ROOSEVELT OBEYS

HEEDS REQUEST OF REPUBLICAN LEADERS AND WILL NOT ANSWER BRYAN'S LETTER.

THE ATTACK IS PERSONAL

Declares the President and For Once the Big Stick Stands Idly By While Teddy Eats "Crow."

Special to the Times.
Washington, D. C., Sept. 30.—President Roosevelt will not reply to the last letter of W. J. Bryan, given out last night at Rock Island, claiming that inasmuch as it is simply a personal attack on him, there is no reason why he should answer it.

Is Roosevelt Muzzled?

By Associated Press.
Washington, D. C., Sept. 30.—Secretary Loeb today stated that President Roosevelt had no present intention of making a speaking tour in behalf of the republican candidate for the presidency.

INDIANS MEET AT MOUNT SCOTT.

Kiowas, Comanches and Apaches Considering Pasture Land.

Lawton, Ok., Sept. 29.—It is the intention of the government that the Indians agree to some plan regarding the remaining uncollected pasture land. Three thousand Indians affiliating themselves with the Kiowa, Comanche and Apache tribes are at Mount Scott in the Wichitas for a grand council, which will be held tomorrow, the outcome of which means much to the Indians. Chiefs, who for the first time are to be recognized by the government as the leaders of their bands, are to be chosen. They are to be called business men and are to transact all official business. Quannah Parker, the long-term chief of the Comanches, is elected one of the speakers. His most determined opponents are Eschilt and a young chief who graduated, William Sampety. It appears tonight as though A. H. Peaton, a chief of the Kiowas, will lose his official reign to Moneusope. Some opposition is shown to Otto Wells as Indian business man for the Comanches near Anadarko.

Bezzanretta and Stephens are out against Chief Big John of the Apaches. Indians are receiving their annual lease money, amounting to $150,000. Indian Agents—Streaker and McKnight and several officials from Washington are present upon this session. Chief Geronimo, Quannah Parker and Lone Wolf are conspicuous.

Special to the Times.
Fort Worth, Tex., Sept. 30.—George Tate, aged 50 years, received advices today from Memphis, Tenn., that he is one of the heirs to a $100,000 estate left by an uncle who died recently. Tate was almost penniless and had been earning a meager living by odd jobs. He will leave for Memphis tomorrow.

Aged Sherman Citizen Dies.

Cotton Lower Today.

Dynamite in Negro Church.

Corsicana, Tex., Sept. 29.—A charge of dynamite under the pulpit of the First Baptist (negro) church Sunday night while services were being held, tearing up the floor and pulpit. Rev. Sikes, the pastor, had a narrow escape. He was sitting directly over the place where the explosion took place, but moved away just about the time of the explosion. The congregation was thrown into a panic, but no one was injured except a negro named Morgan, whose face was badly cut by splinters. This church was set afire some months ago and a short time afterward an attempt was made to blow it up with powder, and not long ago the pastor's buggy was burned by incendiaries.

There have been disensions in the church and several threatening notices have been sent the pastor. No one has been arrested as yet for Sunday night's crime, although several negroes are under suspicion.

DEMOCRATS INQUIRE ABOUT REPUBLICAN TREASURER.

New York, Sept. 29.—An investigation is being made by the democratic national committee into the corporation connections of George R. Sheldon, treasurer of the republican national committee, and representatives have been sent into the financial districts to inquire into his early financial career. It is understood that any material that may be developed from this investigation will be forwarded to Mr. Bryan to be used as subject matter of future speeches in which he is expected to assail the treasurer of the republican committee. Democrats here declare that Mr. Sheldon's corporation record justifies his retirement from the treasurership of the republican committee. Mr. Mack today declined to discuss the matter, which is being quietly made. He will leave for Chicago probably on next Saturday.

BANKERS DECLARE GUARANTY UNSAFE

Special to the Times.
Denver, Colo., Sept. 30.—Today the regular business session of the American Bankers' Association was opened in the Auditorium and in the same hall in which the National Democratic convention adopted a platform favoring the guarantee of bank deposits by National law, and if that was impossible declaring for the establishment of a postal savings bank system, bankers representing the wealth of the nation repudiated the idea as dangerous to the prosperity of the country.

President Powers in his keynote speech declared the bank deposit guarantee to be a fallacy. The program today includes, besides the president's address, reports of various standing committees and several addresses.

