J. HAINES ARRAIGNED

BROTHER OF MAN WHO SHOT ANNIS CHARGED WITH COMPLICITY IN MURDER.

BOTH ARE UNCONCERNED

J. Haines Was Once Before Charged With Murder, But Shows No Sign of Anxiety.

By Associated Press.
New York, Aug. 17.—Captain Peter C. Haines Jr. of the United States army, who shot and killed William Annis Sunday at the Bayside Yacht Club, was today arraigned before a magistrate in Long Island City. Arraigned with the captain was his brother, T. Jenkin Haines, who kept back the crowd from the revolver which his brother was shooting Annis to death. It is claimed by the defendant that Annis raised his hand.

Following the arrival of their counsel, the case was continued. Meanwhile Haines and his brother are in jail. In court the brothers showed little concern over their predicament.

Since the shooting it is learned that T. Jenkin Haines was tried in 1891 for a homicide charge when 29 years of age. He was accused of having shot to death Edward Henagan, a friend, while boating at Old Point Comfort. The jury acquitted him on a plea of self-defense.

Yesterday Mrs. Haines, who is said to have been on terms of close friendship with Mrs. Annis, came hurriedly to New York from Massachusetts. Charles H. Roberts, who helped to pull Annis out of the water after he had been shot and who was prevented from going to his assistance by Thornton Haines' leveled revolver, said today in recounting the events of Saturday's shooting:

"Annis was seated at the tiller of his boat bringing her to the float. Louis Harway, who was in the boat with Annis, was forward, warding her off from the float. Peter Haines saw Harway first and, walking up to him, pressed his revolver against his chest. Harway, thinking the performance a joke, playfully brushed the captain's arm away. Haines, by that time, had realized his mistake, and crouching down so as to get on a level with Annis, who, as I say, was sitting in the stern of the boat, emptied his pistol into him. Annis was in his bathing suit, unarmed, defenseless and unprepared. With the firing of the first shot Mrs. Annis, who, with fully half a hundred ladies and children, was on the pier, watching the preparations for the usual Saturday afternoon races, called out shrilly: 'Look out, Willy.' Almost at the same time I rushed toward Captain Haines, but before I had gone two steps his brother, Thornton Haines, stood before me, a revolver pressed against me. 'Stand back,' he shouted. This is a matter between these two.' By this time Peter Haines had completed his work. Annis, with six bullets in him, rose from his seat in the boat and attempted to step out to the float. One of the balls had lodged in his knee, however, and as he stood upon it, his leg gave way from under him and he toppled over into the bay. Wounded to death, as he was, Annis still had the marvelous grit to try to swim to the float. He took two strokes and this brought him near enough for me to grab him and pull him upon the float. Meantime our boatman had knocked the now useless revolver out of the hands of Peter Haines. It lay on the float and I picked it up. Thornton Haines still stood with his weapon in his hand, however, and for a time refused to surrender it.

"Annis, who was moaning faintly, stretched out on the float, turned to Peter Haines and said: 'Captain, you have made a horrible mistake.' Peter Haines hesitated a moment and replied: 'I may have, but I don't believe so.' Annis then turned to our Swedish boatman and asked, 'John, have you got cowards like this in your country?'"

"The others on the float had been trying to get some explanation as to the cause of the shooting from the two brothers. Finally Thornton Haines, who had filled a pipe and was comfortably smoking, said: 'I've been trying to keep him from doing this for some time.'"

A meeting of Wichita Falls, Lodge No. 1105, B. P. O. E., will be held tomorrow night. Business of importance will come before the meeting, and a good attendance of the members is desired.

COTTON CROP CONDITIONS ARE REPORTED NORMAL.

Special to the Times.
Memphis, Tenn., Aug. 17.—The Commercial-Appeal today says: Conditions, except possibly as to temperature, which is very high, were normal during the week, and the cotton crop has recovered some of the loss of the preceding week; when its condition was jeopardized in the southern part of the central cotton belt and in sections of the central cotton belt by excessive rainfall.

There are a few complaints of shedding, but these are not numerous or important except in central Louisiana, where also boll weevils are active. Rust and other troubles more or less common to the season are infrequent. Some boll worms are complained of in northern and western Texas, and the central part of the State is dry, having had no important rains in some weeks. The lowlands of the Mississippi valley complain of exhaustive stalk growth, but at the same time the stalk is well fruited. Limited areas in Georgia need rain. Otherwise there is no complaint and a general note of progress is sounded for the week.

The plant has grown to large size on both the bottom and the hill lands. It is well fruited. A number of correspondents expect a bumper yield, and only a very few a small one, where conditions are adverse. Cotton is opening rather slowly and the plant is generally still vigorous and growing.

Death of Winnie Smith.
Little Miss Winnie Smith, the 9-year old daughter of J. B. Smith, living in the Thornberry community, died at the Wichita Falls Sanitarium at 5 o'clock Sunday evening, about half an hour after she had been brought to the sanitarium for treatment for interseption of the bowels.

The little girl had been sick since Thursday and the seriousness of her illness was not at first realized. Yesterday she was brought to town for treatment, but before anything could be done to relieve her, the death messenger had come.

Lyncher Goes Insane.
By Associated Press.
Springfield, Ill., Aug. 17.—Charles Godwin, one of those who helped lynch the negro Donagan, called upon the superintendent of the Bartonville asylum this morning and said, "I believe I am going insane." Continuing, he said: "We stamped him in the face, we cut his throat, and then put a rope around his neck." Godwin said that he was formerly a soldier in the Philippines and that he had a sister in an asylum. He was placed under a guard.

STATE TAX REDUCED

AD VALOREM RATE IN TEXAS THE LOWEST OF ANY STATE IN THE UNION.

PER CAPITA INCREASED

State Board of Education Raises the Amount to $6.75.

Austin, Tex., Aug. 15.—Texas is a two billion dollar State, and its rate for State ad valorem taxes is the smallest of any State in the Union.

These facts were brought out today when the State automatic tax board met to fix the rate for the present year and found that the assessed valuations of the State for 1908 aggregated $2,169,897,210. This is a partial estimate for the reason that three counties have failed to make their reports, among which is Travis county. The other two are Knox and Panola counties.

The board figured Travis county at $20,000,000, though it will probably reach $35,000,000. The board fixed the State ad valorem rate at 6 1/4 cents on the $100 valuation and the school tax at 16 2/3 cents on the $100. This is the lowest State rate which has ever been made in Texas and is just half as much as the rate of last year, which was 12 1/2 cents. In 1906 the rate was 20 cents. Last year the school rate was 20 cents.

