GREAT CLEAN-UP DAY IS PLANNED FOR APRIL 6TH

MAYOR NOBLE ISSUES PROCLAMATION FOR GENERAL HOLIDAY ON THAT DATE.

THOROUGH ORGANIZATION

Plans Being Perfected for Greatest and Most Effective Cleaning Up Ever Attempted.

CLEAN-UP DAY PROCLAMATION.

Wichita Falls, Tex., Mar. 17, 1909.
I, T. B. Noble, Mayor of the City of Wichita Falls, Tex., do hereby designate and set apart Tuesday, the 6th day of April, 1909, as cleaning up day, and hereby request all the citizens of the city to cease from their usual occupations and close their places of business and devote the entire day to cleansing and beautifying our city. And I do hereby declare the said day a legal holiday.

T. B. NOBLE, Mayor.

Things will be done in Wichita Falls on April 6th, according to the preliminary plans of the clean-up committee. Yesterday afternoon, B. J. Bean, Miles O'Reilly and J. T. Montgomery, the committee, met at the office of the Chamber of Commerce and outlined a campaign which promises to be the most complete cleaning up of a city ever accomplished in one day. Systematic and industrious work will characterize April 6th, which Mayor Noble has officially proclaimed a holiday, and which will further be accentuated as such, it being election day. One thousand men to engage in the work, one hundred or more teams to haul debris, a picnic, dinner in the open air on the lot at the corner of Ninth street and Indiana avenue, to be served by the ladies of Wichita Falls, and music during the lunch hour are the plans to be put under way, and every assistance must be volunteered and every business man, professional man, banker, clerk and working man is expected, urged and appealed to for, the civic pride of himself and his home city, to enter into hearty co-operation without further solicitation.

Mr. T. R. Orth has been selected as Grand Marshal of the day and will be in executive command of all forces. His lieutenants will be about fifteen captains of districts, each captain to be assisted by a number of corporals, each corporal to notify each occupant in his block what is expected of him on the great round-up of tin cans, garbage and all manners of debris. Circulars will be printed and distributed to captains, to in turn give them to corporals, who in turn are to deliver them personally and verbally to the occupants of each house. All debris which can be burned will be consumed in this wise and each captain will have a number of teams to haul off the other material to the dump.

Signed agreements to close the business houses for the day will be solicited by committees. The following gentlemen have been selected by the committee to assist in the movement by enlisting the co-operation of parties in their respective lines of business in removing from their premises unsightly objects and trash: Marvin Smith, dry goods; E. P. Walsh, gent's furnishings; J. M. Hursh, hardware.

COOPER-SHARP

JURY STILL OUT

By Associated Press.
Nashville, Tenn., Mar. 18.—The jury in the Cooper-Sharp trial for the murder of former Senator Carmack began its deliberations early today. The jurors breakfasted at 7 o'clock and again returned to the jury room.

Asked when he would call the twelve men into court, Judge Hart replied: "It's their move. I will not send for them until they send word to me that they wish to see me."

At 11:30 Judge Hart adjourned court until 2 p. m., announcing that he would not receive the verdict before that hour.

Frank Kell, manufacturing; O. E. Maer, railroads; H. C. Luecke, blacksmiths; J. S. Beard, wagon yards; Dan Hardy, saloons; W. Lee-Moore, lumber; Clark Fowler, pool halls; B. J. Bean, grocers; Mr. Wood, restaurants, and J. G. Gilbert, livery barns.

The non-residents will have their premises cleaned by the several hundred volunteers, who, it is expected, will send in their names and call at headquarters to be assigned to work. The streets and alleys will be cleaned over the entire city.

The clean-up committee, through the Times, calls upon every loyal citizen of Wichita Falls to volunteer his aid and wishes such aid to be tendered by mail or in person to Secretary Gohlke at once. Captains and corporals are to be selected from the volunteers and they are wanted immediately. Five hundred men are wanted to assign to places. Every business house having teams is requested to tender the use of same on that day and team owners and expressmen are solicited to lend their aid also.

Mr. Kemp, one of the officials of the company, stated today that all the contracts had been awarded him that every provision had been made to push the work to a speedy completion.

Believed That Bill Will Be Reported Today.

By Associated Press.
Washington, D. C., Mar. 18.—There is every expectation that the tariff bill will be reported out of the committee on ways and means to the house during the day and a time probably agreed upon when the general discussion should close. It is not doubted that the tariff question will occupy the attention of the house to the exclusion of any other business.

