Will Fill His Pulpit Sunday.

In a letter to the Times, dated at Bonham today, Dr. J. J. Dalton requests that we make announcement to the effect that he will return to Wichita Falls about the last of this week and will fill his pulpit at the First Presbyterian church on next Sunday.

We are not the largest people in town and have not the largest store, nor the largest business, but we do treat you proper. King & White.

TEXAN NOMINATED BY REPUBLICANS

Guthrie, Okla., Aug. 21.—While Texas claims to be the birthplace of the majority of the democratic candidates nominated for state office, only one republican aspirant claims the Lone Star State as his native heath. That is Thomas Robnett of Ardmore, nominated for secretary of state. His father was a soldier in the war that brought independence to Texas. His mother is still living near Wolfe City, Texas. The family were pioneers in Texas and have been prominent in the state's history. Mr. Robnett was born near Honey Grove, Aug. 10, 1864.

ROOSEVELT'S VIEWS ON IMPORTANT TOPICS

National sovereignty must be upheld in so far as it means the sovereignty of the people, used for the real and ultimate good of the people. State's rights are to be upheld in so far as they mean, the people's rights. Especially is this true in dealing with the relations of the people, as a whole, to the great corporations, which are the distinguishing feature of modern business conditions.

There is, unfortunately, a certain number of our fellow-countrymen who seem to accept the view that unless a man can be proved guilty, of some particular crime, he shall be counted a good citizen, no matter how infamous the life he has led, no matter how pernicious his doctrines or his practices. Such a view is wicked, whether applied to capitalist or labor leader, to rich man or poor man; and all I have said as to despicable and undesirable citizens remains true.

Once for all let me say that, so far as I am concerned, and for the eighteen months of my administration that remain, there will be no change in the policy that we have steadily pursued; no let-up in the effort to secure the honest observance of the law, for I regard this contest as one to determine who shall rule this Government—the people through their governmental agents, or a few ruthless and determined men, whose wealth makes them particularly formidable.

I wish there to be no mistake on this point. It is idle to ask me not to prosecute criminals, rich or poor. But I desire it no less emphatically understood that we have undertaken, and will undertake, no action of a vindictive type, and, above all, no action which will inflict greater unmerited suffering upon innocent stockholders and upon the public as well.

Business can only be done under modern conditions through corporations, and our purpose is to heartily favor corporations that do well.

The rich man who, with hard arrogance, declines to consider the rights and needs of those who are less well off, and the poor man who indulges in envy and hatred of those who are better off, are alike alien to the spirit of our national life.

A Candy Factory For Wichita Falls.

Wichita Falls is to have a candy factory and that right away. W. L. Dillard has purchased the west half of lots 6 and 7 n block 142 on Crescent Lake and will erect thereon a building for the manufacture of home-made candies. He expects to do a wholesale candy business and will have his plant in running order by the 1st of October.

Mr. Dillard has been in the business of manufacturing candy on a small scale for several years and the demand for the goods he manufactures has grown to that extent that he is compelled to enlarge his present plant and go into the wholesale business.

STRIKEBREAKER IS RUN OUT.

Grand Junction People Support Workman Who Went Out With Men.

Grand Junction, Colo., Aug. 19.—William H. McCall, an aged and incapacitated strike breaker sent here by Superintendent Leonard of the Western Union Telegraph Company at Denver, was run out of the city yesterday when he attempted to open up the Western Union office. The former manager, Miss M. A. Keen, went out when the operators' strike was called, since which time, until yesterday, when McCall made a futile attempt to reopen the office has been closed. Miss Keen sent the key to the office to Superintendent Leonard, who induced McCall to take the young lady's position.

McCall had not opened up the office more than fifteen minutes before a big crowd of men and boys, sympathizers of Miss Keen, made a rush for the place, forcing McCall to flee through the back door to police headquarters, where he asked the chief of police for protection. Protection was offered, but McCall was so frightened that he decided not to return to the office. Later McCall telegraphed to Superintendent Leonard, asking to be brought back to Denver.

McCall was a strike breaker in Denver before coming here. He was formerly manager for the Western Union at Telluride, and for the Postal Company at Colorado Springs. At the Denver office he has been looked upon in the light of a pensioner, because of his inability to work on any but the lightest wires.—St. Louis Republic.

