The Killing of Sheriff Wall.

April 24, 1900.

Editor Sentinel:

Not believing you would try to manufacture public sentiment adverse to either of the individuals in the unfortunate affair, though the death of one, a populist, might appreciably strengthen the democratic influence in a populist-ridden county, and give a safe democratic majority—yet the verbiage of your account of this killing in your issue of the 23rd is liable to have that tendency. You say in giving your version of the facts that lead up to this killing that Sheriff Wall "stubbornly refused" the bail bond presented by Mr. Borders and his friends, whereas the contention of the "friends" of Sheriff Wall is that said bond was a "straw bond," as it is called—was valueless and did not comply with the law—was given for an ulterior purpose, and that "right" and sworn duty compelled Sheriff Wall to reject it.

If Mr. Wall refused to receive and accept this bond in the face of law, right and duty, his friends will deplore this fact to the degree that you would censure it.

But you must admit that if the contention of the friends of Sheriff Wall is true, he did not "stubbornly" refuse to accept the bond, however much Mr. Borders was "humiliated" by being jailed—bond or no bond—as any self-respecting man should be.

Hoping you will give this space in justice to the deceased's family and friends, we remain,

Respectfully,
JUNE B. HARRIS,
CHAS. T. CLARK.

Shot a Negro.

Carl Butler, of Lufkin, while rudely displaying a pistol in Bunk McGee's saloon last night, shot a negro man, presumably by accident. Butler was immediately arrested and placed in jail, and two charges are now preferred against him—one for carrying concealed weapons and the other for shooting the negro.

I. M. Shepherd of Garrison, is in the city today.

Douglass Locals.

Douglass, April 24.—Mrs. Dr. Galaway, of Lanesville, accompanied by her son Hubert, was visiting relatives in Douglass last week. They passed on to Alto Saturday.

Miss Effie Ray, her brother Will and Miss Nuna Ross, all of Mt. Enterprise, were visiting friends at Douglass, last week. They returned home Sunday.

Willie Campbell, of Nacogdoches was here last Sunday. Miss Myrtle Campbell is on a week's visit to her Douglass school mates.

Hon. Harry P. Fall, of Chireno, candidate for representative addressed the voters of this place last Saturday night on the issues of the day. He made a good impression on the people.

Judge Fuller, candidate for county judge, is around among the boys—says he wants the votes that Judge Middlebrook doesn't get in the primary.

Prof. L. W. Raney's school closed out last Friday evening. Prof. R. gave entire satisfaction and no doubt will be elected to teach the next term.

Rain, rain, rain, nothing but water every where, land too wet to plow. The wet spell has become chronic and I think it will take several days of sunshine to make any improvement in the case. Farmers are real blue over the situation. They are awfully behind with their work. But few done planting cotton and many have not planted any.

No sickness at all in this community. Dr. Wilson is afraid he will have to make a crop. Well, if he does he will be up with the balance of us.

Several of the Douglassites visited Nacogdoches this week on business. Be Bad Nigger And a Brick.

John Burk, colored, was jailed this morning on a charge of aggravated assault. Last night Burk went to the electric light plant and raised a row with Josh Wade, colored, who is working for them. He was driven off by Mr. Henderson Muckleroy, the engineer. About day-light this morning Burk returned to the power house armed with a supply of brick-bats which he proceeded to throw with telling effect at both Mr. Muckleroy and the negro fireman. Both of them were badly cut on the head, though not seriously hurt. Burk was arrested shortly afterward by Jailer Sloan and is now in jail to wait proceedings of Judge Peevey's court.

Woolverton-Mims.

Mr. Gilmer Woolverton and Miss Nettie Mims were married last night at the residence of the bride's uncle, Mr. L. P. Mims, W. D. Peevey officiating.

The groom was from Stephenville, Texas. He is a printer and is a well-to-do young man.

The bride is the daughter of one of Nacogdoches most prominent men, Mr. W. P. Mims, who died on the 20th of August, 1899. Her talent for painting is well known at her home. Many of her pictures and sketches are beautiful.

Mr. Woolverton and Miss Mims are semi-mutes, both are very smart, refined young people.