That Cleveland Letter.

New York, Sept. 29.—District Attorney Jerome announced today that he would investigate the facts connected with the sale to a New York paper of an article on the issues of the campaign by the late ex-President Cleveland. According to the New York Times, which originally published the article, F. S. Hastings, executor of Mr. Cleveland's estate, at first vouched for the genuineness of the article, but later withdrew the voucher. The Times has now submitted the matter to the district attorney. Mr. Jerome said today:

"The question of the authenticity of this article seems to me not only important from the standpoint of the criminal law, but to have a large public importance. If the article is a forgery the persons responsible for it and for its sale, if the sale was consummated, knowing it to be a forgery, should be severely punished, for wrongdoing of this character in the midst of a bitterly fought campaign might have serious consequences."

An Alleged Revolutionist.

Special to the Times.
Waco, Tex., Sept. 30.—The preliminary trial of Antonio Araujo, the alleged Mexican revolutionary leader, said to have published a paper called "Liberty, Justice and Equality," at McAlester, Oklahoma, and Austin, Texas, commenced here this morning. United States secret service men have been working on the case. The prisoner declares he will fight extradition and has employed eminent counsel.

LOCKED IN A COACH

LABORERS ALLEGE THEY WERE LOCKED IN COACH THIRTY-TWO HOURS.

DENIED FOOD AND WATER

Laborers Sue Railroad Company for Damages Aggregating the Sum of $180,000.

Fort Worth Telegram.
Railroad damage cases aggregating $180,000, with a probable increase of this amount to $510,000, will be filed Tuesday afternoon in the district courts of Tarrant county.

The cause of action in these cases is based upon the "shipping" of fifty-one laborers from Denver, Colo., to Alford, Texas. The suits are brought against the Fort Worth and Denver and the Colorado and Southern railroads and the allegations set forth in each petition are identical.

In each individual case damages are asked by the plaintiff in the sum of $10,000, of which $5,000 is asked as actual damages and $5,000 as exemplary damages. It is charged in the petitions that the Colorado and Southern railroad on Sept. 21 accepted the fifty-one men who are entering suit for transportation to Alford, where employment had been secured for them at a rock crushing plant.

Locked in Coach.

The petitions charge that after leaving Denver when the train was out about fifty miles the doors of the car in which these laborers were riding were locked and that the passengers in this particular coach were denied both food and water for thirty-two hours, arriving at Alford on Sept. 23 at 6 o'clock in the morning almost famished.

It was stated by Judge W. R. Parker of the firm of Parker & Parker, attorneys for the half hundred men seeking redress, that they remained at the rock crushing plant but a short time, leaving for Fort Worth, where they immediately sought legal counsel. According to Judge Parker, the men were in charge of a foreman, but during the long trip, he did not ride in the same car provided for the men now bringing suit.

Petitions in eighteen of these cases, with accompanying interrogatories and affidavits, will be filed Tuesday afternoon. Upon the final outcome of these cases will depend the action in the other thirty-three suits.

"Cattle Treated Better."

Judge Parker declared that the men were not accorded the same treatment that the law compels common carriers to exercise in the transportation of cattle. In cases of this kind where the haul is an interstate shipment, the railroads are compelled to unload, water and feed cattle in transit after they have remained on the cars for a period of twenty-four hours. There is but one exception to this, and that is where the owner agrees that the shipment may continue without water or feed. Even in cases of this character, the railroads are compelled to unload, water and feed the animals at the expiration of thirty-six hours.

The men in the coach, it is claimed, had nothing but a small tank of drinking water, which was exhausted before the train had proceeded one hundred miles.

POLITICAL GOSSIP

Good Nature in the Campaign.

Brooklyn Eagle.
There has been a distinct restraint from personal attacks in the presidential canvass so far. Messrs. Taft and Bryan head different parties or organizations, holding different views, but have not made reflections upon the sincerity, the capacity, or the patriotism of each other. To be sure, their remarks have not been without animation and without earnestness, but the imputation of bad motives, of mean purposes, and of insincere and nefarious designs has not been indulged. Old campaigners can recall nothing akin to this since the orderly contests between Grover Cleveland and Benjamin Harrison in 1888 and in 1892.

The Burden of Cannon.

