THE NEW TREASURER

CHAIRMAN MACK SAYS HASKELL'S SUCCESSOR WON'T BE NAMED FOR SEVERAL DAYS.

THIS ACTION VOLUNTARY

Resignation of Haskell Made to Avoid Any Possible Embarrassment to Democratic Party.

By Associated Press.
Chicago, Ill., Sept. 26.—With the arrival of W. J. Bryan in Chicago this morning and the resignation last night of Governor Haskell as treasurer of the democratic national committee, interest in democratic politics today was centered in the question of a successor to Haskell.

All prominent officials in democratic headquarters greeted the presidential candidate. On reaching headquarters Bryan at once went into conference with Governor Haskell, Assistant Treasurer Dolly, Vice Chairman Lamb, Joseph Daniels and Millard Dunlap. Bryan said on his arrival: "I have nothing to say now concerning Governor Haskell. I am preparing an answer to President Roosevelt's letter. Yes, the executive committee will probably fill the vacancy in the treasurer'ship."

Mentioned for Treasurership.
By Associated Press.
New York, Sept. 26.—The selection of a treasurer to succeed Governor Haskell will not be made for several days, said Chairman Mack today.

The names of Colonel Moses Wetmore of St. Louis, Mayor Adam of Buffalo and E. H. Goltra of St. Louis are under consideration.

Haskell May Be Asked to Resign the Governorship.

Special to the Times.
Oklahoma City, Tex., Sept. 26.—Attorney General West is among the number of prominent democrats who today expressed bitter opposition to Haskell. Many democrats say that the governor should resign the executive office, but an equal number are loyally supporting him.

Chairman Mack to Name Treasurer.
By Associated Press.
Chicago, Ill., Sept. 26.—After a conference at democratic headquarters, Mr. Bryan said that the selection of a successor to Governor Haskell would be decided by Chairman Mack. Asked if he had accepted the resignation of Haskell, Mr. Bryan declined to answer and refused to talk.

Governor Haskell left at 9 o'clock for Guthrie, Oklahoma, and when asked if his resignation would be accepted, he said, "I presume so." As to his successor, he professed ignorance.

Haskell's Letter of Resignation.
Governor Haskell's resignation was made public shortly after midnight last night and was announced in the form of a letter to Chairman Mack, which was as follows:

"Hon. Norman E. Mack, Chairman Democratic National Committee, New York: My Dear Sir—In pursuance of information as to your date for return here, when I went home before, assumed I would find you here upon my return today. I now learn that you will be detained in the East until Tuesday, and as I must be home on Monday, I leave tomorrow. Since the president and his cabinet have joined forces with Mr. Hearst and three Wall street brokers to make a personal fight against me, notwithstanding the president, in his answer to Mr. Bryan, abandoned his charge about Ohio Standard Oil cases, yet by all the means at the command of the government and the millions of Hearst and his Wall street allies, they persist in vicious, unwarranted and untruthful attacks on me personally. I welcome their attack and shall meet it with all the vigor at my command. I shall treat them as private citizens and subject to the penalties of the law which they merit. "In this I know, I shall have the aid of my neighbors at home for all proper purposes, but my time must be free from other demands here. "Again my heart is full of hope for the election of Mr. Bryan and Mr. Kern. Honest Government and Rule by the People is at stake, important beyond any battle at the polls, in the last generation, is the pending contest. I would not for one moment consider remaining in any way connected with the committee. Therefore I hereby tender my resignation as treasurer of the national committee, that not the slightest contest of my own could in any way be used by the president to cloud the sky and shield our opponents from discussing the real issues and laying bare the republican duplicity to the people. Sincerely yours,

"C. N. HASKELL"

Gov. Haskell Will not Speak at Dallas State Fair.

Special to the Times.
Dallas, Tex., Sept. 26.—The democratic club today received a dispatch from Governor Haskell of Oklahoma, dated in Chicago, saying that he appreciates the invitation to speak at the State fair here on Democratic Day, but that he will be unable to attend.

