ACT IS HELD INVALID

SUPREME COURT HOLDS SCHOOL DISTRICTS CANNOT LEVY MORE THAN 20 CENTS.

8 DISTRICTS AFFECTED

Over Three Million Dollars in School District Bonds Invalid Under This Decision.

Special to the Times. Austin, Tex., June 17.—The supreme court today held the act of the legislature, which sought to empower school districts to levy a tax exceeding 20 cents on the hundred dollars valuation to be unconstitutional.

The decision was handed down in the case of Snyder vs. the Baird Independent school district.

Eight districts have issued three million dollars more in bonds than the law allows and all are rendered invalid by the decision of today.

A Vision Already Realized.

New York American. Governor Glenn, the democratic chief executive of North Carolina, is reported as saying on Monday at Arlington:

"I long to see the day when the name of Abraham Lincoln and Ulysses Grant shall be loved and respected in every nook and corner of the old Confederacy, and when the names of Lee and Jackson will be cheered in Maine, Massachusetts and California."

The governor of North Carolina is a very honest and intelligent man. Judged by his latest utterances he is also a man of catholic patriotism.

But the governor is neither widely traveled nor open-eyed if he does not realize that the desire of his eyes is upon him, and the vision for which he longs is realized in the conditions which surround us.

The reunited country is a platitude which has grown weary in its repetition. There has been no real sectionalism in this republic for a score of years.

L. Q. C. Lamar's immortal eulogy on Charles Sumner, thirty years ago, was followed by Ben Hill's impassioned reply to Blaine on the Andersonville prison, and this in turn by Henry Grady's famous speech, which inquired if "bitterness should live in the heart of the conqueror when it had died in the heart of the conquered?"

When Boston fills the lap of Stonewall Jackson's widow with Northern roses; when Chicago unveils a monument to the Confederate dead; when Charles Francis Adams defends in Boston, the motives of the Confederate war; when William McKinley puts a Union General's stars upon the coats of Joe Wheeler and Fitzhugh Lee; when Hobson and Bagley of Alabama and North Carolina reflect immortal honor upon the Union arms; when Ulysses Grant dies with the eloquent plea of fraternity upon his lips—there would seem to be little left to complete the picture of our national unity.

And for the heroic names which Governor Glenn would like to see bracketed in national honor and respect.

When John B. Gordon, the beau sabreur of the Confederacy, with an epic poem on his cheek drawn by a Union soldier in The Wilderness, stands upon the lecture platform, flanked and fronted by a circle of sturdy veterans wearing the bronze helmet of the Grand Army, the scene is eloquent without the patriotic words which the Confederate soldier spoke.

THREE ITALIAN HOLDUP'S KILLED

By Associated Press. New Orleans, La., June 17.—Early today Pietro Giacomina, a wealthy wine merchant, was killed by three Italians who were attempting to force his son to give them a sum of money and his watch. The shooting occurred at the home of Giacomina. The dead are Giovanni Barracca and two unidentified Italians.

FARMER DROPPED DEAD AT POLITICAL MEETING.

Special to the Times. Fort Worth, Tex., June 17.—C. F. Bales, a well known Tarrant county farmer, dropped dead last night at a meeting of the political candidates of this county at Smithfield.

Fifty candidates for nomination for various offices were present at the meeting.

Bales leaves a wife and four children.

He held in such tender reverence the name of Lincoln as that section whose slaves he freed, but for whose safety and integrity his great heart was the mightiest bulwark against the selfish horrors of reconstruction.

For the Confederate heroes it is left to say that the best lecture upon the American platform is delivered by a Union soldier from Illinois, with Jackson as its theme; and there is not a hamlet in America, from Boston Bay to the Golden Gate, in which the name of Robert Lee, whether spoken by Federal or Confederate, does not shake the rafters with applause as genuine and generous as ever paid tribute to a soldier and a gentleman.

New Law Invalidates Marriage Knot.

Oklahoma City, Okla., June 16.—June brides in Oklahoma City may find it necessary, in order to be sure enough brides under the statutes of the new State, to be married over again. A question has been raised in regard to the legality of all marriages solemnized by ministers of the gospel in this city since May 22, at which time a new law passed by the legislature went into effect. The law requires all preachers to file with the judge of the county court a copy of his credentials or authority as a minister of the gospel. No minister in Oklahoma City has complied with the law and all were in ignorance of the requirements of the statute when attention was directed to the matter yesterday.

A discovery of the plain provisions of the statutes carried consternation and dismay into the ranks of the newly wed, who cannot exactly figure out the present status of their condition in life. Legal complications growing out of the failure of preachers here and in various counties of the state to comply with the law, are perplexing.

FOUR YEARS MORE IS THE CRY

Mention of Roosevelt's Name Causes Wild Demonstration Lasting Forty-five Minutes--Taft Wins Victory

BULLETIN—Convention Hall.—When Senator Lodge said that President Roosevelt was the most abused, but the most popular man in the United States today, the most enthusiastic demonstration of the convention thus far began. At 2:25 p. m. the scene continued unabated, having now lasted 23 minutes, and the whole convention has broken out into a repetition of the phrase, "Four years more," continuing it like a chant.