Providence Journal.
It is idle to expect from Mr. Cannon any realization of the enmity he has aroused among self-respecting Americans. He will not refrain from taking an active part in the campaign out of any solicitude for the political safety of his associates. He has already begun his own campaign by a bitter personal attack upon Mr. Bryan, thus bringing into the discussion for the first time those personalities which Mr. Bryan and Mr. Taft have alike, to their credit, avoided. He will be from now on a prominent figure in the contest; and Mr. Taft's friends, however much they may fear for the results, cannot repudiate him. The republican party will have to carry its Old Man of the Sea to the end.

Chanler a Strong Candidate.

New York Sun.
The democracy of the Empire State is at least temporarily sane and at least superficially harmonious. It has put up against Governor Hughes a dangerous contestant in the person of the honest gentleman and honorable public officer, whose peculiar destiny it was to be elected as lieutenant governor two years ago in the very shadow of Hughes' plurality of about 60,000 over Hearst. Mr. Chanler is likely to command the full strength of the regular democratic vote. If he has made any enemies in politics, they are not noisy. If there is any reason for distrusting him it is not conspicuous. Hence candor compels the statement that he is an adversary not to be despised.

Independence in Maine.

New York World.
So far as the republicans tried to make of the Maine election a preliminary test on national issues they failed, but by their failure the Maine democrats profited in carrying out their campaign policy. The most significant thing in the election is that in a republican stronghold where urgent appeals were made to the partisanship of the majority a large body of republicans should have been willing to desert their party and vote independently in a purely State matter, without regard to the effect on the presidential election.

The Times' Bryan and Kern campaign fund only needs thirty more dollars to make it an even one hundred. Who are thirty men that are willing to contribute this amount before Saturday, October 3rd, the day another remittance will be sent to the treasurer of the democratic national campaign committee?

It is just thirty-five more days until the big thing comes off, and the democrats are gaining ground every day. This is not based on claims made by the democrats, but from admissions made by Chairman Hitchcock, who says that Taft will carry the States of Washington, Oregon, California, Colorado, Montana, Wyoming, Iowa and Idaho by a combined majority of 132,000. These are the same States which gave Roosevelt nearly 500,000 majority four years ago. It is presumed, of course, that Mr. Hitchcock has made his claims as large as circumstances will warrant and even at his figures it shows a loss to the republicans in those twelve States of 468,000 votes as compared to the vote of four years ago. If the same percentage of republican loss is kept up in the other thirty-two States it will give Bryan a majority of the popular vote, even if he does not secure a majority of the electoral vote.

COMPLETING NEW SHOPS.

Denver Road Will Soon Be Working its Old Big Force at Childress.

The last drop of paint will be spread, the last bit of plumbing will be completed and the last nail will be driven in the new big shops of the Denver road at Childress before this week is over. When the last of the mechanics leave the new shops the Denver road will at once take up every bit of room available for skilled mechanics needed to keep the shops going full time—and then some.

The record of building and installing these shops is a new one in railroad-ing. Less than 100 days after the old shops had been licked clean by fire the new shops, erected over the site of the ruins of the old shops, will be going in full blast.

Incidentally the fact that the Denver has installed the very best machinery in these shops and has not reduced the mechanical force one man on account of the stringency or anything else, except lack of room, it being reflected in the schedule maintained by that road. The official records show that less than 2 per cent of the trains operated by the Denver have been over thirty minutes late during the last six weeks. Of course, the Denver road officials dare not brag of this fact, for the reason that there is a terrible superstition among railroad operating officials that as soon as they begin breaking into the papers about the wonderful stunts performed in the way of maintaining schedules that hard luck and more of it immediately breaks loose and schedules get shot all to pieces by accidents and unavoidable delays. If the Denver, however, does as well in the future as that road has in the past the traveling public will have but little cause for complaint about the schedules not being maintained by the Denver.—Fort Worth Telegram.

ROOSEVELT'S SHIFTY REPLY.

Houston Post.
Mr. Roosevelt makes a sorry showing in his controversy with Mr. Bryan. He fails to answer in any material respect Mr. Bryan's indictment against the republican party. On the contrary, he confesses that he granted favors to the steel trust; he confesses that he has not prosecuted the steel trust and asserts that combination has violated no law. Mr. Roosevelt might do well to read the Sherman anti-trust law once more and ascertain whether that stupendous concern is not violating both the letter and the spirit of the Sherman act.

