Lindeman, Barlow retire Drug education is still important

Bill Lindeman and Cordelia Barlow were honored at a luncheon held by co-workers and Kinney County elected officials, on Thursday, December 14, at the Kinney County Civic Center. Lindeman retires as Kinney County Constable and Barlow retires as Kinney County Auditor on December 31.

Lindeman was appointed as Constable in 1990 to fill an unexpired term. He ran successfully for two terms as Constable.

On January 1, 2001, he will become a reserve deputy under Sheriff Burgess. He will be working security for the J.K. Burr ranch which is south of Spofford.

Lindeman started his career as a constable in Hays County on January 1, 1956. He became a state game warden on June 15, 1959, and served in and around Kinney County. He retired on July 31, 1989, after serving over 30 years. He then worked as a non-salaried deputy under Sheriff Norman Hooten.

This January will mark 44

years in law enforcement for Lindeman.

He and his wife Ava have made Brackettville their home for many years.

Barlow was appointed to her position as County Auditor on January 17, 1992, to fill the unexpired term of Bettye Deason. She was appointed by the District Judge.

Before her appointment, she worked for Dolores Roney in the County Clerk's office. She had worked there since December of 1989.

Barlow was born at the Fort Clark hospital while her father was stationed there as a Master Sergeant. The same doctor who delivered Barlow also delivered her first son in a San Antonio hospital.

She has not made any post-retirement plans as of now, except to visit her children who live in Washington, New Hampshire and here in Brackettville. Barlow has three sons and several grandchildren.

Making A Difference By Taylor Stephenson

Happy New Year, 2001! It has been a very good year for our community. A year ago, we ushered in the new millennium, 2000. In that year, the economy has flourished nationally. In our own community, though the summer was dry, we have had good winter moisture. Kinney County folks end the year as we began the last one, happy to be living in Texas.

I have seen tremendous progress made in our town and county. Government seems to be stable, secure and progressively addressing problems. In our school system, we had a banner year and we continue to work to maintain and improve on those accomplishments. We have fine teachers and kids. We have a caring school board and administration that work daily to make things better.

In our country, we need to unite behind our new president.

America is far more important than any political party. When the aggrandizement of the party becomes our goal, we need to reflect and to change. The election is over, and it's time to change the guard. Have a great 4 years, George W. Bush!

Though we do things well locally, some of our young ones still look for answers through drugs. There are adults and a few young ones who can't do anything else but take advantage of the weaknesses of others. It's time that we address this problem. Parents can begin by knowing who their children are with and what they are doing. The next step will be easy.

We need to have more drug education in the schools. Law enforcement should find out who is selling and take care of the problem. We can do better! There are many of us community members, parents, teachers, law enforcement (including Border Patrol & DEA) who want this mess stopped. We are a caring community members. None of us accepts the status quo on this problem. What about it? Let's make Kinney County a community that the druggies pass through on their way to a place that tolerates abuse and selling of drugs. It's time that we work together to solve the problem of drug abuse in our community.

All year long, I have used the slogan regarding Brackett ISD, "A Place Where Winners Go!" We have had tremendous success with academics and extracurricular activities this past year. I want to see this focus continue. We need to believe in ourselves so we can continue to be winners.

I suggest another goal for Fort Clark Springs to try to work together to solve problems. It's the best place to live in the world, but unfortunately we have allowed negative thinkers to prevail. I believe that those folks need to find a life and should try to do something positive to help make things better. There are many who do this, but the few sour ones make life difficult for all of us. I hope that the board and management of Fort Clark will begin to find ways to promote Fort Clark Springs as they work for fiscal solvency. There are too many cooks in the kitchen.

I believe in this community. I plan to be here even after retirement. With all of our problems, we're far better off than whatever else is out there. Let's figure out how to solve the problems that I have identified (and those that I haven't) Then, let's work together each day to build a sense of community in all that are lucky enough to live in this fine community. Have a great week!