BULLETIN—Some one threw a Teddy Bear among the press seats and the spectators became wild with enthusiasm. At 2:35 p. m. most of the delegates and alternates had again taken their seats, but the galleries were just as demonstrative as ever.

BULLETIN—At 2:40 p. m. the hall was comparatively quiet and Chairman Lodge, who had gone on with his speech, was better heard. The full force of the demonstration lasted forty-five minutes.

By Associated Press. Chicago, Ill., June 17.—The fourteenth Republican National convention entered upon its second day's session with several important factors unsettled and with trouble enough in sight to make it practically certain that at least two days will be consumed before the nominations will be made, and all the work of the convention completed.

The proposed plank in the platform relating to the limitation of the use of court injunctions in labor controversies was the principal bone of contention. The sub-committee to which was referred the question late yesterday evening adjourned until this morning. It is believed now that there will likely be a compromise.

The committee on rules and order also had the unsettled question as to the reduction of representation in the future national conventions on its hands. This will have an important bearing on the status of the negro members of the republican party in the South.

There seems to be a fair prospect now that tomorrow will be clear for nominating speeches.

Today's feature will be the parade of visiting marching clubs, the reports of committees and the speech of the permanent chairman, Senator Lodge.

The convention was called to order at 12:20 p. m. and opened with prayer by Rev. William Waters of Chicago. Immediately after the convening of the convention, Mayor Brookwaller of Indianapolis authorized the statement that there would be no minority report from the committee on credentials.

The vice chairman also announced that the credentials' committee's report would be submitted within an hour.

Knox and Fairbanks Boomers Make Demonstrations.

The Knox adherents, after taking their seats, distributed a bundle of small flags of dark blue, bearing the words "Keystone State" in white letters. These they waved briskly for a few moments, just to let the Ohio delegates in front of them know they were prepared for eventualities. This gave the Pennsylvania delegation a chance to make a great demonstration which was led by the Knox club of Philadelphia.

The appearance of the Marion club of Indianapolis brought the Indiana delegates to their feet with cheers for their candidate.

Report Adopted Vive Voce.

Chicago, Ill., June 17.—The report of the credentials committee was adopted at 1:18 o'clock this afternoon by a vive voce vote. The report simply seats all the present delegates, except the six delegates from New Mexico, giving them a third of a vote each.

TENNESSEE DEMOCRATS ARE FOR W. J. BRYAN.

By Associated Press. Nashville, Tenn., June 17.—The democratic State convention for the purpose of selecting delegates to the democratic national convention at Denver was called to order at the State capitol at noon today. It is practically certain that the delegates from Tennessee will be unanimously instructed to cast their votes for Bryan.

Further that the party and President Roosevelt were in serious disagreement on this important proposition. This argument appeals forcefully to some, but on the ultra conservatives, such as Cannon, it makes no impression. They declare their readiness to meet the issue squarely and abide the consequences. Incidentally, however, they are causing the administration forces for having made the platform public, which they denounce as a trick, suggested by the president, to make an awkward situation for his opponents.

In all contests, the Taft forces were supported by thirty-one votes to seven, showing that the allies were outnumbered four to one.

Sweeping through the contests from Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Mississippi, Missouri, Ohio, Tennessee and Texas, the Taft delegations were seated without a break.

Contests from all other States had been withdrawn and before the night was half over it was plain that the allies could not succeed in overturning a single decision which had been made by the national committee.

No Change in Representation.

By Associated Press. Chicago, Ill., June 17.—The committee on rules this morning defeated by a vote of 24 to 17 the resolutions introduced yesterday by Representative Burke of Pittsburg, providing for a reduction in the ratio of representation to the national conventions.

Injunction Plank Troublesome.

Chicago, Ill., June 17.—Early this afternoon no agreement had been reached as to the injunction plank in the republican platform.

The following is the text of the plank favored by the administration: "We declare for such amendments to the statutes of procedure in the Federal courts, with respect to the use of the writ of injunction, as will, on the one hand, prevent the summary issue of such orders without proper consideration, and on the other, will preserve undiminished the power of the courts to enforce their process to the end that justice may be done at all times and to all parties."

This plank is the center of attack by the "allies."

Speaker Cannon, who, better than anyone else, typifies what the republican party was before the Roosevelt era, is directing the attack and he is using the prestige and power of the speakership to recruit his forces. All those members of the house who are delegates and who are either amenable to his arguments or susceptible to his threats, have been sent out by him to combat this proposition. Payne and Dalzell are his chief lieutenants, and it is reported tonight that he has summoned ex-Governor Littlefield from New York, where he is now practicing law, to aid him.

The argument which the speaker and his lieutenants are making against this proposed anti-injunction plank is that it is a covert attack on the courts and a pandering to the lawless elements of society. There are conflicting reports as to the complexion of the committee with respect to this proposition. Several polls have been made, but the result in no two cases are the same.

It is noticeable that at least three or four Taft delegations have put as their representative on the committee men who are opposed to this Roosevelt-Taft plank. This seems to have alarmed the administration forces, for at the last moment the Missouri delegation, acting under White House orders, put Senator Warner on the platform committee, instead of Attorney General Hadley, who had been slated for the place. There was no suspicion of Hadley, but more certainty was felt as to Warner.

