ANSWERS REPORT

SHERIFF DAVIS MAKES REPLY TO CRITICISMS MADE BY THE GRAND JURY.

CHARGES LOW POLITICS

Says Report is Apparently Effort of Political Enemies to Give Him Stab in the Dark.

(Advertisement.)

A. M. Davis to the People of Wichita County:—

The honorable grand jury at its adjournment last week makes and publishes a report to the district, reflecting on me as the sheriff of your county; (1) because they say at the beginning of our term "on account of hearing complaint as to the condition of the county jail, we examined * * * and found to be in a very unsanitary condition and poorly kept." I had no opportunity to explain to the honorable body what may have appeared to them the cause or any reason for the appearance of conditions. By reference to the minutes of the honorable commissioners court it will be found that as early as last June an allowance was made for two closets (water) done at my suggestion. (See p. 208, vol. 3, June 12th, 1907.) That on Feb. 10th, 1908, the Wichita Plumbing Company was paid for repairs on the plumbing of the jail $194.45; this at my suggestion also. I have lost no time in making my complaint to the proper authorities for such repairs as are necessary for keeping the jail in sanitary condition, and I am positive in the assertion that the jail has been kept in as good condition as the means applied would afford.

The report of the honorable grand jury smacks strongly of complaints made by persons hostile to me in my canvass for re-election, and certainly I should have had some warning from that body at the beginning of its term last April, when they say they had complaints. I certainly had or heard none, and to have postponed the report until upon the eve of the primary election smacks loudly of a political move upon the part of my personal enemies to influence the jury to give me a stab in the dark at the moment the primary is to be held.

There has been no lack of harmony between myself and the city officers. I have held myself ready and willing at all times to render aid in enforcing the law. And it appears to me if the court dockets furnish a proper record, that there has been no lack of vigilance upon the part of any of the officers of the county.

As to the charge that in some instances "men arrested and confined for offenses in jail, have been by those having the jail in charge liberated," I am not aware. If it is intended by the astute writer of the report to apply to me, I pronounce it as absolutely untrue that I or any deputy of mine has ever done such an unwarranted act. The writer of this report says that this unlawful act has been done "under such circumstances as to render it difficult to ascertain just who is responsible for the immediate act, owing to the loose way in which the business has been conducted." The hand of the politician shows clearly in this sentence, and I cannot believe the jury were thoroughly apprised of the contents of the paper offered them for their approval.

In conclusion I have to say that for more than five months I have been so closely confined to the bedside of an invalid wife that it has not been possible for me to meet the voters of the county and explain all the false rumors which my enemies have industriously circulated in regard to my conduct in office and have compelled to rely upon the indulgence of the people to sustain me in the canvass for this my second term in office. I positively assert that no duty of the office has been neglected by me or my deputies. I learn now that several persons have been claiming deputyships under me who were never by me authorized to so act, but are abusing me in the canvass because and for no other reason than that I have refused them appointments. I rely upon the justice of the voters of the county to support me in my canvass. Very truly,

A. M. DAVIS.

CRUDE PETROLEUM USED ON GUTTERS DOWN TOWN.

The gutters in the business district were sprinkled with crude petroleum today, after having been cleaned out within the past few days, much to the gratification of everybody.

The horses even notice the change and appear thankful for the riddance of the pesky flies and mosquitoes, which made life a misery for them.

A sprinkling of petroleum will last for several months and one more application will keep the gutters free from flies and disagreeable odors until after the first frost.

The cots at the camp hospital are filled with the injured, some of whom are women and children, who had been visiting the camp.

The tent occupied by Governor Stuart was blown down and the governor and his guests were buried under the canvass.

THE QUIRT AND TH ESPUR.

Stories of the Northwest Texas Frontier By Judge Edgar Rye Now Ready for Publication.

After several years of labor Judge Edgar Rye has completed the writing of a book of reminiscences of pioneer life in Northwest Texas. The author has interwoven a thread of romance into its stories and the book, with its vivid, life-like pictures of characters of the open range is a valuable contribution to Texas history and literature.

Application for a copyright has been made by the author and it is his intention to have the book published next fall. The following announcement has been made concerning the forthcoming publication:

"A semi-historical work of the Northwest Texas frontier, including Indian depredations, battles, fights and ambushes; expeditions of the government troops, State rangers and settlers, with all the exciting incidents of border warfare, compiled from data of eye-witnesses and participants in the stirring events.

"Also cowboy life on the free range of Texas, with all the details of ranch life, including the amusing incidents of the range and camp; the dashing escapades in and around Forts Griffin, Belknap, Richardson and Phantom Hill during the '70s and '80s.

"Also a detailed description of the great buffalo hunting seasons, when hundreds of thousands of buffaloes were killed and the species exterminated.

"Also a description of the great overland cattle trail, when from 100,000 to 150,000 head were driven from Southern Texas to the Northern markets.

"A thread of romance, fun, love, courtship and marriage binds the events in one continuous story.

The book contains 83,000 words and about fifty appropriate illustrations. The whole is based on the actual observations and experiences of the author, who lived and participated in the events described in the book.

"Copyright respectfully applied for by the author. "EDGAR RYE." 63-21

NEW WHOLESALE FIRM

FT. WORTH COMPANY TO START WHOLESALE FRUIT AND PRODUCE BUSINESS HERE.

HAVE LEASED BUILDING

Nolan Warehouse to be Equipped With Cold Storage Apparatus and Branch House Opened.

