NUMBER 262

INITIAL MEETING IN NEW QUARTERS WAS A ROUSER

ACTION TAKEN ON THREE IMPORTANT PROPOSITIONS AT CHAMBER OF COMMERCE MEETING.

OVER HUNDRED ATTEND

New Quarters in City-Hall are Filled to Capacity and Good Evening's Work is Done.

- An unanimous decision to proceed with the work of paving the streets.
- Setting April 6th as a general holiday to clean up the city.
- The inauguration of a movement to go after the West Texas Normal School in grim earnest.

These were the three definite accomplishments of the membership meeting of the Chamber of Commerce at its first meeting in the elegant and commodious quarters assigned them in the new city hall building.

Several other matters came up for discussion, among them being a proposal on the part of the cotton brokers located at this point to organize a stock company to build another large compress here as a part of the plan to make this the most important point for the concentration of cotton in Northwest Texas.

At the opening of the meeting, reports of the committees appointed at the last meeting to secure agreements from the property owners affected to pave the streets in the section designated were called for and given. These reports showed that in the aggregate agreements had been signed to pave the streets for more than ninety per cent of the territory included in the proposal.

The reports indicated that in the district outlined agreements had been secured for the paving of all of Seventh street from the Denver station to the alley at the rear of the First National bank with the exception of 211 feet; on Ohio avenue from Seventh to Ninth street except 175 feet; on Indiana avenue, excepting, 275 feet; on Eighth street excepting 25 feet.

Following these reports, Captain Kelley of Gainesville, one of the leading paving contractors of the Southwest, who was present, was called on for a talk.

Captain Kelly congratulated the Chamber of Commerce on the spirit of the citizenship of Wichita Falls. He said that he had come up to see what a good live town looked like and at the solicitation of Mr. Kelly, to give his views on the paving question. He reviewed the history of road and street making, and led up to the conclusion that vitrified brick was the best for the climate and conditions that prevailed here. He said that his preliminary investigations here made him believe that a good, durable pavement could be put down without the necessity of a concrete foundation, the gravel already laid to grade making a foundation that answered practically all the purposes of a concrete base. If a concrete foundation could be dispensed with, he said, the pavement could be laid at a cost of about $1.30 per square yard, a figure materially lower than the cost first estimated at the previous meeting. If a concrete foundation was used, Capt. Kelley estimated the cost at about $2.25 per square yard. In reply to questions asked him, Captain Kelley stated that he did not believe storm sewers would be necessary, as the topographical formation was such that he believed the surface drainage could be distributed so well that each street could take care of its own water without danger of an overflow.

A general discussion of the street paving proposition followed Capt. Kelley's remarks and finally a motion was unanimously adopted that the streets be paved in the district proposed where the property owners agreed to bear their share of the expense.

Following this disposition of the street paving matter the question of a general clean-up day was discussed.

B. J. Bean led in the discussion and his proposal to request the mayor to proclaim a holiday and request all business houses to close on that day and everybody to join in a general clean-up, was adopted in the form of a motion and April 6th designated as Clean-Up Day.

A committee composed of B. J. Bean, Myles O'Reilly and J. T. Montgomery was appointed to have charge of the clean-up day organization.

Whether Wichita Falls should make an effort to secure the location of the West Texas Normal school, for which an appropriation has been made by the legislature, was the next question placed before the meeting.

Judge Scurry reported that the legislature had made provision for a normal school to be located west of the 98th meridian, and that the site would be selected by a commission, which would receive offers of ground for the site, a bonus in the shape of buildings or cash, etc. He stated that Amarillo, Stamford and Abilene were preparing to offer substantial inducements, and that Wichita Falls must make an earnest effort if she expected to win against these competitors.

After thoroughly discussing the question, a motion prevailed that it was the sense of the Chamber of Commerce that the location of the normal would be a good thing for Wichita Falls; that an effort be made to secure its location; that a committee be appointed to meet the location commission and lay a proposal before them, and that the Chamber of Commerce and the citizens of Wichita Falls stand back of the committee to make good any proposal they saw fit to make.

The attitude of the Chamber of Commerce was fittingly expressed when, in reply to a question as to how much the committee ought to offer the commission, Mr. Frank Kell said: "Offer them what you think is necessary to land the institution."