They attended school at Austin for several years and the haven't seen each other for five years since they left school.

Mr. Woolverton was a book-binder at Waco from 1893 to 1895, and is now a printer at Stephenville. The bride has many friends who extend congratulations and sincerely wish that heaven may forever flash upon her earth and that seas of sweetened gladness may forever be her portion.

The happy couple left last night for Dallas and Fort Worth on a visit to their relatives. They will be at Stephenville for their future home in a few days.

Populist Primaries.

The populists held their county "mess meeting" last Saturday and decided that the following names should be submitted to a primary election to be held on May 12th.

For county judge—A. Chestnut.

Representative—B. A. Calhoun.

County attorney—R. Lee Brown.

County clerk—R. J. Cranford.

Treasurer—R. R. Loy.

District clerk—W. F. Martin.

Sheriff—A. J. Spradley.

Assessor—J. L. Winder.

Collector—W. L. Rawlinson.

R. J. Cranford was elected a delegate to the state convention at Ft. Worth.

Teagle to Speak.

Hon. C. A. Teagle, of Beaumont, candidate for state senator, will speak at the court house next Saturday at 2 o'clock p. m.

Border Has Surrendered.

Jack Jessup, of San Augustine, is in the city and reports that Kurg Borders gave up Sunday evening to John Matthews of Beat No. 2, and is now in the custody of the officers of the law.

Lum Blankenship of Attoyac, is in the city today and brings the monotonous news that everything is washed away, causing farmers to get behind. He reports a serious and painful accident that befell Grandma Fuller, mother of Mr. Joe Fuller, of Black Jack, several days ago, in which she sustained a broken leg in a fall while attempting to go down a flight of steps to the gallery. This is her second misfortune of the kind recently and she was just recovering from a similar fall.

Visit to the Alamo City.

Our party of four, Mrs. E. C. Branch, Mrs. J. T. Garrison, Mrs. E. A. Blount and myself left home Monday night, reaching Houston about 7 o'clock next morning. Finding there was no train to San Antonio till 11 o'clock that night on account of high water, we proceeded in a body to the office of Mr. Meldrum and laid our case before him, and that gentleman, with the kindness and politeness for which he is well known, exchanged our tickets to the Texas Central and I. & G. N. roads. Leaving at 10 a. m. we arrived at Austin at 4 p. m. Leaving that city at 6:15 we reached San Antonio at 11:30. Our delegate being entertained by a friend, Mrs. G. Mrs. Blount and I secured accommodations at the Menger, where we found several old acquaintances. Next morning we wended our way to the meeting of the Federated Clubs, and were interested in the exercises but found it difficult to hear; the delegates of course had front seats and visitors found seats where they could. We found also that other women do not strive to keep order; the greetings, "How do you do?" "I'm glad to see you," "When did you come?" etc., were distinctly confusing and the president's gavel was kept pretty busy.

That evening we attended the meeting at Bethoven hall to hear the president, Mrs. J. C. Terrell, deliver her address which was very interesting. A fine program, consisting of an address on music; a poem, "Ode to Texas," by Sam Houston's grand-daughter, and several selections of music beautifully rendered, afforded us a delightful evening. Returning to the hotel we partook of refreshments along with the Shriners, to whom had been given a reception by the hotel managers.

Thursday we spent part of the morning looking around, going to San Pedro springs and other places of interest; we were not delegates, so we could do as we pleased. We witnessed two street parades that day, and in the afternoon, accompanied by Mrs. J. E. Thomas of the city, we visited the missions, Conception and San Hose, extending our drive through a portion of the city we returned to dinner at 11:30.

After dinner, being so fortunate as to have friends among the Shriners, we were invited to attend the Knights Templars' ball at Turner Hall, where we were kindly entertained with beautiful music, several vocal selections, rendered by fine singers, followed by dancing; going to the dining room we found a veritable feast of good things for the appetite and beautiful flowers adorning the tables; our party consisted of seven or eight ladies, accompanied by Mrs. E.

