

INJUNCTION SUIT

AGAINST THE CITIZENS OF KELL
WILL BE HEARD AT LAWTON
FRIDAY.

BUILDING WAS STOPPED

When the U. S. Deputy Marshals Served Injunction Papers—Railroad not Enjoined From Operation.

We are reliably informed that the injunction proceedings against the Wichita Falls and Northwestern Railroad Company do not interfere with the operation of the railway nor the unloading of freight and material at Kell, but go to the point of enjoining the company from leasing any part of the right of way in the future until the case is heard or the injunction dissolved. The proceedings against the people of Kell, however, would have the effect of causing them to vacate unless modified. There are about twenty-five persons engaged in business of various kinds there.

Owing to the fact that none of the government towns are on any railway, they have been willing to put up with many inconveniences at Kell, in order to have good shipping facilities. They have employed Mr. Ray of Lawton to represent them, and a motion to dissolve the injunction against them will be heard at Lawton on Friday, the 26th.

We understand that the legal question involved turns upon the validity of the condemnation proceedings and whether the Indian tribes were necessary parties as they claim they were.

A number of carpenters who were working on new buildings at Kell returned to their homes in this city yesterday, the work there having been stopped by the United States Deputy Marshal from Lawton.

NEW LAWS.

Some of the Railway Laws That are Now in Force.

Thursday of last week the laws of the regular session of the legislature became effective. The laws enacted bearing on railroads are numerous and quite severe in some instances, among them being the eight-hour operation law, which provides that telegraph operators who have anything to do with the operation of trains shall not work over eight hours. This law requires the Denver road to employ about a dozen new operators. The electric headlight law will require a considerable outlay to most roads. This law will not be enforced for some time as it has been impossible for the roads to secure the headlights. The full crew bill provides that no freight or passenger train shall be operated without a full crew. Passenger trains are required to be under the charge of a crew of four and five are required for freights. Another law is known as the fourteen-hour law. Trainmen are not permitted to work over fourteen hours and have to take a rest of eight hours. This law will require several roads in the state to shorten their divisions, and it will also require the employment of more trainmen and the cutting down of some monthly checks. Heretofore if a trainman was so disposed, in a rush he would work steadily for twenty-four hours, getting his sleep between stations, but all of this is at an end. Taken on a whole, the railroad legislation of the Thirtieth legislature clothed the railroad commission with broad powers, and it is contended by some that they give Texas the best railroad regulation measures in existence.

For Tea Drinkers.

"The evil of excessive tea drinking," says an authority, "is the leaving the tea to stew instead of using the fresh infusion." The theine and other desirable constituents are extracted within a few minutes, and the ignorant belief that it takes long steeping to get the dietetic value of the leaf, and that the tea pot can with impunity be left 'on the hob' all day are what really injures tea's fair fame, for the tannin and the resin, the sole deleterious properties of the leaf, are so obtained, and so only, says Woman's Life.

In China the natives who drink tea all day long, use the Mandarin tea, which looks somewhat like a sheaf of wheat, dipping it into boiling water and allowing it to remain until the water is slightly discolored; in Japan, where also it is drunk all day long, it is never made as strong as it is in this country. In Russia, a great tea-drinking country, the leaves are steeped for only four or five minutes, and then the liquor is poured off into another pot; and it is only among the poor of this country—who do it from mistaken notions of economy—that the pernicious practice of oversteeping is indulged in.

If you want Casino, Richelieu, or Lipton's tea, we have it. Or if you want a high grade bulk tea, we have it too. Phone us.

Henrietta Railroad and Seymour.
The railroad situation here is a little peculiar and is problematical just what will be the next step. Our railroad committee has been instructed to solicit subscriptions of stock for a railroad to run east and south from Seymour. Thus far the committee has done nothing, partly on account of neglect and partly on account of the condition things are in now.

Archer City wanted us to join them in a celebration and a railroad rally there on the Fourth. Only two of our citizens went and they were not members of the committee. But one reason the committee has done nothing is that they have been unable to hear anything from Henrietta. Instead of Wichita Falls trying to knock the Henrietta and Archer City road, it seems now that the Henrietta people themselves are falling down on it. Our committee has not been able to get a scratch of a pen from them, and it appears that they are not trying to build their line as far as Archer City. With such conditions as these to face the committee has not seen its way clear to taking any definite action.