C. E. Harkrider, one of the members of a prominent Fort Worth wholesale fruit and produce firm, returned to this city today, after having closed a lease for the Nolan warehouse on Ohio avenue near the crossing of the Wichita Valley railroad tracks. Cold storage apparatus and repairs are to be made at once and a branch house opened in the building for a wholesale fruit and produce business.

Wichita Falls, with its many railroads and the splendid territory surrounding the city in every direction, is becoming recognized as one of the best distributing centers in North Texas, and it is understood that wholesalers in other lines are contemplating the establishment of wholesale houses here before a new year opens.

The Age of Presidents.

There can be no question that physically Mr. Bryan will be equal to the demands made upon the occupants of the White House, incessant and often irritating as they are. He has the temperament for it, re-enforced by a large experience. That he is in the prime of years is proved by his activity. "Prime of years" is a relative term. Some men at 50 have passed the period of physical activity and are approaching the days when the command of nature to halt and rest becomes imperative.

Others are capable at that age of the strenuous life. President Roosevelt will be 50 in October. Given a fairly good constitution, and a normally healthy brain and the man of 50 should be able to refute the current conception of him as better fitted for the retired list than active service. The capabilities of the man of 50 years have often been illustrated by our president. The first of them, Washington, was 50 when he took office and 62 when he retired. John Adams was 62 when he became president.

It is a curious coincidence that Jefferson, Madison, Monroe and John Quincy Adams were each about 58 when they entered the White House as its occupant.

Andrew Jackson, who is the popular conception of energy itself, was 62 at inauguration. Not until Pierce did we have a president who was under 50 years when called upon to take up the honors and burdens of the place.

General Grant was 47 when he began his first term and President Cleveland lacked a fortnight of being 48 on March 4, 1885. Mr. Roosevelt is the youngest man ever chosen for president of the United States; he was under 32 the day he was sworn into office at Buffalo in 1901. So many of the chief magistrates of the nation have passed the 50th milestone before inauguration that if there has not been a precedent established there has been an informal consensus of opinion apparently that from middle life may be expected the best results in administration—maturity of experience and observation guiding an activity still capable of being sustained through four years.—Boston Transcript.

TAGGART HAS NO IDEA WHO WILL BE CHAIRMAN.

Randle Refused a New Trial.

W. F. Randle, who was found guilty of robbery and sentenced to five years imprisonment in the State penitentiary by the jury in the district court, this morning filed a motion for a new trial, which motion was overruled by Judge Carrigan, who pronounced sentence on the prisoner. Randle filed notice of an appeal.

The prisoner claims that his home is at Waco, where his family is a prominent one.

Vote for Judge Irby Dunklin tomorrow. 63-11

A HIGH PLACE FOR DUNKLIN

Tarrant county's candidate for Associate Justice of the Court of Civil Appeals, Second Supreme Judicial District.

Judge Irby Dunklin.

With a record of twelve years on the bench of the Forty-Eighth District Court of this county, the friends and supporters of Judge Irby Dunklin, Tarrant County's candidate for Associate Justice of the Court of Civil Appeals for the Second Supreme Judicial District, as the day for the primary draws nearer, are confident that he will be successful.

Judge Dunklin has lived within the borders of the Lone Star State since early boyhood, removing to Fort Worth as a young man from Cass county, where he toiled in the fields by day and pursued his studies at night, gaining the fundamental principles of an education and finishing in one of the best colleges in Georgia.

Judge Dunklin removed to Fort Worth in 1881 and one year later was granted a license to practice law by Judge Hood, who was then district judge of Tarrant county.

From the very time a license was granted him, Judge Dunklin entered upon the practice of his profession with a determination that insured success.

Master in Chancery.

When the Fort Worth and Denver railroad went into the hands of a receiver he was appointed Master in Chancery and in 1896, with the retirement of Judge Green from the bench strong pressure was brought to bear upon Judge Dunklin to make the race for this office. He was successful and in leaving this bench he does so with a record of having made one of the best jurists that ever presided over a trial court in Texas.

Business men of Fort Worth, hundreds of them, professional men and the pastors of various churches in this city have joined in the indorsement of Judge Dunklin for the high office to which he aspires.

For the first time in the history of a general election in Tarrant county every candidate for a county office has indorsed Judge Dunklin, demonstrating the esteem in which he is held in his home county.—Fort Worth Telegram (Adv.)

PACKERS CHARGE DISCRIMINATION

Special to the Times. Fort Worth, Tex., July 24.—The packing houses here are joining in a campaign to prevent all Mexican railroads from discriminating against Texas cities, especially Fort Worth.

The freight rates have just been increased by the Mexican roads 21 cents on the hundred pounds, and the packing houses are dealt a severe blow, as they send $50,000 worth of meat into Mexico monthly.

They declare the increase is a conspiracy against Fort Worth, as there are no other packing houses in the territory affected. Protests will be laid before both government by the packers.

Other Texas cities are affected by the interstate increase, which becomes effective August 10th.

NEW UNION STATION

THE KATY AND WICHITA FALLS ROUTE TO BUILD UNION PASSENGER DEPOT.

PLANS WELL UNDER WAY

Building Will Be Erected at Rear of Postoffice—Architects Now Drawing Plans.

Announcement was made today of the intention of the M. K. and T. railway, in conjunction with the Wichita Falls and Northwestern and the Wichita Falls and Southern, to build a new union passenger depot for the three lines mentioned within the next few months.