The publication of the administration platform in one or two papers has greatly embarrassed some who were disposed to reject this anti-injunction plank. The argument is being made by friends of the administration that to reject it now after the country knows in this positive way that the president advocated it, would have disastrous consequences. It would enable the democrats, they say, to tell the laboring men that the republicans had formally rejected this doctrine and to enable them to declare

FLOOD AT ST. LOUIS

MISSISSIPPI RISING RAPIDLY AND THE SITUATION IS BECOMING SERIOUS.

DAMAGE ALREADY DONE

Water Plant is Threatened and East Side is Crippled—Damage in Missouri.

St. Louis, Mo., June 16.—Railroads refused freight at East St. Louis tonight on account of the flood. The government weather bureau, which first said the flood would not reach the 33-foot stage at St. Louis, but later admitted that it would go above 33 feet, reported today that it would rise to 35 feet tomorrow.

The gauge here at noon today passed 33 1/2 feet, since which time the river has been rising one-twentieth of an inch an hour, flooding the lower stories of business houses along the levee, breaking the Wiggins ferry levee north of East St. Louis, submerging switch tracks leading to the city waterworks, now in danger, and reaching the great packing plants.

Freight wagons today drove through water covering their wheels to reach improvised gangways to steamboats. Packets have been forced to cut away their smokestacks to get under Eads bridge. Parts of the steamer Alton's wheel house had to be removed to get under the bridge. The steamer Omaha temporarily abandoned her trips to Kansas City.

Wagner's levee, Illinois, was broken today by waves from a passing steamer and the rise of a foot expected will break all the levees in Jackson county, Ill., south of here. The Missouri river changed its channel at Marshall, Central Missouri, today, dsmaging the Chicago and Alton railroad.

Southwestern Kansas crops are now flooded and the river has broken the Willow Chute levee above Shreveport, Louisiana.

us and the democratic party. With the democratic party, and with that alone, must the comparison be made. We differ from that party in some important particulars. We both, it is true, have a past and a history, but we treat these possessions very differently. They wish to keep their past a profound secret. We seek by all means to publish ours to the world. If we refer to their history they charge us with calumny. We regard ours, truthful and undistorted, as our greatest glory. To the youth of the country they say, "Judge us solely by our undiscovered future." We say, "Read our record, judge us by our past and our present and from these, learn what we are—what we have been and what we mean to be." Recall the cries that have sounded from the lips of these two parties during the last half century. On the one side, "Slavery, secession, repudiation of the public debt, fiat money, free trade, free silver, the overthrow of the courts and government ownership."

On the republican side, "Free soil, free men, the Union, the payment of the debt, honest money, protection to (Continued on Page 3.)"

MISSISSIPPI WILL INSTRUCT FOR BYRAN

By Associated Press. Jackson, Miss., June 17.—The democratic State convention met here at noon today with J. P. McCool as temporary chairman. There was a large attendance of delegates.

Indications prior to the assembling of the convention were that the delegates would be instructed as a unit for W. J. Bryan for president.

John Sharpe Williams was a prominent figure on the convention floor.

FESTIVAL OF CORPUS CHRISTI.

Tomorrow, Thursday, June 18th, will be celebrated by Catholics everywhere in memory of the institution of the eucharist and in honor of the doctrine of substantiation.

The doctrine of Transubstantiation was made a part of the Catholic faith in the thirteenth century and the festival in commemoration of the Transubstantiation has been celebrated since that time.

In Spain especially and in the colonies founded by Spain, it is the greatest ecclesiastical holiday of the year. Work is absolutely suspended and the entire population dons its holiday garb.

A unique Corpus Christi ceremonial, performed at the cathedral of Seville, is known as the dances of the sixes (las danzas de los seis). An eye witness thus describes it in the Rosary Magazine:

"We reached the cathedral at an early hour in the evening. There were other visitors, like ourselves, anxious for an advantageous point from which to observe the dance. We secured positions very near the railing of the chapel. Quite a time had elapsed when the clerics and canons, followed by the cardinal-archbishop, filed into the sanctuary. The canons seated themselves, some to the right, others to the left of the altar, and the cardinal-archbishop occupied what appeared to be a desk rather than a throne. Very soon the organ back of the altar was intoned, and the singers, all men, stationed themselves in an adjoining alcove.

Twelve boys (whence the Spaniards say "Las danzas de los seis," dances of the sixes)—choir boys, equal in size and apparently in age, placed themselves in two groups of six each in the space left them in the sanctuary immediately in front of the Blessed Sacrament, which was exposed. These boys were dressed as royal pages, and their rich apparel suggested the idea that they were sons of nobles. In their hats were long feathers, which waved gracefully as they made their obeisance before the Blessed Sacrament. They sang a strophe so harmoniously that it excited devotion throughout the

"The refrain was accompanied by the organ, and the boys danced to its melody with wonderful grace, beating time with castanets, to which their movements responded so perfectly that music, dance and song produced complete harmony. As they moved backward and forward; they apparently mingled in confusion, yet there was an elegance and a regularity to their motions which proved the art and beauty of movement and manifested the fact that dance is to the Spaniard what music is to the Italian—a national trait.

"Suddenly the boys stood in line, but now facing each other, six on each side. Several times they resumed this position, singing each time a strophe and dancing to the music of the chours.

"The custom comes down from time immemorial."

