

A STORY OF WRONG

MRS. BRADLEY CONTINUES THE
RECITAL OF HER RELATIONS WITH SENATOR BROWN.

ON THE STAND TWO DAYS

Woman Charged With Murder Under Great Strain—Morbid Crowd
Fills Court Room.

By Associated Press.
Washington, D. C., Nov. 20.—The climax of the Bradley trial was reached today when Mrs. Bradley, testifying in her own behalf, related the particulars of her final interview with Senator Brown in the Raleigh Hotel in this city last December and gave all the details she could remember of the shooting that followed. She was prompt as usual about entering the court room and did not look very buoyant, but she never does and it cannot be said that there was much change in her appearance. It was apparent from the beginning that the entire sitting will be consumed by Mrs. Bradley. The court room was again crowded and more were denied admission for lack of accommodations than got in.

Forty-five minutes were consumed in the identification of letters written by Senator Brown to Mrs. Bradley, showing the relations between the two. No effort was made to read them as they were introduced, and evidently the sight of the letters aroused conflicting memories in the witness, as she sobbed audibly as many of them were presented to her.

INGALLS DECLARES BRYAN CAN WIN OVER CANDIDATES.

Cincinnati, O., Nov. 20.—M. E. Ingalls, chairman of the Board of Directors of the Big Four Railroad, and prominently mentioned as a candidate for the United States Senate as the choice of the Democrats of Ohio, on his return from New York, said today: "Bryan will be the Democratic nominee. If we can't win with him we can't win with anybody. I believe that Mr. Bryan has out-grown his free-silver ideas. A man changes his notions when he gets past fifty. He has had the opportunity to develop and grow during the last fifteen years, and I believe he has a great popular following."

TRAVELING FREIGHT AGENT COMMITS SUICIDE

By Associated Press.
Louisville, Ky., Nov. 20.—Harry L. Parker, traveling freight agent for the Missouri Pacific railroad, with headquarters here, committed suicide today by shooting himself. Mr. Parker, it is believed, was deranged by the effects of being struck by a footpad two years ago. Mr. Parker formerly lived in Cincinnati.

PROHIBITION IN ALABAMA BILL PASSES BY 70 TO 4.

Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 20.—In spite of the protest of the Mobile members the Carmichael prohibition bill, as passed in the senate yesterday, was approved by the house today by a vote of 70 to 4. It will be enrolled and sent to the governor at once.

DO TELEGRAPHERS PLAN NEW STRIKE?

Fort Worth Record.
That careful plans are being laid by railroad and commercial telegraphers for the most gigantic strike the country has ever known is indicated in the balloting of all railway operators which is now under way.

That the Order of Railway Telegraphers and the Commercial Telegraphers union of America have either already tentatively consolidated or else disposition of minor details only remain to be perfected before the actual merger is brought about, is also evidenced by the trend of developments of the past few days. It is not an entirely well kept secret that the operators in the railroad service in Fort Worth have just received private requests from L. W. Quick of St. Louis, grand secretary of the Order of Railway Telegraphers, seeking their vote by ballot to certain propositions. These requests, it is learned, have been sent to all agents and operators in railway work in the United States and Canada, and all replies are to be in by January 1, 1908. The propositions to be voted on involve a plan to demand a minimum wage of $70 monthly and a general increase to all, and an eight-hour day to take effect March 4, 1908. If the railroads refuse to grant the "better conditions" sought, the plan is to bring about a general walkout. It is said that a remarkable unanimity in favor of the entire plan is developing among the railway telegraphers and anticipating a short strike at least to gain their points, some of the operators are said to be already engaged in preparing financially for the struggle. Shortly after January 1st it is expected that an official announcement may be made as to the demands. It is also interesting to note that the letters are being sent to "all agents and operators," irrespective of whether affiliated with the Order of Railway Telegraphers or not. This means that the desire is to enlist the favor and aid of every one and add to the membership before the time for battle.

One cause for the plan to strike March 4, 1908, unless an eight-hour day and increased pay is granted, is said to be the report that eastern railroads are preparing to contest the federal nine-hour law, which is scheduled to become effective March 4, 1908. The roads, it is claimed, will seek to get out an injunction against the nine-hour law but this the operators hope to avert by getting an eight-hour agreement with the railroads beforehand.