Superintendent McDowell of the M. K. and T. was in the city today for a conference with the officials of the Wichita Falls and Northwestern and the Southern roads, and to view the site proposed for the new station.

It is given out that the new depot is to be erected at the rear of the new Kemp-Kell building, occupied by the postoffice.

Architects are now said to be preparing plans for the building and it is expected to have it under construction within the next two months. As now planned, the present depot will remain in its present location and will be used as the freight office and warehouse, the new building to be used for a passenger station and to contain the offices.

The increasing business handled by the M. K. and T. since Wichita Falls has become an important commercial center, and the building of the new lines which use the same building, have made the present quarters inadequate to handle either the freight or the passenger business and the building of the new station is the recognition of a long felt need.

TENDERS RESIGNATION.

Dr. Dalton, Pastor of First Presbyterian Church, Asks For Release.

At a called meeting of the session of the First Presbyterian church at the manse this morning, Dr. J. J. Dalton, who has been the pastor of the church for the past four years, tendered his resignation unconditionally, which the session did not see proper to accept, and finally it was decided to have a meeting of all the members of the congregation, before whom a proposition to permit Dr. Dalton to exchange pulpits with Dr. Mitchell of Huntsville, Ala., and it is thought this will be agreeable to all parties concerned.

The church at Huntsville, Ala., is the second largest in point of members and wealth in that State. Before coming to Texas, Dr. Dalton was for seven years connected with churches in the State of Alabama. The church in this city, under his pastorate, has made more rapid progress than for any previous four years, and there will be many who will regret to learn that he desires to accept the call extended from the Huntsville church.

RUNNER IN MARATHON RACE FELL IN THE STADIUM.

FLASH—London, Eng., July 24.—The Americans' protest in the Marathon race was upheld.

London—Dorando, the Italian, won the Marathon race. The course 26 miles and 385 yards.

Dorando came into the stadium, staggered along the tracks a short distance and fell.

Kays, the Irish American, was second; Hefferman of South Africa, third; Forshaw of Missouri, fourth.

The London Express, in commenting on what is described by the newspapers as an "unpleasant incident" and "a sad blow to the Olympic games," says:

"We firmly believe that American sportsmen regret the unfortunate incident equally with us, which makes the relations between them and their British competitors more strained than ever."

The Daily News attributes the "unsavory" incident to the gambling element.

TUNNEL GAVE WAY TWENTY-FIVE MEN KILLED.

By Associated Press. Berne, Switzerland, July 24.—While they were at work inside of the Lötchberg tunnel in the Berne Alps, the wall gave way, precipitating twenty-five workmen into a hitherto unknown subterranean river or lake. All the men were drowned.

DO YOU WANT TO MAKE OR LOSE MONEY THIS SUMMER?

There is no good reason for any "summer dullness" in the stores of this city. That's a strong statement—but it's not nearly so strong as the one to follow. Q No store in this city ever suffered from summer dullness that was not directly traceable to its advertising policy—that was not inevitable on account of its advertising policy. This is a strong statement—but not so strong as the one to follow. Q You—if you who read this are a merchant in this city—have the absolute power to decide whether, during this summer, your store shall lag and lose ground, through encouraging the non-buying habit in the people—or shall keep as busy as in the so-called "busy seasons." You decide the matter one way or the other when you decide on how much or how little you will ADVERTISE during these summer months. ? ? ? ? ?

TO REALLY "GAIN GROUND" AT A TIME WHEN SOME STORES ARE LAGGING AND FALLING BACK IS NOT ONLY POSSIBLE—IT IS AN ASPIRATION WORTHY OF AN ENERGETIC MERCHANT WHO HAS THE HABIT OF ACCOMPLISHING HIS PURPOSE. . . .

A COMET'S TAIL.

The Way This Filmy Dust Train is Tossed About by the Sun.

No bridal veil was ever so filmy as a comet's tail. Hundreds of cubic miles of that wonderful appendage are outweighed by a jarful of air.

By means of the spectroscope we have magically transported this fairy plume to our laboratories and have discovered that it is akin to the blue flame of our gas stoves; for the gas by which we cook and the delicate tresses of a comet both consist of combinations of hydrogen and carbon, appropriately called by chemists "hydrocarbons."

When it first appears in the heavens, far removed from the sun, a comet is a tailless blotch of light.

As a comet swims on toward the sun the hydrocarbons of the tail split up under the increasing heat into hydrogen gas and hydrocarbons of a higher boiling point. With a still closer approach to the sun, these more resistant hydrocarbons eventually yield to the increasing heat and are decomposed in the form of soot.

Interplanetary space is airless; hence the soot cannot burn. It must pursue the comet in the form of a dust train. The particles constituting that train are small enough to be toyed with by the pressure of sunlight.

No matter where the comet may be in its orbit, whether it has just entered the solar system or is speeding away, that plume is inevitably tossed away from the sun, just as if a mighty wind were blowing it from the central luminary.

The appendage of shining dust is the symbol of the triumph of light over solar gravitation.—Harper's Magazine.

Expect Great Things of Yourself.