James G. Lowden left Abilene Tuesday night for Fort Worth, where he will spend several days and then go, unaccompanied by an officer, to Atlanta to begin serving his term of five years imprisonment imposed upon him in the trial of the case growing out of the failure of the American National bank at Abilene several years ago. During the afternoon Tuesday many friends called at his home and others were at the train to tell him goodbye. They were all met with the cheerful greeting that has ever characterized this remarkable man. Through all of his trouble he has retained a disposition worth more than the fortune he has lost in his financial difficulties. He has lost a fortune and liberty for a while, but not a friend, and his last words at Abilene were that he would serve his time and if spared to live would return to Abilene and make it his home when he should again be free.—Merkel Telegram.

For Sheriff and Tax Collector.

The Times is authorized to announce R. V. Gwinn as a candidate for sheriff and tax collector, subject to the action of the democratic primary election to be held on July 25th. For the past two or three years Mr. Gwinn has held by appointment, the office of city marshal, and has made the city an efficient officer. He now seeks promotion by asking the voters of Wichita county for the office of sheriff and tax collector; and if they should honor him with that office the Times believes will make the county as efficient an officer in that capacity as it has ever had. He respectfully solicits the support of all. The Times respectfully submits his claims for the office which he seeks to the voters for their consideration at the polls.

An exchange has become alarmed and recites its fears in this manner.

"The shirt waist girls go hand in hand today, and the people year after year go on throwing their clothes away. The coat and vest are laid to rest, and where is the fleecy shawl? And the clothes get fewer and thinner—what will be the end of it all? Oh, what will the shirtwaist man take next from the things he has to wear? And what will the net waist girl throw off her shoulders, now half bare? The shirt waist man and the net waist girl go rollicking on the way. Have we started a trend that's going to end in the old fig leaf some day?"

Additional names that are being added to the list of the scholastic census taker in the Wichita Falls Independent Scholo District indicate that the total will reach 1,100. According to the laws of population this would indicate a population in excess of 6,000 persons.

American industry, the gold industry, the maintenance of law, of order and of the courts and the government regulation of great corporations." The old shibboleths of the democrats are today the epitaphs of policies which are dead and damned. They serve only to remind us of dangers escaped or to warn us of perils to be shunned. The battle cries of the republicans have been the watchwords of great causes. They tell of victories won and triumphs tasted. They are embodied in the laws and mark the stepping stones by which the republic has risen to ever greater heights of power and prosperity.

As we thus call up the past and the echoes of these old conflicts again sound in our ears and touch the chords of memory, one great fact stands forth clear and shining. The republican party has never failed except when it has faltered. Our long career of victory, so rarely broken, has been due to our meeting boldly each question as it arose, to our facing every danger, as it crossed our path, with entire courage, fearless of consequences and determined only to be true to the principles which brought the party into existence and to the spirit which has inspired it from its birth.

We faced secession rather than assent to the extension of slavery. Rather than submit to secession we took up the dread burden of civil war. But a few years ago we permitted thousands of republicans to leave us, thereby imperiling our political power rather than abandon the gold standard and plunge the country into disaster and dishonor.

The president, who has led his party and the people in this great work, retires, by his own determination from his high office on the 4th of March next. His refusal of a renomination, dictated by the loftiest motives and by a noble loyalty to American traditions, is final and irrevocable. Anyone who attempts to use his name as a candidate for the presidency, impugns both his sincerity and his good faith, two of the president's greatest and most conspicuous qualities, upon which no shadow has ever been cast. That man is no friend to Theodore Roosevelt and does not cherish his name and fame, who now, from any motive, seeks to urge him as a candidate for the great office which he has finally declined. The president has refused what his countrymen would gladly have given him; he says what he means and means what he says, and his party and his country will respect his wishes as they honor his high character and great public service.

But, although the president retires, he leaves his policies behind him. To those policies the republican party stands pledged. We must carry out as we have begun, regardless alike of the radicals of reaction and the radicals of revolution. We must hold fast to that which is good while we make the advances which the times demand.

We ask for the confidence and support of the American people because we have met the problems of the day and have tried patiently to solve them. We appeal for votes and for the power they confer because we uphold the president's policies and shall continue to sustain them. We make our appeal with confidence, because we have a well defined policy and are not, like our opponents, fumbling in the dark to find some opinion on something.

We believe in the maintenance of law and order, in the support of the courts in all their rights and dignity. We believe in equal rights for all men, and are opposed to special privileges for any man, or any class of men, high or low, rich or poor. We, who established the gold standard, are pledged to the cause of sound finance. We stand for protection to American industry and American labor, and we will resist all the assaults of free trade under whatever name it comes disguised. We will see to the defense of the country. We mean to have a navy worthy of the American name. We seek peace and friendship with all nations, but alliance with none. Yet, we have no intention of being a hermit nation. The great service of the president, the world's peace will be continued by the party which he has led. We are a party fit to rule and govern, to legislate and administer, and not a fortuitous collection of atoms whose only form of thought or motion is to oppose. Above all, we are true to our traditions and to our past: True now, as we were in the days of Lincoln.

In this spirit we must prevail—by this sign we must conquer.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Perkins of the Thornberry neighborhood, a baby daughter, who arrived at their home yesterday afternoon.