Another point of importance is the close relations existing between railroad and commercial telegraphers. Some maintain that the striking commercial operators only consented to call off the recent strike with the understanding that a more gigantic one involving railroad telegraphers as well, be called early in 1908, unless demands are met. That commercial operators are planning to this end is the information emanating from very authentic sources.

In the meanwhile, both organizations will put forth efforts to increase their membership and thus enlarge their power.

INLAND WATER WAY PROPOSED NEW ENGLAND TO CAROLINAS.

By Associated Press.
Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 20.—After a two days discussion of the project for an inland waterway along the Atlantic coast from New England to the Carolinas, the Deep Waterway Conference this afternoon decided to form a permanent organization and begin an aggressive campaign to accomplish the great undertaking. At the same time resolutions were adopted asking the assistance of the national government and the co-operation of all States interested in the inland waterways project.

FROM CHICAGO TO MONTREAL WOMAN GOES TO DEPOSIT $4,000

By Associated Press.
London, Ont., Nov. 20.—A middle-aged woman entered the Bank of Montreal yesterday, saying that she had come from Chicago in order to deposit $4,000 in gold and American $1 bills, which she had tied up in a towel, feeling that the money would be safer in the bank of Montreal. The money, she says, represents all the life time savings of grandmother, mother and herself.

PRELIMINARY STEP

RAILROAD MAKES TENDER OF ONE-HALF ITS INTANGIBLE TAXES.

PETITION TO BE FILED

Asking Court to Issue Mandamus—To Test Constitutionality of Intangible Tax Law.

J. A. Kemp, president of the Wichita Falls Railway Company, which owns the railroad extending from this city to Henrietta and which is leased and operated by the Katy, this morning made a formal tender of $247.70 to the county tax collector as payment of the intangible tax for the above named railway company in Wichita county. The sum tendered is one-half of the amount of the intangible tax assessed against the company and the tender was refused by the tax collector.

This tender is a step preliminary to the filing of a petition in the district court for a mandamus to compel the tax collector to accept the amount tendered. This petition will be the basis of an attack upon the constitutionality of the intangible tax law passed by the last legislature and the outcome of the suit is of widespread interest. This petition, it is understood, will be filed within a few days.

HOW PRICE ADVANCES.

Forest Service Bulletin Tells Experience of Publisher in Buying Paper.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 19.—A publisher of a newspaper in the Middle West recently purchased a carload of paper, for which he paid $1,200. One year ago he bought precisely the same amount of paper for $800. This statement is made in a bulletin of the Forest Service, issued today, illustrating the enormous increase in the price of paper in the course of a few months.

The bulletin states further that in the Middle West many papers are raising their subscription prices 50 per cent in order to be able to pay for the paper used. President Roosevelt has declared he will recommend to congress the abolition of the duty on raw materials entering into the manufacture of paper, and the pressure which will be brought to bear to secure the adoption of his recommendation will probably cause congress to agree to it, despite the standpatter's fear of the "entering wedge," as they like to term all proposals to reduce a tariff schedule.

From the time when Gutenberg first used movable type, made of wood, to the present day of metropolitan papers, some of which are said to consume the product of acres of spruce in a single edition, printing has in very large degree depended upon the forests. In the face of a threatened shortage of timber, the amount of wood consumed each year for pulp has increased since 1899 from 2,000,000 to 3,500,000 cords. The year 1906 marked an increase of $3,000 cords in the import of pulp wood the highest average value per cord of all kinds and a consumption greater by 469,053 cords than that of any previous year.

Spruce is still the leading wood for the manufacture of pulp, a little less than 70 per cent of the total having been produced from it last year. Since 1899 poplar, which for years was used to the exclusion of all other paper wood, has increased to a consumption of 100,000 cords annually, but is outranked by hemlock.

New York consumes each year over a million and a quarter cords of wood in the manufacture of pulp, more than twice as much as Maine, which ranks next to Wisconsin, New Hampshire, Pennsylvania and Michigan follow in the order named. Sixty per cent of the wood used in New York was imported from elsewhere. The total consumption for the State shows a decrease over 1905.

BREAKS BONE KISSING GIRL.

Young Woman Blames Father for Her Sweetheart's Misfortune.