A soldier once took a message to Napoleon in such great haste that the horse he rode dropped dead before he delivered the paper. Napoleon dictated his answer and, handing it to the messenger, ordered him to mount his own horse and deliver it with all possible speed. The messenger looked at the magnificent animal, with its superb trappings, and said, "Nay, General, but this is too gorgeous, too magnificent for a common soldier." Napoleon said, "Nothing is too good or too magnificent for a French soldier." The world is full of people like this poor French soldier, who think that what others have is too good for them; that it does not fit their humble condition; that they are not expected to have as good things as those who are more favored. They do not realize how they weaken themselves by this mental attitude of self-depreciation or self-effacement. They do not claim enough, for, do not expect enough, do not demand enough of themselves.

You will never become a giant if you only make a pigmy's claim for yourself. If you only expect a pigmy's part. There is no law which will cause a pigmy's thinking to produce a giant. The statue follows the model. Most people have been educated to think that they were not intended to have the best there is in the world; that the good and beautiful things of life were not intended for them; that these were reserved for those especially favored by fortune. They have grown up under this conviction of their inferiority, and, of course, they will be comparatively inferior until they claim superiority as their birthright. A vast number of men and women, who are really capable of doing great things, do small things, live mediocre lives, because they do not expect enough, do not demand enough of themselves. They do not know how to call out their best.—Success Magazine.

TOMORROW'S PRIMARY.

Saturday marks the closing of the political campaign in Texas this year, as the primaries will be held all over the State on that day, and nominations will be made for all State, county, district and precinct officers. Owing to the cumbersome provisions of the Terrell election law, the matter of holding State and county elections has become so hedged about by useless and foolish restrictions that there are plain signs of almost a party revolt. Owing to the Terrell election law, the voters of Texas will next Saturday vote what is probably the longest election ticket ever voted in any State in the Union.

There are at the present time 506,151 qualified voters in Texas, figured upon the basis of poll tax payments, and it is probable that about 325,000 of these will vote in the democratic primary election. It seems likely that the counting of the vote will proceed slowly, and if the contests shall prove close in the several races in which the people are principally interested, it may be that they will learn of the results upon the installment plan during a period of seven days.

Interest in the campaign centers chiefly in the contest for governor, for attorney general and on the prohibition and local option propositions, and also in the legislative contests principally because of those propositions. Also somewhat of general interest, and actually of local interest, are the races for congress in eight of the sixteen districts. Another matter of interest involved principally in the precinct conventions to be held upon the same day, is the selection of officers who are to control the party machinery.

Vote for Governor in 1908.

The total vote to be cast for governor in the approaching primary, as already indicated in the foregoing, probably will be larger than that of 1906, at which time 284,106 votes were cast for the four candidates for governor, divided as follows: Campbell, 99,345; Bell, 65,168; Colquitt, 68,529; Brooks, 70,064. In that election Governor Campbell received pluralities in the following counties:

In East Texas—Anderson, Angelina, Camp, Cass, Cherokee, Franklin, Gregg, Harrison, Henderson, Houston, Jefferson, Leon, Liberty, Marion, Madison, Montgomery, Morris, Nacogdoches, Newton, Panola, Polk, Rusk, San Jacinto, Shelby, Smith, Titus, Trinity, Upshur, Walker and Wood.

In North Texas—Delta and Parker.

In Western Texas—Armstrong, Baylor (tied with Bell), Brown, Childress, Crosby, Dallam, Dimmitt, Floyd, Hall, Hardeman, Hartley, Hemphill, Howard, Irion, Jeff Davis, Mitchell, Motley, Runnels, Sherman, Sterling, Stephens, Tom Green (tied with Bell), Ward, Wichita and Young.

In Central Texas—Falls, Freestone, Hill, Johnson, Limestone, Navarro, Robertson, and Willamson.

In South and Southwest Texas—Aransas, Atascosa, Bee, Bexar, Galveston, Hays, Karnes, Kendall, La Salle, McMullen, Maverick, Medina, Nueces, Refugio, Schleicher, Uvalde, Victoria and Webb.

In quite a number of other counties Campbell received almost as many votes as the highest man.

The great length of the ballot to be used in this primary is due in part to the fact that under the Texas system of government there is a large number of elective offices, most of them of short tenure, which number has recently been increased, but it is due in large measure to the election system now in vogue as the result of legislative direction. The law now requires a vote of the people upon all elective public offices, not merely from "constable to governor," but on up to president as well. It also requires the election of county chairmen of the party by primary vote, and in general it has the effect of multiplying candidacies for all of these offices.

Notwithstanding the fact that a primary election was held in May to elect delegates at large to the national democratic convention and a State convention was held in the same month to elect the district delegates, the democracy of Texas is now called upon to vote in a general primary election for the nomination of presidential electors. None of them has an opponent. Nevertheless the ponderous process of voting for them in a general primary election and of counting the vote must be gone through with in order to entitle the ticket to a place upon the official ballot in the general election. This is one of the requirements of the election law, inadvertently made, no doubt, but nevertheless necessary to be observed. By reason of it the democratic voters are obliged to take two, even three bites at the same cherry.

HOW TO VOTE.

In tomorrow's election all democrats who have paid their 1907 poll tax and have resided within the State, county and precinct the required length of time will be entitled to vote.

It will be unnecessary for any voter to show his poll tax receipt, provided the person applying to vote has paid his tax in this county. The election officers will be furnished with a list of all persons who have paid their poll tax in Wichita county, and this will be all the evidence required that the person applying to vote is entitled to exercise that privilege. Only in cities of over 10,000 population are voters required to show poll tax receipts.

In the event a voter has paid his tax in another county and has resided in this county a sufficient length of time to become a qualified voter, it will, under those circumstances, be necessary for him to show his poll tax receipt before voting.