It's not difficult to judge some men by their clothes—policemen and letter carriers, for example.

Miss Sherrod Entertains.

The Sherrod home was again the scene of gay festivities on Tuesday afternoon when Miss Sherrod charmingly entertained a number of her friends with a "500" party.

The fun and laughter began when we drew our score cards, which were most original, being post cards of every kind and description from a trade of millady's spring hat to a cabbage head bowing to a turnip, wishing that "something good may turn up."

Five games of "500" were played and judging from the sounds and appearances, they must have been heartily enjoyed. Mrs. Bruce Smith, having the distinction of winning every game, won the first prize—a dear book entitled "A Daughter of New France."

Miss Cora Coons won the consolation, a tiny banjo.

Miss Sherrod was assisted by Mesdames Toney and Simpson and Misses Coons served a dainty salad course, consisting of chicken salad, pimento sandwiches, olives, wafers and tea.

The following were the recipients of Miss Sherrod's hospitality: Mesdames Richolt, Waller, Hughes, Blair, Tom Roberts, Reese, Bacon, Shumate, Campbell, Toney, Miller, Gorsline, Walsh, Montgomery, Burnside, Huff, Smith, and Misses Coons, Kemp and Fields.

May Extend to Thurber.

Holders of the securities of the Stephenville, North and South Texas railway in St. Louis, have signified that an extension of that line from Stephenville to Thurber, a distance of some 23 miles, may be one of the early moves of the company. This line is now 43.2 miles in length, running from Stephenville to Hamilton, intersecting the Fort Worth and Rio Grande division of the Frisco system at Stephenville and crossing the Texas Central at Alexander. The proposed extension would reach a fine coal field, and would give the line a connection with the Texas and Pacific road at Thurber. It has been rumored that the line will ultimately extend southward to San Antonio, passing through a virgin territory, and one which would afford considerable local traffic. This mooted extension would involve the building of some 150 miles of track, part of which, while presenting no great engineering difficulties, would pass through some rough country, involving heavy cuts and fills or heavy gradients. The greater part of the proposition, however, is through a very easy country in which to construct a railway.—Texas Trade Review.

Los Angeles, Cal., Mar. 18.—My physicians have warned me that I must step out. They say I have done enough. I am 61 years of age and have led a very active life. Recently they told me they noticed a change for the worse in my condition. These words were used by E. H. He will not announce any definite time when he will be free from the activities which have characterized his career.

THE NEW SPEAKER SHAKES UP HOUSE ORGANIZATION

The Cause of Prohibition Hurt.

The cause of prohibition is not helped any by injudicious and indiscriminate criticism and ridicule of everyone who does not vote and act as prohibitionists desire. There are plenty of good men on the other side of the question and the assertion that they are bribed or controlled by anyone or are not as conscientious in their views as those holding contrary views should never be made. A recent example is an attack on Representative Treckmann by a Dallas preacher-editor, Mr. Treckmann is a high toned Christian gentleman and every submission personally, but felt obliged to vote against it as his constituents instructed him to do so. Criticism of men like Mr. Treckmann can do the cause no good with people who know that he is a honest, earnest gentleman and stands above reproach in his home community. A moral issue such as the prohibition question should be discussed on a high plane and not on the level with cheap politics.—Wills Point Chronicle.

CITY HALL NEARS COMPLETION

The electricians and plumbers are finishing their work on the new city hall and it is expected that the contractors will have the building ready to turn over to the city within a few days. The building will also be the home of the city fire department and will contain the city prisoners. The council has under consideration the immediate reorganization of the volunteer fire department.

CONGRESS MAY ACT ON BANK GUARANTY

Washington, D. C., Mar. 17.—William Jennings Bryan's bank guaranty plan is stirring up trouble for a lot of National banks out in the Western States. Oklahoma and Kansas have both passed laws modeled after the suggestion of the democratic candidate for president, under which the banks of those States are required to guarantee deposits. This plan was first put into effect in Oklahoma and it has the effect of converting many of the National banks into State institutions in order to get the advantages of the guaranty law.

They appealed to the Washington authorities for information regarding their right to enter into the guaranty plans and were told in an opinion by Mr. Bonaparte that they could not do so. Mr. Bonaparte held that the Federal laws did not permit national banking institutions to enter into schemes for guaranteeing deposits.

