Freeze Expected Early Wednesday

A howling norther ushered in the month of November in the Bovina area Tuesday, bringing the threat of the first freezing weather of the season.

October closed out on a pleasant note. The past month has been one of the most mild Octobers in recent years, making the harvest go extremely smooth. The corn harvest was finished up at an early date.

Cotton farmers have had to defoliate in order to gather their crop up until now, unless they wanted to wait for the freeze to kill the leaves and stalks. It was the first time in a number of years that cotton folks were actually wishing for a freeze, but such has been the case.

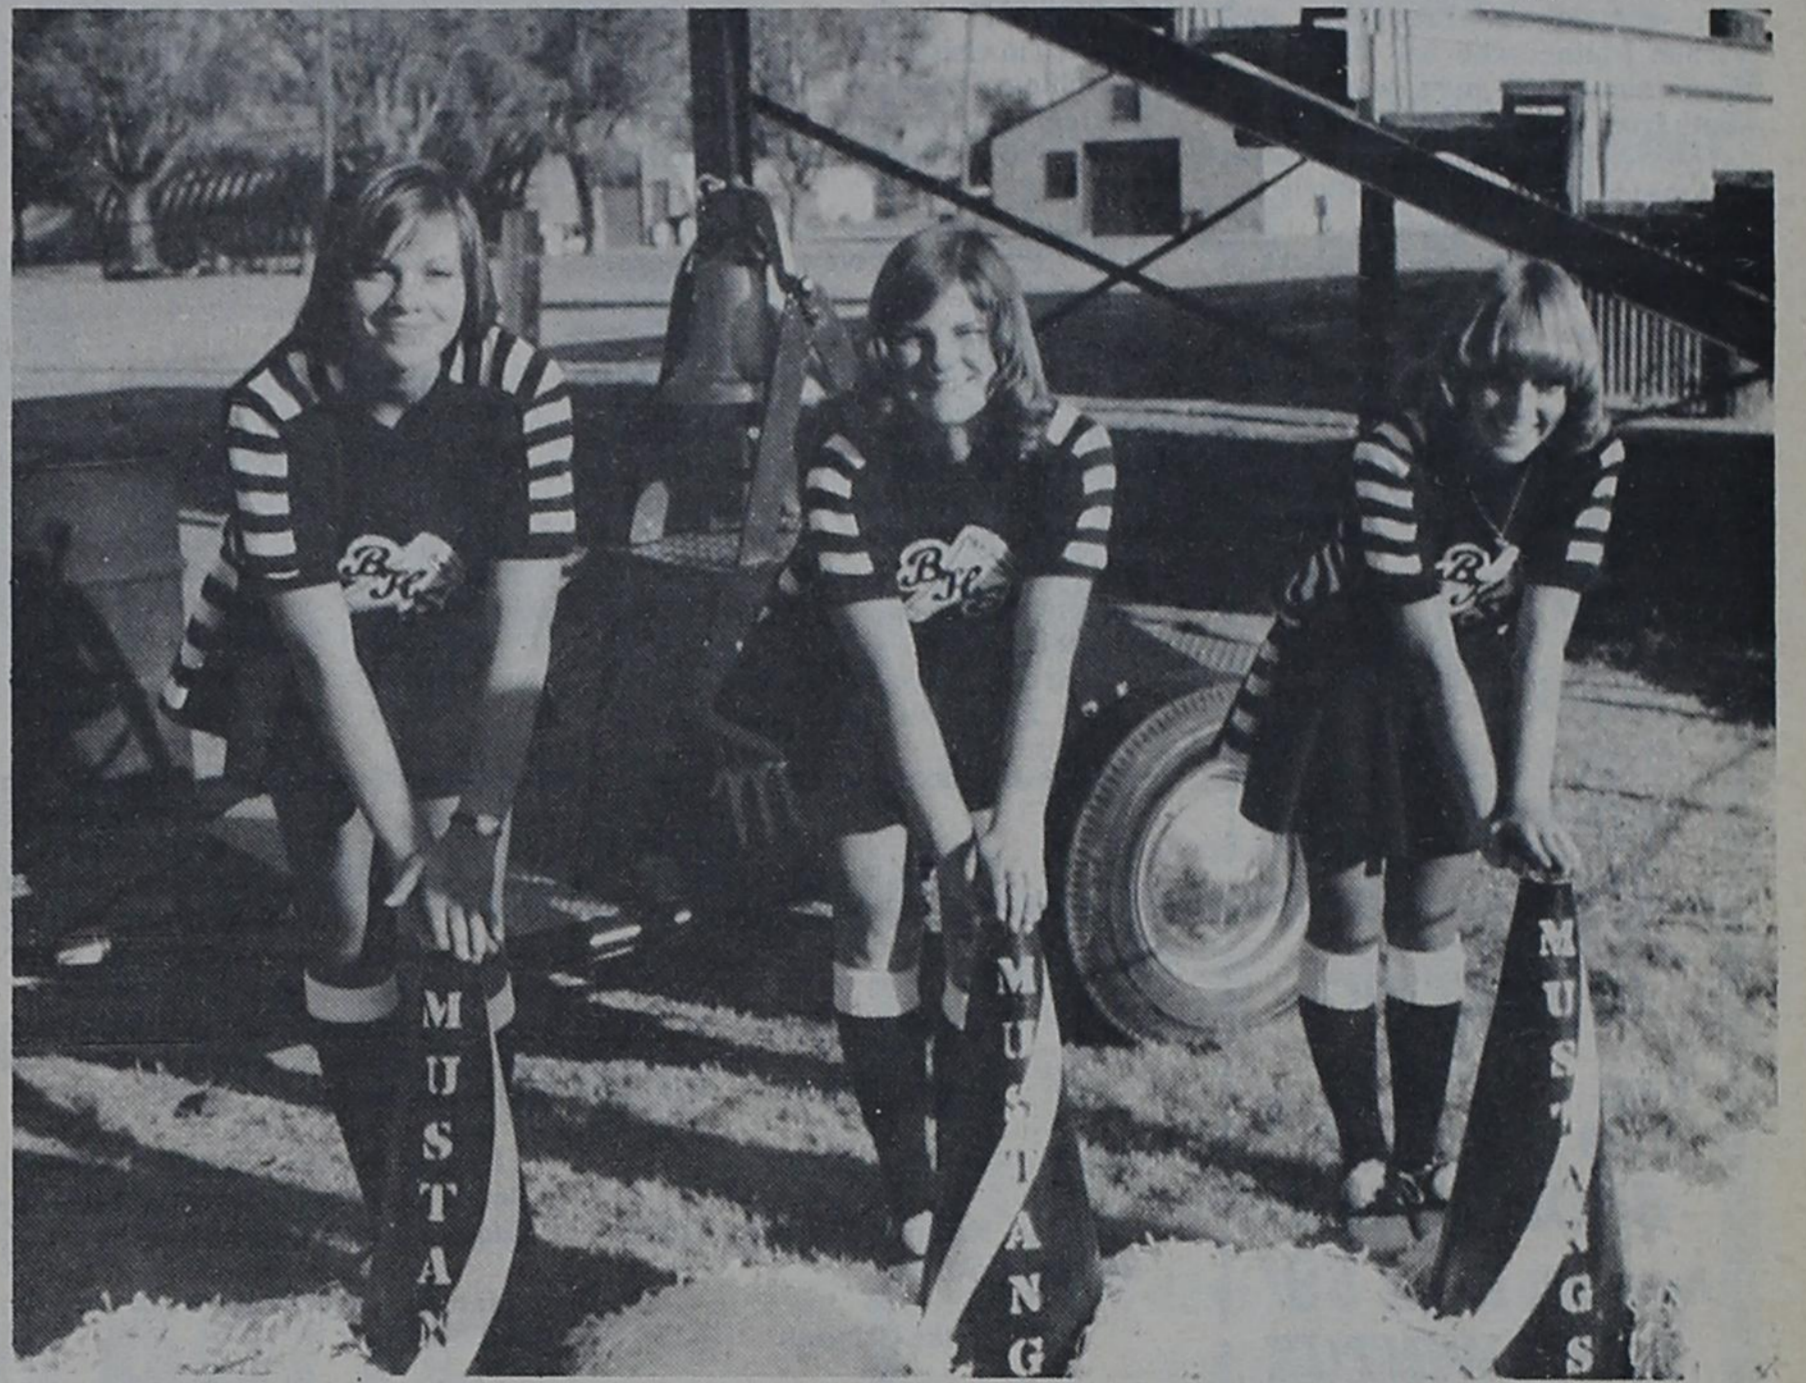

Winds were clocked at over 40 miles per hour here Tuesday, which hampered outdoor activity, and stalled the stripping of cotton for the most part.

Clouds pushed ahead of the arctic cold front threatened to bring moisture, although no measurable moisture had been received as of the Blade's printing deadline.

Everyone except for those farmers with cotton to strip would welcome some moisture, as October bowed out with only 1.1 inches measured by the official weather recorder, Greg Hromas, this coming in a shower on October 5.

A freeze was being predicted by weather forecasters for the early morning hours of Wednesday, and if Tuesday's weather was any indication, their prediction seemed in order.

After a low of 40 degrees on Tuesday morning, the mercury had climbed to only 52 degrees by 3 p.m. and the steady north wind pushed the chill factor into the teens.

Catholic's Will Host Turkey Dinner Sunday

St. Ann's Catholic Church is sponsoring its Annual Turkey and Trimmings Dinner on Sunday, Nov. 6, from 11:30 a.m. till 2 p.m.

The dinner menu will include turkey and dressing, homemade cole slaw, home-canned green beans, cranberry sauce, mashed potatoes and gravy, chocolate and pumpkin cakes and coffee or tea.

