GEN. EVANS ELECTED COMMANDER IN CHIEF

Birmingham, Ala., June 11. General Clement A. Evans of Georgia was elected commander in chief of the United Confederate Veterans yesterday over General Cabell of Dallas by a vote of 1,232 to 1,084.

General Evans, the new-commander in chief, is a man of pleasant address, and one of the most loved in the army. He is a native of Georgia, born of North Carolina and Virginia revolutionary parentage. He was graduated from the Georgia Law school and began the practice of law at 19 years of age. He was elected judge of the county court at 22, and a state senator at 25.

The civil war commenced while he was a senator, and although he was exempt from military service, he joined a company in his county in January, 1861, and began his military career. He was first elected major of the Thirty-first Georgia regiment and then promoted to colnoel. His regiment was put in Lawton's brigade, afterwards Gordon's brigade. General Evans succeeded Gordon when he was promoted major general, and again succeeded Gordon in command of the and, Ore., June 11 .- As a result division. No one finds fault with history for recording the evil deeds of men. It would be considered an unreliable, a defective and worthless record which presented only one side. Such a history would have no meaning. The manner of printing news may be justly criticised, but not the fact of printing it if a paper expects to reflect life as it is .-American Press.

Spokane, Wash., June 11 .- 'Compe every man and woman who dinks 19toxicating liquors to pay a license fee. exempt saloon men and permit anyone who desires to engage to t'e truffic. the sale restriction be is to seil only to license-holders.".

These in brief are the chief points of a plan announced by E. E. Hall of Spokane, a candidate in the third district for the next legislature of Washington to solve the liquor question in this State, in which the republican arty is pledged to local option, while e democrat sare on record as favoring absolute prohibition.

Mr. Hall has been a resident of Estern Washington since the pioneer Tays and is a brother to former State nator Oliver Hall, who is mentioned a possible candidate for the lieu-Coant governorship on the republien ticket.

Outlining his plan, Mr. Hall saidat while he is willing to stand quarely on the republican State platorm and vote for the passage of a cal option law, if elected, he will troduce a measure which provides that the man who drinks the liquor should pay the license. He added:

"My plan would be to abolish all saloon licenses, permitting any man Cesiring to do so to sell liquor. If a man wants to drink he should be comcelled to take out a license to do so, and it should be a misdemeanor for iny person to sell to a man who does not have such a license. Such license should be issued by city and county, a reasonable fee being about $5.00 a year for county licenses and from $1 to $3.00 a year for city. This would bring in a larger revenue than under the present license system, and would

Twenty-Four Years

We have passed the 24th milestone in our existence as a Bank in Wichita Falls. This Bank having been organized May 15, 1884.

Twenty-four years ago Wichita Falls was a frontier town with one railroad outlet via Ft. Worth. No farmers in the surrounding country, with practically no rural districts and surrounded by sheepand cattle ranches on all sides, and people looked upon the town as only a temporary stopping place.

The organizers of this Bank were among the first to foresee the future development of this country, and today Wichita Falls is a bustling City of 6,000 people, with railroad outlets in seven different directions, rapidly forging to the front as the commercial metropolis of this section.

During this time we have grown from a small beginning to a large and successful business.

We have endeavored to keep abreast of the times, providing tor ourselves every modern appliance and up-to-date system to facilitate our office work, providing for our depositors every safe-guard known for their protection and security.

We have given freely to every deserving charify; contributed to every enterprise that would tend to improve or bring trade to our City.

We enjoy the confidence of the people of this community, and take this opportunity to thank our customers whose patronage has helped to make the last year the largest and best in our history.

WE ARE HERE TO STAY.

PLAY MEAN TRICK ON BRIDAL COUPLE

the meanest trick that a blushing bride and bridegroom ever had played on them was perpetrated on Frederick Hoffman and his bride, who was Miss Alice Elizabeth Welch, as they left the German Evangelical church after their marriage ceremony had been performed last evening. Twenty-six babies, some of them white, some of inguished for having largest leaves, them black, some of them dirty, a few They often reach a length of fifty clean, some of them smiling, but most of them bawling at the tops of their voices, were lined up on either side of the walk that leads from the side door According to calculations by one of of the church to the street, where the

Mr. and Mrs. Hoffman came out of the wedding-march, and just behind them came their attendants, Ernest Thornton and Lena Hoffman.

The first sound that caught their cars from the street was the baby cries, and the first sight they witnesslions of them, it seemed.