Since this decision many of the national banks of Oklahoma have been forced to change their charters and qualify as State banks in order to keep their business. Now Kansas has adopted the same kind of a law. A copy of this act has been forwarded to the secretary of the treasury with a request for a statement regarding the status of national banks under it.

Western men interested in national banks are much worried over the situation. The move for guaranteeing deposits is spreading and wherever a law is enacted the people take their money out of national banks and put it in State institutions.

The whole question may come up in congress again in an amendment to the existing laws permitting national banks to guarantee deposits in States having guaranty laws.

Senate Passes Bill Appropriating $30,000 for Six Experiment Farms in West Texas.

Texas News Service Special.
Austin, Tex., Mar. 18.—Practically every house committee will have a new chairman as the result of Speaker Marshall's plan to shake up the present organization of the house. He spent this morning revising the committee lists. Buchanan will succeed Davidson on the judiciary committee, McKinley displaced Ray on the revenue and taxation committee. Ralston remains chairman of the public health committee, with few changes in the personnel of that committee. Hamilton of Childress and Boswell are removed from the committee and Ray and Fitzhugh substituted.

There was no action on the board of health bill by the committee this morning.

The full house was resumed at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Six agricultural experiment stations will be built in West Texas on a total appropriation of thirty thousand dollars.

The senate this morning acted on the committee's favorable report passing the bill, placing the stations one each in Tom Green and El Paso counties, and in the districts of Senators Mayfield, Adams, Watson and Hayter. The individual appropriation for each was reduced from fifteen to five thousand dollars.

The proceedings incidental to the Thomas expulsion will be sent broadcast over the State, as the senate has ordered eight thousand copies of the senate journal printed, containing the report. What the effect of the appearance of these in the second district will have on Senator Thomas' candidacy for re-election is a question which was debated by the ex-senator's friends and enemies.

FACTS ABOUT ALFALFA

1. Alfalfa is one of the most valuable forage plants in Oklahoma. As a crop it has many desirable features. These characteristics may be given in brief. The green pasture and cured hay are relished by all classes of farm stock; in feeding value it is "par excellence;" as a member of the legume family alfalfa secures nitrogen from the soil air through the medium of associated microscopic plants; it has a long tap root which gives the plant an opportunity to reach abundant supplies of moisture; it is perennial in its habits of growth and when once established, it will produce good yields for many seasons.

2. Alfalfa can be grown on a large variety of soil types. If the land is thin, or is not in good tilth, a liberal application of farm yard manure will assist in correcting this condition. Organic or vegetable matter ought to be incorporated with the surface layer of soil several weeks before the seed is sown. It is not desirable to apply manure which contains a large quantity of weed seeds. Manure may be also scattered upon the alfalfa field after it has produced several cuttings. While farm manure carries only a small percentage of the essential elements, and will therefore not increase the supply of these constituents to an appreciable extent, it will check the flow of rain water and in diverting this supply into the soil channels it may add to the total output of hay for the season.

3. The experiment station has conducted a pot culture fertility test with two types of soil, upland and bottom land. This test appeared to indicate a deficiency in the case of lime. The regular field trials which extend over a short period of time, together with practical trials in various parts of the state have not shown lime to be a necessity in starting this crop. If the soil is acid in character, lime will correct this condition. Five hundred to one thousand pounds of ground limestone per acre will be enough to meet the requirements of alfalfa on lands which may be classified within this list.

4. A well prepared seed bed is essential to success, even in ideal sections. Early plowing is a good practice either for the autumn or spring sowings. There are two features which should not be overlooked; first, available plant food promotes rapid growth during the early life of the plant; second, a perfect physical condition facilitates the movement of soil moisture. A loose open soil is not suitable for the storage of moisture or plant food; a soil which is in good tilth gives the young plants every opportunity to succeed. Early preparation is associated with the latter condition, late plowing with infrequent tillage means an open soil and will invariably spell failure.

5. In Central Oklahoma fall seeding has given the best results, one season with another. The summer culture destroys many weed seeds, and the young alfalfa plants start at a season of the year when they are not checked in their growth by crab grass; furthermore, three and in some instances four cuttings of alfalfa can be taken from the field the first season or year. This is not true of the spring seeding. It may be remarked that the spring plantings are subjected to severe treatment through severe erosion. This applies more particularly in rolling districts.

6. Good seed is an item worth some consideration. The sample which is selected should give a germination test of ninety to ninety-five per cent, and the material must be free from weed seeds. These two qualities should always go hand in hand. Clear, bright looking samples are preferable to dark colored, foul samples, although it sometimes happens that bright seeds give a low vitality test. A laboratory examination will satisfy the grower on these two points.

