berry home.

The following paragraphs were recorded in a series of "Yarns of Yesterday," which Alton has written. Harold Carpenter also has a copy of the collection of yarns.

"When I was just a young tad I stood longside the mainline tracks of the Santa Fe and waited for that big Mallard steam engine to pull some hundred and twenty five freight cars up Parmerton Hill from the west.

It was some short of ten miles from Bovina to the crest of Parmerton switch and was uphill all the way. By the time the summit was gained the wheels of the freight were turning very slow. The engineer would give me the "go" sign by putting his arm out the window of the old Mallard and sticking his thumb toward the sky. This told me I had the right to catch the first "wet" car that came by, climb to the top, open the ice bunker door and throw all the ice I could alongside the right-of-way until the train gained speed going down the other side of Parmerton Hill, then I would have to bail out from the action. Grandma would have enough ice to last several days to make that ice tea and lemonade good and frosty. That train driver knew as his reward he would get some of grandma's homemade pies the next time he climbed Parmerton Hill.

Many men, called railroad hoboes, were given a good meal from Grandma's kitchen, often they did a little hoeing in the garden or brought her a few No. 3 tubs of cowchips to stoke the old kitchen range. These men were not modern day riff-raff, they were people who got caught up in the Hoover days, and had no other choice. They always said "thank you, Mam." Tipped their hats or caps as they made their way back to the main line to catch the next freight train to somewhere.

My Grandma John would sometimes frown on these procedures. Grandma would say, "John, that man was with an empty stomach and I think the Lord gave us this food to share with our fellow man."

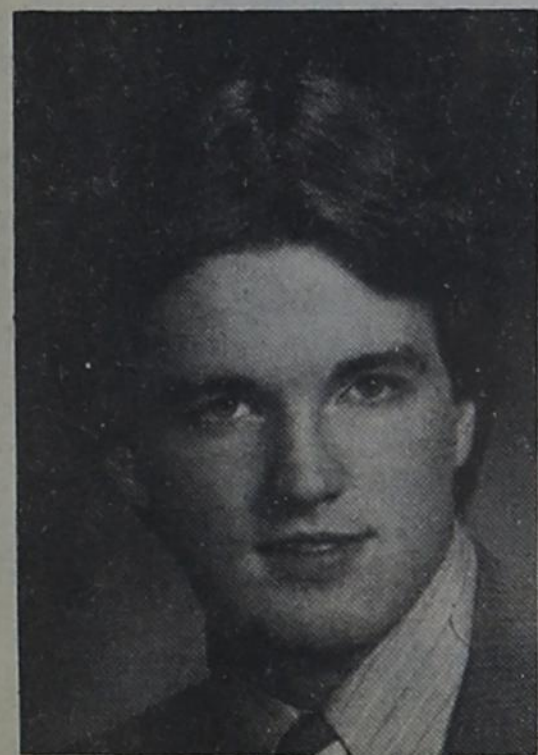

Grandpa, being a good Methodist, would smile and say, "Nora, I just guess you're right."

I would like to tell you what I saw when I walked the streets of Bovina long ago. Old Dad Brigfort had the only place where you could fill the inner man with good home cooked food. He and Tommy Horton served the best Irish Stew, served on a platter with a big slice of bread and butter. He also could give a hamburger made of real beef, sliced onion, pickle, mustard and ranch fried potatoes.

Across the street C.R. Elliott had a hardware store, you name it and he had it. Later Lady Gaines joined the company and I will always remember the long wire racks that graced themselves with Jack Rabbit ears, turned in at five cents each by hunters such as Reagan and Joe Looney."

The Berry family also lived in the Oklahoma Lane community, where Alton received most of his education. In reference to this, he said, "They kicked me out of the fifth grade because I wouldn't shave."

JOHN T. KELLEY

Grandchild Plays In Tournament

Bobby Cumpton went to Boulder, Colorado last Thursday with her daughter, Nancy, son-in-law, Eric Perkins and their sons, Seth and Russell, all of Irving, to see Bobby's granddaughter, Sharon play baseball at the National Fast-Ball tournament, August 11-14.

There were 34 teams entered in the tournament, and Sharon's team, which is the Raiders, tied for fifth place.

