RECORD PRICE ON WHEAT IS OFFERED

BUYERS HERE CLOSING UP CONTRACTS AT A DOLLAR-THIRTY UP TO JUNE 15.

SEVERAL GROWERS SIGN UP

Labor Reported Scarce At Some Points—Total Wichita Yield About 500,000 Bushels.

The record price of $1.30 per bushel on wheat contracts is being paid by local buyers this year and a number of growers have signed up for the delivery of the grain now being harvested. The local elevator companies have already signed contracts for a large part of the crop at the above price, which will prevail until about June 15th, after which a decline may be looked for. The excellent opening price is accounted for by the desire to get good grain to begin the season with and as soon as the first deliveries are made, the price, it is predicted, will fall rapidly.

A scarcity of labor is said to be delaying the harvest in several places, but in general things are moving rapidly. The Wichita county crop will be the several days and the first movement in this section of the State will be from Wise county, where there is an earlier harvest than in the vicinity of Wichita Falls.

The price being offered at present breaks the Wichita Falls record by some twenty cents. At times in the past $1.10 has been paid locally, although the usual quotation was several cents lower than that.

Wichita county acreage is about 50,000 this year, the average being not far from ten bushels, or roughly speaking, half a million bushels from this county.

Paying $1.35 at Denton.

Texas News Service Special. Denton, Tex., June 4.—Following the announcement that an advance in cash wheat in the eastern markets reached $1.65, the highest price paid since 1868, new wheat contracts were made here today around $1.35 or higher, if the market is higher. Thousands of bushels are being contracted for. Threshing will start tomorrow.

JAMES CALLAN TO TESTIFY IN CATTLE RATE HEARING.

Texas News Service Special. Fort Worth, Tex., June 4.—James Callan, president of the Texas Cattle Raisers' Association, arrived here today from Menardville. He was summoned as a witness by the interstate commerce commission to testify in the hearing before the United States supreme court, which is to determine the rate for shipping cattle. Callan's evidence will strongly aid the shippers in their fight for the lower rate which the commission ordered. It is believed.

The railroads this morning continued to offer evidence, Chief Engineer Waltham of the Texas and Pacific being on the stand most of the morning. He declared that the road took proper care of the pens.

If the Texas cattlemen win, it will save them millions annually.

SERIOUS REVOLUTIONARY FEELING IN HONDURAS

By Associated Press. Washington, D. C., June 4.—Wireless telegrams from American consular agents in Honduras informed the State Department today of revolutionary troubles in Celba. So serious is the situation believed that the gunboat Paducah at Porto Cortez sailed yesterday for Celba in response to a request for protection of foreign life and property. Communication between Celba and Tegucigalpa seems to be cut off.

SOME IMPROVEMENT IN COTTON CONDITION

By Associated Press. Washington, D. C., June 4.—Today's report by the agricultural department shows the growing cotton crop on May 31st to have been $1.1 per cent of the normal condition as compared with 79.9 per cent one year ago. The area planted aggregates about thirty-one million, nine hundred and eighteen thousand acres, which is a decrease of 4.4 per cent.

IDLE NEGROES WON'T WORK AT TWO DOLLARS PER DAY.

The police department is determined to stop vagrancy among negroes in this city and a number of arrests on vagrancy charges may be expected shortly. There are a number of negroes here that apparently will not work at any price, as is evidenced by the fact that recently a contractor wanted 100 negroes at $2.00 per day, but was unable to secure a single man. He raised the price to $2.50 and managed to secure one or two. Yet in the negro section of the city there are scores of blacks not at work. The city has taken the matter in charge and will see that no idle negroes are allowed to remain while there is so much work to be done at good wages.

ADAMS OF PETROLIA TO START DAILY AT STAMFORD.

J. C. Adams of Petrolia was in Wichita Falls today en route to Stamford, where he expects to give that city a first class daily paper. Mr. Adams has been with the Petrolia Round-Up for about a year, having disposed of his interest there to S. A. Roberts, formerly of the Byers Searchlight. Stamford is one of the largest Texas cities to be without a daily and it is believed there is a good field for one there. Mr. Adams is accompanied by his wife and child.

DID TOM BARNETT TAKE HIS OWN LIFE.

Texas News Service Special. Abilene, Tex., June 4.—The special grand jury which has been investigating the killing of Tom Barnett by a mob here recently, today reported to District Judge Blanton that they were not able to find any indictments so far and having served the allotted time, adjourned. The jurors expressed the opinion that indictments are possible against every member of the mob and suggested that they be granted more time to investigate. They declare that there were fifteen persons in the mob and that a majority were non-residents. Judge Blanton today has not announced his next move. The sheriff, jailer and surgeon declare their belief that Barnett killed himself just before being fired upon.

SCRIBNER IS CONVICTED OF MURDER OF PUTNAM.

Texas News Service Special. Ada, Ok., June 4.—Dan Scribner was convicted here today on the charge of killing Zeke Putnam, marshal of Allen, Oklahoma. The jury was out thirty minutes. Four others are charged with complicity in this murder and will be tried. Scribner and the others accused of murdering Putnam were hurried from Ada at the time of the lynching of the four cattlemen recently, as it was feared that they, too, would be mobbed.

GRAND JURY WILL TAKE RECESS THIS AFTERNOON.

The grand jury, which has been in session all this week, will adjourn this afternoon until Monday morning, when work will be resumed. No more cases have been reported since yesterday morning, but some further true bills may be returned before adjournment this afternoon.

THEY SAY IT HAS BEEN CAUSE OF MOST OF ANTI-SALOON AGITATION LATELY.

TO MAKE FIGHT ON IT SAYRE AFTER LINE ALSO

Brewers Shipping To Other States Required to Conform to State Regulations.

By Associated Press. Atlantic City, N. J., June 4.—War on the low dive was declared at the closing session of the United Brewers' Association today, and regulative measures of a strict nature were recommended. According to Percy Andrews of Ohio, the dives are responsible for nearly all of the anti-saloon agitation, the same view being expressed by William C. Manchester of Michigan. The association went on record as opposing disorderly saloons and as favoring a separation of the beer business from the evil influences with which it is commonly associated. Resolutions were adopted requiring brewers who ship into other States to conform to the rules of the brewers in the State shipped into, with regard to customers.

ROAD TO MANGUM IS NOW CERTAIN

PARTIES THERE WIRE AGREEMENT TO THE NORTHWESTERN'S PROPOSITION.

COMMERCIAL CLUB THERE WANTS TO BECOME JUNCTION POINT WITH ROCK ISLAND LINES.

The extension of the Northwestern to Mangum is soon to be a reality. This morning the officials of the road received a telegram from Mangum parties, stating that they were ready to accept the company's proposition, and Messrs. Kell and Huff will go up there shortly to close the contract. Upon what terms the Northwestern agreed to the extension has not been learned.

It is not likely that the Northwestern will stop at Mangum. A delegation representing the Commercial Club of Sayre, Oklahoma, has wired the company's officials that they desire a hearing Saturday in order to present the advantages of their city as a junction point with the Choctaw division of the Rock Island.

Sayre is the county seat of Beckham county, Oklahoma, and is reputed a live, wide awake business town. Mr. Kemp has made an appointment with the Sayre parties, but it has not been learned that the company is ready to discuss any extensions beyond Mangum yet. Sayre is a little north of west of Mangum and a railroad would find a wide stretch of unoccupied country in the border counties of Oklahoma, ready to extend a hearty welcome should this route be adopted. The advantages of a junction with the Rock Island are obvious and there are many who favor the proposed extension with view.