That was a strong speech made by Attorney-General Davidson at Corsicana Saturday. His opponents will have a hard job to truthfully answer all the allegations he sets forth. He shows his hand, and he holds big cards. It was lengthy, but it is to be supposed that he will chop it up and hereafter hand it out in smaller pieces. He has his enemies, though; and they are powerful. Nothing that wealth, skill, ability, malice and hate can bring against him will be spared. He has tackled the monsters, and they know how to fight. There can be no truce, no compromise; it is a fight to the death. It is "lay on, McDuff." He has no apology to make, asks no quarter and gives none. The fight is on.—Bonham Herald.

The Herald supported Senator Bailey in the recent campaign. While Davidson's private record has been severely attacked, and so far he has been unable to successfully clear himself of some of the charges, if he is defeated, it will be a victory for the Waters-Pierce Oil Company. The question naturally arises: "Is it better for Texas to elect as her attorney general a man whose private record is not what it should be, though his official record is all right, or allow him to be defeated by the influence of a concern which for years has run rough-shod over Texas laws?" Without attacking the integrity of Col. Wynne, who is the opponent of Davidson, every intelligent person knows the outlawed trusts are making a bitter fight on Davidson. Their only hope is to defeat him with a new man and take chances on the result. Col. R. M. Wynne is an honest, upright citizen, and probably has sufficient ability to fill the office of attorney general. The mere fact that he will get the support of the trusts in his race for this office is no indication that he has made a "dicker" with them. With the trusts, it is anybody to beat Davidson. No man is more objectionable to them than Davidson, and their only hope is that if they succeed in their purpose Davidson's successor will for a time, at least, be handicapped in such a manner as will give them another chance to lay plans upon which to conduct their business in defiance of Texas laws. It is a question for the democrats to decide, and the Times believes they will make the right decision.

Real estate values in Wichita Falls and Wichita County do not "walk backward." There is not a piece of property in this city today that can be bought as cheap as it could one year ago, and there are not many that can be bought today for as little money as was asked for them six months ago. This condition has prevailed in Wichita Falls for the past five or six years, and there is every indication that it will continue. If you expect to "get in" on the rise, you must act now. It will do no good for a prospective purchaser to wait. Wichita Falls is on the go, and so far her growth has exceeded the predictions and expectations of even the most optimistic. With six railroads and one of the richest coal fields within sixty miles of her, Wichita Falls is destined to become the commercial as well as the railroad center of Northwest Texas.

The man is stone blind who don't see the good to the town and county, that would accrue from good roads. There is no factor in the building of a city possessing pulling power of good dirt roads, still we sidetrack it for any and everything that bobs up. In delivering an address in the United States senate Hon. John H. Blankhead of Alabama eloquently and truthfully said: "Good roads are avenues of progress, the best proof of intelligence; they aid the social and religious advancement of the people; they increase the value of products; they save time, labor and money; they are the initial sources of commerce, which swell in great streams and flow everywhere, distributing the products of our fields, forests and factories. The highways are the common property of the country, their benefits are shared by all, and they are needed by all, and all should contribute to them."

The outlook for the growth of Wichita Falls today is better than ever in her history. The town is firmly established at the front of the cities of this section, and this is giving rise to a confidence that is building this city into an important industrial and commercial center. Everybody has been boosting and standing behind every enterprise worthy of support. We do not know of a single person who is weary in well doing and it is hardly necessary, but still it might be worth while, to admonish every man to keep his shoulder to the wheel.

If we may be pardoned for the suggestion, wouldn't it be a good thing if the city council would pass an ordinance prohibiting the throwing of old papers, circulars and other trash into the streets to blow about, frightening horses and giving the town the appearance of tin can alley? Of course, we mean that when passed the ordinance should be enforced.

Roosevelt may have his own way when it comes to nominating a presidential candidate and nailing the planks in the platform, but his republican high-binder colleagues will see to it that the special interests are well protected.

Every weed you cut makes your premises and the city in general more attractive and beautiful.

TESTIMONIALS

In my judgment, this company is managed by some of the most wide-awake, progressive business men in our State; not only men of high character, but of strong financial ability. I am personally acquainted with several of the officers, and I believe The American National Life Insurance Company has a great future and deserves the patronage of all citizens of Texas.
J. A. KEMP,
President City National Bank, Wichita Falls, Texas.

I am much pleased to have investigated your company and I consider it a favor to be able to become a policyholder in your company.

In view of the upheaval in insurance matters in New York City recently, it has demonstrated to me that the time has now come for a great insurance company in Texas, so the people of Texas can retain their premiums at home. Instead of sending them outside the borders of our State. Your company, assisted by such men as you have associated with you in this company, is sufficient guarantee to any one seeking a policy, that the money will be paid to his family after he is dead and gone.

Yours very truly,
FRANK KELL, President.

American National Insurance Co., Galveston, Texas.

Gentlemen:—I had the pleasure of meeting your representative, whom I found to be a most thorough gentleman, and also a thorough insurance man. I had explained to me the policy now being written by the American National Insurance Company, and I candidly say it is one of the best, and so strongly do I think so, that I took a policy for $5,000. I consider it the best of all I have, and I carry several. I am glad to see the strong men of Texas taking stock and pushing this company, as there is nothing like keeping Texas money at home. Be sure to keep your agent at work in this part of the State, where he will not only help your company, but my friends also. Yours truly, OTIS T. BACON.