If the voter desires to vote against the question of State-wide prohibition, he can do this better by simply voting "For the system of local option," etc., and marking out all three of the other paragraphs on the ticket pertaining to the question.

If, on the other hand, the voter is a prohibitionist and desires to cast his vote in a way that will be effective and do the most good, he can do this by striking out with a black lead pencil all the paragraphs except the one which starts off: "For the submission by the Thirty-First Legislature of the State of Texas of a constitutional amendment to the people of the State of Texas for their adoption or rejection, prohibiting within the State of Texas the manufacture, sale, gift, exchange and intrastate shipment of spirituous, vinous and malt liquors and medicated bitters, capable of producing intoxication, except for medicinal and sacramental purposes."

Over 2500 assesment orders have gone to pieces in the United States, leaving more than Thirteen Million of their members without insurance.

The average age of these orders was less than 15 years. Yet in the face of these facts, people continue to join the same kind of concerns in the year 1908 and think they have their lives insured.

In truth, these concerns furnish only temporary protection. The law forbids them to guarantee the amount you are to pay or the amount to be paid at death.

Never Lose Sight of This.

A legal reserve insurance company which faithfully accumulates, securely invests and honestly handles the mathematical reserve contemplated by its plan of organization and required by the insurance laws of the several States, cannot fail.

It cannot fail because the system upon which it is founded is mathematically correct, sure in its operation as the multiplication table itself.

It is as certain to fulfill its contracts to the last as that two and two are four; as certain as that an accumulation of one hundred cents will settle an obligation of one dollar.

If a legal reserve company has failed at any time in the past, it was not because of any defect of the legal reserve system, but because it had departed in some vital particular from the requirements of that system—a thing practically impossible under the new legal reserve laws of New York, the most exacting ever enacted.

An assesment company, whether a fraternal society or a private association, which conducts its business economically and efficiently, which faithfully accounts for all receipts and honestly disburses the same, and which securely invests the meager emergency fund accumulated in its earlier years, is nevertheless bound ultimately to fail.

It is bound to fail because the system upon which it is founded is mathematically wrong.

It is bound to fail because two and two are four and not seven; because the requirements of the multiplication table are inexorable as death itself; because the rates are too low to permit of the accumulation, when members are young, of a fund sufficient to provide for the higher mortality that must come with increasing age.

Though its business be managed economically and its affairs administered honestly, it is nevertheless bound to fail ultimately, because it is not possible for even honesty and economy and upright purpose to pay an obligation of one dollar with an accumulation of thirty cents.—Mutual Interests.

A Place of Safety.

Wits which are serviceable only in fair weather are not of much use to the pioneer of a new country. All sorts of vicissitudes present themselves to the dweller of the wild regions. Mr. Willey in his "History of the White Mountains" gives an instance of a man whose ingenuity withstood a cyclone. The incident took place in the early days of Jackson.

A terrible tornado passed over the little settlement. It was so strong hardly anything could stand before it. Houses and barns were leveled, trees were whirled about in the air like sticks, and men and women were caught up and carried along for rods.

One house was razed to the ground, and chairs, tables, beds, bedding and children went flying about in the wind. The father of the family, snatching his babies from the rude grasp of the monster, thrust the little folks' heads through two rails of a fence and left them thus secured, with their legs dangling in the wind. He then went to look after his other property.

The five little children remained safe in their fastening and, uninjured, out-rode the tempest.

Thought He Was in India.

As a consequence of the frequency with which venomous snakes are met with in India Anglo-Indians spend their whole lives in thinking of their lives and watching out for snakes. When Mr. Kipling reached London from India in his search for fame and fortune he lodged in some small rooms on Villiers street, Strand, up two flights of stairs. One morning a friend called, and when he found himself in Rudyard Kipling's sitting room he was surprised to see a handsome mirror which stood over the fireplace "smashed to smithereens."

"Snakes," said Kipling, noticing the look of astonishment on his friend's face. "I was dosing in my chair yesterday evening, and my foot slipped out of my shoe, which for comfort I had unlaced. Half waking, I felt with my foot for the shoe and began slipping it in when my toes touched the leather tongue. Snake flashed across my sleepy brain. I gave one desperate kick, and when the shoe struck that mirror I realized that I was in London and not in India."

Closing His Mouth.

A very sensible bit of advice expressed in homely language was given by a man not long ago to an excitable and quarrelsome friend. It was in a brickyard, and two of the workmen had engaged in an angry dispute which culminated in a fierce encounter. In the skirmish one of the combatants was nastily hurt on the head, and the employer, who happened to come on the scene of action when the fight was finishing and was a man of more temper than discretion, advised the injured one to get a warrant for the other's arrest. While the matter was being discussed by a number of workmen, who had gathered round a big, burly fellow who had heard everything and seen the whole affair made his way to the man with the damaged cranium and said:

"You don't want to get no warrant, Bill. You just go to the chemist's shop and get yourself two pieces of plaster—good big ones—and put one piece on yer head an' the other on yer mouth, an' you'll be all right."—London Mail.

Queer Auctions.