T. S. Cole and Huby Wilson of Ferris are in Wichita Falls today and will probably complete arrangement for the new brick plant this afternoon. These gentlemen were here several days ago looking matters over in connection with the proposed plant, but wished to look at other points before deciding to erect a factory here. The advantages of this city as a site, however, could not be overlooked, and the plant is now a certainty. It is expected to put the deal through today and begin construction work as soon as the railroad spurs can be built to the proposed site of the plant.

PARTIAL ECLIPSE OF MOON VISIBLE YESTERDAY EVENING.

Early last night the lunar eclipse predicted by astronomers came off as per schedule, being visible to Wichita Falls for about half an hour. It never was total from this city's view, though at one time all but a narrow rim of the moon was hidden. The eclipse was caused by the earth's coming across the line between the sun and moon, thus throwing the latter into darkness. The moon's full beauty was restored by 8:15, when the earth's shadow had gradually moved off of it.

INDIANAPOLIS TO HAVE FIRST NATIONAL BALLOON RACE.

Indianapolis, Ind., June 4.—Arrangements are complete for the first national balloon race, to be started at 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon from the new Indiana Motor Parkway west of this city. Today all who are interested in aeronautics or any branch of aerial navigation are eagerly awaiting the signal which will announce the casting of the big gas bags from their anchors.

The national race is for the championship of the Aero Club of America. This is a distance contest and the pilot of the winning balloon will be presented with a cup emblematic of the American championship for the year. A special trophy has been donated by C. G. Fisher of this city for the balloon that remains in the air the longest time.

One hour before the start of the big race the Aero Club of Indiana handicapper will be held. This event is open to all members of the Clubs recognized by the Aero Club of America. A number of entries have been made for this event and it promises to take a place on the annual program which will make it almost an equal event to the great open race.

No balloon race that has ever been held in America has given promise of the success which has been predicted for the national event tomorrow. It eclipses the big international event held at St. Louis two years ago, particularly in the size and power of the craft which will compete. All of the balloons in tomorrow's race will each hold 80,000 cubic feet of gas, which is the maximum size.

Present indications are that six and possibly eight balloons will start in the national race. Included among the entries are the following: A. H. Forbes, with Clifford B. Harmon as aid, with the balloon New York; A. H. Morgan, with J. H. Wade, Jr., of Cleveland as aid, with the balloon Cleveland; Carl G. Fisher, with G. L. Bumbaugh of Indianapolis as aid, with the balloon Indiana; R. A. Coey of Chicago, with H. E. Honeywool as aid, with the balloon St. Louis; A. B. Lambert of Chicago with the balloon Chicago.

A record breaking flight will be the aim of every starter in the race.

They are hoping to get away in a good breeze leading to the northwest, in which event the aeronauts are confident at least one or more of the contestants will reach Nova Scotia.

Meek and Atwell Exonerated.

Washington, D. C., June 2.—The charges against Judge Edward Meek of the United States court of Dallas, Texas, and United States Attorney W. H. Atwell of the Northern district of Texas, are wholly without foundation, cruelly unjust and for the sole purpose of securing delay in the prosecution of a man whose offense against innocent victims in a fraudulent use of the mails deserved the severest punishment.

This announcement was made today by Attorney General Wickersham, after a thorough examination of the complaint by persons in Dallas representing W. J. Hogue, recently convicted of fraudulent use of the mails and later of perjury during that trial.

Hogue charged Judge Meek and Attorney Atwell with improper conduct in his trial.

Attorney General Wickersham says the conduct of the two officials is 'absolutely above reproach and their forbearance and fidelity to duty merit the highest praise.'

A. S. FONVILLE THE JEWELER

IN A COPPER CAMP.

Its Divisions Known as "Drill Town" and "Slag Town."

A copper camp has its own characteristics peculiar and apart. It has two distinct classes of workmen—the skilled miners, who work underground, and the smelter men, who range from experience and scientific training to unskilled day laborers.

More often than not they form separate camps within the camp—"Drill Town," as the "slag pushers" call the quarter given over to the men who "hit the drill," and "Slag Town" or "Little Hades" for the smelter men.

The smelter is the heart of the camp. In the community there is every variety of camp architecture, from the tent pure and simple and the "half breed house," which is a tent floored and boarded up along the sides to the turn of the roof and fitted with a "sure enough door" that will lock, to the hotel like a huge packing box with rows and rows of little, narrow windows set along the sides like polka dots on a shirt waist and a flat roof that does not reach an inch beyond the sides, the whole painted a faded green and jaundiced over with the red dust.

A great copper camp grows slowly. When there is a town above ground there is something like it below—tunnels, stations, stopes, workings reaching out like streets and alleys to follow the vagaries of the lead. There is no gutting of a rich ledge and going on, no careless search for "pockets" to be robbed and left.

With scientific skill and mathematical precision each yard of work is driven to open up the best road to or still beyond and to leave a safe and convenient way by which it may reach the surface. Nature has rooted her wealth of copper deep in the earth, and no haphazard methods will release it profitably. It would amuse or bewilder an old time gold miner to see the care and economy practiced in modern copper mining—the small savings, the constant search for better methods of handling, the struggle to eliminate waste and utilize all the by-products.—Out West.

THE MARITIME EXCHANGE.

It Keeps Posted on Every Vessel Engaged in Commerce.

It is a fact not generally known that the arrival and departure of steam and sailing vessels engaged in commerce is reported daily from every port in the world. Sitting in the Maritime Exchange, you could tell at a glance just what had transpired in shipping circles of any port during the past twenty-four hours. There is a report on every ship that has cleared or entered. The report gives the name of her home port, how many days out, her cargo, the number of passengers, her consignors and consignees, her destination and her captain's name. The companies themselves and underwriters and forwarders station these agents all over the map, and the agents are like so many train dispatchers on land reporting the movements of every piece of "rolling" stock under the reign of maritime law. The number of men engaged on shore in the business of sailing ships is twice as great as the number managing those same ships on the ocean.

In any given company the organization represents a great pyramid of brains and brawn, authority percolating down through the maze of detail from the man who draws a princely salary studying the Mercator projection to the stevedores who shift freight. Every man has his work cut out for him.

Every steamer that floats is considered as a unit. It is a semi-independent state the moment it leaves shore. It has its orders just the same as a battalion of soldiers on the battlefield, and on its bridge walks the captain, who holds almost arbitrary power over the destinies of his floating community.—Bookkeeper.

Dowries in India.
The custom of extorting dowries has grown into the very fabric of the social life and is a standing disgrace to the Bengali community, which has no justification to plead or apology to offer. The practice has now assumed alarming proportions of parents of boys extorting costly dowries as a condition of marrying their sons. The marriage of a daughter among Bengalis has become an expensive affair, and the amount in cash demanded by the father or guardian of the boy and paid by the father or guardian of the bride varies with the educational attainments of the bridegroom.—Indian Nation.

Self Tending Beacons.
The acetylene lighted buoys of the Swedish coast keep in action seventy days without renewal of the single tubes of fifty liters of dissolved acetylene. Ingenious automatic lighting makes this possible. A bright reflecting surface and a black absorbing one give unequal expansion by daylight, thus closing a valve and shutting off the gas, but at night this action ceases, the valve opens, and the gas, automatically lighted, continues burning.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Not Silent.
"I am sealing this letter with a silent kiss," he wrote to her, and just then he dropped a little of the hot wax on his thumb and let out a howl of pain that could be heard clear around the corner.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Psychology of Dreams.
Dreams go by contraries, but they nearly always agree with what we eat.—Birmingham Age-Herald.