Kelley Gets WT Degree

John T. Kelley, son of Glenn and Kay Kelley, received his B.B.A. degree from West Texas State University in Canyon on Saturday, August 13.

Kelley will be employed with the H.V. Robertson Public Accounting firm in Amarillo beginning September 1.

Mrs. Kerby Has Interesting Trip

Jeannie Kerby recently left her husband, Al, who operates a welding shop here, behind while she accompanied her sister and brother-in-law, Mabel and Jay Evans of El Paso, on a five week tour.

The group visited eighteen states, the District of Columbia and several places in Canada. They travelled more than 6000 miles in a motor home.

Jeannie reports, "We had no schedule or time table and stopped when and where we wanted to for as long as we wanted to stay. If we saw an interesting shopping place, we stopped and browsed; or a scenic view, we stopped and gazed. Some days we only covered 150-200 miles but it was a fun way to travel."

Their first stop was in Afton,

Oklahoma, where they visited Bobby and Tyson Eubands and their daughter, Barbara, former Bovina residents.

In St. Louis they saw the Gateway To The West and Busch Memorial Stadium. Enroute to Fairborn, Ohio, where they spent several days visiting in the home of Fred and Donna Evans and children, Tara, Joey and Michael, the trio drove through Indianapolis the day before the Indy 500.

Of the reported 600 thousand people who attended Jeannie thinks they saw more than half of them on the highway.

They especially enjoyed visiting Wright-Pattison Air Force Base, the Air Force Museum, Wright Brothers Memorial Hill and a nature preserved called Glen Helen, while they were in Fairborn.

From Fairborn they went through West Virginia and into Pennsylvania. After going under the Allegheny Mountain summit through a long tunnel, they drove across the top of the Blue Ridge Mountains and followed a scenic route to Gettysburg.

While there they visited the Cyclorama, Gettysburg National Cemetery and the Gettysburg Battleground. The Cyclorama is a dome shaped building which houses a French painting depicting the events of the three day battle. The painting, which is 28 feet high covers a 360 foot circle.

They also saw the original copy of the Gettysburg Address, which was on loan from The Smithsonian Institute.

In Hershey, Pennsylvania, home of the Hershey Candy Company, they visited Chocolate World, where they saw a presentation of candy making from the tree to the final wrapper, and The Hershey Gardens, an outstanding collection of trees, shrubs, flowers and grass.

After driving through dense fog for several hours, they reached Catawissa, a small town in Central, Pennsylvania, where the women's paternal grandfather had lived before the Civil War. One of the interesting things Jeannie and Mabel learned about their ancestor was that a Quaker church was still using a stove he made in the foundry he owned there.

Enroute from Catawissa to New York the group stopped atop Bald Mountain, which overlooked a valley and Williamsport. In New York they visited the Corning Glass Works, Buffalo and Niagara Falls before going to Ontario, Canada, where they spent two days.

Returning to the states the trio drove along the northern shores of Finger Lakes then north to Lake Placid, which is in upstate New York, and on to Essex. From Essex they rode a ferry boat and crossed Lake Champlain and docked at Charlotte, Vermont.

Enroute to Rowayton, Connecticut, where Jeannie's niece,

Linda Evans, lives, they drove across Massachusetts from north to south in an almost straight line and only travelled 56 miles.

Some of the places they saw in New York City were the Empire State Building, the World Trade Center, the United Nations Headquarters, Yankee Stadium, Ellis Island, Liberty Island, the Statue of Liberty and the Brooklyn and Washington Street Bridges.