A Dutch auction at Cape Town is frequently exciting. If a house is to be sold, the auctioneer offers "50 golden sovereigns for the man who first bids £5,000." Nobody bids. A pause, and then "50 golden sovereigns for the man who first bids £4,900." This is kept up until a bid is secured. But it by no means follows that the house is sold to this bidder. No, the auctioneer is then at it again. Say that £4,400 is the first bid. The auctioneer cries, "There are 25 golden sovereigns for the first man who has the courage to bid £4,000." Perhaps no one has it. Then £25 is offered for a £4,550 bid. If there is eventually no bid above the £4,400, the man who made that bid is saddled with the house. Otherwise he pockets his bonus and gets off free of it all.—Westminster Gazette.

Gone to Hongkong.

Some time ago a large tea shop was opened in a town, near London. To attract customers it was announced that each purchaser of a pound of tea would receive a check for a shilling to buy goods on a certain date. The proprietor did a flourishing trade till the day came for the checks to be presented. Crowds of customers came and were dreadfully disappointed to see the shutters down and on them a big poster, which read:

"Our compliments to our customers, and we beg to state that we have gone to Hongkong for more tea."—London Express.

Mannish.

Mr. Dubley—How awfully mannish she is! Miss Smart—She is, indeed. Mr. Dubley—Yes, and the funny part of it is she thinks people admire her for being that way. It's queer she doesn't realize that people are only laughing at her. Miss Smart—Well, she's mannish even to that extent.—Philadelphia Press.

Explicit.

One of Manchester's sextons in making his report of burials is explicit to a commendable degree. For instance, such entries as this occur:

"Died, John Green, male; aged three days; unmarried."—London Tit-Bits.

Taking the Count.

James—I wish you hadn't told father to count ten when angry. Mother—Why? James—He has time to get the switch. He used to use his hand when he liked me.—New York Journal.

UNITED STATES JOINS CANADA IN WELCOME TO THE PRINCE

Quebec, Canada, July 24.—The following speech was delivered by Vice President Fairbanks at a reception last night given in honor of the Prince of Wales:

Your Royal Highness: I acknowledge with grateful appreciation the welcome which you so generously extend. The sentiments which you are pleased to express with regard to my country I receive with profound sensibility. They are renewed evidence of that respect and cordial good will which has so long existed between the United States and Great Britain and will tend to strengthen and preserve their amicable relations.

Permit me to extend to Quebec my hearty congratulations upon the distinction which she enjoys in the presence of your Royal Highness and upon the enthusiasm with which she has welcomed you within her gates. It is, indeed, a signal honor which you have done her. It is a happy circumstance which brings you across the sea. The event is one which will be long treasured among the annals of Quebec.

The eyes of the western world are upon this historic city. The celebration of the tercentenary of Champlain's founding of Quebec is altogether admirable both in the comprehensiveness of its conception and in the excellence of its execution, and is an event which awakens interest not only in the Dominion of Canada, but in the United States also. From this point as a base intrepid explorers blazed the pathway of civilization, through trackless forests and explored lakes and rivers in territory which is now within the jurisdiction of the United States. Names associated with the early history of Quebec are landmarks in our geography and are indelibly impressed upon our civilization.

Three hundred years is but a brief period in the history of England or France, but it is all the history of Quebec and all of Anglo-Saxon America. Here has been written an interesting story. Here have been witnessed the victories and defeats of war and the blessed triumphs of peace. The battleships of three great nations rest yonder on the bosom of the St. Lawrence. The representatives of those powers assembled here are recalling past differences, but only to emphasize the present prevalence of a spirit of genuine friendship between them.

It is with unusual pleasure I bring you greetings from the president and the people of the United States, who rejoice with you in the progress you have made in the manifold ways which make for the strength and honor of a great people. We are not indifferent to your welfare nor are you indifferent to ours. The blood of a common ancestry is in our veins. We have much in common. We glory in many of the same traditions and we have the same jurisprudence. Our standing of civilization are alike. Here, side by side, owing allegiance to different sovereignties, we are, in God's providence, to work out our destiny. We wish you that contentment which comes from the cultivation of the arts of peaceful industry under those political institutions which are the guaranty of justice and liberty among men.

The United States and Canada have but fairly entered upon their careers. Each has vast areas either sparsely settled or unoccupied, where many will make their homes in the future. Many millions will be added to our population and to yours. We have each made much advance in the scale of civilization and are gratified with the progress we have made. Back of us lies a brief but honorable history and before us stretch illimitable opportunities. We confidently believe that we are each destined to play a large and worthy part in the progress of the human race upon the western continent. We have no rivalries except in the ways of peace. We neither covet the other's territory. We covet only each other's neighborly esteem. We rest upon a common frontier more than five thousand miles in length. It is crossed and recrossed by instrumentalities of commerce which tend to strengthen our neighborly ties. There are no fortifications upon our frontier and no battleships upon the waters which divide us and we believe and fervently hope that there never will be need of any defensive preparation between us.

As we behold this majestic celebration in which the representatives of different nations participate and witness the manifestations of a genuine fraternal spirit among them, we are impressed with the thought that there is no rational reason why nations should resort to war. May we not, on this theatre of past conflicts, surrounded now by impressive monuments of peace, venture to hope that the widest read movement which seeks to insure the maintenance of peace among the nations of the world without invoking the sword, may grow in strength and at no distant day become incorporated as a part of the fixed policy of nations. To advocate measures to the maintenance of international tranquility, to endeavor to substitute reason for force, is not evidence of any decay in the courage of manhood of nations, but it is the proclamation of the great truth that modern civilization is not a failure. It is a failure if it does not substitute for force the serene and all-powerful chamber of reason and deliberation. There is such a thing as righteousness among nations. Let them take their differences into international courts of justice and there let reason and righteousness prevail. Let nations by every honorable means which enlightened statesmanship may suggest avoid an appeal to that court where might alone turns the balance.