These reductions in tax rates are directly due to the full rendition law, and in making them Governor Campbell has fulfilled his promise of last year that the rate would be materially decreased when the full rendition law was put into effect.

The automatic tax board remained in session only a brief period, and after an announcement of the assessed valuations the rates were immediately determined.

Each school child in Texas of scholastic age will receive this year from the State toward its education $6.75, or an increase of 75 cents per child over last year. This per capita per child was announced this afternoon by the State board of education.

Good Roads Impetus.

The question of road-building is being agitated as never before. The value of good roads has long been appreciated, but it is a matter of fact that people living in the rural districts have always regarded extensive road building as a necessity, but too expensive for general construction. This idea is proving a fallacy which is rapidly disappearing. Good roads aid in the exchange of commodities to such an extent that almost any reasonable expense incurred in improving them would be economy. The automobile probably lends greater influence toward road building than any other factor. It is noticeable that cities and towns are becoming interested in constructing roads throughout their respective trade territory. The rural districts have little sympathy with the automobile, but as the owners of such vehicles and the business men of towns and cities show a disposition to help in bearing the expense of such improvements, they are becoming enthusiastic and willing to help keep the good work going.

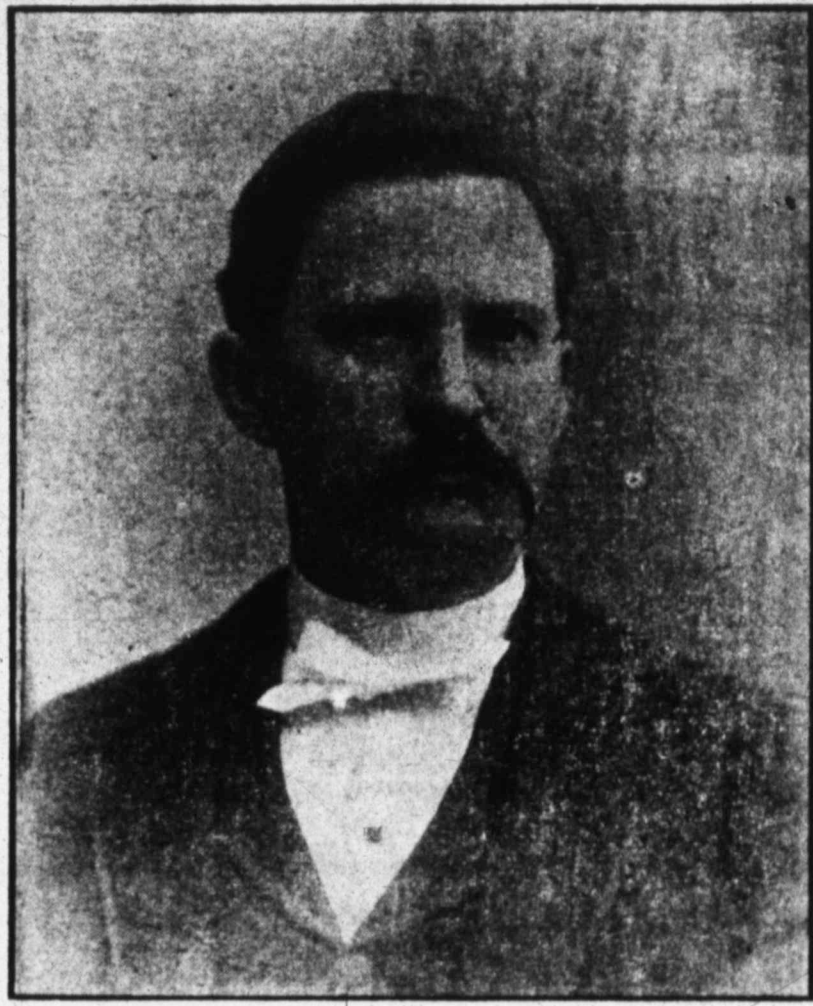

The merchant has found good roads profitable. He has advocated the split log drag and it is working wonders, but a more perfect system is demanded. Commercial clubs all over the country are raising funds to assist the farmer, and a general education campaign is under way. Good roads associations are being formed and their work is being attended with marvelous results.

Good roads not only permit the economical distribution of commodities, but add to the value of property, encourage better schools, tone up society and vastly raise the standard of civilization. The idea to be promulgated is that improved roads pay large dividends on the investment from a strict business standpoint, and then, in addition, have all these other things thrown in. We need more roads and better roads. Keep up the fight.—Texas Trade Review.

FRANK TUTTLE DAUGHERTY.

Frank T. Daugherty, for nearly twenty years editor of the Wichita Herald, and one of the ablest and best known newspaper men of Northwest Texas, died at his home on Eleventh street in this city at about noon Sunday as the result of paralytic troubles, which first afflicted him nearly five years ago and which for more than a year past had rendered him completely helpless.

Mr. Daugherty was one of the pioneer residents of Wichita Falls, holding a position in the old Panhandle National bank during the first months of his residence here.

Later he purchased the plant of the Wichita Herald and for twenty years was the active head of that paper, until his infirmities compelled his retirement. In his editorial work he had a clear, vigorous style, which won him a place in the front rank of Texas journalists.

He was possessed of a warm-hearted, genial disposition and his friends were legion. When his affliction came upon him he made a brave fight and did not give up as long as his faculties were spared him. At his death, he was in his fifty-third year. He is survived by a widow and two children, two brothers and two sisters.

The funeral services, conducted by Dr. Mitchell of Huntsville, Alabama, were held at the Presbyterian church at 10 o'clock this morning under the auspices of the Masonic lodge, of which the deceased was a member. The body was laid to rest in the Riverside cemetery.

Lawton, Ok., Aug. 16.—Alcee Carter, a girl of 11 years, refused to marry Charles Fisher, a farm hand of Altus, because of the opposition of her parents, and Fisher yesterday shot and killed her, a moment later placing the muzzle of the revolver over his heart and taking his own life. Fisher left a note, in which he said the opposition of the child's parents to her becoming his wife was the cause of the tragedy.

The Wichita Falls boys, who went down to Seymour Friday to play ball, met a series of inglorious defeats. In the first game on Friday the score was 17 to 2. The second game Saturday resulted in another crushing defeat to the tune of 17 to 0, and the third game Seymour triumphed by a score of 6 to 1. The disconsolate Wichitas didn't make any noise when they got home Sunday and nobody has heard them say a word about the games.