7. Fifteen pounds of bright viable seeds will give a full set provided soil and climatic conditions are normal. A number of growers have obtained a perfect stand by using as low as ten or twelve pounds per acre.

8. Alfalfa should not be pastured until the plants are well established. Do not pasture until the crop is at least three years old. When the soil is wet, refrain from turning the stock into the field.—L. A. Moorhouse, Agronomist, Oklahoma Experiment Station, Stillwater, Okla.

AMUSEMENTS

All the bachelors of Wichita Falls are wondering how a bachelor can have a honeymoon. Now there was a certain man who did, but he was married first and he took his wife to his home to spend the honeymoon. Rather an unusual proceeding, until one understands the reason. You see, he has an older sister, who disapproves of actresses and as he married an actress he wanted to keep the fact to himself as long as possible. As his sister was at a summer resort, he decided to go to his home as the safest place for the honeymoon. He neglected to tell his newly wedded wife that he had been married once, ever so long ago, and that he is the father of twin daughters. His sister finds that all is not as it should be at home and cuts her seaside visit short, returning suddenly with the twins. Up to this time our friends has been a truthful man, but now his prevarications become something awful and the complications that follow would make a stone image laugh. Dr. Schwartz, a former admirer of Mrs. Bachelor, but in Houston, a busy lawyer who is in love with one of the twins—he don't know which, decides to marry Mrs. B., and the "Bachelor" dares not tell him she is already his wife. A maid with detective proclivities, attempts to ferret out the mystery; and the fun becomes fast and furious. It reminds one of the old story of the man who would falsify when the truth would have been better. Anyway, if you want the best laugh you have ever had for many days go and see "A Bachelor's Honeymoon" at the Wichita Theater on Saturday night, March 20th.

A Tribute to Cleveland.

White House, Washington, D. C., Nov. 16, 1908.—My Dear Mr. Stetson: I regret that it is not possible for me to be present in person at the meeting held under the auspices of the Cleveland Memorial Committee. I wish you all success in your efforts.

I was a member of the legislature when Mr. Cleveland became governor of New York at the beginning of the year 1883, and for the next twenty-five years on several different occasions I was brought into close contact with him. For two years during his second administration I served under him as civil service commissioner. Like all others who were thrown closely with him I was much impressed by his high standard of official conduct and his rugged strength of character. Not only did I become intimately acquainted with the manner in which he upheld and enforced the civil service law, but I also saw at close quarters his successful fight against free silver, and the courage with which he, aided by men like the late Senator Cushman K. Davis of Minnesota, supported the judiciary at the time of the Chicago riot; and, finally, I happened to be in a position in which I knew intimately how he acted and the reasons why he acted in the Venezuelan matter. This knowledge gained at first hand enables me to bear testimony, which I am more than glad to bear, to the late president's earnest purpose to serve the whole country, and the high courage with which he encountered every species of opposition and attack. Owing to a peculiar combination of circumstances he went out of office assailed even more bitterly by his own party than by the opposing party, and shortsighted people thought that the great mass of American citizens had repudiated him and disbelieved in him.

Six years later it happened that I was at St. Louis as president when Mr. Cleveland, then a plain private citizen, arose to make an address in the great hall of the exposition; and no one who was there will ever forget the extraordinary reception given him by the scores of thousands present. It was an extraordinary testimony to the esteem and regard in which he was held, an extraordinary testimony to the fact that the American people had not forgotten him, and, looking back, had recognized in him a man who with straightforward directness had sought to do all in his power to serve their interests.

Moreover, all Americans should pay honor to the memory of Mr. Cleveland because of the simplicity and dignity with which as ex-president he led his life in the beautiful college town where he elected to live. He had been true to the honorable tradition which has kept our presidents from making money while in office. His life was therefore of necessity very simple; but it was the kind of life which it is a good thing to see led by any man who has held a position such as he held.

Again wishing you all good fortune, I am, Sincerely yours,
THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

WEATHER FORECAST.