McCall is the operator who was sent here to relieve Manager Pickle, who had arranged to take a vacation just before the strike was ordered, but was asked to defer it until after the troubles were adjusted. McCall is a comical looking "bug," and, to use the expression of one of the operators at the Western Union office in this city, "smelt like a Billy Goat." He was ordered back to Denver from here. If all strike breakers are of his stripe, the striking operators should have but little trouble in winning their fight.

WILLIAM J. BRYAN IN TRAIN WRECK

Belvidere, Ill., Aug. 20.—William J. Bryan escaped injury today when two coaches of the Chicago and Northwestern train, which was bearing him to Rockford, were derailed near Belvidere; when the baggage car took an open switch.

Mr. Bryan was riding in one of the two day coaches which left the track. After the Nebraskan had brushed the cinders from his rumpled clothing, he remarked that this was the fourth time that he had been in a wreck on his way to the Rockford Chautauqua.

Walks to Trolley Line.

With the other passengers who escaped injury, he had to walk a mile and a half up the track to Belvidere, where he took an electric car for the Rockford Chautauqua, arriving there several hours behind his schedule.

In his speech at the Chautauqua this afternoon Mr. Bryan made no reference to the speech of Secretary of War Taft in Columbus last night. In an interview, however, he said he had found several interesting passages in the address. He declared that he would reserve comment on these for the Commoner.

OFFER NO QUARTER

COMPANIES ANNOUNCE POLICY AS TO FUTURE EMPLOYMENT OF STRIKING OPERATORS.

ADOPTING A CONTRACT

Postal Company Prepares Form to Be Signed By Each Applicant.

Chicago, Ill., Aug. 21.—Eastern telegraphers who left positions with the companies two weeks ago must make individual application for reinstatement before they will be taken back. The policy of the companies was announced today and means not only that there will be no union recognition but that even a committee from the ranks of the strikers will not be treated with. The Postal company has prepared a form of contract which every applicant is required to sign before he is given employment. The contract applies to all offices of the company throughout the country. The Western Union has not adopted any form of contract, but are requiring each operator to make application for work as an individual. The contract of the Postal reads:

Copy of Postal Contract.

"I hereby agree, if given employment by the Postal Telegraph and Cable Company to render full and faithful service, at all times refraining from all agitation and interference with the company's business; and I further agree that I will work carefully and well with every operator, be he union or non-union."

"The contract means just what it says," said Superintendent W. I. Capen of the Postal today. "We do not care whether a man belongs to the union or not, but the company will continue to run the telegraph business. Every operator who accepts employment from this company must sign a copy of this contract. We have no objections to union men, but we do object to agitators, and it is probable that some of the latter will not be given an opportunity to sign a contract."

Mr. Capen said that some of the strikers in the local office returned to work today and from the reports that he had heard from other cities the strike was gradually breaking up. "It is now a question," he said, "of how long our former employes care to remain idle. The attitude of the company is the same as on the day the men quit. There will be no compromising on our part. Our former employes must come back as individuals or not at all."

Cook Makes Statement.

"We are not asking applicants for work to sign any contract," said Superintendent T. P. Cook of the Western Union Company, "but they must come and make application for work individually. There will be no change in our policy in that direction and any talk about arbitration is nonsense. We have nothing to arbitrate for we have not yet been informed for sure of our former employes leaving the service. We are taking care of all the business we can get and expect to continue."

The strike leaders continue to take a hopeful view of the situation. They assert they are in receipt of daily reports from different cities showing Nebraskan's Train Derailed Near Belvidere that the men are standing firm and that the business of the company has been reduced to almost nothing.

Leaders Deny Desertions.

It was said today that many of the strikers who have left the city have

"Money to Burn a Wet Dog."

"State Press" in the Dallas News delivers the following mild reprimand to the Times for encouraging Texans to go North to spend their vacation. Whether it is deserved or not we leave those who are at present enjoying their summer vacations to judge, and if they look at this matter like they are acting, the Times feels sure of vindication, for the most of them have gone East, North and Northwest to spend their money in Yankeedom.