Donations will be $2.50 per adult plate and $1.50 for children under 10. Door prizes will be awarded. The dinner will be served at St. Ann's Parish Hall on Third Street.

Disaster Loans Are Available

Congressman George Mahon announced this week that the U.S. Department of Agriculture has declared Parmer County a disaster area due to devastating hailstorms and the drought.

Farmers will be eligible for loans up to $250,000 to offset actual loss at three per cent interest, and additional loss above $250,000 will be available at five per cent interest, the congressman's spokesman said.

bales of cotton had been ginned in Parmer County as of Tuesday, November 1.

CUMPTON LEADS

Rodriguez Named Week's Champion

The eighth week of the Bovina Businesses Football Contest has witnessed the continuation of enthusiasm and a sustained high percentage of scores running from 11 points upward.

In spite of the head-scratching and tongue-between-teeth efforts involved in choosing our games for the week, the contestants shrug it off and make it look easy.

The only spine-tingler in the five schoolboy contest picks was Tulla's 18-17 squeaker over Lockney. The other four winners enjoyed a wide supremacy over their opponents, ranging from Lazbuddle's 49-point margin against Silvertown to the 30-point difference between Vega-Farwell and Dumas-Canyon.

Dumas was a six-point underdog, according to the Harris Rating System, but the Demons paid no attention to that lowly status and scored in every period to romp over the stunned Canyon Eagles, 36-6.

In the Colorado-Missouri tussle, only 16 of 130 contestants figured Missouri to beat Colorado. The Tigers rallied from a 14-0 first-quarter deficit to pull out a 24-14 decision over the Buffaloes.

On the other hand, the great majority were rewarded for their loyalty when WTSU defeated the Indiana State Sycamores, 31-20. The victory gives the Buffs a 3-1 record in the MVC and a share of the conference lead. This is the first year for Indiana State to participate in the Missouri Valley Conference.

Three of the five pro games were close affairs, with Baltimore and Oakland enjoying what appeared to be fairly easy afternoons against Pittsburgh and Denver, respectively.

Cincinnati's Bengals were forced into overtime before prevailing, 13-10, over the Houston Oilers.

Our worthy sooth-sayer is going to claim a moral victory on the admittedly slim excuse that no contestant was able to come up with 14 points.

Nick Rodriguez was knocking on the door but had to settle for 13 points and the $7.50 first prize when he chose Colorado over Missouri for his one mistake.

Seventeen entrants scored 12 points each. The tie-breaker was used to determine the second and third-place finishers, based on the actual score of 19-7 for the Bovina-Kress game.

Mike Grissom's prediction was 19-6, one point off, and he receives $5.00 for his second-place award.

Allen Cumpton, last week's champion with a score of 14, thought it would be 21-6, and Ronnie Wines was convinced the score would be 22-7. They were 3 points wide of the mark and shared the $3 prize with $1.50 each.

The other 14 competitors with 12 points and their predictions: Dixie Carson, 12-30 (16); Donna Grissom, 6-28 (10); Frances Johnson, 6-27 (9); Monty Malcom, Canyon, 6-33 (15); Jacque Nabers, 22-20 (16); Joel Nelson, 14-13 (13); Denise Read, 16-8 (20).

Also, Joyce Read, 6-36 (18); Mike Read, 30-6 (36); Mona Smith, 7-14 (5); Kent Stanberry, 0-30 (18); George Villarreal, 12-34 (20); Opal Wines, 7-15 (4), and first-time player Sandi Sides, 0-30 (18).

Allen Cumpton, with 88 points, continues to lead the parade. Joel Nelson is a tenacious opponent, running second with 85, and Jeanne Kerby is a close third, holding 84 points.

Far from being out of it are four more equally worthy opponents: Jacque Nabers, Emmett Tabor and Ronnie D. Wines, 83, and Mike Grissom, 82.

Standing by, ready to take advantage of any faltering, is a group of 10 showing 81 and 80 points.

Elsewhere in this issue is a list of contestants having from 60 to 88 points.

Special Election Slated Here Nov. 8

The special election to fill the vacancy in the state senate, along with the constitutional amendment election, will be held next Tuesday, November 8.

The polling places will be at the regular sites for the county's eight precincts. Bovina voters will vote at the American Legion Hall. Voting period will be between 7 a.m. and 7 p.m.

Absentee voting for the special election will end on Friday in County Clerk Bonnie Warren's office.

Jay Sherrill will serve as election judge in Bovina, assisted by Marie Venable.

Ordinarily, the off-year election would feature only the proposed constitutional amendments. However, this year's election is spiced up with the ballot to choose a replacement for State Senator Max Sherman, who has accepted the position as president of West Texas State University.

Five names are on the ballot, and although there are three Democrats and two Republicans, all are listed on the same ballot. If no one of the five candidates receives a majority of the votes cast, the top two candidates, regardless of party affiliation, will meet in a runoff election a month later.