As quick as they could the members of the bridal party got into their carriages and hurried away, followed by the screams of the bables and other screams of friends who had played the

Robert R. Bell, candidate for the legislature from Cooke county, has purchased the Daily and Weekly Gainesville Messenger, Doubtless he means to do his electioneering through the press, and concluded at the outset it was cheaper to buy a paper rather than pay the regular and customary announcement fees.

Six or eight months ago our Chamber of Commerce did some very etfective advertising in the way of mail- Waste and ing out to inquiring home-seekers literature descriptive of the resources of Wichita Falls and surrounding country. Our present unprecedented wave of prosperity may, without doubt, be attributed in a large measure, to the good work of our Chamber of Commerce. But the question now is, "Should this good work be stopped?" So far as the Times has knowledge, there is no literature to be sent out, the supply having been exhausted months ago and no steps have been taken to replace it. Nearly every mail brings to this office descriptive literature of some ambitious, growing town, and Wichita Falls should be doing the same thing. The cities that have been built without the aid of an By the Week (mail or carrier) 15 organized body of pushers and boosters are few. Our Chamber of Commerce should get basy again and do something.

> There are now more than one hundred carpenters at work in Wichita Faffs, and more buildings (both business and resistence houses) are now under construction than ever before in the history of this city.

Our daily rain has ceased to be a cause for rejoicing. It fell as sunal this morning and in many places will keep the binders out of the fields of overripe grain for another day.

The Rubicon.

The Rubicon was the small stream separating ancient Italy from Cisalpine Gaul, the province which had been allotted to Caesar. When Caesar crossed this stream at the head of an armed force he passed beyond the limits of his own province and legally became an invader of Italy.

Merely a Sample.

POSTAGE STAMPS.

Carelessness That Enrich Uncle Sam.

"If we waste other things the way we do stamps," said a stamp clerk the other day. "we Americans are just about the most wasteful people on the face of the earth. "Upcle Sam is much more than half a million dollars in pocket every year as a result of carelessness in the use of stamps. The government never loses anything by such carelessness and always gains.

"How many stamps do you put loose in a drawer of your desk or in a corner of your pocketbook and pever think of again until you come across then, aged and torn, while summaging about months later? Then they are tossed into the wastebasket.

"Lots of people are careless about putting stamps on envelopes and paper wrappers. The result is that often before the stamp has been canceled it has fallen off and the letter is held up at the other end of the line until postage is paid.

"A great many more folks put on too much postage. They slap on two or three stamps to a package that requires only one. They are too busy or too indolent to take the trouble to have the package weighed and find out how much postage the package requires.

"If too little postage is put on a letter, Uncle Sam simply holds it up at the other end until the postage due has been paid. But if too much is put on Uncle Sam simply pockets the excess to which he is not entitled and says nothing."--Chicago Tribune.

Didn't Want to Be Singular.

It was in the drawing room after dinner that they discussed an absent maiden friend's bad points with the usual grim and scathing glee. Having thoroughly dissected her personal appearance, they next paid attention to her mental shortcomings.

"She is a very singular girl," spake the one.

"Yes, indeed." responded her companion. "But, then, that is not her fault, for I never saw a girl so anxious to be plural."-Argonaut.

Where Pat Made a Mistake.

"Oh," sobbed Mrs. Casey, "some wan told me husband. Pat, that he c'd have his pants pressed be lettin' th' steam roller run over them, an' Pat troid th' scheme!"

"Well, phy do ye cry?" asked the friend, Mrs. Garrity. "Oh," wailed the wife, "Pat forgot t' take th' pants off first!"-Judge.

There are nettles everywhere, but the smooth, green grasses are more common still.—Mrs. Browning. WATCH THE CELLAR.

If Not Clean It Is a Breeding Place For

Underground cellars ought to be done away with. They are relics of a dark age. More sickness originates in them, physicians claim, than anywhere else about the place. They cannot be kept in sanitary condition while vegetables are constantly decaying there. The place for a celtar is above ground and outside the dwelling. Leave the basement for the furnace, the coaf bin and a general storeroom. - An above ground cellar is more convenient in every way. Your vegetables can be stored with less than half the labor when you do not have to go up and down stairs with them. You can keep an above ground cellar clean with but little trouble. while the underground one, being difficult to get at, will be neglected nine times out of ten and allowed to become a source of infection to the family above it. Ventilation and temperature are much more controllable in such a building than in an old fashioned underground cellar, which obliges the housewife to use up so much strength in climbing stairs. Locate it convenient to the kitchen, with which it can be connected in winter by an inclosed passageway. Watch the cellar. Remember, the doctor who immediately asked, when called to treat a case of typhold fever, if there was decaying cabbage in the cellar. There was. Keep the cellar sweet and clean and see that it is frequently aired .- Suburban Life.