There is a place and means for every man alive.—Shakespeare.

WEATHER FORECAST.

For Wichita Falls and Vicinity
—Tonight and Saturday, partly cloudy weather.

Wichita Falls, Texas, June 4th, 1909.

June brides, linen showers, commencement essays and magnolia blossoms are ripe.—Sherman Democrat.

The preachers of Jersey City have organized a baseball team. There is just one question we would like to ask: Who curses the umpire?—Bonham Favorite.

Washington has a strict ordinance against spitting on the sidewalk. Perhaps that is the reason Senator Bailey considers it safe to spit on his party platforms.—Clarendon Chronicle.

Senator Bailey says he doesn't want to be governor of Texas, and a great many people in Texas wouldn't want him to be, so there is one great mutuality of feeling between him and a lot of Texas politicians.—Abilene News.

The governor approved the appropriation bill after cutting out what he thought to be needless appropriations of the people's money. There will likely be much difference of opinion as to the need of the appropriations cut from the bill but the people generally would rather the governor err in the direction of economy of administration and give a reduced tax rate. It is not always best, however, to cut expenses in the affairs of state, the same as in private institutions.—Wills Point Chronicle.

Stamford is to have a daily paper and if the enterprise receives proper encouragement it will do much toward giving publicity to that little live-wire town. People, as a rule, judge the town or city by the papers which it puts out, and if the papers have a leary, hungry, half-starved appearance, the fellow who is looking for a location is apt to pass that town or city and locate in some other place where, judging from the appearance of the town papers, everybody seems prosperous and enjoying life. If the Times at Stamford will receive a hearty welcome.

Assistant Attorney General Lightfoot won his spurs along with Attorney General Davidson in the successful prosecution of the Waters-Pierce Oil Company. Mr. Lightfoot now says it is his intention to spend the summer collecting evidence for the prosecution of Pierce on the charge of perjury. As he is a candidate for attorney general, it will be best, perhaps, to delay the trial of Pierce until after the election for the reason that he will find it much easier work to convict a concern and have a heavy fine imposed on it, than it is to put stripes on a rich man for merely swearing to a falsehood at the suggestion of his legal advisers. In this matter Pierce was not so much to blame as his lawyer, and a fair-minded jury would rather bring in a verdict to disbar a lawyer who would advise his client to make a false affidavit than to inflict punishment upon his client.

Farmers Bank and Trust Co.
Capital and Surplus, $80,000.

The high record price at which new wheat is being contracted, for will help out very materially the shortage of the crop caused by the dry weather and small acreage. Up to the present time binder twine dealers report that in the neighborhood of 75,000 pounds of twine have so far been sold to farmers in the trade territory adjacent to Wichita Falls, which, estimating that it will require one pound of twine per acre on an average, indicates that there will be at least 75,000 acres of wheat and oats cut and bound with twine in the territory above referred to. In addition to the crops which are of sufficient height to be cut with a regular binder, there are many which will have to be headed, or not harvested at all, and for this purpose one implement dealer in this city unloaded today a car of header attachments, every one of which will be sold before the end of the week. Many wheat crops have already been sold at $1.25 per bushel and today even a higher figure than that is being paid. As to the probable yield of the wheat crop, only a guess can be made. Most farmers, however, say the average will be between 7 and 10 bushels per acre. There will be a few crops of wheat which will make an average yield of 20 bushels per acre, and perhaps more. On the other hand there will be a great many crops which will not go above five bushels per acre. All things considered, the small grain crop outlook for this section of the country is much better than it was one week ago. The heads are filling out nicely, and the sample is fine. Those who are judges say the wheat will easily grade No. 2. A few weeks ago most farmers predicted a failure of wheat and oat crops, and would have been well satisfied could they have been assured of getting their seed back. Now it looks as if the few light rains which fell during the past two weeks had come just at the right time to make small grain crops, and while the total yield will be less than half what it would have been had the season for small grain crops been favorable, it will be so much better than was expected that everybody is inclined to be just a little bit more cheerful than they were before the rains came.

St. John's College to Celebrate.

Annapolis, Md., June 4.—Elaborate preparations are being made for the twenty-fifth anniversary of the merger of King William's school into St. John's college, which will take place during the commencement exercises week after next. The institution now known as St. John's college, which also forms the academic department of the University of Maryland, was founded as King William's school in 1689, and was the first public free school in America. As such it is considered the forerunner of the public school system of the nation. In age it is excelled only by Harvard and William and Mary among the colleges of the United States.

Pentecostal Revival.

The Pentecostal Nazarene church begins a revival meeting tonight at the new tabernacle near the city hall. Everybody invited to come and help in this meeting. We want to get the lost saved from their actual transgressions and believers sanctified wholly. We invite all brother preachers to come and help in the work for the salvation of the lost in this town and country. Bro. Ben Nealy will be in charge. Bro. Gregory and wife, song evangelists, and other workers are expected.

Bro. Nealy is a spirit-filled man, and has great faith in God. It will do you good to hear him.

Deceased was in her eighteenth year, and had been married only about seven months. She was stricken with typhoid several weeks ago, but it was thought she was recovering, and was able to leave her bed.

Funeral services will be conducted by Rev. W. F. Fry from the family residence at 5 o'clock this afternoon. Interment at Riverside cemetery.

CRUSHED IN THE ICE.

Thrilling Experience on Board a Sealing Vessel.

HOW THE SHIP WENT DOWN.

Smashed in Amidships and Powerless to Escape, She Was Swallowed in the Ice Deep—The Wild Rush of the Crew to Escape on the Floes.

Constant peril menaces the hardy crews that fearlessly sail into the icy northern seas and risk their lives in the dangerous work of hunting the seal. In Harper's Magazine, George Harding, the author, writes dramatically of the sinking of the ship on which he sailed with the Newfoundland sealing fleet. His experience was uniquely perilous. The ship was crushed like an egg in the ice.

"On the bridge were the captain and watch anxiously awaiting the chance to head the ship out of the moving ice into the stationary pack of which the big sheet was part. The bowllor lay on the barricade, ready for heaving when the crew should be ordered on the foe to haul the ship's head around. Aloft, the spyman searched the gloom for signs of a bull in the confused and tremendous waste.

"Then there came a terrific crash. The vessel, caught in the trench between the rafting sheets, was powerless to escape. The smash of breaking timbers rose above the gale as a great corner of ice crushed the vessel's side amidships. The captain and watch rushed to the engine room. It was filled with steam, the inflowing water having already reached the fires. A glance showed that nothing could stop the inrush of water. The firemen were retreating. The first of them, like a creature from another world, coal begrimed, undershirt clad, reached the ice sheathed deck, spreading panic in his path. Above the hailing of questions and shouts that no man could understand came the voice of the skipper; he knew the situation as no other man.

"Men," he shouted, "the ship 'll go! Pack your clothes—save the grub!"

"Then it was confusion everywhere. The crew poured up the hatchway, hauling clothes boxes and bags, crowding over the side, colliding in midair as they half tumbled and half slid down the ropes, then back for food.

Laboriously the heavy pork barrels were hauled by hand from the after hold, where men bravely toiled. Others fought their way aloft, where the sails were stowed. The canvas cut loose, bellying out in the force of the gale, was dropped to the deck. Puntis were slipped from the davits. Some hitting the ice with a crash, were stowed in. Throughout it all the captain shouted:

"Haul them punts and grub farther off! Farther yet! Farther!"