SEARCHING FOR NEGRO.

Fiend Attempts Assault Upon Waxahachie Girl.

Special to the Times.
Waxahachie, Tex., Sept. 26.—Officers today are using every means to find the negro who late last night daringly attacked Miss Grace Owen, aged 18 years. While she was sitting on the front gallery the negro sprang upon her from behind and dragged her to the back yard, choking and beating her and tearing her clothing. The girl's screams attracted her mother and the negro fled, the darkness shielding him.

The citizens are aroused and the blacks are keeping off the streets.

WICHITA EXHIBIT AT OKLAHOMA CITY

Secretary F. H. Gohlke of the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce this afternoon is packing an exhibit of farm products from the Wichita country for shipment to the Oklahoma State fair, which opens next week.

Farmers of this section have contributed liberally to the exhibit, which will fairly illustrate the diversity and quality and yields of the crops grown in this section.

John Young, of the firm of Ward & Young, has been selected to go to Oklahoma City to look after the exhibit and to explain to all inquirers the agricultural opportunities offered in this section. Mr. Young is well qualified for that purpose and it is expected that good results will follow the exhibit.

The new pamphlets being gotten out by the Chamber of Commerce will be distributed by Mr. Young.

After the Oklahoma City fair is over the exhibit will be shipped to Dallas to be exhibited at the Dallas State fair.

CHOLERA PREVENTS FORMAL WELCOME

By Associated Press.

FOURTEEN PERSONS DEAD

And Many Seriously Injured in Collision on Berlin Elevated Railroad.

WANT 12 1-2 CENTS HITCHCOCK IS NEXT

NATIONAL FARMERS' UNION SAYS COTTON SHOULD BRING THAT PRICE NOW.

THE FIRST MINIMUM PRICE MOST EMPHATIC DENIAL

Secrecy Apparently Dropped—Texans Say They Can Get Fifteen Cents By Holding.

Special to the Times.
Fort Worth, Tex., Sept. 26.—In effect farmers of the South are seeking to hold their cotton for 12 1/2 cents, by the National Farmers' Union cotton committee. An address to the public has been issued from the committee headquarters at Memphis and copies are being distributed in Texas from the State headquarters in Fort Worth. This address declares that not a bale of the crop should sell for less than 12 1/2 cents, but discreetly avoids bluntly advising the farmers to hold for that figure. Neither is anything said regarding a minimum price, and notwithstanding the plain inference to be drawn from the address regarding the secret price, Texas officials maintain that the call does not give away the minimum price.

When it is recalled that the national convention at Fort Worth fixed a secret minimum price, but left the question of its permanency to the cotton committee, the announcement of the committee of its belief that 12 1/2 cents ought to be realized this year would indicate clearly to the mind of the layman that 12 1/2 cents is the secret minimum sought. Changed conditions, however, may alter the opinion of the committee, and in such event it has the power and authority to raise the minimum price. A later call advising that a still higher price is within the hope of attainment may therefore be expected if the market and spinning conditions tend to warrant.

Texas Hold For 15 Cents.
President D. J. Neill of the Texas union was out of the city yesterday and Secretary Charles Smith would not discuss the cotton committee's address. Bud Terry, assistant lecturer and organizer, combated the suggestion that 12 1/2 cents is the minimum price by stating that many Texans are holding for a still higher figure. He himself is holding thirteen bales of cotton and expects to get 15 cents "or let it rot."

The novel plan of each farmer, business man, professional man and commission house of the South buying several bales of cotton and storing it for higher prices, thus holding it from the market and aiding in the holding movement, is proposed by the cotton committee. The people of the South are reminded that the present presents the opportunity for the South to assert herself and bring prosperity.

Progress of First Murder Trial.

Special to the Times.
Carthage, Tex., Sept. 26.—The principal feature of today's proceedings in the trial of Dr. R. S. Paul, charged with the murder of Attorney Short at Center, was the evidence given by W. A. Paul, the defendant's brother. John Sugree also testified, these two men being the only eye witnesses to the tragedy.