Wichita Times: The news that thousands and thousands of Texans are travelling North this summer comes naturally enough. Texans like to move northward in summer and Northerners like to go to Texas in winter, and increasing numbers of them find it unnecessary to stay at home all the year round unless they want to. With cotton selling nominally at 13c a pound in the seaports and half a cent higher near the farms Texans can afford to travel this summer. In spite of the late start the yield this season is promising to come up to the average, though it may not go to the 4,000,000 bales which have been predicted, if the autumn season of fine weather be prolonged. Texans are travelling in the North on business as well as on pleasure. St. Louis knows that they swell the unwonted volume of traffic that has been passing through its Union Station since the summer began and St. Louis knows just where 1,000 of them are buying their fall and winter stocks of goods. The Texas wanderers will pass through St. Louis on their way home all during September and October, and they will be followed shortly by an immense tide of homeseekers seeking the rich opportunities which Texas and the Southwest offer. Going and coming, the Texas traveler has become an important personage to the railway passenger agent.

It is observed that the less bacon we import from other States the larger is the summer travel to the old States when the summer is here. Which is nothing more than the establishment of the fact that the more independent in wealth a people are the more they can travel. As long as we had to buy all our bacon we had nothing left for travel. But now that we are selling hogs, we can go to the far North to bathe in the limpid streams there and put on fine clothes three times a day and do other things which summer tourists do. The exodus of Texans in the hot months is becoming very large. It is really becoming unfashionable for a family with more than $5.00 to remain in our State after the 1st of June. These travelers go to the boarding houses up in Canada, Michigan and Wisconsin. Husbands who have cut bacon and shoveled sugar all winter, fall and spring in their grocery stores get themselves the latest of fishing tackle, swing willow fish baskets over their shoulders and thus impress the Yanks with the idea they are financially "some." The ladies get white dresses for plank walk parade, and the children, who have gone barefooted the most of the year, that their parents could lay up enough money to travel on, have their sun-browned and winter-hardened legs encased in clock-work stockings. Well, they enjoy this kind of recreation, if it can be called such, and they ought not to be criticised for their taste in the selection of how to be happy. But for State Press—the woods and streams for him. Right here in Texas are the best summer resorts in the world for those who prefer the towering trees to the plank walk, the dell to the cafe, and the strong pull of the fish to the strong pull of the slot machine. As to our coast, it is beyond all comparison with any coast in the world, and particularly is this true of the western part of that coast. There the humidity is not such that half the day is spent in trying to get on a pair of shoes twice too large, ordinarily, as is the case of the Atlantic resorts, because of fogs and dews. There the clothes do not become moldy overnight. There a person does not have to be attended by a life-saving service when he goes in to bathe because of the treachery of currents. There the fig and pomegranate are on the table, and the luscious watermelon is in reaching distance all the time. State Press is not intending in this to divert Texans from their old line of travel to the fashionable watering places of the North. But he does say that our most distinguished people ought to set a good example by enjoying themselves at home. He hates to see Congressmen and others who have the public esteem, and are paid out of the public pocket, gallivanting around in Canada, Maine, Michigan, Wisconsin and spending our money and setting bad examples to a lot of people to the effect that "it is not the thing" for Texans with enough money to take a vacation to remain in their own State. State Press disapproves with the Times in its conclusion that these flights of Texans to the North will be prolific of good to the State commercially. These tourists scorn to discuss cotton or things like that when they go abroad. Their families would faint if they would talk about buying goods to sell again. For the impression sought to be established by these migratory Texans, as a rule, is that they are "out of business" and already have "money enough to burn a wet dog."

Railroad Man's Humor.

The railway man, like all other individuals, has his troubles, but with some of them the prevailing troubles only seem to develop a fine sense of humor. One of the humorists of the railroad business is an agent in a town not many miles from Wichita Falls. This agent has just promulgated the following special notice to the public:

"The agent of this company is serving the public and not the company.

"He never gets busy and always has time to listen to your tale of woe, and is glad to hear all about your domestic troubles; that your wife's people, or some other relatives, are expected to arrive on some night train that he never meets and that he is expected to meet them and show them where to go, etc. He always has time to ask the dispatcher how the train is. The bulletin board in this office is not intended to give the public any information. It is here solely for the agent's benefit, just to give him a little practice in writing on a black-board with chalk.