He fails to answer Mr. Bryan's charge that so far under the Roosevelt administration not a trust magnate has been criminally prosecuted. He pleads in defense that a number of railroads and corporations have been fined, as if that constituted an act that in the slightest degree tends to ameliorate the burdens of the people.

Mr. Roosevelt knows for ought to know that the money penalties thus inflicted are quickly shifted to the shoulders of the people and that the law-defying corporations do not object to this form of punishment so long as their privileges are not interfered with.

Mr. Roosevelt does not deny that after the special counsel employed by the government to prosecute the Santa Fe rebate cases had reached the point of recommending criminal prosecutions, he discouraged further efforts by them because criminal prosecution would reach a member of his cabinet.

Equally weak and empty is the president's counter charge that the silver mine owners contributed $288,000 to the democratic campaign fund of 1896. These men were in no sense a trust. Some few of them were very wealthy and all were in favor of a general policy of government that was favored by more than 6,000,000 voters. They were not paying for a special privilege as were the trusts that contributed to the Hanna funds. These trusts paid sums compared with which the mine owners' contributions were trifles, and they were in return granted privileges under the Dingley act that enabled them to rob the people of countless millions.

In trying to make Governor Haskell an issue in the campaign, Mr. Roosevelt is merely evasive. He asserts that Haskell is altogether bad, and yet it has not been six months since he invited Governor Haskell to be a guest at the White House in the conference called to consider the preservation of the natural resources. His attempt to convict Governor Haskell unheard of in line with his attitude toward the late General Tyner, an old man over 50 years of age. He charged this old man with high crimes and used all the influence of the administration to bring about his conviction, and yet when the jury promptly acquitted the accused and Tyner, on his death bed, pleaded for the president to do him justice, Roosevelt turned upon him with ferocity that was as brutal as it was cowardly.

Fortunately, Governor Haskell does not depend upon this rabid bully for vindication. The democratic party can contemplate with increasing satisfaction the frantic and hysterical exhibitions of partisan fury now issuing from the White House. They sacrifice the dignity of a great office and violate traditions which the American people have been taught to revere, but they are opening the eyes of the people, and the people aroused will sweep the whole crew out of power on election day.

Luxury Without Reproach.

The Car.
The sight of a man driving in his wife's victoria a few years ago betokened an unwarranted amount of luxurious laziness, and would draw amused smiles from the passers-by. Since the advent of motors, however, into everyday life, such comments have ceased, and men now recline at ease among their leather cushions without fear of chaff or derision.

It Worked All Right.
One day a barber's shop in Liverpool had but one empty chair. A man wearing a very big hat and walking with a great deal of swagger, entered, hung his hat on a peg and then, drawing a revolver, turned to the idle man and said:

"I want a shave—just a common shave. I want no talk. Don't ask me if I want my hair cut or a shampoo. Don't speak of the weather or politics. If you speak to me, I'll shoot."

He took the chair, held the revolver across his legs and was shaved with promptness and dispatch.

When he got up he returned the shooter to his pocket, put on his hat and after a broad chuckle to the cashier said: "That's the way to keep a barber quiet. He didn't utter a word."

"No, sir; he couldn't."
"Couldn't?"
"No, sir; he's deaf and dumb."—Liverpool Mercury.

A REAPER RACE.

The Feat That Made William N. Whiteley Famous.

In the early days of the exploitation of various reaping machines a field demonstration, usually competitive, was a necessary occurrence. H. N. Casson in "The Romance of the Reaper" tells the following story of William N. Whiteley, "the Charlemagne of the harvest field."

He was as tall as a sapling and as strong as a tree. As a professor in the great school of agriculture he has never been surpassed. He could outtalk, outwork and generally outwit the men who were sent against him. He was a whole exhibition in himself.

"I've seen Bill Whiteley racing his horses through the grain and leaning over with his long arms to pick the mice's nests from just in front of the knife," said an old Ohio settler.

The feat that first made Whiteley famous was performed at Jamestown, O., in 1867. His competitor was doing as good work as he was, whereupon he sprang from his seat, unbitched one horse and finished his course with a single surprised steed pulling the heavy machine.

