"If a man had half as much insight, as he has hindsight, he would have twice as much foresight"

Gonzalez Receives Scholarship

1992 Brackett High School honor graduate Luis Gonzalez has been awarded a scholarship through a state agency scholarship program.

The Texas Department of Transportation funds the Conditional Grant Program which pays up to $2,500 per semester. The program helps minority students in civil engineering defray the cost of a college education. Mandated by the 72nd Legislature, the program is conditional because students must agree to work for the department for two years immediately after graduation, or pay back the grant.

Students must carry a minimum of 12 hours of college coursework and maintain a 2.5 grade point average.

Luis is the son of Linda Sharp of Brackettville. His plans are to attend the University of Texas at San Antonio.

Throughout his BHS career, Luis was not only an honor student but also an outstanding athlete as well as participating in other phases of campus life.

Salinas Names Band After Bull

Brackettville's adopted son, Sergio Salinas and his band "Straitjacket" will be the featured entertainment at the third annual Variety Night, presented by Fort Clark Springs and Alamo Village Movie Location. Proceeds from the popular event will go to the non-profit Old Quarry Society.

The two-hour long entertainment fest will kick off at the Old Quarry Theater at 8:30 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 8, 1992. Also performing will be Natalie Everts, Dr. Jim Lane, The Hughes Sisters, Debbie Daws, "The Fat Lady."

"This is the biggest and best 'Variety Night' ever," said Lashawn Wardlaw, public relations director for Alamo Village. Wardlaw will emcee the evening's entertainment.

Wardlaw said she was real excited about having Sergio Salinas and "Straitjacket" as the featured entertainment. "He's going to be the next country-western superstar," Wardlaw said.

Salinas got his start in show business in the sixth grade when his dad bought him a shiny, new drum set. By the time he was a junior in high school, Salinas had graduated to becoming lead vocalist with the Premont Stage Band. After graduation, he put music on a back burner to study animal science at Texas A&I in Kingsville.

It was during his first semester at Texas A&I University that Salinas became acquainted with Happy Shahan and Alamo Village in Brackettville. Salinas interviewed for a job at the Old West movie location where John Wayne filmed the epic The Alamo. During the interview, Shahan asked the gung-ho Falfurrias native what instruments he could play. Salinas said only the drums. Shahan, who was instrumental in developing the careers of Johnny Rodriguez, Dotsy and Valentino - all Alamo Village alumni, told Salinas that in order for him to become a part of the Alamo Village crew, he would have to learn to play the guitar - and he did!

"I went back to college, changed my major from animal science to music, learned to play the guitar, read music, play the piano and I took vocal lessons. I did all of that in three months," recalled Salinas. "I then called Happy and said I know how to play (the guitar), and he said, 'You're hired.'"

Salinas, who has signed with famed Nashville producer Tom Collins will be flying to the country music capital soon to record his first album. He also is expected to cut a single which he hopes to have on the air by fall. "Hopefully I'll be on the road touring by 1993," Salinas said.

The normal jovial Salinas turns quiet and reflective when asked how his band "Straitjacket" got their name.

"That name came about as a result of a bull-riding accident in August 1990." That accident, on a hot summer night in Taylor, Texas, almost ended Salinas' singing career before it got started. Salinas, who had taken up bull-riding again after about a year's lay-off, had the left side of his skull crushed and his ear almost totally torn from his head, after being bucked from a bull called "Straitjacket," coming out of chute No. 6. The 6'1", 180 pound Salinas, who was just a week short of his 24th birthday, wasn't expected to live. He had lost a tremendous amount of blood.

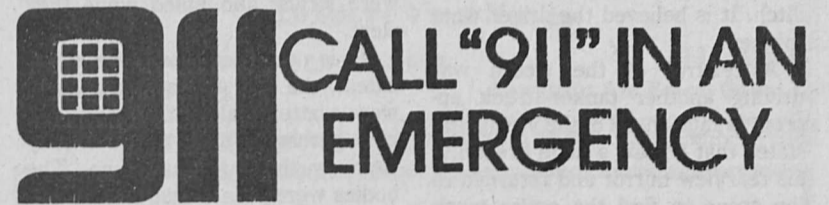

The doctors told Sergio's parents, Manuel and Angelita Salinas, that their son, if he lived, would be paralyzed and have brain damage. But, he proved them wrong, in little more than a month, Salinas was walking and tests showed no damage to his brain.

As a result of the accident, Salinas lost all hearing in his left ear. But through what Salinas calls a "miracle," he also regained between 80 to 85 percent of the hearing in that ear.

"It was during that time that I became a firm believer in the Lord," Salinas said.

During his performance on August 8, Salinas is expected to sing what has become his unofficial signature song, Price Of Freedom, which he recorded in 1987, as the title track to the IMAX movie of the same name. The song, is now sung at each and every pilot's graduation ceremony at Laughlin Air Force Base in Del Rio.