J. Fry of Marshall and Messrs. Michaux and Frost.

The third morning of our stay Mrs. Garrison and Mrs. Blount attended the meeting of the Woman's clubs, while I went to the meeting of the old Texas Veterans and Daughters of the Republic, where I met with a warm welcome from many friends I had not seen in several years. It was a great pleasure to once more shake hands with the venerable Guy M. Bryan, Stephen C. Darden, Ex-Gov. Lubbock, Rufus Burleson, Gen. T. B. Howard and other friends of my father, and to meet with many pleasant ladies whom I had known before, and through them to become acquainted with others equally interesting. In the afternoon accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas, we visited Government hill and the head of the San Antonio river, also Laurel heights, a suburb of the city where we saw many beautiful residences; returning by way of the ostrich farm we saw about 50 ostriches from the baby birds six and a half months to the patriarch of the flock, 21 years old. From this interesting bird study we walked home with Mr. and Mrs. Thomas and were treated to a nice little supper. In this interesting home are seen many specimens of the work of Seymour Thomas, and it was one of our great pleasures that we had the pleasure of seeing so many pictures done by this gifted young artist who makes his home for the present in the city of Paris.

The next morning found us bright and early aboard the train homeward bound. A delay of two hours in Austin enabled us to take a carriage and drive out to see the dam, a poor broken thing that has caused great distress to the city and surrounding country. The water is low and innocent now and the large boat lies high and dry, and wreckage is a pitiable sight. When one realizes that not only families have been bereft of their all, but human lives have gone out with it, it is a pitiable sight, so much ruin, so many sad memories.

Continuing our journey home we were met at the station at 3 o'clock a. m. Sunday by three glad (?) husbands, and feel well repaid for our delightful outing.

Emma B. Shindler.

Judge Beaty left this morning for a trip through the county in the interest of his candidacy for state senator. He will remain in the county several days and will probably be present at the appointment of Judge Teagle, his opponent who will speak at the court house next Saturday at 2 o'clock p. m.

Prof. W. Templeton was called home unexpectedly this morning on account of sickness in his family and will not open his school until May 7th.

HALTOM & HARRIS, Publishers

R. W. HALTOM, Editor.

The little town of Groveton was almost completely destroyed by fire, last night. The telephone office was burned and particulars of the fire cannot be obtained.

JUDGE E. B. LEWIS has reentered the race for county judge. His friends and numerous supporters would not hear to his withdrawal and have induced him to continue in the race for the democratic nomination.

FROM hero to harlequin is about the way to put it in the case of the celebrated lightning change artist, Mr. Geo. Dewey. Nevertheless, if he will make his new democracy stick long enough to vote for Bryan much will be forgiven.

HON. T. V. MUNSON, of Denison, the leading horticulturist of Texas, says that not in twenty years has there been such a magnificent prospect for a fruit crop in this state as now. There is compensation in this for all the disappointments in politics.

As near as it ever commits itself to anybody or anything the Galveston News seems committed to Admiral Dewey for the presidency. The admiral is evidently not familiar with the relations of the News to Texas democracy, else he would pray to be delivered from its support.

MODERN methods and conditions take little account of historic background, but it has its value after all in more ways than one, and it is well enough to remind a prosaic age that this good old town, now so rapidly expanding, has more background of that character than all the boom towns of the last twenty years combined.

Ex-Gov. HOGG, in declining to play the part of understudy for Senator Chilton and fight Joe Bailey to a finish for the senatorial apple, announces that it will take him the rest of his life in private station to pay to the people of Texas the debt of gratitude he owes them for favors already received. This is neatly and doubtless sincerely said, but if President Bryan should call "our Jim" to his cabinet he could perhaps be induced to let his "debt" to Texas continue to draw interest while he drew the salary of a cabinet officer in Washington.

THE resolution favoring the election of United States senators by a direct vote of the people which passed congress last week by an almost unanimous vote meets the approval of the people everywhere. This has been a contention of the people of Texas for many years past and the idea doubtless originated in Texas. A constitutional amendment will probably be submitted to the people in the near future and of course will be elected and a law will be passed in consequence taking the election of United States senators out of the hands of the legislators and placing it in the hands of the people.

AN INFERNAL DECISION.

