3000 ARE HOMELESS

EAST FORT WORTH CITIZENS
PERSONAL EFFECTS BEHIND
IN THEIR FLIGHT.

FOUR HAVE LOST LIVES

Rivers are Highest in Fifty Years—
Floods Stop Traffic on Texas and Pacific.

Special to the Times.
Fort Worth, Texas, April 18.—Another rise of three feet in the Clear and West Forks forced a thousand persons to flee from their homes in East Fort Worth today. The rise was so sudden that people were obliged to leave their furniture and personal effects behind. Three thousand have been rendered homeless in this vicinity and all the streams are still rising.

The Texas and Pacific road reports that it will not be able to send trains west for three days owing to serious washouts. The Fort Worth Rio Grande and Santa Fe is running only a few trains.

Five hundred delegates attending the labor convention here are water bound. Those living at Abilene and other west Texas towns are leaving via the Denver road and Wichita Falls. The greatest damage on the Texas and Pacific is between Balld and Fort Worth, where the bridges and several thousand feet of track are washed out. A cloud burst in Parker and Palo Pinto counties last night will send all the streams here two feet higher, they being already the highest known for half a century. The roads running north are not badly affected. Mineral City near Weatherford is under water and Cleburne, south of here on the Santa Fe is surrounded by a flood.

Engineer Long, and fireman Allsup were found dead today under the engine, their train having left the track at a washout a mile north of Cleburne. Four persons so far have lost their lives.

Other Flood News.

Reports from Gainesville near the Oklahoma line say that heavy rains fell all night there and that a small crevasse blew down the residence of Joe Johnson at Barlow and damaged another building.

The river is rising rapidly. Dispatches from Waco state that the Texas Central service is crippled and that the Bosque river is four feet higher than year before known.

Dead Woman Granted Divorce.

Special to the Times.
Spokane, Wash., April 18.—Mrs. Mary Ruby Truesdale, a mute, testified in sign language that her husband, George Truesdale, who she married in 1904, a dozen years ago, exercised hypnotic influence over her, and Judge E. H. Sullivan, sitting in the Spokane county superior court, promptly granted a decree in her application for an absolute divorce. Mrs. Truesdale also alleged in her complaint that her husband threatened to kill her, and in answer to the court's questions through a court interpreter familiar with the language of signs the woman re-enacted the scene with all its terrors. The defendant was not in the court room. This was the first time a mute has appeared before a court of record in Spokane county and asked for legal separation.

Wichita Flour for Export.

The Wichita Mill and Elevator Company of this city on yesterday received an order for 750 barrels of flour from Santiago, Cuba. This mill annually exports thousands of barrels of flour to Cuba, South America and other foreign points.

At a meeting of the Wichita Falls Lodge of Elks last night the following members were initiated: C. C. Huff, Wiley Blair and B. D. Donnell.

DIDN'T LIKE RAG-TIME MUSIC.

Husband Seeks Divorce From Wife Because She Whistled Comic Operas.
Special to the Times.
Spokane, Wash., April 18.—Because she whistled tunes unlike those of his native land when he tried to sleep, Judge E. H. Sullivan in the Spokane county superior court granted a decree to Nels Nelson of Hillyard, Wash., in a suit for divorce against his wife, Margaret Merriam Nelson, whom he wedded in South Dakota four years ago. Mrs. Nelson is somewhere in the middle West, the complainant testified, and he had not seen her in thirteen months. One of the witnesses declared that every day for three years Mrs. Nelson went to her house to talk about Nelson's shortcomings, saying also that the only way she could get even with him was to whistle comic opera tunes. "Nels don't like anything except the folk songs of the Vikings," the wife is quoted as having said, "and that is why I whistle the good old rag time."

A $10,000 STALLION.

Said to Be the Highest Price Ever Paid For a Draft Horse.

Special to the Times.
Spokane, Wash., April 18.—What is declared to be the highest price ever paid for a draft horse was handed to W. R. Clemans of Moscow, Ida., by the Grangeville Breeders' Association. The animal, a Percheron stallion, brought $10,000. Horse owners and stockmen say that the horse is the best specimen of the breed ever seen in this part of the northwest. The stallion is dark brown, is five years old, weighs 2,360 pounds and stands 18 hands and 1 1/2 inches. The association, which is composed of ten owners, will establish a breeding farm near Grangeville, southeast of Spokane.

THOSE ANONYMOUS LETTERS.

Representative Lilley Denies Knowledge of Their Authorship.
By Associated Press.
Washington, D. C., April 18.—While expert Carvahoe was testifying today regarding the anonymous letters which had been written in connection with the submarine boat legislation, Representative Lilley gave out a statement denying all knowledge of the authorship of those letters.

SOLDIERS IN RIOT KILL TWO POLICEMEN

By Associated Press.
San Francisco, Cal., April 18.—Louis Bradbury, a well known mining man who arrived here yesterday from Mazatlan, brings news that while the white populace of that city was participating in a religious siesta last Sunday twenty-five soldiers broke out of the garrison and began a wild career of rioting and bloodshed. Within the space of half an hour they killed two policemen and one other citizen and waylaid and robbed three men in the outskirts of the city. Governor Canedo called out the district police and fifty of them started in pursuit of the soldiers.

BOWIE PAVING STREETS.