Crime: Something can be done

By Verlene Cheeseboro, Contributing Writer

The debate about parole has taken front stage in many communities as parolees continue to commit repeat offenses. As a retired state prison captain who spent two decades in the system, I feel that the problem is not the parole system but the prisons which do not rehabilitate criminals, and actually just create better ones.

With increasingly more heinous crimes hitting our headlines, crime victims, lawmakers and other citizens are taking a lock-them-up-and-throw-away-the-key stance. The basis of the current system is that if they can be punished enough, they will reform. With recidivism rates showing that two-thirds of inmates released are re-arrested within three years, it is clear that this thinking is flawed.

Author and humanitarian L. Ron Hubbard, whose methods are used in criminal reform programs around the world, wrote in 1938 that "the individual man thinks of a cell simply as a place where the criminal will be held incommunicado until he is finally reborn. It rarely occurs to this individual man that he is actually fostering the practice of placing this one criminal in the society of criminals." I have seen this as experienced, older inmates eagerly share their criminal expertise with first time offenders entering the prison system, resulting in a more knowledgeable criminal.

Hubbard saw that the key to reforming criminals was "establishment of the criminal's self respect." Education is the first step toward helping inmates regain their self respect as 69% of inmates nationally cannot read or write. Studies and statistics also show that those inmates who managed to get their education in jail do not return to prison. They are now employable and have the basic skills they need to survive legitimately. Many corrections educational programs have been cut back. Instead of skills that can rehabilitate, in the current system prisoners are learning new ways to commit crime, and are then released into the community worse than ever. According to U.S. News and World Report, 95% of inmates will re-enter our communities.

Addressing illiteracy in our prisons will bring about a lower recidivism rate and greater parole successes.

Cheaney explains Christmas traditions to Brackettville Rotarians

The Brackettville Rotary Club held its annual celebration of Christmas during its luncheon meeting at Fort Clark's restaurant on December 21. Ruby Cheaney played Christmas music on the piano for the entertainment of the group during the social period before the meeting started, and she accompanied the singing during the program. December program chairman Frank Cheaney was the master of ceremonies for the observance, and gave a program dealing with the traditions of Christmas. Frank read the Christmas story from the Book of Luke, and was then joined by Taylor Stephenson and Michael Hall in singing the old favorite, "We Three Kings of Orient Are."

Frank spoke of the history of many of our Christmas traditions. He explained the origin of the traditions surrounding plants commonly associated with Christmas. The cross of Christ may have been made from a holly or "holly" tree, and the holly wreaths with their red berries represent the crown of thorns and Christ's blood shed for us all.

He also told of the origin of candy canes at Christmas. They were used by Christians in 17th century England at a time when the open celebration of Christmas was forbidden. The shape was meant to represent a shepherd's crook. The three small stripes represented the Father, Son and Holy Spirit, and the large stripe represented the life of Jesus that he gave for us. Another tradition he mentioned was the use of the Christmas card. Back in 1843, Englishman Henry Cole found himself too pressed for time to write his holiday greeting by hand - a custom of the day - so he hired a London artist to produce a card suitable for all the names on his list. He sent 1,000 cards that year (at a penny per card postage), and his idea became wildly popular. This year, Americans will send about three billion Christmas Cards.

Frank concluded his part of the program by telling the story of the writing of the beloved song "Silent Night" in 1818 by Father Joseph Mohr and organist Franz Gruber in the little town of Oberndorf bei Salzburg, Austria. Their church organ was out of order, so they wrote this little song to be sung by a children's choir at the Christmas Eve mass, with guitar accompaniment. The lovely song spread throughout the world and has been translated into many languages. Frank was joined by Michael Hall in singing the song in the original German. Frank then sang it in Spanish and in Hawaiian. He relented and didn't sing it in the other 65 languages into which it has been translated, but the entire group joined him in singing the song in English.