As stated to you personally a few weeks ago, I believe that your Texas company is a better proposition for one to insure in than any of the old line Eastern companies, for several reasons.

The first of many reasons is that the gentlemen who are officers and directors of the American National Insurance Company are thoroughly known to the people of Texas to be clear, clean-cut, honest business men.

Another reason is that the premiums paid to the Texas company will be invested in Texas. It is a pleasure for me to take out a policy with your company today.

DISEASE AND PAIN.

The Theory That Suffering is Mental More Than Physical.

A great deal of alleged physical suffering is primarily mental. A great many people have "fixed ideas" of disease, pain, debility, fatigue, dread, inefficiency and unexpressible woes. Much often than we realize these can be transplanted without surgery or medication. I do not mean that they are not real sufferings. They are as real as the grave, but they are not grounded in physical infirmity, and they are not to be cured with physics. The mind becomes possessed of a conviction that a certain part of the body is inflamed and imparts pain to that part in spite of all the medicine in the world. Hundreds of people refuse to get well after the physician has cured them. It is not his fault, and it is not their fault. But they have simply had disease suggested to them until they cannot think at all except upon that assumption. It is an "auto suggestion," or it is a family suggestion, and the only way to remove it is by the vigorous counter suggestion of another person. The value of a "fixed idea" of health, as being only the removal of a fixed idea of disease where there was no organic reason for it, will hardly be disputed. Yet one cannot overemphasize the multitudes that there are of these invalids sitting in padded chairs and making ready for the hearse whose trouble is primarily mental, and how many there are, again, who have a slight organic infirmity and have increased its effects a thousandfold by what we may call "household suggestion."—Max Eastman in Atlantic Monthly.

AN INSECT TRAGEDY.

The Nest the Mother Butterfly Builds For Her Young.

There is something really pathetic in the way a mother butterfly builds a nest for her children. In the first place, the little home where the eggs are deposited represents a great deal of sacrifice, for it is lined with several layers of down plucked from the mother's own soft body. The eggs having been laid carefully upon this luxurious, pretty couch, are protected by an equally pretty coverlet made of the same material.

These butterfly bedclothes are often arranged with an intricacy that is quite curious and perplexing. Sometimes a bed is made so that each separate delicate hair stands upright, thus giving the entire nest the appearance of a little brush of downy fur. Then again the eggs are laid spirally round a tiny branch, and, as the covering follows their course, the effect resembles the bushy tail of a fox, only the nest is more beautiful than the brush of the finest fox that ever roamed over country.

The building of this downy nest is the latest earthly labor of the mother butterfly, for by the time it is completed her own delicate body is denuded of its natural covering and there is nothing left for her to do but die, a sacrifice which she promptly and heroically makes in the interest of the coming butterfly generation.

THE HINDOO FAKIR.

His Patience and Skill in the Bag and Spear Trick.

The feat known as the bag and spear trick has been considered one of the greatest of the Hindoo magician's art. In this trick, says a writer, the Hindoo fakir has his assistant get into a sack, the mouth of which he firmly secures, and then unceremoniously buries his helpless victim to the ground. Without a sign of warning the fakir drives his spear through the center of the bag.

After withdrawing his weapon, upon the point of which no blood stain appears, the fakir stands and gazes dreamily over the heads of the spectators. The body within the bag flounders about as if in mortal agony. At last, when the occupant is apparently dead, the fakir again plunges his spear into the motionless body. The same antics are repeated. Then the fakir releases his attendant from the bag, and he steps out without a scratch upon his body.

Although the trick is performed with all the carelessness imaginable, it calls for more patience, skill and exactness than any of the so-called black art achievements. From the time the attendant enters the bag both fakir and assistant count every breath they take. When a stated number of breaths have been taken the fakir makes his thrust, and the occupant in the bag is prepared to avoid it. Then the count begins again, and at the proper time the spear is driven through the bag a second time. In order to evade the spear and make it appear to pass through his body the assistant doubles up in as small a form as possible. His legs are drawn up close, with the chin resting upon the knees and the arms folded round the lower limbs across the shins. When in this position, at the fiftieth breath, the spear passes under the attendant's arms between the abdomen and the thighs.

The slightest miscalculation by either the fakir or his assistant would mean a serious if not a mortal wound for one and an unheard of disgrace for the other.

That fakir and attendant are able so to train themselves to breathe in perfect unison while giving one of these performances, when the slightest variation in time by either would be fatal, is certainly wonderful.

The Candidate's Course.

"When a candidate thinks he's right he must stick to his belief."
 "But supposing all his constituents think differently?"

"In that case he must show his true greatness by casting aside all personal bias and emphatically assuming that a majority cannot be wrong."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

Simple Curtains.
Such really beautiful curtains may be bought nowadays for so little that few women take the trouble to make their own.

Sometimes, however, a window is of odd size, or the housekeeper may not be able to find just the style of curtain she likes.

In such event she can make very dainty, yet inexpensive, curtains from white lawn or swiss. These may be finished with a four-inch hem, finished with a double row of hemstitching, or it can have a plain hem, stitched on the machine and edged with a row or two of coin dots done in satin stitch in color.

A pretty effect for a bedroom would be to work these dots in two tones of the predominant shade in the wall paper or carpet.