Beginning of Work Puts New Life and Energy in Citizens of Old Town.

Special to the Times.
Bowie, Tex., April 18.—Wednesday noon, April 15th, the first dirt was moved in the work of paving the streets, Mayor C. H. Boedeker, who has worked long with an indefatigable zeal for this happy condition of affairs, holding the plow handles.

A force of about forty men is at work and it is thought that within 90 days the job will be completed. Four carloads of brick have been unloaded and seventy-one more are coming.

The present plans include the paving of Mason and Smythe streets from the crest of the slope just above the business sections to the Denver railroad, and both Wise and Tarrant streets between Mason and Smythe.

The actual beginning of the work is serving to put new life and energy and pride in our entire citizenship and the prospects are bright for a continuation of activity in the matter of civic improvement.

INSPECTOR OF SCHOOLS FOR THE STATE UNIVERSITY FINDS A PLEASING CONDITION HERE.

PUPILS ARE COMMENDED

For Their Attitude Toward Their Work and Teachers are Praised—Necessity of New Buildings Urged.

Prof. J. L. Henderson, visitor of schools for the State University at Austin, spent yesterday afternoon inspecting the Wichita Falls high school. Prof. Henderson stated to a representative of the Times this morning that he had found the local school in an excellent condition and praised the work of Superintendent McNew, Prof. Fairchild and the other instructors very highly. He said that the work being done showed a marked improvement over the work a year ago, and that the spirit of the pupils and their attitude was most praiseworthy.

In speaking of the splendid growth of the town, Prof. Henderson urged the need of a new school building, saying that the present buildings were already too crowded.

He left this afternoon for Vernon, and after inspecting the Vernon school will go to Childress and Amarillo. FOR SALE—Victor gramophone with records; mantle folding bed; small White Mountain refrigerator; all in good condition. Apply at 805 Burnett street. 291-4t

About Mr. Lory's Statement.

In reply to the statement by Mr. Lory, which appeared in the Wichita Daily Times of the date of Friday, April 17th, which said statement was in substance as follows:

"That when work on the foundation of the Wyatt building was commenced that he appeared before the city council and protested against the construction of the kind and width of sidewalk proposed by Mr. Wyatt, and that at the time proposed to the city council that he would stand one-third of the cost of paving the alley as far back as his property line extended. That no attention was paid to his protest, and that on being informed by Mr. Wyatt that he proposed to construct the sidewalk on plans outlined unless stopped by legal process, there was no relief for him except through a writ of injunction and was therefore forced to resort to that somewhat disagreeable process; the mayor and the city council wish to make this statement:

First, That after the excavation had been completed and the foundation of the building started Mr. Lory appeared before the city council on April 8th and stated that he wished to make objections to Mr. Wyatt laying down an 8-foot sidewalk, and then the mayor stated to Mr. Lory that there were only three members of the city council present, and two of them were new members and unacquainted with the facts in the case, and that they would for that reason take the matter under advisement and investigate the conditions the next morning. That the mayor and the two new members on the morning of the 9th of April did investigate the matter, and told Mr. Lory, who was present at the time that they were these investigating and would let him know their decision at their earliest possible convenience. That on April 15th, six days after the investigation, the mayor and all the members of the city council were in session and had Mr. Lory's protest before the meeting for consideration, and that while the council were deliberating on the matter the injunction was filed prohibiting the council from taking any further action in the matter.

FLEET WILL REACH LOS ANGELES TODAY

By Associated Press.
San Diego, Cal., April 18.—The American battleship fleet is logging away today on another leg of its long cruise from Hampton Roads. Leaving here early today the run of nine hours to the next stopping place, Los Angeles, was commenced. The ships will arrive there at 3 o'clock this afternoon. All sixteen battleships will drop anchor for an overnight stay at San Pedro bay and tomorrow the fleet divides into four divisions to spend the balance of the week's stay allotted to Los Angeles at various ports along the beach, the first division remaining at San Pedro.

Ready to Welcome Fleet.

By Associated Press.
Los Angeles, Cal., April 18.—Everything is in readiness to receive the battleship fleet and almost the entire coast line along the beach to Los Angeles is fluttering with flags and festooned with lights that flash an individual welcome each evening. Today a hundred thousand people are estimated to be scattered along the beach and the bluffs for forty miles along the coast, stretching from well below the Santa Anna county line to the north shore of San Pedro Bay.

Will Import One Thousand Miners.

Special to the Times.
Spokane, Wash., April 18.—Reports from Wallace, the chief mining camp in the Couer d'Alenes in Northern Idaho, east of Spokane, are that between 800 and 1,000 miners will be imported from various parts of Missouri just as soon as the Federal, the Bunker Hill and the Sullivan and Hecla mines resume operations. Five hundred miners are also wanted at Baker City, Ore., south of Spokane, the scale running from $3.50 to $4.00 per day.

Man's Bones Found in Crucible.

By Associated Press.
Pittsburg, Pa., April 18.—The whitened bones of a man were found in a furnace crucible at a steel mill here today. None of the workmen are missing and it is believed that some despondent person committed suicide during a change of crews early today.

Four Workmen Drowned.

By Associated Press.
Winnepes, Man., April 18.—By the upsetting of a scow at a crossing on Battle river, which was swollen by the freshets, nine workmen were thrown into the water and four of them were drowned.