A committee comprised of Judge Scurry, J. T. Montgomery, Judge Carrigan, N. Henderson and T. R. T. Orin was appointed to confer with the commission which is to locate the normal. R. P. Webb, of the firm of the Whaley-Webb cotton brokerage firm, in behalf of the cotton brokers who make this a point for the concentration of local cotton, stated that the wharfage at the local compress was not sufficiently large to accommodate the cotton concentrated here; that the capacity of the press was not great enough, and that regulations had been put into effect which were inimical to the interests of the cotton buyers.

He stated that there was a movement on foot among the brokers to organize a stock company to build and operate a large compress here, provided about $10,000 in stock would be subscribed outside of the brokers. He said that with a good crop fully 100,000 bales would be concentrated here if sufficient compress capacity could be had.

It was taken as the sense of the meeting that the proposition was one of much importance and that the brokers be requested to put their proposition into definite form and present it before the next meeting of the Chamber of Commerce.

COOPER CASE TO JURY ON MONDAY

By Associated Press. Nashville, Tenn., Mar. 12.—When the trial of the Coopers and Sharp for the murder of Senator Carmack was resumed today Judge Hart announced to the attorneys that he would not complete his charge before Monday afternoon. This delay was due to the failure of the attorneys on both sides to submit instructions. This means that there will be no verdict before Monday night or Tuesday.

Judge Anderson then resumed his argument, with promises not to weary the jurors long. He finished soon after 10 o'clock and Attorney McCann began his closing argument for the State. In his argument General McCann said that the prosecution had no theory, just proof. In speaking of the editorial in the News-Simitar of March 15th, 1908, which Cooper claimed he heard that Carmack wrote, the speaker said it was introduced for a purpose and that it was because it attacked Governor Patterson, and the defense hoped to reach the jurors, who were the supporters of the governor.

General McCann attacked Attorney Washington for trying to make the case a political issue and declared that the entire argument of Washington was a political speech. He denounced Washington for assailing Carmack's name and stated that he must have taken a large fee to talk about a dead man that way.

GEORGE GOULD EXPRESSES ADMIRATION FOR HARRIMAN.

By Associated Press. New York, Mar. 13.—E. H. Harriman is stronger than ever, according to George Gould, in an interview published here.

"I admire Harriman," declared the head of the Missouri Pacific system, "and I admire his courage. All the energies of the government were set in motion to destroy him. Even a panic was brought on to crush him. Great fortunes were lost and men ruined, but he survived all and is today stronger than ever."

Some Pretty Stiff Advertising.

The death of Andrew Pears, great grandson of the Andrew who 120 years ago founded the soap business which carried his name to the remotest corners of the earth, recalls some interesting facts in connection with the evolution of the science of advertising.

The original Andrew was a Cornishman keeping a little shop in London, who began making soap in a small way, but advertising it in the newspapers to an extent never before dreamed of. There being no trademark law, Pears hit upon the device of writing his name with a good quill on the wrapper of every piece of his soap. None other was genuine. This soon made his name familiar, but the advertising soon made it impossible for Andrew to write the guarantee with his own hand.

Early in the history of the house it was resolved to make advertisements as attractive as possible. This principle was developed until the firm began to call in the services of the most renowned painters. One of the greatest successes in this direction was the purchasing of Sir John Millais's picture of his little fair-haired nephew in a green velvet suit blowing soap-bubbles. For this $1,100 was paid.

Equally well known became the picture of the baby in the bath trying to pick up a piece of soap. It was originally entitled "A Knight of the Bat" and failed to catch on. By a happy inspiration it was renamed "He Won't Be Happy Till He Gets It," and its popularity became phenomenal; even Harry Furness's Punch caricature of the firm's testimonial—the figure of a ragged and dirty tramp, sitting down to make the affidavit: "Two years ago I used your soap; since then I've used no other"—was put to a strikingly successful publicity.

"Good morning," etc., the phrase by which the Pears product is most universally known, was invented by Thos. Barrett. Barrett got his friends to draw up lists of the phrases most in common use. "Good morning" topped most lists, and that fact suggested to Barrett that he could not do better than link it immortally with what he was advertising.

Gladstone contributed to popularizing the article by once exclaiming when he wished to illustrate large numbers: "They are as numerous as the advertisements of Pears' soap or as the autumn leaves in Vallombrosa."