When the Henrietta road is built it will be either bought or leased by the M. K. & T. Seymour could go ahead and build the road to where this line reaches, which is some 12 or 15 miles east of Archer and then sell the road to the Ktay. Archer offers to join hands with us on the proposition and is ready with $20,000 to go into it. People all along the line are anxious for it and would donate the right of way, besides taking a lot of the stock. The line would run through some big ranches and the owners would help foot the bill for getting a road to their land.

This proposition looks pretty good and is about the only deal that Seymour could well handle by herself. A line running southeast and northwest from Seymour is obviously the route we ought to have, and a line that we will have some day. But perhaps we will have to leave that road to somebody who has more money than Seymour. Plans are being considered by those who have the capital to build this road. But if it is built a road to Henrietta would only make our railroad facilities that much better.—Baylor County Benner.

Things Not Always as Bad as They Seem.
The rose that smells the sweetest is the first to fade. The boy who runs the fastest is the one to soonest fade. The brightest evening has the gloomiest of dawns. The man with the biggest yards must cut the biggest lawns. The apple that is the biggest has the fattest worms of all. The fellow who gets on in life is sure to get a fall. The cup that is the cleanest is the first to show the flies. The fellow who would sell the goods must pay to advertise. The hen that lays the largest eggs will be the first to set, and things we hanker for are the last of all we get. The simplest way is always best, and yet we pass it by to dabble with the tinsled things that fool and catch the eye.—Pleasanton Monitor.

ONCE TOO OFTEN TO THE WELL.

The pitcher that goes often to the well is broken at last. Secretary Elmer Dover, of the Republican National committee, last winter tried his best to convince standpatters of the Cannon-Roosevelt persuasion that it would be dangerous for his party, to go for the election well with the Dingley pitcher next year; but to the well that pitcher is to go again.

The word to this effect, which Senator Hopkins of Illinois, brings from a conference with President Roosevelt at Oyster Bay, will not be welcome news to Republicans in the Northwest nor to thousands upon thousands of them in Mr. Hopkins' own state.

The ring of self-appointed "leaders" who control the House of Representatives have had full two years notice that Western Republican farmers and stock raisers have had their fill of Dingley taxation. The notice was emphasized last year in the victory of Cummins in Iowa and the re-election by a great majority in Minnesota of Tariff Reform Johnson, though he is a Democrat and Minnesota has heretofore been uniformly a Republican State.

Senator Cullom knows the Republicans of Illinois as well as any man living, and in Washington last winter he told the "leaders" that the people want the tariff revised for their benefit. But Senator Hopkins brings from the President the information that no effort will be made to give the desired relief until after the presidential election.

The Republican national platform next year is to carry the usual declaration that the tariff, when revised at all, must be revised by its friends, with the promise that the Republicans, if they win, will trim the Dingley schedules; but the Sixtieth Congress, through all its long session of six or seven months, will let the atrocities of the Dingley act severely alone.

For fear of giving offense to the powerful tariff trusts, relief which the people need, relief which they demand with increasing impatience, is to be put off for at least two years on the promise that something will be done after awhile.

But people who have been in the habit of voting the Republican ticket are not going to be forever satisfied with promises when they ask for performance. The Democratic party will make the tariff a burning issue in the election of the next President, and voters will know that it is honest in its declarations for a tariff that will not shift continually the purse of the masses to the pockets of the monopolists.

There are excellent reasons for Secretary Dover's fears that the Republican party may take the tariff pitcher once too often to the well in the elections of 1908.—St. Louis Republic.