The experiment of negro suffrage in the south has failed so signally and was such an unqualified crime against civilization from the start that even in the north the fact is now recognized that the southern states must protect themselves against it by constitutional amendments. An even greater crime, if possible, against civilization was in putting negroes upon equal terms with the whites in the administration of justice through the courts by making them members of grand and petit juries. During the Reconstruction Era this was done everywhere throughout the south, but with the passing of that nightmare period civilization again prevailed and the revolting masquerade of negroes as jurors ceased to offend decency and justice. This result was so manifestly right, so clearly in accordance with the "eternal fitness of things," so indispensable to good government—inuring no less to the benefit of the negro than the white—that all classes have recognized it as right ever since and lived contentedly under it, except the pestilent negro agitator and his evil white adviser. But the supreme court of the United States has just changed all that and by a recent decision threatens to fasten upon the south a condition of affairs, that may bring social chaos again and inaugurate an era of lawlessness and crime and racial strife of which no one can see the end. We refer to the decision recently published in The Sentinel, in which a negro murderer in Galveston, convicted of his crime, is declared, on appeal from the Texas courts, to have been illegally convicted because members of his race were not on the grand jury which indicted him, and petit jury which convicted him. The obvious effect of the decision is that henceforth no negro in the south can be legally convicted of crime unless other negroes share in the work of indicting and trying him. This seems simple and easy and fair enough to outsiders, but here in the south where we are confronted by a condition and not a theory, the operation of that rule would so effectually block the administration of justice in the case of negroes that conservative citizens would vastly prefer the swift and certain methods of Judge Lynch, much as they may have heretofore deprecated his way of doing business. It is a fact that about seven-tenths of the crime in the south is committed by negroes, and all southern men know that the inferior structure of the negro mind and conscience, combined with his racial instinct and prejudice, would make conviction practically impossible in many cases—and those, too, the worst cases. The full meaning of this, under existing conditions in the south, is appalling. That the supreme court decision was not the right interpretation of the law, we do not assume to say, but we do know that the imperative claims of civilization itself, which are stronger than any law or constitution ever framed by man, demand that any article in the constitution or amendment thereto which justifies this infernal decision, should be repealed without delay. Either this or the unchallenged reign of lynch law for negroes in every county in the South, God forbid the necessity for an alternative so horrible!

C. A. TEAGLE.

The Sentinel is in receipt of a letter from Judge C. A. Teagle, of Beaumont, requesting us to announce him as a candidate for state senator, from this district. Judge Teagle is one of the most prominent lawyers and politicians of the southern portion of the district and has some acquaintance throughout the entire district. He is at present the member of the legislature from the Beaumont district, and if he has failed to make a good record no one has yet mentioned the fact. Judge Teagle invites an investigation of his record as a citizen, a lawyer and legislator and asks an impartial consideration of his claims for the place he seeks, hoping to receive their hearty support in the primaries. He will visit our section of the district soon and give the people an opportunity to see and hear from him.

THE Trans-Mississippi congress held in Houston will doubtless have a good effect in bringing about a friendly co-operation of all sections of this country for the general good of the people of the nation.

JOE BAILEY can now return to Washington and resume his labors in a state of mind little short of beatific. The good fortune of that young man since his induction into Texas politics little more than a decade ago has few parallels in American political annals, and he will need to be a very giant in the senate, with his head among the stars, if he shall meet the expectations of his devoted adherents in Texas.

SAID a gentleman to us, who has recently traveled widely through the South: "No town in the same class with Nacogdoches south of the Potomac and the Ohio can show so much substantial progress as this town is now making and has made during the past twelve months. It is a well bottomed boom, so sure of itself and developing under such sound and safe conditions, that collapse is practically impossible."

Judge Lewis Still in the Race.

To the Democrats of Nacogdoches County:
On last Thursday, I had published my withdrawal from the race for the office of County Judge. At the time I did so I feared that it would be such a disappointment to many of my friends as to meet with their disapproval. Since that time I have been visited both at my home and office by many from different parts of the county who so express themselves, and without exception express a desire that I stay in the race, and urge me to do so.

