WICHITA FALLS, TEXAS, FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 27, 1908

NUMBER 172

WANT U. S. TO CONTROL HAITI

BRITISHERS THINK AMERICANS SHOULD RESTORE ORDER IN NEGRO REPUBLIC.

SELF GOVERNMENT FAILS

Anarchy and Bloodshed Reigns Thruout the Island and People Live
in Terror.

By Associated Press.
Port au Prince, Nov. 27.—General Leconte, who was reported to have been killed by the revolutionists, reached here today. He got away in a prowboat with four officers and two sailors, and after being at sea for three days without provisions, finally succeeded in reaching Petit Grove.
The general declares that the reports that three men were put to death at Jeremie by his orders were unfounded.

By Associated Press.
Paris, France, Nov. 27.—News received from Port au Prince says that Generals Firmin and Foucard, two of the revolutionary leaders, have taken the field. It is stated that the government regards the situation as critical.

The United States Should Intervene.
By Associated Press.
London, Eng., Nov. 27.—The Daily
Mail, in an editorial this morning, says
"It would be an immense gain to civilization were the United States to intervene and remind the negro people
that a people who are unable to profit
by independence and use it rightly must submit to the control of stronger and wiser races. The Haitian population deserves to be saved from its murderous politicians."

BENEFIT FROM OUTING.

Bryan Says He Will Continue Advocacy of Principles of Campaign.
Special to the Times.
Monterey, Mex., Nov. 27.—W. J.
Bryan, who is now in a hunting camp
near here, gave out to the Texas News Service correspondent today that while his future plans were not definitely outlined, that he will continue to write and speak for the principles he advocated in the recent campaign.
He said he will make no stop at any North Texas town on his return, but will spend a few days at Corpus Christi, Austin and Galveston.
He is much benefited by his outing.

HON. SILAS HARE DEAD.

Soldier, Lawyer and Former Congressman Dead in Washington.
By Associated Press.
Washington, D. C., Nov. 27.—The funeral was held here today of former Representative Silas Hare, Texas and Mexican war veteran and distinguished as a judge and a lawyer, who died in this city yesterday. The interment will be held at Sherman, Texas.
Judge Hare was 81 years old and was appointed chief justice of New Mexico in 1860, resigning to accept a commission as captain in the Confederate army. He served in the Fiftieth and Fifty-first congresses.

TAFT'S POSITION IS COMMENDED.

President Elect Receives Many Letters
Approving Tariff Revision Policy.
By Associated Press.
Hot Springs, Va., Nov. 27.—President-elect Taft's announced position in favor of a thorough tariff revision is being approved in correspondence which is developing to the extent of more than a hundred letters a day.
Taft's determination in this respect continues and the trend of the recently expressed sentiment is most satisfactory to him.

Industrial School Flourishing.

Special to the Times.
Austin, Tex., Nov. 27.—The annual report of the Girls' Industrial School
at Denton, submitted today, shows that it is in a flourishing condition. In addition to raising the maintenance money, $50,000 is asked for the next two years, and $180,000 is asked to erect a dormitory and other buildings.

WILL MAKE HARD FIGHT.

Anti-Prohibition Committee Will Meet
in Dallas Tomorrow.
Special to the Times.
Houston, Tex., Nov. 27.—Jake Wolters, head of the Texas Anti-Prohibition movement, today declared that no plan of action had been outlined for the meeting of the executive committee in Dallas tomorrow. He says that a determined fight against a dry State will be waged and that the details of the campaign will be mapped out at the Dallas conference, but no plans are known now. Wolters said he was confident that the legislature will vote
anti on all the prohibition propositions.

Today's Incorporations.

Special to the Times.
Austin, Tex., Nov. 27.—The Irving
State Bank of Irving, Dallas county,
with a capital of $10,000.
Other charters issued today were as follows: Panhandle Packing Co., of Amarillo; capital $150,000. Mr. Butts
of Kansas City and Sanborn and Nelson are the incorporators.
A permit to do business in Texas
was granted to the El Paso Grain and Milling Company, with a capital of $250,000.

Fire Engine Damaged in Collision.

Galveston, Tex., Nov. 27.—The new $5,000 fire engine was almost ruined today when it collided with a street car.
The motorman failed to cut off the current in time to prevent the accident.

UNION AMENDMENTS HAVE CARRIED

Special to the Times.
Fort Worth, Tex., Nov. 27.—At the Farmers' Union headquarters it was announced today that all of the nine amendments submitted to the members
throughout the State recently, carried by an overwhelming majority. The most important of the new measures is one which forbids infidels from becoming members, another prohibiting any but bona fide farmers joining the union
and enjoins all bankers, lawyers, merchants and preachers from entering the union.
President Neill's salary is increased
and the establishment of a State grading school here decided upon.

RECEIVER APPOINTED.

News-Scimitar Publishing Co. Unable
to Meet Interest on Bonds.
By Associated Press.
Memphis, Tenn., Nov. 27.—On the application of certain bondholders,
Judge Walter Malone, in the chancery
court here, today appointed A. C. Floyd receiver for the News-Scimitar Publishing Company. The paper will continue publication as heretofore under the direction of the receiver. Floyd for a number of years was editor of the Morning News, which was merged into the Scimitar about two years ago.
Floyd at present holds the position of judge in the city court.

LIVE STOCK QUARANTINE AGAINST MARYLAND.

By Associated Press.
Washington, D. C., Nov. 27.—The department of agriculture today ordered a quarantine against the entire State of Maryland, so far as cattle and sheep
are concerned, on account of the appearance there of foot and mouth diseases.

List of Grand Jurors.

The December term of the Wichita county district court will convene on the first Monday in December, the 7th day. Following is a list of the grand jurors: T. H. Barwise, J. W.
Carter, J. R. Carrico, C. H. Clark, S. L.
Denny, L. P. Douglas, A. F. Dodson,
C. O. Quanstrom, G. Heiserman, G. H.

erts, V. G. Skeen.

SANITARIUM BURNS AT ABILENE

Special to the Times.
Abilene, Tex., Nov. 27.—Fire early
this morning destroyed the sanitarium
of Dr. and Mrs. S. R. Gates. The loss is $15,000 and there was no insurance.
The fire was of incendiary origin.
The owners and patients narrowly escaped with their lives. A thousand dollars reward is offered for the arrest of the fire bug.