The failure of our wheat and oat crops would certainly have proved a great drawback to Wichita Falls had our farmers not discovered in time that the greenbugs had destroyed the small grain crops and substituted for them cotton and corn. By doing this, the farmers are entitled to credit for the manner in which Wichita Falls has continued to grow and prosper. In the face of the fact that the usual money crop of the country was a complete failure. This is perhaps the only country on earth where the seasons will give the tiller of the soil two chances for raising a money crop. He prepares his ground in the fall and sows it to wheat. If it is not going to be a favorable wheat raising year he finds it out in ample time to plant as much of his wheat lands to cotton, corn and feed crops as he is able to properly cultivate. The average wheat crop for Wichita county during the past sixteen years has been in the neighborhood of one million bushels. Three entire failures have been recorded during this time, one of which was this year. The weather for cotton and corn growing has been just about right, and it is now conservatively estimated that there will be raised in Wichita county this year at least 10,000 bales of cotton, which is about five times as much as was produced in the same territory last year. The indications now are that the price of cotton will not fall below the 10c per pound mark, and this being true, the money realized by the farmers on their cotton crops, together with that of corn, will just about be an off-set for the destruction by greenbugs of their small grain crops.

The actual work of numbering the houses within the corporate limits of this city was begun this morning. Had this been done some time ago, it would have been better. Until signs were put up on the corners of our streets and avenues, it was a difficult matter for any of us to give directions as to what street our homes were located. Now that the streets have been "tagged" and the work of numbering the houses is in progress, Uncle Sam will not have any further excuses to offer for not giving us free mail delivery. We have the best and more miles of cement sidewalks than any town of our size in the state, and as good sidewalks are one of the requirements made by the national government in order for towns to secure free mail delivery, no complaint can be made along that line. The postoffice receipts for the past two years have been far in excess of what the postoffice authorities at Washington require, and if Wichita Falls does not now secure free mail delivery it will not be our fault.

The State of Missouri has adopted the 2-cent per mile passenger rate law, which went into effect on the 13th. From the St. Louis Republic of the 18th the following local news item is clipped in order to give our readers an idea of how the law is working:

"Since June 19, when the 2-cent-per-mile passenger rate law became operative in Missouri for a period to expire on September 30, the passenger business at the Union Station has kept persistently almost to the high aggregate of 1904, the World's Fair year. Several lines report that their traffic at Union Station is not as large as last year's, but the business of most of them is enormous, and the traffic of all the roads entering St. Louis is practically the same as that of the record year, 1904."

AGAINST DEFENSE

WAS JUDGE'S RULING IN FRISCO BRIBERY CASES.

SMALLPOX IN THE JAIL

Where Mayor Schmitz and Zimmer are Confined.

By Associated Press.
San Francisco, Cal., July 20.—Arguments in the Glass case over the admissibility as evidence of the testimony of members of the board of supervisors that they accepted bribes from T. V. Halsey to vote against the ordinance granting a competitive franchise to the Home Telephone Company culminated yesterday in the decision by Judge Lawler, which in effect is almost entirely in favor of the prosecution. The arguments gave rise to bitter personalities between Assistant District Attorney Francis J. Heney and attorney Delphin M. Delmas. Immediately after the adjournment, which was taken until Monday, Sheriff O'Neill informed Judge Lawler that smallpox had broken out in the county jail where Mayor Schmitz and Emil J. Zimmer, vice president of the Pacific States Telephone Company, are confined, the latter under a five days sentence for contempt of court which expires this afternoon. Judge Lawler instructed the sheriff that no prisoner be allowed to leave the jail until assurance is given the court by the health officer that there is no danger of infection being carried. Otherwise Zimmer would be brought into court this afternoon and given another opportunity to remove his recalcitrancy.

The Farmers' Congress.
The Farmers' Congress is to be held at College Station between July 22nd and 26th, and for this occasion the "Katy" will sell round trip tickets from here for $5.55. This is a very low rate and should be an inducement to farmers to attend.

Opposed to Postponement.

Lawton, O. T., July 19.—(Special.)—Acting Secretary of the Interior Geo. W. Woodruff has written Delegate McGuire that the department is not favorable to the application of Big Pasture lot purchasers requesting an extension of time for the final payment on purchase price of these lots. The purchasers asked for an extension of sixty or ninety days from the fixed thirty-day period on account of having purchased the lots late in the season, hailstorms having visited and ruined crops, and greenbugs having operated disastrously on wheat and oats in the Big Pasture. Mr. Woodruff states in his communication to Delegate McGuire that it will probably be Oct. 1, before the tabulating of the sales is completed and approved in Washington and that the final payment will not be due before Nov. 1.

A BOOM FOR JOE CANNON.

If Hughes Cannot Get It New York to Go for Him.