SPRINGFIELD NOW QUIET

Special Session of the Grand Jury is Called and Riot Investigation Has Started.

By Associated Press.
Springfield, Ill., Aug. 17.—The race war which began here last Friday night is believed to be a thing of the past. Last night passed without any untoward incidents and it is confidently asserted today by those in charge of the situation that no mob of any size will form from now on. Sporadic cases of disorderly conduct may and probably will claim the attention of the militia, but it is not anticipated that the troops will be confronted with any serious task in maintaining order.

Springfield today entered upon the second stage of its riot history with the opening of an official investigation and the arrest of several alleged participants.

A special session of the grand jury will be summoned this morning as a result of a conference held yesterday between Governor Deneen and District Attorney Hatch. Both are strongly of the opinion that this step will be taken. Evidence will be submitted from day to day by the officers. It is said that evidence can be brought against many citizens.

More negroes from the residence districts of the city applied at the arsenal today for shelter and protection. Fifteen hundred negro fugitives are now being lodged and fed by the troops at the arsenal. It is estimated that fully as many more have left the city since Friday many of them never to return.

Many have left the State, seeking new homes in Kentucky, Mississippi, Missouri, and some have even gone to Louisiana.

Several troops of the First Cavalry arrived here this morning from Chicago. It is declared that the soldiers are new here in sufficient numbers to handle any outbreak that might arise, and that they are so stationed that they can be rushed to any part of the city before much damage to property could be done by a mob.

Opening of the St. James Dining Room.

The dining room of the St. James Hotel, which has been closed for repairs for the past six months, or since the time it changed ownership and became the property of the J. E. Hutt Contracting Co., was opened to the public for the first time on last Saturday, the 15th, and on Sunday, the 16th, more than one hundred guests were served at luncheon.

The St. James is now one of the best, if not the best, equipped hotel on the Denver road between Fort Worth and Trinidad, Colorado. The purchase price of the property was in the neighborhood of $40,000. To this, $8,000 has been added for repair work alone. Mr. C. R. Eisele, superintendent of the hotels owned and controlled by the Hutt Contracting Co., has spent much of his time in the city looking after the repair work and the re-equipping of the St. James, and was here on the occasion of the re-opening of the dining room. Mr. S. C. Edie is the local manager of the St. James, while Mr. G. L. Wagner, who is now in St. Louis on a vacation, retains the position of head clerk—a position which he has held with the St. James since it was first built and who has done so much to make it popular with the traveling public.

In connection with the St. James, the "Hotel Wichita," located just across the street from the St. James, will be run as an annex.

Robert Lee, the 3-year-old son of J. H. Osborne of the Thornberry neighborhood, was brought to this city this morning for treatment to remove a watermelon seed from his windpipe. The seed was lodged in the boy's windpipe yesterday afternoon and caused his parents some uneasiness.

It is claimed by the defendant that Annis raised his hand.

After the arrival of their counsel, the case was continued. Meanwhile Haines and his brother are in jail. In court the brothers showed little concern over their predicament.

Since the shooting it is learned that T. Jenkin Haines was tried in 1891 for a homicide charge when 29 years of age. He was accused of having shot to death Edward Henagan, a friend, while boating at Old Point Comfort. The jury acquitted him on a plea of self-defense.

Yesterday Mrs. Haines, who is said to have been on terms of close friendship with Mrs. Annis, came hurriedly to New York from Massachusetts.

Charles H. Roberts, who helped to pull Annis out of the water after he had been shot and who was prevented from going to his assistance by Thornton Haines' leveled revolver, said today in recounting the events of Saturday's shooting:

"Annis was seated at the tiller of his sloop bringing her to the float. Louis Harvey, who was in the boat with Annis, was forward, warding her off from the float. Peter Haines saw Harvey first and, walking up to him, pressed his revolver against his chest. Harvey, thinking the performance a joke, playfully brushed the captain's arm away. Haines, by that time, had realized his mistake, and crouching down so as to get on a level with Annis, who, as I saw, was sitting in the stern of the boat, emptied his pistol into him. Annis was in his bathing suit, unarmed, defenseless and unprepared. With the firing of the first shot Mrs. Annis, who, with fully half a hundred ladies and children, was on the pier, watching the preparations for the usual Saturday afternoon races, called out shrilly: 'Look out, Willy.' Almost at the same time I rushed toward Captain Haines, but before I had gone two steps his brother, Thornton Haines, stood before me, a revolver pressed against me. 'Stand back,' he shouted. This is a matter between these two. By this time Peter Haines had completed his work. Annis, with six bullets in him, rose from his seat in the boat and attempted to step out to the float. One of the balls had lodged in his knee, however, and as he stood upon it, his leg gave way from under him and he toppled over into the bay. Wounded to death, as he was, Annis still had the marvelous grit to try to swim to the float. He took two strokes and this brought him near enough for me to grab him and pull him upon the float. Meantime our boatman had knocked the now useless revolver out of the hands of Peter Haines. It lay on the float and I picked it up. Thornton Haines still stood with his weapon in his hand, however, and for a time refused to surrender it.

"Annis, who was moaning faintly, stretched out on the float, turned to Peter Haines and said: 'Captain, you have made a horrible mistake.' 'Peter Haines hesitated a moment and replied: 'I may have, but I don't believe so.' Annis then turned to our Swedish boatman and asked, 'John, have you got cowards like this in your country?'"

"The others on the float had been trying to get some explanation as to the cause of the shooting from the two brothers. Finally Thornton Haines, who had filled a pipe and was comfortably smoking, said: 'I've been trying to keep him from doing this for some time.'"

A meeting of Wichita Falls, Lodge No. 1105, B. P. O. E., will be held tomorrow night. Business of importance will come before the meeting, and a good attendance of the members is desired.

COTTON CROP CONDITIONS ARE REPORTED NORMAL.

Special to the Times.

Memphis, Tenn., Aug. 17.—The Commercial-Appel today says: Conditions, except possibly as to temperature, which is very high, were normal during the week, and the cotton crop has recovered some of the loss of the preceding week, when its condition was jeopardized in the southern part of the central cotton belt and in sections of the central cotton belt by excessive rainfall.

There are a few complaints of shedding, but these are not numerous or important except in central Louisiana, where also boll weevils are active. Rust and other troubles more or less common to the season are infrequent. Some boll worms are complained of in northern and western Texas, and the central part of the State is dry, having had no important rains in some weeks. The lowlands of the Mississippi valley complain of exhaustive stalk growth, but at the same time the stalk is well fruited. Limited areas in Georgia need rain. Otherwise there is no complaint and a general note of progress is sounded for the week.