A Mountain of Alum.

In China, twelve and a half miles from the village of Llouchek, there is a mountain of alum which in addition to being a natural curiosity is a source of wealth for the inhabitants of the country, who dig from it yearly tons of alum. The mountain is not less than ten miles in circumference at its base and bas a height of 1,940 feet. The alum is obtained by quarrying large blocks of stone, which are first beated in great furnaces and then in vats filled with boiling water. The alum crystallizes out and forms a layer about six inches in thickness. This layer is subsequently broken up into blocks weighing about ten pounds each.

Travel as Teacher.

"Travel forms the young" is a French proverb. So it does, and it also belps a teacher to become formative. Travel is good for teachers professionally, because travel is a teacher itself. But travel is good for everybody who is hale and sane. "There's fools o' fowk what never haves their toes off their doorsteps, little brother," a gypsy said to me forty years ago. 1 am glad 1 have never been one of those .- J. H. The late arrival was Prince Danilo of Marsovia, attache of the Marsovian legation at Paris -- As a diplomat he had scareely scored a success, for he had a delightfully normal aversion to work and a simple, unfailing joy in the amusements of Maxim's and his clubs.

"I'll hunt up his excellency at once,"

Then Natalle hurried in with De folidon. Both looked anxious.

"How careless of me!" the ambassador's wife was exclaiming. "Where can I have dropped the miserable fan? If my husband should pick it up and find on it those words you were foolish enough to write- I wonder if I left it in the niche on the stairs when we were sitting there. Let's go back and

They turned back, almost colliding with Sonia, who was entering, Cascada directly behind her.

"Oh. Mme. Sadowa." asked Natalie, "you haven't seen anything of a white ivory fan? I've looked everywhere, and"

"No," replied the widow; "but I'll His graceful walk was not wholly look in this room if you haven't made > Natalle, thanking her, hurried back with her cavalier to the stairway. Sonia idly began her search, but Cascada interrupted her.

"That can wait." he pleaded, "but I cannot. Won't you hear me?"

"Certainly," assented Sonia cheerfully. "You are going to propose, aren't

"Sonia!" he exclaimed. "Sonia!" Then, recovering himself, he bowed stiffly and said: "I beg your pardon, madame." "No; I beg yours," she replied.

Pray go on snoring." "You don't remember me?" he asked, surprised.

"Not in the very least," she answered; moving away. "Yet you called my name."

"You were asleep then. That was different."

"And now I am awake-to the joy of seeing you again." "The joy is all your own. Is it so surprising to find me in Paris? I am here enjoying my wealth-and free-

"I congratulate you on both, especially the freedom." "Yes, freedom is one of your fads, I believe," remarked fonia, "especially freedom from marriage. Do you still make a habit of avoiding marriage at the last moment?" "Sonia, you are unjust. If it had rested with me you should be my wife now, not another man's widow." "If it resied with you?" she mimicked. "Well, let the whole story rest now. It's forgotten."

"By you, perhaps never by me." "Oh, no! - I remember it every now and then for my own amusement. But it is hard to frink of myself as the little Marsovian peasant maid to whom the dashing cavalry officer, Prince Danilo, was once engaged and whom his rich old uncle at the last moment forbade to marry because of her poverty. How differently that same rich old uncle would look on the match today! Iwenty millions is a pretty one that doesn't. I for one shall never say to you, 'I love you!'

A strange smile stole across her face. She came very close to where he stood; so close that the faint perfume of her hair was sweet in his nostfils; so close that her breath was warm upon his lips: so close that his bewildered soul struggled in vain to hide from the glory in her eyes. Her voice was a musica whisper as she asked:

"You'll never say to me 'I love you?" There was an infinity of allurement in the tempting words. Danilo, with a mighty effort, shook off the spell and DR. BOGER. shouted:

"And you promise faithfully you'll never say to me, 'I love you?'.

Again she was perilously close to him. - Again his eyes tore themselves free from the pleading seductiveness of hers as he reiterated:

"I promise I'm not going to make t fool of myself or be made a fool of." "Is that a declaration of war?" queried Sonia. "No-of friendship. Do you mean you would merely laugh at me?" "Probably. All men are alike." They are not, and in time I'll prove