Washington, D. C., July 20.—From an authoritative source information reaches Washington, that the friends of Speaker Cannon are in a scheme whereby he is to receive the support of the New York delegation in the Republican National Convention, in the event that it is seen that Governor Hughes cannot win. The men who appear to be in the movement are Representative Sherman of New York, chairman of the republican congressional committee; Representative Littaur, Representative Payne, chairman of the ways and means committee, and former Representative Wadsworth. All of these are, of course, New Yorkers, and each is a man of considerable influence.

They are able to reach powerful interests, so that if handled right the movement may become one of much importance.

The visit of Mr. Cannon to the New York legislature and his call on Governor Hughes are said to have been a part of the scheme; in fact, that is what set the wheels moving. Since then his friends have been very active and have made gratifying strides. The details of the understanding, which an effort is being made to reach, between the Cannon and Hughes people, are not known here.

Speaker Cannon has the support of many influential members of congress in addition to those mentioned—men like Tawney of Minnesota, chairman of the appropriations committee, and Watson of Indiana, the "whip" of the last house. He is, indeed, what may be termed the candidate of the "house ring," that group of congressmen who stick together on all important matters of legislation and come pretty near to running things at the capitol. When these men get busy secretly or openly in their several states it would not be surprising to see a number of wires set to work to the interest of the speaker. Politicians are awakening to the fact that the speaker's strength is underestimated, and that his managers will bear close watching.

Light on a recent railroad order is thrown by the St. Louis Post-Dispatch in this way: "It begins to appear that the railroads linked together in the Western Passenger Association are not prompted by purely benevolent motives in their sudden concession which makes the 2-cent fare laws operative in interstate travel. For a time this seemed to be a case of broad-minded public spirit. But no. When the 2-cent fare law went into effect in Nebraska, two or three months ago, the railroad folks up there said, as they have said more recently in Missouri, that they would delay legal proceedings until time and experience might give some actual results upon which to base contesting litigation. But the waiting promised to be disastrous. The people were quick to learn that while they could not get the benefit of the 2-cent rate on interstate travel they could still beat the game in part by buying transportation to the state's boundaries at the low fare, and there buying another ticket to their destination. Well and good. But the effect of this was to increase the showing of local travel enormously, out of right proportions to the facts. The Nebraska roads were threatened to be hoist with their own petard. Earnings within the state were 'booming,' and it was evident that, on the face of these returns, there would be no grounds for a contention of 'confiscation.' What was true in Nebraska was also true in every western state in like case. The action of the passenger association, therefore, is purely self-defensive, seeking to bring matters to a right balance by preventing these undue swellings of state business."

Filler.

When the sun is hot,
And the wind, too;
And there's no cool spot,
Appears in view,
As down my face
The sweat drops pour,
To fill this space.

Like molten brass
Bakes, boils and fries
As the long hours pass,
I vainly strive
With best of grace
To grind out live
Stuff for this space.

But I am glum
For e'er it seems
The rhymes won't come.
But, just the same,
I've got to face
The rhyming game
And fill this space.

ALFALFA CROP.

$50 per Acre is the Yield Reported by Hereford Grove Company.

S. P. Britt, manager of the Hereford Grove Cattle Company, says they are now engaged in cutting their alfalfa the third time this season. Mr. Britt also stated that if men to do the work could have been secured the alfalfa would have been cut every thirty days from the first of May. There are eight acres on the ranch and it will make a return of more than $50 per acre this year. Here is an instance which the farmers of Childress county should take note of. This alfalfa is grown on just common land, no better than thousands of acres in this county, in fact there are thousands of acres of land which is better adapted to alfalfa than this. It has been a profitable crop for several years, and is getting better with each year. Mr. Britt says they have a demand for every pound they have to sell and at good figures. He expects to cut the crop four times this year.—Childress Index.

Monsieur Beaucaire

By BOOTH TARKINGTON,
 Author of "The Gentleman From Indiana" and "The Conquest of Canaan."

Copyright, 1900, by McClure, Phillips & Co.

A word on the side passed between the nobleman and the exquisite.

"I had news of the rascal tonight," whispered Nash. "He lay at a farm till yesterday, when he disappeared; his ruffians too."