The plant has grown to large size on both the bottom and the hill lands. It is well fruited. A number of correspondents expect a bumper yield, and only a very few a small one, where conditions are adverse. Cotton is opening rather slowly and the plant is generally still vigorous and growing.

Death of Winnie Smith.

Little Miss Winnie Smith, the 9-year old daughter of J. B. Smith, living in the Thornberry community, died at the Wichita Falls Sanitarium at 5 o'clock Sunday evening, about half an hour after she had been brought to the sanitarium for treatment for interseption of the bowels.

The little girl had been sick since Thursday and the seriousness of her illness was not at first realized. Yesterday she was brought to town for treatment, but before anything could be done to relieve her, the death messenger had come.

Godwin said that he was formerly a soldier in the Philippines and that he had a sister in an asylum. He was placed under a guard.

STATE TAX REDUCED

AD VALOREM RATE IN TEXAS THE LOWEST OF ANY STATE IN THE UNION.

PER CAPITA INCREASED

State Board of Education Raises the Amount to $6.75.

Austin, Tex., Aug. 15.—Texas is a two billion dollar State, and its rate for State ad valorem taxes is the smallest of any State in the Union.

These facts were brought out today when the State automatic tax board met to fix the rate for the present year and found that the assessed valuations of the State for 1908 aggregated $2,169,897,210. This is a partial estimate for the reason that three counties have failed to make their reports, among which is Travis county. The other two are Knox and Panola counties.

The board figured Travis county at $30,900,000, though it will probably reach $35,000,000. The board fixed the State ad valorem rate at 6 1/2 cents on the $100 valuation and the school tax at 16.23 cents on the $100. This is the lowest State rate which has ever been made in Texas and is just half as much as the rate of last year, which was 12 1/2 cents. Last year the school rate was 20 cents.

These reductions in tax rates are directly due to the full rendition law, and in making them Governor Campbell has fulfilled his promise of last year that the rate would be materially decreased when the full rendition law was put into effect.

The automatic tax board remained in session only a brief period, and after an announcement of the assessed valuations the rates were immediately determined.

Each school child in Texas of scholastic age will receive this year from the State toward its education $6.75, or an increase of 75 cents per child over last year. This per capita per child was announced this afternoon by the State board of education.

Good Roads Impetus.

The question of road-building is being agitated as never before. The value of good roads has long been appreciated, but it is a matter of fact that people living in the rural districts have always regarded extensive road building as a necessity, but too expensive for general construction. This idea is proving a fallacy which is rapidly disappearing. Good roads aid in the exchange of commodities to such an extent that almost any reasonable expense incurred in improving them would be economy. The automobile probably lends greater influence toward road building than any other factor. It is noticeable that cities and towns are becoming interested in constructing roads throughout their respective trade territory. The rural districts have little sympathy with the automobile, but as the owners of such vehicles and the business men of towns and cities show a disposition to help in bearing the expense of such improvements, they are becoming enthusiastic and willing to help keep the good work going.

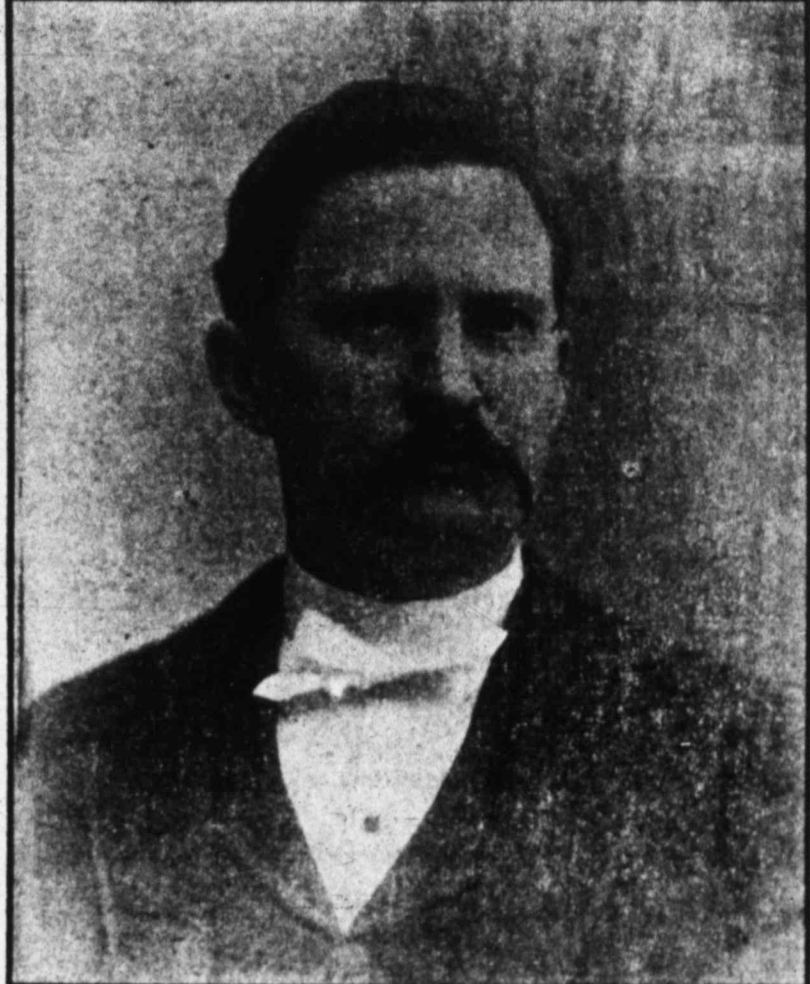

The merchant has found good roads profitable. He has advocated the split log drag and it is working wonders, but a more perfect system is demanded. Commercial clubs all over the country are raising funds to assist the farmer, and a general education campaign is under way. Good roads associations are being formed and their work is being attended with marvelous results.

Good roads not only permit the economical distribution of commodities, but add to the value of property, encourage better schools, tone up society and vastly raise the standard of civilization. The idea to be promulgated is that improved roads pay large dividends on the investment from a strict business standpoint, and then, in addition, have all these other things thrown in.—We need more roads and better roads. Keep up the fight.—Texas Trade Review.

FRANK TUTTLE DAUGHERTY.