Since starting business the Pears have spent over $15,000,000 in advertising, which may account for the big dividends—the business is said to be paying.

High Prices for Corn.

Farm and Ranch. The prices for corn at auction, at Omaha, show the intense interest of corn growers. Ten ears grown by L. B. Clore, of Johnson county, Indiana, brought $280, being $28 per ear; the best single ear grown by Mr. Joe R. Overstreet, same county and State, brought $75; and the sweepstakes bushel brought $275. The men who paid these prices were making conservative investments, and prices will be returned a hundred fold. Compare this buying with that of the man who feels that he has paid immense prices when he buys a bushel of seed corn for $1.50 to $3.00. It shows what great corn growers think of seed selection, and how determined they are to have the best. The best is not good enough yet. It will be far better; and the grower who does not select good seed is failing to do his duty for his soil. Incidentally, we will add, just as good corn has been produced in the Southwest; and there are many reasons that the Southwest should produce better corn.

As to how much may be realized from an acre, there can be no accurate estimate. Soils, climates, conditions vary greatly; but greatest variation will be found to be in men. There are men making fortunes from farms of five acres; and others are starving on farms of immense size. In one case, the men are large; in the other the farms are large.

The profits from an acre must depend upon markets; but markets will depend much upon men who cultivate acres. One man will find a market, when another will not see it when forced to it.

The cotton discussion has shown, in clear figures, that cotton is a good clear crop, but not a money crop—it by the terms is meant a profitable crop. The reports are strong arguments for corn and hogs.

'BLACK HAND' EXPERT IS ASSASSINATED.

By Associated Press. New York, Mar. 13.—A cable to the Herald from Palermo, Italy, says that Lieutenant Joseph Petrosino of the New York police department was shot down and killed early this afternoon near his hotel. His assassins are unknown.

Petrosino was the "Black Hand" expert of the New York police department and a terror to Italian criminals. He went to Italy more than a year ago to work on a plan to check the tide of undesirable Italians and Sicilians to New York.

When official news of the assassination in Palermo of Lieutenant Petrosino was received here, Chief of Detectives McCaffery immediately sent telegrams to the chiefs of police in all the large cities, asking them to round up every "Black Hand" suspect in their locality.

The buildings on the south are one-story, there is an alley on the north and east, and a street on the west, which will make the second floor an ideal lodge room. Arlington School Board Defies Superintendent Cousins' Ruling.

Texas News Service Special. Arlington, Tex., Mar. 13.—The Arlington school board has determined to enforce its rules forbidding calls by boy students at the homes of the girls, despite the opinion of State Superintendent Cousins that the board exceeds its powers.

Secretary Carter announced this morning that the superintendent must keep his hands off. The girls' hopes of a friend in the State superintendent were crushed by the secretary's attitude. The board will fight the ruling.

RUMOR THAT SANTA FE WILL EXTEND TO WICHITA FALLS.

A citizen of Jacksboro, who was in the city several days ago, stated that it was his belief that the Santa Fe was contemplating an extension via Jacksboro from Weatherford to Wichita Falls.

The gentleman stated that Jacksboro was read and anxious to do her part to induce the Santa Fe to build the proposed line.

The matter was laid before the Chamber of Commerce last night and Secretary Gohlke was instructed to get into communication with the Santa Fe officials and find out if there was anything doing.

The Friendly Habit.

Professor James has a passage in his Psychology that ought to be pondered by every young man and woman.

"Could the young but realize how soon they will become mere walking bundles of habits they would give more heed to their conduct while in the plastic state. We are spinning our own fate, good or evil, and never to be undone. Every smallest stroke of virtue or of vice leaves its never so little scar. The drunken Rip Van Winkle in Jefferson's play, excuses himself for fresh dereliction by saying, 'I won't count this time.' Well, he may not count it, but it is being counted none the less. Down among his nerve cells and fibers the molecules are counting it, registering and storing it up to be used against him when the next temptation comes. Nothing we ever do is in strict scientific literalness wiped out."—The Wellspring.

STOCK SHOW OPENS IN DRIZZLING RAIN

Texas News Service Special. Fort Worth, Tex., Mar. 13.—With five thousand visitors in the city, headed by President Ike Pryor of the Texas Cattle Raisers' Association, the gala week of the Fat Stock Show and Cattleman's Convention opened this morning under depressing clouds and drizzling rain.