The five names on the ballot, according to the other in which they will be listed in Parmer County, are Bob Simpson, Democrat; Burk Whittenburg, Democrat; Bob Price, Republican; Mel Phillips, Democrat and Jim Brandon, Republican.

There is also a space for write-in candidates. Simpson is presently a member of the Texas House of Representatives, from the Amarillo area. Price is a former U.S. Congressman. Brandon is a former member of the board of regents of Amarillo College and is an attorney and certified public accountant.

Phillips is a real estate developer and also has farming interests. Whittenburg is an Amarillo attorney.

"WIFE" GROUP

Officials Attend Meet

The national WIFE (Women Involved In Farm Economics) convention was held in Sidney, Nebraska October 28-30. Erra Jamerson, president and Ellen Estes, spokeswoman for the Parmer County Assn., attended the meeting.

National officers were elected during the meeting. Several informative speakers were on the convention program. Among these were Virginia Smith, a congresswoman from Nebraska, who was also a farmer's wife, Howard Hjont, Economics advisor to the U.S. Department of Agriculture, and Frank LeRoux, a former official with the USDA.

LeRoux congratulated the women on the work they were doing in WIFE and said that he thought the organization's goal could be achieved if the wives could continue working at their task.

The speaker added that politicians are making mincemeat out of the farmers. He said that the best years for the farmer were during President Truman's administration, when parity (farm prices) was 104 per cent. It was 70 and 80 per cent during the Eisenhower, Kennedy and Nixon years, but has now dropped down to 63 per cent, LeRoux said, the lowest since the great depression of the 1930s.

"If the farmer could get 90 per cent parity guaranteed, it would eventually go to 100 per cent and above," said LeRoux.

"Fifty-one per cent of the cost of food goes to labor. The farmers in the United States have been subsidizing consumers in the US and in virtually every country in the world.

"President Carter has the power to give the farmer the parity he so desperately needs. You should stay on his back until he does," LeRoux added.

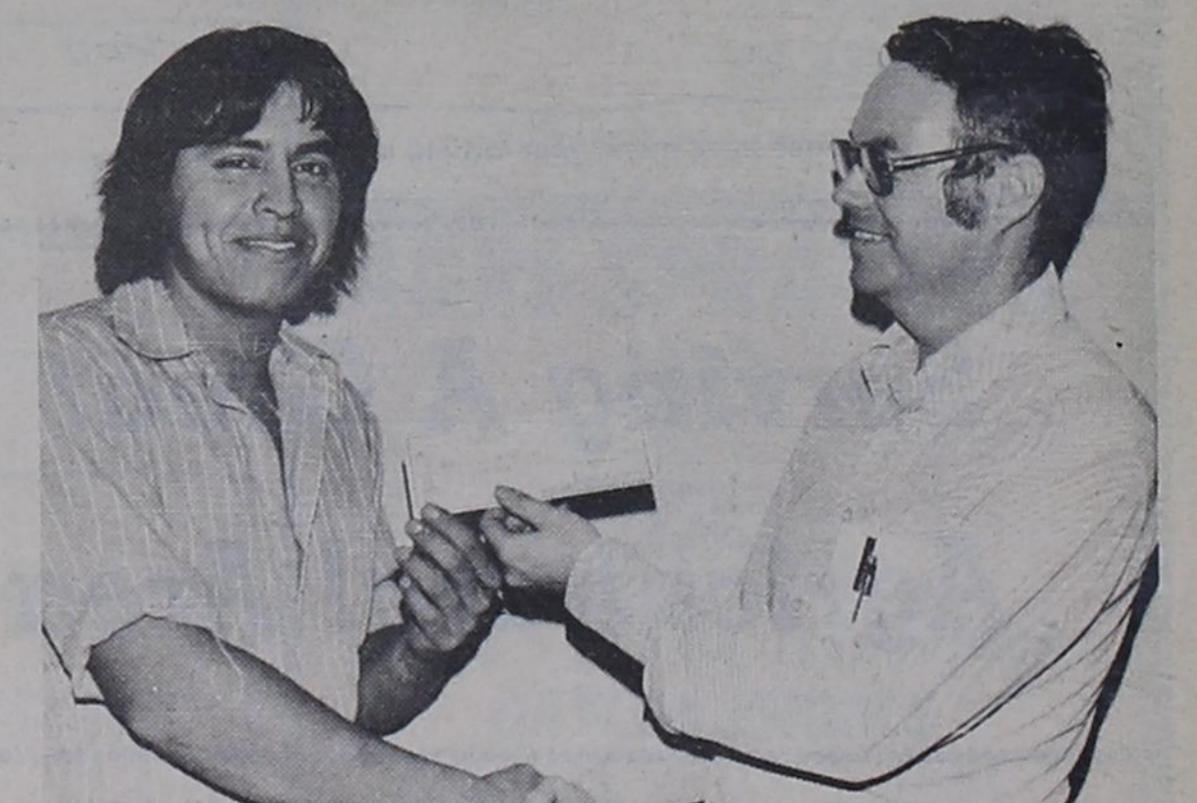

"They do not want men from the agricultural segment in key positions in government. That way they can treat agriculture the way they want to, and make the farmers sound bad," he concluded.