Frank T. Daugherty, for nearly twenty years editor of the Wichita Herald, and one of the ablest and best known newspaper men of Northwest Texas, died at his home on Eleventh street in this city at about noon Sunday as the result of paralytic troubles, which first afflicted him nearly five years ago and which for more than a year past had rendered him completely helpless.

Mr. Daugherty was one of the pioneer residents of Wichita Falls, holding a position in the old Panhandle National bank during the first months of his residence here.

Later he purchased the plant of the Wichita Herald and for twenty years was the active head of that paper, until his infirmities compelled his retirement. In his editorial work he had a clear, vigorous style, which won him a place in the front rank of Texas journalists.

He was possessed of a warm-hearted, genial disposition and his friends were legion. When his affliction came upon him he made a brave fight and did not give up as long as his faculties were spared him. At his death, he was in his fifty-third year. He is survived by a widow and two children, two brothers and two sisters.

The funeral services, conducted by Dr. Mitchell of Huntsville, Alabama, were held at the Presbyterian church at 10 o'clock this morning under the auspices of the Masonic lodge, of which the deceased was a member. The body was laid to rest in the Riverside cemetery.

YOUTH KILLS GIRL AND SELF.

Because Parents of 11-Year-Old Maid Oppose the Marriage.

Lawton, Ok., Aug. 16.—Alice Carter, a girl of 11 years, refused to marry Charles Fisher, a farm hand of Altus, because of the opposition of her parents, and Fisher yesterday shot and killed her, a moment later placing the muzzle of the revolver over his heart and taking his own life. Fisher left a note, in which he said the opposition of the child's parents to her becoming his wife was the cause of the tragedy.

A very light sprinkle of rain fell here this afternoon. The precipitation was not heavy enough to make any impression on the dust.

Three Inglorious Defeats.

The Wichita Falls boys, who went down to Seymour Friday to play ball, met a series of inglorious defeats. In the first game on Friday the score was 17 to 2. The second game Saturday resulted in another crushing defeat to the tune of 17 to 0, and the third game Seymour triumphed by a score of 6 to 1. The disconsolate Wichitans didn't make any noise when they got home Sunday and nobody has heard them say a word about the games.

NEGRO FUGITIVES FROM SPRINGFIELD SEEK HOMES IN SOUTHERN STATES.

SPRINGFIELD NOW QUIET

Special Session of the Grand Jury is Called and Riot Investigation Has Started.

By Associated Press.
Springfield, Ill., Aug. 17.—The race war which began here last Friday night is believed to be a thing of the past. Last night passed without any untoward incidents and it is confidently asserted today by those in charge of the situation that no mob of any size will form from now on. Sporadic cases of disorderly conduct may and probably will claim the attention of the militia, but it is not anticipated that the troops will be confronted with any serious task in maintaining order.

Springfield today entered upon the second stage of its riot history with the opening of an official investigation and the arrest of several alleged participants.

A special session of the grand jury will be summoned this morning as a result of a conference held yesterday between Governor Deneen and District Attorney Hatch. Both are strongly of the opinion that this step will be taken. Evidence will be submitted from day to day by the officers. It is said that evidence can be brought against many citizens.

More negroes from the residence districts of the city applied at the arsenal today for shelter and protection.

Fifteen hundred negro fugitives are now being lodged and fed by the troops at the arsenal. It is estimated that fully as many more have left the city since Friday, many of them never to return.

Many have left the State, seeking new homes in Kentucky, Mississippi, Missouri, and some have even gone to Louisiana.

Several troops of the First Cavalry arrived here this morning from Chicago.

It is declared that the soldiers are now here in sufficient numbers to handle any outbreak that might arise, and that they are so stationed that they can be rushed to any part of the city before much damage to property could be done by a mob.

Opening of the St. James Dining Room.

The dining room of the St. James Hotel, which has been closed for repairs for the past six months, or since the time it changed ownership and became the property of the J. E. Hutt Contracting Co., was opened to the public for the first time on last Saturday, the 15th, and on Sunday, the 16th, more than one hundred guests were served at luncheon.

The St. James is now one of the best, if not the best, equipped hotel on the Denver road between Fort Worth and Trinidad, Colorado. The purchase price of the property was in the neighborhood of $40,000. To this, $8,000 has been added for repair work alone. Mr. C. R. Elsiele, superintendent of the hotels owned and controlled by the Hutt Contracting Co., has spent much of his time in the city looking after the repair work and the re-equipping of the St. James, and was here on the occasion of the re-opening of the dining room. Mr. S. C. Edle is the local manager of the St. James, while Mr. G. L. Wagner, who is now in St. Louis on a vacation, retains the position of head clerk—a position which he has held with the St. James since it was first built and who has done so much to make it popular with the traveling public.

In connection with the St. James, the "Hotel Wichita," located just across the street from the St. James, will be run as an annex.

Robert Lee, the 3-year-old son of J. H. Osborne of the Thornberry neighborhood, was brought to this city this morning for treatment to remove a watermelon seed from his windpipe. The seed was lodged in the boy's windpipe yesterday afternoon and caused his parents some uneasiness.

It is Not Advertising Which Survives: But the Things Which are Advertised

THE "cleverest advertisement you ever wrote may be quite forgotten now even by the best friends it made for you! It may survive only in the bigger store it helped to create. But it is just as certain that the bigger store of the future is to grow out of the advertising of the present as it is that the store as it now stands is the result, in large measure, of your "forgotten" advertisements. You have preserved the results of advertising. You must create new results from new advertising. Any legitimate business enterprise may "rent" advertising space in this newspaper "with power"—the one dependable motive-power for "running" any business that can be made to run—the power of PUBLICITY. Space may be secured according to your requirement--much or little, as you may elect, with a preference for "much" if you hope to do much business.

A Mark for Intellectual Tomtits.
There is a man, yes, a man in all the meaning of the word, here in Decatur who is a thorn in the side of the little politician. He is a prince of good fellows, a man of splendid intellect, patriotic to the core, and as brave as Julius Caesar. He has done as much if not more for the good of his town and county than any other man. He is charitable to a fault and his friendship is as true as rip-saw steel. A democrat of the old school and a high-toned, Christian gentleman. He is by nature a leader of men and when he sounds the call the splendid following that rallies about his standard eloquently attests the hold he has upon the love and confidence of the people. And this man is the shining mark of little, envious, intellectual tomtits and pothouse politicians, fellows who would rattle in his shoes like shot in a tomato can.—Wise County Messenger.

Commercial Secretaries Give Figures Showing Advantage of Factories.