Automatic Number Identification (ANI)

9-1-1 is the new emergency telephone number for anyone in Kinney County needing help from Sheriff's Department, the Fire Department, or an Ambulance. Kinney County will implement the first phase of 9-1-1 on Wednesday, July 29, 1992.

A person can dial 9-1-1 anywhere in Kinney County and the call will be answered by the Kinney County Sheriff's Department.

Special equipment is installed in the dispatch center to automatically display the caller's telephone number. This is an important piece of information that can be used to locate someone if they are not able to communicate where they are.

The 9-1-1 telecommunicator has single button and speed dial transfer capabilities for the call if necessary.

HOW TO MAKE AN EMERGENCY CALL TO 9-1-1

1. Stay calm. Don't get excited. Take a deep breath to relax.
2. Tell the person who answers the phone what's wrong like this... "My house is on fire..." "My daddy is hurt real bad, he can't move..." "I hear a noise outside my back door and see a shadow through the window..." "I'm lost and I can't find my way back home..."
3. Tell them the address where the emergency is located...remember to give the full address, even your apartment number if you live in an apartment.
4. Tell them the telephone number and address that you are calling from.
5. Tell them your name.
6. DO NOT HANG UP...until the person at the Sheriff's Department tells you that you should. They may need to ask you questions to help the police officers, and fire fighters find you as fast as they can.
7. If your 9-1-1 doesn't work, dial 563-2788 for the Sheriff's Department.

CHILD'S GUIDE TO 9-1-1

When to call 9-1-1 - and when not to call!

1. To help someone who is hurt and needs help.
2. If you smell smoke or see a fire.
3. If you see someone stealing something or hurting someone.
4. If you need help fast for any reason.

REMEMBER, DO NOT CALL 9-1-1 TO PLAY A JOKE.

MOBILE AND COIN PHONES

There is no charge for a 9-1-1 call on cellular phones. If you pick up a receiver on a COIN phone and hear dial tone, you may dial 9-1-1 without depositing any money. If you do not hear a dial tone when you pick up the receiver, deposit a quarter and once you dial 9-1-1 your money will be returned. If you live in an area that is long distance, to call for help you DO NOT have to dial 1 plus 9-1-1. Simply dial 9-1-1 and your call will be routed to the agency designed to answer your calls.

VOICE/TDD

A Telecommunications Device for the Deaf (TDD) is connected to 9-1-1. Simply dial 9-1-1 and press the space bar for response. If you are hearing impaired and have an emergency and do not have a TDD available, dial 9-1-1 from any telephone and stay on the line even if you cannot communicate where you are or what the emergency is. The call is traced and a Law Enforcement Officer is dispatched to determine the nature of the emergency.

If you have a TDD in Kinney County please contact the Kinney County Sheriff's Department and provide them with your information so they can be aware of your situation and can properly respond.

THE MOST IMPORTANT THING YOU NEED TO KNOW IS IF THERE IS A SITUATION IN WHICH PROPERTY OR HUMAN LIFE IS IN JEOPARDY AND THE PROMPT SUMMONING OF AID IS ESSENTIAL DIAL 9-1-1 AND YOU WILL TALK TO SOMEONE WHO CAN HELP OR GET HELP.

9-1-1 Materials Distributed:

Tuesday, July 21, Berta Rocha (right) and Forrest Anderson (center), Middle Rio Grande Development Council 9-1-1 Co-ordinators presented Kinney County Sheriff Norman Hooten (left) with educational materials for community distribution, and decals for emergency vehicles.

Bonilla Visits In Kinney County

U. S. Congressional Candidate Henry Bonilla, second from right, was guest at a reception last Thursday night hosted by Kinney County Co-chairmen of the "Bonilla Election Campaign" Tim Ward, Lisa Conoly, and Bea Workman.

U. S. Congressional Candidate Henry Bonilla brought his high-profile, energetic campaign to Kinney County on Thursday, July 16, 1992.

Much of the day was spent in visiting throughout the community including speaking to the Brackettville Lions Club.

The day concluded with a reception on Colony Row, Fort Clark Springs.

Kinney County co-chairmen for the "Bonilla Election Campaign" are Tim Ward, Lisa Conoly, and Bea Workman. They served as hosts for the Thursday evening campaign rally which brought out a large, enthusiastic, supportive crowd.

Bonilla is the Executive Producer of Public Affairs for KENS-TV in San Antonio. He is currently on a leave of absence. He and his wife, Deborah Knapp-Bonilla, both of San Antonio, have two children.

He was accompanied to Brackettville by his younger brother, Ben.

Truck Wreck Claims Life

Jose Raul Anaya of Nixon lost his life in a fiery truck wreck approximately two miles west of Brackettville on Hwy. 90 early Thursday morning, July 16, 1992.