THEY BAGGED 2 WILD TURKEYS

HUNTING PARTY RETURNS FROM ARCHER COUNTY AFTER A SUCCESSFUL TRIP.

OVER 200 QUAIL KILLED

L. R. Smythe the Lucky Nimrod Who Brought Down Two of the Wild Turkeys.

J. H. Barnett, M. A. Marcus and L. R.
Smythe of this city and W. R. Ramsey of Sedalia, Mo., returned Wednesday
from a three days hunting trip in Archer county.
They report a very fine time and from the number of birds brought home, they certainly made a killing.
In all they captured 220 birds, among which were two wild turkeys and one wild goose.
Mr. Smythe carried off the honors for the turkeys, and Mr. Ramsey the goose. Mr. Barnett demonstrated his ability to shoot quail and with the assistance of his fine, well-bred dogs had no trouble in making his score. Last, but not least, M. A. Marcus was there with the goods (not Schiltz) and did some very fine work. His experience as a hunter and reputation for shooting quail, was fully demonstrated.
In fact, this was one of the most successful hunting trips of the season.
ONE WHO KNOWS.

Heavy Snow Forecast in Panhandle.

Special to the Times.
Amarillo, Tex., Nov. 27.—Farmers
and stockmen are rejoicing over the rain, sleet and snow which visited this section today. The moisture was needed badly to finish wheat sowing and to bring up the grain already planted.
The drop in temperature promises a heavy snow.

THE BOOSTER COLUMN.

Dr. R. L. Miller brings encouraging news from San Antonio relative to the movement to establish a hospital in Wichita Falls. The secretary, acting on the grounds that two lions in the fire are better than one, sent out a news article covering the opportunities for a hospital at Wichita Falls and pointing out the assistance which would be given by the Chamber of Commerce for the establishment of such an institution here. One of the articles went to the National Hospital Record of Detroit, the answer to which is the following:
Detroit, Mich., Nov. 23, 1908.—F. H.
Gohlke, Esq., secretary Chamber of Commerce, Wichita Falls, Texas: Dear Sir:—Permit me to thank you for your recent favor regarding the plan to establish a hospital in your city. We will be glad to make use of this, and will also appreciate any further information you may be able to send us
from time to time. Very truly yours, DELL T. SUTTON.

It is reported that a goodly number of prospectors are stopping off at Wichita Falls and that also a number of representatives from other counties are making headquarters here trying to secure prospectors for their section.
While this may not be agreeable to local parties the fact that every settler
located in adjoining counties contributes some benefit to this city should be a source of consolation. Wichita Falls wants to be a railroad, commercial and distributing center and the more it is recognized as such the better it is in the long run for all concerned.

The plan of refunding fares to purchasers from outlying railroad points,
after being worked up to a point which seemed practical, was dropped owing to some features of possible disadvantage. There is still enough merit in the plan to evolve some substitute, one
to advertise the importance of the city
as a commercial center at a minimum expense to all merchants being probably the most desirable. The large mail order houses are securing money which might just as well come to Wichita Falls if some effort was made to attract this trade. The merchants have many things in common to get closer together on without combining to operate against the purchasing public, but on the contrary be of benefit to buyers as well as themselves.

It is gratifying to the Chamber of Commerce that Mr. J. H. Vreeland of Bartlettville, Okla., who recently purchased the corner at Eighth street and 1724 1/2 Indiana avenue, gives credit to his believer printed on all edged paper.

SELECTING A JURY TO TRY CROWELL

CASE CALLED IN CLAY COUNTY
DISTRICT COURT YESTER-DAY AFTERNOON.

BOTH SIDES WERE READY

And Men Who Are There to Determine
the Guilt or Innocence of the Defendant Being Chosen.

Special to the Times.
Henrietta, Tex., Nov. 27.—The case of M. J. Crowell, under indictment for murder, charged with the killing of his wife several weeks ago at their home
about seven miles from Wichita Falls,
was called in the Clay county district court yesterday and both the State and the defense announced that they were ready for trial. The task of selecting a jury from the special venire
began yesterday and continues today.
A large number of witnesses have been summoned by both sides and the case will be followed with great interest.

coming-attracted to this city through the medium of the exhibit at Oklahoma City. Mr. Vreeland stated to a prominent merchant that the exhibit carried conviction with it; that while it was not as extensive it was comprehensive and lacked any indication of being padded. The map showing the location of Wichita Falls and its railroads added strength to the arguments presented by Mr. Young, who was in charge.

The pamphlet, "Progress of a Progressive City," is carrying good advan-taging in its distribution. At the request of the Fraser-Johnston Brick Co.,
of Dallas the secretary forwarded fifty pamphlets to that firm for distribution. In the following letter the firm takes occasion to compliment the city of Wichita Falls, the pamphlet, and incidentally mentioning themselves.
However, there being virtue in the touting of one's own town, they are welcome to secure what they can out
of it:

Dallas, Tex., Nov. 19, 1908.—Secretary Chamber of Commerce, Wichita Falls, Texas. Dear Sir:—We are in receipt of copy of "Progress of a Progressive City," and you are certainly to be complimented on the manner in which Wichita Falls, to our mind one of the very best towns in the South, is treated.
We have had the pleasure of furnishing
the face brick on the new opera
house, city hall, postoffice building, Cohen building, and Wyatt building
now under construction.
If you care to ship us forty or fifty copies of this book we will be pleased to send them out where we think they will do the most good. Yours truly,
FRASER-JOHNSTON BRICK CO.

Wichita Falls, Tex., Nov. 21, 1908.—
Fraser-Johnston Brick Co., 416 Wilson
Building, Dallas, Texas. Gentlemen:—
Replying to your favor of the 19th, beg to advise that I will forward you by express prepaid fifty copies of the booklet entitled "Progress of a Progressive City."
I am glad to know that it is a worthy publication and hope your distribution will redound to our benefit. Yours
very truly,
F. H. GOHLKE, Secretary.

Permission has been secured from the general passenger agent of the Katy at St. Louis to place a glass covered grain map of the Wichita Falls country in their ticket office. If these maps could be placed in prominent offices in several of the cities in the Northern States and a supply of small folders be handy for interested parties,
much good advertising would result at little expense after the original cost of acting them up. If the finances of the organization allow this expenditure the secretary will recommend it.