MAY BE DISSOLVED

"TOBACCO TRUST" WILL TAKE THIS STEP, IT IS SAID, ON ATTORNEYS' ADVICE.

INVENTORY BEING TAKEN

Several Branches Close Their Doors to Check Up Stock—Move is Expected at Washington.

Richmond, Va., April 17.—That the American Tobacco Company, with branches all over the civilized and semi-civilized world, is about to dissolve is practically admitted here tonight by officers of the company, who will not allow their names to be mentioned in connection with the admission.

This step, it is said, has been decided upon on the advice of attorneys for the company in Washington, who are of the opinion that the company will be liable under the terms of the Sherman anti-trust law.

The pending dissolution was the sole topic of conversation in tobacco circles in Richmond today.

Two reasons are assigned for dissolution which is possible by mutual agreement for the board of directors. The first is that the company is acting under the advice of counsel, the other being that the company has grown to such enormous size and its business methods have become so complicated that dissolution has been resolved upon as a matter of business expediency. The Whitlock branch of the American Cigar Company, a branch of the American Tobacco Company, closed its doors tonight to take an inventory. Simultaneously with the closing of the Whitlock branch the Jersey City (N. J.) branch and also the branch at Lancaster, Pa., closed for the same purpose.

Representatives of the American Tobacco Company declined to discuss the situation, further than to admit that the rumor pending dissolution of the trust is substantially true.

Bailey Will Support Bryan.

Palestine, Tex., April 17.—Senator Bailey today gave out the following letter, which is self-explanatory:

Palestine, Tex., April 17.—To J. S. Gibson, Corsicana, Texas—My Dear Mr. Gibson: I did not receive while in Fort Worth your letter of April 12, addressed to me there, and my attention has just been called to it, as published in the Dallas News of April 15. I know your friendship for me, and I am therefore more than willing to define to your satisfaction my attitude toward Mr. Bryan. As stated to you in our brief and hurried conversation, as I was leaving Corsicana, our Fort Worth convention pledged its nominees to support Mr. Bryan for the democratic presidential nomination, and you know my views upon the duty of obeying instructions well enough to know that I would withdraw from the ticket unless I intended to carry out the will of the convention. In the most perfect good faith. But not only will I vote for Mr. Bryan, because of this, I pledge to do so, but I favored making the pledge, and I would vote for his nomination even if I were not instructed to do so. I have believed ever since Judge Parker's nomination and disastrous defeat that Mr. Bryan's nomination was not only inevitable, but under all the circumstances it was the wisest one that our national convention can possibly make, and I shall therefore earnestly support him in the Denver convention. Not only shall I support his nomination, but I shall likewise aid to the best of my ability in making a platform which shall be democratic in every respect and upon which Mr. Bryan will have the best chance of an election. You will permit me to call your attention to the fact that just after the adjournment of the democratic national convention of 1904, Mr. Bryan bore generous testimony in the Commoner to my part in the work of making the platform of that body. As you requested me to make some public expression on that subject, I shall take this liberty of giving this letter to the press. Very truly your friend, J. W. BAILEY.

FIGHT FOR BIG NAVY WILL GO RIGHT ON

By Associated Press.
Washington, D. C., April 18.—"The fight for a big navy will go right on," said Representative Hobson, after an interview with the president this morning. "No battle was ever won or lost on the skirmish lines. We have only just begun. If John Sharpe Williams had not made the matter a party question in the house, there would have been many more democratic votes in favor of four battleships. The question of a big navy is broader than the party."

THE MEANING OF THE RESURRECTION

When the modern mind staggers before the story of the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead it fails to realize what its only actual difficulty is. St. Paul's question: "Why should it be thought a thing incredible with you that God should raise the dead?" still had but one answer—namely, that there is no reason why it should be thought incredible, because raising the dead, as the Apostle illustrates it in his Epistle to the Corinthians, is the most natural and usual thing in the world under certain conditions. "That which men sow is not quickened except it die."

Life not only after, but through and by means of death, is the universal law and the universal event. Only there must come first the undoing by decay of the bondage within which the principle of the seed is held. So long as it is imprisoned in the shell it is "bar grain," but when its outer covering is shed in the cocoon, or broken in the egg, or rotted in the grain, then the latent life comes forth and God gives it a body, and "to every seed its own body." So after death and burial, when the wrappings of this earthly flesh are dissolved and done away, "the body that shall be," "the body of glory," shall emerge in the fullness of time.

The miracle or marvel of the resurrection of Jesus Christ, like other miracles, lies in the fact that it disregarded the element of time and also did away with the conditions of decay. "He saw no corruption."

So much for the marvel of it. Now for the meaning of it.

First of all, of course, it means that all the dead shall rise and live again. "If we believe that Jesus died and rose again, even so they that sleep in Jesus will God bring with Him." The corollary to the article in the creed, "the third day He rose again," is the article "I believe in the resurrection of the body. I look for the resurrection of the dead or from the dead." One does not need, one would not dare to draw away the hearts and hopes of men from this great and blessed revelation of Holy Scripture, the strong and positive assertion of the Christian faith. But it is wrong to postpone the meaning of our Lord's resurrection to this final point of human history. It has a clear and more immediate application of what the Apostle calls "the power of His resurrection," "dead unto sin, but alive unto God, through Jesus Christ our Lord." This must be recognized and realized as the immediate practical purpose and result of the great fact of Easter day.