Another simple treatment of lawn curtains would be to draw over the surface at somewhat wide intervals large conventional figures, say a sprawly chrysanthemum, a five-pointed star, or a single sunflower, and work them in shadow stitch in two or even three colors.

For a yellow room the chrysanthemum design would be striking, done in three or even four shades of yellow, with an occasional touch of russet brown.

In working these curtains the mercerized cottons should be used in preference to embroidery silk. They are much less expensive, and washed carefully will not fade any more easily than the silks.

A double line of colored lawn around the sides and bottom, with the colored designs on the white lawn of the curtain proper, are both novel and pretty.

Vinegar Used as Home Medicine.

The old-fashioned home remedy should never be depended upon in cases of illness, when a good physician can be called. For trifling ailments, however, some of "grandmothers'-remedies" may be depended upon.

Pure cider vinegar, for instance, used to figure largely among household remedies and may safely be used now when other remedies are not at hand.

As a refreshing and cooling drink for feverishness and as a sedative, try fifteen drops of vinegar in a glass of sugar water.

A tablespoonful of vinegar in a glass of water, to which have been added a teaspoonful of salt and a big pinch of cayenne pepper, makes an excellent gargle for sore throat and inclination to cough, caused by falling of the palate.

For the bathing of fever patients it is an excellent substitute for alcohol.

A vinegar compress will stop almost any headache, and it is a good preventive of discoloration when immediately applied to bumps and bruises.

Bathing the forehead and wrists with vinegar will bring one out of a fainting fit.

Vinegar sprinkled on a hot stove sweetens the sick room and proves an excellent disinfectant.

As an antidote for poisoning by alkaloids and lye, and all narcotics it is highly recommended.

In the kitchen vinegar has several uses which are often overlooked by the cook who knows its use only in salad dressing or pickling.

A little vinegar added to the water in which fish is boiled will remove the strong, oily taste.

When added to the water in which strong fowl is boiled vinegar tends to make the flesh more tender.

A Jar That Grows.

Woman's National Daily.

It doesn't exactly grow, but the covering on it does, and children like to watch the development of this pretty ornament. Get a glass bowl, preferably a round shaped one, or even a soda glass will do, and fill it half full of salt. Cover this with water until the glass is full to overflowing. Keep it in a saucer and do not handle. Each day put in a few drops of water to keep the glass entirely full. In a few days the white salt will appear on the outside of the glass in a white frost and will continue to grow until it is almost a half inch thick, or just as long as you provide brine for it. Often the designs are beautiful and the jar will be made up of countless pretty ones. These jars should be allowed to dry out after they are sufficiently covered with salt and, while somewhat fragile, they make pretty ornaments until they get dusty. Dye can be added to the water, and lavender jars of pale pink or blue can be made.

Always-Ready Lemonade.

There is nothing more refreshing on a hot day than a long drink of cool lemonade, but however anxious the hostess may be to serve this beverage, it is sometimes impossible to do so owing to the lack of the necessary ingredients. In fact, it is for just this reason that the syrup may be prepared by the following recipe is one of the greatest of household conveniences. It is delicious, but what is still more important, it enables one to procure a supply of lemonade literally at a moment's notice, says the May Delinicator. Extract the juice from a dozen large lemons; grate the rind of six of the lemons, and add it to the juice. Let the mixture stand for twelve hours or over night. In the morning make a thick syrup of granulated sugar and water, using about six pounds of the sugar, and just as little water as possible, as the syrup must be both thick and smooth. When it has cooled strain the lemon juice into it; bottle in glass, being certain that the tops are secure and air-tight. In making lemonade with this syrup, place a little crushed ice in the bottom of a tall glass; add one or two teaspoonfuls of the syrup, according to taste, and fill with either carbonated or plain water.

This syrup may also be used successfully in making cakes, pies, puddings, custards, etc., being a most economical method of utilizing lemons, as it enables the cook to obtain absolutely the full value of both sugar and fruit. Surely this is a fact worthy of consideration by the economical housewife.

The whale leads all animals in point of longevity, his age being placed conservatively at 800 to 1,000 years. The tortoise comes next, with an age limit extending from 100 to 200 years. The elephant, the camel, the eagle and the crocodile are each credited with 100 years and upward. The carp is an elusive creature, its age having been figured at from seventy-five to 150 years. Tigers, leopards, jaguars and hyenas live some twenty-five years in confinement and probably much longer in the wilderness. Swans, parrots and mynas live 200 years, pelicans forty to fifty years, hawks thirty to forty, geese eighty years, monkeys and baboons sixteen to eighteen, squirrels and rabbits seven years, queen bees four years, working bees six months and drones four months.—Minneapolis Journal.

CUT GLASS TABLE WARE.
 Real cut glass, especially when appropriately mounted in silver or gold, is the handsomest, most aristocratic service money can buy.
ITS SIMPLE RICHNESS
 stands out in pleasing contrast to the cheap showiness of imitations. Cut glass that comes from our store bears every mark of the genuine article. We could not afford to risk our reputation by handling the other class of goods.