Inquiries to the Chamber of Commerce are increasing in volume. Paid space has been decreased gradually and at this time amounts to only one-half inch ads in two weekly publications. Systematic exploitation and securing as much comment as possible
in newspapers and journals builds up correspondence. News printed matter,
however brief, will be sent at intervals
to the inquiries on file. That which is most convincing is when progress can be shown over previous data and the point dwelt upon. If there are fifty business blocks, cottages and residences under construction, a cut including illustrations of all of them is extra attractive. It spells "something doing" and something doing is a much better argument to back up resources
than the most alluring future prospects
ever printed on all edged paper.

GAME HARD FOUGHT.

Wichita Falls High School Lads Defeated After Plucky Contest.
William Huff and James Elliott came home last night from Childress, where they witnessed the football game yesterday afternoon between the Childress
Y. M. C. A. team and the Wichita Falls high school eleven. Although the locals were defeated by a score of 11 to 6 word is brought back that they acquitted themselves admirably.
The locals were outweighed more than ten pounds to the man and the Childress players depended almost entirely on straight line charges to make their gains. The locals made their gains by a series of fast end runs
and forward passes.
The playing of the two Barneses, one at right half back and the other at tackle were easily the prettiest features of the game.
Last night the Wichita Falls players and visitors were guests of honor at a banquet at the Y. M. C. A. headquarters. After the banquet, the team took the train for Vernon, where they will meet the Vernon high school this afternoon if bad weather does not prevent the game.

Second Team Defeated at Henrietta.
The second team of the Wichita Falls high school football team was defeated at Henrietta yesterday afternoon by a score of 11 to 10. Although they were heavily outweighed, the Wichita Falls team made a plucky fight and held their opponents even throughout the contest.

TWO KILLED WHEN ENGINE EXPLODED

By Associated Press.
Parsons, Kan., Nov. 27.—Two men
are dead and another is expected to die as the result of the explosion of a Missouri, Kansas and Texas freight engine near Idenbro, Kansas, today. The dead are Engineer Melville and Fireman Wulf of Dallas, Texas. Brakeman
Roe was probably fatally injured.
Engineer Melville's body was horribly mangled and Wulf's body was carried more than three hundred feet from the track. The engine, a mogul,
was turned out of the shops yesterday
after an overhauling.

Mother of Man Sentenced to Death Falls Dead.

By Associated Press.
Cleveland, Ohio, Nov. 27.—Mrs. Barbara Billek, the mother of Herman Bil-
leik, under death sentence at Chicago, died at her home here today. She had been suffering from heart trouble and dropsy for several months, and while reading a letter from her son Wednesday she fell into a faint and was only revived after several hours unconsciousness.

Gun Burns Near McKinney.

Special to the Times.
McKinney, Tex., Nov. 27.—The Thompson gun, one of the largest in North Texas, was destroyed by fire today with sixteen bales of cotton. The loss will reach about $10,000. The insurance is small. The origin of the fire is not known.

Fatal Shooting at Ennis.

Special to the Times.
Waxahatchie, Tex., Nov. 27.—Mace Cox, charged with the shooting and killing of A. C. Page at Ennis last night was brought here today and jailed. Cox was brought before the grand jury this morning, but refused to make a statement. Page was shot through the head.

The Wound Proved Fatal.

Special to the Times.
Dallas, Tex., Nov. 27.—Charles Collier of Irving, a prominent Woodman, died late last night. He was struck on the head during the State fair and had been practically unconscious ever since. The assailant is unknown. The officers are investigating.

HITCHCOCK GETS A CABINET JOB

By Associated Press.

TEMPERATURE DROPPING

High Winds Cause Damage to Buildings in Titus and Lamar Counties.

The cold disagreeable rain which has been falling all day will be a great boon to the fall wheat, which had begun to suffer greatly from the long drouth.
Reports indicate that the rain has been general over North Texas.
A telegram received here this afternoon from Amarillo stated that the rain was turning to sleet at that place
and a big drop in the temperature was expected.

Rainfall is General.

Special to the Times.
Fort Worth, Tex., Nov. 27.—The temperature has fallen fifteen degrees
since night and reports from North Texas say rains, a cold wave and heavy winds are prevailing in some localities, but that no great losses have been reported.

Heavy Rains at Paris.

Special to the Times.
Paris, Tex., Nov. 27.—A heavy rain
is falling in Lamar and adjoining counties today. Cold weather prevails. A strong wind has caused some slight damage to property.

Buildings Wrecked at Mt. Pleasant.

Mt. Pleasant, Tex., Nov. 27.—A heavy wind storm this morning at Naples, fifteen miles north of here, wrecked many small buildings. The Commercial mill sheds were blown down and the residence of Frits Boyd
blown from its foundations and ruined.
Store fronts were damaged. There were no serious injuries.

ANOTHER IDOL SMASHED

By Joe Sappington.

I used to be more devoted to Santa Claus than I was to my own parents and would have done anything in my power for him or the reindeer he owned; but today he is my enemy. I know that Santa Claus is a very old man, and ordinarily I respect old age, but if I ever meet him face to face I am going to pull his old sanctimonious whiskers and tell him what I think of him. I am going to ask him if he thinks the mole of my head has never grown up and still pulsates and throbs like a sore toe, and is filled with sawdust. I am dying to meet him, so I can tell him to his face of some of the mean tricks he played on me when I was a small boy. I want to ask him if he remembers a certain little boy away back in the '70s who wore a linsey lined jeans coat, brass toed shoes, a wool hat, a stubbed toe and a few other clothes. I want to look him straight in the eye and say to him in the most dramatic manner: "Santa Claus, that male child was I!" I want to grasp his patriarchal whiskers firmly in my right hand and squall in his ear that it was I, when a small boy, who just before Christmas sawed wood until I would take the thumps, carry wood and water for mother until I became bowlegged, washed my face and combed my hair of cold mornings, and told the truth under the most trying circumstances, because I had been told that good old Santa Claus always remembered such noble deeds and would on Christmas Eve night ram, cram and jam my socks full of everything that smelled good, tasted sweet and made a noise. Then I am going to ask him if he remembers the job lot of tin toys that he paid me off in for nine long years. I want to give his old beard an extra jerk when I ask him if he remembers that far-off Christmas Eve night that he bursted a good home knit sock of mine by ramming a five-pound yam potato in it. I want to ask him if he remembers that cock-eyed prehistoric jumping' jack with the rheumatic hip joint and worth about 9 cents a gross that he bestowed upon me one Christmas in payment for the sawing of seven cords of wood, shelling twenty bushels of corn and washing dishes for mother a whole week.