Special to the Times.
Fort Worth, Tex., Aug. 17.—The farmer produces a bale of cotton which he sells for $50. According to government estimates, it cost the farmer $40 to raise this bale of cotton. The bale is shipped to England and manufactured into cotton goods. The freight, commission, insurance, etc., amounts to $10 per bale. The manufacturer pays labor $20 to finish the product. A bale of cotton makes 3,000 yards of calico. The manufacturer sells this calico to the Texas merchants for 4 cents per yard, or $120. The merchant adds 1 cent per yard to the cost price, and the farmer buys his bale of cotton back for $150. The farmer has made the payroll for the railroad, steamship, manufacturer and merchant, and paid their taxes and all other expenses in connection with the transaction. The average Texas cotton crop is estimated at 3,000,000 bales, the finished product of which is valued at $450,000,000.

Texas has produced and consumed, England has manufactured. The manufacturer placed the price on the bale of cotton bought from the producer and the manufacturer also placed the price on the calico sold to the consumer. Neither the producer nor the consumer were consulted in fixing prices. Raw material makes no country influential in business. In fact, the more raw material we produce, the more helpless we become. Manufacturing is just the reverse. The more factories we have, the more powerful we become in commerce.

Texas has the raw material. Our cotton runs the spindles of Europe. Texans have the money. The recent panic caught us with millions of dollars loaned the East on securities of manufacturers. Only 3 per cent of our wealth is invested in factories. We have no cotton mills. Why? This is a question that every commercial club should carefully study and upon its final solution depends the commercial supremacy of Texas.

This subject will be more fully discussed at the convention of commercial secretaries at Fort Worth on September 9, 10 and 11.

Twenty-five high school principals in Kansas are women. They are said to do their work so well that no one has ever suggested putting men in their places.

Down With the "Knockers."

Wichita Falls, Tex., Aug. 17. Editor Times:—

In your paper of Saturday's issue, I notice an article under the heading of "Free Advice," in which the writer undertakes (evidently) to discourage the editor, but "A Regular Reader" ought to know that newspaper owners or editors are not easily discouraged. The truth is, the born newspaper man is also born optimistic. The Times editor must have been born with an unusual amount of optimism and together with his readers rejoices in it. He is striving with some success to give Wichita Falls an up-to-date evening newspaper that will push forward every industry and every opportunity presented to the heaven-blessed city. Discouragements come sometimes from sources least expected, but they cannot dampen his ardor, even though it be institutions of large capital with large enterprises projected, and from which nothing but encouragement should be expected. Wichita Falls and the Daily Times are bound to go forward, just the same, and here's a hurrah for this city beautiful and its destined future, and the editor will always be found doing his duty, regardless of the location of his famous salad recipes.

"A Regular Reader" no doubt had rather see a baseball write-up on the front page of the Times than a salad recipe. Here is the kind that sometimes appear on the first page of the Dallas News:

"The baseball revival continues to wage with unwonted fury. In the language of a celebrated Irish war correspondent we would say 'that six or eight have been wounded, but nobody hurt. Nearly every game played results in the defeat of one side or the other.' This is the kind of news 'A Regular Reader' likes, but the women say 'give us more salad recipes on the first page, where we can find 'em. Here's for a bigger, better and brighter Wichita Falls."

THAT AFFAIR IN SPRINGFIELD.

Houston Post.
The race war in Springfield, Ill., the home of Abraham Lincoln, is but another manifestation of the truth that white men after all have pretty much the same impulses, no matter where they reside. The dreadful crime which occasionally infuriates white men in the South may be depended upon to anger them in the North or East. There is nothing sectional about the antipathy of the white man toward the negro who violates the person of a white woman.

We do not recall among the Southern outbreaks against negro rapists an instance indicative of stronger feeling against the negro than does the Springfield affair. The violence which the enraged white men desired to visit upon the culprit was quickly transferred to negroes who had nothing to do with the crime, and the affair assumed the form of a race war with which the authorities could scarcely cope until a large body of troops was assembled.

Of course, it is unusual for a mob to temporarily dominate the capital of a State and the fact that Springfield was the scene of such an outbreak shows how tense must have been the feeling of the citizens. There is no new lesson to be drawn from the affair, it is useless to lecture the people of the town who thus set aside civilization and law to vent their rage upon negroes indiscriminately. Men will do these things when infuriated by such crimes as incited the outbreak, and it seems that there are negroes who will not hesitate to risk their lives and the lives of their fellows when they find a white woman unprotected.

Very likely the North is destined to have more and more experience of race wars as the negro population of that section of the country grows, and it is growing rapidly. The crime which breeds mobs in the South will breed them in the North and we need expect little improvement in the way of dealing with the beasts who perpetrate it until the crime itself is obliterated. Out of all the fury of the incident comes a great incentive to the good men of the black race to unite against the criminals who so frequently prove their ability to direct the anger of white men against all negroes. Law-abiding negroes everywhere must earnestly and unceasingly strive to eliminate the rapists from the race, and those negroes who are in the habit of affording shelter and comfort to criminals must sooner or later learn that their own security and the security and welfare of the entire negro race in the United States are threatened when they thus bestow their sympathies upon those who assault unprotected white women.

Probably many Northern newspapers will view the Springfield outbreak with surprise. To those of us who know, there is nothing surprising about it and the day will come when the North will be too much concerned with its own race problems to censure the people of the South.

It was the proud boast of at least one of the victims of the Springfield (Ill.) race riot that he had a white woman for a wife and had at one time been Abraham Lincoln's shoemaker. This, however, did not save him from the vengeance of a mob. While the officers were risking their lives to protect the fiend who had raped a white woman, the mob turned its attention to the balance of the negro population of the capital of Illinois with the determination of exterminating the race. The Springfield riot is the fruits of the Illinois law, which makes it legal for a negro to enter into marriage relations with a white woman.

If the dog tax is enforced sufficient revenue should be secured from that source to cut the weeds and tall grass that is growing along the gutters of some of our streets. If not, then our hope is that an early frost will come and do the work. This will be the cheaper plan, perhaps.

Many towns have already received their first bales, and those that have not have advertised the fact that a good-sized prize awaits the man who markets the first bale of cotton in their towns. Wichita Falls has not grown so large that it can afford to ignore the cotton raiser, and it is high time she was letting them know that a prize or purse awaits the arrival of the first bale on this market.

It is common to hear visitors make the statement that more improvements in the way of new buildings are under headway in Wichita Falls than any town they have visited. There are more than one hundred carpenters here and all are kept busy, to say nothing of the number of brick and stone masons who are finding employment.