The executive committee meets this afternoon.

The show was formally opened today by Mayor John Grant of North Fort Worth, who addressed a throng in the Coliseum. Governor Campbell failed to arrive to make the opening address. Louis J. Wortham, who was scheduled to respond to the governor, was also detained at Austin.

The judging of five thousand exhibits begins this afternoon.

Ten thousand visitors are expected on the first day of the convention.

School Closed at Electra. On account of not having sufficient funds to carry on the expenses of the school, the board of trustees closed the school Friday of last week. While this was unavoidable, yet it seems hard to close the school at this time of year, as there isn't anything to put the children to doing, therefore they will be turned loose on the town. It may be that a subscription school will begin in a few days, which will relieve the situation to some extent.—Electra News.

INVESTIGATION RENEWED

Walters Summoned Before Senate Bar. House in Turmoil Over the Kennedy Resolution.

Texas News Service Special. Austin, Tex., Mar. 13.—When the senate met this morning the resolution to expel Senator Thomas was immediately taken up. A quorum was not obtained until 9 o'clock, although scheduled to meet at 8. Thomas commenced arguing against the adoption of the Brachfield resolution to unseat him. Should such debate be indulged in, the hour for adjournment at noon will arrive without action.

The house met at 9:30, temporarily ignoring the Kennedy affair, and transacting routine business with Standfifer in the chair. At 10 o'clock Speaker Kennedy ordered the clock set back two hours in order that no bills be slaughtered, he said. Fifteen minutes later Senators Peeler, Bryan and Coffey appeared as a committee from the senate and announced that the senate had completed the business of the session and was prepared to adjourn.

The speaker is busy signing the mass of bills which have been passed.

On motion of Turney, the order of business permitting the consideration of resolutions was dispensed with today. This passes over the resolution dealing a blow to Speaker Kennedy and releasing him from any dilemma.

Representatives Fuller, Munson and Brown were appointed to notify the governor that the house was finishing its business and preparing to adjourn.

Fitzhugh, Jackson and Rayburn were appointed to notify the senate. The house discussed for an hour the motion concurring in the free-conference report on the joint resolution for Confederate pensions and the Confederate Widows' home. Several members tearfully protested against concurring.

When it was discovered that the house had concurred yesterday, the resolution was signed in both houses and is up to the governor.

Driven to the wall this morning Senator Thomas said that the evidence presented before investigating committee showed that J. W. Walters of Houston, whom he designated as a "prominent lobbyist," had played poker with three members of the senate and three members of the house, and that John Hornsby of Austin, another "prominent lobbyist," had paid the fines of one senator and two representatives. Thomas stated that Banker McCarthy of Houston had lost a thousand dollars in this game. Thomas said that gambling with lobbyists was equivalent to being influenced by lobbyists.

The house has recalled the joint resolution providing for Confederate pensions and Confederate Widows' home, and rescinded the vote concurring in the free conference report and then rejected that vote. The motion by Robertson to concur in the senate amendments failed to secure a two-thirds vote, which is equivalent to killing the resolution.

The senate bill requiring other than life insurance companies to make bond finally passed.

The joint resolution authorizing counties to vote a tax to aid interurban lines was defeated.

Robertson contended that Standfifer was wrong in ruling that a two-thirds vote was necessary to adopt the senate amendments to the Confederate pension bill and the chair reversed its ruling, declaring that the amendments were adopted, which restored the resolution to complete life. Terrell of Texas appealed from the decision of the chair. After a discussion Terrell withdrew his appeal and the house concurred in the amendments by a vote of 94 to 16.

The house finally passed the bill giving district courts the right to extend their terms.

Walters was brought before the bar of the senate at 11 o'clock. At 12:30 the examination had hardly begun.

Hill's action in signing the resolution asking for Kennedy's resignation was much criticized. The investigating committee has decided not to report its conclusions, but Hill's signature gives the effect of a committee report. Hill and Kennedy were formerly close friends.

IN CLUBDOM

Meeting of Floral Club.

The Floral Club met with Mrs. James Bray, 1303 Eighth street, with a large attendance Tuesday afternoon. The house throughout was furnished with flowers and the mellowed lights in the dining room shed an attractive glow over the table centered with pink and white hyacinths.