If I ever do meet Santa Claus I am going to accuse him of the grossest partiality. I am going to ask him in a vehement manner why he stuffed the socks of rich men's boys with everything from a parched goober up to a ten pound firecracker, while he always dumped into my home knit socks nothing of greater value than a one-eyed tin ram minus one leg, or a pewter elephant with its tail out of plumb and a cast iron camel on a white soft pine wagon with two wheels gone.

I want to hiss into Santy's ear that he no longer gazed upon the sad-mild-eyed, penniless boy of other days, but his eyes are now focused upon ME, a grown up man with a bald head, who has a family and other unincumbered personal property.

Santa Claus not only treated me in a shabby manner when I was a guileless boy, but he has continued to play me mean tricks ever since. He never put anything in my sock in his life that was worth a "cuss."

He has kept up with all the physical changes that have taken place with me since I was born and has bestowed his favors accordingly. He has failed on a Christmas in the last twenty years to stuff one of my socks with a hair lipped mustache cup that is invariably inscribed in big capital letters, "REMEMBER ME." I would rather have a dynamite bomb or a squash rammed in my sock any time than a mustache cup rammed into it.

Santa Claus not only looks after the sanitary condition of my whiskers, but since the hair on my head has abandoned the old family roof tree and strayed off after strange gods, he has begun to manifest the same fatherly interest in my head.

I never spoke a word to my family that night as we returned home. I had not uttered a sound since the wig and night cap had been called out at the Christmas tree—I was too full for utterance.

I spent a restless night and dreamed that I had been tried, convicted and sentenced to be hanged for killing a church full of people who had tried to force me to wear a wig and a night gown that had a tail to it five feet long. The next morning when I arose the first thing I saw were my socks on the feet of my bed stuffed to their utmost capacity with something. On investigation I found the wig and night cap in one sock, and in the other I found a mustache cup that held about a quart, and inscribed as usual, "Remember Me." While examining the contents of my socks, I heard the door of my room quietly turn on its hinges, and simultaneously I heard a low jurgling laugh that I recognized as coming directly from my family—they were still having fun at my expense. I am a slow man to wrath and have a sweet sunny disposition, but my family had carried this affair too far, and at last the worm had turned. I then grabbed the wig and night cap and tore them into shreds, I picked up the mustache cup and dashed it into the very vitals of our cuckoo clock and then seized a chair and turned on the center table and fairly pulverized all of the bric-a-brac that my wife had accumulated since our marriage. I threw all of the bed clothes out of the window and kicked the stove under the bed.

I then dressed and went into the dining room, where my family had assembled at the breakfast table. No one spoke a word to me when I came in. My wife looked daggers at me, but said nothing until I asked the children how they were enjoying Christmas, when she spoke up and said to them: "Children, that is your father, but have nothing to do with the old freak everybody told me before I married that he had no sense, and he has emphasized the correctness of their claim every day since I married him."

Yes, indeed, if I ever meet old Santa Claus there is going to be trouble.

If Ever the Word "Success" could be Rightly Applied to

Clothes for Boys

surely we have earned the right to the word for our lines for this season. Successful from every viewpoint—successful in the admiration they have won from parents, in the satisfaction they give to their little wearers, in the pride they justify in their maker, in the immense amount of business they have brought us, and in the number of new friends we have made. Ivan

Frank is a name to remember. You will find it on the label of the handsomest, best Boys' Clothes ever offered.

This is an enthusiastic statement, but an absolutely true one. We invite you to judge for yourself.

Your Mother-in-law.
Is she an incubator? The old rooster boasted to every fowl in the barnyard that his mother-in-law was an incubator and therefore his married life was happy. Well, I claim to have more manhood about me than anybody's old rooster. As soon as my wife read to me that her mother, my mother-in-law, the grandmother of my children, was coming to spend Christmas with us, I at once made up my mind to put down a new matting in the spare bedroom for the poor old soul, to put a new art square in the front room, to buy a fine mattress (a Sealy, White Swan or Osiermoor—wife can select it) for the dear old thing to sleep on, a new dining table and set of dining chairs.

Where will I get them? Why, everybody in town knows the Jourdan Furniture Company is the place to get the best goods for the least money.

Go to the Jourdan Furniture Co. at once. See? 170-31 w-11

The Petrolia Oil and Gas Field.
The map of this important field that was drafted some years ago has become obsolete and misleading, and County Surveyor Norman has lately been at work on a new one which shall be more reliable as a means of information and comply with the later ascertained facts. Briefly, the new map shows the field considerably drawn in from the north, east and west, where much costly drilling has failed of results, and greatly extended to the southward, where all surface indications are correct for oil and where crude and inadequate drilling tests at separated and distinct points have not in any instance failed as to showings of petroleum. The revision of the map was necessary, as may be the case again as time passes and further development proceeds.—Henrietta Review.

Management

The success of a bank and the safety of the funds intrusted to it depend upon a judicious administration of its affairs.

Every officer of The First National Bank is a practical banker of life-long experience.

Its directors are all well known men selected for their business ability and financial standing.

The strength of this bank lies not alone in its large capital, surplus and resources, but in the character and financial responsibility of the men who conduct its affairs.

Wichita Falls, Texas, Nov. 27th, 1908.

Work is being pushed rapidly on Wichita Falls' new $40,000 opera house and it now begins to look as if the contractors will be ready to turn the building over to the company by December 21st. This will be a nice Christmas present for Wichita Falls. The movement to secure this magnificent playhouse was started at a banquet given by the Chamber of Commerce the first week in January of this year, and even if that was all this organization of business men had accomplished for Wichita Falls, it would be sufficient. But the building of the opera house has not, by any means, been all that has been accomplished directly through this organization. Occasionally some fellow will complain that he can see no good in maintaining the organization, but this is because he does not want to see Wichita Falls, without her Chamber of Commerce, could not possibly have accomplished what she has in the past two or three years, or since it organization. There is no better evidence of this assertion than the fact that city property has increased on an average of about 100 per cent. The Chamber of Commerce has done more towards bringing property values up than all other agencies combined.