Mr. Anaya was driving an 18-wheeler loaded with jet fuel headed for Laughlin Air Force Base when the truck left the road and apparently overturned when an attempt was made to re-enter the highway proper.

The truck was completely destroyed in the fire that resulted with only the axles, frame and motor remaining. The tank completely melted.

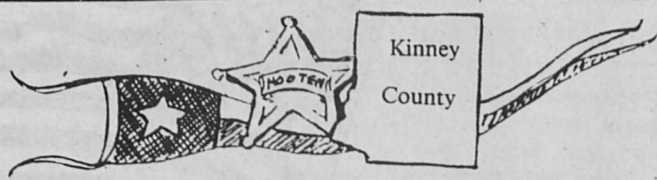

A second fuel truck at the scene raised questions about the role and the welfare of its driver. According to the information received by The Brackett News that driver, who was a brother-in-law of Mr. Anaya's was also delivering a load of jet-fuel to Laughlin. He was in the lead about 1 1/2 miles ahead of the semi driven by Anaya. After the explosion he returned to the scene and later due to the stress he was under, he was driven back to San Antonio. His vehicle remained at the scene until picked up later by a relief driver.

The Brackettville Volunteer Fire Department received the first call about the fire at 5:30 a.m. and when they arrived at the scene both the truck and the grass surrounding the area was afire. After the Department got that under control all seemed well until mid-afternoon when the burned truck was being loaded for "haul-off" it erupted again and the Department returned to the scene. They then answered a third call to the area about 6 p.m. when grass in the area suddenly began blazing.

Sheriff's Corner

By Sheriff Norman H. Hooten

At approx. 5:30 a.m. on the morning of Thursday, July 16th the Sheriff's Department received a report from a Government Trapper of a tanker truck on fire approx. 3 miles west of Brackettville on Hwy. 90. This writer, along with local EMS, Border Patrol Agents, Highway Dept. Personnel, and DPS Trooper Buddy Burgess, who investigated the tragic accident, responded to the scene.

The driver of the tanker truck, which was transporting highly inflammable aviation and jet fuel, was trapped inside the burning truck and was burned beyond recognition from the resulting fire and explosion which occurred after the truck went off the roadway, clipped a cement culvert, and overturned in the bar-ditch. It is believed the driver went to sleep.

A relative of the victim was driving another tanker truck approx. 1/2 mile ahead of the victim and stated that he saw a huge fireball in his rearview mirror and returned to the scene to find the entire truck engulfed in flames. Another witness, also approx. 1/2 mile ahead of the accident, said the explosion shook her car. The truck was totally destroyed and melted down by the hot fire. The aluminum tank used to transport the fuel was reduced to pools of melted aluminum on the ground.

The charred body of the victim was removed from the burned truck by local EMS personnel after the scene cooled down enough for workers to enter the area.

Chief Deputy Johnny Fritter, Reserve Deputy Warren Outlaw, local EMS Personnel, Border Patrol Agents, and the Highway Patrol responded to a report at approx. 1:00 am Saturday morning, July 18th, of a Southern Pacific train hitting a person on the tracks approx. 2 miles east of Spofford. Upon their arrival at the scene it was determined that at least two illegal aliens from Mexico had been hit and killed by the train. Three other illegal aliens from Mexico walked up to the scene and surrendered to Border Patrol Agents. The three illegals advised that they had been traveling with the two victims as a group though they did not really know each other. They further advised that the two victims had decided to lie down on the tracks to sleep while the three others went to look for water. Evidently the two victims did not hear the approaching train and were struck and killed while they slept.

As is usual with that type of accident, the two victim's body parts were scattered along the tracks and were gathered up and placed in body bags by those at the scene. The bodies were then transported to the local funeral home and the Mexican Consul was notified in an attempt to determine the identity of the victims and notify family members. A description of the clothing worn by the victims is believed to have contributed to identifying one of the victims and family members have tentatively claimed the body of their loved one and though the body has been buried in the county cemetery the family is still attempting to determine if they want to make arrangements now or at a later date to have the body exhumed and transported to Mexico for burial. The second body has yet to be identified and has been buried as an "unknown" in the county cemetery, joining so many others of his homeland who have lost their lives either by drowning as they attempted to enter the country illegally or by other means such as heatstroke, snakebite, or illnesses.

Between Us

There is being circulated one of the most scurrilous pieces of trash I've ever seen. I'm sure it was intended for me since the writer marked "cc/all Brackettville and Fort Clark Citizens"; though the person made no attempt to see this mental filth was circulated as claimed. This figures, however, because the author of this tripe has no regard for the truth. In the first place, it is not signed which shows the author is a full blown coward. Were this about me, I'd simply file it with the other garbage in file 13.

Since it concerns a local business which I have patronized from its inception, I know this person lies about the business and its owner. I know the entire diatribe has nothing to do with the business.

