

DO YOU WANT TO MAKE OR LOSE MONEY THIS SUMMER?

There is no good reason for any "summer dullness" in the stores of this city. That's a strong statement—but it's not nearly so strong as the one to follow. ¶ No store in this city ever suffered from summer dullness that was not directly traceable to its advertising policy—that was not inevitable on account of its advertising policy. This is a strong statement—but not so strong as the one to follow. ¶ You—if you who read this are a merchant in this city—have the absolute power to decide whether, during this summer, your store shall lag and lose ground, through encouraging the non-buying habit in the people—or shall keep as busy as in the so-called "busy seasons." You decide the matter one way or the other when you decide on how much or how little you will ADVERTISE during these summer months. ? ? ? ? ?

TO REALLY "GAIN GROUND" AT A TIME WHEN SOME STORES ARE LAGGING AND FALLING BACK IS NOT ONLY POSSIBLE—IT IS AN ASPIRATION WORTHY OF AN ENERGETIC MERCHANT WHO HAS THE HABIT OF ACCOMPLISHING HIS PURPOSE. : : :

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

Summer Luncheon Dishes.

"A hearty luncheon salad may be made of peas and hard-boiled eggs," writes Fannie Merritt Farmer in Woman's Home Companion for August. "Cold boiled peas unseasoned or canned peas may be used. If canned peas are used see to it that they are thoroughly rinsed with cold water and allowed to become reoxygenated. Marinate peas with a French dressing, cover, and let stand in a cold place one hour, and then mould on a salad dish. Arrange alternately around the base of the mould halves of hard boiled eggs cut lengthwise, and crisp lettuce leaves. Garnish with mayonnaise dressing.

"Dried chipped beef is an excellent substitute for fresh meat when made into Heblein dried beef: Finely chop cold boiled potatoes; there should be two cupfuls. Add three-fourths of a cupful of dried chipped beef cut into small pieces and three canned pimentos finely cut. Season with pepper and add more salt if necessary. Cut fat salt pork in small cubes, and fry out, then drain; there should be one-third of a cupful of fat. Put the fat into a frying pan, add the potato mixture, and stir thoroughly until mixed with the fat. Cook slowly until all is thoroughly heated and browned underneath. Fold and turn on a hot platter the same as an omelet or hashed browned potatoes. Garnish with parsley and serve very hot."

Midnight Oil Means Suicide.

"People talk about the midnight oil as if it had some virtue attached to it," writes Dr. Hale in Woman's Home Companion for August. "In truth, four times out of five the midnight oil means overwork, or it means that you have neglected some duty which should have been attended to before the sun went down.

"Unless each night recovers the ground lost in the exertion of the day before, you are committing suicide by inches; and you have no right to commit suicide at all."

A Summer Substitute for Meat.

In the August Woman's Home Companion Fannie Merritt Farmer gives a number of hot weather substitutes for meat. One such substitute consists of cheese and macaroni croquettes.

"Break macaroni into half-inch pieces; there should be two-thirds of a cupful. Cook in boiling salted water until soft, drain in a colander, and pour over two cupfuls of cold water, to prevent pieces from adhering. Add thick white sauce made of two and one-half tablespoonfuls of butter, one-third cupful of flour, one cupful of milk, one-fourth of a teaspoonful of salt and a few grains of pepper; then add one-third of a cupful of grated cheese. Spread on a plate to cool. Shape, dip in crumbs, egg, and crumbs again, fry in deep fat, and drain on brown paper."

The Club Life.

Woman's National Daily.
Club life is all right where it does not interfere with home duties, where members are harming no one, neglecting no one and forgetting no home duty to be in attendance. It is not necessary that a woman be a slave to her duties, and she will grow very narrow-minded unless she manages to get out once in a while and learn something from other women. The kind who always remain at home take less interest in life than those who, at times, will go a-gadding. The gadding is conducive to good spirits and fresh ambition, provided it does not partake of gossiping. But there is one woman who should stay at home. It is the one with the fretful baby. If she can't take the baby with her she should stay at home with it. That is one of the penalties of being a mother, but the tender-hearted mother never calls it by that name; just the people who talk and write about it say it is a penalty. Some children can be left with a nurse, while others of very sensitive natures will cry themselves sick if deprived of the mother's presence. They really need no attention from the mothers, only the assurance that they are near. Merely to see her will be sufficient for the child of this temperament. Not long ago a mother belonging to a musical club left her child with a woman while she attended one of her meetings. The tiny girl played with some flowers for awhile, then finally discovered she did not see her mother. The pitiful cries were heart-rending, for all she could say, or would say, was "Where is my mamma?" Finally the child cried herself to sleep, only to awaken in a short time with the same plaintive pleading for its mother. It is all right to let a baby cry once in a while, for it would take a saint to try and keep one quiet at all times, but what is to be done with the delicate child of nervous temperament subjected to treatment of this kind? It may be a fond parent who will do as this one did, but it is certainly an unthinking one.