"The water, rapidly rising, drove the men from the lower hold. They retreated to the deck. Then the inflow, level with the ocean, ceased. The ice for the time held the ship in its grip. Second by second passed, bringing no change. In that brief interval each man suddenly thought to save the thing he most desired. A wild rush was made to wheelhouse, to cabin, to the ship's storeroom—every man for himself—a scuffle to get the thing most coveted and escape to the ice. With one it was a rifle from the ship's armory to replace the antiquated muzzle loader at home; with another, the ship's compass or the barometer; with the after galley cook it was the cabin dishes. In the cabin a crowd surged to the medicine chest, scrambling for liniments and pills, smashing anything that was an obstacle in their way. Such was the scene when the cry arose on deck, repeated by fifty men and echoing throughout the vessel, "Tis time to take to the ice!" Then a great rush to be clear of the doomed ship as the mass of men, some empty handed, others laden, defending their spoil from the unsuccessful, plunged on to the ice.

"The ship was sinking fast. It was but a short leap for the last man from her deck to the loosening ice. The men stood on the foe, looking the ship over from the bow, lifted high, to the stern, now below water.

"A pity to lose the vessel," they said. "Wonderful hard to lose the trip 'o' fat."

"Then came the final plunge. The mainmast, reaching over the foe, broke as the weight of the vessel pulled it under. The great anchors sliding from the bow added to the tumult, as everything not frozen solid to the deck crashed into the house and galley. For a second a flash of flame shot from the overturned stove; then nothing save a few seal pelts and broken oars lay on the surface of the troubled hole in the foe where the Grand Lake had disappeared."

Parisian Amiability.

The mother-in-law question is as acute in Paris as in London, but there are ladies who do not seem to be always at loggerheads with their daughters' husbands. According to a witness in court, some sons-in-law are extremely tolerant fellows. A lady was giving evidence as to the disposition of her daughter's husband, and as evidence of his kindly nature she explained to the judge: "Oh, M. le President, the young man is of the completest amiability! Believe me, he has been married to my daughter eighteen months, and he has not once threatened to strike me!"—London Standard.

Last fall we bought a little larger stock of Heinz preserves than we realized and find ourselves a little overstocked just now.

These are the very finest preserves put up and are guaranteed in every way as to quality and weight not only by the Heinz Co., but by ourselves.

They come in 3 lb. crocks in the following kinds: Strawberry, Peach, Red Cherries and Raspberry.

Being strictly pure goods and put up without any artificial preservative they will not keep well during the hot weather so we are going to make a big cut to close them out for immediate use.

The price of all except the cherry is 90c, and that is $1.00, but to move them quickly we offer them while they last at

and include the cherry at that price too.

Brain Leaks.

The Commoner. Some men's idea of "sport" is to go out and kill something.

The man with "push" is usually a long way ahead of the man with a "pull."

The man who does not love children and dogs is not worthy of the love of his fellows.

We have often wished that some ministers could sit in the pew and hear themselves preach.

People who expect to win heaven by proxy are going to meet with a warm disappointment.

The true fisherman cares very little about the fish, just so the conditions are right for fishing.

Coins minted from the tears of widows and orphans will never purchase a ticket to heaven.

After all, the good roads question hinges upon one issue: Do we want good roads now, and, if we want them, are we willing to pay for them? Good roads in the next decade or the next century will be all right—for those who happen to be living in the next decade or in the next century. What we are interested in chiefly, however, is now.

We know of no improvement of more far-reaching importance, of greater benefits to the present day citizen than the improvement of our roads.—Den-ton Record and Chronicle.

When you buy Lard you get more than you bargain for--It's heavier in your stomach than on the scales

Lard is a foe to digestion. If you had the stomach of an ostrich you could hardly withstand the ravages of lard-soaked pastry. You have probably found this out and already given up the eating of pastry. 'Tis wholly unnecessary! Anyone can eat and digest food cooked with Cottolene, the perfect shortening. It is a pure vegetable product, made from the choicest refined vegetable oil.

When you buy lard you have no protection as to quality—you simply know you are getting LARD—never mind the grade, it's just L-A-R-D. On the other hand, every pail of Cottolene is uniform—the product is guaranteed. You take no chances whatever.

In the face of these facts just ask yourself if you can afford to use hog lard when you can get pure, healthful, nutritious Cottolene.

COTTOLENE is Guaranteed Your grocer is hereby authorized to refund your money in case you are not pleased, after having given Cottolene a fair test.

Never Sold in Bulk Cottolene is packed in pails with an airtight top to keep it clean, fresh and wholesome, and prevent it from catching dust and absorbing disagreeable odors, such as fish, oil, etc.

SEVEN YACHTS TO BE IN SAILING RACE TO BERMUDEA.

New York, June 4.—Seven yachts designed solely for along-shore sailing will venture far out into the Atlantic tomorrow on the fourth of the ocean races to the coral isles of the Bermudas. Ten o'clock tomorrow morning is the hour fixed for the beginning of the race.

The start this year is to be made from the Atlantic Yacht Club house at Sea Gate, instead of from Marblehead, as the starting point of last year's race, and the course therefore will be about 35 miles shorter, giving the yachts 660 sea miles to cover before reaching the finish off St. David's head light.

Such a test, as has already been shown by the three previous Bermuda races for sailing craft, as well as the across the Atlantic contest in 1925, requires skillful navigation, astute seamanship, well-rigged and stoutly sparred vessels, and Yankee grit to hold on until the limit of safety is all but reached.

The yachts entered to compete this year for oceanic honors are the Amorita, 99 feet; Iroquois, 98 feet; Crusader, 97 feet; Margaret, 93 feet; Marchioness, 67 feet; Restless, 38 feet, and Tamerlane, 38 feet.

The contest is under the joint management of the Atlantic and the Royal Bermuda yacht clubs, with Horace F. Boucher, chairman of the regatta committee of the former club, as the moving spirit.

The first race to Bermuda was sailed in 1906. Three boats started—the Lila, the Gauntlet and the Tamerlane. The last named yacht won, making the race in 5 days and 6 hours. The prize was a cup offered by Sir Thomas Lipton, and the Brooklyn yacht club handled the race. In the second race twelve boats started in two classes, and the winners were the Dervish and the Lila. Last year the race was sailed from Marblehead under the flag of the Corinthian Yacht Club, and six boats started—two from Philadelphia, two from New York and two from Boston. The Venona, the smallest schooner, finished first, beating the whole fleet. The first class prize went to the Dervish.

Directors Meet to Hear Protest.
Cincinnati, June 4.—The board of directors of the National League met here today to confer on the Cincinnati Club's protest against the game with Pittsburgh on April 23. The game on that date was won by Pittsburgh, 3 to 1, and Manager Griffith of Cincinnati protested it on the ground that Wagner, who scored the winning run, changed his position at the bat while Gasper was in the act of delivering the ball.

The Maulbys made good last night in their great musical comedy at the Auditorium. The frequent encores were sufficient evidence that it was heartily enjoyed. They change their program tonight.

'SUBSCRIBER' SUGGESTS SOME RULES FOR AUTOS.

Inspired possibly by the recent press announcement of a farmers' war on the automobile, some Wichitaian has penned the rules printed below and forwarded them to the Times. There is nothing unreasonable about these rules and they should be adopted.

