It is unreal the number of fires in our area. Monday night, the house my father built single-handed on our ranch land south of town, burned to the ground in a matter of minutes. In those few minutes, the Brackettville Volunteer Fire Fighters arrived at the scene, controlled the fire and remained for hours to put out the hot spots. Without this rapid response, the fire would have wiped out a lot more ranch land.

The BVFD is commended for their quick action and their professional knowledge of fire containment.

Thank you- Joe Luna, Leo Luna, Wes Robinson, Rudy Luna

My thanks to the Stan and Lisa Conoly for reporting the fire; Chuck and Connie Hall for giving access to the numerous gates; Bill, Stan & Zuehl Conoly for standing watch; and to Carla and Heather Green for driving me to the scene.

As sad as it was to lose the house, the response to the crisis left me with the feeling of security because of the professional handling of the fire by the volunteers.

Again, my thanks

Identity theft is big business. In fact, each year, billions of dollars that's billions, with a "b" - is lost to identity theft, according to the Federal Trade Commission (FTC). This cumulative figure may not mean that much to you, but if you are victimized for a few hundred dollars, it will be an upsetting and expensive experience. That's why you'll want to defend yourself against identity theft - and the best time to take action is before you are victimized. What can you do to protect yourself? Here are a few suggestions:

Secure your Social Security number. Identity thieves eagerly seek Social Security numbers - so don't give out yours to anyone who asks for it. In fact, as a general rule, be reluctant to give it out to anyone at all. Always ask whomever you're dealing with if they will accept another form of identification, or, at the very least, if they will take just the last four digits of your number. And never carry your Social Security card with you. · Shred credit card offers and bank statements. If you're not going to apply for the credit cards offered to you, shred the offers. Identity thieves have been known to rifle through garbage, fill out credit card offers and take advantage of them. At the same time, shred your bank and brokerage statements - and any other statement containing personal or financial information. · Study your credit card bills and checking account statecould be said chiropractic is commonly used conservative ments. You can eliminate many of those "pre-approved" credit card offers by calling 1-888-5OPTOUT (1-888-567-8688) and following the prompts. You can also greatly reduce the amount of advertising, catalogues and other mailings you receive by going on the Direct Marketing Association's web site (www.dmachoice.org) and following the "Remove My Name From Those Lists" link. Even after taking these steps, you could still run into identity theft. That's why you need to be alert for certain signs, such as the arrival of unexpected credit cards or account statements, denials of credit for no apparent reason, or calls or letters regarding purchases you didn't make. If any of these things. happen to you, you may want to place a "fraud alert" on your credit reports and review them carefully. To place a fraud alert, you just need to contact one of the three nationwide consumer reporting companies: Equifax - 1-800-525-6285; Experian 1-888-397-3742; or TransUnion -1-800-680-7289. Science is Alive and Jumping at Jones Elementary

Submitted by BISD

Funded by the Teacher Educator Excellence Grant, twelve Jones Elementary faculty members are currently sponsoring a 1-hour weekly science laboratory session for approximately 25 at-risk students in grades 4-6. Students will spend the semester exploring food webs and ecosystems through hands-on exploration, including plant experiments and observations of live animals. Most recently, students and teachers observed the American Chameleon, or Anole, in a terrarium environment shared by crickets, earthworms, and a groundcover of rye grass. By the end of the term, students will have constructed a complete, self-sustaining ecosystem within their terrariums. All lab activities address vital state learning objectives (TEKS) to help these at-risk students prepare for the science TAKS in the 5th and 8th grades.

1. Have at least 48 hours of college; or

2. Obtained at least an associate's degree; or 3. Met a rigorous standard of quality and be able to demonstrate, through a formal state assessment, knowledge of and the ability to assist in instructing reading, writing and mathematics.

Upon successful completion of the course, the attendee will receive a NCLB certificate that is filed with the Texas Education Agency and is accepted by the district to meet the Highly Qualified requirements. Obtaining this certificate does not guarantee employment with BISD, but it does allow the applicant to be considered for employment.