What is its message to men and women?

It is easy to dream a dream of hope and delight about the future; easy to have a sentiment and emotion that enables us to face physical death with an outlook beyond the grave and console us in the hour of bereavement. God forbid that there should be any shadowing of this hope. But the practical question concerns our daily life now.

Humanity stands today as it has stood for all these centuries, facing the fact of the wonderful life that our Lord lived here on earth, with the strange and inexplicable combination of fleshly reality without the restraints and hindrances of the flesh. And that means, in the first place, the pattern set, and in the next place the power given to us to live our lives on higher lines.

Translated into plain English, the great Easter thought is that we may not be absorbed and immersed in merely earthly, temporal, carnal thoughts and things. Life, never more than in our day, is crowded with business, with pleasure, even where it is not choked with indulgence and success.

The idlers and loungers, with no thought but amazement, are far too many.

The craze for accumulation of material wealth is wearing out the strength and duller all the finer faculties of men and women. And the carelessness and idleness of people who, with opportunities of service to society and the demands of home duties, waste daylight hours and turn night into day with games of chance, accentuated too often with the covetousness of gambling, are a reproach to the best inheritances and instincts of Americans.

"You have no leisure class in America," an Englishman once said to an American girl.

"Yes," she said, "we have, but we call them tramps."

Leisure there ought to be. Men and women there must be who are free from the strain and strenuousness of incessant occupation, but it ought to be a leisure for intellectual cultivation, for philanthropic interest, for the storing of energy, physical, mental and spiritual.

"Awake thou that sleepest and arise from the dead!" This is the Easter call, the Easter cry.

Hiding even one talent in the napkin of refined indolence or self-indulgence or burying it in the dirt of sensuality and sin, either one makes an "unprofitable servant" and lays up against the second coming of the Lord an account of wasted powers and lost opportunities which will then be beyond recall.

Move to Swap Counties.

There is a movement on foot to change the outlines, the boundaries of Oklahoma and Texas. Oklahoma seems to have an aversion to having the strip comprised by the counties of Texas, Beaver and Cimarron, any longer on her hands, because it spoils her looks. The counties form what was known as "No Man's Land," and runs right down to New Mexico. Besides giving the State's boundary line an odd shape, it is most inaccessible from any other part of the State, so Miss Oklahoma covets the counties of Lipscomb, Wheeler, Hemphill and Collingsworth, which border Oklahoma on the west, and Congressman Fulton has been appealed to to secure legislation to effect this change. While the trade would involve about the same amount of area and Beaver county is one of the best broom corn growing counties in the West, and the four Texas counties named are "great" agriculturally, still the people should be consulted before any steps are taken. By popular vote it should be determined whether or not the land owners and populace generally desire to be shot from State to State. Let the people decide, then go to congress with your prayers for relief in the matter.—Amarillo Panhandle.

Charter Has Been Granted.

The Exalted Ruler of the Grand Lodge of Elks has passed favorably upon the application for a lodge at this place. Notice has been received that as soon as the members here are ready the lodge will be instituted. Members of the Amarillo lodge will come down and do the work. The lodge has leased a room from Crisler & Davidson in their new building and the lodge will be organized as soon as the room is completed, which will be in about two or three weeks. There will be a charter list of twenty-eight, while several members of other lodges will go in here with the institution of the lodge.—Childress Index.

Notice to Water Consumers.

The hours for using water for sprinkling and irrigation purposes are from 6 to 9 a. m., and from 6 to 9 p. m. Consumers not observing this order will be cut off from their water supply without notice. The hours to begin and stop the use of water are indicated by signal whistles from the pumping station.

- For County Attorney: T. B. GREENWOOD.

Under the test prescribed by the county executive committee there will be many democrats who can be excluded from voting in the primary on May 2nd. In 1892 Wichita Falls went for Clark as against Hogg, and those who did the voting on the Clark side were never classed as anything but democrats. In the presidential election of 1896 there were several democrats who cast their votes for the Palmer and Buckner ticket, while there were some other democrats who voted for McKinley. In the presidential election of 1900 some of those who voted for Bryan in 1896 did the same thing in that year, and then after being out of the party for eight years got back in by voting for the "safe and sane" Mr. Alton B. Parker in 1904. The Times has not the least idea as to whether the Bailey or anti-Bailey side will have the advantage of such a test, as both sides, if the test prescribed is enforced, will lose many votes, which, after all, will amount to nothing better than cutting down the vote. The Bailey side prescribed the test, and it is up to them to enforce it on all alike by appointing judges to hold the election who will act impartially in the matter.

When Hate is Met With Hate.

How little we realize when we hurl thunderbolts of hatred toward another that these terrible thoughts that always come back and wound the sender, that all the hateful, revengeful, bitter, thoughts intended for another are great javelins hurled at ourselves.

How many people go through life lacerated and bleeding from these thrusts which were intended for others!

Think of people who refuse to speak to another, because of some fancied grievance or wrong, are really doing to themselves! How this venom intended for another poisons their own minds and cripples their efficiency.

A kindly feeling, a feeling of good will toward another, is our best protection against bitter hatred or injurious thoughts of any kind. Nothing can penetrate the love shield, the good will shield. We are unharmed behind that.