Winsted, Conn., Nov. 20.—From Killing Worth comes an unusual story of how James Brockett, while kissing his sweetheart, Miss Hattie W. Leonard, goodnight, fractured one of his bones. The swain blames his prospective father-in-law for his misfortune, because, he says, Papa Samuel Leonard tried to hasten his departure by shouting from his bedroom, "There is another night coming; why don't you let Hat go to bed? She's got to make butter tomorrow."

Jim, accordingly, started to leave, and on a landing outside, a dozen steps from the ground, he embraced his love and was about to kiss her, when he accidentally slipped on the frost covered porch and both went tumbling to the bottom. Leonard heard the shrieks and rushed to the door in time to hear, "You've done it now, dad; Jim's dead."

He was not, but he had a broken collar bone, and Leonard had to dress himself and hitch up a team and take the young man to a doctor. Hattie says she will go into court any time and say it was dad's fault, if he don't settle the doctor's bill.

BALLINGER AND ABILENE SOON TO LET CONTRACT.

Abilene, Texas, Nov. 20.—The Ballinger & Abilene will let contracts for building between December 1st and January 1st. It will be about forty-four miles long and will extend from Ballinger to Abilene, through Taylor and Runnels counties.

Right of way and capital are now being obtained. Surveys are made.

Secretary Cortelyou helped out the Wall Street fellows and the grain growers of the Northwest, but in the excitement he overlooked the cotton growers of the South. His attention was called to this little matter by Congressman Burleson and the newspapers, but doubtless the republican vote of the South was not strong enough to warrant the assistance.—Pittsburg Gazette.

BRYAN SCORES GAMBLERS.

Nebraskan Denies Roosevelt to Blame for Stringency.

Lafayette, Ind., Nov. 19.—W. J. Bryan, twice the standard-bearer for the democratic party for the presidency, speaking to an audience of 3,000 Democrats at the Jackson Club banquet here last night, declared with much fervor that President Roosevelt should not be held responsible for the present financial stringency. The blame, he said, should be laid at the doors of Wall Street gamblers.

Mr. Bryan said that the man who would withdraw money on deposit from the banks at the present time for hoarding purposes was like a man who refuses to aid his country in time of war.

The Nebraskan also spoke in favor of the postal savings banks in preference to asset currency.

He did not refer specifically to the next democratic national platform as it was reported by some that he would.

AN UNFAIR VENIRE

FOR THE JURY IN CALEB POWERS CASE IS CHARGED BY THE DEFENSE.

MOTION TO SET ASIDE

The Venire Drawn From Harrison County is Made—Republicans Not Seen.

By Associated Press.
Georgetown, Ky., Nov. 20.—When the Caleb Powers trial opened this morning the defense introduced over twenty witnesses in support of a motion to set aside the Harrison county venire. The most of the witnesses were republicans and their evidence was intended to show that the Scott county deputies were accompanied from Harrison county on their rounds in selecting the jurors and that republicans were passed over. The evidence of the witnesses consumed the greater part of the forenoon session.

FOR THEFT OF A DIAMOND TWO WOMEN ARRESTED HERE.

Upon receipt of a telephone message from Chief of Police Maddox of Fort Worth, Marshal Gwinn last night placed two women who were stopping at a local hotel under arrest and held them for the Fort Worth officers, where they are wanted to answer a charge of the theft of a diamond ring, valued at about $100.

It is alleged that the ring was stolen from a Fort Worth man who had been in the company of one of the women, and it is said that they are wanted in many cities for similar offenses.

After their arrest Marshal Gwinn learned that they had called at Fonville's jewelry store, where they had exchanged a ring for another and had a loose diamond which one of them carried set in the ring secured from Mr. Fonville.

The ring and the diamond reset in it were found in the possession of one of the women.

Detective Sebe Maddox and the Fort Worth man from whom the woman is alleged to have stolen the ring arrived in the city this morning. The woman claimed that the man had given her the ring, but she offered to give it back and defray the costs of his trip and the officer to this city and return if they would release her from custody. Later it developed that the diamond in the ring found upon the woman was a "phony" and the original could not be found. The owner, however, identified the ring in Mr. Fonville's possession as the one that had been stolen.

