A FROG IN THE POT.

Vexing Days of the Early Tea Tax in New England.

Tea was not brought over by the first settlers. When the pilgrims landed at Plymouth tea was selling in England at from $10 to $50 per pound. It was a luxury that had been known to Englishmen only a few years.

Early settlers got along without India or China tea for a long time. They used roots, herbs and leaves found in the fields and woods as a substitute for tea. Sassafras tea was a common drink.

Ten was advertised for sale in Boston in 1762 for the first time, according to historians. In 1706 patriots began to take the pledge not to drink tea because of the tax that the English government placed on it. It became fashionable for patriotic ladies not to serve India tea, but as substitutes therefor "Labrador tea" and "Liberty tea."

Captain Page of Danvers forbade his spouse to taste tea beneath his roof as long as the tax remained upon it, but the strong minded and ingenious lady ascended to the flat roof of the house, invited her friends to follow, and there she served tea to them.

Some other ladies of the town fared less fortunately. They used to borrow for their tea parties the big teapot of the once famous Bell tavern. One day, after drinking the forbidden beverage, the master of the house unexpectedly walked in, jumped to the fire, grabbed the teapot and turned it over, and out rolled a big frog. The jovial patriots at the Bell tavern suspecting the use of the pot had placed the frog in it. Some of the dames never drank tea afterward, for it made them sick.

Isaac Wilson of Peabody persisted in selling tea, so the Sons of Liberty seized him and compelled him to walk about town penitently repeating:

I, Isaac Wilson, a Tory be;
I, Isaac Wilson, I sell tea.

The celebrated Boston tea party was followed by tea parties in other New England towns. In Salem, soon after the Boston party, David Mason was suspected of having had his negro servant smuggle two chests of tea into his home. Patriots entered and searched his house. They found the tea. They gave it to boys, who paraded with it to Salem common and there burned it.

Even after the Revolution trade in tea was not wholly unrestricted. It appears that in some New England places dealers in tea were required to take out a license.—Boston Globe.

THE HORSE BREAKER.

How He Cured a Valuable Animal of a Bad Habit.

The late Duke of Northumberland once purchased a beautiful and valuable horse, but no sooner had his grace begun to use him than he discovered that the horse had one very bad trick—that of suddenly lying down when his rider was on his back. This could not be endured, so he ordered his servant to get the horse properly broken in, says a writer in Chambers' Journal. Accordingly away went the groom to a celebrated horse breaker in the city of Durham and, without mentioning the animal's particular frailty, left him with a general commission to break him in. The next day the teacher of horses rode out on an experimental trip with the duke's favorite and presently found himself rolled upon the soil and the horse by his side, very much at his ease.

"Oh," said the horse breaker, not at all embarrassed, "is that your custom?" So he provided himself the next day with several strong stakes and plenty of sound rope and took the unceremonious steed to a large field adjoining Durham cathedral. Riding round and round, the animal, according to his character, soon stretched himself comfortably, rider and all, on the green sods. Without saying a word the horse breaker, getting up, seized upon his wooden stakes, drove them deep and firm into the ground all around the willful brute and then by means of the rope fastened him down exactly in the position chosen by himself, so that neither legs nor body could stir one inch. Of course after a time the horse was willing to get up, but the teacher was willing he should lie still, and there he kept him with plenty of hay and water within reach, for three days and three nights, himself sitting on his back for most of the time, smoking his pipe. The horse never again lay down with his rider on his back.

The Canny Scot's Sense of Humor.

The reason a Scot does not laugh at a joke right away, says Dean Ramsay, is not, as is the popular fiction, that he is "slow in the uptake," but that the canny man will not commit himself. He must think it over before he donates the exact amount of laughter which the joke deserves. The Scot minister, who is Scotland's common public speaker, is aware, consciously or instinctively, of this trait, and his delivery of an anecdote with a point is a thing of unique art.

Selfitude.

"Charley, dear," said young Mrs. Turkina, "didn't you say that horse you bought has a pedigree?"
"Yes," was the complacent reply.
"Well, knowing how unlucky you are with horses, I consulted a veterinary surgeon. You needn't worry. The doctor says it won't hurt him in the least."—Washington Star.

FIVE BILLIONS ASKED FOR NATIONAL WATERWAYS.