It does not matter what feelings of revenge and jealousy a person may have toward us, if we hold the love thought toward him, his javelins of hate will glance from us, fly back and wound only himself.

How easily, beautifully and sweetly, some people go through life, with very little to par them or to disturb their equanimity. They have no discord in their lives because their natures are harmonious. They seem to love everybody and everybody loves them. They have no enemies, hence little suffering or trouble.

Others, with ugly, crabbed, cross-grained dispositions are always in hot water. They are always misunderstood. People are constantly hurting them. They generate discord because they are discordant themselves.—Success Magazine.

Wind Jamming.

Perhaps there has been more discussion publicly and privately in the past year concerning that Bailey matter than any other question and yet the writer can't see that we have got anywhere. The Banner never did care much about discussing the subject and is getting more that way all the time. But the matter keeps coming up, and now the editor has been asked if he has turned Bailey man.

The editor is situated on this question like every other man in Texas. We doubt if there are one hundred men who have changed their views since the senator was elected and the editor is no exception. He is still an anti-Bailey man, and mightily tired of the subject. He recognizes that the anti-Baileyites precipitated the present fight, and though he expects to vote against the senator he expects the Baileyites to win out. The editor knows very little about the history of Cone Johnson, Terrell or any of the rest, but presumes that there are good men among the leaders on both sides. He knows that there are good men in both sides in Baylor county and respects the opinions of all of them.

Nothing but a lot of excitement can result from further worry in this business, and the Banner considers its space too valuable to waste in such a bandy of words. A prominent citizen remarked the other day that if people of Seymour had spent as much time and enthusiasm on a commercial club as they have on the Bailey question, there would have been something doing in the development of our town. Let's cut it out and boost Seymour and Baylor county. There are old settled towns and counties in the State that can attend to this matter, but we have not the time; if we are to keep up with the procession in West Texas.—Seymour Banner.

While the Tribune differs with the Banner editor regarding Mr. Bailey and expects to vote for him on the 2nd of May, yet we do most heartily endorse what the Banner says with reference to the matter being relegated to the rear. It should never have been brought up, and we agree with the Banner in adopting the course it has, that is, keeping Baileyism out of the paper. Like the Banner, we consider the Tribune space too valuable to our readers to keep publishing what is nothing more than a rehash of what has been said and contended so long. Let's devote our time and energy to something that will rebound more directly to our own and our county's immediate interest.—Stanford Tribune.

Cave In Stops Ballasting Work.

A cave-in and a landslide in a cut on the branch track running to the Fort Worth and Denver's rock quarry near Alvord has temporarily stopped the ballasting work, but has given a large number of the men employment in removing the dirt from the tracks.

In many places—between this city and Fort Worth the tracks are reported in the worst condition in many years. All Denver trains are running behind their schedules.

It is understood that when the track is ballasted as far as Decatur that the work will be stopped at that point and will be begun between this city and Electra, where the tracks are in especially bad condition.

About Eschitt's Depot.

A delegation of Eschitt citizens were in the city yesterday to confer with Mr. Frank Kell of the Wichita Falls and Northwestern railway relative to a compromise concerning the depot petitioned for by the citizens of Eschitt. It is understood that a satisfactory agreement was reached, but the particulars have not been made public.

The 4th After Supper Sale

IS ON SATURDAY NIGHT AT 7 P. M.

Almost unnecessary to advertise this event. It has already secured a following who has found it pays to be on hand bright and early at these week-end merchandising events.

Some of our best departments made liberal contributions of good merchandise for this week's end sale and we didn't take the prices that they carried, but made our own, for the After Supper Sale must give you goods at a lower valuation than you can buy them under any other circumstances.

A slow old-time merchant would be horrified at the way we put prices on the toboggan at these After Supper Sales. The After Supper Sales are certainly appreciated.

SILK FROM GRASS.

W. S. Devery to Utilize Product of the Rockaway Marshes.

William S. Devery, New York's former chief of police, is about to produce from the vegetation of the Rockaway marshes a fabric finer than silk, so he says.

He says this fabric can be used for anything for which the textiles made from the cocoon are employed. Just what the fabric is and how it is treated he declines to say, and little "appertain" to and touchin' thereon" can be learned beyond the fact that a company is to be formed and the looms of France will be brought into competition with a marsh silk which will be only half as expensive as that which owes its origin to the silkworm.

"Call it?" remarked Mr. Devery when asked for details. "Well, I haven't dealt with that phase of the question. How would Azellina do? When those Frenchmen get in the race with it they will find it a 100 to 1 shot walking into homes of refinement to a brilliant finish. Azellina will certainly be going some if that is what we nominate it. I don't know but what we might organize the Daffy Down Dilly Silk company, and when everything is in good shape we certainly will give the public a run for its money."

"What is it? Not on your life. There are too many of those bright chemist boys around, and if I went into the details they would be making it, and there would be nothing more in it for W. S. Devery. But you can take this from me, and that is that it is a new innovation and superior to anything imported."

BED FOR AUTO VICTIMS.

New Hospital in Philadelphia to Have Unique Endowment.

The Garretson hospital, recently opened in Philadelphia, will be the first in the United States to have an endowed bed reserved for the use of victims of automobile accidents. Money for the purpose is being raised by members of the Quaker City Ladies Motor club.