Have your collars laundered at Pond's Laundry. It has just installed a new machine for that kind of work.

A Fox's Stratagem.

A fox is bound to be a thief whenever he has half a chance to steal, says London Answers. He can no more help taking a goose than a badly trained cat can help taking a chop from the larder. There was a tame fox that was chained in a yard to keep him out of mischief, but he soon hit upon a plan for seizing a stray duck or fowl. At the very farthest point to which his chain would reach he used to place a portion of his food and then hide himself in his kennel. In due course a silly chicken was sure to spy the bait and begin pecking at it. Before it had had time to enjoy its meal, however, the fox would pounce upon it and the stock of poultry be reduced by one.

When Not to Smoke.

It is quite certain that much may be done to diminish the risk of tobacco amblyopia by paying attention to certain points of personal hygiene. For instance, a rule should be made never to smoke upon an empty stomach, but as far as possible only after meals. It is absolutely bad to smoke before dinner and equally bad to smoke late at night to keep awake at one's work. It should also be forbidden to chew the cigar between the teeth, as many smokers are wont to do.—Hospital.

We bought an unusually large stock of linen towels this year and our sales, while they have been very good, have not reduced our stock as much as we would like to reduce it at this season of the year, so we are going to make a big slash in prices until the lot is entirely gone.

Now don't make the mistake of thinking you can get these any time just because there is no time limit, for there is a limit and a close one on our stock of them, and the prices we quote are going to clean them up quick.

POURS OIL ON SELF AND DIES.

Frenchman Burns to Death By His Own Hand.

Ablene, Tex., July 19.—Jacques de Ville, an aged Frenchman residing near Buffalo Gap, today poured kerosene oil over himself and set the oil on fire, which resulted in his death.

He was subject to mental aberration for several years and it is supposed the deed was done while laboring under one of these spells.

The deceased was a native of France, but had resided in the neighborhood for several years, pursuing the occupation of a market gardener. The last few months he had been in feeble health and at the time of his death was being cared for by one of his neighbors. He was unmarried and so far as known leaves no relatives in this country. The remains will be interred in the city cemetery here.

NOTICE.

Grand Deputy Master Workman R. C. Hickey of Dallas, Texas, is in the city in the interest of the Ancient Order of United Workmen. This is the oldest fraternal beneficiary order in America, being 40 years old, hence far past the experimental age as an insurance order.

It has paid over $175,000,000.00 to beneficiaries of its deceased members; $3,000,000.00 of this amount has been paid in Texas.

No initiation fee will be charged from now until the 28th., and to all who join the order up until that date will be given a free trip to Fort Worth, Texas, and return, including railroad fare, hotel expenses, etc.

For further particulars regarding the order and the trip to Fort Worth see J. M. Hursh, at Kerr & Hursh hardware store.

A New Bakery.

Otto Hund has leased the room formerly occupied by J. C. Ziegler on Indiana avenue in the Erwin & Eagle building, and is having it fitted up for a bakery. Mr. Hund expects to have everything in readiness to begin his business in about two weeks. He has in his employ a first-class baker and hopes to merit and will appreciate a fair share of the patronage of the public. 60-61

HOME AGAIN.

The Elks' reunion is over. We hope all who attended had an enjoyable time and feel recompensed for the time taken away from their business.

No doubt but the worry of the trip, with the extreme high temperature the weather doctor prescribed for the occasion has caused some unpleasantness, fatigue and exhaustion.

NO LOWER EXPRESS RATES.

Commission Strikes the Proposition From the Docket.