Sugree was brought here from Houston county by Sheriff Henderson. The night session last night lasted late, Sugree's testimony occupying the session. It is claimed that his evidence was favorable to the defendant.

CHAIRMAN HITCHCOCK OF REPUBLICAN COMMITTEE NOW UNDER FIRE.

Is Made By Former Secretary of Interior to Haskell's Charge—Complied With Act of Congress.

By Associated Press.
Washington, D. C., Sept. 26.—Secretary of the Interior Garfield today issued a statement concerning the relations of former Secretary Hitchcock with the leases of the Prindle Oil and Gas Company, in which he states that the records of his office show that Hitchcock only complied with the act of congress authorizing the construction of pipe lines.

An Absolute Falsehood, Says Hitchcock

Boston, Mass., Sept. 25.—The following telegram from former Secretary of the Interior Ethan Allen Hitchcock, who is at Dublin, N. H., was received by the Associated Press here today: "I have just sent the following telegram to the New York World:

"Replying to your telegram of yesterday, just received and reading in part as follows:

"In view of the national interest in Governor Haskell's charge that you were responsible for giving the Standard Oil Company a grip on the then Territory of Oklahoma, I have only to say that the official records of the department of the interior will absolutely and convincingly show that Governor Haskell's assertion, if correctly reported by you, is an absolute falsehood."

Dupont Has Resigned.

New York, Sept. 25.—Following many rumors on the subject, which were floated here today and in Washington, Chairman Hitchcock of the national republican committee announced tonight that General Coleman T. Dupont of Delaware, head of the bureau of campaign speakers of the national committee, had resigned as head of that bureau and also as a member of the executive committee and that his resignation had been accepted.

HOPE FOR SUCCESS.

Colonel Johnston Brings News From the Campaign.

Houston Post.
With stronger expressions of hope for the success of the democratic party this year than he has heretofore voiced, Colonel R. M. Johnston, Texas National committeeman and a member of the executive committee, returned from the battle front yesterday. Colonel Johnston has been in the thick of the fight in the East and Middle West, his duties as a member of the executive committee keeping him active in the campaign, and having spent the last month at Southampton in New York and Chicago, assisting his colleagues, he is of necessity in close touch with the national situation.

Speaking of the progress of the campaign during the last month, the Texas national committeeman said: "Conditions appear very favorable from the democratic viewpoint and it is easy to see in the Middle West and the East that the trend of sentiment is toward Bryan. In fact, it is considered that, unless this movement is checked by the republicans within the next two weeks, Mr. Bryan's election is most probable. That the republicans recognize the fact is evidenced by the activity of President Roosevelt, he having issued three statements in ten days' time. Also Judge Taft has reconsidered his first announcement that he would stay at home and not make a campaign and now intends to tour the country on a speechmaking trip.

The democratic leaders are extremely confident and believe the movement toward Mr. Bryan is so strong that the republicans will find it impossible to check by any expedient, notwithstanding that, while the opponents concede the trend of sentiment is for democracy, they claim they will be able to overcome the influences responsible for it. "Be those things as they may, it is an open and undisputed fact that it is a great race and all through the Middle West and the East people who like a lively political contest have reached the conclusion, in the vernacular of the race track, that it is "hot horse race."

Senator Culberson, as chairman of the advisory committee, is the real directing head of the democratic campaign, and is doing a very great work. The senator feels confident of the success of the party this year, in common with his co-workers."

Colonel Johnston was asked to indicate the developments which he considered the means of turning sentiment toward the democratic party and its candidates. He said there are several conditions contributing to the change in sentiment, the main thing, however, probably being the fact that there are 2,000,000 life people in the country today who ought to have employment and who had been at work until a few months ago. This, of course, is bound to cause dissatisfaction and a man dissatisfied will hardly cast his vote for the interests that have brought about his discontent. Bryan at present has practically all the labor vote and if he can hold that and at the same time continue the gains now apparent there can be little doubt of his success at the November election.