The club elected Michael Hall to be the Vice President/President Elect, to take office in July, 2001. He will be the President for the 2002 - 2003 year. The Reverend Ken Sellers, of First United Methodist Church, was approved for membership and will be inducted at today's meeting. The club has been without a member of the clergy since the passing of long-time Rotarian Brother Joe Townsend in February of this year.

We welcome Brother Ken to our group.

Record number of new agents sworn in at Del Rio Border Patrol Sector in 2000

Del Rio, Texas - During 2000 the Del Rio Sector processed a record 268 new agents. Recruiting efforts, in response to a congressional directive to put more Border Patrol agents in the field, resulted in a record number of applicants during the past year. Of the thousands of applicants, 268 met the high standards of the U.S. Border Patrol and were sworn in as trainees at the Del Rio Sector.

Community support for the new agents has been outstanding. Representatives of the various communities throughout the Del Rio Sector have welcomed the incoming agents and provided valuable information for relocating to their new duty stations.

The Eagle Pass Border Patrol Wives Club regularly meets with incoming classes as they are processed to offer advice and answer any questions of new agents assigned to the Eagle Pass Station. Also, the Del Rio Chamber of Commerce hosts a mixer welcoming each class of agents.

After being sworn in at the Del Rio Sector Headquarters, agents are sent to the Border Patrol Academies at Glynnco, Ga., and Charleston, S.C. for five months of intensive training. Training continues after the new agents report to their assigned duty stations.

The most recent additions to the Del Rio Sector's officer corps included a class of 15, who entered on duty on Dec. 4, and a class of 17 sworn in on Dec. 11.

Letters to the Editor Seeking our forefathers true intentions

Write if you care to know the truth

I guess by now everyone knows that I've been asked to register here. Something I didn't want to do, because my children live here.

Those that know me, know the truth. Those that know me and don't like me will have a good time with this. Those who don't know me and would like to see the truth, are welcome to write me. I will allow anyone to see the documents I have that shows my innocence.

I know that my friends, those who really know me, will never abandon me.

I pray, that those who will enjoy spreading this, will leave my children out of it.

Thank You

Clearing up any misunderstandings

There were a few errors in the Pearl Harbor report to the Rotary Club. Please don't blame Frances, either I didn't speak plain enough or her tape recorder garbled the message.

The other Fort Clark survivor is Bill Proctor, not Robert.

The Pennsylvania was not a supply ship, but the flagship of the Pacific Fleet.

The torpedoes were set at less than forty-five feet; the Helena's draft was only thirty-two feet.

The dive-bombers dropped bombs, not torpedoes.

Hopefully this will clear up any misunderstandings.

Sincerely,

U.S. Congressman, 23rd Dist.

Last week 538 electors from every state in the Union met in their respective state houses and cast their votes for president and vice president. George W. Bush and Dick Cheney received the necessary 270 electoral votes and will now become the next President and Vice President of the United States. This constitutional act finally marked the end of the 2000 presidential and federal election cycle.

The 2000 election cycle was the closest presidential election in American history. It also produced the first evenly divided Senate this century, while the House of Representatives provides neither party with an overwhelming majority. These results should clearly tell every elected official across the United States that bipartisanship and an ability to work for a common goal will be necessary to complete the work of Americans.

President elect Bush along with both Republican and Democratic candidates from all around the country campaigned on the issues of education, medicare, social security and tax reform. These priorities were included in many stump speeches and provide the new Congress and President elect Bush a good starting point for the next Congress and next presidency. It is

The Way I See It
By Steven R. LaMascuso

Just when I thought I had seen it all I stumble onto yet another abomination from the entertainment industry.

I was flipping through the channels the other night when I came across a so-called sitcom titled Son of the Beach. That started the alarms clanging so I decided to find out if what I suspected from the title was true. True to form, the morally bankrupt entertainment industry has again plunged down well past my lowest expectations.

This was the most blatantly vulgar exhibition of prime time sewage that I have ever seen. Because children read this paper I will not give you the details, but let it be said that this was pure filth, thinly disguised as comedy.