First. Upon discovering an approaching team, the driver of the auto must roll off to one side of the road and cover his machine to correspond with the scenery at that place.

Second. Upon approaching a corner where he cannot obtain a view of the road ahead, he must stop, toot his horn, ring his bell, fire a revolver and send off three bombs at intervals of three minutes.

Third. Autos must be reasonably painted—that is green in spring, golden in summer and red in the fall.

Fourth. Autos in the country at night must send up a rocket every mile, proceeding carefully, tooting his horn and sending-up roman candles at short intervals.

Fifth. If an auto comes up behind a farmer where the road is narrow, the farmer must affect deafness until the automobilist's language becomes more fragrant.

Sixth. If a horse will not pass an auto without getting scared the driver of the later must take it apart and hide the pieces in the grass.

Seventh. The speed limit must be kept a strict secret.

—SUBSCRIBER.

The Clothes You Wear

reflect your taste and business ability. Their style and goodness is soon known to your friends. That's the sort of advertising we want. If there is anything that will put a man down and out in the matter of dress it is clothes that fit intermittently. Lumpy clothes are about as unsightly as anything can be and that is why we place fit ahead of many other points. You will find that our clothes fit snug to the neck, show a smooth shoulder and feel comfortable at the armholes. They have the proper quantity of cloth at the right place; they hang gracefully and they have all the niceties of good style and perfect tailoring. The effect of our choice clothing on the public is such now that when a man has a spit in mind he naturally thinks of the excellent style and taste shown in our ready-to-wear garments.

The tuberculosis exhibit being sent over the State by the Texas Anti-Tuberculosis Society arrives in Wichita Falls this afternoon and beginning with tomorrow can be seen in this city for three days. It will be located on Eighth street, between Indiana and Ohio avenues.

Even to those not remotely interested in the study of medicine or similar topics, this exhibit should appeal. It is instructive to a high degree and there is not a feature of it that is not interesting. It is intended to show up two things—first, how to prevent tuberculosis; second, how to cure it. Large pictures, presenting all phases of the fight on tuberculosis, telling what to do and what not to do, showing the places that encourage the spread of the disease, are included in the exhibit and are a leading feature of it. There is a demonstrator to explain and exhibit.

The object of the exhibit is partly educational and partly humanitarian. It is not intended as a money-making affair and there will be no charge for admission, every one, young and old, being welcome. The expenses of bringing the exhibit here are borne by local people.

The exhibit is brought here from Stamford, where it was on exhibition on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. Thousands of people viewed it while in that city.

FRIENDLY BOXING MATCH IS FATAL

GEORGE KOPPE KNOCKS OUT ED LYONS AT AUSTIN, LATTER DYING THIS MORNING.

ATHLETIC CLUB FIGHT

Injuries Did Not Seem Serious Until Today—Murder Charge Has Been Filed—Koppe Arrested.

Austin, Tex., June 5.—Ed Lyons, aged 30 years, died at 10 o'clock this morning as a result of injuries received in a boxing match here last night with George Koppe in a local gymnasium. Koppe has been arrested charged with murder and other arrests are expected.

Lyons was knocked out in the 11th round of a bout which was scheduled to last twenty rounds. The fight was fierce from start to finish, both combatants receiving considerable punishment. By the end of the fifth round both men were covered with blood, and even the referee was covered with the blood of the fighters. Lyons made a dash for Koppe in the eleventh and Koppe landed two powerful blows upon his jaw, sending Lyons to the ropes. He rose feebly and entered the fight to again receive a blow in the face which sent him sprawling to the floor. Lyons walked home, but his condition became serious this morning, he dying before a physician could arrive.

An athletic club here has been conducting boxing matches for some time, only members being admitted. Last night's bout was one of the biggest yet held, both men having good reputations with the gloves. Koppe is said to be from Milwaukee. The unfortunate affair will doubtless stop any further bouts and may result in the arrest of the promoters on prize fighting charges.

The stranger whom Miller is believed to have killed, has never been identified. His body was thrown from the train near the Estelina bridge. Miller was closely guarded to prevent mob violence.

TYLER ELECTION AT FEVER HEAT

SMITH COUNTY MAY RETURN TO WET COLUMN TODAY AND STERN FIGHT IS ON.

Both Sides Have Waged Campaign With Unusual Activity and Some Bitterness.

Texas News Service Special.
Tyler, Tex., June 5.—The efforts to put Smith county in the wet column today are attracting attention from all over the State and the fight is being watched with intense interest. For several weeks the campaigns have been waged by both sides with vigor and some bitterness, frequent debates and rallies being held and a world of literature distributed. The weather is good and a heavy vote is being polled. The pros paraded the streets of this city this morning, hundreds of men, women and children being in line. Both sides claim victory.

The campaign ended last night, the speakers holding forth until after midnight. Every conceivable argument for and against the licensed saloon has been brought into use and neither side has left a stone unturned in its efforts to get out the vote. It is impossible to predict the result at this writing.

THREE CHILDREN AND MOTHER DEAD

LATTER SLASHES THROATS OF LITTLE ONES, THEN USES RAZOR ON HERSELF.

CAUSED BY INFELICITIES

Domestic Troubles Believed to Have Craved Mother—Husband Absent at the Time.

Texas News Service Special.
Corsicana, Tex., June 5.—Mrs. J. M. Green, residing at Daylight, near this city, this morning killed herself and three children, aged respectively 12, 7 and 2 years. The killing took place early this morning and while there were no witnesses, there is little doubt that the woman slashed the throats of the little ones as they lay in bed and then used the weapon upon herself. Her husband was absent at the time.

Domestic troubles are believed to have been the cause of the dreadful deed, which has shocked the Daylight community inexpressibly. The oldest child was a girl, the younger ones being boys.

J. M. Green, the woman's husband, was arrested last Monday, following a complaint by his wife that he had maltreated the 12-year-old daughter. The grand jury failed to indict him and he was released. Last night he went home, and it is said demanded one of the children, saying he would live with his wife no longer. The demand was refused after a great deal of domestic unpleasantness.

Green has not been implicated with this morning's tragedy, so far.

PONDEROUS PLODDERS.

How Elephants Cross a River That Has Steep Banks.

It is a great sight to see a line of elephants crossing a river with steep banks. They go down slowly, striking the ground with their trunks before each step and never making a slip or a miss, although you feel every minute as if they were going to take a header into the water. Then they wade or swim, as the case may be, and they swim beautifully, not hesitating to cross half a mile of deep water if need be.

I must say, however, that the sensation of sitting on the back of a swimming elephant is the reverse of pleasant. You fancy yourself on an enormous barrel which may roll round at any moment and take you under. Besides that, elephants swim so low in the water that you are sure of a wetting, which in India means an excellent chance of fever.

Having crossed the stream, they must climb to the top of the bank, and this is the most peculiar operation of all. Down on their knees they go and with trunk and tusks dig out a foothold for themselves and so step by step work their way to the top, their position being sometimes like that of a fly climbing up a wall. As they reach the top they give a lurch sideways and shoot one leg straight over the bank, then give a lurch to the other side and shoot out the other leg in the same way, which brings them into the position of a boy hanging by his arms from the edge of a roof. Then they come to their knees and finally, with a great scrambling and kicking of their hind legs, bring themselves to level ground again.