Spokane, Wash., June 21.—Arthur Hooker, Secretary of the Board of Control of the National Irrigation Congress, will present a resolution for approval by that organization at its seventeenth session in Spokane, on August 9th to 14th, memorializing Congress to issue 3 per cent gold bonds, running 100 years, to the amount of $5,000,000,000, or as much thereof as may be necessary, for the following specific purposes:

One billion dollars for drainage of overflowed and swamp lands, thus reclaiming an area equal to 100,000 square miles.

One billion dollars for the reclamation by irrigation of 40,000,000 acres of arid and semi-arid lands, now partly or wholly waste.

One billion dollars to construct and improve deep waterways, to develop thousands of miles of territory now without adequate transportation facilities.

One billion dollars for good roads and national highways, for the lack of which the loss to the farm area of the United States is approximately $500,000,000 annually.

One billion dollars for forest protection, reforestation and conservation of the forest resources, thus assuring timber and lumber supplies for centuries to come.

"Five billions of dollars in an enormous sum, but it is no more than is actually required to carry out the gigantic scheme in developing millions of acres of lands in various parts of the United States now absolutely worthless," said Mr. Hooker in explaining the plan. "Congress will not be asked to appropriate a penny. The returns from the improvements would pay off the bonds. The government would simply act as a banker, as it does now for the various irrigation projects. The bond issue would provide ample funds as required to carry on the work in the several divisions, at the same time giving the best possible collateral to those investing in these securities."

Government figures bear out the statement that there is enough good land overflowed in Minnesota, Wisconsin, Kansas, Nebraska, Louisiana, Kentucky, Tennessee and Mississippi to make an area as large as the State of Missouri, or more than 44,000,000 acres, while in the eastern, central, and western states there is more than as much, or about 100,000,000 acres in all. At a conservative estimate of $25 an acre, the sale of this reclaimed land would justify the expenditure of $2,500,000,000, or 150 per cent more than it would cost to drain it. This land would support from 2,000,000 to 3,000,000 population.

"Approximately 40,000,000 acres of lands in Western and Southwestern States are adapted to irrigation, which if reclaimed at an average cost of $25 an acre, would be worth not less than $200 an acre, or a total of $8,000,000,000, and provide homes for more than 8,000,000 persons. The economical value of irrigation cannot be measured in dollars and cents, but crops of from $500 to $1,000 an acre are not rare in the irrigated districts. There are already 14,000,000 acres under irrigation and the reclamation service estimates it will have reclaimed 2,000,000 acres, at a cost not exceeding $70,000,000 before the close of 1911.

"The construction and improvement of the deep waterways required to provide better and cheaper transportation facilities is, I believe, a 100 per cent investment, from the fact that two-thirds of the bulky freight could be shipped by water routes, at a cost to the shipper of millions annually. The necessity of good roads is obvious, as it would enhance the value of each section of land about $5,760, or more than double the estimated cost of two miles of improved highway, which constitutes the quota for 640 acres of land.

"The value of forests was never better appreciated than today. Within the arid and semi-arid portions of the western States nearly 124,000,000 acres are covered with woodland, of value for fuel, fence posts and other purposes essential to the success of the farmers. There are also 97,000,000 acres of forests having commercial value for timber and logs for the saw mills, also hundreds of thousands of acres of timber lands in other parts of the United States. Reforestation and conservation of the vast resources are necessary to provide future generations with timber and lumber supplies. The government is expending large amounts of money every year to protect its forests from fires, yet expert lumbermen say that more standing timber is destroyed by flames annually than is converted into merchantable lumber by the saw mills.

Mr. Hooker said it is likely that his resolution will be presented to the various interests of the irrigation congress for discussion and will afterward be incorporated in a memorial to the United States Congress. It is also proposed to have a large delegation, composed of representatives of every state and territory in the Union push the measure for adoption. The work of enlisting the support of the people interested in the various projects will be taken up immediately after the close of the irrigation congress with a view to concerted action.

BRIBERY IN RUSSIA.

An Incident of the Reign of the "Czar-Liberator."

An old and long retired Russian general, a man of the "old school," related the following story in illustration of the official bribery that prevails in Russia, the incident being one within his own personal knowledge:

During the reign of Alexander II, the "czar-liberator," the widow of a distinguished general endeavored to obtain an appointment in a certain ministry for her only son, a young man of superior education and intelligence. The minister promised the widow to reserve the first occurring vacancy in his department. She waited in vain for the fulfillment of the promise and twice repeated her appeal by letter. She learned, too, that in the meantime several vacancies had been filled by other candidates.