Editor Adams of the Petrolia Round UP would have the world know that the Clay County oil field is located near Petrolia and that the names of Byers and Henrietta oil fields are misleading and are assumed only for the purpose of advertising places not having such natural resources, at least in a developed state. The Times hastens to assure Brother Adams that it has never designated the oil field by any other name than the Clay county or Petrolia field and does not seek to derive any advantage to Wichita Falls to which the city is not entitled. Of course, Wichita Falls is the point through which all railroad passengers must pass in order to reach Petrolia and this city will be well satisfied with this distinction, as Petrolia is seen to furnish us with all the natural gas we can use and pay for. Petrolia has a valuable advantage in being located so close to the oil and gas field, and is entitled to all the advertising she can get from that fact.

"Serious trouble is feared at Port Amboy, N. J.," says an Associated Press dispatch, and then goes on to say the cause of the trouble is brought about by the promise made to the Poles and Hungarian laborers before the election that they would get an increase in wages after the election of Taft as president. These laborers are now insisting on the raise and as a result have gone out on a strike, and the State and National governments have been called upon for troops to protect the strike-breakers. Ninety per cent of the strikers can neither read, write nor speak the English language, and a good portion of them are ignorant, yet all of them, no doubt, were allowed to vote and voted the republican ticket. If they are kept on starvation wages, as they claim now, whose fault is it?

Good Pasture.

My pasture is just opened. A variety of crops were raised on it this year. I will pasture horses for $1.00 per month. You need the pasture and I need the money, so bring on your horses while the pasture is good. Five miles east of town.

YOUR TOWN---It's Up To You.

1. Don't sit around and dam your town.
2. A town is just as good as the man who dam's it.
3. Every town is just what its citizens want it to be.
4. A desire on the part of the people for a better town is a prayer that is always answered.
5. The advantages of one town over another are the results of the people, rather than natural conditions.
6. In nearly every town one visits you hear a resident say "Aw" this ain't nothin' but an overgrown country town.
7. Of course if Wichita Falls isn't sporty enough for you, why you can move, that isn't Wichita's fault.
8. If you get too sporty you'll have to move anyway.

Bride Makes Long Journey to Wed.
San Antonio, Tex., Nov. 25.—Traveling over two thousand miles to meet her girlhood sweetheart, when she had not seen in forty years, Mrs. Katherine Schuyler Baxter, 64, reached San Antonio, and was married today to Edward Wentworth, aged 66, a widely known ranchman of Waring, Kendall county.

They were boy and girl together in Oswego, N. Y. And they were sweethearts in those days. She—the Miss Katharine Schuyler—a descendant of the family of General Schuyler of revolutionary fame, married, and young Wentworth also married. Then their ways parted and their careers led them different paths and to different climes. Naturally, for a few years they heard of each other from time to time, but finally there came a space of many years that neither knew of the other in any way. Some ten years ago the husband of Mrs. Baxter died. He was then a banker of Oswego, N. Y., and reputed to be quite wealthy. Before this the wife of Mr. Wentworth had died.

A year ago Mrs. Baxter happened upon a cousin of Mr. Wentworth in New York city. She espied a photograph of her girlhood sweetheart and, securing his address at Waring, wrote him a brief letter. Soon Mr. Wentworth was treasuring in his ranch home a photograph of his girl sweetheart. The correspondence was augmented from time to time and a comparison of notes involving personal attitudes resulted in the verdict on the part of Mrs. Baxter that life on a Texas ranch would not be so bad—no even for a woman who has enjoyed the greatest luxuries of life, touring the globe several times, and accustomed to spending her winters at Honduras. So the compact was made, a few months ago, and Mrs. Baxter agreed to meet her fiance in San Antonio.

DID HUMMEL GET A MILLION?

Story Set Afloat Says He Got That Much for Serving Sentence.
New York, Nov. 23.—Considerable interest has been aroused in the case of Abe Hummel, the New York lawyer, by a story printed here to the effect that Hummel was given a million dollars to act as the scapegoat in the Dodge-Morse divorce case.

Edward M. Bracken, a private detective, makes the allegation that Hummel got a million dollars for serving a year in the penitentiary in connection with this divorce case. Friends of Morse allege that the story told by the detective is a fake and that Hummel never received a cent. Morse is the man who is under fifteen years sentence for irregularities in connection with the national bank. He is now a prisoner in the Tombs awaiting the appeal of the case.

Hummel was released from the penitentiary some months ago and is now living abroad, and it is said will not come back to the United States. It is believed, regardless of denials, that Hummel did receive such a price for taking all the blame in the Dodge-Morse divorce case, and serving out his sentence in the penitentiary.

The quartz lamp is the latest electrical lighting apparatus. It is a mercury vapor lamp with a quartz tube in a glass globe, and resembles an arc lamp in general appearance. It is to be used as a single lamp at 220 volts, and has a rating of 3000 candles, consuming 25 watt per candle power. Its life is given at 1000 hours, and an advantage claimed for it is that it is unnecessary to replace any electrodes.

SHOES

Good Shoes for Women and Children

NOW IS A GOOD TIME TO START WEARING OUR SHOES

Start wearing our shoes and you will continue wearing them—you will buy pair after pair—you will advise your friends to wear them for one or all of these reasons:

BECAUSE WE FIT FEET COMFORTABLY.
You don't have to beg a friend with smaller or tougher feet to break them in for you.

BECAUSE OUR SHOES ARE STYLISH.
Because you have that agreeable feeling of knowing your feet are correctly and neatly clad. Shoes make or mar "the good appearance."

BECAUSE OUR SHOES ARE DURABLE.
After months of hard service you will look at your shoes and say: "I certainly have my money's worth out of these shoes and they are good yet."

BECAUSE OUR PRICES ARE LOW.
We get the advantage of cash purchasing and not being dependent solely on our Shoe Department for our existence, we are satisfied with a small profit margin.

Perhaps some of these Offerings for Women and Children may interest you—Read and see.

A Handkerchief Sale.

Time to buy Christmas Handkerchiefs at Low Prices.

Most stores look for full profits on every handkerchief sold between now and December 25th, and offer the soiled and mussed "Left over kerchiefs" at special prices after you are supplied.

We reverse the usual policy—some recent and important transactions with a few leading handkerchief importers, who wish to quickly convert goods into cash, bring us a great host of fine handkerchiefs made up expressly for this season Holiday trade, very much under price.