As I sit here I have in front of me a copy of the Amendments to the Constitution of the United States. The First Amendment says: "Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof, or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press; or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the government for a redress of grievances."

The raw sewage mentioned above is claimed by its defenders to be protected by the portion of that amendment which says, "or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press...." They claim that it is their right to produce and foist upon the American public such unadulterated swill, because it is their constitutional right as protected by "freedom of expression."

Now I admit I'm not too bright, but I have just read that amendment several times and I find nowhere in it any protection for freedom of expression. In fact that is absolutely not what was intended by the framers of the Constitution. What they intended was that the government could not, and would not make laws that regulated in any way the people's right to disagree publicly with that same government. They never meant to protect pornography and the other moral destroying garbage we are bombarded and besieged with on a daily basis.

Both the entertainment industry and the mainstream media rant and rave about their First Amendment Rights. They go berserk if there is the slightest attempt to establish any type of morally responsible control. They will accept no boundaries at all. However, let a person attempt to utter a public (religious) prayer (which is, you will notice, mentioned specifically before freedom of speech in the same amendment and was therefore, we may assume, of greater importance to the Founding Fathers), and they will scream and holler that such blatant public displays of intolerant hatred should be legislated.

I submit here that they can't have it both ways. Either the document says there can be no controls, or it doesn't. I concur that the press should be able to say anything they feel is necessary in opposition to decisions of the government. That is specifically guaranteed by the First Amendment. Freedom of expression, however, especially and specifically in the form of pornographic "entertainment," is not protected in any way and should be stringently controlled, if not banned entirely.

What we need is a true Supreme Court instead of the pale, insipid, pusillanimous, inferior imitation that is now seated in those hallowed halls. We need a Supreme Court that has the valor and fortitude to revisit and overturn all those wrong decisions made by their predecessors and return the true meaning to the Constitution of the United States.

We have allowed the Constitution to be liberally interpreted into oblivion. We now need to reverse that destructive trend. Then maybe the day will never come when we need to exercise the real reason for the inclusion of the Second Amendment to the Constitution.

Big Mama Sez!

Love is like the five loaves and two fishes. It doesn't start to multiply until you give it away.

The wild, wild Wes

But I could be wrong
By Chuck Hall

If you've read my ramblings for a while, you might recall an article relating an incident concerning my getting stuck in the river gravel about two years ago. I got stuck in almost exactly the same spot not too long ago. In educational circles, we have words for students who don't, or won't, learn from their mistakes. But, once again with the help of a friend, I got unstuck.

Maybe one day I'll learn better than to try to cross loose gravel. Maybe, but I doubt it.

After a week or so of not being able to get in to check on the livestock, I call a friend and asked if he could take me out in his 4-wheel drive truck. Getting stuck was just the first mistake.

Wes, I love you like a brother, but you're crazy. I used to classify you as adventuresome. Or perhaps bold and daring. You have now taken those words to a whole new level of meaning. I cannot adequately describe the trip that day. Wes needs to call his truck the "Enterprise" because it "boldly goes where no man has gone before."

I can state for an absolute fact that we went places where any goat in his right mind would have turned back. I know one of the things that created the rash spirit of adventure that day was the fact neither one of us wanted to be the first to admit being doubtful of being able to traverse uncharted ground. Next time, I'll freely admit my hesitancy and not let us act so foolhardy. But I could be wrong.

 Denial may create a negative attitude and keep you from moving forward-personally and professionally. Enjoy the simple pleasure of holiday music to help offset stress. Savor time with an elderly family member.

Taurus April 21-May21
 The dry spell in your social life may come to an end. Allow yourself to let go of things you can't control. Calm anxieties by going for a long walk. An unusual present could make you laugh long and hard.

Resolve to have "fat souls" next year Don't forget the reason for the season

Gateway Ministries, Inc.
By Pastor Charolette Corey

This holiday season we have been busy singing "Silent Night, Holy Night." It is important to carry with us into the New Year the peace of God and the holiness of God's presence.