The women go under the names of Maud Stewart and Maude Woods and, according to Detective Maddox, the Stewart woman is one of the most accomplished confidence women in the Southwest. Although no charge was preferred against her, she voluntarily accompanied the officer and the other woman back to Fort Worth.

FINGER CUT OFF BY A CAR DOOR

Curtis Gregg, a young man from Henderson county, who has been picking cotton in the Byers neighborhood, had the tip of the third finger on his left hand pinched off by a car door, coming into this city from Byers yesterday afternoon. Young Gregg met with the accident soon after boarding the train. In company with another young man he was standing on the platform of the rear car with his hand resting against the door frame. A draft of wind through the car blew the door shut and caught his hand. Gregg came on to this city, where the wound was dressed.

FOUND STRONG DRIFT FOR BRYAN IN 1908

Special to the Times.
St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 20.—With Bryan heading the ticket, Missouri would cast a democratic majority of 50,000 in the next presidential election," said Congressman Madison R. Smith, of St. Francois county, at the Laclede hotel last night. Congressman Smith is in St. Louis on his way to Washington. While in the West attending the trial of William D. Haywood at Boise, Congressman Smith investigated the sentiment of that section of the country and found a strong tendency toward the Nebraskan. "The far western states are for Bryan," said Mr. Smith. In Idaho, Utah, Montana, Wyoming, Washington and Oregon, where I visited the principal cities after the Haywood trial, I found a pronounced drift to Bryan. It was much stronger than I had anticipated and forced the conclusion that Bryan is adding rapidly to his following in that section."

most a unit for Bryan. The democrats of his part of the State believe, he says, that Bryan would be the strongest candidate the party could put out, although the names of several other prominent democrats have been mentioned.

Predicts Democratic Sweep.
"The situation looks this way to us," said Mr. Smith. "There is every likelihood that the democrats will be successful in the next campaign. Though the financial flurry seems to have passed, it has discredited the Republican assertions that business and monetary depressions are impossible under a republican administration.

"This fallacy has been dinned into the ears of the rank and file of the republican party until they have come to look upon it as an established principle.

"Misstatements, backed by luck, had confirmed the belief with many, but now the independent voter, who hitherto has inclined to vote the republican ticket through a belief that he was thereby promoting 'good times,' now sees that he was far from the truth and that republican policies and methods, practiced and fostered by the republican party, have been directly responsible for the greater part of the financial disturbances to which the country has been subjected during the last twenty-five years.

Confident of Victory.
"We in the country are confident of a victory next fall. We believe Mr. Bryan will make the strongest candidate of the several strong men proposed, and there are many things which now point to his nomination. With him at the head of the ticket, the country democrats believe that the nation will again turn to a democratic administration and that the State ticket will be elected from bottom up."

To Elect a New Councilman.
Mayor Noble has ordered an election to be held on Monday, December 11th, the same date of the election to determine whether the city shall issue $25,000 of 5 per cent sewer bonds, to elect a councilman to fill out the unexpired term of J. G. Jones, who has resigned. Petitions are being circulated to place the names of W. E. Skeen and Job Barnett in nomination for the office.

DALTON TO BECOME TAILOR.

Former Bandit to Open Shop at Oklahoma City.

Oklahoma City, Nov. 20.—It is probable that Emmett Dalton, former bandit, who was pardoned from the Kansas Penitentiary by Governor Hoch, will open a tailor shop here. While in prison Dalton accumulated funds partly from allowances credited to him and the money he earned for tailoring done for persons outside the penitentiary.

Dalton is spending a few days with his mother at Kingfisher, and his sister at El Reno. He will come to Oklahoma City next week to seek a location for a tailor shop.

BAILEY'S SPEECH STIRS POLITICIANS

Austin, Tex., Nov. 19.—The speech of Senator Bailey at San Antonio last night caused quite a stir in political circles here today, especially the references to Gov. Campbell and Attorney General Davidson, referring to that part of Bailey's speech wherein he declares that the governor must behave himself if he wants to be re-elected governor, Governor Campbell is inclined to take that remark good naturedly. He asserted that Bailey would make a like remark about his closest friend, if he thought it necessary.

Attorney General Davidson was also seen regarding Bailey's speech, and, asked for a reply. "The people of Texas understand me and my position," declared Gen. Davidson, "and it does not take long to answer Bailey's speech."