New, snowy white, crisp handkerchiefs without a wrinkle or a finger mark—superiorly good in their fresh daintiness invite your attention because the prices are extremely low and the offering comes exactly at the right time, when holiday handkerchief needs become pressing.

We promise a saving—a very considerable saving on every handkerchief offered at this sale, but give no guarantee that the quantities (liberal as they are) will be large enough to supply all who may attend.

These prices are for Friday, Saturday and Monday, November 27th, 28th and 30. A fine assortment of Ladies' plain and fancy cross bar handkerchiefs well worth 10c, our price during the three days sale only 5c

The Frenchman Looked Innocent.

Some time since, in a Tremont street store in Boston, a nervous little Frenchman brushed against a pretty girl of vase were valued at about $14 and succeeded in getting several more pieces out of it than had gone into its making. The floorwalker led the abashed Parisian aside and politely explained that the broken vase must be paid for. Monsieur fetched a handful of small silver and copper, mostly foreign, from his pocket when he was told the value of the trifle.

"Mon Dieu," cried the Parisian, "70 francs!" At this he took out his bill book and discovered a fifty dollar express draft, which the floorwalker instantly seized upon, to the unspeakable horror of its owner.

After deducting the value of the vase the former handed the man his change and dismissed him with a floorwalker's blessing. The express draft reached the bank in due time, with four others as fraudulent, but the volatile little Frenchman had departed southward with the swallows.—Bohemian Magazine.

Followed Suit.

On the day of the admission of M. Rostand to the French academy the author of "Cyrano" and "L'Aiglon" gave a breakfast to a few of his friends, the guest of honor being Mme. Bernhardt. The actress was dressed in a handsome gown, which had been made expressly for the occasion. At the end of the breakfast she arose and in an impressive manner took a glass, held it high and said, "I drink to the greatest of French dramatists, M. Rostand, and I drink after the Greek manner!" She then poured the contents of her glass over her head and gown.

Two of Rostand's small sons were sitting at a side table wearing new velvet suits, also made for the occasion. In the silence which followed Bernhardt's dramatic tribute the elder of the boys arose and, imitating her manner, said, "I drink to the greatest of poets, my papa, and I also drink in the Greek fashion!" and straightway deluged himself and his small brother with the contents of his glass.

A Smoked Ham Diet.

(Copyright, 1908, by T. C. McClure.)
Bill Scott, as he was familiarly called, was lazy and shiftless.

Like all lazy men, Bill Scott had an appetite. His appetite also had a preference. He loved oysters, chicken, porthouse steak and clam, however, but what he loved above all was smoked ham. He liked it fried or baked or baked, and he could never get enough of it. The only way he could get ham was to steal it, and many of the villagers and farmers objected to his midnight visits to their smokehouses. Among the objectors was the Widow Glenn, who had a farm a mile away. She was also one of those interested in seeking to save Bill from himself. Perhaps she was the only woman in the world who would have thought of combining ham with reform. The idea came to her in a dim, undefined way, but she kept at it until she worked it out. One day after being told by her hired man that he had seen Bill Scott scouting about the smokehouse the evening previous she entered into a little conspiracy. The door was left unlocked, the hired man hidden nearby, and next night as Bill was taking a ham off its roost the door was slammed shut, and he found himself a prisoner. When morning came the widow drove to town to see Mrs. Glenn, and upon her return she visited the house of hams and said to the captive:

"Of course you have nothing to say, except that you were walking in your sleep last night, but now that you are wide awake I have something to say to you. You like smoked ham. I am going to give you all you want of it. Today you will eat it uncooked. Tomorrow you shall have it fried."

A chair and a jug of water were brought in, he was furnished with a knife and the door locked on him, and he proceeded to enjoy himself. He ate and he loafed and he slept. There were twenty smoked hams hanging above him and giving out their delicious odor, and why should he weary his brain trying to solve national problems? He didn't. Next morning the widow appeared and asked him how he would like his ham cooked for breakfast. He said he would take it fried, and he got it that way and a jug of fresh water with it. At noon he had it boiled, and at night it was fried again. The amount was not stinted. There was more ham than he had ever sat down to in his life. The next day and the next it was the same. On the morning of the fourth day however, the prisoner said to his jailer:

"Widder Glenn, if you don't mind I'll have taters and fried eggs for breakfast."

"But I do mind," was her reply. "Here are twenty smoked hams going to waste for the want of eating. You dot on ham. Pitch right in."

"But my wife must be anxious about me, and I want to be going home."

"Your wife knows just where you are and is not at all worried. She hopes you will have your fill of ham."

Bill had raw ham, baked and fried ham, and he should have reveled in the occasion. It is human nature to never be satisfied, and after the fifth day he demanded a radical change of diet, even if only to raw sausage. He had not tasted of the last two meals.

"Oh, but you must go ahead with ham," replied the widow. "You have not quite finished one yet, and there are nineteen others waiting to be eaten. Your second appetite may come back to you any minute."

"I'd like to live on old crusts of bread for a change, ma'am."

"But I couldn't think of it. You are a victor, you know, and I should be ashamed of myself to offer you crusts."

At supper that night Bill begged for raw taters instead of smoked ham. At breakfast next morning he asked to eat potato peelings. The widow was firm.

"Mr. Scott," she replied, "I don't think you are at all grateful. I am furnishing you the nicest and sweetest smoked ham in all Herkimer county, and yet you kick at it."

"But smoked ham for five days, ma'am," he protested.

"But I'm giving you the chance of your lifetime. Think of being surrounded with eighteen and a half hams!"

"Hams and water, ma'am!"

"Yes, but I'm giving you a chance to get acquainted with water—to acquire a taste for it."

Ham on the sixth day, the seventh and the eighth. The widow was bringing more ham when Bill Scott broke down and said:

"I'll sign the temperance pledge, ma'am, and if I don't keep it this time may I be sent to prison for the remainder of my days."

"And about people's chickens and garden stuff, Mr. Scott?"

"May I be struck dead if I ever meddle with them again!"

"And work, Mr. Scott—what about work?"

"I'll work like a nigger. Only try me."

"You have only been shut up eight days, and there's eighteen hams still left," mused the widow. "Can a man reform on two smoked hams?"

"He can, ma'am—he can! Give me a show, and if I disappoint you they may tar and feather me."