After an interesting program, Mrs. Bert Bean, president of the Civic League, was introduced to the Club and spoke very enthusiastically of our possibilities in helping to beautify the town.

During refreshments several beautiful toasts were given.

Mrs. Chas. Bean will be hostess next week.

New Century Club.

Mrs. Frank Kell was at home March 10th from 3 to 5 p. m. to the members of the New Century Club, with her genuine spirit that pervades the atmosphere of her orbit with that true and lasting sense, one never fails to gather when under her roof, of a kindly love for all, that teaches the recipient a lesson in the true modified sense of the word, that we must be loyal to our friends, never failing to render justice to its deservor, in whatever walk of life that tends to the uplifting of a noble aim, or purpose whose soul reaches far back to the tender bulbs of human nature that were cast into the bosom of woman from the hand of the great Lawgiver, whose demands have passed on to us through the ages of divine advancement.

Several letters of interest from the executives of the T. F. W. C. were read and immediate action to carry out their respective claims was taken.

An entertaining drill in parliamentary law was the chief indulgence for the next period, whose many little points of dignity were instilled with a ready fervor.

Refreshments were served, which consisted of a salad of the daintiest method, cake and chocolate. While our hostess gathered our empty plates we felt that the repast was an inspiration of itself long to be remembered.

MEMBER.

Tariff Steam Roller.

New York Times.

Does the country realize that no single member of the minority of the ways and means committee has any information as to what the majority has determined in regard to tariff rates, or will have until the work is completed and the report ready for the house, and then only a day or two will be allowed to the minority to study the report?

The most bigoted party man will not assert that this is a proper way of dealing with a question of such importance. The natural function of the minority is to criticize, and for wholesome and helpful criticism reasonably full knowledge and time for study and deliberation are obviously necessary. Criticism is not inevitably adverse, and it is quite possible that fair and decent joint-consideration of such a measure as the tariff might save much time and lead to a wiser and more practical mode of revision. As it is, this advantage is denied to the nation. The old beaten path will be followed. The minority will present a report of its own, which will serve mainly as a text for speechmaking that will have little influence on congressional action. The bill will be pushed through the house in a couple of weeks, the beneficiaries of the tariff will flock to the finance committee of the senate, that body will give hearings, then the senate will take the matter up, and after months, perhaps, the bill will go to a conference committee, where the revision will finally be settled on. In the senate committee the action of the majority will be of the same arbitrary fashion as in the house committee. At no stage of the tedious and disturbing proceedings will there be anything like rational and public-spirited co-operation between the leading members of the two parties to secure a sensible and desirable result.

The explanation is simple. The tariff is not treated as a great public measure, but as a congeries of jobs. That, in its origin, its purpose and its development, is what it is. The present majority of the ways and means committee has shown some disposition to handle it in the public interest, but it cannot escape the tyranny of custom based on greedy and organized private interests. That tyranny can be broken down only by the force of a definite, intelligent and general public sentiment, effectively represented at Washington. The next half year will show whether this is to be attained.

Childress Wants Oil Mill.

Childress, Tex., Mar. 12.—The Childress Board of Trade is preparing to make an active campaign to secure a cotton seed oil mill for Childress. This city offers an ideal location and several thousand tons of cotton seed can be secured from Childress county farmers, and also two other large points within a distance of eighteen miles. It is the intention of the board of trade to secure a three-press mill.
Childress people have planted trees and hedge around the two school buildings of this city. The trees are 4-year-old locusts, and being native trees, will do well. All public buildings are now surrounded with trees. The resident section of the city has been planted heavily and one can scarcely go a block without seeing newly planted trees. Childress will present a much different appearance within two years.

Occasionally we hear people say that to play flinch, forty-two, or any of the other popular games where prizes are given is gambling—just as much as to play poker for money in a gambling den. From this opinion we must dissent. Surely there can be no gambling where the player stakes nothing and stands no chance to lose. If so it is gambling for school children to decide for a prize or enter attendance contests where prizes are offered. And this is said by one who cannot play any of the popular games and has no desire to learn.—Jim Lowry's Signal Lights.

MARCH IS THE MONTH for OLIVE OIL

Beginning with the first warm days in March your system starts a very important change or overhauling.

The heavy foods you have been eating produced a certain kind of blood and tissue which could withstand the cold weather.