By Associated Press.

By Associated Press.

BLACKS ARE LEAVING

POSTERS WARN THEM

That Death Awaits Negroes Who Do Not Get Out—Whites are Thoroughly Aroused.

Special to the Times.
Henrietta, Tex., Sept. 26.—The negroes are rapidly leaving town, fearing that the whites will carry out their threat to drive them from the town or mob them if they remain.

Placards are posted on the streets warning all blacks that death awaits them if they remain.

This is the result of an attempted assault upon the two daughters of R. McGillion here by Lofton Harrison, a negro, now in the Gaineville jail for safe keeping.

Another dispatch from Henrietta says:

"Two parties of night riders were out last night and as a result of their work only about six negroes remain. The operations of the riders were quiet and orderly and as far as can be learned, there was no violence. It was unnecessary. This morning several significant placards were noticed on the streets. One of the most suggestive was a small slab of marble leaning against a wall, holding a scrap of paper read: "This is what is in store for negroes who remain in Henrietta."

NOW IS THE TIME TO HELP.

The appeal of the national committee for funds suggests the propriety of again directing the attention of the democrats of Texas to the urgency of making a reasonable response thereto. Up to this time, thousands, perhaps tens of thousands, have thought that the prospects of victory were so remote as to make a contribution to the fund a waste of money.

Of course, no one can tell in September what will happen in November, but the reports from every section of the North and West are as encouraging for the democrats as they are discouraging for the republicans. Not since 1892 has the country witnessed such democratic enthusiasm or such republican alarm. Not since 1892 has the country witnessed such democratic unity or such republican dissension. Apparently, the republicans are not harmonious anywhere, and October is near at hand with no evidence that their differences can or will be composed.

With these cheering prospects, it would be the height of folly for Southern democrats to remain indifferent or to refrain from a generous participation in the popular campaign fund movement which Mr. Bryan has inaugurated. To sacrifice a victory when it is within the party's grasp would mean an indefinite prolongation of the evils of republicanism.

No one is expected to contribute beyond his means. While it is desired that all who can afford to contribute large sums shall do so, Mr. Bryan himself has laid stress upon the small contribution, and it is a fact that the small contributors have thus far contributed the bulk of the fund.

The popular contribution plan is new, but the people cannot fail to see it is the proper one. If corporations are to be permitted to pay the money to conduct campaigns, the people can not reasonably complain if special privileges are granted them to exploit the public. The corporations do not contribute from philanthropic or patriotic motives. If they pay, they expect privileges in return, and the bestowal of these privileges has resulted in the oppression of the people.

It is the hope of the National committee that thousands and tens of thousands of democrats who can spare a dollar or two will do so at this time.

The splendid progress we have made so far can be sustained throughout the remainder of the campaign if these contributions from the people do not fail. And it is likewise important that the collections be frequently remitted rather than held for round sums, since the time has now come when the need of money is urgent. The best way is to send frequent collections and keep the work up.

Let the call of the committee not go unheeded by the splendid democracy of Texas.—Houston Post.

In Society's Realm

Miss Sarah Ulmer.

THE MOTHER GIRL.
 She is not a bud of fashion, nor a butterfly of style,
 And there are no bogus trimmings in the make-up of her smile;
 She needs no artificial fixing to enhance her girlish charms,
 And a god would go in raptures o'er the plumpness of her arms
 As she washes up the dishes and the minutes speed along,
 Dancing gayly as they pass her to the music of her song.
 In her eyes a soft expression of a pure maternal love
 That surely must be the envy of those angels up above.
 She's the joy of every home
 Underneath yon arching dome
 Till she gives her heart's affection to another—
 Lucky he who wins the true,
 Loving, loyal maiden who
 Tries to lift the daily burden from her mother.
 When the weekly toil is over, and she dons her Sunday gown,
 There is not a pampered darling on the earth can turn her down
 In the winning game of beauty; not a fashionable pearl,
 Though ablaze with costly jewels can outshine the mother girl.
 Sweet simplicity is noted in her unassuming grace,
 And she needs no color touching to put bloom into her face.
 For the blood of health is coursing through her veins, her rosy blush
 Isn't made for the occasion by the decorative brush.
 She's the very fairest gem
 In our beauty diadem.
 Search creation and you cannot find another
 On the face of all the earth
 That possesses half the worth
 Of the girl who lifts the burden from her mother.