Richard Croker, according to a press dispatch from New York, is coming to America next month to lend the weight of his influence towards the election of William J. Bryan as president. This is a bit of encouraging news for the democrats. Croker is a former Tammany Hall chief.

How to Get The Pick of the Market

It very often happens that the fresh vegetables that are sold from day to day are far from being the finest that are grown, in fact the great packing companies, such as the firm that puts up Monarch Brand goods, see to it that the very finest vegetables find their way to their canning factories, so in order to get the pick of the market you will find our Monarch brand leads them all.

Another good feature is that you can keep a supply of all the vegetables on hand for emergency calls without fear of their spoiling.

MR. BRYAN'S NEW ATTITUDE

In St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

The most effective point made by Mr. Bryan in his speech of acceptance, against his Republican adversaries, was his forceful driving home on the Republican party of full responsibility for existing evils and abuses which could have been prevented or corrected by Government. Quoting Mr. Taft's plea for the Republican party as the best instrument to correct "known abuses," Mr. Bryan asks pertinently why the Republican party has permitted these "known abuses" to develop, and why it has not corrected them. Emphasizing the full control of the machinery of Government possessed by the Republicans, he asks why, if new laws were necessary, they were not enacted by a Republican President Senate and House. If legal action was necessary, why was it not taken?

He asks why the Republican party should be given more time to do what it has failed to do in 10 years unbroken lease of power and within 50 years of control interrupted by only two Democratic administrations.

Mr. Bryan can go beyond this and show not only that abuses have grown up under republican domination, but that many of the worst evils from which we suffer have been fostered by republican consent. Mr. Bryan has a fruitful opportunity to expound this theme by pointing out that militarism, imperialism, extravagance and tariff iniquities, with their accompaniment of monopoly oppression, have been the results of deliberate policies of the republican party. He might go further and point out with good effect that the beginnings of reform attempted by President Roosevelt, against the will of his party, were attended by such reckless and demagogic methods that legitimate business interests were harder hit than the predatory interests for which the blows were intended.

The fact is the weak point of Mr. Bryan's speech was his careful avoidance of criticism of the president's errors and offenses. It is somewhat amazing that a democratic candidate for the presidency should fail to attack the glaring faults of a republican president, should fail to point out such offenses as his extravagant waste of public money and malign influence in favor of centralization and military glory. It appears to be a sacrifice of public interest to vote getting—a palpable bid for the Roosevelt vote.

Mr. Taft will find it difficult to shake off this charge of his party's responsibility for evils, the existence of which he admits, and the further charge that its power to correct them is hampered by alliances with predatory interests, demonstrated by their secret campaign contributions and by their manifest domination in Washington.

The best point Mr. Bryan made in his own behalf was his first statement that he stood squarely on his party's platform, without elimination or expansion. "A platform," he declared, "is binding as to what it omits as well as to what it contains." His pledge to work within the lines of the program outlined for him by the convention and submitted to the voters for approval is unequivocal in the following declaration:

"The platform upon which I was nominated not only contains nothing from which I dissent, but it specifically outlines all the remedial legislation which we can hope to secure during the next four years."

Mr. Bryan exhibits wisdom in thus assuring the country that the program adopted at Denver will be the program of his administration, if the people shall approve it at the polls, and that he will venture upon no "unknown seas" of agitation and experiment. It will reassure those who, while recognizing him as a great political force, have viewed with alarm his tendency to inject strange issues and disturbing vagaries into his campaigns. It will strengthen his candidacy with the business men and the conservative element of the people. Although the Post Dispatch does not approve all the Bryan platform, it is some gain to know that Mr. Bryan will not go beyond it in his campaign, or, if elected, in his administration.

Adopting as his campaign slogan, "Shall the people rule?" Mr. Bryan advocates two specific changes in the interest of popular rule. One is the election of senators directly by the people and the other is the reform of the House rules to restore it to its original character as a deliberative body, controlled by a majority of representatives instead of by the speaker.

If a democratic majority shall be elected to the House of Representatives, something may be accomplished towards the reform of the House, but with a republican senate it is doubtful if Mr. Bryan can do more than start his senatorial reform.

Mr. Bryan has the advantage of Mr. Taft on the issue of publicity of campaign contributions. He has the pledge of his party forbidding corporations to contribute to campaign funds and compelling the publication of contributions. Every word he said on the subject of campaign fund publicity will be approved by all who do not profit by "slush" funds.

The speech is strong, clever, interesting and even in his most fervid appeals for popular rule and the restoration of equal rights he fairly exemplified his new keynote:

"The democratic party seeks not revolution, but reformation."

It must be admitted that he exhibited in this initial utterance of his campaign a hitherto unsuspected power of restraint, which well becomes him as the candidate for the chief executive office.

ODD THINGS IN A DAY'S NEWS.

One of the grievances of Mrs. Clara Black of Chicago, who sued for a divorce, was that she was compelled early every morning to curl her husband's long, silky moustache.

Dog catchers in Reading, Pa., were indignant when they discovered that the tags worn by dogs to protect them against molestation were nothing but crown tips from beer bottles.

Pigeons playing on the cornice of the old city hall at Allegheny, Pa., dislodged bricks which fell on Policeman Edward Simons, badly injuring his shoulder.

Mrs. James Lawson, arrested with her husband and jailed at Troy, Mo., admitted that she had forged her stepfather's signature in Oklahoma in order to get money to use on a honey-moon trip.

Passengers on an elevated railroad train in New-York saw a goat standing on a narrow billboard sign thirty feet from the sidewalk eating a Panama hat which he had seized from a passing business man.

PURE FOODS MEAN SAFE FOODS

They bear the seal of Uncle Sam's approval. They mean good health for yourself and your family. Preserves made from poor fruits are not Pure Food Products. The ingredients that make up Pure Food Products must pass government inspection and, if inferior, are rejected. The "Best" foods minus the Pure Food label cannot pass muster; they are inimical to good health—they exist in defiance of the most humane law ever passed.

Our store is founded on a Pure Food basis. We honestly believe that there is not a store in town run on such conscientious, painstaking, straightforward principles as

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

Vogue Points.

The separate coat to be worn with afternoon and lingerie gowns is captured and applied in any conventional design, and the latest pattern shows an irregular perpendicular line losing itself in scrolls, and almost completely veiling the flit beneath. Being lined with tulle, these coats can be worn without discomfort on warm days.

The latest bows on boas are immense; neck-ruches of tulle have very long ends, touching the hems of the skirts.