"You have arranged?" asked the duke.

"Fourteen bailiffs are watching without. He could not come within gunshot. If they clap eyes on him, they will hustle him to jail, and his cutthroats shall not avail him a hair's weight. The impatient swore he'd be here by 9, did he?"

"He said so, and 'tis a rash dog, sir."

"It is just 9 now."

"Send out to see if they have taken him."

"Gladly." The beau beckoned an attendant and whispered in his ear.

Many of the crowd had edged up to the two gentlemen with apparent carelessness, to overhear their conversation. Those who did overhear repeated it in covert asides, and this circulating undertone, confirming a vague rumor that Beaucaire would attempt the entrance that night, lent a pleasurable color of excitement to the evening. The French prince, the ambassador and their suits were announced. Polite as the assembly was, it was also curious, and there occurred a mannerly rush to see the newcomers. Lady Mary, already pale, grew whiter as the throng closed round her. She looked up pathetically at the duke, who lost no time in extricating her from the pressure.

"Wait here," he said. "I will fetch you a glass of negus," and disappeared. He had not thought to bring a chair, and she, looking about with an increasing faintness and finding none, saw that she was standing by the door of a small side room. The crowd swerved back for the passage of the legate of France, and pressed upon her. She opened the door and went in.

The room was empty save for two gentlemen, who were quietly playing cards at a table. They looked up as she entered. They were M. Beaucaire and Mr. Molyneux.

She uttered a quick cry and leaned against the wall, her hand to her breast. Beaucaire, though white and weak, had brought her a chair before Molyneux could stir.

"Mademoiselle!"

"Do not touch me!" she said, with such frozen abhorrence in her voice that he stopped short. "Mr. Molyneux, you seek strange company!"

"Madam," replied Molyneux, bowing deeply, as much to Beaucaire as to herself, "I am honored by the presence of both of you."

"Oh, are you mad!" she exclaimed contemptuously.

"This gentleman has exalted me with his confidence, madam," he replied.

"Will you add your ruin to the scandal of this fellow's presence here? How he obtained entrance?"

"Pardon, mademoiselle," interrupted Beaucaire. "Did I not say I should come? M. Molyneux was so obliging as to answer for me to the fourteen friends of M. de Winteret and Meestaire Nash."

"Do you not know," she turned vehemently upon Molyneux, "that he will be removed the moment I leave this room? Do you wish to be dragged out with him? For your sake, sir, because I have always thought you a man of heart, I give you a chance to save yourself from disgrace—and your companion from jail. Let him slip out by some retired way, and you may give me your arm and we will enter the next room as if nothing had happened. Come, sir!"

"Mademoiselle!"

"Mr. Molyneux, I desire to hear nothing from your companion. Had I not seen you at cards with him I should have supposed him in attendance as your lackey. Do you desire to take advantage of my offer, sir?"

"Mademoiselle, I could not tell you on that night!"

"You may inform your high born friend, Mr. Molyneux, that I heard everything he had to say; that my pride once had the pleasure of listening to his high born confession!"

"Ah, it is gentle to taunt one with his birth, mademoiselle! Ah, no! There is a man in my country who say strange things of that—that a man is not his father, but himself."

"You may inform your friend, Mr. Molyneux, that he had a chance to defend himself against accusation; that he said all!"

"That I did say all I could have strength to say. Mademoiselle, you did not see—as it was right—that I had been stung by a big wasp. It was nothing, a scratch; but, mademoiselle, the sky went round and moon danced on the earth. I could not wish that big wasp to see he had stung me; so I mus' only say what I can have strength for, and stan' straight till he is gone. Beside, there are other rizzons. Ah, you mus' believe! My Molyneux I sen' for, and tell him all, because he show courtesy to the yo'ng Frenchman, and I can trust him. I trust you, mademoiselle—long ago—and would have tol' you ev'ry-thing, excep' jus' because—well, for the romance, the fon! You believe? It is so clearly so. You do believe, mademoiselle?"

She did not even look at him. M. Beaucaire lifted his hand appealingly toward her. "Can there be no faith in—in"—he said timidly, and paused. She was silent, a statue, my Lady Disdain.

"If you had not believ' me to be an impostor; if I had never said (To Be Continued.)"