Light refreshments were served, and the club adjourned to meet next Wednesday evening, September 30th, with Miss Lucille Brooks, on Scott avenue.

Mrs. Robbecke Retires.
 A very dainty affair took place in a combined social and business way at the home of Mrs. L. C. Hinckley Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock, the occasion being the meeting of the lady Maccabees. At a short business session, the former record keeper, Mrs. Charles Robbecke, resigned and in recognition of her faithful and efficient services she was presented with a magnificent cut glass vase, at the close of appropriate and touching words by Mrs. George Stroh.

The original Forty-Two Club met with Mr. and Mrs. Fred Harrington, 601 Scott avenue, on Thursday evening. Six tables were played with a number of city guests present, besides the regular members. Iced drinks were served informally during the evening.

With Miss Avis.
 The initiatory meeting of a new forty-two club met Friday evening with Miss Lillian Avis at her home 1011 Austin avenue. The name of the new organization is 'the suggestive interrogative, "Who'd a Thought It?"' The young ladies present were the Misses Annie Carrigan, Della Stone, Bessie Jackson, Allene Wagner, Adele Wood, Gertrude Orth, Laura Haines, Eva Benson, Agnes Reid and Lillian Avis. Light refreshments were served and the club will meet next Saturday afternoon with Miss Eva Benson on Scott avenue.

At the Home of Miss Anderson.
 Miss Mary Anderson, 904 Lamar avenue, is hostess this afternoon to the new club for young women, partly organized last week at the home of Mrs. Ralph Darnell. The program for this afternoon consists of music, readings, and a recital of current events by the members, followed by the business meeting to complete the matter of organization. At this time officers will be elected and it is hoped by the members that a suitable name may be found for the young society. A salad course will be served by the hostess, and the club will meet fortnightly hereafter.

The poem which appeared in last week's issue of this department did not enter by the "door of the sheepfold," but must have climbed up some other way, as it did not gain entrance either by the knowledge or consent of the person whose name appears at the head of these columns.

Every Non-Progressive Merchant Becomes Your Competitor When You Cease to Advertise

WHEN a merchant "slows up" in his advertising, and concludes to "save a little money" in that direction, then the merchant who never had the courage and foresight to advertise adequately BECOMES A REAL COMPETITOR. Even the merchant who never advertises at all reaps a certain amount of profit from the "slowing up" process of the live store. Not many merchants, of course, who have at any time set the pace for progressive advertising, will be content to take a backward plunge into the company of the non-progressives, of the LITTLE MERCHANTS, the easily satisfied ones, the un-awakes! But that is just what the "live one" does when he imagines that his advertising is costing too much, and that its curtailment means saving. If business conditions ever suggest retrenchment in advertising, the wise merchant knows that this should be interpreted as a signal for "full speed ahead," for redoubled efforts to WIN the business that does not come so easily as usual.

A COMMON ERROR.

Correct the Sentence Before You Read the Explanation.

"May I examine the children a little as to their knowledge of the language?" asked the visitor at the grammar school, an old gentleman with a benevolent aspect of countenance, but a shrewd twinkle in his eye.

"Certainly you may," smilingly answered the teacher.

The old gentleman stepped to the blackboard and wrote this sentence upon it:

"Pennsylvania abounds in anthracite coal."

"Now," he said, "I should like to have some child point out the mistake in that sentence."

"One of the older girls came forward, picked up the chalk and rewrote the statement thus:

"Anthracite coal abounds in Pennsylvania."