Austin, Tex., July 20.—The proposition of the railroad commission to reduce the express rates on merchandise 20 per cent. has been dismissed. The action of the commission today is due to the fact that the railroads are financially interested in the express rates and at this time are not able to stand the proposed reduction. The commission today issued an order postponing its August docket until the second Tuesday in September. The commission has had no public hearing since April, the hearings having been postponed monthly since that date.

REPUBLICANS NOT CONFIDENT.

In this national campaign, the democracy at the start make a showing strong enough to inspire the wholesome respect of their opponents. Indications multiply that the republican leaders realize that they are to have no walk-over in this election; that the chances are they are going to have the fight of their lives, with the result uncertain until the votes shall have been counted. They are not entering the contest with a light heart and cocksure confidence. Their manifest purpose to engage their best generalship and utmost resources in the fight is weighty evidence of the strength of the democratic attack. It will also nerve the democratic leaders to meet them with equal skill and determination. Of the immediate plans of the republican generalissimo the Springfield Republican says:

Frank H. Hitchcock, chairman of the republican national committee, recognizes that the democrats propose to make their real fight in the west, and is prepared to govern himself accordingly. His first move is to call a conference at Colorado Springs for the 20th and 21st of the State chairmen and national committeemen of nearly all the trans-Mississippi States. These will include the two Dakotas, Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas, Montana, Wyoming, Oregon and California, and also the two territories of Arizona and New Mexico, which have no vote for the president, but elect delegates to congress. This gathering will be for the purpose of obtaining first-hand information in regard to the political situation in that part of the country, preliminary to an effort to influence the same in behalf of Mr. Taft. The scheme of Mr. Hitchcock is to promote working relations between the national committee and the State committees. There will follow, after the formal notification of Judge Taft at Cincinnati, a conference along similar lines at Chicago, to include the committees of all the States in the middle west. Then will follow a conference of the same nature in New York with national committeemen and State chairmen from New England and the middle States. Mr. Hitchcock has started for Chicago to establish working headquarters there. These things mean that the republicans are alive to the dangers which threaten them, and propose to take special measures for smoothing out the political situation to the advantage of their candidate.—Fort Worth Telegram.

It is the comment of all visitors to Wichita Falls that more activity in the way of building and improvements are manifest here than in any other town in which they have visited lately. This is the result of the push and energy of our citizenship. If there are "knockers" here they are scarce and have been silenced. Wichita Falls is pushing to the front rapidly and her growth and prosperity has already exceeded the predictions made by the most optimistic more than a year ago.

Only two more days between now and the time the voting begins. The race for governor is drawing more interest than all the rest, and the leaders of both Campbell and Williams are confident the vote of the county will be recorded for their candidate. The next race of importance is that of attorney general, but so far as is known neither one of the aspirants for that office have enlisted in their behalf many of our local leaders in politics. In county politics there are only two contests—that of the office of sheriff and tax collector and county tax assessor. The aspirants for these two offices are making the best of the time left for them to do their vote catching work, but aside from the candidates themselves, little interest is being taken in county politics. In county commissioners' precincts Nos. 1 and 2 the present incumbents have opposition. There is no contest in No. 3 and in No. 4 the name of no democratic aspirant appears on the official ballot. The present incumbent in the latter precinct prefers to make the race for re-election on the independent ticket and as no democrat appears to want to serve his county in that capacity, the independent candidate will more than likely be re-elected without opposition. All the supplies for holding the election have been sent to the various voting boxes by the chairman of the county democratic executive committee. The ticket to be voted is 26 inches long and 4 inches wide and will require considerable time for the voter to mark as he wants to vote it.

A Chinese Superstition.
When a Chinese baby takes a nap people think its soul is having a rest—going out for a long walk perhaps. If the nap is a very long one the mother is frightened. She is afraid that her baby's soul has wandered too far away and cannot find its way home. If it doesn't come back, of course the baby will never awaken. Sometimes men are sent out into the streets to call the baby's name over and over again, as though it were a real child lost. They hope to lead the soul back home. If a baby sleeps while it is being carried from one place to another the danger of losing the soul along the way is very great. So whoever carries the little one keeps saying its name out loud, so that the soul will not stray away. They think of the soul as a bird hopping along after them.