"The clock in this office was never known to have the correct time—it's useless to ask if it's correct.

"The agent is always glad to have sweaters, as well as patrons of the road, run right over the bulletin board and come into the office where he is adding up a string of figures a foot long, and ask him how the train is; that is one of the joys of his position and shows him how thoughtful and considerate the public is.

"He has nothing to do but sit and listen to the wires and keep right up with every train on the road, and be ready to tell everyone just the minute it left the last station—that will make it arrive sooner.

"He always knows just who gets on and off the trains, where they went and when they will return.

"He is also a mind reader and can tell whether you have any baggage, without your check; or he can tell whether you have any freight or express whether you tell him your name or not—it makes no difference if he never saw you before.

"He simply delights in watching people sit in the waiting room for thirty minutes before the train arrives and then when the train is whistling for the station, call for three tickets and half a dozen pieces of baggage checked.

"He is the 'crankiest' man in existence; a wonderful fellow, and can only be equaled by another 'agent.'

"There are many other delights which are peculiarly his own, but time and space will not admit of enumeration.

"This notice is respectfully referred and promulgated to the public in general, for the purpose of letting them know a few (very few) of the joys of the 'high mogul' in the average railway office."

FOR DRESSY OCCASIONS.

Elaborate Jumper Frocks Combined With Handsome Lace.
Linen, besides being used in some of the smartest summer tailor makes this year, is finding much use in dressy jumper frocks combined with hand some lace, beautifully embroidered or again, elaborately braided. A combination of heavy and baby Irish crochets

JUMPER FROCK OF BUFF COLORED LINEN finds a most attractive use in this pictured jumper dress of linen in the old fashioned buff shade.

The skirt is gored to the knees and finished with a tucked flounce. Between this and the skirt proper are set two rows of lace between a band of linen, ornamented with whorls of white braid. The jumper, worn over a gulmp of batiste and val insertions, is made entirely of the lace in the most extreme form of the Japanese idea, and the surplice fronts are large. Loose sleeves are banded with the linen, and white cord ornaments hold the fronts in place.

The hat is the popular cloche or bell shape in neapolitan, trimmed with white and yellow ostrich feathers and yellow tea roses. Loops of black velvet ribbon on the bandeau in the back give a Frenchy touch.

The benefactor engraves his name in the hand that receives the benefit.—French Proverb.

A Dog's Love for Its Mistress.

A most characteristic incident illustrating a dog's love for its mistress is related by James A. Marrow, lecturer zoologist and manager of the annex and museums of the big Sells-Floto shows, which are coming to Wichita Falls for two performances Thursday, August 29th.

Among Prof. Marrow's many feature acts in "The Garden of Nonsense," as the annex and museums of the big Sells-Floto Shows are called, none was more popular or received more applause than Madame Lazette and her wonderful troupe of educated French poodles. There are nearly forty dogs used in this act and all seemed to love their mistress equally well. She, too, tried to be impartial in dispensing her favors and pats of approval, but it seems as if "Little Dottie," the smallest dog in the troupe, got considerable affection quite frequently. The other dogs didn't appear to notice it and if they did they made no demonstrative protest.

A few weeks ago, in Wichita, Kan., Madame Lazette became very ill and was sent to her home in Chicago, Ill., so her regular family physician could attend her. During her absence the dogs were left in charge of Professor Smith, her assistant, who put them through their usual stunts at the regular performances. That is, all but one—"Little Dottie."

After her mistress went away, Dottie didn't eat, drink or sleep for five days and it was apparent to everyone about the show that she was dying of a broken heart and actually trying to commit suicide.

In this extremity, Professor Marrow ordered that Dottie be shipped to Chicago by fast express, regardless of cost, which was done. Three days later, poor Dottie, now nothing but skin and bone, was delivered at her mistress' bedside. She actually seemed to smile, too, as she opened her little mouth and feebly wagged her tail.

And Dottie didn't die and neither did her mistress. Both are well and strong and back with the show now, and they will be in Wichita Falls with it Thursday, August 29th. That day the big Sells-Floto Shows give an afternoon and night performance here. There will also be an open den, free street parade in the morning, because the Sells-Floto shows have absolutely no connection with the tent show trust which has tried to eliminate street parades this year to save expense.