That kind of blood and tissue is not comfortable for Spring weather, so your system begins to change it and this usually causes a discord known as that tired feeling.

You can avoid that more or less by eating certain kinds of foods, particularly,

Vegetable Salads

In which are used a goodly quantity of Olive Oil. The oil and vegetables help the system to make the change easily.

Monarch Olive Oil has the distinction of being one of the purest and most perfect oils produced, being the first drawing from very select olives.

What Lent Really Means.

On Train, March 11th, 1909.
Editor Times, Wichita Falls, Texas:
Dear Sir—Referring to the article in your issue of February 23rd, entitled "A Lenten Sermon." When I read this article on the 24th ult. I felt like writing you, but put it off, thinking that it would not help the cause much to take exceptions to the impression given as to what Lent is. But I have since learned that quite a few of your readers think I wrote the article. For that reason and on account of the way the New York World of February 28th speaks of Lent, I feel that something should be said that our people may understand what Lent really is to the Church.

This article sounds very strange to a churchman and it surely does not come from the pen of one who understands what Lent really is. From a social standpoint, Lent should not be recognized any more than any other of the eight holy seasons of the Church Year. If, according to your writer, society is bound by good taste, to recognize Lent, it is bound also to recognize the other seven seasons, Holy days, Fridays and Sundays, but society has nothing to do with these things and knows nothing about them. "You cannot serve God and Mammon."

The true followers of Him whose forty days fast in the wilderness is commemorated during the Lenten season have no time or inclination to indulge in card playing, frivolity of any kind or attending balls at any time of the year. There are many people professing the Catholic faith who give to the world wrong impressions of their religion, which they are dragging into the dust by their actions. The church whose communicants in their confirmation vow to "renounce the devil and all his works, the pomps and vanity of this wicked world, and all the sinful lusts of the flesh," does not teach that balls and card playing are good at any time, although some of her individual priests do not object to them. The Catholic faith is much misunderstood and falsely taught by false prophets.

Lent is the Catholic revival season, so to speak. The Church instructs for the first day's reading in Lent the following scripture: Isah, 58; Luke, 15 (morning); Jonah, 3; and Hebrews 12 to verse 18 (evening); and for the 365 days she gives the proper scripture to read, so that we may grow in grace.
If you have the space and inclination, I would like you to insert the following, taken from the Lenten leaflet of "All Saints' Church," Dallas, Texas:

Lent's Three-Fold Appeal.
Every duty to be performed, every responsibility to be met, every privilege to be enjoyed, requires three steps—each step the result of an Appeal to man's nobler nature; a proper response to which brings success in life, while refusal to heed its voice spells failure.

The First Appeal is made to your conscience—to rouse the sense of duty—to make you take the first step and say: "I ought to do it."

The Second Appeal is made to your ambition—to give you confidence—to make you feel equal to the task—to make you take the second step and say: "I can do it."

The Third Appeal is made to your manliness—to lead you to consecrate your talents, your time, your thought, your money, to your task—to make you take the third and all-important step and resolve: "I will do it."

This three-fold appeal gives Lent its meaning—a season devoted to "making things right"—to giving your life "a new start"—to the application to your religious nature of general principles, recognizing as valuable in every sphere of life. Without this appeal, Lent has no meaning.
Add this principle to Lenten duties: Prayer. Did any man ever succeed in any enterprise whatsoever, who did not keep it in his mind, and make it the burden of his expressed desires? It is the first element in success. The spiritual life is no exception. You must strengthen your desire for spiritual things, and for a nobler life, by prayer. Lent makes the appeal and your response must be: "I ought to, I can, I will, pray."

Fasting. The companion of prayer—the evidence of sorrow for sin. To fast for a purpose always strengthens that purpose. If you would follow in the footsteps of your Saviour, you will say: "I ought to fast, I can, I will."
Repentance—It is the tendency of everything to drift. Rules and regulations control mercantile houses and govern homes, but it is only by "eternal vigilance" that the "standard is maintained." Your life drifts into habits that need correction. Therefore it is necessary to repent—to turn back—to make a better start. Lent bids you repent. It is for you to say: "I ought to repent, I can, I will."

