Question:

Is Lone Star doing everything it can to hold down costs?

Answer:

Yes!

We're operating more efficiently than ever before. But our costs are going up none the less... just like yours.

For instance, the interest rates on money we have to borrow for constructing new gas supply systems have increased dramatically. These rates have recently been at all time highs.

Within the last 18 months, we have invested nearly $100 million:

- to build a large diameter, 400-mile pipeline from West Texas to the Dallas-Ft. Worth area,
- for other facilities along this pipeline,
- to attach major new reserves and
- to pay for well drilling by producers... all for the purpose of assuring continuing natural gas supplies to our customers.

These investments don't even include the cost of all the gas we must buy to fill the line. In 1969, natural gas cost us about 19 cents per thousand cubic feet.

Recently we paid more than 85 cents for major new supplies. And the price is still rising.

Costs like these are the price Lone Star must pay for your continuing natural gas supplies. It's important that you understand our need for adequate rates so we can continue to deliver clean gas energy to your home for winters to come.

We're doing everything possible to hold down controllable costs. But even with gradual rate increases, natural gas from Lone Star will still be your most economical and efficient non-polluting fuel.

Your son's education for instance.
 But by the time he's ready for college his education may well cost a small fortune.
 The kind you just don't have lying around under a bed.
 That's just the reason why your government has a great thing going. A U.S. Savings Bond.
 In themselves they're not a quick buck. They won't make you that fortune overnight. But in the long run they do pay off. Darn well at that. And at a guaranteed rate.
 Starting a savings plan is easy.
 You can join a Payroll Savings Plan where you work. Or get into a Bond-A-Month Plan where you bank.
 Then watch someone's future grow.