"Not so bad," said the visitor, "but you haven't found it."

Another changed it as follows:

"Pennsylvania abound with anthracite coal."

"Still incorrect," was the comment.

"Anthracite coal is abundant in Pennsylvania," wrote a third.

"That will not do either," said Mr. Baxter.

"One of the big boys tried his hand, with this result:

"Pennsylvania is abundantly supplied with anthracite coal."

"No; that is not so good."

Then a little boy stepped forward and with his finger erased the word "coal."

"That word isn't needed," he said.

"Anthracite" means hard coal.

"Right," said the visitor. "You have one bright pupil, anyhow, Miss Adair."

—Youth's Companion.

Discriminating.

"Of course," the British tourist was saying, "I understand that the winning party at your elections is the one that gets out the most voters."

"Not at all," replied the native. "It's the party that puts in the most votes."

—Catholic Standard and Times.

Good Turns.

"The writer was telling me he expected Crittiek of the Morning Bugle to do his book a good turn."

"Yes? Well, he seems to have given it two or three good turns. He roasted it pretty thoroughly."—Exchange.

Setting Him Right.

The poet was busy at his desk.

"The fire of genius is burning, eh?" queried the casual caller.

"Not so you can notice it," replied the rhymester. "That's my cigar you smell."—Chicago News.

For a man to exert his powers in doing good so far as he can is a most glorious task.—Sophocles.

A GRIM CEREMONY.

An Emperor's Death Hastened by Rehearsing His Own Funeral.

Emperor Charles V. of Spain brought about his death by rehearsing his own funeral. For the last two years of his life, after resigning the scepter of Spain and the Netherlands to his son Philip in 1556, Charles retired to the monastery of Yuste, in Estremadura, and there lived a cloister life in close intercourse with the monks, devoting much time to religious exercises. During this period, prompted it may be, by the example of Cardinal de la Marek, who for several years before his death, in 1528, had annually rehearsed his own obsequies, the emperor, in the summer of 1558, formed the resolution to celebrate his own funeral before he died.

Accordingly, on Aug. 30 of that year, the grim farce was carried out with the most elaborate ceremonial. The imperial domestics marched with black tapes in their hands, and the emperor, clad in sable weeds, himself followed, wearing his shroud. While the solemn mass for the dead was sung before the high altar in the cathedral Charles gave up his taper to the priest, symbolizing thereby his resignation of life, and was solemnly laid his coffin. The ceremony closed with sprinkling holy water on his body; then, all the attendants retiring, the doors were shut, and Charles rose from his narrow bed and withdrew to his private apartment.

The damping of the graveclothes induced a chill, which, aided no doubt by the mental depression caused by the gruesome ceremony, induced a fever which ended in his death three weeks later, on the 21st of September, 1558.

State Officials Paid in Pelts.

Probably few people today know that the original name of the state of Tennessee was Franklin or that in 1788 the salaries of the officers of this commonwealth were paid in pelts, but the following is a correct copy of the law:

"Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Franklin, and it is hereby enacted by authority of the same, that from and after the first day of January, 1788, the salaries of this commonwealth be as follows—to wit:

His excellency the governor, per annum, 100 deerskins.

His honor the chief justice, 500 deerskins.

The secretary to his excellency the governor, 500 raccoon skins.

County clerk, 300 beaver skins.

Clerk of the house of commons, 300 raccoon skins.

Members of the assembly, per diem, 3 raccoon skins.

Justice's fee for serving a warrant, 1 miniskin.

MODERN REPORTING. Characterized by Extreme Caution, Says One Editor.

A newspaper writer is no longer supposed to know or to state anything positively. Everything must be heard and on somebody's authority. Caution's the word. This is about the way a story must be written up nowadays to pass muster with the average city editor.

Corn, Corn Everywhere. Frederick Enterprise.