A stipulation of their deed of gift will be that victims of their own cars will have a prior right to the bed after which others who may be injured by reckless or careless motorists will have a chance to use it if it be unoccupied at the time.

Mazarin and His Pictures.

Perhaps no more ardent lover of pictures ever lived than Cardinal Mazarin, minister of the regency during the minority of Louis XIV. Being told that he had but two months to live, he was soon after seen in his nightcap and dressing gown, tottering along the gallery, pointing to his pictures, exclaiming: "Must I quit all these? Look at that Correggi; this 'Venus' of Titian; that incomparable 'Deluge' of Caracci! Farewell, dear pictures, that I have loved so dearly and that cost me so much!"

Exaggerated.

Among the begging letters recently received at the office of a benevolent society was one running thus:

"This unfortunate young man is the only son of a widow who died childless, and his earnings maintain his aged father and infant brothers, whose sole support he is."

The secretary of the society wrote on the margin of the epistle the following note:

"The circumstances of the case are evidently exaggerated."—London Tatler.

Shaw, the Iowa Wit

Quaint Personality of the Treasury's Former Secretary Who Aspires to the Presidency—Hard Worker, Cutter of Red Tape and Ready Story Teller.

By JAMES A. EDGERTON.
NOBODY has ever been able to tell why former Secretary of the Treasury Shaw, the latest candidate for the presidency, was named Leslie. He certainly is not a Leslie kind of man. The appellation does not fit, but neither do his clothes. There are those who intimate that even his presidential aspirations are several sizes too large for him. Intimating that there is a mist all around. In politics people are liable to say almost anything. Politics is as conducive to libel as a pink tea is to gossip.

The advent of Shaw makes nine Republican entries for the nomination—Taft, Hughes, Cortelyou, Foraker, Knox, Fairbanks, Cannon and La Follette being the other eight. How many of these will drop out before the convention meets and how many new ones will be added it remains for time and the politicians to determine. Whoever else is eliminated, it is safe to say that Shaw will remain. He says he has received four or five foolish letters asking him to run and such a demand is not to be ignored. Governor Cummins was probably not one of these correspondents, but as Cummins is running for the senate he can be depended on to keep hands off.

Full of Epigrams.

If Shaw should be elected president, he would be the first secretary of the treasury to attain that distinction; also the first man west of the Mississippi. Little things like these do not deter a man of Shaw's makeup, however. He thinks that Taft is being pushed too much by Roosevelt and that Hughes is too lukewarm in his candidacy, so there ought to be some chance for a man who is running on his own feet and who wants the job. Moreover, Shaw got his start in politics by answering Bryan, which ought to be a good omen if the Nebraskan is named by the Democrats. What more logical than that the Iowa man should be given a larger field in which to do battle with "the peerless?" Shaw can tell stories almost as fast as Uncle Joe Cannon and is full of epigrams and undelivered speeches. If any Republican candidate could keep in talking distance of the orator of the Platte, it would be Shaw.

Since he resigned as president of the Carnegie Trust company it has been announced not only that the former secretary of the treasury would run for the presidency of the United States, but—

That he would also run for the vice presidency.

That he would become president of the Kulckerbocker Trust company.

That he would run for governor of New York.

That he would take charge of the National Bank of Commerce of Kansas City.

That he would reorganize and consolidate the United States Mortgage and Trust company and the Windsor and Empire Trust companies of New York.

"I have answered all these reports in the affirmative, and I shall accept every place," laughingly remarked Shaw to a group of newspaper men.

Some years ago one of the Des Moines papers kept this standing line at the top of its editorial columns: "Keep Your Eye on Shaw!"

While this motto was still being run Mr. Shaw was made secretary of the treasury. A wag suggested that the editor ought to take the line down or the public might conclude that the new head of the finance portfolio needed watching, to keep him from making away with the treasury surplus.

If Speaker Cannon has been called the "David Harum of politics," Shaw was dubbed the "David Harum of the cabinet." This designation was suggested by their quaint sayings and their stock of good stories rather than by their ability as political horse traders.

There are getting to be so many David Harums of this, that and the other that they should organize themselves into a political party. They might not elect a president, but they would at least make it exceedingly interesting for the other parties.

This is something like the suggestion that a Johnson party be organized, with John A. Johnson of Minnesota for president and Tom L. Johnson of Ohio for vice president. Platform—Get all you can for 3 cents. Keep it in the family.

Samples of His Stories.

All the stories told by Mr. Shaw are not new, but he at least is not such an antiquarian research humorist as Chauncey M. Depew.

Senator Depew, by the way, is the man who convulsed a London audience by reciting a poem written by Shaw:

"Go ask papa," the maiden said,
He knew that her papa was dead.
He also knew the life he'd led,
And understood her when she said,
"Go ask papa."

Think of a Sunday school superintendent like Secretary Shaw making a girl tell her wooer to go to hades!

When he was governor of Iowa Mr. Shaw was one day making a speech in which he was frequently interrupted by a certain man. The fellow butted in once too often. In an unhappy moment he broke in with "Pardon me, but"—

Before he could finish the governor replied, "Well, I've pardoned lots worse fellows than you in my time, and I presume it would be unjust to draw the line here."

There were no more interruptions.

When asked the difference between a statesman and a politician Mr. Shaw defined it as the "difference between a young man seeking a position and a boy looking for a job."