In spite of these perilous ascents and descents I never knew an elephant to miss his foothold, although there was a case where one of the herd got stuck in the mud and sank gradually deeper and deeper until only his head and part of his back could be seen. The rajah ordered ten other elephants to be brought up, and they were hitched to the unfortunate animal and by pulling together at the given word brought their bellowing comrade out of the mud with a plomp like the pop of a thousand ton cork.—Times of India.

SITE OF MADRID.

Arid Now, It Once Abounded in Forests and Gardens.

Travelers find it hard to believe that Madrid ever abounded with water. The modern town stands on so bleak and arid an eminence, its surroundings, save in early spring, are so parched and dusty and the water pedler's cry of "Agua! Agua!" is so insistent and ubiquitous one fancies Madrid must have been thirsty from the beginning.

Yet its ancient coat of arms was a large flint half immersed in water, with steel hatchets striking it on either side, the ascending sparks forming a sort of canopy around it. Appended was the motto:

I was built on water.
My walls are of fire.

Such is my emblazonment.

This device was emblematic only of the city in its early days before Charles V. had started it on its long career of greatness merely because he credited its climate with having cured him of a fever. He it was who first conceived the project of elevating it to the rank of capital. It was left, however, to his son, Philip II., to promulgate the decree declaring the town to be unica Corte.

At that time Madrid was a small town embowered in gardens and woods and meadows and with springs and wells lavishly supplied by nature. The Manzanares, now a melancholy, meager stream, was of a measurable depth. But with the apportioning of her territory into palaces and lodging houses for the royal hangers-on and the cutting down of the trees to swell the royal treasury the inevitable followed. The sun of well nigh 400 summers has burned and reburned the site of the old town and its bestripped suburbs and dried up the natural moisture. At present the climate of Madrid is nearly the most trying in all Europe.—From Calvert's "Madrid."

A City of Changes.

Cattaro, the Austrian sea gate of Montenegro, was held by Montenegro once for a little time. Montenegro acquired it in 1813 with the aid of a British squadron. Any inhabitant of Cattaro who was contemporary with the rise and fall of Napoleon must often have had to pause and think what country he belonged to, for, having been Venetian for centuries, Cattaro became Austrian by the treaty of Campo Formio and Italian in 1805 by the peace of Pressburg. It was absorbed in the French empire in 1810 and wrested from it in 1813, and finally in 1814 Russia compelled Montenegro to give it up to Austria.

Sheridan Made the Rhyme.

The prince regent, afterward George IV., once offered £50 to any one who could find a rhyme for "porringer." This was merely child's play to Sheridan, who happened to be present. With scarcely a moment's thought he said:

The Duke of York's daughter had.
He gave the Prince of Orange her.
And now, by sounds, I'll take your pounds,
For there's a rhyme to porringer!

JARRED THE SULTAN.

Advice General Wallace Is Said to Have Given Abdul Hamid II.

When General Law Wallace was the American plenipotentiary in Constantinople he saw Abdul Hamid II. at close quarters—too close for comfort really—but his involuntary inspection was decidedly convincing as to the sultan's timidity.

It seems that from the day of his presentation to the sultan the general had grown in favor at the court and was frequently "commanded" to attend merely from the personal liking of Abdul Hamid for the American minister and the enjoyment of conversation with him. In those days the sultan was particularly vexed over affairs in Egypt. He felt that Egypt was his personal property, yet England had taken the control of the country out of his hands entirely. She had hardly said "by your leave," but had "advised" him that for the good of Egypt he, Abdul Hamid II., had better let her and then had gone ahead.

He had accepted the advice because he had nothing to say "no" with. Without a fleet what could any one say to England? This forced acquiescence worried the sultan continuously until he could not endure longer without madness. In his distress he summoned General Wallace and described to him in detail his humiliating condition.

The general listened with friendly sympathy, and the sultan, being relieved in thus talking in confidence to a man whom he knew to be sincere and altogether free from selfish interests, asked the minister what he could do under the circumstances. General Wallace said that he appreciated the trust and confidence of the sultan, but that, being the representative officially of the United States of America, he could not advise the ruler of another country as to what steps that ruler should take against a third power, especially when this third power was on friendly terms with his own country.

The sultan acknowledged the correctness of this position, but besought the general to make an exception, saying that there was no other man in the empire to whom he could go for one single word of honest, disinterested advice. But the general repeated that he could not be false to his duty as a minister and envoy from his government.

Then said the sultan, "Tell me as a private individual, tell me as a friend." This appeal touched General Wallace deeply, and he said, "As a friend, then, and a private citizen, I will say this, that were I in the position you have described to me I should put myself at the head of my troops and fight to the bitter end."

At these words the blood left the sultan's face, and he fell to the floor in a dead faint. He felt their truth, and he knew, furthermore, that he lacked the strength of character, the force, the will power, to carry out such a program.

What would have happened had the sultan's heart been physically weak as well as not easy to conjecture. As it was, General Wallace did not leave the Yildiz kiosk until long after the hour he had intended, and Abdul Hamid II. never again sought a confidential interview with the author of "Ben-Hur."—New York Press.

Painfully Clean.

Amsterdam enjoys an enviable reputation for its cleanliness. Owen Feitham, who visited Holland in the seventeenth century, was particularly impressed by the spotlessness of its streets and houses. "Whatever their estates be," he writes, "their houses must be fair. Therefore from Amsterdam they have banished seacole, lest it soyle their buildings. Every door seems studded with diamonds. The nails and hinges hold a constant brightness, as if rust there was not a quality incident to iron. Their houses they keep cleaner than their bodies, their bodies than their souls. Go to one, you shall find the andirons shut up in network; at a second, the warming pan muffled in Italian outwork; at a third, the sconce clad in cambrick."

What Money Can't Buy.

Money can't buy everything. There are no admission tickets to a sunset. You wouldn't trade the look in your boy's eyes when he greets you at night for a million dollars of anybody's money, and if you keep a well furnished mind you can go into it any time you like as you would into a child's playground and amuse yourself watching your thoughts play leapfrog with each other.—Lillian Pascal Day in Success Magazine.

FRENCH NATION PRESENTS GOLD MEDAL TO FRISCO.

San Francisco, June 5.—Another manifestation of historic good-feeling between France and the United States was expressed today when Ambassador Jusserand, on behalf of the French Government presented to the city of San Francisco a handsome gold medal, commemorative of the restoration of the city from the destruction wrought by the earthquake and fire of 1906. The exercises took place in the Orpheum building, beginning at half past 10 o'clock this morning. The medal was accepted by the mayor of the city, who responded fittingly to the tribute of the French nation.

Impressive as was the medal itself, the manner and words in which the French Ambassador presented it increased many fold the lesson of the day. That the feeling of the representatives of the republic of Europe for her sister republic in the west was reciprocated by the citizens of San Francisco was evidenced by the applause that greeted the Ambassadors closing remarks.

'Accept this gift, Mr. Mayor,' he said, 'and receive it you all, American citizens, in token that what once was, still is; that we, French, continue, as of all, to feel with you in your moments of happiness or of anguish, and if I may be permitted the words of Mr. Elihu Root, let me say in my turn, that 'we in France have a feeling for America; and a sentiment, enduring among a people, is a great and substantial fact to be reckoned with.' Long live your city, and may continuous prosperity be the lot of the American people.'