The very dressy tailored costumes of moiré silk are trimmed with rich passementerie on collar, cuffs and side slits of jackets.

The petticoat has been entirely discarded where the long afternoon gown is concerned, as the latter is lined and weighted to fall limp at the ankles.

A new scarf is of white marquisette a yard in width, with four deep tucks running the length of the scarf, with bands of maribou placed between each tuck, and nine tassels of same at either end of the scarf.

Huge rosettes for hat trimming are made of wired chenille ends, finished at each tip with four or five feathered strands of an ostrich plume the same shade as the chenille. The effect is very feathery and summerlike.

The most fascinating lingerie has just come over from Paris. All the edges of the combination drawers and corset covers, the chemise and the ruffles of the petticoats are embroidered in a wavy line a little less stiff than the ordinary scallop. Just under the edge of this is set a dainty frill of lace. The only other embellishment is a very simple fine design in exquisite all-over and eyelid embroidery.

A curious novelty has just appeared in the shape of large white leather bags, made to carry very small Japanese dogs or little black and tans, with a side opening for the dog's head. These bags are laced on the sides with narrow leather lapings, and have the owner's monogram on one side.

Fit for an Operation.

At the Saturday matinee an imposing young woman, wearing a pongee creation of the near-sheath type, swept down the aisle, drawing all eyes after her. It was not her gown, however, that was the attraction, even in this era of hectic interest in everything di-rectoire, but as it was during an intermission and she had doffed her hat her coiffure eclipsed every other feature of her toilet. Her hair was swept into an enormous pompadour which, however, draped the back of her head instead of crowning her brow.

A mild little country visitor, whose own locks were trimly combed together and screwed into a tight little knob on top of her head, stared long at the receding young woman's coiffure, and then remarked to her neighbor, who, by the way, was a total stranger to her: "My goodness gracious! If I was born with a thing like that on my head I'd have it operated on!"

Boots Now are Highly Varnished.

A fancy for brilliantly varnished black boots has captured the feminine mind. There come varnished leathers which are easy to the foot, and these are worn instead of colored boots where the gown will permit. The little black varnished boot with its silk stocking makes the foot look much smaller than the colored shoe. Still there will always be a word to say in favor of the boot that matches the gown. Much depends also upon the size of the foot. But it is safe to predict that a woman's shoe bills will be greater this summer than ever before.

Woman's Fickle Palate.

It has been stated recently that, owing to the growing habit of cigarette smoking among women their taste in food is undergoing complete change. It has been noticed at women's clubs, and it is very evident to those who use their powers of observation at restaurant dinners, that women are far less keen on sweets than they were a few years ago. They have developed a taste for savories, they eat with gusto such spiced and seasoned dishes as would have positively frightened them twenty years ago, and actually punished their delicate palates. To the cigarette habit, which is growing on women to a remarkable extent, is assigned the cause. But is it entirely to this, one is tempted to wonder, that the change is due, since many men who are great smokers—and this is especially noticeable at the great universities—are also great eaters of sweetmeats. It is possible that women have largely educated their palates to stronger flavors since they have been growing more and more masculine in their tastes. A quarter of a century ago it was the exception rather than the rule to find women publicly drinking spirits, whereas whiskey and soda is now taken freely at table, and in public restaurants, by quite young women. Again, for years women were rated for feeding themselves in unsuitable fashion. Buns and tea were supposed to satisfy the gastronomic taste of any one of the sex, and in consequence they were unmercifully "chaffed," derided, upbraided. Then women grew bolder. They took violent exercise, they grew in stature and gastronomic wisdom. They copied the superior sex. They followed their lead in athletics, in the use of nerve-soothing tobacco, and in the craving for "strong meats," both liquid and solid. Still, they fail to please, apparently. The men are now grumbling that women are not satisfied with sugary confections or comforted with innumerable chocolates.

Chocolate Mold.

Two ounces of chocolate, some whipped cream, half a teaspoonful of vanilla extract, one and a half cupsful of milk, two yolks of eggs, two tablespoonfuls of sugar, one heaping tablespoonful of powdered gelatine. Grate the chocolate into a saucepan, add half a cup of the milk and dissolve slowly and cook till smooth. Remove the saucepan from the fire, add the remainder of the milk, gelatine, sugar and yolks of eggs. Stir again over the fire until almost boiling, strain into a basin, add vanilla, then cool slightly. Pour into a wet mold and set aside in a cool place. Serve with whipped cream.

55,000,000,000 Cigarettes.

Fifty-five billion cigarettes—count em—fifty-five billion! That's the newest alleged statistics of annual consumption. What is the country coming to?

It would take a billion consumers smoking about one a week to make that total, or fifty-five consumers smoking a billion a year. The actual number of consumers in the United States, however, exclusive of Indians not taxed, is probably around 3,000,000. This would mean an average individual consumption of 18,000 a year, 1500 a month, or 50 a day. On its face, this is a frightful showing, but the average for the ordinary individual is reduced greatly by the well-known fact that the army and professional athletes consume vastly more than their share. The ordinary consumer has to content himself with what remains.

And this does not seem so much when we consider how little tobacco is really consumed by the cigarette smoker. What with 82 per cent of alfalfa, 12 per cent bran and 4 per cent of shredded wheat, the average cigarette contains but 2 per cent of tobacco. In 50 smokes the consumer consumes what is equal to one all-tobacco cigarette, and it takes 10 of these to represent the strength in nicotine of one Colorado maduro cigar. True lovers of tobacco and people who are genuinely addicted to the tobacco habit continue to smoke cigars and pipes.

Upon the whole, the cigarette appears to be rather innocuous than injurious. At any rate, the army and the professional athletes appeared to be enjoying fair health when last heard from.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

The question will not down. It is, are the 8,000,000 democrats of the United States willing to pay the legitimate expenses of a campaign to elect a democratic national ticket?

Never before in the history of American politics has any political organization or any candidate for the presidency so completely cut loose from the interests which would anticipate special favors through campaign contributions for his election, and so confidently placed his political fortunes in the hands of the people, as has the leader of the democratic party in the campaign now on.

Are the common people, through indifference or from sordid motives, going to disregard this opportunity to bring about a great reform in American politics. We think not, but the question can be given a material and convincing answer.

Texas is the banner democratic State of the union. Wichita county is one of the most prosperous and progressive counties in the State. Your duty as a citizen and as a democrat is too evident to need further explanation.

The election will take place within less than eighty days and between now and election day much must be done and money is urgently needed.