His competitor followed suit and succeeded fully as well. This enraged Whiteley, who at that time was as powerful as a young Hercules.

"I can pull that reaper myself!" he shouted, turning his second horse loose and yoking his big shoulders into the harness.

Such a thing had never been done before and has never been done since, but it is true that in the passion of the moment Whiteley was filled with such strength that he ran the reaper from one side of the field to the other, cutting a full swath, a deed that, had he done it in ancient Greece, would have placed him among the immortals.

That ten minutes in a horse collar made $2,000,000 for Whiteley. His antagonist, Benjamin H. Warder, was filled with admiration for Whiteley's prowess and at once proposed that they should quit fighting and work in harmony.

"Give me the right to make your reaper, and I'll pay you $5 a piece for all I can sell," said Warder.
"It's a bargain," responded Whiteley. And so there arose the first consolidation in the harvester business.

TUMULT IN THE SEA.

Terrific Force of a Marine Upheaval Off Cape Horn.

A sailing ship rounding Cape Horn was caught in a dead calm, something almost unprecedented in that stormy latitude. The sky was blimp with a light haze, and the sea was flat and lead colored. About 10 o'clock on the morning of the second day the ship began to shake violently, the masts whipped and bent like fish poles, and everything movable above and below came down with a clatter. It was like striking a rock, only the shock was less pronounced at first, but increased in violence during the thirty seconds it lasted. The sea heaved in oily swells with a strange, hoarse murmur, and it continued to be agitated after the tremors ceased.

Half an hour later fish by the thousands began to rise to the surface until it was covered with them. Forty-seven whales were counted, many cowfish fully eight feet across, sharks without number and seals by the hundreds. They were evidently stunned with the force of some terrific marine upheaval, and when struck with a pole by one of the sailors showed only faint signs of life. In twenty minutes after the first fish arose to the surface they began to drop out of sight like pieces of lead. Whether they were stunned and, on recovering, immediately dived beneath the waves in a panic, seeking safety in the depths, or whether they died from the shock and, instead of floating as dead fish do, were drawn under by some submarine whirlpool, were scientific questions too deep for the skipper, but half a dozen of the smaller fish hauled aboard by the cook for dinner were quite dead when examined. The calm continued twenty-four hours longer before the ocean resumed its usual aspect and a wind from the southeast permitted the ship to continue its course.—New York Press.

Behind the Times.

Four artillerymen were looking around the picture gallery in the Metropolitan museum the other day, but they did not seem particularly interested. When they got to Meissonier's "Friedland—1807" two of them, one a sergeant, paused for a second look. The sergeant went close to the canvas and gazed intently at the Old Guard in the background.

"Those guys are carrying old fashioned Springfield rifles," was the only comment he made.—New York Sun.

The Boiler's Reasons.

Mother—Don't tease me, Johnnie. Can't you see I'm in a lot of trouble? The boiler has sprung a leak. Johnnie—What makes it leak? Mother—Because it's my day at home, your father has asked two men to dinner, the cook has left, and the butcher hasn't come with the meat. Now run and play.—Brooklyn Life.

A Big Difference.

Mrs. Crinsonbeak—See how nicely that team of horses go along. Why can't man and wife trot along pleasantly together like that? Mr. Crinsonbeak—Well, you see, there is only one tongue between those two horses.—Yonkers Statesman.

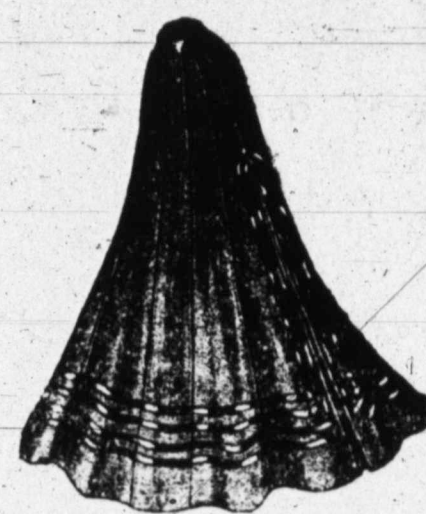

Fundamentally there is no such thing as private action. All actions are public in themselves or in their consequences.—Bovee.