For Wichita Falls and vicinity
—Tonight, increasing cloudiness and warmer. Friday, generally

People who own business property that has more than doubled in value during the past two years should not complain about paving the streets on which this property fronts. The enhancement of property values in this city is due in a large measure to the improvements in the way of installing a splendid sewerage system, together with the construction of cement sidewalks and waterworks, and now that the city is supplied with natural gas and will soon have in operation an electric railway system, our business streets should be paved. The money required for this improvement will come back to the owners within less than one year in the way of increased valuations of the property which is located on these paved streets. So far, but little objection has been raised to the proposition, as fully 90 per cent of the property owners seem to favor it. If this 90 per cent pave the streets in front of their property, the other 10 per cent will see before the work is completed that it will be to their financial interest to do the same thing. When the movement to construct sidewalks was started those who, at first, opposed it, soon convinced themselves that it was the proper thing to do, and did it, and the work was pushed along until now the city has more than thirty miles of cement sidewalks. All that seems necessary to get the streets paved is for some enterprising property holder to start the work, and when this is done, all, or nearly all, will follow his example.

The board to select the town and site for the West Texas State Normal is composed of Governor T. M. Campbell, Lieutenant Governor A. B. Davidson and Superintendent R. B. Cousins. Immediately after the adjournment of the special session of the legislature the board will take up the work of locating this school. Wichita Falls should do its best to land this institution, and the time to begin the good work is now.

Navigation and Irrigation.
Spokane, Wash., Mar. 17.—'Navigation by water and the improvement of inland waterways is of more importance to Louisiana than to any other, and because, being a nearly sea level territory, improving and opening the waterways obtains better drainage and subsequent reclamation of now useless lands.'

Henri L. Gueydan of Gueydan, La., first vice president and a member of the executive committee of the Interstate Inland Waterway League, of which C. S. E. Holland of Victoria, Texas, is president, says this in a letter to R. Insinger, chairman of the local board of control of the National Irrigation Congress, headed by George E. Barstow of Barstow, Texas, which will have its seventeenth sessions in Spokane the second week in August.

'Irrigation and drainage go hand in hand in Louisiana,' he adds, 'and of these the latter is more important. Where the land is low and level, drainage is often obtained by leveling around the land to be put under cultivation and pumping out the water. Later in the season the same pumping plant can be used to supply water for irrigation. The lift does not exceed six or seven feet. These lands are rich. A paper on this subject might prove interesting to the West, where water is put on the land to make fertility, whereas here it has to be taken off.'

'Forestry here has not as much relation to navigable streams and to holding waters as it does in mountainous regions. Our pine and especiallyypress trees are being thinned out rapidly. A law forbidding the cutting of trees, say under 12 inches in diameter, might be admissible, if constitutional.'

GREAT CLEAN-UP DAY PLANNED FOR APRIL 6

The ladies' clubs of Wichita Falls are requested to assist the movement by spreading a lunch on the vacant grounds on Ninth street and Indiana avenue, they to call for volunteer pastry and eatables from the ladies of the city in general. Badges will be given to captains and corporals to give one to each worker and all having such badges will be given place at the lunch stands.

The local band will be requested to enliven the lunch hour by music and a general jollification will be held during 11:30 to 1:30.

It is desired that such an impetus will be given the round-up that photographs of many loaded wagons, scores of workers, and the lunch crowds will be so striking as to be acceptable to the large newspapers for publication. They will also be sent to the northern papers and civic journals, and if possible an Associated Press item made of it and all of the country told of the most thorough cleaning up of a city ever attempted. The committee further requests that such cleaning up as can be done between now and April 6th be attended to so as to lessen the volume of work on that day, as there will be tons upon tons of stuff to be gathered up and carted away, besides being burned. A thousand bonfires should send up their columns of smoke in mute evidence of the greatest civic enterprise ever attempted in Wichita Falls.

BAILEY COUNSELS REPRIMAND.

Would Deal Lightly With Recalcitrant Democrats.

Washington, D. C., Mar. 17.—The programme for the disciplining of the twenty-three recalcitrant democrats who on last Monday deserted their party standard bearer in the face of the enemy, will not be adhered to, if the advice of Senator Bailey and several other democrats in the senate is heeded. Keenly solicitous for the harmless issue of the democrats in the house from the unfortunate predicament in which their party has been placed through the faithlessness of twenty-three erring colleagues, Senator Bailey today conferred at length with Champ Clark, democratic leader in the house.