Blind Tom is Dead.
 Blind Tom is dead again. This time the sad event happened in Hoboken, N. J., where he had been living in retirement. He must be dead because the Associated Press says so, and having had a good deal of experience in reporting Tom's death for several years, the Associated Press ought to be familiar with the facts.
 Few people in public notice have died more frequently or more regularly than Blind Tom has. Press agents of other stars have found other ways of bringing genius before the public, but none has so frequently, so successfully or so effectively used the expedient of having his star die regularly and at repeated intervals, and has the man promoting the poor negro musician for these many years.
 Some times Tom was killed in a railroad wreck, but more often he would die a natural death in surroundings of abject poverty. Next winter he would turn up again, old, sightless and decrepit as before, but still a marvel at the keyboard which he knew better than most people know their A,

B, C's. In every other respect a mental infant, Blind Tom was a giant at the piano. Thousands have heard him and the subtle sympathy evoked by his uncontrollable swaying of the body and the rolling of his sightless eyes, always added to the effectiveness of his music. What little brain he had seemed to be a phonographic record which would record only music, music that he could afterward reproduce through his finger ends.
 Blind Boone, who is obese and thrifty, as well as being a prodigy, is living in Missouri. He is in anything but abject poverty and still makes regular rounds of the smaller towns in the country, coming back at the end of each season with a little more money to invest in real estate.
 Tom, it seems, was not so fortunate. Whether all the money he earned went to pay his funeral press agent, or whether he could not save, is not stated.
 His death, if he is really dead this time, removes a peculiar figure from the list of public entertainers. It also puts out of a job a press agent of the old school, who, in spite of his effectiveness, will scarcely find another star for employer, unless he changes his methods of getting publicity in the newspapers free.—Fort Worth Telegram.

 When you are out in the field or camping and fishing and see a bull snake don't kill it. This species of snake is the instinctive enemy of the rattlesnake and small field varmints, and the presence of large bull snakes, it is said, is almost a certain evidence that rattlesnakes are scarce in that vicinity. Be discriminating in your instinctive enemy to snakes in general and spare the bull snake.

Must Pension Themselves.

Domestic servants in Germany come under the law that obliges all persons below a certain income to provide for their old age. The postoffice issues cards and stamps, and one of these stamps must be dated and affixed to the card every Monday. Sometimes the employers buy the cards and stamps and show them at the postoffice each month. Sometimes they expect the servant to pay half the money required. Women who go out by the day get their stamps at the house they work in on Mondays. If a girl marries she may cease to insure and may have a sum of money toward her outfit. In that case she will receive no old age pension. But if she goes on with her insurance she will have from 15 to 20 marks ($3 to $4) a month from the state after the age of seventy.

Working His Patient.

Ambassador Wu Ting Fang was once, it is alleged, telling about a certain selfish politician. He said: "The man reminds me of a doctor of Shanghai. A mandarin came to this doctor for advice. He could not sleep, had no appetite, suffered a good deal from depression and nevertheless was taking on fat at an alarming rate. 'Well soon put you in condition again,' said the physician. 'What you need is exercise—good, hard exercise. Four times a week you can come here and put in the morning polishing my floors.' 'But why not my own floors?' the mandarin inquired. 'Mine,' said the physician, 'are larger.'"

Obesity Saved England's Liberty.

The mode in which that bulwark of England's constitution, the habeas corpus act, became a law is very remarkable. So grave a historian as Bishop Burnet relates that it was carried by an "odd artifice." Lords Grey and Norris were named to be tellers. Lord Norris, being a man subject to vapors, was not at all times attentive to what he was doing; so, a very fat lord coming in, Lord Grey counted him for ten, as a jest at first, but seeing that Lord Norris had not observed it he went in with his misreckoning of ten, so it was reported to the house and declared that they who were for the bill were in the majority.—London Chronicle.

CENTPEDE STINGS STANTON THATCHER

Stanton, the 4-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Thatcher, was stung by a centipede at his home on Eighth street Monday night.

The little boy was playing about the room in his bare feet when he struck the centipede.

A physician was called immediately and antidotes were applied to the sting within a few minutes after it had been inflicted and no serious results followed, although the foot is painfully swollen.

It is said that centipedes are unusually numerous now, several persons reporting to have killed them in their houses within the last few weeks.

The brick and masonry work on the new Moore & Bateman block is now under full headway. This handsome structure, which is located on the southwest corner of Indiana avenue and Eighth street, is to be occupied by Nutt, Stevens & Hardeman.

The roof of the Lory building is being put on and the second floor, when completed, will be occupied by the Fort Worth and Denver and Wichita Valley Railways for offices.

Little or no work is being done on the Wyatt building.

A negro was seen leaving a Denison home one night last week with a sack upon his back. A shot from a pistol caused him to drop the sack and on investigation it was found that he had stolen eighty-five chickens that had been hatched out in an incubator a few days before. That's stealing by the wholesale.

IN TEXAS THEY'RE AT HOME.

From north and south, from east and west, Where'er the Elks may roam, We haste to say, and without jest, In Texas they're "at home."

We more might add, to make them glad, Mere words, but what's the use? We'll only say, throughout your stay We'll "turn Texas loose."

Mr. Isaac Jaloitek was one of the pioneer citizens of Wichita Falls. He owned a large amount of property in this city, none of which has been on the market. The estate has now decided to close out their holdings, and have placed the entire property in the hands of Bean & Stone for sale. Many of these lots are in the neighborhood of the school house.