MORE TAX TALK

Special to the Times.
Fort Worth, Tex., Sept. 30.—The Texas Commercial Secretaries' Association gives out the following general information in regard to property values and taxation:

The commercial value of property in Texas is estimated at $5,900,000,000, distributed as follows:

Agriculture	$2,600,000,000
Town and city	1,900,000,000
Public Service Corporations	500,000,000
Other Property	900,000,000

Total $5,000,000,000
Of this property about $200,000,000 is exempt from taxation. All church, school, asylums, etc., State, county, municipal property; growing crops; farm products in the hands of the producer; household furniture to the value of $250 for each household is exempt from taxation.

Our property divides in percentages as follows:
Agriculture.....54 per cent
Town and City.....21 per cent
Public service corporations, 10 per cent
Other property.....15 per cent

The commercial value of property is higher than that usually rendered for taxation, and it is estimated that an average of 60 per cent of the value of property was rendered for assessment this year. The property rendered for taxes was about as follows:

Agriculture.....$1,069,300,000
Town and city.....413,000,000

Natural increase in property values	3 1/2c
Increase in receipts from other tax sources, such as gross receipts, etc.	1 1/2c
Decrease in government expenses	2 1/2c
Full rendition	1 1/2c

State, general revenue.....$ 4,000,000
State, school.....4,000,000
Counties.....9,000,000
Cities.....10,000,000

PIGEONS UPSETS TOWN CLOCK TIME

Alton, Ill., Sept. 26.—The mystery of the two-faced clock of Alton has been solved, but for a long time the residents of Alton wondered just what sort of strange, unheard-of influence was responsible for the fact that the north side of the clock on St. Mary's church was always twenty-five minutes faster than the south side.

This was more puzzling from the fact that the hands on both clocks were worked by the same mechanism. There wasn't anything the matter with the works. An expert sent to examine the clock settled that point beyond a doubt. Yet there continued to be a difference of twenty-five minutes in time between the section of Alton north of the church and the district south of it.

Father J. J. Mecktl, pastor of the church, has the true Alton spirit of research. He kept a watch on the clock.

The first thing he noticed was that the glass on the north dial was broken, the right half being shattered and the left half still intact.

By reason of this the minute hand was under glass on its up trip around the dial, but was exposed on its downward journey.

Not until sunset did the pastor reach a solution of the mystery. He saw a big, fat pigeon alight on the church gable. It was 5:40. The hand was moving up. Patiently the pigeon sat there until 6:05, the exact time at which the hand was free of the portion of the glass casing which remained.

Sliding racefully to the tower, the pigeon alighted on the hand. He remained there until 6:25, when he was forced to leave his roost, as the hand again passed under the glass. There he sat until 7:05 when he again lit on the hand.

It was clear to the pastor. For twenty minutes on its passage around the dial the downward movement of the hand was increased by the weight of the pigeon. This caused the difference in time. Apparently the pigeon flew to the hand at the intervals of forty minutes all through the night, the total variation which it caused being twenty-five minutes a day.

A few glass was put in, and that night the pigeon roosted on the gable, and now the clock, though still two-faced, is as truthful as it could be expected to be in Alton.

Railroad Commission Gets After the Katy Road.

Gainesville Messenger.
Some time since a prominent citizen of this city publicly protested against the way the M. K. and T. Railway company compelled white people to occupy the same waiting room as negroes and wrote to the railroad commission about it. The commissioners immediately took action in the matter and wrote to General Manager Allen of the M. K. and T., and after stating the cause of the communication, called the railroad's attention to the matter and ordered that they remove this cause for objection at once, which, of course, means that some steps to remedy the present state of affairs will be taken at once.

Although this is something that should have been done long ago, still it is an improvement the people of Gainesville will appreciate when it does become a reality.

ON TO THE ORIENT.

Stillwell Road Will Be Hooked With Denver By Middle of Week.

Official advices from Chillicothe are to the effect that the Orient road now has its tracks into Chillicothe and that the transfer tracks between the Denver and the Orient will be laid by Wednesday or Thursday. This means a new route to Kansas City for those who were to patronize it. The same rates will prevail via this route—the Denver to Chillicothe, thence over the Orient to Kansas City—as prevail on the other lines. The question of through passenger service over this new route is a matter that has not yet been discussed.