Furthermore, the person vilified can take care of himself. He does not need me nor anyone else to defend him. So I'm not writing in defense of Don Hood.

I'm writing about the type of writing and slander contained in the missile. Anyone has the freedom to patronize a business or not to. To seek to tell anyone where they should do their business is tyranny.

I resent with every fiber of my being this mental decrepitude trying to tell me where I should trade. I don't know who she thinks she is, to try to tell someone who has been here 25 years, he shouldn't trade with a man who has been here 20 years and has operated a much needed and much patronized business for several years.

If you could buy this person for what she's really worth and sell her for what she thinks she's worth, you could say, "Move over Mr. Perot, I'm right up there with you."

The artistic attempt with an aged typewriter is amusing. I have met few people as interested in "personal gain" as this poison pen. She thinks she can gain a little "bigness." If she didn't have such a small and niggardly self image she wouldn't work so hard to prove she's somebody.

This kind of behavior is what was practiced and long ago discredited by Hitler and Stalin.

"Ferdie," Fort Clark and Brackettville would be a better place if you would silently steal away, back to where you came from. Brackettville and Fort Clark have done quite well without you and no crying towels would be needed when you were gone.

More than that, if you would get right with God and walk in step with Him you would change your attitude. Your arrogance would become humility. Your bitterness would become sweet. Your "sounding off" would become conciliatory.

Your entire attitude would undergo change and you could actually become an asset to the community. There is no place on earth where this sort of sick mentality is acceptable; least of all Fort Clark and Brackettville.

Brackettville Volunteer Fire Department Kept Busy

By RONNIE DUNNAM
BVFD Chief

The Brackettville Volunteer Fire Department would like to inform the community of the numerous amount of fire calls since the first of July, and to take this opportunity to thank all involved for their continued support.

Beginning with the fire on July 5, the department has responded to nine (9) fires as of July 19.

This is a volunteer fire department and I would like to thank the community and employers who allow these people to be a volunteer, and give them the necessary time off from their jobs to serve the community.

It takes special people - employer and employee - to do one's job, and to volunteer service.

The BVFD responded on the afternoon of July 9, 1992, to a grass fire approximately 12 miles south on RM693. Due to strong winds, we were unable, with the equipment we have, to contain this fire. We requested assistance from the Del Rio Fire Department and they responded with two trucks, and people, needed to assist the BVFD. A special thanks go to Del Rio Fire Department for their quick response and assistance.

I would personally like to also thank all firefighters of the BVFD, Kinney County EMS, BVFD Ladies Auxiliary, members of the City of Brackettville, the sheriff and dispatchers of Kinney County, the commissioner of Precinct 2, Kinney County Road Department, and anyone else who had a part in containing this fire. Due to good judgment and the extra effort of everyone involved this large grass fire was extinguished after 7 1/2 hours.

At the present time, the Brackettville Volunteer Fire Department is operating with a 1953 Chevrolet Brush truck, a 1979 Chevrolet Pump truck, a 1982 Chevrolet Brush truck, and a Reserve Van.

The department consists of 17 volunteers who receive no pay of any kind for their services. The funds received from Kinney County, City of Brackettville, Fort Clark Springs Association, and individual donations are what keep your fire department in operation.

We cannot tell everyone how much we appreciate the donations and the community support for fire department fund raising functions. Just remember - the next time there is a fire, it may be your property, and/or life, in danger.

Support Your Volunteer Fire Department!

 Wed. 10:00 a.m. - 6:00 p.m.

It's a hot summer day in Kinney County and you have decided to stay indoors and read a good book. You pick up the library book that has been waiting for you to read for the past few days when...Oh No! The book was due three days ago. You think, "What shall I do?" Should I... take it down to the library right now to pay my fine and renew it before the fine gets any larger, ...read the book as soon as possible and pay a slightly larger fine, ...or, toss the book under the sofa cushion and hope it will go away.

Unfortunately, the situation won't go away and the longer you procrastinate the larger the problem, in this case your library fine, will become. Overdue books happen to everyone including your friendly neighborhood librarian. Like everyone else, I, too, must pay my debt to the library.

We have a 10 page list of people who either have overdue books or owe a fine for books or videos. This list is getting out of control and continues to grow every week. Do your library a favor and return those overdue and settle your fines.

If a voice somewhere in the back of your mind is telling you that you've forgotten to do something, check under your sofa cushion. You may have a library book there due since last October.

Many thanks to those who donated books and magazines to the library this past week: Beth Ann Smith, Betty Ebert, and Sandy Herman.

As always, we invite you to visit the friendliest little library in Kinney County.

Unsung Hero

by Joe Townsend

There is a fine lady in our community who, with her husband, moved to Fort Clark Springs a few years back.

She is retired military and has capably mothered a rather large family. She is an outstanding member of a sorority.