A number of states were represented at the meeting, including Texas, Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma, Wyoming, Colorado, Arizona, California, Washington and Montana.

"We learned a lot from the meeting, and after talking to women from other parts of the country, we realized that folks might actually be in worse shape than we are," said a spokesman for the local WIFE group.

Women who are interested in joining are urged to attend the next WIFE meeting, which will be at First State Bank in Bovina on Monday, November 21.

CALLS 13...Nick Rodriguez, left, is presented the first prize check for $7.50 by Blade publisher Bill Ellis. Rodriguez was the only contestant entering the eighth week of the contest to correctly pick thirteen games, and nalled down the first prize.

Baptist Laymen To Assist With Revival Nov. 13-20

An evangelistic team will be coming from Calvary Baptist Church of Tulia to First Baptist Church, Bovina, for a revival crusade November 13-20. The team will consist of Pastor Orville Rogers, who will do the preaching and Vernon Patton, who will direct the music along with men, women and youth from Calvary Baptist Church. The visitors will assist in visitation and many will share their Christian testimonies in the services.

rewarding time for both churches. This is an outgrowth of crusades in Central and South America sponsored by International Crusades.

In those crusades, teams from Texas and New Mexico went to churches in those countries and assisted in visitation, witnessing and preaching. The Bovina churches has participated, in such crusades in Mexico, Guatemala and El Salvador.

"This was the type of evangelism employed by the New Testament Church in the book of Acts," said a spokesman for the church.

A love offering will be taken as usual during the revival, but all funds will go to International Crusades to assist in the work in Central and South American countries. International Crusades is a non-profit organization created for the purpose of mass evangelization in foreign countries.

Saturday, November 19 will be Youth Emphasis and a group of youth from Tulia will be here Saturday afternoon for visitation and will participate in the services Saturday night.

The local church invites everyone in the community to join in the services at 11 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. Monday through Friday. Worship services on Sunday will be at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m.

Joyce Harbison, Charles Gilbreath United In Church Ceremony

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gilbreath

Miss Joyce Elaine Harbison and Charles Edward Gilbreath exchanged wedding vows at 8 p.m. Saturday, September 24, in the First Baptist Church of Bovina.

Cecil Bunch, minister of the Bovina Church of Christ, read the double ring vows before two seven-branch candelabras holding yellow tapers and entwined with yellow and white daisies, orange bridal roses and greenery.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Billy Harbison and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gilbreath, all of Bovina.

Miss Tamara Lambert of Bovina presented traditional wedding music. She accompanied Mrs. Mac Glasscock of Bovina, as she sang "Evergreen" and "The Wedding Song."

Presented in marriage by her father, the bride selected a formal white chantilly lace gown, fashioned with a scooped neckline edged with chantilly lace ruffles, and long Elizabethan lace sleeves. The full layered flounced skirt formed a chapel length train of chantilly lace.

The bride's elbow length three-tiered veil was edged in chantilly lace, and attached to a lace covered cap, dotted with seed pearls.

She carried a colonial bridal bouquet of yellow and white daisies, and yellow and orange bridal roses. The entire bouquet was accented with baby's breath and greenery.

Her bouquet was carried with a white Bible with a chantilly lace cover given to her by Mrs. Ovid Lawlis of Bovina.

For something old, the bride carried a hand-made handkerchief which belonged to her great-grandmother, the late Mrs. Laura Ann Carnes. Something new was her bridal gown and veil. Something borrowed was a strand of pearls belonging to Mrs. Ovid Lawlis of Bovina, which were also worn by her two sisters, and something blue was the traditional blue garter.

Mrs. Brenda Kirkpatrick of Bovina, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Mrs. Suzie Gillespie of Panhandle, Texas, was brides matron. The attendants wore formal length gowns of yellow dotted swiss print designed with full skirts and angel sleeves and yellow Southern Belle hats.

They carried small colonial arrangements of yellow and white daisies, accented with white baby's breath and greenery.

Mike Ware of Bovina served as best man. Randy Kirkpatrick of Bovina, was groomsman. Ushers were Bobby Englant and Jeff

He received the early promotion for his superior performance during all phases of the 11-week training cycle, which emphasized physical conditioning, self-discipline and teamwork.

A 1977 graduate of Bovina High School, he joined the Marine Corps in July of this year.

Hromas, both of Bovina.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Harbison selected a dress of mint green knit with matching jacket, with white accessories and a corsage of yellow and white daisies.

Mrs. Gilbreath selected a coral knit dress with white accessories and wore a corsage of yellow and white daisies.

The couple greeted guests at a reception in Fellowship Hall of the church.