As we set aside political arguments and forgive words that were spoken in the heat of the recent elections, we make sure that the new year is started with in the Spirit of Forgiveness. This starts in our own hearts with asking God to forgive us of our wrong thoughts and actions. It extends also to asking his forgiveness for not doing those things that the Holy Spirit was gently whispering for us to do. Remember, when you repent, God is quick to forgive so, also forgive yourself, even as God forgives you.

A new year gives you an opportunity to start fresh with relationships... relationships with your family, your friends, and most importantly, with God. Choosing to show your love and thankfulness to others is just the beginning. Choosing to learn how to love yourself is the difficult part. How can you "love your neighbor as yourself" (Luke 10:27) when you don't know how to love yourself? If you would fight for the rights of a friend, fight for the rights of your own soul (your mind, your will and your emotions). Forgive yourself and feed yourself upon God's word. Psalms 199:103 says "How sweet are thy words unto my taste! Yea, sweeter than honey to my mouth! and in Psalms 34:8 "O taste and see that the Lord is good: blessed is the man that trusteth in him."

This friend of yours, that is "you," is worth fighting for! You need to nourish yourself and encourage yourself in the things of God. Pig out on God! The taste is great! God loves "fat" souls, Proverbs 13:4 "The soul of the sluggard desireth and hath nothing; but the soul of the diligent shall be made fat." Prov. 28: 25 "He that is of a proud heart, stirreth up strife: but he that putteth his trust in the Lord shall be made fat." and Psalms 92:13 -14 "Those that will be planted in the house of the Lord shall flourish in the courts of our God. They shall still bring forth fruit in old age; they shall be fat and flourishing." and in Prov. 11:25 "The generous soul shall be made fat; and he that watereth shall also be watered himself." (We are talking about the soul, not being physically out of shape. OOOps!)

My prayer for you this year is that your soul be made "fat" and in the words of God in II John 1:3 "Grace be with you, mercy, and peace from God the Father, and from the Lord Jesus Christ, the son of the Father, in truth and love." Stand in faith, rest in hope, walk in love.

Holidays are a family celebration

St. Mary Magdalene
By Lynn McNew

Christmas is over. At least it is for some people. In my family, Christmas tends to last for several days or even weeks, as we exchange gifts and celebrate together with various family members. Whenever you celebrate, the important thing is family.

Luke's gospel reminds us that Jesus was part of a human family. In a story familiar to all of us, Mary and Joseph leave Jesus behind in Jerusalem, thinking He is elsewhere in the group of travelers. If you have ever lost a child in a store, you can well identify with the feelings going through the hearts and minds of Jesus' parents as they searched in vain for their Son.

I remember one time when my daughter wandered away from me in a fabric store. The tables full of standing bolts of fabric made it impossible to see very far and I can remember the fear in my heart as I frantically searched for her. And then the relief I felt when she appeared—I didn't know whether to hug her or spank her—I hope I hugged her!

So when Mary and Joseph finally retraced their steps and found Jesus in the temple, Mary's words, "Son, why have you done this to us? Your father and I have been looking for you with great anxiety," let us know that she could scold Him the same as any earthly mother. It reminds us that when Jesus became one of us, human, He entered into a web of relationships, of struggles, joys, and disappointments. He was like us in all things but sin.

The Sunday after Christmas is traditionally the Sunday set aside to celebrate the Holy Family. This celebration is a good reminder to us that we are part of an extended holy family through baptism. John tells us that we are beloved children of God—part of the Holy Family of our Father. To remain part of this holy family, we are asked to do two things: keep God's commandments and love one another.

where the scissors are. Whew! We can relax for a while!

But wait a minute! We aren't the "left-behinds" are we? And if we aren't, then shouldn't we still be expecting Jesus? And if we aren't expecting Jesus, are we letting down our "spiritual guard"? And if we get caught like this, won't we be sorry!