She is much interested in the continued growth and improvement of Fort Clark Springs.

She is quite a lovely person, warm hearted and friendly.

Surely Marge Geeze is an "Unsung Hero."

Geeze Hosts Epsilon Iota

Marge Geeze entertained the Epsilon Iota Sorority in her home on Fort Clark Springs on July 20, 1992.

After the recital of the Opening Ritual, and roll call, the June minutes were accepted as read.

Treasurer Mildred Borden reported on the chapter's bank account.

A motion was made by Orlean Riley, seconded by Oleta Townsend and passed by members present to transfer the checking account to a savings account.

The program was presented by the hostess.

The Closing Ritual and Mitzpah were repeated in unison by Orlean Riley, Oleta Townsend, Mildred Borden, Lily Schwandner, and the hostess, Marge Geeze.

A pot-luck picnic at the Fort Clark pool is planned for August 17 to open the new sorority season.

Just For The Fun Of It

Beyond The Horizon

By Dorothy Payne

In the 1920s, the fabulous "101" Ranch was at its peak. Over 101,000 acres of rolling prairie in present Kay and Noble counties which took in three towns: Bliss (now Marland), Red Rock, and White Eagle.

Twenty-five thousand cattle, shipping pens on the Santa Fe, 300 miles of fence, 100 horses to work the range, 250 employees, every foreman's house connected to headquarters by telephone, and mail delivery every day. The "One-Hundred and One" had its own churches and schools, and miles of roads, both private and public.

It was hard to believe that such a place really existed. There was a $300,000 wild west show, a zoo, movie making company and 300 Indians.

The Miller Brothers - Zack T., George L., and Joe C. - made their father's dream come true. George Washington Miller was a Confederate Veteran who came west from Kentucky in 1871 to build a huge cattle ranch in Virgin Indian Territory.

He started his first ranch on the Quappaw Reservation in 1879. His second was in the Cherokee Strip near the present town of Lamont in Indian Country. Then, the government issued a proclamation opening the Cherokee Strip for settlement and ordered out the cattlemen.

Along the Salt Fork lay the vast reservation of the Ponca Indians, Colonel Miller's long-time friends. When the strip opened in 1893, the Poncas loaned the Millers acres of their reservation and all the Millers had to do was move their holdings down the river. The Millers had been made members of the Ponca Tribe when they first came to Indian Territory.

Their first headquarters was a dugout on the Salt Fork. The second ranch home was built across the river but it was destroyed by fire. The next home was built in its place and was called "The White House" and served until it crumbled with age.

This house was built two years after the Colonel's death.

The brothers put 15,000 acres in to crops to grow their own feed and orchards. There were 75,000 acres in pasture, buffalo, stallions from Arabia, the largest herd of purebred Duroc-Jersey in the country, and thousands of cattle. They published their own newspaper and at the newspaper convention in St. Louis, Joe invited the members to hold their next convention at the Millers Ranch.

One hundred cowboys and Indians entertained them by putting on a wild west show and thus the "101 Wild West" show was born.

A special train of fifty freight cars carried the show as it played in Madison Square Garden, Convention Hall in Kansas City, Jamestown Exposition in Virginia City, and the Chicago Coliseum. In 1908 and 1910, it toured Mexico and Canada. It performed for Queen Mary, the Czarina of Russia, and the queens of Spain, Greece, and Romania.

The brothers made the ranch the biggest producing entity in the country. In 1924, the National Editorial Association held a convention at the ranch and this was the performance I saw.

The show toured again and 700,000 persons attended one performance near London.

From 1924 to 1926, movies like On With The Show, Trail Dust, North of 36, and many more were made. In those years, Tom Mix, Buck Jones, Foot Gibson and William Desmond became stars of the screen, and later Will Rogers did.

Just as the ranch reached its peak, Joe and George Miller died. In 1929, the stock market crashed, then the great depression followed. Zack Miller began to sell out. From 1945 to 1949, he took the show on the road again.

He died January 3, 1952 and the fabulous "101" Ranch came to an end.

The Millers, Bill Pickett (the negro who invented bull dogging) and many other cowboys and Indians lie at rest in the cemetery on a lonesome, windy hill on the ranch.

Gone is the doors swung open to guests from all over the world.

Querecho's Saving

(Or how we got put back on the map)
During the last census Querecho became somewhat of a ghost town, and when we found out about it, we got miffed. It was one of the very few times that everyone got together and tried to do something for the good of the community instead of just a few.

We were selected by the census people to be interviewed in person instead of sending in all of the neat paper work that most people get to do.

The biggest trouble was that every time one of them goofy people came out to talk to someone, we were all gone. Either to a fire, a funeral, a wedding or sometimes just to go somewhere.

Well it was a typical government situation. The people that was sent to talk to us was dummer than a box of bowling balls, and after they came out for the last time, they just gave up on us.