The widow then waited upon the emperor and told his majesty of the minister's broken promises and her own keen disappointment, and after a few moments' consideration the czar asked her if she had inclosed a gift of money to the minister with her written application.

"Why, certainly not, your majesty. I should not dare put such an affront upon his excellency."

"Do not trouble yourself about the affront, madame," replied the czar. "But renew your proskenie to the minister and inclose $1,000 to him."

"But I have no such sum of money, your majesty," said the widow dolefully.

"Oh, as to that, I will lend you the money, and the minister will no doubt repay me, and you will inform me, please, of the result of your renewed application with the inclosure."

The widow sent her son to the minister with the $1,000 lent by the czar inclosed with a politely written note, the result being that the young man received the desired appointment the same day.

About a week later the minister had just concluded his customary official report to the czar when his majesty observed, "By the way, there is a very intelligent and promising young man, the son of the late General —, for whom you can perhaps find a fairly prospective position in your department."

"But, your majesty," said the minister, "that young man is already in my department, and I should say that he is likely to make a career for himself."

"Tell me, please," quietly asked the czar, "how much did this youth's mother pay you for the appointment?" The minister was too wily and tactful outwardly to manifest his surprise and chagrin, and he knew, too, that his safety demanded a perfectly candid reply to his sovereign.

"Would your majesty be interested," he said, "to hear what I myself paid for the influence which procured my portfolio from your gracious hands? The total sum was $22,500, and, relatively speaking, I do not think, with all humility, that this lady has paid at all dearly for the prospects of her son."

The minister repaid to the czar the $1,000 and was not unkindly dismissed from the audience, and he also retained his portfolio.—Odessa Cor. London Standard.

Nearer seven feet tall than six was the father of the present earl of Enniskillen. He was a magistrate and a mighty fox hunter. He used to come to the "justice room" ready dressed for hunting quite early in the morning, in order to hear cases before he started off to the meet. His practice was to hear the plaintiff and then horse-whip the defendant, abusing him for behaving in such a blackguardly manner. Then he heard the defendant and afterward horsewhipped the plaintiff. It is said that both parties left the court perfectly satisfied, each saying that the other had been horsewhipped by his honor.—London Graphic.

How ridiculous it must look to foreign nations to see America medalizing the Wrights after refusing them a niggardly appropriation to carry on their work.

A good way to keep Wichita Falls money at home is to not spend it with the fellow who has contracted the habit of sending away for that which can be had at home.

It is about as easy to determine Denton wheat prices as it is to ascertain who purloined Billy Patterson or as it was to compute the age of Ann. Nobody knows the answer.

The Chamber of Commerce promised the baseball team new suits as soon as it beat Ryan. Straightway, Wichita defeated that team, not once, but twice. Wichitans can do anything if they set their minds to it.

REAL BOOSTING.

The iniquity of a newspaper that knocks its town is exceeded only by the iniquity of a paper that willfully exaggerates the true conditions and makes things appear better than they really are.

It was manifestly unfair for Denton papers to say that a dollar-sixty and similar prices were being paid for wheat there, when the facts show that a dollar-thirty only was being paid. It is unfair to other wheat towns, unfair to the farmers who sent their wheat there, expecting the high prices, unfair to the millers who were supposed to be paying such prices.

There is but one inference to be drawn from such exaggerations. That is, the town can't stand on the merit of the real facts and has to distort them.

Tell the truth about your town. The town that hasn't got the truth as a foundation for its boosting isn't going to have boosters very long.

It might not be a bad idea for the city council to go one step further and revoke the licenses of the cab drivers who have for the past few days refused to run their vehicles because the council fixed the rate to be charged at about one-half the rate which the cabmen wanted to charge. The Times understands that the charges as fixed by the city council are about the same as are charged by cabmen in other towns the size of Wichita Falls, and if that is true Wichita Falls cabmen have not been wrongfully treated by the city council.