A reporter once asked Secretary Shaw if he intended investigating the customs frauds in New York.

"I knew a fellow once," said Shaw, "who hunted foxes with a brass band. [A long and embarrassing pause while he went on signing his mail.] He didn't get any foxes."

Wall street dubbed Shaw "the farmer," which is not at all a bad card, among the real farmers, whose feeling for Wall street would sour fresh milk. The friends of the ex-secretary ought to use that. Shaw showed the high financiers, however, that you cannot

A Few Words About Our Fresh Fruit And Vegetable Department

Last year this department of our store became very popular because of the high quality of fruits and vegetables we made it a point to secure fresh every day.

This season we propose to make it better than ever. Everything we buy will be personally inspected by a member of the firm before it is accepted, and nothing but the best will be accepted. We intend to sell only the kind we will be willing to put on our own tables and we will have everything the market affords.

Our new telephone call list will be a great aid in connecting with this department. You will be able to get the best and freshest the market affords almost as quick as we get it, if you are on our telephone list. Call up 232 and ask us about it.

always tell a farmer by the cut of his clothes. When he first went to New York they gathered around him to know what he intended to do. In reply he told a story. Out in Shaw's town of Denison a wealthy man once announced that he intended putting up a $750,000 building. As he owned real estate all over the place there was a great deal of excitement as to where the town's biggest structure was to be located. Finally curiosity reached such a pitch that a committee waited on the man and asked him point blank. After an embarrassing pause he replied, "Now, when anybody comes to you to ask you where I am going to put that $750,000 building you tell him you have seen me, and then you tell him that you don't know." The financiers saw the point and dejectedly wended their way back to the Stock Exchange.

Secretary Shaw was seen one day backed up against an iron stanchion in front of the Arlington.

The late Senator Platt of Connecticut happened by and hailed him.

"Hello, Shaw!" said he. "What are you trying to do with that iron post?"

"Grafting in a backbone," was the quick reply. "This treasury business is a good deal tougher than Iowa politics."

When the treasury portfolio was offered to Shaw his friends were in a quandary whether or not he would accept. He resolved their doubts by a story.

Two boys, Bill and Bob, were at the dinner table. Some time before the end of the meal the pie was passed. Bill declined to take any, saying he was not ready for dessert. Bob helped himself to the largest piece and, turning to the other, remarked, "Bill, allus take pie when pie is passin'."

Paid a Clerk's Debt.

Mr. Shaw found that one of the treasury clerks was in arrears to the doctor. Calling the man before him, he asked kindly as to the reason for the debt.

"Pairs," answered the clerk.

"Pairs of what?"

"Twins. I kept my head above water when the first pair came, but when the third pair arrived a few weeks ago I just naturally ran behind."

Secretary Shaw looked his astonishment, but asked how much the last set cost. When the clerk had told him, Shaw reached in his pocket and said he would pay for that pair himself.

Like Russell Sage, Mr. Shaw never takes a vacation. He tried it once and went to the Yellowstone. "I didn't like it," he said. "I got to feeling queer. Two days of it was enough."

A friend of the family spoke of the kindness of Mrs. Shaw.

"Kind?" repeated her husband. "Mrs. Shaw would be kind to her own executioner."

While Shaw was governor, but temporarily away, a letter arrived at the Des Moines postoffice addressed:

The Best Woman in the World
Des Moines
Ia.

"The letter," said Mrs. Shaw in delight, "was delivered to me without question, as the postmaster knew the writing."

Mrs. Shaw herself is not without a well developed sense of humor, as the following retort shows:

A friend propounded the query:

"What could be more dreadful than for a woman after mending her husband's coat to find in one of the pockets a love letter from another woman?"

"Fortunately," said Mrs. Shaw, "that could never happen. The woman would find the letter first, and then she would not mend the coat."

When Secretary Shaw reached Denison late one night he found the driver of the only carriage asleep inside. Rather than awake the man, whom he knew well, the cabinet officer climbed on the seat and drove himself. When he reached his destination he aroused the astonished Jehu and gave him his fare with an extra tip.

Leslie Mortier Shaw was born in Vermont sixty years ago. He worked his way through a college at Mount Vernon, Ia., by sawing wood and selling fruit trees. He took a course in the Iowa College of Law and began practice at Denison. In 1877 he married Miss Alice Crawshaw of Clinton county. In time he prospered to such an extent that he organized a bank and afterward added a branch. He was prominent in the Methodist church, a delegate to its general conference and for years superintendent of its local Sunday school.

Mr. Shaw became politically prominent in 1896 by answering a speech made by Hon. William J. Bryan. He afterward campaigned all over Iowa and was so effective that the next year he was elected governor. Two years later he was re-elected by an increased majority and was forced to decline a third term. In 1902 he was made secretary of the treasury, which he resigned about a year ago to become president of the Carnegie Trust company of New York.

Shaw's associates in the Carnegie Trust recently announced his resignation and said he made the move to give him time to nurse his presidential boom. The ex-secretary's business shrewdness was shown by the fact Cutter of Red Tape.

In the treasury department he was noted for his long hours, hard work, common sense, humor and the cutting of red tape.

He takes little recreation, but is a skillful horseman, as a number of Washington officials found to their discomfort. The Washington men, like those of Wall street, took the secretary for a farmer and therefore determined to show him some tricks in riding. It was a case of the bitter bitten, for the Iowa man led his would be instructors such a merry chase over steep bridle paths and other steep places where there were no paths at all that they never repeated the experiment.