Items From Byers.

Special to the Times.
Byers, Tex., Aug. 21.—As announced by your correspondent yesterday, the Wichita Falls team came to Byers and played two games, one Tuesday afternoon and one Wednesday morning.

The Byers boys were very enthusiastic over the game and invited their friends from far and near to see them "call" the visitors but, lo and behold! When the game was called Byers showed her weak places and the game resulted in a score of 19 to 7 in favor of the visitors.

Wednesday morning the boys appeared for a second combat. This was undoubtedly the most interesting game ever played on our grounds. Up to the last half of the ninth inning the game was a tie. With med on bases John Stewart struck a liner and brought both base runners in and he pulled for a home run, so the game was closed with the score 11 to 8 in favor of Byers.

At a meeting of the business men of the town Tuesday it was unanimously decided to put in waterworks for our people. What place the size of Byers can boast of more conveniences?

A GOOD SUGGESTION.

To the Times:—As the City Council has ordered an election for the purpose of determining whether the city will issue bonds for the purpose of building a City Hall and putting in a sewerage system, would it not be a good idea for the City Council to publish a statement showing the amount of bonds, including the issue by the Independent school district, now outstanding, also the assessed value of the property in the city, so the citizens can vote on the proposition intelligently?

A CITIZEN.

The Times endorses the above suggestion fully. Speaking for itself, it does not know of its own knowledge that a statement has been published showing the financial condition during the past three or four years. Every taxpayer has a right to know how and in what manner the city's money is being spent. The county publishes four or five financial statements during each year and as a result the people of the county are kept well informed as to the financial affairs of the county. For two years the Times was the "official organ" of the city and during all that time not a single statement regarding finances was ever published. It does not now enjoy the privilege of having its feet stuck under the city's pie counter, and therefore feels at liberty to speak plainly regarding these matters.

It is not necessary to make it appear to the outside world that Wichita Falls is a "wild and wooly" town in order to induce people to come here and live among us. Neither is it necessary to "put on the lid" to that extent where it is impossible for a thirsty man to buy a cold lemonade, a soda pop or a cigar. It is all right to keep the lid down tight as to the sale of intoxicating drinks on Sundays. In fact, it would be far better if no liquor should be sold on any day of the week. The law against the sale of soft drinks and cigars on Sundays was not made by the people who are commonly termed "enemies to the liquor interests." Those who are posted know that the members of the Legislature who championed the liquor dealers' cause are responsible to a large degree for the enactment of the nonsensical law which permits the sale of ice cream on Sundays and prohibits the sale of soft cold drinks and cigars. There is no more harm in the sale of the one than there is in the other—neither will intoxicate and both are luxuries which people at this day and time have come to regard as necessities. The law prohibiting their sale was placed on the statute books as a sort of punishment to the conservative element of our citizenship, and if submitted to a vote of the people, would be defeated by a majority of more than ten to one. For this reason but a very towns in the State are trying to enforce the law as regards the prohibition of the sale of soft drinks and cigars, and an investigation will reveal the fact that the towns which are trying to enforce it are the ones which are termed "whiskey towns." It is to be regretted that Wichita Falls is classed among the list.

Our public schools will open on the first Monday in September and the indications now are that more than 1,000 children within the scholastic age of 7 and 17 years will be enrolled for the term, and if that number attend the two public school buildings will be crowded to the limit. We need another public school building and the sooner the trustees make provisions for the construction of an additional school building, the better for all concerned. No town can hope to make much progress without ample school facilities. Good schools help to make good towns. Wichita Falls is a good town and in order to maintain her reputation as such must have good schools.

The increased taxable values of Wichita Falls will justify the voting of $40,000 worth of bonds for public improvements without increasing our present rate of taxation. It is proposed, in the event that the taxpayers vote for the issuance of these bonds, to use the money realized for the sale of them in the putting in of a first class sewerage system and for the construction of a City Hall and fire department headquarters. Both are badly needed and if the city continues to enjoy her present prosperous growth, we must have them. The only precaution necessary to take is to see that good value for every dollar that is spent is given.