Senator Bailey was invited to Mr. Clark's committee room, where several other leading democrats had previously assembled. It is the deliberately formed opinion of Bailey that it would be a grave mistake, nay, a huge blunder, for the democratic caucus to undertake the castigation of the democrats who repudiated the leadership of Mr. Clark and voted with the republicans for the Fitzgerald amendments to the rules. To those with whom he talked today, Senator Bailey took the ground that the people would not condone nor indorse such action; that they expected their representatives in congress to perform the specific service for which they were commissioned, and partisanship for the mere sake of partisan pique would not be amiably received by them. He said also that any rigid punishment that might be inflicted upon the democrats would inevitably rebound to the majority as a working asset, and under the circumstances the minority needed recruits instead of adding to the strength of the republicans.

It was along these lines that Senator Bailey counseled those who sought his advice, though he did not hesitate to condemn those Democrats who are responsible for the plight of the party in the house.

As a result of pacificatory counsel given today, the extent of the expression of the democratic caucus next Monday night in regard to the perverse course of the unruly twenty-three probably will be a diplomatically phrased reprimand.

The names of the committee of fifteen recommended by the caucus Tuesday night to devise rules for the guidance of the democratic caucus will be announced tomorrow by Mr. Clayton of Alabama. It is expected that the recommendations of this committee will make it impossible for any democrat to prove recreant to his party leader without losing his affiliation. Texas will be represented on the committee by Robert L. Henry.

Owes Us Little.

What does the world owe a man? Pertinent question, isn't it? The world must owe some of us something, or the question of its indebtedness would not bob up so frequently.

What does the world owe a man anyhow?

And which of us are so high and mighty as to be the world's creditor? And why does the world owe any man?

Simple questions, very, but hard to answer.

Does the world owe you or me a living because we do not feel like making one for ourselves?

This question is mighty near an answer to one of the above.

What has the average man done, unselfishly and without hope of personal gain, for the world that he should count the world his debtor? This also comes very near to being an answer to the whole bunch of previous questions.

As a matter of fact, the world owes no man more than he earns in it.

The man who sits down and says "the world owes me a living" has the hardest kind of debt to collect, and there is no record of such a man having collected his debt.

The man who works gets the living, and he is the only one who has a right to expect it.—Jonesboro (Ark) Daily News.

Solid Ripe Tomatoes

Most of the ordinary canned tomatoes that you buy are packed by machinery and after being peeled are very easily broken and mushed up, the machinery method of packing makes it almost impossible to deliver to you whole canned tomatoes.

That's why the packers of Monarch Tomatoes pack by hand, that is the girls who peel them place them in the cans by hand and the cooking is done by steam.

This leaves the tomatoes entirely whole.

Perfectly solid, but ripe tomatoes only are used and a variety that has a very pleasing flavor.

GREAT RECORD OF CASCADE HUNTER

P. C. PETERSON HAS KILLED 20 BEARS, 12 COUGARS, 4 LYNXES AND 300 WILDCATS.

HAIRBREADTH ESCAPES

Government Hunter Has Many Thrilling Encounters With Beasts of Prey in the Mountains.

Special to the Times: Spokane, Wash., Mar. 16.—Twenty bears, a dozen cougars, four lynxes and 300 wildcats have been bagged in the last two years by P. C. Peterson, United States government hunter in the State of Washington, who, after hunting big game in nearly every part of the world, declares that the sport he has had in the Cascade mountains rivals anything he ever experienced elsewhere.

Peterson's duty is to slay predatory animals. For this he is paid $75 a month by Uncle Sam and, in addition, he receives the regular State bounty on every wild pelt brought to the auditors of the various counties in the commonwealth. He was appointed to the job when the forestry service created similar berths in several Western States at the suggestion of Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, then president of the United States. The ranchers who recommended him are well pleased with his work.

Hunting has been his occupation since boyhood days in Denmark, where, when nine years of age, he obtained his father's fowling piece by trickery and killed a neighbor's pet cat. He has killed seals and polar bears and hunted with the natives in Ural mountains, where he killed 21 wolves and 7 brown bears. He also brought down six out of a pack of 11 Siberian timber wolves in their native heath. He passed nearly a year hunting and studying wild life in Russia.

Returning to Denmark he embarked on a round the world cruise on the Danish man-of-war in command of Prince Vlademar, being in a Chinese port a month during the Boxer uprising. Upon the completion of the voyage he came to the United States, hunting for a year in Northern Minnesota, Montana and Wyoming. He came to Washington four years ago, with the expectation of going into Siberia over the Siberian railroad, but the opening of the Russo-Japanese war forced him to remain in this State.