The economic Christmas is over, but our remembrance of "The Reason for the Season" shouldn't be. If there are any Christmas-and-Easter-only Christians reading this, let me tell you, God wants to talk with you more often than twice a year. In fact, God wants your ear every day and sometimes twice on Sunday. God enjoyed your visit to his house and now wants to be invited into yours. He will only stay as long as you let him. He will help you in your daily chores and with your daily struggles, if you ask him. He will counsel and give advice only when you ask. He will give love in return for anger, frustration, and misunderstanding.

And to think, you have only felt ready for God twice a year up till now. Or maybe one Sunday a month, or maybe twice some months. Is it time to consider a new arrangement with God? He has the time, do you?

We invite you to join us at First United Methodist Church Sunday at 10:45 am as we join together with other flawed and forgetful Christians and try to find God's Word for us in every day life!

May this upcoming, not-so-special season change your life for all eternity, just as the special one may have.

Live a fuller, happier life

Frontier Baptist Church
By David Crowe

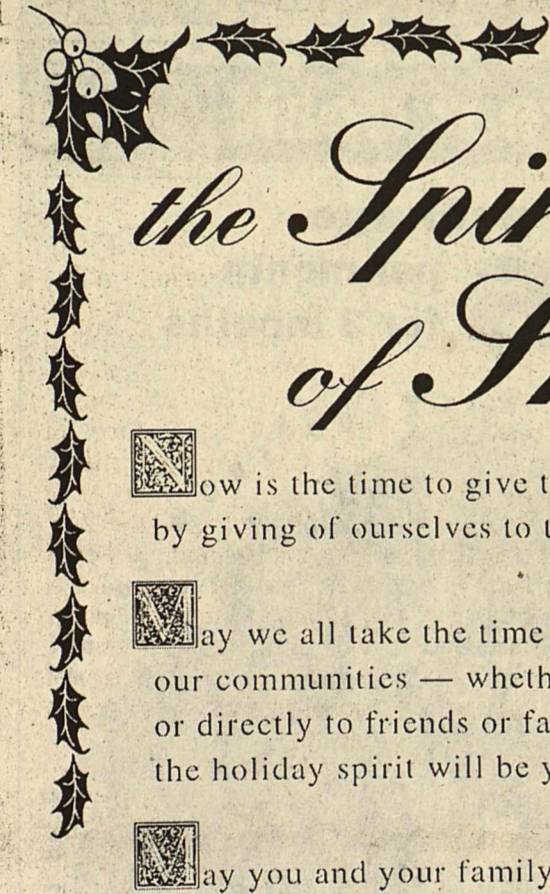

Are you who and what you would like to be? If so, great! If not, why not?

Are you living the life or the kind of life that you'd like? If so, again great! If not, why not? Do you have as many friends or the kind of friends that you'd like? If so, wonderful! If not, why not? Does your life have purpose, direction and meaning or are you just alive, but not really living? No one sees themselves as other people see them. Most people will be far more tolerant of you, than you will be with yourself. Want to change? Want to be better, do better? Be healthier? Be smarter?

There are hundreds of self-help books on the book shelves. You can learn a lot about yourself. What works and what doesn't. What's right and what's not, for you, for your life.

Saying to yourself, "I don't have the time, money or inclination to read a bunch of stupid books"? If not, great! If so, I have a suggestion for you, if you want answers for your problems, today! I dare you or anyone of reasonable intelligence to read the book of Job, with a totally open mind, and not learn a multitude of things, to help you live a fuller, healthier, happier life. Do it for you!

the Spirit of Sharing.

Now is the time to give thanks for the many blessings in our lives by giving of ourselves to those in need.

May we all take the time this season to find ways to contribute to our communities — whether it be through charitable organizations, or directly to friends or family members in need. Through giving, the holiday spirit will be yours.

May you and your family enjoy a safe and joyous holiday season.