And through the aid of smoked ham there was accomplished such a change and reformation in Bill Scott as men had deemed impossible, and today his shortcomings are remembered only as legends. He has worked hard and prospered, and aside from his antipathy for smoked ham there is nothing to distinguish him from the other villagers.

Be Careful About Your Breakfast

This is the season of the year when your blood has to do double duty. It must feed your muscles and brain as usual and must also keep your body warm.

Your breakfast is especially important, for most people can do their best work in the forenoon, if their breakfast has agreed with them.

Buckwheat has for years been a favorite with people who demand the most from their food, people who required lots of energy and strength.

Buckwheat contains more natural heat elements and energy giving materials than most other foods.

RALSTON'S SELF RISING BUCKWHEAT is not only the purest buckwheat you can get, but it contains some very powerful and wholesome leavening, so that all you have to do is to mix and bake—no waiting.

15 Cents per Bag.

Will be closed all day Thanksgiving.

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

The Girl's Room.
If a girl has a bedroom of her own, let it be dainty and pretty, but simple, and teach her as soon as possible, to take care of it herself.

Teach her to make her own bed properly, explaining to her the importance of airing it well, and teach her how to lay the sheets smoothly and the pillows upright and tidy.

Teach her how to dust thoroughly and the proper way to hang up her clothes and care for everything in the most approved manner.

Explain to her why a feather duster should never be used.

By teaching a girl how to properly care for her own room the foundations of a thorough and neat housekeeper will be formed.

The boy also should have a few lessons in bed-making.

If he is taught to hang up his clothes and keep his room neat, it may save an overworked mother time and trouble.

When the girls of the family are made to pick up and tidy after the boys of the family it is apt to cause them to feel rather unjustly treated.

Be Well Dressed.
The woman of good taste always looks well, even though her purse is small, for she knows exactly what dress is appropriate for any and every occasion.

When traveling, her hat is always dark in color and trimmed with wings, not plumes. Her well dressed hair is kept neat by a carefully adjusted hair net.

If the journey is a long one, she chooses a smart silk waist, which will match her suit, and with it she wears dainty, fresh turnovers. She spends extra time in the adjusting of her collar and in securing her waist to her skirt.

Just before arriving she cleanses her face with cold cream, re-adjusts her veil, puts on a fresh turnover, and arrives at her destination looking as trim and fresh as if she were just starting out.

She never wears a picture hat, an elaborate gown, white gloves, jewelry or a shirt waist that is easily crumpled.

Dress Notes for Elderly Women.
From Vogue.

Once a member of the gentler sex has reached her fiftieth year, in order to keep herself young looking and pleasing—few are the women who can resist such results—she must be on the alert to make amends for some of nature's deficits.

Her front hair will be apt to show a decided thinning out, sometimes on both sides of the middle parting, sometimes only one side. Good care, including a light massage, and in some cases a simple scalp food if the hair is very dry, or a mild tonic, should be given nightly.

During the day wear a "postiche," or "front," selected at one of the well known hair establishments. This should not be delayed.

Unless one keeps her hair dressed by this artificial means, so well supplied nowadays, the natural defects from falling hair that spring from age are sure to give one more or less a dowdy appearance.

It is also necessary when wearing a "front" to become used to the new style of arranging one's hair. If a maid is not employed to dress your hair daily, and a wise woman will get her maid to instruct her in the art.

It has always seemed a pitiful excuse to hear a woman of any age say she cannot dress her own hair, and as pitiful to see her determined to live up to that ideal all her days.

Any woman should blush to own that she cannot do for herself what is absolutely essential. When she boasts of her deficiencies, as many do, she exposes herself to well deserved ridicule.

There are many various disfiguring bald spots which only need a little management for a woman to learn to hide. They may come low down on the forehead behind the ears, perhaps, or on top of the head, if not at the nape of the neck.

In dressing the hair, a false braid may be made to cover the spot at the side of the head or the sides of the front hair may be dressed somewhat lower.

A bare spot on the top of the head gives the least trouble because it may be covered easily by the natural or artificial hair.

When the back hair fails to grow around the base of the head that difficulty is not so easily overcome. A fringe of hair may be attached to the back hair dressing of the head, in a manner to be prettily arranged in some cases.

The remedy in some instances is to use the hair above the bareness as a cover, but cutting it a certain length, and then curling the ends. Having the necks of one's bodices cut very high in the back, or having standing collars attached and trimmed with high ruffled lace inside, would answer perfectly in some cases.

Finally, it is a laudable vanity, if vanity it must be called, for every woman to strive to cover the ravages of time with dignity and good taste. No one approves the elderly or old women painting their cheeks, dyeing their hair or trying to have the waists of slinks with their avoidspots against it. But all approve of the elderly woman hiding her defects gracefully.

Polite Society Tells Us.
There are to be no more maids of honor or matrons of honor, but the usual levy of bridesmaids.

The word "attendant" is considered most provincial, so remember that and do not use the word if you are striving to conform to the latest etiquette in such matters.

Bridesmaids should wear picture costumes and hats to better emphasize the bridal costume and not detract from it by wearing gowns of similar styles and materials.

This is a clever idea, too, for all brides are not "budding youths," while bridesmaids are, and their freshness and girlishness are apt to put the bride in a bad light.

A Few Household Suggestions.
It is far healthier to use rugs for the bedroom floors than carpets, for the rugs can easily be removed and cleaned, and cleanliness is essential to one's sleeping apartments.

If you are baking anything and the oven gets too hot, put in a basin of cold water instead of leaving the door open.

Stockings should not be washed in the same water in which you have been washing white clothes, as they are apt to become covered with lint.

When using stale bread for puddings always soak it in cold liquid. Bread that has been soaked in cold milk or water, is light and crumbly, whereas that soaked in hot liquids is heavy.

A mirror should never be hung where it is exposed to the direct rays of the sun or to intense heat of a fire or stove. These conditions have a most disastrous effect on the mercury, and in time will completely spoil the mirror.

When starching children's pinafores add a small piece of sugar to the boiled starch. This will make them iron more easily and leaves a beautiful gloss upon them.

A Cunning Calendar.
I saw a neat little calendar a girl made for 1909 which shows a little Dutch girl bound for America.

The figure of the Dutch girl in her red waist, blue skirt, yellow shoes and white sunbonnet, with a pack of clothes at her feet, is a design stamped upon coarse tan linen. The figures are all embroidered in medium fine silk floss.