We have no need to fear that the relations between the United States and Great Britain will ever again be disturbed. We have faith to believe that our flags which grace this historic occasion and mingle together and salute each other upon the Plains of Abraham will never confront each other upon either land or sea.

I beg again to thank your Royal Highness for the gracious welcome and hospitality which you tender to me as the representative of the United States and to wish for your country and your people a continuance of the blessings of peace, progress and prosperity.

THE PLANET JUPITER.

What the Man of Science Has to Say About Its Wonders.

The jolly Jovians are said to be realities and not myths. Not only are there said to be inhabitants on Jupiter, but also on some of his moons, in the midst of which the vast planet, 1,300 times the size of the earth, spins at such tremendous speed that it causes around the equator a furious wind that blows perpetually at the rate of 250 miles an hour. Those who believe in the Jovian say that his height runs from fifty to fifty-five feet and that he exists for about 800 to 1,000 of earth years. The Jupiter year, however, consists of 144 months. The oceans of Jupiter, torn into fury by the hurricanes, would pay no attention to one moon such as moves the tides of our earth, and it takes no fewer than five of these satellites to perform this work for Jupiter. They travel at various rates of speed, some flying close to Jupiter's surface, others far off. They have atmospheres like ours on earth, and a moonlight on Jupiter is indeed a glorious sight, for these moons have a variety of color; two are blue, one is yellow, and one red. Jupiter needs all her moons at night for illumination, for without them her five hours of darkness would be black indeed. So distant is the sun that broad daylight is hardly brighter than twilight on earth, and one lone moon would not reflect enough of the sun's rays to guide the Jovian footsteps.

A Dream Warning.

A strange story comes from Calabria. One Braccala, a resident of Pizzo, had a dream in which he saw his son, twenty years of age, being attacked by two men, who were stabbing him with knives. Braccala awoke and, arousing his wife, told her what he had seen. She tried to calm him, but while they were still discussing the matter a noise was heard in front of the house, and, hastening down, Mme. Braccala opened the door just in time to catch her son in her arms as he fell swooning to the ground. He had been attacked and stabbed and died shortly afterward.

About Johnson Grass.
The Weatherford Herald presents a very interesting dissertation on Johnson grass, a subject in which there is more than a little interest in Wichita county. While there may be some dispute about the value of Johnson grass it can be stated as axiomatic that no crop is good that cannot be killed out when that is desired. It is claimed to be true, as the Herald observes, that Johnson grass may be killed by proper cultural methods, but when it is added that these cultural methods must be carried over for a year or two and that the soil is almost useless for any other crop in the meantime, it can be seen that Johnson grass, however much its advantages may be urged, cannot be termed an unmixled blessing. At $8 a ton, there is, of course, a good profit in the grass. But if the entire country were in Johnson grass, which is seriously threatened in many parts of the State, Johnson grass hay would be worth little or nothing. Where a farmer owns his place and keeps everlastingly at work to prevent the grass getting a foothold, there is not a great deal of danger on the uplands. But where a man owns a tenant farm with changing tenants every year or so, once the grass gets a start, it's mighty near telling that farm goodbye except as a Johnson grass meadow. In bottoms the occasional overflows spread the seed and roots until there are bottom farms in Wichita and other North Texas counties rendered absolutely worthless by the pestiferous growth and work to prevent or stop it is thrown away, for the first overflow that comes will again seed the overflowed part, and the work is to do all over again. No farmer will feed Johnson grass hay. The market is confined absolutely to the towns. It is only a question of time, therefore, unless the spread of the pest is stopped, until the big supply with a limited demand will put Johnson grass hay to a price where there will be nothing in it. Our Weatherford exchange, however does not take so pessimistic a view of the matter, and says:
"There is a great deal of Johnson grass in Parker county, and quite a variety of opinion as to the value of the same. There are many farmers who regard it as an unlimited nuisance, little short of an actual curse, while others declare that it is a great boon to the farming interests. But when we notice the numerous wagons loaded with hay on the public square here every day, which appears to find ready sale at $8 a ton, we are forced to the conclusion that Johnson grass must be a pretty good thing for Parker county after all. The Fort Worth Reporter gives the following interesting facts relating to this valuable forage plant:

"Much has been said in favor of and against Johnson grass. From the amount of hay we see coming into the stock yards and sales stables of North Fort Worth we have come to the conclusion that it is growing in popularity.
"An interesting and somewhat amusing story concerning this grass was given us some time ago by Major J. J. Jarvis. He was in the senate of the State of Texas some years ago, and a bill was introduced by one of the senators of Texas to prohibit the growing of seeds of Johnson grass in the State of Texas. Senator Jarvis opposed the bill in a speech in the senate. Most of that body seemed to be opposed to this grass and seemed to be in favor of the bill in the outset. Major Jarvis opposed the bill in a speech. Many questions were asked him during the delivery of the speech as to the origin and name of the grass, and he was required to give a history of its introduction into the United States, which he did, to the edification of his hearers.
He says that this grass was first found growing on the upper Nile in Egypt. The inhabitants of that country discovered that the hippopotami came out of the Nile and fed upon this grass, and all the animals, wild and tame, in that country seemed to improve, and it was there considered very nutritious. Many years ago the sultan of Turkey wanted the people of his country to engage in the culture of cotton and he sent a man to the State of South Carolina to learn what he could about the culture of cotton, and at the same time he sent some of his grass seed to the governor of South Carolina as a present, requesting him to plant it. The governor of that State at that time was named Means, and the grass in the United States was first called Means grass from this circumstance. Governor Means had a particular friend in South Carolina who had bought a plantation in Alabama and moved to that State, and whose name was Johnson. He gave these seeds that had been sent to him by the sultan of Turkey to Johnson. Johnson sowed them on his plantation in Alabama, and they came up and spread, which, of course, is a peculiarity of this grass. It was very much valued for awhile in that State, and perhaps is yet. The seed were prized and were sown there, but how they found their way to Texas, Major Jarvis says he does not know. He says the botanical name of the plant is Sorgho Halapense.