Self-Examination. "Taking stock" is a familiar phrase. It is the annual drawing of balances—the study of the condition of business—of profit and loss—the determination of methods for future success. Every person needs to take account of the gains and losses to character through contact with the world—to make a careful reckoning of the present conditions with a view to better results in the future. Lent emphasizes Self-Examination. And, realizing its value, you say: "I ought to, I can, I will, examine myself."

Alms Giving. Every man gives money for that which interests him, and in proportion to that interest, even to his last dollar. You are interested—deeply interested—in the progress of the Kingdom of Christ. Therefore your response to the Lenten admonition to give must be this: "I ought to give, I can, I will."

If the appeal were made to the conscience alone, success would be easy; for in the bottom of your heart you know you ought. Nor would success be difficult, if you add the appeal to ambition; for you know you can if you want to. But the third appeal—to your manhood, by which you govern, direct, control, your actions—here rests the difficulty. Until you say: "I will," the voice of conscience will not be heeded, the ambition of your soul to excel will be stifled, and you will plead all sorts of foolish excuses for failure in your Life Purpose.

I ought, I can, I will—three steps to success in every Christian life.

They reveal the secret of a "well-kept" Lent. May such a Lent be yours this year.

Yours truly,
JNO. T. ROBERTS,
Layman of the Anglican Catholic Faith

Railways Controlled by Harriman.

One-third of the total railway mileage of the United States—a third of which embraces probably the most important lines in the country—that is what E. H. Harriman now holds in his grasp since his election to the directorate of the New York Central. Expressed in actual words, this one-third reads:

	Mileage
Union Pacific	5,916
Southern Pacific	9,731
Illinois Central	4,378
New York Central	12,282
Atchison	9,350
St. Paul	8,687
Northwestern	7,623
Baltimore and Ohio	4,462
Delaware and Hudson	845
Georgia Central	1,914
Erie	2,571

The centralization of such vast power in one person is provocative of unrest and dissatisfaction in the business world. Were Harriman a man of proved integrity and patriotic earnestness, there would still be room for complaint.

His past activities have on the contrary shown him to be a railroad operator and financier of uncommon skill—and also a politician of the lowest type.

Gin Burned at Electra.
Fire broke out in a pile of cotton bolls Saturday at the old Waggoner gin owned by D. T. Cross and destroyed 450,000 pounds of bolls and the old gin plant. The fire was of an unknown origin, but it is supposed that it was caused by the cotton going through a heat, as the fire started at the bottom of the pile. Mr. Cross informed us that the cotton and gin were about two-thirds covered by insurance. This will delay the ginning of bolls for a few days on account of the pile still burning, but just as soon as the fire is extinguished and the place scraped off, Mr. Cross says they will resume work. The boiler was in the new gin plant and escaped the ravages of the fire. They still have several hundred thousand pounds piled up at the gin and some fifteen or twenty cars stored in warehouses up the road to be shipped in just as soon as they get where they can use them.—Electra News.

More Railroads Rumors.

The Tribune-Chief is giving considerable space to the Kennedy road this week, especially in regard to what the Childrens paper has to say about it. The road paralleling the Q. A. and P., its doings would naturally interest our readers.
—We hear that Kennedy is now in St. Louis trying to raise the money to complete the road to Hollis, and as it seems likely that he will fail in this, he will probably be compelled to sell the grade for $40,000 to Kemp and Kell of Wichita Falls, who are now pushing the Katy in that direction from Frederick.

In case the Katy invades that territory, the Rock Island is almost certain to be extended from Mangum.—Quannah Tribune-Chief.

Assignee Sale.

On Saturday, March 20th, 1909, at 1:30 o'clock p. m., I will offer for sale to the highest bidder for cash, at 706 Indiana avenue, Wichita Falls, Texas, the stock of dry goods, boots, shoes, notions, etc., formerly owned by V. Julius Markowitz of Wichita Falls was in town Tuesday and bought an interest in the Quannah Route Townsite Co. His brother, Isaac, of New York, will locate shortly in our town. RANDLETT WANTS RAILROAD CONNECTIONS WITH LAWTON.

A number of propositions have recently sprung up for the division of Comanche county, Oklahoma of which Lawton is the county seat. Lawton is having a hard fight to keep the county intact. A number of Big Pasture people claim that the distance to Lawton is so great that it is too much of a drive to go there to transact the business that must be transacted at the county seat.

These people say that a railroad connecting the western part of the county with Lawton is necessary if the county is not divided.