The northern terminus of the south end of the Orient is now on the north bank of the Pease river. The southern terminus of the north end of the same road will be pushed to this river with all possible speed, and it is believed that within another six weeks or two months the Orient will be operating through from Kansas City to Sweetwater and that by Feb. 1st the trains will be operated through to San Angelo.—Fort. Worth Telegram.

Swine Supply Threatened.

General Freight Agent Sterley of the Denver road sounded a warning in the Telegram the other day that ought to be heeded while there is yet time. Mr. Sterley says the present high prices in Fort Worth for hogs is having a tendency to deplete the breeding swineherds in this State.

The old story of killing the goose that lays the golden egg points the moral that should prevent such a condition from coming to pass.

Hogs are bringing high prices now because the demand is greater than the supply. By cutting down the source of the supply where will the hogless hog raiser profit, even should hogs go to $1 a pound?

In shipping hogs to market ship the marketable hogs only. Save your young breeding sows. Raise more hogs.

If the hog raisers of Texas don't permit the penny in sight to hide from view the pounds of the future there will be money in hogs in Texas for the next two or three generations anyway. This is a good time to send hogs in condition to kill to market.—But this is not, nor will the time likely come in many years when young brood sows should be sent to slaughter.—Fort Worth Telegram.

The Sisters of St. Mary yesterday sent to a local real estate office a dozen or more ears of squaw corn, raised on the Academy grounds this season.

Tea as a Panacea.

In its early days in England a wide range of curative virtues was claimed for tea. In the Mercurius Politicus of Sept. 30, 1658, appears a marvelous advertisement extolling the virtues of "that excellent and by all physicians approved China drink called tcha and tay alias tee." And there is in the British museum a broad sheet issued by the founder of Garraway's in which its "particular virtues" are displayed at length. Among many other things, it "helpeth the headache, removeth the obstructions of the spleen, cleareth the sight and purifieth adult humors and a hot liver. It prevents and cures agues, surfeits and fevers, prevents consumptions, is good for colds, dropsies and scurvy and expelleth infection." No wonder that it "hath been sold for £10 the pound weight."—Westminster Gazette.

Mme. de Stael.

Bonaparte said France was not large enough for himself and Mme. de Stael at the same time and exiled her. Next to Bonaparte she was, through her salons, the most powerful personage in the country in her time. "If I were empress of the world," exclaimed the brilliant Mme. de Tessa, "I would command Mme. de Stael to talk to me forever."

Preacher Pounded.

The home of Rev. R. E. Farley was the scene of much merriment for a short time last evening. At about 8:30 p. m. a merry group of about forty of the members of the First M. E. church gathered at the parsonage and sang "Let a Little Sunshine In," after which the doors were opened and the group marched and such a pounding as that minister and his family did get. They stood the violence, however, and everyone went away happy, in the thought that a good deed had been done.

The Echo.

Small boy David was from the city while visiting in the country he was one evening driving along the river bank, when an echo was heard, the voices in the valley below which produced it being scarcely distinguishable. After listening some time and being told that the sound he heard was an echo, he turned to his mother and said: "Mamma, what is an echo?" His mother tried to explain at some length, though she felt that her explanation was not being followed. Suddenly David broke in: "Oh, I know all about it!" he exclaimed. His Enforced Trip.

One New York matron was discussing with another New York matron the misfortune which she considered had befallen the husband of a third New York matron.

"You see," she said, "he went down to the steamer with a friend who was going abroad and became so interested talking in the friend's cabin that he never noticed the warning whistle, and the steamer sailed with him on board. However, he sent a wireless to his wife so she wouldn't worry. I dare say he's been kicking himself about the ship ever since."

"Perhaps—and perhaps not," replied the second matron. "The fact is, he told my husband in confidence ten days ago that he intended to be carried off to Europe 'accidentally,' because it was the only way he could go without taking his wife along. But, for heaven's sake, don't mention the matter, my dear, because he told my husband in the strictest confidence."

Weather Forecasts.

The first attempt at scientific forecasting of the weather was the result of a storm which during the Crimean war, Nov. 14, 1854, almost destroyed the fleets of France and England. As a storm had raged several days earlier in France, Vaillat, the French minister of war, directed that investigations be made to see if the two storms were the same and if the progress of the disturbances could have been foretold. It was demonstrated that the two were in reality one storm and that its path could have been ascertained and the fleet forewarned in ample time to reach safety.