Peterson has had all kinds of hair-raising experiences and narrow escapes from death, but what would be thrilling to the average hunter has become commonplace with him. Recently, he faced a cougar which was crouched within four feet of him in a tree top, but his only regret was that he did not have a camera to "shoot" the big cat at close range. This is his story of the incident:

"The dogs treed the animal in the middle fork of the Snoqualmie river after dark. The beast was so far up the tree and the foliage was so thick that I could not get a bead on its eyes to make a shot. I did not want to lose the animal, so I stationed the dogs at the base of the tree and climbed a nearby tree. I got up high enough so that I finally caught sight of the cougar's eye from behind the tree trunk and fired. With a piercing howl, the animal sprang out on a branch that extended to where I was standing at the trunk of a small tree, and glared at me four feet away. It wanted to spring on me, but I kept shooting as fast as I could with my 25-20 rifle, and four bullets lodged in the beast's neck. That was enough and it turned and jumped on a lower limb. My position to shoot from was not good, as the little tree swayed with my weight and I was afraid it might break any time. But when the cougar got on the lower limb, I drove a bullet behind its ear and scored.

"Cougars are treacherous. They will often allow a hunter to pass under the tree in which they are located before jumping down and making their escape. It takes from three to five years to train a dog properly to hunt for them. It has to be a good dog in the first place. Any dog will trail a cougar to the tree it first ascends after leaving the ground, but it takes a good one to follow it to the tree where it makes its final lodgment. The reason is that cougars will sometimes go as far as a quarter of a mile by jumping from the branches of one tree to another.

other. Another of their tricks is to turn around and trail the hunter who is tracking them.

"Cats are, of course, not so dangerous. I had a funny experience with one last spring on the north fork of the Snoqualmie. I had only one dog with me, and it tackled the cat before I arrived. The cat got the dog by the neck, and was having the better of the fray. I could not shoot for fear of hitting the dog, so I dug in and kicked the cat with my hob-nailed boots. In the tussle I fell over backward and the two animals rolled on top of me. We had a lively time of it there for a few minutes, with the cat trying to kill the dog, the dog trying to kill the cat, and myself kicking wildly with both feet at the fighting mass of fur to keep the combatants off my face. The dog won the day, however.

"Another wild cat gave me a scare last summer. The dogs drove it into a cave in the mountainside. The entrance was so small they could not follow the animal. I pulled away a few of the rocks to make a little more room and then, armed with a revolver, wriggled my body, head-first, into the cave. I lighted a candle in the hope of getting a sight of the animal. I succeeded, but could turn my head to take aim, so I fired without aiming, taking a chance at hitting the cat. I missed and the concussion extinguished the candle.

"I was wedged in the entrance tightly, and the dogs made it still more difficult for me to back out, because they tried to crowd in when they heard the shot. The cat, which was only two feet from my face, growled ferociously, and I thought it might spring upon me as I lay there helpless, but it did not. I lighted the candle again and went in and took another chance shot. This time I was successful.

"A peculiar fact about wild cats is that, thick as they are on the west side of the Cascade mountains all the way to the summit of the range, not one is to be found on the other side. On the contrary, lynxes are found on the east side, but they never cross the divide. No one knows the reason, and the only way I can account for it is the difference in moisture.

"Henry Rief, State game warden, was with me last summer when I had a peculiar experience with my horse at Carmack Falls above Snoqualmie Falls. We missed the animal, after I had dismounted, and were surprised to discover it swimming in the pool at the bottom of the falls, sixty feet below us. When we helped the horse out we found it was not injured in the least. It had waded into the stream, been swept off its feet, and carried over the falls without getting hurt.

"That same summer I lost a horse in just as peculiar a manner on the Chewawa river, in the Lake Chelan country. While grazing it fell into a shaft thirty feet deep that had been sunk years ago by a prospector. The animal was dead when found, having starved in the bottom of the shaft. The dogs did not find the hole until ten days after horse disappeared.

"I almost lost my life in the Red Mountain mining district last September while crossing a glacier in a snow storm. I found myself at the bottom of a narrow crevasse 40 feet deep. It was 49 miles to the nearest settlement and there is no doubt that if I had not had my hunting axe strapped to my belt I would not be here to tell the story. With the axe I cut steps in the walls of ice and made my way out."

Peterson makes his home at North Bend, Wash., but most of the time he is in the woods and in the mountains.

FIRST MEETING OF THE CATTLEMEN

Fort Worth Star-Telegram.
"That first meeting didn't amount to much," says Capt. Burke Burnett of the Cattle Raisers' Association. He was present under the spreading oak tree at Graham, Feb. 15, 1877, when the first president, C. L. Carter, of Palo Pinto, and the first secretary, J. C. Loving of Jack County, were elected.