As to the charge made by Bailey that Attorney General Davidson's brother is a stockholder in the Texas company, which explains reason why the attorney general has not brought suit against the Standard Oil Company General Davidson asserted that if his brother was a stockholder this was the first information he had about it. Further that if Bailey can find the Texas company is a part of the Standard, suit will be filed immediately against that concern.

Says Campbell Must Be Good.

San Antonio, Tex., Nov. 19.—That if Campbell behaves himself as a good democrat should he will be given the nomination next year, but if he behaves as a good democrat should not the nomination will be given to some one else.

That a governor is not to be blamed for enforcing platform demands.

That more care must be taken in the formulation of platforms and less effort made to regulate everything under the sun.

That San Antonio has been criticised too much because of the ideas of her citizens as to personal liberty and is freer from crime than most cities of its size.

That the country is sound at the core; people ought not to withdraw their money from banks and bankers have acted admirably during the present crisis.

That in his opinion Attorney General Davidson is a fool.

That Davidson's brother owns stock in the Texas company unless he recently sold it.

That former Governor Hogg sold his stock in that company because he believed the Standard Oil Company was manipulating to control it, and

That the provisions of the anti-trust act of 1890, compelling the attorney general to employ the county attorney in trust prosecutions and authorizing the payment of said official was expressly repealed, were among the declarations made by United States Senator Bailey in an address which bristled with features made at Beethoven Hall last night to an audience of about 2,500 people.

There were a few who occasionally hissed, and upon one occasion these were rebuked. Once when the speaker inquired if anyone in the audience would have compromised with a trust for $35,000 and paused for a reply, a man who was standing yelled "Hurrah for Davidson." Senator Bailey retorted that he once heard a man who went to church and yelled "Hurrah for Judas Iscariot," and this led to further exchange between the two.

Those who expected Senator Bailey to indulge in vitriolic denunciation of his enemies by name were disappointed. Almost at the outset he declared that he had some honorable opponents and that the other kind were beneath his gaze. He made no mention of Representative Coker, who made the charges against him last winter and the first installments of whose books appeared in a magazine placed on sale here yesterday.

Once a man yelled "What about Coker?" but the senator ignored the question. He referred personally only to Hearst, Davidson, Lightfoot, Cockrell, Gray, Crane and Gruet. His arraignment of the attorney general was perhaps a little more severe than it has been before.

GIVE US A CHANCE.

While a substantial majority of the merchants of Texas are in sympathy with the fight the Farmers' Union is making to hold up the price of cotton some of them are discouraging the movement because it involves the holding of cotton and consequent dull trade. Some of them are urging the farmers to sell. Such selfishness is deplorable; such folly is beyond understanding. Some are, perhaps, honest in believing that cotton prices will decline still further, to the injury of the farmers who are holding, but most of it is pure selfishness.

The farmers are making a most noble and self-sacrificing fight, many of them are living mighty close and denying themselves many things that they should have in order to hold their cotton. For forty years we have been peoned to Wall Street and the merchant has suffered with us, but hasn't sense enough to see that if we win this fight trade will be permanently better and his profits greater.

Give us a chance. Don't be a knocker. The Farmers' Union has officially urged its members to make satisfactory adjustment of all their accounts, that the merchant might not suffer unduly. Nearly all of the farmers are doing the best they can to protect their creditors and the big hearted and clear-headed merchants are with them. The others, who selfishly urge capitulation, may be remembered in the future.—Southern Farmer.

Some people's ideas of a live, wide-awake town do not run higher than a beer joint and a free lunch counter, and as a result of their own ignorance, for which, of course, the Times is not responsible, have stopped their subscription to the paper, because it sells advertising space to the pros. The only explanation of this the management can make is that the ants have not made application for space. The Times, as a newspaper, is not taking either side of the question and those who don't like its style, whether they be pro or anti, can pay up and quit. There are not many of that kind and if they are really in earnest about wanting to do something to help along the prosperity of Wichita Falls the very best thing they can do is to pack up their traps and leave on the first train.

The phenomenal growth in population and taxable values is sufficient evidence to justify the assertion that Texas offers the best field for investment of brawn and capital of any State in the Union, and it will only take time for Texas to convince the world of this fact.

Money and Cotton.