I really don't blame 'em. It must be pretty spooky to go to a store, post office, or a cafe, and not find anyone.

But that was what they found. So in true government fashion, they just deleted Querecho Flats from their little census book.

We weren't aware of their deletion until about a week ago. We quit getting any mail. When called about the situation, we received an explanation that was not only shocking, it was so ridiculous it made us laugh.

The head postal person (probably a Yankee women's libber of closed mind and anemic body) got plumb snarly when we tried to explain that we were alive and well in Querecho Flats.

She said we weren't. That kinda spooked us.

In the next four days, we called everyone from the county commissioners to the supreme court. That includes congressmen, fire chiefs, and two delivery boys from the Pizza Parlor down on 3rd and Alameda. We just didn't get any where.

Finally, I was in Almogordo and mentioned the problem to a man in the feed store. This old boy listened with more interest than I thought was normal. Then he said he thought he could help. I loaded my feed and went on about my rat killing and pretty much forgot about even talking to 'im.

After about 3 days, we got a call at the fire station from none other than the Vice President. He explained that every thing would be all right in just a matter of hours and for us not to quit paying taxes just because of a minor mistake on the government's part.

At first Karl thought someone was messing with 'im, but as the conversation went on, he realized that it was the V. P. and he was serious.

Karl called me and told me what had been said. He wanted to know who I had talked to about the situation and I told 'im.

I made a trip to Almogordo and hunted up the man from the feed store.

What I found made me really suspicious of the way our government is being run.

Yep, the man was a high official in the federalies group of high officials. He was in charge of taking the census on endangered species in our part of the country.

When I told 'im that we weren't even put on the endangered species list before they done away with us, he took it upon his self to save us.

He called his head office in Blue Butte, Nebraska, and told them about us being deleted from the human race as well as the postal system. His head office naturally raised hell with the census people and as you well know if something is endangered, it's more important than a person or their business.

We got reinstated as a village and a post office pretty sudden. But we had to promise to keep paying taxes and not go on the Opra show. Which we did. Even though we would like to meet Opra in person.

I just hope that being endangered doesn't mean they will stop all the logging and the building of our newly funded (federally, of course) dam just south of town in the sand hills.

"Old Quarry Society" Sponsors Children's Theatre Workshop

Under the sponsorship of Fort Clark's Old Quarry Society, Lynn McNew has conducted a free children's theater workshop at the Amphitheater this past week. She had nine young people, ages 8 - 11, enrolled.

At the beginning of the week she told the group that the goals included improving their ability to get up in front of people and speak, develop poise, and use their imagination.

She made only one "homework" assignment and that was...at the end of the week (Friday, July 17) they must perform, on stage, before an audience of family and friends. The act must be their original idea and developed by them including any costuming. Either a solo act, or an act performed with one or more thespians would be acceptable.

Friday morning arrived, a perfect morning to spend some time out-of-doors, and join friends for a relaxing, entertaining hour.

The show was on! Mrs. McNew introduced each act and then sat back and joined the audience in being amazed at the smooth, letter perfect show which included Dustin McKelvy doing his "Deer Hunt," Laura Marshall, Michelle Melancon and Dukuesa Hunt in a "Crime Does Not Pay" skit, and a ventriloquist act by Christopher and Ariel Polomo.

Lisa Marshall and Amy Faulkenberry did a dance-comedy routine, Christina Culverhouse performed a solo, and then Michelle Melancon was the last act with her musical rendition of "Timber I'm Falling In Love."

Mrs. McNew complimented the young actors and actresses, presented them with certificates of participation and announced that future plans included a monthly Saturday morning workshop during the school year.

WHITE GRUB CONTROL:

White grub control in lawns is important during the summer months. May or June beetles are emerging from the soil and swarm in late evenings. Females lay eggs and white grub worms that hatch will soon feed on the roots of bermuda grass and St. Augustine grass in home lawns. Once grubs begin feeding control measures may need to be taken to ensure minimum damage to lawns.

Treatment time varies according to a particular area of the state. Homeowners in Kinney county will need to treat between the middle of June and the 1st or 2nd week in August. If you have not done so, you may need to treat right away if damage appears in your lawn.

White grubs in excessive numbers can heavily damage lawns. Check for white grubs by cutting a square foot section of sod with a shovel and examining the roots and soil to a depth of 4 inches. Examine at least one square foot of sod for 1,000 square feet of lawn area. Chemical treatment is needed if there are more than four grubs per square foot of sod.

Diazinon and dursban provide adequate control and should be used at recommended rates given on the chemical container label. The granular form is easier to apply and to wash into the soil than liquid or spray formulations. After using granules, drag the grass with a burlap sack or water hose to knock the granules into the soil.