How It Happened.
"True, the night was dark, but he appeared to jump deliberately in front of the automobile."
"Force of habit. The poor fellow was an actor and naturally dived for the spot light."—Kansas City Journal.

Postmaster O. T. Bacon.
American National Insurance Co., Galveston, Texas.
Gentlemen:—I had the pleasure of meeting your representative whom I found to be a most thorough gentleman, and also a thorough insurance man. I had explained to me the policy now being written by the American National Insurance Company, and I candidly say it is one of the best and so strongly did I think so, that I took a policy for $5,000. I consider it the best of all I have, and I carry several. I am glad to see the strong men of Texas taking stock and pushing this company, as there is nothing like keeping Texas money at home. Be sure to keep the good work going, and also keep your agent at work in this part of the State, where he will not only help your company, but my friends also. Yours truly,
OTIS T. BACON.

Wichita Mill & Elevator Company.
I am much pleased to have investigated your company and I consider it a favor to be able to become a policy holder in your company.
In view of the upheaval in insurance matters in New York City recently, it has demonstrated to me that the time has now come for a great insurance company in Texas, so the people of Texas can retain their premiums at home, instead of sending them outside the borders of our State. Your company assisted by such men as you have associated with you in this company, is sufficient guarantee to anyone seeking a policy, that the money will be paid to his family after he is dead and gone.
Yours very truly,
FRANK KELL, President

Office of County and District Clerk.
Wichita Falls, Texas.
Your representative called on me today and explained the fine policy you are now issuing. It is a pleasure to me to take a policy in your company as I think the American National deserves the liberal patronage it is receiving among the representative men of our State.
It indicates a worthy desire to patronize a first-class home company and thus keep Texas money at home. Very truly yours,
W. A. REID,
County and District Clerk.

OF GALVESTON

MORA C. CLARK, General Agt. Present Address, Wichita Falls, Texas

Office of the City Council.
Wichita Falls, Texas.
A representative of the American National Insurance Co., called on me today, and after showing me the advantages in the life insurance business with your home company, had no trouble in interesting me to the extent of a $5,000 policy. In this connection I beg to say that you have in your company the very proposition in the way of life insurance that I have wished for for the last ten years. And I can state to you frankly that I believe the people of Texas will appreciate the fact that you people in organizing this company have done a great work for the people throughout the whole state.
Yours very truly,
T. B. NOBLE, Mayor.

Coleman-Lysaght-Blair Company.
As stated to you personally a few weeks ago, I believe that your Texas company is a better proposition for one to insure in than any of the old line Eastern companies, for several reasons.
The first of many reasons is that the gentlemen who are officers and directors of the American National Insurance Company are thoroughly known to the people of Texas to be clear, clean-cut, honest business men.
Another reason is that the premiums paid to the Texas Company will be invested in Texas.
It is a pleasure for me to take out a policy with your company today.
WILEY BLAIR,
Sec'y. and Gen'l. Manager.

Wichita Falls, Texas
I have taken a policy in the American National Insurance Co., and I think it the most liberal contract I have ever known. I think your company as a Texas institution, deserves encouragement and support.
Yours truly,

Attorney-at-Law.

Enclosed you will find my check for premiums, also acknowledge receipt of my policy, which I consider the best one I have out of five others I have had for some time.

SARTORIAL DILEMMAS.

Weighty Problems That Are Puzzling Our English Cousins.

A problem is put forward by a writer in a contemporary which gives food for thought. It is this: Suppose by some combination of circumstances you were faced by the alternative of wearing a frock coat with brown boots. Which would be the better way out of it—to wear a bowler or a tall hat? As the writer justly remarks, if you wear a bowler then the thing you have to explain away is the coat. If you wear a tall hat, you have only the boots to account for. We should advise those of our readers who find one morning that all the wearing apparel in the house had been stolen during the night with the exception of a frock coat, waistcoat, trousers, shirt, collar, vest, tie, a pair of brown boots and two hats—one tall, the other round—to cut the Gordian knot by staying in bed. Another of life's dilemmas which may face the traveler down the world's dusty highway has to do with collars. Suppose on arriving at a house for a week end and starting to dress for dinner you find that your evening collars have got wetted by your sponge or otherwise defaced. Should you wear a clean double collar or a dirty orthodox evening collar? In the former case you will be natty, but a thing of loathing to all properly constituted men. In the latter you will give the impression that you cannot afford the services of a laundry.—London Globe.