From several of his public utterances Mr. Shaw has made it plain that he is not in entire accord with all the Roosevelt policies and therefore is usually regarded as an anti-administration candidate. One phase of his political philosophy is summed up in this sentence, delivered to a Methodist conference:

"I am an organization politician. A machine politician is not as great a nuisance as a foot-reformer."

Home For "Forty-niners."

Blanche Bates, the star of "The Girl of the Golden West," is agitating a project for the establishment of a home for needy "forty-niners." Miss Bates is an ardent student of the history of her native state and believes the work of development in California is directly due to the early gold seekers. In return for their efforts of a half century ago she believes those that require it should be rewarded to the extent of furnishing them a refuge in their old age. The actress is now in communication with the various congressional representatives from California with a view to learning how much she may depend upon them for aid in the movement.

Waste of Energy.

"You never change your mind about anything, do you?"

"What's the use?" rejoined the egoist. "I found years ago that I was just as liable to be wrong the second time as I was the first."—Washington Star.

ample, the skirt that expresses the Parisian idea of all that is ultra-smart—the circular skirt that is contained in the Empire manner two inches above the normal waist line—is worn with one of the sloping cutaway Directorate coats that places the suit in the class of the dressy tailor-made.

The coat, on the other hand, may be as much decorated as one's fancy suggests. Silk braid, or the braid of vegetable fibre as a binding for the coat outline and the seams, forming simulated button molds and twisted into rosettes and gretots, is the latest work in coat trimming. Silk coutache is wonderfully decorative, and a pretty little quirk is given to it this year by standing it on its side, as it were, instead of applying it on the flat.

Waistcoats are Coarming.

The vest is an insistent feature of the new suits. It is not only very smart, showing under the coat, but it carries weight as a blouse decoration. We have been educated away from the separate waist for so long that anything that definitely connects the bodice and skirt is desirable to our eyes. The bretelle waistcoats, as they speak of them in Paris, serve the twofold purpose of a vest and a connecting link between the skirt and waist. Sometimes they are made of material with a smart-like pocket on the left side.

To return to the subject of coats, the gapped tunic trimming of the skirts has brought in a coat outline that is very smart and new. The coat itself is a cut-away, closing with one below a rather deep neck opening. The fronts slope up from a sharp point to a shortened line on the hips that follows the direction of the skirt trimming.

No matter how limited a woman's opportunities for social enjoyment, she should always have a dress which can be called into requisition upon any occasion which may present itself. It places one at a disadvantage, and is an affront to her hostess, for one to appear at a function inappropriately gowned.

An Expensive Gown is Not Necessary.

The question of expense need scarcely be considered in providing oneself with a dress that will be suitable for formal afternoon or evening wear. The most beautiful of the evening shades are found in inexpensive materials that give better service than many of the very costly but very perishable tissues. Then, too the present modes are easily managed by the woman who has to do her own sewing.

Take for example, a skirt with the tunic brought up to the waist line in the front. It is a little more than a very wide and well-shape circular piece wrapped around the figure and brought into a belt. The draperies of the waist half-veiling the arms and neck, are very lovely, and one hardly knows whether they are most effective in crepe de Chines or in diaphanous summer materials.

Variety in the New Styles.

If variety is indeed the spice of life then one must admit that the bid of fashion has been well seasoned this spring. Never were modes more delightfully inconsistent, more widely at variance with each other than at present. The authorities who maintain that a woman must dress to suit her type stand aghast at the spectacle presented by a mondaine of today. One sees her in the morning the incarnation of the poster girl—straight and slim and boyish in a well-turned-out tweed suit, high collar and daring little vest. In the afternoon she apes the mervelline, or feminine incroyable of the directorie period, with her sloping cutaway coat and trailing, sheath-like skirt. In the evening her gown is a la Grecque and she herself is stately, statuesque—her hair knotted low against her neck and bound with a fillet of gold.

The woman who will declare that the present fashions are unbecoming, beautiful in themselves, but they are so diversified that, handled by the clever woman, they become pliant mediums concealing bad points and emphasizing good ones. The woman who finds that the close-fitting princess gown is unflatteringly truthful in its revelation of her figure can take refuge in Grecian draperies and mandrian effects that lend themselves admirably to little coquetties of dress.

The Question of Skirts.

Take, for instance, the question of skirts. One finds the most extreme of the new styles co-existent with the most conservative of the old ones. The gored circular skirt with the high waist line, and the skirt with a suggestion of the Greek tunic movement in one form or another, are the skirts that all Paris is mad over.

But if one would speak of the new influence in skirts it is, of course, in the direction of more closely fitting, sheath-like effects. They are kept perfectly plain well below the hips, sometimes the skirt has the ripple of the wide circular shaping. Again it is gored and flares out below the knees. One of the smartest versions of it is cut with an underfold on each seam that does not quite reach to the hips.

Bands that suggest the tunic are more practical for walking skirts than the tunic draperies that are seen at their best, in the soft materials of house gowns and evening dresses. The line of trimming that is most generally becoming dips toward the front and rises on the sides, giving a slight forward movement.

Every variation of the skirt theme has a coat accompaniment that harmonizes admirably with it. For ex-