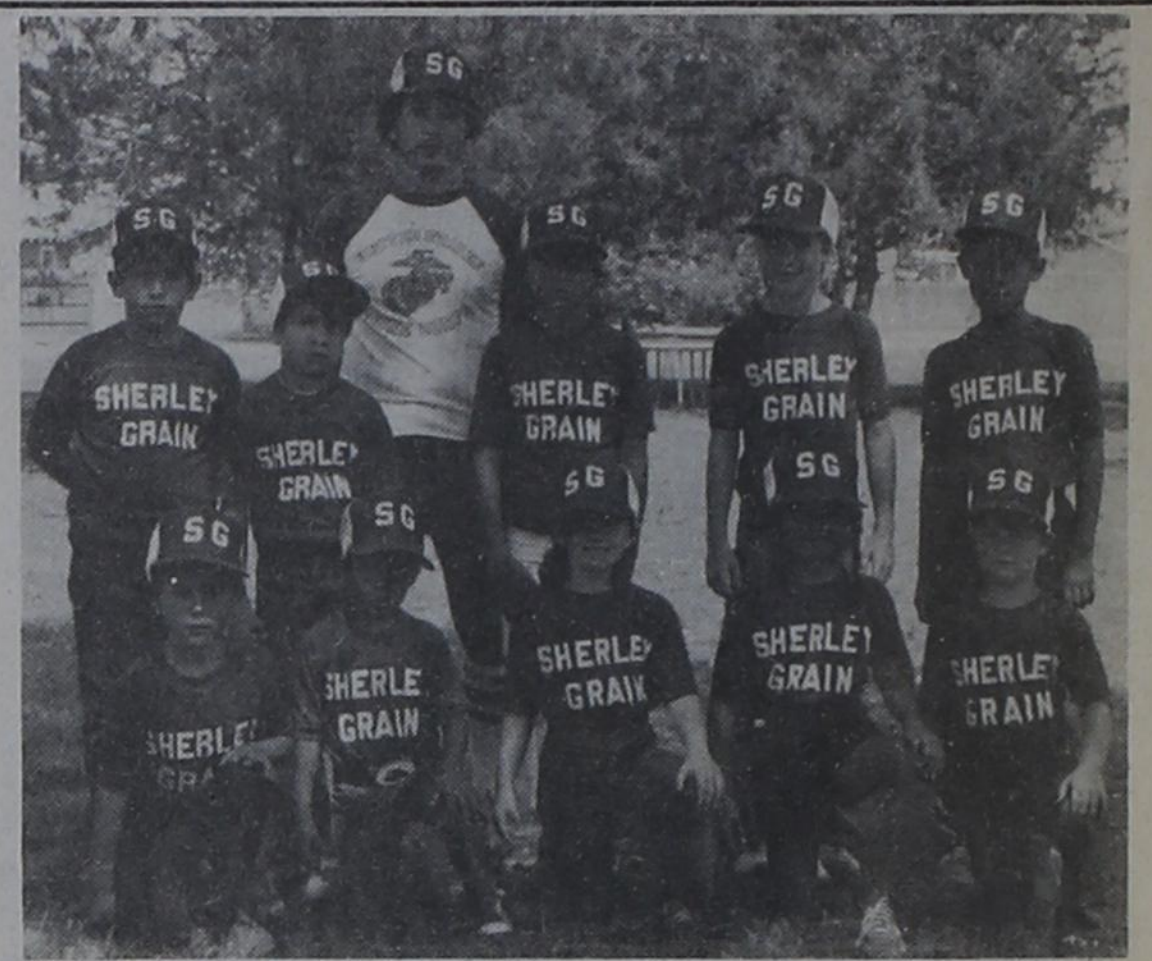

After leaving Connecticut, they drove through New Jersey, Delaware and Maryland enroute to Falls Church, Virginia, where they were guests in the home of Patsy and Bill Bain.

They spent several days in Washington, D. C. and toured The Smithsonian, the White House, the Arlington National Cemetery, the Capitol Building, the Pentagon, Watergate and a large number of other interesting places.