Corn, corn, everywhere, and more coming. This is the situation here. Great stacks of it may be seen on every hand, and an endless procession of wagons from every point, north, south, east and west, keep adding to the total, while the shellers are whirring early and late in a vain endeavor to keep pace.

HE WAS MISTAKEN. The Young Army Officer Was Not a Coward After All.

At the battle of Santiago a surgeon going to the front came upon a young officer sitting beside the road trembling like a leaf and whiter than the dead men around him. At sight of the surgeon he began to talk. "I'm a coward, I'm a coward. I'm a coward," he said. "I knew I'd run, and I did. O Lord, I wish you'd kill me! I'm disgraced forever. I just got scared. I knew I would. I was going along all right, not thinking of anything but getting at the dashed Spaniards, yelling at my men to come on and running ahead as fast as I could, when all of a sudden I stubbed my toe or something, and then I can't remember being scared, but I must have been, for I came galloping back here sick as a dog. Oh, I feel so awfully gone! I'm a blashed coward, and I wish I was dead. O Lord, why doesn't somebody shoot me? I've got such a awful goodness right here." And he put his hand to his stomach. The surgeon gave him a quick look and caught him as he plunged forward in a faint. Where the awful goodness was a Mauser bullet had found its billet. They carried the wounded man to the field hospital, and he chuckled all the way.

The Popular Woman.

The popular woman is not in the habit of talking about herself and her own peculiar troubles and grievances. She has her "bad days," like everyone else, but she takes care that others shall not suffer on her account, and when she has an attack of the dumps she isolates herself, in order that the infection may spread no further. She is, above all, a sympathetic woman, and knows how to make people feel that she takes an individual interest in them. She is never too busy to lend assistance, and a shake of her head is as good as a number of words from anyone else. She is a woman who adapts herself to the varying circumstances of life, and who prefers to look on the bright side of things. All disagreeable and unkind remarks that she hears made about others die with her, and she knows how to say the right words at the right time. In conversation, she studies the sore points of her acquaintance and studiously avoids and adroitly introduces subjects on which they can talk best. She is content to be in the shadow if she can make another shine. Her opinions are defined, and to a certain extent decided, but at the same time they are open to correction.—McCall's Magazine.

FICTION AND FACT.

Dreams of Authors That Have Been Turned Into Realities.

The deliver among old books often finds, says the Berlin Umschau, prophecies made by writers which in their day were nothing but romance. This can be so easily observed by reading the works of Jules Verne, and there are also books in which airships, the telephone, photography and the motor wagon have been spoken of generations before these were accomplished facts. A novel entitled "Der Kluge Mann," published by Voss & Co., Leipzig, 1795, by an author named Cramer shows a Roentgen picture. The story tells of the Countess Abillina, who gave her heart to the knight Gilsello. The knightly lover was thoughtless enough, however, to kill his ladylove's father, and her affection turned to hatred, and she vowed to kill him. In a dream she saw the man who had fascinated her, and she stood ready to kill him, when suddenly his form changed, and before her stood a grinning skeleton, saying, "I have already been punished." This scene is illustrated in the old book, and the picture is not unlike a Roentgen photograph, but when it was published no one probably would have believed that science within a comparatively short time would make it possible to produce this picture, which the author's imagination invented.

Kaffirs' Love Letters. The Basutos prove an interesting study. Not that they have any depths of character, but theirs is a very happy go lucky nation. These South Africans are romantic and sentimental, but it's all on the surface. Here are a few amusing paragraphs from Kaffirs' love letters: "My sweet flowers, the ink and the paper are very glad, because they will see your dear, beautiful face, but the pen and me are truly sad, for we are staying behind!" "My love for you is burning like a paraffin stove!" "Oh, you are so beautiful! You look like a peacock sitting under a willow tree!" "My love for you is as true as a clock that keeps the time!"