Apply diazinon spray at the rate of 25 gallons of water, including the insecticide per 1,000 square feet to wash the insecticide into the soil. Wetting the lawn before spraying also helps. Always keep children and pets off the treated lawn until the grass is dry.

The key to white grub control in home lawns is proper timing of chemical applications and getting the insecticide through the grass to the root zone where grubs are feeding.

If you have a spot in your yard that is browning even if you have given it extra water, grab the grass and lift gently. Because white grubs feed on roots, you will be able to literally lift a section of turf up if the roots have been severed. Chemical treatment may be an option in this case. For more information call or come by the Kinney County Extension Office.

New Skin Patch Can Help Smokers Kick the Habit

Are you one of the 17 million Americans who tried to quit smoking in the last year? Did you succeed on your first try? If not, try not to be discouraged; only 10% of smokers are able to quit on their first attempt.

Most smokers realize quitting isn't easy. What they don't always understand is the reason why. Smoking is not just a habit, it is often a serious addiction. In fact, the Surgeon General has reported that 90% of all smokers are physically addicted to nicotine. But if you are seriously committed to quitting, there is good news. The newest tool in the smoking cessation battle is a nicotine patch such as Nicoderm® (nicotine transdermal system). It can be the help you need to quit.

The patch, available by prescription only, resembles a simple adhesive bandage and is applied once every 24 hours to a non-hairy skin site. Nicotine is delivered through the skin at a rate controlled by a membrane in the patch, reducing the craving and other physical withdrawal symptoms that many smokers experience when trying to quit "cold turkey."

The Nicoderm system provides enough nicotine to relieve urges and cravings, yet not quite enough to support existing levels of addiction.

Marion Merrell Dow, marketer of the patch, cautions smokers not to view it as a "magic bullet" for quitting. Nicotine dependence also has psychological dimensions which can't be ignored. As a result, behavioral changes are necessary to successfully conquer the nicotine addiction. Marion Merrell Dow has addressed this aspect by providing patients with a "6-2-2 Committed Quitters" booklet, which helps smokers deal with the social and environmental cues often associated with smoking.

Grant to Texas Pecan Growers

Funding for technology that will enable Texas pecan farmers to predict when to use a naturally occurring insecticide to most effectively control pests was presented today to the Texas Pecan Growers Association by Agriculture Commissioner Rick Perry.

The integrated pest management grant will allow the pecan association to develop a pest control program that uses a naturally occurring pesticide called Bacillus Thuringiensis to control the pecan nut casebearer which is the number one insect threat to the state's pecan harvest.

Perry Opposes "Bullet" Train

Ag Commissioner Rick Perry has said that he is opposed to the high speed "bullet" train unless and until the Texas High Speed Rail Authority can address the specific needs of agriculture.

"I'm not opposed to progress," Perry said. "Progress is what made agriculture the second largest industry in Texas. Progress is what we support on issues like biotechnology, free and open economies, like new technologies that help us conserve water. But we need to prepare for change in a logical, orderly manner and not let it overwhelm us and put agriculture at risk."

Among Perry's concerns about the bullet train is that producers may not have reasonable access to all of their property if the route cuts across a farm or ranch. Unlike conventional railroads, the high-speed rail system will be fenced, permitting no crossing.

The rail corporation has proposed building short tunnels under the line so producers can get to both sides of their property, but they have said that money will limit the number of tunnels that can be built.

Coming To Terms With Term Limits

By JUDITH ZAFFRINI State Senator, Dist. 21

Dissatisfied with limiting terms by defeating ineffective officeholders with superior challengers, some Texans support mandatory term limitations. The issue is complex and too often is cast in a partisan mold.

Incumbency is a re-election advantage for most officeholders, but can be a devastating disadvantage for those with ineffective or negative records. According to a January, 1992, article by Kenneth Jost in "CQ Researcher," today's lawmakers serve longer and win re-election more consistently, though legislatures and Congress as a whole rate lower in the polls.

The rationale for this superficial contradiction is that citizens tend to dislike elected bodies in general, but simultaneously favor and support their own elected officials.

Limiting terms is not a new idea. It was included in the Article of Confederation in 1781, but not mentioned in the U. S. Constitution adopted in 1787.

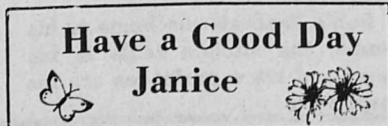

Contemporary debate focuses on limiting terms for officeholders at statewide, district and county/city levels. Some Texans favor limiting the total number of years in elected office while others prefer limited terms only for selected statewide offices and members of the U. S. Congress and Texas Legislature.

Limiting terms for offices without limiting the total number of years of service, however, could allow some officials to move from one level of elected office to another, while precluding others from serving the same number of years in one office.

Proponents argue that term limits are needed to increase competitiveness in elections because challengers cannot dislodge well-known, well-financed and well-organized officeholders; to improve the performance of public officials; and to elect more citizen representatives, rather than career politicians.