The fate of the senator's bill to prohibit the sowing of Johnson grass in Texas was unfortunate, for after Major Jarvis' speech there were only three votes in favor of the bill. Several bills have been introduced into the senate since that time to prohibit the sowing of the grass and trying to prevent its spread in Texas, but all of them without effect. We are likely to have it with us in many coming years.
"The farmers of Parker county have not experienced much difficulty in getting rid of Johnson grass when they desired to do so. They have found that this grass can be entirely eliminated from the farms with proper cultural methods, and there are a number of farms within a short distance of Weatherford that were once full of this grass which are now entirely clean.
"The Herald knows one man at least in Parker county who says he can make more money off a Johnson grass field than the people of New Mexico can make off their boasted irrigated fields of alfalfa. He does not consider Johnson grass an evil, no matter its origin and the efforts made in the past to prevent its propagation.
His Discharge.
A touching instance of the humor which never deserts a true Irishman even in his worst troubles is recorded. A soldier was seen in the trenches holding his hands above the earthworks. His captain asked:
"What are you doing that for, Pat?"
He replied, with a grin, as he worked his fingers:
"I'm feeling for a furlough, sir."
Just then a rifle ball struck his arm just below the wrist. Then a queer expression of pain and humor passed over his face as he exclaimed:
"And faith it's a discharge."—London Answers.
So There is.
"I didn't know you intended to move."
"We don't."
"But your wife told me she was out looking at houses all day yesterday."
"Well, that's true enough, but don't you know there is a vast difference between looking 'at' houses and looking 'for' houses?"
Not Very Consoling.

SAW IT IN A DREAM.
A Lost Check and the Peculiar Way It Was Found.
A wealthy New York lawyer sat up late one night writing letters he had not been able to finish during the day. It was past midnight when he went out to mail them, and when he returned and was undressing he paused in dismay, missing a check for a large sum received during the day and taken home with him. In vain was the house ransacked at that late hour. He went to bed convinced that the lost check must be in the house. An hour later he fell into uneasy slumber and beheld as with his eyes of the flesh the pink check curled about an ornate railing four or five doors from his own house.
So real was the dream that the troubled man woke up, dressed and, slipping down the stairs into the street, walked along the sidewalk to a spot still seen vividly in his mind, and there, sure enough, standing edge upward and partly curled about the iron, was the missing check. "I think," he reported to the Psychological Research society, "my subconsciousness must have noticed it fall from my pocket as I walked to the mail box and my subliminal self pointed it out to me in sleep."—William G. Fitz-Gerald in New York Tribune.
The Dogs of Constantinople.
There are at least 25,000 dogs in Constantinople, which has a population of 1,150,000. They are the vilest of cowards and are the scavengers of the city. It is said that scores of people are bitten daily by the dogs of Constantinople, but that a case of hydrophobia was never known there. Three centuries ago Narsuf Pasha, grand vizier to Achmet III., transported all the dogs to Asia and would have had them destroyed, there, but the sultan, on consulting the mufti, was told that every dog had a soul and consequently forbade such wholesale destruction. After the slaughter of the janizaries Mahimond intended to get rid of them, for he caused an immense number of sausages to be made and, having poisoned them, gave the dogs a feast. Many thousands were thus killed in one day, but the people murmured so much that he was afraid to begin a second day's work. He therefore ordered them to be expelled to Asia, but the order was very indifferently executed, and in a short time the dogs were as numerous as during the time of the janizaries.
There are few people who once having seen the island of Achill can forget its beauty. The island lies close to the west coast of Ireland. When the skies are blue, mountains green and smiling, bogs clad in purple and pink heather and the whole picturesque island in sunshine, the place is a wonderland.

THE FOREHEAD.

What Its Size and Shape Are Said to Indicate.

A high forehead to be very good should be well developed about the eyebrows.

Breadth of forehead is always favorable. It is distinctly connected with breadth of character.

A forehead that curves back reveals a poetic temperament, a fondness for the arts and a talent for either music or painting.

Of course a broad forehead may be part of a weak face, and a weak chin and mouth will naturally give a truer impression of character than even a combination of a narrow forehead with an otherwise strong face.

If there is quite a perceptible bulge of the eyebrows, combined with a high forehead, the sign is of a calm, cool, deliberate thinker.

If with these eyebrows is combined a forehead that slopes gradually back, a sensitive, poetic temperament is disclosed. If, again, they are combined with a short, narrow forehead, the subject will be successful in business and in everything connected with worldly matters, but he will be incapable of appreciating to any extent or of creating anything connected with the arts.—New York American.