NAPOLEON'S HABITS.

The Great Warrior Was Fond of Perfumes and Clean Linen.

It is pleasant to learn if one has Napoleon I. on the hero list that he had very dainty habits in personal matters; that he was fastidiously clean in his person, according to an article in a French contemporary, and poured eau de cologne into the water he washed in, then sponged his head with perfume and finally poured the remainder of the contents of the flask over his neck and shoulders. He was also extravagantly fond of clean linen and during his campaigns had relays of it sent to different places. In those days it did not cost a farm to have starched things laundered, for, in account with a famous laundress in Paris, the emperor's linen for one wash amounted to 386 pieces and cost only a trifle over $20.

This strikes an American as very reasonable, but his majesty never wore any article but once, and, as he always undressed himself without aid from his valet, his garments were literally cast to the four corners of the room. Napoleon's bill for eau de cologne, however, exceeded the washerwoman's by a large majority. It is a relief to learn that the Little Corporal was so much a dude. Some of his predecessors in the Tuilleries were not blessed with such excellent habits if history is to be relied upon.

To Make Waxed Paper.

This is used for keeping substances which contain either a volatile aromatic ingredient or grease, which would penetrate through ordinary paper. On a flat sheet of copper over a gentle fire place a sheet of paper as a base and then lay a second sheet on the top of the first. Coat this second sheet with yellow or white wax and distribute the latter uniformly over the entire sheet by means of a sponge, exerting a little pressure, till the paper is everywhere transparent and consequently permeated by the wax. If the fire is too feeble, the process will be retarded. Too powerful a flame is still more harmful, as the paper is liable to become brown or black. Stearin may be used instead of wax.—Der Industriose Geschäftsman.

Sure to Be There.

An old Scotch farmer was lying on what he thought was his deathbed. He began to give orders to his wife about his funeral and the people to be invited. His wife, knowing that he was not dying, paid but little attention to his requests, and this so enraged the farmer that he rose on his elbow and cried out:

"What need I speak? There'll be naething dune richt unless I'm there myself!"

His wife, patting him on the shoulder, replied: "Toots, man, Bauldy! Keep yer mtn' easy. Ye'll be the principal man there."—Glasgow Times.

Where They Gas Away.

Of the late Langdon Smith, the brilliant journalist and author of New York, a Denver reporter narrated anecdotes the other day.

"I remember," he said, "my first visit to Washington. Smith, big and handsome and vivacious, showed me about. From an eminence a great pale dome rose up against the blue sky, the dome of the capitol.

"What is that?" said I.

"That?" said Smith. "Oh, that's the national gas works."

In One Lesson.

He—Your sister said she couldn't dance.

She—Well, can she?

"Yes; I made her. We hadn't been on the floor a minute when I stepped on her foot. You just ought to have seen her."—Yonkers Statesman.

Misnamed.

Towne—Why do you call young Fetherbrane "Cholly"? His first name is Noah.

Browne—Yes, but that's so inappropriate. Noah had sense enough to get in out of the rain.—Philadelphia Press.

He who will not reason is a bigot; he who cannot is a fool; he who dares not is a slave.—Byron.

ORCHARD AND GARDEN

The Fruit Grower.

Grapes should be seeded, as this can be done by a little machine at small cost. For home use I have done it by hand, but it is too slow-work for large quantities. Care must be taken to save the juice of this and all other fruits. Pack solid in cold water. Exhaust seven minutes, process twelve minutes.

Peaches are peeled and cut in halves, if free. Cling are not pitted unless sliced, in which case the pit is thrown out. Pack solid in syrup or water, according to grade. Exhaust five minutes, process fifteen minutes. For the best grade the fruit must be in unbroken halves, though two years ago my Elbertas ran so large I could not get them in at times without breaking or quartering. I am going to experiment with scalding peaches, after the manner of tomatoes. The process has been recommended to me, but I'm not pinning much faith in it as yet. Pie peaches should have the fur removed by washing with a rough cloth, Turkish towelling being excellent, and are packed in either three-pound or ten-pound cans, and exhausted and processed as above. Apricots may be put up by the same process.

Pears are peeled, cut in halves or quarters, cored and packed solid in syrup or water. Exhaust five minutes, process twenty-five minutes.