A Little Case of Telepathy. "There is nothing strange to me in the operation of one mind upon another," the telepathic woman said. "Once when my sister I am very fond of was operated on I went with her and sat in the anteroom a long way off from the operating room—that is, I walked up and down there, worried to death nearly about her, when all at once I threw myself into a big armchair and went sound asleep. They had just given her the ether then, so her mind was at rest and rested mine. I slept until she came out from under the influence."

Lucky Will. Amateur Actor (who has just concluded a performance of the part of Hamlet, to a friend who has been one of the audience)—Well, old fellow, don't you feel inclined to congratulate some one? Friend—Indeed, I do. Amateur (with vainglorious mien)—May I so far infringe on modesty as to ask his name? Friend—Certainly. His name is Shakespeare, and I heartily congratulate him on his unavoidable absence.

Ten Miles of Steel En Route. President Lazarus of the Acme, Red River and Northern railroad dropped the remark last week that he would have ten miles of steel on the road to Acme within one week. What his intentions are we failed to learn. It is said he is waiting for overtures from Quanah to either build to Hollis, where he owns valuable cement beds, or Paducah. In either case, it would take about $40,000 of Quanah's money to make him move.—Quanah Tribune-Chief.

Some Thoughts On Bank Insurance

One of the points of difference in the Democratic and Republican parties is the insurance of bank deposits. Thomas J. O'Donnell, of Colorado, who is a Democratic aspirant for United States Senator, gives the following pointed illustration to show the workings of a law guaranteeing bank deposits:

"I was born and brought up in the hills of New Jersey, where the earth is turned on edge. The hills are so steep that we had to plow with a side hill plow. Almost every farmer kept a few sheep. Sheep and the farmer boys were about the only things that could climb the hills. Everybody kept dogs, for the poorer people are the more dogs they keep. Some of these dogs would kill sheep and some dogs wouldn't. The township paid for all the sheep killed by dogs, and assessed the cost on the owners of all the dogs. The owners of the good dogs had to pay equally with the owners of the bad dogs, even as the rain falls alike on the just and on the unjust. This put every dog owner on the lookout for sheep-killing dogs, and it was generally supposed that these dogs had a 'mean look which distinguished them' from other dogs. The tax didn't bear heavily on any dog owner, and the fact that the township would pay if the sheep was lost let the sheep owner rest easily at night and helped the sheep business.

"Those who oppose the guarantee of bank deposits by the government tell you that there are sheep killers among the bankers—good banks and poor banks—but the tax to supply the funds to pay the depositors of failed banks will not be felt by the good banks; it will let the depositor sleep at night, and make the bankers themselves look out for the sheep-killers among their number."

These strong ideas from William Marion Reedy, editor of the St. Louis Mirror:

Mr. Taft and Postmaster General Meyer are having fits over the proposal of the democratic platform that the government shall by means of a tax on bank stock insure the deposits of the people in National banks. They are afraid it will make bankers dishonest to know that if they steal the people's money, other bankers will have to make good the loss. On this theory the government and every business concern should discontinue and abolish the custom of exacting bonds of men in responsible financial positions. Why don't all cashiers, tellers and other bonded men run away with the money in their keeping? The bonding companies will make good the speculations or embezzlements. What do we see? That the bonding companies make men in responsible positions more careful. Men don't dissipate, lest the company officers report them and cause their discharge. They don't steal because the bonding companies are remorseless and relentless in prosecution. If all bankers had to pay the money stolen by the few crooks, the crooks would be more quickly caught, and at the first symptoms of crookedness, removed from the places in which opportunity for crookedness offered. If all bankers had to pay, all bankers would more closely watch each banker. It is a delicious absurdity to note men like Mr. Taft and Postmaster General Meyer maintaining that the only guarantee of the safety of our banking system lies in providing as much opportunity as possible for the dissipation and theft of the money of bank depositors. This is exactly what their plea amounts to. Postmaster General Meyer thinks that a postal banking system would be better. Very well; let us have both; but isn't it the essence of the argument for the postal banking system would be better. Very well; let us have both; but isn't it the essence of the argument for the postal bank that the government does guarantee the security of the deposits of the people?