The time is fast approaching when our City Council will be compelled to pass an ordinance prohibiting the littering of our splendid sidewalks with painted signs advertising goods, wares and announcements of this or that event. The sidewalks were constructed by citizens owning property abutting, and while they belong to the city, properly speaking, the citizens who built them have some rights which should be protected. Those who want to advertise should do it in the proper way—through advertising mediums or billboards, just as they prefer.

No matter what you have been using in salmon try our Richelleu brand. It is better.

EDDY CASE ENDING.

Suit instituted by Next Best Friends to Christian Science Leader Ceases.

Concord, N. H., Aug. 21.—The famous suit in equity brought March 1st last by George W. Glover, son of Mrs. Mary Baker G. Eddy, and others as "next friends" against Calvin S. Frye and others for an accounting of the property of the head of the Christian Science sect, came to an abrupt end today. Immediately after opening of court in the hearing regarding Mrs. Eddy's competency before Judge Edgar Aldrich and his comasters, William E. Chandler, senior counsel for the next friends, had filed with the clerk of the court a motion for the dismissal of the suit. He said there were many reasons for this action, but the principal one was "the unprofitableness of any immediate result of a decision in our favor upon the exact issue as now framed compared with the burdens and disadvantages to be endured by us both before and after such a decision."

This was the second day of the second week of the masters' hearing upon the competency of Mrs. Eddy. Immediately upon the masters taking their seats, Mr. Chandler addressed the court, asking the withdrawal.

"The suit has been almost wholly altruistic in its nature," said Mr. Chandler, "and not a single dollar of the large fortune whose existence is disclosed or which might be enlarged in consequence of this suit, can become at this time the property of the next friends. There are also reasons sentimental in character overcoming the strong desire of the next friends upon which the suit has been based—which, however, is now hereby diminished."

Motion Formally Presented.
Mr. Chandler then formally presented a motion that the masters proceed with the hearing and determine her competency to manage her business affairs.

"Not one word of testimony has been introduced," said Mr. Streeter, "to show that one dollar of her money has ever been misappropriated. The charge of her incompetency has completely collapsed. It is now stated in the press that the next friends will abandon this suit for the purpose of awaiting Mrs. Eddy's death and contest her will. Mrs. Eddy has a legal right to a finding of her competency upon the case, as it now stands, or upon such further evidence as she may introduce."

Mr. Streeter demanded a finding from the masters to that effect. Judge Aldrich said the question submitted to them was purely a property question. He continued:

Further Hearing Not Justified.
The next friends having withdrawn from this hearing and announced that they would withdraw the suit from the Superior Court, there is nothing left for us to hear, and we do not think we should be justified in going forward with an ex-parte hearing. We shall make a report to Judge Chamberlain containing all of the evidence and the happenings of today. In case we are not in order in respect to the effect of the next friends' withdrawal, Judge Chamberlain can instruct us to resume hearing. Without such an order we do not think we should be justified in going forward with this hearing.

One man comes to Texas and stops in a poor hotel that has no bath tub and leaves reporting that a bath can not be had in the State. Another traveler stops over night somewhere and gets in a house with fleas, and straightway reports that fleas eat one up in Texas. Another sees a drunken man and reports that half the men in Texas get drunk every day. It is natural for some travelers to think it their duty to make a discovery of something disagreeable and to charge that it is a characteristic of the whole State. Now the truth is that few first class hotels can be found without bath tubs, and it is an exception when you find an average home in this State without one. One may travel in Texas for weeks without seeing a drunken man, and might stay months in most Texas towns without seeing one. So it goes all along the line, Texas having as few nuisances and more of the solid comforts of life than the average State. Tales of travelers are to be taken with a large modicum of salt, because their observation is superficial, even when unprejudiced.—Ablene Reporter.

A Few Suggestions From the Pure Food Grocery

How to get a Cup of Coffee that Just Suits You:

It's not so easy as it sounds, for you may get a package of a certain brand that will make just the kind of a drink you like and you will think to yourself, "Well, at last I've got the coffee I've been looking for so long." But wait—the next time you get a package of that same brand maybe it doesn't seem like the same goods at all.

Here's the trouble.

The manufacturers of that brand did not use all the care they should have used in buying the raw coffee, and possibly by mistake, got a lot of inferior material into their product. You were disappointed.