Peaches and pears discolor so readily they must not be allowed to stand exposed to the air. The former I place at once in the cans; the latter, being more solid, I have put in a jar of water until a quantity was prepared, and they seemed to lose nothing thereby.

Plums--Seed and pack, and fill with water or thin syrup. Exhaust five minutes, process fifteen minutes.

Currants should be carefully cleaned, packed and cans filled with water. Exhaust seven minutes and process ten minutes.

Apples are pared and cored. This may be done quite rapidly by any good paring machine. They are then quartered and packed as solidly as possible in either three-pound or ten-pound cans, in water. Exhaust five minutes, process fifteen minutes.

Canning Beans.

In the vegetable line string beans will follow peas. Those canned on the farm are a far different article from the tough, stringy, acid things usually labeled string beans.

With these, as with all vegetables, care must be taken to gather them when just right. Fruits may be a little over or under ripe, and it will hurt the quality less than a little age will vegetables. Gather just when the bean begins to form. Throw out all imperfect or old ones that have been overlooked in previous pickings, but pick those from the vine, as its bearing season will be shortened if allowed to mature seed.

Beware of the "stringless" bean. I have found it a delusion and a snare. The "string" is not tough enough to pull off when raw, but is very much in evidence when cooked. I have found the Penelope the most satisfactory wax and the Refugee the best green, so far. I am trying a small quantity of other varieties this year. Remember, however, varieties act differently in different soils and locations. I had nearly one-third acre of the Refugee in my main field last year and never a canful did I get from them. Few formed, and they were short, tough and worthless. I had only six or eight rows in the garden and they bore quantities of beans, deliciously tender and fine flavored. For strictly home use the Kentucky Wonder can't be beaten, but the need of poles renders it out of the question in large fields.

A long, straight pod is preferable, as it is more easily prepared. The ends are cut off and the pod cut into pieces one and a half to two inches long. The pods may be cut with a knife on a table, shortening the process much over cutting each pod separately. However, preparing the beans is a tedious work at best. Blanch ten minutes, pack in two-pound can, fill with pure water, no brine; exhaust ten minutes, process one hour.

I found the time of forty-five minutes given by most instructors too short for perfect cooking. In fact, I lengthen the time on a number of fruits and vegetables. One lot, left in charge of my oldest "hopeful" while I went to lodge, were forgotten, and remained in the canner from 7:30, when they should have come out, until my return at 11. I supposed them ruined and opened a can to see what they were like. We had them for dinner, and the family asked me as a favor to "forget" all we kept for ourselves. I sent them out to Kansas and they gave perfect satisfaction and brought an order for this year's supply. Still, I don't advise wasting too much time, as one hour will do.

Canning Corn.

My corn this year was canned too old, as I simply could not get time to do it when it should have been done. That canned previously, however, has been simply fine.

I think Stovall's Evergreen as good as any for canning. Gather when tender, but not watery and prepare as for the table, using a stiff brush to remove the silks. Slice off the kernels with a sharp knife and scrape slightly to remove the core and milk, but not the hull. I cut into a large granite pan, saving much muss and lots of milk thereby. It must not be allowed to stand any longer than absolutely necessary between gathering and processing, as it sours so quickly. Pack to within one and a half inches of the top of the can, as corn swells somewhat in processing. Cover one inch with slightly salted water. Exhaust ten minutes, process five hours. Cans of corn too full will burst. I have never lost a can, however.

Canning Tomatoes.

The best variety of tomato for canning is without any doubt the New Stone, though any medium sized smooth red variety, meaty and with small core is good. Handle with care in gathering and removing from field to canner. The things I've seen factories use cannot be made into healthful, appetizing food by any magic. To peel, immerse in boiling water a moment or two--a process familiar to everyone--but don't use the process vat as a scalding vat unless you are prepared to wash and wipe every tomato before scalding; and even then a good ripe one may burst in the vat.

Remove the skin first and then the core, holding the stem side up during the last operation, as less juice is lost that way. Pack as solid as possible, and if necessary use water to fill any cans lacking in juice. Exhaust eight minutes, process thirty minutes. Do not allow them to stand in process of canning.

The process is the same for squash and pumpkin. Peel, cook until nearly done and pack solid. No water will be required. Exhaust ten minutes, process forty minutes.