The serving table was covered with a white chantilly lace cloth and centered with the bride's bouquet. The three-tiered wedding cake was iced in soft yellow, trimmed with yellow and white daisies and topped with wedding bells. Cake and yellow punch was served from silver and crystal appointments by Miss Debra Gilbreath, and Miss Diane Gilbreath, sisters of the groom, and Miss Trish Etheridge.

For a wedding trip to Carlsbad, New Mexico, the bride wore a brown and beige two-piece pant suit with matching accessories.

Chuck is employed at Charles Oil Company and the couple will reside at 608 Avenue E in Bovina.

THE WONDER OF WEATHER

In our search for the truth in the evolution-creation controversy we need to look at the wonder of weather. Most of us do not understand the complicated ins and outs of weather. All we know is that it rains, snows, blows, hails, etc. The mystery of weather should provide some interesting material for our discussion of Evolution and Creation.

The origin of weather has to boggle the mind just a bit. What causes clouds to form? There had to be a first cloud. The complexity of winds, moisture, temperatures and other factors necessary for the formation of a cloud had to be in existence for the first cloud to be formed. If the natural processes that created the first cloud were in existence, there is no reason why there could not have been clouds before the first cloud. Where did the wind come from? Where did the moisture come from? What makes the cloud float in the atmosphere? Clouds could not have been formed because of the need of any living creature, because man is the only living creature that has intelligence to do anything at all about his environment. If an animal needed water, it could not demand the clouds to appear. Man can't even do that! When did the water decide it needed to turn into gas so that clouds could be formed, so it could rain water?

The only explanation evolution can offer is that it just happened. Creation states that the clouds were formed along with everything else. Everything was created as a harmonious whole. Which theory offers the reasonable explanation?

At last the USDA is trying to do something about farmer-consumer relations. Carol Foreman, assistant secretary of agriculture for consumer affairs, said there is a concerted effort to get consumers to understand the problems of farmers — of drought, income and expenses involved in producing our food supply. She hopes to enroll consumers in an effort to raise the annual return farmers receive on their labor and investment. She said, "I am persuaded that our system can provide a decent income to farmers, fair return on investment to processors and retailers, good wages for workers and reasonable prices to consumers." That's really all the farmer — and the consumer — has asked all along. She said the department failed to find any conflict of interest between the farmers and consumers. The ends are the same.

MR. & MRS. CARROLL WEBB

Couple Relives Plane Crash

By JANU. TURNER

"I'm okay! I'm okay! Both my legs are broken, but I'm okay!"

Those were the first words of Dimmitt businessman Carroll Webb to his wife, Waldine, after a nightmarish escape from a blazing DC8 jetliner.

"He sounded cheerful!" marveled Mrs. Webb. "He must've been glad just to be alive," she added.

The Webbs were among 249 other travelers mostly from Texas and Oklahoma, aboard a chartered jet returning home from an eight-day vacation in Rome, sponsored by Bull Parts Co. in San Antonio.

The Capitol International Airways jet made a refueling stop at Shannon, Ireland, shortly before midnight, Oct. 7, on the last leg of its flight home to New York.

"We had about an hour at Shannon," Webb said, "and we went into the shops at the airport. They rushed us back onto the plane because if we didn't get off the ground in 20 minutes we would have to stay for hours because of FAA regulations," Webb explained.

"We were taxiing to the runway when we heard something pop...it was awful loud and all the passengers commented on it," he said, adding, "FAA later told us the pilot was unable to hear it, and that the noise was a blowout in one of the tires."

"The pilot pulled onto the runway and stopped, and I thought he was gonna see what the noise was, but he started taking off," Webb said. "My wife and I were seated over the wings in the aisle seats across from one another, and we could feel excessive vibration...the FAA told us the wheel came off...and we could see sparks flying. A metal fragment sheared off the wheel and punctured the 5000-gallon fuel tank on the right side of the plane, causing it to rupture."

"A fella sitting about two seats behind us shouted, 'We're on fire', and I looked over my shoulder at the right wing and saw the flames," Webb said.

Mrs. Webb commented, "That was one of the worst moments for me when I looked out the window and saw those flames."

Webb continued, "The pilot must've realized something was wrong and he threw the engines into reverse and put on the brakes. We later learned we were three seconds from lift off. My worry was he wasn't going to have enough runway to stop...at 170 m.p.h. it takes a lot to stop that silly thing."

"I was looking out the window to see the end of the runway....I kept thinking he was gonna go through a fence or something and it was gonna be curtains," he stated, adding, "I didn't know it then, but the Concorde lands at that airport and it has an extra long runway."

"We stopped about 100 yards from the end, and the stewardesses kept running through saying, 'Don't panic, don't panic'. I was trying to open one of the emergency exits over the left wing which was jammed, and a fella came by and pushed me out of the way, saying, 'Let me try'. I grabbed my wife's hand and we went out the exit over the right wing since there weren't many people going out that side because of the fire," Webb said.