Press dispatches state that Bailey followers are willing to support Lieutenant Governor A. B. Davidson, an anti-Bailey man, for governor. They might go further and fare lots worse. Senator Senter of Dallas has served the State well in several ways during his term in office, but his vagrancy bill is his best work. Another Monument to Confederates.
Washington, June 21.—Bids were opened today by Col. William C. Oates, commissioner for marking the graves of Confederate soldiers, for the proposed monument to be erected by the United States government in the Confederate section of Finn's Point National Cemetery at Salem, N. J., to mark the resting place of nearly 2,500 officers and men of the Confederate army and navy who died as prisoners of war at Fort Delaware between 1862 and 1865. The monument is to be of granite and the estimated cost is $8,500. Owing to the imperfect records it was found impossible to place distinctive head pieces at each individual grave, and the idea of one large monument in memory of the dead was therefore adopted.

SCHRAM JARS

Never Let Fruit Spoil

Time was when Mason fruit jars were considered perfection, even tho they did allow a certain per centage of the fruit put up in them to spoil.

They were used then because there was nothing better, but now since the Schram Automatic Jar has been put on the market, the others are taking a back seat.

This jar is the simplest to use and the surest as well, for once the cap is on, and a little pressure of the two hands places it on securely, it is on to stay and keep your fruit perfectly until you take it off. Then to take it off, all you need is a case knife and not a special tool and a lot of muscle with the chance of breaking a jar and cutting your hand besides.

Since our last ad about these jars appeared, we have sold a lot of them.

Pint Schram's, 75 cents per dozen; quarts, 90 cents per dozen; half-gallons, $1.25 per dozen.

WASHINGTON INTERESTED IN AEROPLANE TRIALS THIS WEEK

Washington, June 21.—The official trials of the Wright aeroplane, which were brought to an abrupt end last September by the accident in which Lieut. Selfridge, of the Signal Corps was killed, will be resumed this week. Arrangements to this end have been practically completed.

It is probable that both of the Wrights will engage in the tests. Under the Government specifications, the aeroplane must carry two passengers having a combined weight of about 350 pounds, and sufficient fuel for a trip of 125 miles.

Every one interested in aeronautics awaits eagerly the distance test, which will be the first of its kind undertaken by the Wrights. They will be required to make a flight in a straight line not less than five miles in length. One way they must go with the wind and on the other they must fly against the wind. The flight will be made over a prescribed course, from Fort Meyer to Alexander. The aeroplane must have a speed of at least 40 miles per hour in still air, but will be accepted with a speed of 36 miles an hour.

Neither of the Wrights have ever succeeded in maintaining a uniform speed of 36 miles an hour in flight. Such a speed, never has been made on any kind of aeroplane on any sustained flight. If it is possible to make a flight of this kind at the required speed, the fact would be demonstrative to the satisfaction of all military experts that the aeroplane would be a valuable adjunct in warfare.

A Correction.

The Times' figures in the school census story Saturday were mixed in the paragraph which appeared as follows:

'Last year there were 937 children enrolled and 1247 enumerated. This year there were 1110 enrolled and 1382 enumerated. Using these figures, last year the per cent of enumerated children enrolled was 75.1 per cent. Assuming that the same percentage was enrolled this year, the census should show about 1490 scholastic population.'

Last year's enumeration was only 1110 and the enrollment 937, there being 84.4 per cent of the children enrolled and 1382 enumerated, the enrolled and 1382 enumerated, the enrollment being slightly over 90 per cent. Assuming that the proportion of enrolled children is the same this year as it was last, the school census should show about 1490 enumerated.

Just opened, a barrel of nice small pickles. Phone 261. D. B. King, successor to King & White. 14-1t

Arts and Literary Congress Opened.

Copenhagen, June 21.—The International Arts and Literary Congress called under the auspices of the Danish government, opened today for a five days session. The United States is represented by Maurice Francis Egan, and the American Minister to Denmark.

A ten-bushel wheat crop at an average price of $1.25 per bushel brings the farmer more money than a fifteen bushel crop at 75 cents per bushel. That is the way Wichita county farmers are figuring it this year, and they should know.

SOME SENATORS HAVE RE-ELECTION FIGHTS ON

Washington, June 21.—Between now and March 23, 1911, stirring contests for United States senatorships will be held in many states. The terms of 30 members of the senate will expire on that date, and among them are some of the most influential members of that body on the Democratic side as well as on the Republican.