The New York Times, an eminently respectable newspaper and in all respects clean and high-toned, takes a fall out of the Southern cotton farmers who are holding their cotton for higher prices. Like all who are under the baleful influences of New York finance the Times is of the opinion that the producers should not hesitate to sacrifice their products in time of peril, because such sacrifice would bring a tide of money from Europe which at once falls into the clutches of the very men in New York who are responsible for present conditions. New York has gone crazy, hence in order to restore confidence there the Southern farmers ought to throw the result of a year's labor on the European markets for what it will bring so that New York may be assisted.

Whatever may be the merits of a holding movement, it is true that the greater part of the cotton production has not been a part of it. There are now and have been all along several millions of bales of cotton ready for market at current prices, but the money is not here to move it. The money has been concentrated in New York to enable the stock jobbers to keep their heads above the water. The situation is that the men who have no real value to sustain have been helped while those with real products have been denied assistance for no other purpose than to force them to sell their products on a depressed market.

The New York Times can go over its records and ascertain what has been done on the New York exchange in the way of trading in securities that possess no real value whatever. A security that has never earned a dividend and which can never earn a dividend has no real value for an investor. There are such securities being bought and sold by the bale in New York and it requires millions of dollars to make these transfers and when the transfers have been made, absolutely nothing of value has changed hands except the money. Many of these securities do not represent a dollar's investment in the projects upon which they are issued. Why then should all the producers of the country be expected to stew and fry in order to keep a speculative value in something that is really worthless?

That the money of the country should be diverted from legitimate business to the purpose of maintaining the fictitious values of fictitious securities is outrageous. It would be better for the trash to be collected in Broad street and burned. It represents nothing and is nothing, except in so far as the speculators may gamble with it.

A bale of cotton is something. It costs time and labor to produce it—more time and labor than it has required to produce tons of the worthless stock issued that are daily struggled over on the floor of the stock exchange. The farmers are entitled to good money for their cotton and it is right for them to hold it until they can obtain a reasonable price. The "natural course of trade" the Times speaks of is not impeded by the farmers, but by the speculators and the banks that have dabbled in speculation until confidence has been lost. New York is going to hear from the producing people of the country before very long.—Houston Post.

Censorious Sisters.

"I didn't think you'd get so angry because I said I thought you ought to wear gray suede shoes with your gray dress instead of white ones. I didn't mean to offend you," her friend very sweetly apologized.

"Never mind," she returned softly. "It was all right, but it made me angry for two reasons—first, because I had to wear the white shoes because I didn't have any others that were presentable, and, second, because when I left my family of sisters, who made every possible sort of comment on my clothes, I declared I would never stand it from anybody else. I said to myself that whenever a friend got so friendly that she thought she could treat me like a sister I'd shake her."—New York Press.

Watery.

"Looks like rain today," said the milkman as he poured the customary quart from his can to the picher.

"It always does," replied the housewife, compressing her lips with cold significance. Stiffing an oath, he took up his liquid burden and departed heavily.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

After the Races.

The curfew tolls the knell of parting day; the grouchy herd winds slowly o'er the sea. They failed to guess, as sporting people say, which was the shell that hid the little pea.—Washington Herald.

Never Forsake a Friend.

Whatever happens, never forsake a friend. When enemies gather, when sickness falls upon the heart, when the world is dark and cheerless, is the time to try true friendship. They who turn from the scenes of distress betray their hypocrisy and prove that interest only moves them. If you have a friend who loves you, who has studied your interest and happiness, be sure to sustain him in adversity. Let him feel that his love was not thrown away. Real fidelity may be rare, but it exists in the heart. They only deny its worth and power who never loved a friend or labored to make a friend happy.—Exchange.

A RANGER'S ROMANCE.

Captain Jack Springer, who was one of the most widely known ranger commanders in Texas forty-five years ago, and who had been mourned for as dead by many of his early day companions, reappeared here the other day. He was captured by a band of Apache Indians in 1864, after being severely wounded in a fight with them on the Canadian river, more than 300 miles west of here. Contrary to their usual custom the Indians did not kill and scalp their prisoner. They carried him into the mountains of Arizona, where he was held captive for four years.