I have read of, but never used, another process, with which I shall experiment this season, viz., put in scalding tank for five minutes, after which the peel will be more easily removed. Then slice or grate and pack solid. Exhaust twelve minutes, process forty-five minutes. The discomfort of handling the hot pumpkin in peeling seems to me a drawback. Peeling it cold is bad enough.

Lima beans are shelled and packed solid. Fill with cold water. Exhaust ten minutes, process forty minutes.

Succotash is simply a mixture of corn and beans. Both should be young and tender. This is quite profitable to can. Pack solid, not too full, and fill to within half inch of top with water. Exhaust ten minutes, process thirty-five minutes.

Sweet potatoes are easily canned. Cook until nearly done, but yet firm, peel and cut in halves or quarters and fill with water. Exhaust ten minutes, process thirty-five minutes.

Prepare chras for the table, blanch ten minutes in hot brine, pack and add new brine. Exhaust ten minutes, process thirty minutes.

This may be canned with tomatoes as follows: Blanch and chop fine and add one-half in bulk to peeled tomatoes. Use what water is necessary, though but little should be required. Exhaust ten minutes, process forty-five minutes.

Use beets about the size of a peach or one and three-quarter inches in diameter. Clean very thoroughly and trim off the top to within one-half inch of the beet. Cook until nearly done and slip off the skin in cold water. Halve or quarter if necessary and pack in three-pound cans. Fill with water, cap and tip. Process fifty minutes.

The Unprodigal Son.

The president of a club of New York waiters said the other day of a parsimonious young man:

"He resembles a chap they tell about in Bucks county.

"This chap lived alone with his father. On the old man's death he would inherit the farm.

"Well, finally the old man took sick. His end drew near. The son sat up with him a night or two, expecting him to pass away, but he lingered on.

"On the fifth or sixth night the son, instead of sitting up, put a lamp, turned low, very, very low, on a table by the bed and went off to his own room with the caution:

"When you feel that it is all over with you, father, don't forget to blow out the lamp."—Washington Star.

A Rare Souvenir.

A curious souvenir is preserved in the Bank of England in the shape of a note for £1,000 with which Admiral Lord Cochrane paid his fine when he was falsely accused of spreading with an interested object a rumor that Bonaparte was dead in 1814 so as to cause a rise in the price of stocks. The sum mentioned was raised in subscriptions of a penny by his Westminster constituents. The note is indorsed with the name of the intrepid but ill used salt and has inscribed on it a sentence in which he expresses the hope that one day he will prove his innocence and triumph over his accusers. That consummation was not effected until eighteen years later, when he was reinstated by William IV. —London Telegraph.

Submarine Navigation.

The idea of the submarine is certainly as much as 200 years old, but most of the earlier plans were flat failures. In 1774 an inventor named Day lost his life during an experimental descent in Plymouth sound. Bushnell of Connecticut in 1775 contrived a submarine vessel propelled by some kind of screw. Robert Fulton also in 1796 invented a box which when filled with combustibles might be propelled under water and made to explode under the bottom of a ship. It is hard to say who was the originator of the idea of the submarine boat unless it was Day. —New York American.

"What does she do?"

THE PORT OF MISSING MEN

They haven't followed the railroad north, because the valley broadens too much and there are too many people. There's a trail up here that goes over the ridge and down through a wind gap to a settlement about five miles south of Lamar. If I'm guessing right, we can cut around and get ahead of them and drive them back here to my land."

"To the Port of Missing Men! It was made for the business," said Claiborne.

"Oscar, patrol the road here and keep an eye on the bungalow, and if you hear us forcing them down charge from this side. I'll fire twice when I get near the Port to warn you, and if you strike them first give the same signal. Do be careful, sergeant, how you shoot. We want prisoners, you understand, not corpses."

Armitage found a faint trail and with Claiborne struck off into the forest near the main gate of his own grounds. In less than an hour they rode out upon a low wooded ridge and drew up their panting, sweating horses—two shadowy videttes against the lustral dome of stars. A keen wind whistled across the ridge, and the horses pawed the unstable ground restlessly. The men jumped down to tighten their saddle girths, and they turned up their coat collars before mounting again.

"Come! We're on the verge of morning," said Armitage, "and there's no time to lose."