A citizen of Randlett has expressed the position of the people of that community to a representative of the Lawton Constitution-Democrat in the following language:

"The only ultimate solution of the problem of county division in Comanche county is the completion of the railroad line connecting Randlett and the Big Pasture district directly with Lawton. As matters now stand, Randlett and the surrounding vicinity are strongly in favor of a division of the county, and though the people there would oppose any movement placing the county seat at Walter, as would practically every town in the south end of the present county, and although at present Randlett has little definite hope of landing the county seat, she would be willing now to vote for county division and take her chances for county seat honors with the rest. With a railway line connecting her and her people with Lawton, a majority vote would be for the preservation of present county."

Such is the statement made today by S. A. Gardner, cashier of the Bank of Randlett, who is in the city serving as a juror in the district court.

As matters now stand, says Mr. Gardner, there seems to be little hope of a completion of what is generally known as the Bellamy road or the Lawton, Wichita Falls and Northwestern, which passes through Randlett and connects Lawton with a junction of the Wichita Falls and Northwestern seven miles west of Randlett, and, with the hope of inducing the business men of Lawton and Wichita Falls to cooperate with those of Randlett, he is working while in the city to make some definite arrangements which will insure the immediate completion either of the road now projected or some other line along a similar survey.

Already, a number of the prominent business men of the city have interested themselves in the project, especially since the agitation of county division resulting from the attempt to land a court town at Temple, and it will shortly be reached between Lawton and Wichita Falls men, who it is understood, are also much interested in the completion of a line connecting directly with Lawton.

Arranging for Cantaloupes.

W. C. Pitts, one of this county's large melon growers, tells us this week that he is making arrangements to continue the melon-growing industry this season. Mr. Pitts had rather adverse experience last season on account of the excessive rains, but he is inclined to believe that this will be an unusually good year and hence has already arranged for planting 25 acres of cantaloupes. The land is already being plowed, preparatory to spring planting.

Mr. Pitts is of the opinion that the Wilbarger county association will plant at least 200 acres of cantaloupes this year, besides a large acreage in water melons. This for many years has been one of the principal money crops and comes in at a time when the money is most needed.—Vernon Record.

REAL DILL PICKLES

Are a healthy and natural food relish. Sometimes called "The Poor Man's Olive," they are recognized as a valuable aid to digestion. People who cannot eat ordinary pickles, or relishes of any kind without ill effects, find no such trouble results from eating "Dills." The same kind of pickles without the dill flavor, were a part of the regular Japanese Army ration during the Russian War, and everybody knows about the excellent health of the Japanese.

HEINZ DILL PICKLES

WERE NEVER IN VINEGAR

They are naturally fermented with salt and flavored with Dill Flower—entirely different from ordinary unfermented salt pickles commonly sold as "Dills." If you have ever tasted a genuine Heinz Dill Pickle you know the distinction. We have some of these Real Dill Pickles in the original Package in which they were cured by HEINZE. Try them at your Dutch Lunch. Get the "Dill Pickle Habit." It's a good one.

The total Grandfield freight and passenger business has averaged $15,000 to $18,000 for the past several months. This is the dull time of the year, and when summer and fall shipments come in, it is estimated that the business will average about $25,000 every month.—Grandfield Enterprise.

There is More Difference

In the quality of salt fish than most any article carried in a grocers stock. Yet to a great many people, and among others a great many grocers, a mackerel is a mackerel regardless of its color, fatness or the water from which it was taken or the season it was caught, and until the advent of the pure food law most any old thing would do for a white fish.

IF YOU HAD THE WEALTH OF A ROCKEFELLER

It would be impossible for you to buy better salt fish than we have gotten together for the Lenten season, as we have bought the very best the world produces. We have extra fat Norway Mackerel, Genuine No. 1 White Fish, Blood Red Alaska Salmon, Flat Herring, Genuine Holland Milcher Herring, Berlinger Roll Mopse, Deep Sea Ocean (Georges Middles) Cod-Fish in Smoked Fish, Smoked Herring and Smoked Halibut. We have bottled Anchovies in Oil, Anchovy Paste and Anchovy Sauce. An almost endless variety of canned fish. Give us your Lenten orders and see the quality we handle. If you think you don't like salt fish, most probably it is because you failed to get the right kind.