In explaining the origin of the idea to present the medal to the city, the ambassador reviewed the continued intimacy of the two nations. 'Since the early days of American independence, no great event has happened in this country without awakening a friendly echo in distant France,' he said. He told of the many expressions of regard, given by both France and by America to the other, finally coming down to the time three years ago when the United States presented to France a medal commemorative of the war in which the European nation received Franklin when he came to tell the woes of the struggling thirteen states. On the day of the presentation of the medal detailed news of the disaster that had befallen San Francisco was lacking. Jusserand said that as he rose to accept the medal, the thought flashed through his mind that the next token of friendship between the two nations might commemorate, the resurrection of the city.

'When I had thus spoken, on the 20th of April, 1906, we know but very imperfectly, in the East, what was happening in the West, but I know too well the American temper to have any doubt as to what fight against adversity your shores were then seeing, and as to what resurrection they would see later. The past life of a city, where pluck, energy, fearlessness are more common than even gold in her banks, supplied the decision. All behaved as men and women, on heart and honor. The page written by the inhabitants of San Francisco on the moving ashes of their dead city is not one that any wind will ever sweep away.'

Mr. Jusserand explained that the Franklin medal was so well in accord with the French Republic and San Francisco had been so quickly resurrected that a medal had been struck by his government and he had been ordered to cross the continent to present it.

'This work of which one single copy in gold has been made,' continued the ambassador, 'is destined to the American people and the town of San Francisco.' One side emblematically shows your city rising from her tomb, and, powerful and handsome as ever, throwing off her shroud; on the other side the figure of France is seen presenting a branch of laurel to America.'

The Auto Has Come to Stay.
The Farmers Union of Hunt county has come out in a resolution denouncing automobiles and declaring that its efforts will not cease until they have driven the monsters from the county and state. The Farmers Union, or any other union, that thinks its efforts will check the use of the automobile ought to attempt butting a railroad engine off the track. This resolution reminds one of the spinning jenny, the mower and binder, and at a later date to keep the cars off the streets of towns and cities because they were afraid they would scare the horses and run over children. The automobile has come to stay until something more suitable to the wants of the people takes its place, and we had just as well make up our minds to endure it with all its evils.—Bonham News.

Last fall we bought a little larger stock of Heinz preserves than we realized and find ourselves a little overstocked just now.

These are the very finest preserves put up and are guaranteed in every way as to quality and weight not only by the Heinz Co., but by ourselves.

They come in 3 lb. crocks in the following kinds: Strawberry, Peach, Red Cherries and Raspberry.

Being strictly pure goods and put up without any artificial preservative they will not keep well during the hot weather so we are going to make a big cut to close them out for immediate use.

The price of all except the cherry is 90c, and that is $1.00, but to move them quickly we offer them while they last at

and include the cherry at that price too.

Myron Grimshaw is hitting a .300 clip for Joe Kelly's Toronto team.

Clark Griffith believes that Roy Castleton, the Atlanta pitcher, will make good with Cincinnati.

Paul Cobb, a brother of 'Ty,' has been tried and given his release by three clubs so far this season.

'Red' Ehret, the old Cincinnati pitcher, is umpiring this season in the California State league.

Winning 10 of the 14 games played on their recent Western trip was fine business for the Teletics.

'Cy' Young is winning games for Cleveland. The knockers of the old boy got on the job too early in the season.

Willie Keeler is suffering with a bad attack of Charley horse and will be out of the game for several days.

George Hegriver, the new manager of the Pueblo Western league team, has been playing ball continuously for 22 years.

It looks as though the next big event on the pugilistic calendar will be a fight between Sam Langford and Joe Jeannette.

The Armory Athletic Club of Boston will stage a bout between Willie Lewis and Bill McKinnon when Lewis returns from Paris.

Playing with the Indianapolis team aer two former Kansas City managers—Monte Cross at short and Jimmy Burke at third base.

Promoter McIntosh is still trying to sign up Jim Jeffries and Jack Johnson for a championship fight in either Australia or England.

The Chicago Cubs will raise their second world's championship banner June 6, and perhaps receive the $10,000 promised last fall by President Murphy.

The Seattle team in the Northwestern league won 25 of the first 35 games played. Any one can now see the work laid out for the rest of the Northwestern teams.

They call the superior team in the Minnesota-Wisconsin league the 'Supes.' They won one game of the first twelve, which is as good acting as the average 'supers.'

Hannibal, the new member of the Central association, got a fine start in the pennant race, while the champion Waterloo team is having hard work to get away from the post.

Some of the fight critics have declared that the Johnson-O'Brien fight looked like a fake, but the most of those who saw the mill agreed in the opinion that the bout was as genuine as the stuff made in the mint.

FORECAST OF EVENTS FOR THE COMING WEEK

Washington, June 5.—The Senate debates on the tariff bill will be enlivened by the vote on the Bailey income tax amendment, which has been fixed for Thursday.

President Taft so far has made no public engagements for the week. Thursday afternoon at the White House he will present gold medals to Wilbur and Orville Wright on behalf of the Aero Club of America.

Secretary of War Dickinson will attend the graduation exercises at the United States Military Academy at West Point on Friday and deliver to the members of the graduating class the diplomas.

The annual rose festival at Portland, Ore., which will continue through the greater part of the week, will be given added brilliancy by the participation of the officers and men of Admiral Ijichi's Japanese squadron.

The new battleship Michigan, one of the most formidable fighting machines afloat, is to be given the first of her official trials off the New England coast.

The opening of the Queensburgh Bridge, spanning the East River between Manhattan and Long Island, will be made the occasion for a notable celebration in New York on Saturday. The bridge is one of the most substantial and largest structures of its kind in the world.

The 50 anniversary of the founding of Northwestern University, at Evanston, Ill., will be celebrated with a national conference on criminal law and criminology.

Another interesting event of similar nature will be the celebration of the centennial of Miami University, the oldest of Ohio's colleges.

Interest throughout the South will center in the annual reunion of the United Confederate Veterans, that will hold forth in Memphis during the first four days of the week. The reunion will culminate Friday in the unveiling of the Stephen D. Lee monument in the Vicksburg national park. Prominent participants in the unveiling ceremonies will include Henry Waterson, who is to deliver the oration; General Clement A. Evans, of the United Confederate Veterans, and General Frederick D. Grant, representing the War Department of the United States.

Many notable conventions are on the calendar for the coming week. Included among them are the meetings of the American Medical Association at Atlantic City, the National Conference of Charities and Corrections at Buffalo, the Nobles of the Mystic Shrine at Louisville, the Secretaries' Association at Atlanta, and the American Water Works Association at Milwaukee.

Of interest to Americans in the field of foreign news will be the jubilee celebration of the American College in Rome, the International Horse Show and the Imperial Press Conference in London, and the International Dairy Congress at Budapest.

Notice.
Owing to the advance in the price of feed stuffs, we are forced to advance the charge for cab fares from 25c to 50c. These rates will apply to day as well as night work. These rates are effective on and after June 1, 1909.

Stray Topics From Old New York.

New York, June 5.—The spasmodic attempts of the city authorities to enforce the Sunday laws upon New York by the puritanical father element in the State legislature invariably leads to situations not only ludicrous in the eyes of the world, but humiliating and demoralizing in their effects upon the public. The police department is placed in a rather difficult and embarrassing position. These laws are, undoubtedly, upon the statute book and, for that reason alone, it behooves the authorities to enforce them. There is also a constant clamor of the church element and the various temperance and prohibition organizations for a strict enforcement of these laws.

But, on the other hand, the popular demand for amusement on the accepted day of rest is so great and the number of those willing to cater to the wishes of the hundreds of thousands of pleasure seekers, even at considerable risk, is so great, that a sweeping enforcement of the Sunday laws is absolutely out of the question. It would require a good sized army of policemen to do this.