The selecting of the raw coffee is just as important in making a good cup of coffee as the selection of the wheat in making a loaf of good bread.

That's why such special care is taken in Spurr's buying department. They reject a whole lot more coffee than they accept, simply because it is not up to Spurr's standard and it must be of superior quality to receive Spurr's brand. This means that if you buy a tin of Spurr's Mocha and Java coffee now, another in a month from now, or a year from now, the quality will be identical. A uniformly good coffee like this cannot fail to suit you.

The well known flavor of Mocha and Java coffee is even better in this particular brand, for Spurr's M. and J. Coffee is a particular brand for particular people.

Oklahoma Farmer Discovers a Novel Method to Prevent Milkweed Infection.

The following special to the St. Louis Republic from Lawton, Okla., under date of the 20th, will be of interest to Wichita county farmers, and the Times reproduces it below, but does not vouch for its truthfulness:

"Pants, and any and all kinds of pant; new, old and indifferent, are desired by farmers residing along upper Red River, in Oklahoma and Texas, desired for purpose remedial, preventive and otherwise. Old ducking pants, that have been discarded on account of age, condition of servitude, condition of seat, knees, etc., would fill the bill and bring a pretty price.

"There is a milk weed district along Red River. In it grow luxuriantly many millions of lacteal producers. It is necessary for farmers to plant, water and till in the midst of this colony and to drive horses into entanglements that produce gallons of glistening flow. This latter production, it has been proven, is inimical to the health, beauty and preservation of horseflesh. The legs of the animals get lacerated, and into the fissures flows the milk of the weed. A swelling results, and the faithful animal must be taken from the plow and treated. He's out of business for several days and the swelling increases daily until, by some sure remedy, the swelling is checked, and then in a few days more he's ready for service again.

This very sort of unique thing has been happening along Red River for two or three weeks, and dozens of horses have been incapacitated.

In one community north of Wichita Falls A. J. Schulz, a farmer, has reported that twenty-five horses are lame from milk weed poisoning. While in Wichita Falls Mr. Schulz disclosed his preventive by advertising for old pants to place upon the horses' legs."

The Worm Turned.

The Portland Oregonian tells a peculiar and interesting story of a young bride of that city, who had been married only eighteen days when her husband deserted her. She learned that he was in Chicago and went to that city. There she found him and gave him a rap on the head with a hammer that came near putting him out of business for good. When he recovered he had her arrested, but some of the appreciative citizens of Chicago, on learning the facts of the case, gave the young bride a hundred dollars and a railroad ticket back to her home in Portland. Commenting on the affair, the Oregonian says:

"Neglected, insulted, beaten wives who are wearing out their lives in the attempt to get along with human cattle of the Helms brand, may learn something to their possible advantage from this widely heralded marital episode. The time when forbearance ceases to be a virtue and force must take the helm comes now and then to individuals as well as to nations. When this time comes it is better for all concerned, for the party whose rights are violated, to strike a quick and effective blow. We may pity, because we must, the cringing creature who, when smitten on the right cheek, turns the left, but it is impossible not to feel contempt for her as one who does not respect herself and rise in righteous wrath to her own defense."

It is all very well to talk about forbearance and wifely obedience and the like, but there is a limit to human patience, even in a wife, and sometimes the limit is reached and the victim hits back, and hits to hurt, as this deserted Portland wife did. The world can never know all of the domestic tragedies that are daily being enacted. Sometimes the victim is silent through fear of the brute who holds her in constant dread. Sometimes pride will close her lips and she will endure in silence rather than let the world know of her shame and suffering. Sometimes, again, her forbearance is due to genuine love for her husband, and true wifely love forgives all things, endures all things and hides all suffering because the heart is still true to its pledge. In such cases she draws a mantle of forgiveness over herself and her misery and suffers in silence. Much of human misery and suffering is unknown to the outside world.—Montgomery (Ala.) Advertiser.

Two New York girls recently were ordered by their mother to join her in a mining camp about a day's journey from the City of Mexico. The girls were to travel to Vera Cruz by steamer and then by rail to the capital, where their father was to meet them. As they never had been in that country before they wrote to their mother asking what sort of clothes they should bring with them. By return mail they received a breathless sort of an epistle telling them to be sure and start from New York by a certain date, but as to the clothes question, the only reply was, "Be sure and have your riding habits of the sort of brown that will harmonize with the atmosphere here."—New York Press.