Opponents argue that term limitations would restrict voters' rights to re-elect officeholders by majority vote; destroy the ballot box as the most powerful means of limiting terms of ineffective officials; and preclude districts from enjoying the benefits of seniority, while strengthening the impact, influence and power of long-serving staff and the proverbial bureaucrats.

Several legislators plan to introduce term limitation bills when the Texas Legislature convenes in January. The debate promises to be lively and intense.

GLASS RECYCLING HITS ALL-TIME HIGH: AMERICANS RECYCLE NEARLY ONE-THIRD OF ALL GLASS CONTAINERS

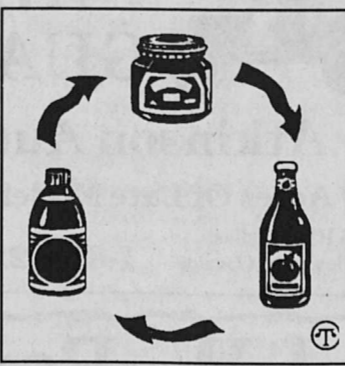

Americans are recycling nearly one-third of all glass containers they buy, according to the Glass Packaging Institute (GPI). The 31% recycling rate for 1991 exceeds the EPA's 1992 goal of 25%.

This means that 31 percent of glass containers are being collected and recycled into new bottles or other valuable products such as glassphalt (a substitute for asphalt).

Glass containers are an important part of the 3,500 curbside recycling programs nationwide and the glass container industry is working hard to create more opportunities for consumers to recycle. In the last six years, GPI has spent more than 60 percent of its budget to assist the development and implementation of local recycling programs.

And it's working. Despite a decrease in the number of glass container plants in the US (currently there are 76), the purchase of cullet (used or broken glass) has increased by 82 percent over the last five years. Consumers can help recycling efforts by doing these very simple but important things:

- Lightly rinse containers after use
- Sort bottles by color whenever possible
- Remove metal lids from bottles and jars before placing them in the recycling bin
- Don't mix ceramic mugs or stemware with containers

To recycle glass containers, rinse, remove lids and sort the glass by color when possible.

Consumers can help glass recycling and the environment by buying products packaged in 100 percent recyclable glass rather than in difficult-to-recycle packaging. When stores don't carry your favorite brands in glass, ask the store manager to start doing so.

To find out more about local glass recycling programs, contact your local city or county department of recycling or solid waste.

Working together, consumers and the glass industry can continue to increase the number of glass containers being recycled and help to save the environment.

Natasha's Stars

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You peak early in the week — not exactly a problem, but you may be taking a lot for granted. Great things are afoot this weekend. Just be THERE.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) As of midweek, you are into your first of three testings this year. If the next few weeks are easy, you'll be okay. If there are some hassles, then make those needed adjustments.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You're so good at those crazy moments, you get to prove it again. The highs and lows that you explore in the next few days are enough to drive anyone else nuts. You peak just in time for the weekend.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) One thing you can count on is being noticed this week. You reap your karmic dues at work. You hit the bull's-eye socially, and need to vanish (desperately!) for the weekend. You need the R & R.

LEO (July 23-August 22) You pull out of the doldrums this week and feel much better than you have in a long, long time. An important call or piece of news comes your way, and makes a very big difference. Count on celebrations all weekend long. You deserve this one — go for it!!!

VIRGO (August 23-September 22) You are unusually intense and mysterious this week, as you register what it is you have created. One-to-one relating marks the week, as you look for that elusive answer. You are a force to be dealt with this weekend, as you wow your immediate world.

LIBRA (September 23-October 22) Count on one thing: you're not in the driver's seat. Open up to changes and do a better job listening to a friend's advice. You'll open up to more opportunities, if you let go and move on. Follow a dream this weekend, and you may walk on clouds for quite a while.

SCORPIO (October 23-November 21) Once more, the planets decide to test and challenge. What's being said is obvious: stop forcing issues and let go of what isn't working for you. This weekend, do some soul-searching.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22-December 21) You are a high roller in life this week, though do make sure to complete those details, if you really want this to work. Summer celebrations and heated romance could make this a sizzling next few weeks. Work on when to take off and when to hang in.

CAPRICORN (December 22-January 19) Important decisions need to be made. Talks with a loved one bring interesting news to the forefront. Some of you will simply give in to the heated winds of summer and let everything else take care of itself.

AQUARIUS (January 20-February 18) You may need to make the first move, if you really care. Initiate change and make it happen your way. The real question is, do you really want this? Allow yourself to open up to the lighter side of life as the week progresses.

PISCES (February 19-March 20) Get past a money matter. Call a halt to spending, and find other ways of really enjoying yourself. The drums beat all week with news, gossip and information. Spend a quiet weekend at home, with only the friends you choose to be with. You need some down time.