Every once in a while the police department swoops down upon a few of the offenders and in a few sporadic cases succeeds in procuring conviction and punishment. But all these cases are insignificant considering the enormous number of cases in which the Sunday laws are violated more or less openly every Sunday. The situation is absurd and would be untenable anywhere else, but in New York the same farce has been kept up for many years, ever since the "blue laws" were passed and no feasible plan to remedy the absurdity of the situation has been offered.

Emma Goldman and other apostles of anarchism find it rather difficult work to disseminate the teachings and dogmas of their destructive creed. In Patterson and a few other of their strongholds in New Jersey the propagandists of anarchism can do as they please; they may even lecture upon the best methods of making bombs; but there is little to be gained by such lectures, where nearly every man in the audience is an anarchist or a sympathizer with anarchism. The propagandists have to seek other fields to make converts and that is where the trouble begins. A meeting in New York before which Emma Goldman tried to deliver one of her characteristic lectures was rudely broken up by the "minions of the law." The audience, disappointed to the verge of a riot by this intervention of the police, was dismissed with the assurance that the lecture would be given in Orange at a later date. But it seems that the admirers of Emma will have no chance to make use of their rain-checks, as the authorities of Orange have announced they will not permit such a meeting to be held.

PERILS OF EXPLORERS.

A Tragic Journey Across a Desert of Central Asia.

One of the most trying of the central Asian adventures of Sven Hedin, the Swedish explorer, was this: In February, 1895, Sven Hedin started eastward, exploring the country between the Kashgar and Yarkand rivers, proceeding in April to cross the Takla Makan desert, between the Yarkand and Khotan rivers. Never before had any known traveler attempted to exploit a course amid the eternal sea of shifting sand hills from river to river. The tale of that little, travel worn, bedraggled group, far beyond the last watering place, enveloped in dust, stumbling along through the dreary but agitated desert sea by brooks and roundabout ways, with desolation spread around and every trace of life departed, was a weird and pathetic one. "Not even a fly was to be heard in the air, not even a yellow leaf broke the monotony."

And ever at their head was the sturdy figure of the Swedish explorer, compass in hand, still enthusiastic, guiding them as best he could through the death shrouded wilderness. At length the camels had to eat their straw saddles, and the last of the bread was gone. Horrors followed. As men and camels dropped out of the line they were immediately enveloped in the whirling sand shroud and never seen again.

The end came on May 5, when Sven Hedin, crawling on all fours, dragged himself across the dry bed of the Khotan river. "All of a sudden a duck flew into the air and water splashed," he wrote. Two of his followers were all that survived, and it is doubtful whether even those two would have lived to tell the tale had not Sven Hedin carried back water for them in his boots.

MARKED THEIR TRAIL.

Two Brave Women Who Outwitted a Band of Indians.

One summer afternoon in 1776 Je-mima Boone and two sisters named Callaway while boating on the Kentucky allowed their canoe to drift close to the opposite bank. Here, behind a bush, five Shawnee warriors were in hiding, and, although the spot was not more than a quarter of a mile from Boonesborough, one of the Shawnees struck boldly out into the water, seized the canoe and dragged it to shore with its screaming occupants.

Once in the power of the Indians, however, these youthful daughters of the wilderness betrayed a wonderful self possession and resourcefulness. They knew enough of Indian customs to realize that if their strength failed them and they should prove unequal to the long march to the Shawnee towns on the Ohio they would be slaughtered mercilessly. So they stifled grief and calmly accompanied their captors without protest or struggle. At every opportunity, though, they secretly tore little pieces from their clothing and attached them to bushes on the trail. Nothing more was needed to inform Boone and his fellow settlers, who had quickly started in pursuit, that they were on the right track, and on the second day of the captivity they caught up with the Indians. A volley laid two Shawnees low, the rest fled, and by the close of another day the girls were safe in the arms of their thankful mothers.—H. Addington Bruce in Smith's Magazine.

Stories of W. S. Gilbert. When Sir Henry Irving and Edwin Booth were acting together in London at doubled prices, the story goes that Mr. Herman Vestin, meeting W. S. Gilbert in the street, asked him whether he had been to this quite exceptional show. "No," said Mr. Gilbert; "I have sometimes paid half a guinea to see one bad actor, but I will not pay a guinea to see two."

Mr. Beerbohm Tree was playing the part of Falstaff at the London Haymarket, and the indispensable stuffing made him perspire profusely. Mr. Gilbert, who was in the theater, went behind the scenes to see the actor, who may well have been expected to be congratulated on the excellence of his impersonation.

"How well your skin acts!" said Mr. Gilbert.—London Graphic.

Peter the Great as a Drinker. There is preserved in the Bodleian library, Oxford, an innkeeper's bill for breakfast eaten in England by Peter the Great of Russia. The czar and his twenty companions managed to dispose of half a sheep, a quarter of lamb, ten pullets, twelve chickens, three quarts of brandy, six quarts of mulled wine, seven dozen of eggs, with staid in proportion. Peter was always a hard drinker. He would drink a pint of brandy and a bottle of sherry for his morning draft; after dinner he managed eight bottles of sack, "and so to the playhouse." But his favorite drink was hot pepper and brandy.

He Had the Bill. Tom (in restaurant)—Excuse me, old man, but would you mind paying my check? I haven't anything but a forty dollar bill. Jack—A forty dollar bill! Why, I never heard of a bill of that denomination. Tom—Here it is—a bill from my tailor.—Chicago News.

To Fresh Eyes. Willie, accompanied by his father, was visiting a circus and menagerie. "Oh, papa," the boy exclaimed as they passed before an elephant, "look at the big cow with her horns in her mouth eating hay with her tail."—Christian Register.

There is nothing so utterly hollow as a kind word that should have been spoken yesterday.—Erangel.

Why the Telephone Girl Shouldn't Tuff

The telephone girl sits still in her chair and listens to voices from everywhere. She hears all the gossip, she hears all the news, she knows who is happy and who has the blues; she knows all our joys, she knows every girl who is chasing the boys; she also knows our troubles, she knows of our strife, she knows every man who talks mean to his wife, she knows every time we are out with "the boys," she hears the excuses each fellow employs; she knows every woman who has a dark past, she knows every man who is inclined to be "fast," in fact, there's a secret beneath each saucy curl of that quiet, demure looking girl. If the telephone girl told all that she knows, it would turn half our friends into bitterest foes, she could sow a small wind that would soon be a gale, engulf us in trouble and land us in jail; she could tell a story, which, if gaining in force, would cause half our wives to sue for divorce; she could get all our churches mixed up in a fight, and turn all our day into sorrowing night; in fact she could keep the whole town in a stew if she'd tell a tenth part of the things that she knew. Oh, brother, doesn't it make your head whirl when you think what you owe to the telephone girl.

The Clothes You Wear

reflect your taste and business ability. Their style and goodness is so well known to your friends. That's the sort of advertising we want. If there is anything that will put a man down and out in the matter of dress it is clothes that fit intermittently. Lumpy clothes are about as unsightly as anything can be and that is why we place fit ahead of many other points. You will find that our clothes fit snug to the neck, show a smooth shoulder and feel comfortable at the armholes. They have the proper quantity of cloth at the right place; they hang gracefully and they have all the niceties of good style and perfect tailoring. The effect of our choice clothing on the public is such now that when a man has a suit in mind he naturally thinks of the excellent style and taste shown in our ready-to-wear garments.