"We climbed out onto the wing, and the flames behind us were about 30 or 40 feet high. There were other people jumping off the high edge of the wing and running away like they weren't hurt. I looked down and it didn't look too far...it was about 20 feet, I imagine," he said.

"I jumped off and broke my legs and hollered back to my wife, 'Don't jump! It's too far!'"

Mrs. Webb added, "I was glad when he told me not to jump. I didn't want to...it looked too high...but I guess I was going to because I already threw my jacket down and it seemed to be the only plan."

She laughed, "I say I always wait for my husband to tell me what to do!"

"I went back into the plane and the crowd was gone," she said with a trace of the surprise she felt at the time still lingering. "I went forward to go down the chute, but a stewardess was helping a half-blind old man in the chute on the right side where Carroll was, and I had to go down the chute on the left side. I looked at the chute and thought, 'This is easy!', and I hit the ground running. I wanted to go to Carroll, but I would have had to go underneath the jet, and at the time the only thing to do seemed to be to join the crowd in the grass on the left side of the runway."

She added, "Some people have said they wouldn't have left their husband, but you never know what you're going to do at a time like that."

"I found a crew member...the flight engineer...and pleaded with him to go with me to find my husband....Carroll had already been dragged to the other side of the runway, and the man willingly went with me to find him," she said. Webb added, "The next thing I remember is my wife walking up to me."

"Then, the same stewardess that helped the man on the plane joined us, and stayed with us. She was so nice and took a personal interest in us. She was the one who called home from Ireland for us," Mrs. Webb added.

Webb was painfully injured in the jump. Upon impact, one of the bones in his left leg fractured and punctured the side of his western style leather boot. The heel in his right foot was crushed. His left ankle was also broken.

Describing the moments following the jump from the flaming wing, Webb said, "When I looked back, fuel was pouring off like a waterfall for 10 or 12 feet along the back of the wing, and the fuel on the ground was on fire too. I started crawling on my hands and knees until my knees got to hurting so bad I couldn't crawl, and then I laid down and rolled like a barrel. Two men came and got on each arm and dragged me into the grass on the right side of the runway."

Webb told that firetrucks reached the scene very shortly and extinguished the fire before the plane could blow up.

Webb said it took only 90 seconds to evacuate the plane, explaining that no one seemed to panic.

Of the 249 passengers and 11 crew members, 36 were injured: 12 seriously enough to require hospitalization at nearby Limerick. Webb was hospitalized for six days with both legs in casts to the knees. "When I felt my ankle, it felt like a sack of ice cubes," Webb said, describing his crushed ankle.

He added, "Most of the injuries were broken bones: legs, arms, feet, hip," he said, "The the worst injury was a woman who suffered a crushed pelvis."

The hospital at Limerick was Webb's first encounter with socialized medicine, which is free. He was highly complimentary of the staff, but said the building and equipment were antiquated. "Like a lot of our hospitals here 30 or 40 years ago. Socialized medicine is probably why they don't have better facilities."

The Webbs returned to their home in Dimmitt Oct. 8, and Webb has had surgery on his legs since then at Methodist Hospital at Lubbock. He was released to go home Monday, and since then has been deluged with friends and telephone calls.

"We needed that," smiled Mrs. Webb. "Especially me, after those six days at the hospital in Ireland." "Going through something like that changes your values," Webb said as he carefully readjusted one of his bandaged legs on the sofa. "Things I took for granted before, such as people's concern, are a lot more important than they were before. And I used to think that I was indispensable and the store (Dimmitt Equipment Co.) couldn't get along without me, but it got along pretty good," he said with a smile.

"I can't say exactly how...I just feel differently about different things," he said.

Mrs. Webb added with her face alight, "Carroll didn't mention it, but one of the greatest reasons we're happy to be alive and home is because our daughter, Diane, is going to have a baby in December, and it will be our first grandchild!" "Carroll's comment about his legs the wing of a firey jetliner. His wife, Waldine, was with him in the mishap as they were returning from a European holiday.

when I walked up to him after the accident seems to sum up his whole attitude about it," his wife said. "He hasn't complained at all, and has even gone down to the store every day this week." Webb smiled and grumbled, "I haven't missed a day of work from being sick in 15 to 18 years, and I'm not about to be tied down now!"

How many pivot companies tailor lease payments to crop prices?

A New Lease from Lindsay.

Lindsay's Zimmatic Crop Lease is a revolutionary leasing program. If you don't take a long, hard look at it, you'll be shortchanging yourself. The Zimmatic Crop Lease is unique in the industry. When you study this offer you'll see that Lindsay is ready to go the distance with you and share some of the same risks you face every year.