At the time of Captain Springer's capture he was making his headquarters at Spanish Fort, a little frontier settlement, situated about seven miles north of here, on the Red river. It was on the border of the Indian country, and the rangers were kept busy guarding the property of the cattlemen who had ventured into that section, and in warding off the raids of the wily redskins. Captain Springer was a young man of fine appearance and he fell in love with Nellie Langham, the daughter of Tom Langham, a wealthy cattleman of that section. The daring young ranger commander was an ardent lover, and much of his time when he was not away on a scout after Indians was spent in Miss Langham's company. The date of the wedding had been set, and was only a few weeks off when the Apaches made their daring raid that led to the fight in which Captain Springer's capture was effected.

The members of the ranger force who escaped in the fight returned to Spanish Fort and brought word to Miss Langham that Captain Springer had been killed. They had no thought that the Apaches would permit him to live. The news of his death caused her to lose her health, and death claimed her in about a year. She was buried in a grove of cottonwoods upon the banks of the Red river.

Captain Springer was well treated by the Apaches, although a close watch was kept on him at all times to prevent his escape. He was taken on many hunting expeditions by the tribe, and after four years of captivity he was told that he was free to return to civilization if he desired to. His first thought was of his sweetheart at Spanish Fort, concerning whom he had had no word during the four long years. He immediately set out on his journey to his old home. When he arrived at Las Vegas, N. M., he met a former member of his ranger company who informed him of the death of Miss Langham. Captain Springer continued his homeward journey no further. He turned back and again joined the Apaches, with whom he lived for many more years. He was able, through the knowledge of the Apaches of the mineral bearing mountains of Arizona, to locate several good mines, and he is now possessed of a comfortable fortune. He is well known among the mining men of Arizona and New Mexico.

A few weeks ago he was seized with a desire to visit the scenes of his young manhood and to see the grave of his sweetheart, whose memory he had treasured during all these years. With this object in view he came here a few days ago and took the stage to Spanish Fort. He was in Nocona only a few hours, just long enough to catch the northbound stage. He found the long neglected grave and placed some wild flowers upon it. He hunted up a few of his boyhood acquaintances who are still living in that neighborhood and they had a good time exchanging reminiscences of the early days.—Nocona (Texas) correspondent in New York Press.

Much Wheat Will Yet Be Sown.
 If fair weather prevails for a week or ten days and cold weather does not set in much wheat will yet be planted in the Wichita country and the acreage will be almost up to the average. Wheat sown in December has made good yields in this section and with favorable weather conditions there is no reason why wheat sown as late as December 1st will not make a good crop.

Wheat already in the ground has been greatly benefited by the rains of the past few days and is now in a splendid condition.

The Wichita Falls high school football team is trying to secure a team to play them here on Thanksgiving day. Negotiations are on with the Henrietta team.

ALL EYES ARE UPON THE BIG PASTURE

Along the line of the Wichita Falls and Northwestern railroad, in the Big Pasture can be seen quite a number of extra large and attractive farm houses, with commodious barns painted red near them. The Big Pasture is being improved more rapidly and more substantially than has ever been any other new country.—Frederick Leader.

Is it not so? Truth is often stranger than fiction, and right here in this garden spot of the world it is exemplified more forcefully than any other place upon the globe where yet has been planted the peaceful standard of that great industrial army which ever westward takes its way.

The strangest fancy of romance, the most vivid imagery of a fertile brain, has never conjured up its counterpart, and it is a story unbelievable to him who has not seen 480,000 acres of public domain, uninhabited and untilled, sink to repose with the setting sun, as it were, and with its rising wake to the noisy hum of gathering thousands, and by high noon find the plain as if by a magician's hand dotted over in countless numbers by the habitat of man.

It is truly an Arabian Nights dream, a tale more wonderful than savage legend which pictured cities of pure gold to the mercenary Spaniards in the blood-stained past when first he set his iron heel upon these shores and spread the gospel with a two-edged sword, while seeking for himself the glittering hoards of Mexican Montezuma or the Incas of Peru.

But our wealth is not in base ingots of the mine, and no pirate crew is tempted to seek it here and smirch the brightest page in the Book of Nature with a crimson stain. For such dross as that has the blood-lust of Mars made millions mourn, and he who won it was no happier than before, but in this soil we have riches of more worth than all the wealth of India, and Gen. Industry has led his embattled hosts upon the field for its peaceful conquest. These are the hands which have trimmed Aladdin's Lamp and commanded the genii of progress to sow the plains with homes and spread contentment with unstinted hand as a prince from his bounty scatters gold. Here shall be found at last the highest condition of man's estate—peace and plenty walking hand in hand and full recompense for honest toil.