Under the circumstances I do not feel that I would be treating them fairly and justly to refuse compliance with their request and have decided to stay in the race.

To those who do not know me, I wish to say I have been in Texas 48 years, have been continuously engaged in the practice of law for 25 years, and have lived in this county since December, 1886. Should I be elected next November, which I consider a foregone conclusion if I receive the nomination at your hands on the 5th of next month, I will devote my time exclusively to the discharge of the duties of the office; and I think the office of such magnitude as to demand that your choice should be one of the best experience and legal ability that you can get. Respectfully,
E. B. LEWIS.

Mr. H. O. Martin, Coproe, Texas, manufacturer of Texas Havana Cigars, says:

"I had kidney troubles to such an extent that I was unable to work. I used eight bottles of Cuban Tonic and today I am sound and well. I feel twenty years younger and would not accept $10,000 for what Cuban Tonic has done for me."

Enterprise Locals.

Mt. Enterprise, Tex., April 18.—As this community is engaged in agricultural pursuits and is tributary to Nacogdoches, as its market town, perhaps news of this character would be read with interest by a large number of your readers.

I have taken in the situation and have concluded that this section has "expanded." S. R. Smith is running two plows this season.

C. R. Matlock has three farms and has added several acres of new ground to his home place. Charley is one of our up-to-date farmers.

Jim Coats has made some decided improvements on his farm, besides he has the finest hogs in our community.

John Coates has taken in several acres of new ground and has the best looking corn I have seen.

Richard Madden, the "president" of our community, has "expanded." His farm is in splendid shape, besides he is selling fruit trees by the hundred.

Sam Matlock has added 40 or 50 acres to his home place and is planting it in cotton.

Bird Gatlin has made some extensive improvements on his farm. Bird is a splendid farmer, and harvests more than any of us—all things considered.

"Uncle Billy" King has retired from general farm work. Uncle Billy is past his four score, but can jump up and pop his feet together three times before they hit the ground. His farm is cultivated by his son-in-law, William Grubbs, and is well done.

E. L. Ruark, our mill and gin man, is spreading himself. He has erected two tenant houses on his farm the past winter. He now has six or seven negro families on his place. Mr. Ruark is our candidate for county commissioner.

Jim Owens a former resident of Nacogdoches county, bought a splendid farm of 200 acres in our community and moved on it, and has made some valuable improvements on same.

G. W. Wagon has cleared and is planting a large new ground on his place.

Last, but not least, is the farm of J. E. McCreary. Jim has expanded this season as to farming, and also took unto himself a partner to share with him prosperity and adversity in this life.

I could give the names of many more good farmers in this section, but prefer only to give those within a radius of one mile from the writers home for this time.

All the above named gentlemen sell and buy at Nacogdoches. Hence the town is bound to expand.

I do not see any good reason why "Uncle Sam" should not clear and plant some 'new ground.' If he can produce something that he cannot produce on his other farm.

Success to The Sentinel. R. H. C.

THE H. E. & W. T.

Nothing Known as to the Future of the Road.

Although absolutely nothing is to be gleaned from local sources regarding the future policy of the Houston, East & West Texas, now that the property is owned by the Huntington interests, it is learned on what is unquestionably good authority that there will be no changes made in the immediate management of the road.

General Manager Meldrum, it is stated, will remain in direct charge and it is further understood that all the present officials, together with their respective forces of clerks, will be retained. In other words, there are, according to the authority mentioned, to be no changes of this nature made, the road in this respect to be conducted along the lines of the policy pursued in the case of the San Antonio and Aransas Pass and some of the other Texas lines which belong to Mr. Huntington.

Since the confirmation of the sale of the road the general public has been watching for some announcement regarding the matter just mentioned, and everyone will be gratified that there are to be no changes made in the personnel of the officials and employees who have heretofore conducted the affairs of the property in such a commendable manner.—Houston Post.

American Soldiers Praised.