The Meanest Man.

"About the meanest man I ever knew," said an old time Cleveland, "was a man out at the edge of town that I used to pick cherries for when I was a kid. Then he would charge us up with that many cherries."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

AN IMPLSION.

It is the Opposite of an Explosion and Less Familiar.

Every one knows what an explosion is, but its opposite, an implsion, is less familiar. At great depths in the sea the conditions are favorable for its production. At 2,500 fathoms the pressure is, roughly speaking, two and a half tons to the square inch—that is to say, several times greater than the pressure exerted by the steam upon the piston of a powerful engine.

An interesting experiment to illustrate the enormous force of this deep sea pressure was made on the Albatross, a government vessel engaged in deep sea exploration.

A thick glass tube several inches in length full of air was hermetically sealed at both ends. This was wrapped in flannel and placed in one of the wide copper cylinders used to protect deep sea thermometers when they are sent down with the sounding apparatus. The copper cylinder had holes bored in it, so that the water had free access inside, round the glass. The case was then sent down to a depth of 2,000 fathoms and drawn up again.

It was found that the cylinder was bulged and bent inward, just as if it had been crumpled inward by being violently squeezed. The glass tube itself, within its flannel wrapper, was reduced to a fine powder, almost like snow. The glass tube, it would seem, as it slowly descended, held out long against the pressure, but at last suddenly gave way and was crushed by the violence of the action to a fine powder.

This process, exactly the reverse of an explosion, is termed an implsion. —Chicago Record-Herald.

MASTERY OF THE NILE.

The Method by Which the Flow of Water is Controlled.

Every morning from a little room of a great white house on the eastern shore of the Nile at Assouan is clicked by telegraph to Cairo the question, "How much water?" The answer comes so many thousand gallons more or so many thousand gallons less. A button is pressed, the water which flows under the iron bridge at Cairo is increased or diminished some ten days later in accordance with the telegraphic answer, and the intervening valley between Assouan and Cairo has a little more or a little less water on its surface. The man at the button may bring joy or sorrow to thousands of little farms—it is all according to the message he receives.

From the great white house there extends across the river a granite wall or dam 150 feet high. Halfway up this wall and stretching its entire length a line of shutters opens or closes by a pressure of the button. In the winter months a huge lake expands to the southward, which has every appearance of being a flood, for in certain places the tops of palm trees are discernible above its surface, and the summits of inundated ruins apparently mark the sites of sunken cities. As the days go by and Cairo demands more and more water the palm trees and the ruins seem to rise from their watery beds until in June and early July the river flows freely with all its historic indolence. —New York Times.

Three Layers of Atmosphere.

It appears that in the atmosphere there are three distinct currents of air, the first lying at an elevation of from 900 to 1,500 meters, the second at from 2,500 to 4,000 meters and the upper one at from 6,000 to 8,000 meters above the surface of the earth. These are to an extent separate currents, flowing each with its own velocity. At the bottom of each of the layers the stratus clouds are formed, and at the top of each of the layers occur the cumulus clouds. This suggests that the stratus originate at the bottom of a moving current and the cumulus at the top. It is probable, then, that the stratus owe their origin to the difference in velocity and temperature of the two layers, while the cumulus are formed by ascending currents within the layer of air.

Bad, but Still Good.

A judge from one of the African crown colonies, now home on leave, is telling this story: It is the custom in the local courts to administer to the natives the form of oath which they consider most binding. One day a Christian colored gentleman, of whose good faith the judge entertained some doubts, was about to give evidence. At his own request he was allowed to take the oath of a Christian. Then the judge intimated that he must also be sworn in the native fashion. The man was visibly disconcerted. "Oh, no, massa," he pleaded. "Not dat. Me very bad native, but me very good Christian." —Manchester Guardian.

Reversed the Process.

"Yes, sir, the major went in swimmin', an' I'm blest if a feller didn't come along an' steal all his clothes!"
"An' what did he do then?"
"Broke the record by goin' home in a barrel, instead o' the barrel goin' home to him." —Atlanta Constitution.