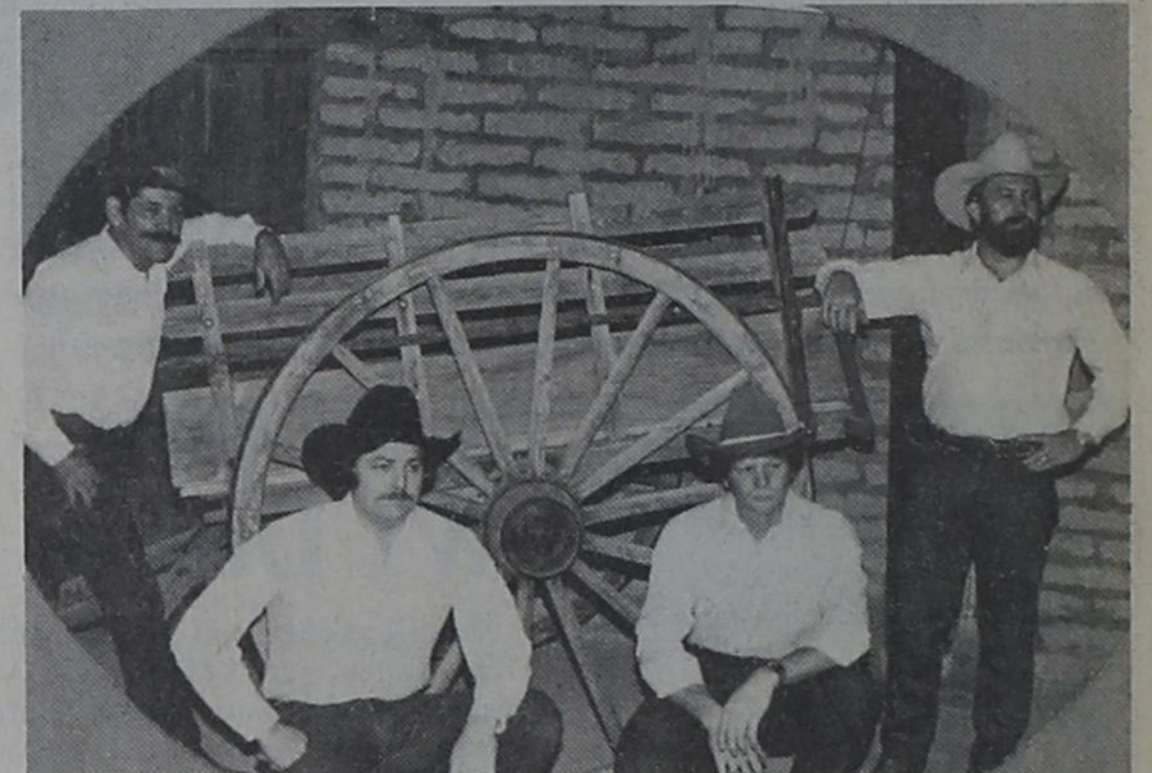

The last states they drove through were Tennessee, Arkansas and Oklahoma.

The historical sites the group visited, the natural beauty of growing things in every area and the historical knowledge they obtained will be enjoyed by friends and relatives of the trio and Jeannie will probably be enjoying this never to be forgotten trip for many many years.

PUBLISH ALBUM... The "Flying X Ranch Hands" have a record album on the market, entitled "New Frontier." Members of the group are Wayne Grimes, Alex Patrick, Mark Burk and Royce Sisk, a Bovina product.

Group Has New Album

A group of young men who call themselves "Flying X Ranch Hands" recorded a new album April 13, entitled "New Frontier." The four who make up the group are Wayne Grimes, Alex Patrick, Marc Burk, and Royce Sisk. Royce is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Sisk of Bovina.

Records and cassettes can be purchased from Royce's parents or can be purchased at the Flying X Chuckwagon Suppers which are held six nights a week and located on the old Cavern Highway near Carlsbad, New Mexico.

The group entertains nightly and ranch style food is served. The whole family will enjoy a delightful evening full of Western hospitality and family entertainment.

Free Cheese Program Back

Surplus cheese for those qualified to receive it will be distributed at four Parmer County locations next week.

The cheese will be distributed Wednesday, August 24 at the Food Stamp Office, 104 West Seventh in Friona; Thursday, August 25 at Bovina's Parmer County Community Actions Center; Thursday, August 25 at Lazbuddie Community Barn, and Friday at the Parmer County Court House in Farwell.

Recipients are required to fill out new forms to be eligible for the cheese and applications will be available at these locations. Distribution will be in conjunction with the Department of Human Resources.

Borers Are Threat To Peach Trees

Many homeowners who have peach trees are concerned about the peach tree borer. "Plan now to spray peach trees to control peach tree borers. Apply Lorsban 4E (chlorpyrifos) at 5 teaspoons per gallon of water," says Seth Ralston, Parmer County Extension Agent.

The Green Light Company also markets a 12.9 per cent chlorpyrifos for borer control. Thoroughly spray the tree's trunk and avoid contaminating any fruit. One treatment about mid-August will protect the tree from borers this season, Ralston said.