Ohio and Indiana promise to furnish the liveliest fights and added interest will be given the contest in the Buckeye State if ex-Senator Foraker decides to enter the lists against Senator Dick, who will be a candidate for reelection. Senator Beveridge, of Indiana, is believed to have a big contest on his hands to secure reelection. Former Senator Memenway is known to entertain a strong desire for Beveridge's seat and there is also a possibility that former Vice-President Fairbanks may get into the contest.

Not the least interesting of the senatorial contests that will be settled before March 3, 1911, will take place in Connecticut. Things political in that State are already being framed with a view of sending Senator Morgan G. Bulkeley down to defeat. Senator Bulkeley has been the Republican boss of Connecticut for many years, but within the past few years a strong revolt has been organized to bring about his downfall. The anti-machine republicans have been gaining strength and the Senator undoubtedly will have a hard fight to retain his seat in the Senate.

Senator Hale of Maine, the "Father of the Senate" will be returned. He has some opposition, but this is expected to fade away before the time comes for the election. The same may be said of Senator Aldrich of Rhode Island, who will finish thirty-one years of continuous service in the Senate when his present term expires in 1911, and who undoubtedly will be sent back for another six years.

Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, may find his reelection more difficult than his colleagues of Maine and Rhode Island. Until several months ago it looked as though he would have smooth sailing, but Representative Butler Ames has been going over the State with a fine tooth comb in an effort to groom men for the legislature who will pledge themselves to vote against Lodge.

Senator Depew of New York will not be returned to the Senate. It is very doubtful even if he will consent to be a candidate for re-election. New York already is speculating on the question of his successor. The name of Mr. Roosevelt has been frequently mentioned in connection with the senatorship, but those who stand close to the ex-president are of the opinion that he will not engage in a fight for the honor. Former Governor Frank Black, Hon. Joseph H. Choate, Timothy Woodruff and several others have also been mentioned.

Other republican Senators whose terms will expire in 1911 are Clark of Wyoming, La Follette of Wisconsin, Scott of West Virginia, Piles of Washington, Page of Vermont, Sutherland of Utah, Oliver of Pennsylvania, McCumber of North Dakota, Kean of New Jersey, Nixon of Nevada, Burkett of Nebraska, Carter of Montana, Warner of Missouri, Clapp of Minnesota, Burrows of Michigan and Flint of California.

On the Democratic side the Senators whose terms will expire March 3, 1911, are Daniel of Virginia, who is assured of re-election without opposition; Money of Mississippi, who will be succeeded by John Sharp Williams; Culberson of Texas, who probably will be reelected; Frazier of Tennessee, Talliaferro of Florida, and Rayner of Maryland.

Meeting of Homeopaths.
 Detroit, June 21.—Detroit is rapidly filling with prominent physicians from all sections of the country who are to attend the annual convention here this week of the American Homeopathic Medical Society. Great preparations have been made for the entertainment of the visitors. The program for the business sessions of the convention extends over several days and provides for numerous papers, addresses and discussions with questions of importance to the general public as well as others of interest only to the medical profession.

HIS FIRST RECOGNITION.

The Turning Point in the Career of Nathaniel Hawthorne.
 The first reading of "The Scarlet Letter" has been told in T. W. Higginson's book of essays, "Contemporaries." The reading was given to the author's dearest critic, his wife. During the entire winter when he was at work upon the book he seemed oppressed by some secret anxiety.
 "There was a knot in his forehead all the time," said Mrs. Hawthorne.
 Finally one evening he went to her and said that he had written something which he would like to read aloud. The work amounted to very little, but still he would like to read it. All that evening he read, but as the romance was unfinished at bedtime his wife made no comments, knowing that he disliked criticism until one had heard the whole.

The next night he read again, and now her suspense grew so unendurable that in the midst of a moving scene she sank from her low stool to the floor, pressed her hands to her ears and declared that she could not bear to hear it.

Hawthorne put down the manuscript and looked at her in amazement.
 "Do you really feel it so much?" he asked. "Then there must be something in it."

The next day the manuscript was delivered to the publisher, and on the following morning James T. Fields, the publisher, appeared at the author's door. When he was admitted he caught the little boy of the family in his arms and asked, "You splendid little fellow, do you know what a father you have?"

He had sat up all night to read the manuscript and had posted out to Salem in the early morning. After his interview with the publisher Hawthorne came downstairs with a firm step and walked about, his face illumined by new hope and vigor. The world had found him out. Recognition was at the door.