"We didn't do a great deal," declared Captain Burnett, with great modesty. But he evidently didn't take into account the fact that this organization, of which he was one of the original founders and is now one of the most influential members, has grown from a mere handful of men into an army of 1,800 stockmen.

The cattlemen assembled at Graham that day from miles around. About twenty-five were present in all.

The call for the meeting specified that the association should be known as the Stock Raisers' Association of Northwest Texas. This name has been subsequently changed.

The movement to form the association originated among the stockmen of Palo Pinto, Parker and neighboring counties, including Captain B. B. Paddock's "Democrat" in Ft. Worth. The "spreading oak tree" is all a myth. As a matter of fact, the stockmen tied their horses to the rack in front of the Young county court house and held their sessions in the modest little building.

To J. N. Simpson, then of Parker county, now of Dallas and late candidate for governor on the republican ticket, fell the honor and distinction of calling the first convention to order. In addition to performing this duty, thirty-two years ago, Colonel Simpson also placed in nomination C. L. Carter of Palo Pinto county for president. The minutes of that early meeting record that Mr. Carter had no opposition and became the first president the cattlemen ever had without even faint opposition.

Just as unanimous was the election of J. C. Loving of Jacksboro as secretary. To him perhaps more than to any one else the success of the Texas Cattle Raisers' Association is attributable. So general is the regard for Mr. Loving that the association has already voted to erect a monument to his memory in Fort Worth, where he is buried.

Mr. Loving acted as secretary of the association twenty-six years, eighteen of which he bore the title of general manager. His term of office expired only with death.

The first convention at Graham in 1877 lasted only two days. To draft resolutions, expressive of the purpose of the organization, the following committee was named by President Carter upon motion of W. B. Slaughter: Joseph Graham, Sam Glendon, Rowland Johnson, A. B. Mellin, C. B. Brummett, J. T. Webb, George Wright, J. N. Simpson, J. C. Loving, H. G. Bedford, Tom Merrill, John D. Smith, W. B. Slaughter, R. E. Mabry, D. B. Gardner, J. C. Lindsay and President Carter.

The committee reported on the following day, and besides naming the association allotted all the stock territory into districts, over which inspectors were appointed to gather up the stray cattle and to find the owners. Furthermore, when a stockman desired to move his herd, he was requested to notify his three nearest neighbors in order that they might inspect his cattle and see that he carried away none with him that belonged to them.

A resolution was also reported back by this committee, authorizing Captain B. B. Paddock of Fort Worth to publish a "Stock Journal."

In addition to C. J. Carter and J. C. Loving as officers, J. D. Smith was chosen the association's original vice president and S. J. Conner, assistant to the secretary.

That the stockmen were in dead earnest in organizing the association evidenced by their action in the next meeting in reprimanding one of their number for an infraction of the rules in moving, driving and distributing cattle without notifying his neighbors.

The officers chosen at this first convention remained in harness for many years. Secretary Loving's service was terminated only by death twenty-five years later.

President Carter was re-elected annually until 1885, when he declined to run again. Colonel C. C. Slaughter was thereupon elected president to succeed him. But Carter was at the head of the association again in 1886 and continued to be president until he died in 1888.

The presidents since then have been A. P. Bush Jr. of Colorado, R. J. Kieberg of Allice, Murdo Mackenzie of Trinidad, Colo., W. W. Turney of El Paso and Ike T. Pryor of San Antonio.

French Women's Complexion.
When a French woman attempts to improve her complexion, she never does the work spasmodically, that is, begin the work, leave it alone, then begin again. She gives a thorough trial of whatever she intends using. Most French women use harmless pomades and toilette water to beautify the complexion, and almost always use rouge and dark-eyebrow pencils, but never in the distressing manner that most Americans do. Their pomades consist mostly of the beaten white of egg and lemon juice, boiled in a double boiler until a thick cream is formed. This can be applied to the face at any time after washing and rubbing it dry, after which any powder and rouge can be used. The oils and skin foods are abundantly used to cleanse the face, every particle of grease being cut with toilet water or toilet vinegar, the later after much soap has been used. Pure toilet vinegar is soothing to the face the chaps. One of the pomades used is made of the white of egg in which borax is stirred. It has a tendency to whiten the face and often cures facial blemishes.