The attitude of the child standing on foreign shores, looking toward a light house on America's shore, is very pretty. This canvas was stretched upon cardboard and a second piece of heavy cardboard was glued to the back to hide the raw edges of the art linen.

Later on calendar leaves will be attached and it will be great favorites the coming year and practically any clever design can be used, but the coarse linens in ecru, cream and brown are used for the background effect.

Gas Supply at Lawton.
Another big gas well has just been brought in by the Lawton Natural Gas company, which recently began a new effort toward the development of the fields southeast of the city and it is believed the city is now definitely assured of an ample supply of gas for all purposes for all time to come.

The well which has just been sprung is estimated to be as good or better than the best ever before brought in by the company and promises to strengthen the supply very materially. The flow of gas is strong and steady and seems to be almost inexhaustible.

The company, with new stockholders and new capital, started several weeks ago for an ample development of the present gas field and have arranged to drill five wells in all before stopping. The new gas supply was struck in the first well drilled at a depth of about four hundred and fifty feet.—Lawton Democrat.

Hard to Believe.
It has always been the general impression that strong wind is a bad thing to have about when a fire is raging, but in this iconoclastic age we are no longer surprised to have old ideas overthrown.

It remained for some quick-witted but unknown genius to turn the evils of a heavy wind to good advantage in case of fire. For several weeks a drouth has raged in some sections of Pennsylvania, and the drouth was especially hard at Indiana, in the keystone state.

The drouth was so severe that the city's water supply was exhausted, and when a fire broke out in a row of houses at Isella, a mining suburb, the water pipes were empty and it seemed certain that the entire suburb would be destroyed.

But a quick witted man bethought himself of something, and immediately proceeded to put his idea into practice. He had the water mains connected with the compressed air pumps at the mines and started working as hard as possible. Then the volunteer firemen turned the compressed air upon the fire and literally blew it out.

The damage was confined to the one house in which the fire originated. At any rate (the story told in a dispatch to the Pittsburg Dispatch).

Railroad Temperance Work.
The greatest foe liquor has to fight these days is found in the great industrial railway commerce. Managers of railroads grow more strict each year. There are a great many railroad systems which will not allow an employe to take a drink while on duty, or just before going on duty. Engineers and conductors are employed with regard to their temperate habits. A conductor or engineer who abstains from strong drink, in many sections of the country, get the preferred runs and are continually encouraged. For a time the liquor interests fought this rapid cure for drink, but the vast millions of property involved caused the mad managers to be firm, and today the railroads are making more total abstainers than all the temperance speeches ever made. Commerce is inexorable in its decrees. He who pilots the ship or the locomotive, each carrying wealth in many instances beyond computation, is employed according to the value of the services he can render. Seventy-six captains who sail the vessels of the Hamburg line never touch intoxicants, and one of these draws a salary of $9,000 per annum. The captain knows the Atlantic as the average man knows the way from home to office, and he never has to report the loss of ship or heavy damage to one. Each month he draws $750 for the same work others do for $125 to $175 per month. But he serves the commerce well and his services are in demand. He never has to wait for a ship, nor would he argue one moment for his place, because others want him.

It is the same everywhere. Men who drink ascertain that no matter how honorable and trustworthy they are, those who stay to their posts and never touch intoxicants soon secure the best places. And 'tis not prejudice. In many instances the employing power is in the hands of one who imbibes freely, or if not that, they at least are of opinion all men have a right to choose their habits, so long as following them does no one injustice. It is simply a commercial proposition and one that must ever be solved according to the law of profit and loss. The time was when all men were supposed to drink. But few decades have gone since public men were supposed to get drunk at times, and they were generally reliable in exhibiting their manner of keeping the idea alive. That is of the past and the public men of today do not use intoxicants to a great extent, and many are total abstainers.—Lawton Constitution-Democrat.

DO YOU BELONG

TO THE WANT ADVERTISING

"Four Hundred"

IN THIS CITY?

If you could make a list, in this city, of the four hundred people who make the most effective uses of the want ads, you would have a list of the most alert, thrifty, practical, up to date, prosperous people in town. No other test would so surely include the people who have most to do with the practical things of the city's daily life—who promote its activities—who boost and boom it—who create all about them that optimism which makes for healthful activity in all lines of business. If you belong, already, to the city's "want ad. four hundred," you are prosperous, enthusiastic about life and the business of the day, and are making money. You are in touch with all of the little opportunities to "earn a dollar" (or a hundred dollars) which come to the careful reader and answerer of classified ads, and you turn naturally and quickly to the use of the small ads whenever you want anything, or have anything to sell. As in New York society, the "400" consists of at least a thousand people, so, in this city, the "want ad four hundred" may be stretched into an indefinite number. Perhaps, if you "wake up" promptly, you may become the four hundred and first member of the "want ad 400."

YOU CAN FIND A BUYER FOR EVERY DOLLAR'S WORTH OF REAL ESTATE

WHICH YOU OWN

A reasonable "campaign" of classified advertising will "sell you out" in real estate. No one who is looking for real estate in this city fails to read and consider the real estate ads. Scarcely a sale occurs that is not, in some way, promoted or brought about by a classified ad. Without the influence of the little ads, real estate transactions would be hard to bring about—not because of any fault or flaw in the properties themselves—but because the search for the "right buyers" could not be quickly or effectively made. It would be a slow process—perhaps only occasionally successful.

Walter Stark, former hotel proprietor of Detroit, has for a long time been so anxious to get a "real live skull" for a tobacco box that he finally took the chance one night recently and entered a private burial ground on the outskirts of the city to dig up the skull. He was caught by the grandson of the man whose skull he was in the act of disinterring and sent to jail.

A Legend of Sleepy Hollow!

Do you remember, in reading that delightful story of Washington Irving's—the Author's graphic description of the gastronomic wonders of the Van Tassel kitchens and how the culinary stunts of the fair Katrina appealed to the heart (and stomach) of the hero Ichabod Crain. Among others his description of the Buck Wheat cakes cooked by the lovely Katrina is enough to excite the appetite of any healthy mortal. We have in stock that same quality of Buckwheat Flour, ground by the same old Nickerbocker process in those old fashioned mills up in the Kattskill Mountains and your Mable or Yoesobel can if she tries make as good cakes as Katrina. Get some of this flour at our store and let her prove that modern cookery is not degenerating.