Upon this solid superstructure we will found a city, which shall sit proudly upon these hills as a queen upon her throne and lift its spires to heaven in eternal thanks to Almighty God for gifts so abundantly bestowed.—Kell City Enterprise.

The Home Newspaper.
Mr. Warren, the advertising manager of Marshall Field & Co., Chicago, thus describes the ideal advertising medium. He says:

"The ideal advertising medium is the home newspaper. It is a paper which is so filled with good thoughts for every member of the family that it finds a warm welcome and an eager reading wherever it goes. It is free from crime and scandal and unwholesome things. It is not boastful nor too much given to finding fault. It wins the confidence of the people by its simplicity, honesty, purity and progressiveness. It handles the news of the day in a manner which appeals to the better class of people and to the better nature of all people. It emphasizes the hopeful feature of the news rather than the discordant ones. It has a permanent location for its special features and has a reputation for correctness. It regulates its advertising pages by reasonable requirements regarding display and illustrations so that the page presents a pleasing whole."

A writer in the Nashville Tennessean says: "These are things which are telling today in the financial situation and which it is well to keep in mind when panic talk is heard: Enormous demand for American staples abroad, signal development of financial situation. Products of fields and mines of the west and south being rushed to European markets, to bring millions of gold into the country. Wheat, cotton, copper, tobacco and meats now being exported. Tobacco exports bring $1,000,000,000. Copper sales abroad for one day aggregate $14,000,000. Gold imports of $2,000,000, make total engagements of $30,000,000. Fifty ships in harbor of New Orleans loading cargoes for foreign ports. Demand for wheat on continent will prevent foreign bankers from retaining gold."

Saloons as Town Builders.

[Advertisement.]

If saloons build towns and make business better why do we fail to advertise to the world the fact that we have them? We tell outsiders with pride about Wichita Falls railroads, banks, broom factory, wholesale house, business enterprises, schools and churches, but say absolutely nothing about our saloons. Why?

Can a man who don't drink vote to put temptation in the way of his neighbor or of the boys of the city? Can the Christian man vote to put the bottle to his neighbor's lips and thus do what the Bible say not to do?

Men can't buy dry goods, shoes, hardware and groceries with the money spent for liquor. Without the saloon every merchant will do a better business.

The legislature of Alabama on yesterday put that State in the prohibition column.

Let's vote for purity of homes and God will bless us.

"Under Southern Moss," the opening play of the Hollingsworth Twins Company engagement at the Olympic theatre tomorrow night is a new play of the South, a story of Louisiana of today. It was written especially for the Twins and is a fit play to introduce the entire company to Wichita Falls.

"Under Southern Moss" is full of good clean comedy, pathos, emotion, intense dramatic situations and a play that high class specialties can be introduced in without detracting from the plot of the story.

The Hollingsworth Twins supporting company numbers twelve professionals, selected especially for the parts they play.

A feature is made of the admission price, being 25c, 35c and 50c. Best 50c seats on sale at Noble's book store.

MANY BONDS APPROVED.

About Six Million Dollars' Worth in the Past Year.

Austin, Tex., Nov. 19.—Approximately $6,000,000 in bonds were approved by the attorney general's department during the past year, including county, city and school district, mostly the latter. If this average should keep up there will be at least $50,000,000 in bonds in Texas during the next ten years, though the school districts have nearly all issued their bonds and constructed their improvements. There will be other districts organizing to issue more bonds.

Foul Play Suspected.

Special to the Times.

Canadian, Tex., Nov. 19.—A dead man was found on the railroad track at Glasier, and Sheriff Johnson was at once notified and went to Glasier and made an investigation.

As yet the body has not been identified. He was found on the track and a train had passed over his body, cutting his head off and mutilating it beyond recognition.

The circumstances indicate that it might be a case of foul play, and as a result of the investigation four persons have been arrested and are in jail, being detained until further investigation can be made.

There were no papers or anything found upon the body by which it could be learned the man's name, or where he came from, nor anything about him.