Here are the details:

- Term: 12 years
- Payment: Arrears
- Security Deposit: 5% of equipment cost
- Rate: Depends on corn price
- Option: Conversion to standard 10-year lease

Consider the features of the Zimmatic Crop Lease. First of all, if corn prices plunge, so does your lease payment. But also consider the low security deposit (lowest in the industry) and the fact that it's a 12-year lease (longest in the industry)... both features improve your cash flow each year of the lease. Your Zimmatic is out there raising your first year's crop before your first payment is due. And you'll be getting an annual interest payment on your security deposit to use as you wish. Whether you raise corn, alfalfa, wheat, sugar beets, potatoes, soybeans or whatever, the Zimmatic Crop Lease can work for you. Although the lease payment is based on the changing price of corn, Lindsay designed the program considering that over the long-term other crop prices generally fluctuate with corn. Come in and see us soon. When we put a pencil to this program, you'll see that no other center pivot irrigation company has a finance program that can compete with the Zimmatic Crop Lease.

THIS PROGRAM WILL BE ENDING SOON

A powerful and fast Kress Kangaroo team put a feather in their cap Friday when they outscored the Bovina Mustangs 19-7 in a District 3-A battle.

The Kangaroos picked up 329 total yards to 151 gained by the Mustangs, and dominated most of the game's playing time.

Kress scored their first TD on their second possession with 6:05 left in the first quarter when Eddie Gonzales went six yards to pay dirt. The PAT failed.

The Kangaroos recovered a Bovina fumble after the next kickoff but two plays later Pat Ware recovered a Kress fumble on the Bovina 41. Bovina was forced to kick the ball away, and Kress then marched 80 yards in 18 plays to score their second TD, taking up 6:46 of the second quarter during the drive. Eddie Johnson went five yards around right end to make the score 12-0. The try for extra again failed.

Kress again established a drive and drove to the Bovina 32, but Mustang Ruben Salazar picked off a Kress pass on the four yard line and returned it out to the 39. The first half ended with the Kangaroos leading 12-0.

In the third quarter the Mustangs mounted a threatening drive with Salazar in the quarterback position, carrying nine times out of 16. The Kangaroos stopped the drive with 2:15 left in the quarter when Johnson picked off a Bovina pass, on the Kress 36.

Seven plays later Johnson caught a pass from Benny Durham for a 39 yard TD, then Durham added the PAT kick to make the score 19-0.

The Mustangs came back and went 63 yards in 12 plays, and scored when Salazar bootlegged around left end four yards for a TD. David Murphy added the point after kick, and with 7:42 left in the game Kress lead had been trimmed to 19-7.

But Kress was able to run out the clock in a long drive after the Mustangs had to punt on their next possession although Salazar intercepted a Kress pass on the four yard line and ran it back to the 39.

Salazar carried the ball 22 times in the game but was sacked six times, and only gained 48 net yards for the night. David Murphy led the rushing with 51 yards in seven carries.

Gerald Shelby had 32 yards in seven rushes and Doug Roming had 20 in seven. The Mustangs did not complete a pass in the game while Kress did well in the air.

Bovina will meet tough Vega Friday night at Vega. It will be the next to the last game for Bovina, as they will meet Hart November 11 at Mustang Field.

Anniversary Noted Here By Churches

Monday, November 7, will mark three years that the Community of Bovina has held monthly Prayer Breakfasts for Christian men, hosted by local churches on a rotation basis.

The breakfasts are free and there are no collections or dues. The programs are run by laymen of the respective churches and begin at 6:30 on the first Monday of each month.

Even with harvest periods and other slack times, the event has continued in popularity.

This month's Prayer Breakfast will be hosted by Catholic laymen at St. Ann's Parish Hall, Monday, November 7 at 6:30 a.m. As usual, all Christian men in the community are invited to attend.

Kids Have Fun With Carnival

A total of 65 youngsters attended the fall carnival hosted by the Children's Adventure Hour at First Baptist Church on Monday.

"The kids had to know their Bible in order to participate in the games," said a spokesman for the Adventure Hour.

For example, in order to toss a bean bag, they had to name one of Jesus' disciples. Before being allowed to bob for apples, they had to answer an Old Testament question. Before making the basketball toss, they were asked to name a New Testament book.

To play Tic-Tac-Toe, the children were asked to sing a hymn. In order to enter the ice cream toss, they were required to answer a question from the New Testament. To have a chance at the grab bag, kids were asked to pray for the missionaries on their birthdays.

The children also made a big "get well card" for Allan Noyes.

Refreshments of ghost cookies and orange Kool Aid were served.

The heat pump

"THE ELECTRIC SAVINGS MACHINE"

HOW MUCH HEAT DOES THE HEAT PUMP PUMP?

Neither glacial January winds nor a simmering August sun can affect the heat pump's year 'round circulation of air, at just the right temperature.

Now you can stop fussing with the thermostat on those in-between days, too. The heat pump is an automatic climate control system that switches from heating to cooling to maintain the precise temperature you want. On very cold days, resistance heating coils (installed with the heat pump) automatically supplement the heat extracted from outside air. THE HEAT PUMP IS AN ELECTRIC SAVINGS MACHINE... LOW ON COST, HIGH ON COMFORT!