The behavior of the American soldiers in the far east has attracted attention in all parts of the world. So recently as just before the outbreak of the Transvaal war the Daily Mail of Grahamstown, Cape Colony, in an appreciative editorial on "The American Troops in Manila," said: "One lesson taught by the struggle in the Philippine archipelago is the amazing fortitude of the American troops. Practically every man in the volunteer forces has been under fire almost continuously since Feb. 4, and in addition to constant fighting has never had a moment's freedom from anxiety as to possible maneuvers of skulking, wily foes, who know every inch of the country and know how to take advantage of its potentialities. The lines have been so long that it has been necessary to keep every regiment to the front. The regulars have had almost the same experience but not quite so much of it. If the campaign has demonstrated nothing else it has shown the marvelous staying powers of Uncle Sam's troops suddenly transferred to the tropics."

Has a Prized Coin.

One of the prized curios of the Philadelphia mint is a coin which is 2,000 years old, and which was coined at the ancient mint of that other Philadelphia of the far east mentioned in the bible. It is still in good condition, and the inscription is perfectly legible. The design of the face of the coin bears a striking resemblance to the Goddess of Liberty of our currency, and underneath is the word, "Demos," which means "the people." On the other side is the figure of Diana, with her bow, arrow, and the inscription, "Diana, Friend of the Philadelphia." When this coin was struck off, Philadelphia was the most important city of Lydia. The prize was picked up in Europe by Joseph Mickley, a celebrated Philadelphia violinmaker and numismatist of high repute, who presented it to the mint.—Philadelphia Record.

Old Book Makes.

The finding of a long-lost will between the pages of a neglected Bible was a favorite incident in old-fashioned novels. Nor are books yet so saturated as repositories. At a Chicago library book market found in returned volumes included an insurance policy, letters containing business secrets, signed love letters, grocers' bills, photographs, postal orders, matches, spectacles and false teeth.

Domesticated Ostriches in Africa.

Ostriches have only recently been domesticated in South Africa. Only eighty were in captivity in 1865; ten years later there were 21,751 being cared for in Cape Colony, and in 1897, 227,960. The true wild bird still exists north of the Vaal and Orange river, but is eagerly hunted for its feathers, which demand a higher price than those of the domesticated brethren.

From Waste Stones.

It may not be generally known that the by-products of fruit stones are of considerable value. The pits of peaches, apricots, nectarines, plums, and prunes, which have heretofore been thrown away or used for fuel, have a market value. This is especially true of the peach and apricot pits. There is now a strong demand for them at $8 to $10 a ton, delivered in San Francisco. The kernel is of course what is sought. From the kernel of the apricot, Turkish "nut candy" is made which has almost displaced the almond. The same substance is used for the adulteration of cinnamon, allspice and nutmeg. Prussic acid and essence and oil of almonds are made from the peach and prune pits and these flavors are used in many ways. The pits are cracked in San Francisco and the kernels are then sent east.

Maine's Deaf Hunter.

Frank B. Flagg of Belfast is said to be the only deaf mute hunter in Maine. He has lived in the woods since boyhood, and is unusually successful, remarkable acuteness of other senses making up for his inability to speak or hear. He is an expert marksman and has a number of medals won with his rifle. He has killed moose, deer, caribou, bears, catamounts, wild cats, eagles, wolves, foxes, partridges, hawks, raccoons and other game.

Where the Peasants Go.

What becomes of all the peasantry? A superficial answer might be that we spend them, as in truth we do; but did you ever stop to consider the enormous quantities of the little copper coins turned out by the Philadelphia mint every year? The figures are really appalling in their magnitude. There are at present about 1,000,000,000 cents in circulation, and yet the mint is compelled to turn out nearly 4,000,000,000 a month to keep up the supply.

The Czar's China.

The czar of Russia probably owns a greater quantity of china than any person in the world. He has the china belonging to all the Russian rulers as far back as Catherine the Great. It is stored in an immense closet in the winter palace at St. Petersburg.

Austria Easy on Murderers.

Austria is the country most lenient to murderers. In ten years over 600 persons were found guilty of murder, of whom only twenty-three were put to death.

A Great Slaughter of Elephants.

There are annually killed in Africa at least 65,000 elephants, yielding a quantity of raw ivory, the selling price of which is $4,250,000.

They Marry Young.

The Boer youth weds extremely young. His education is over and he is considered a man of business when he is 16. His bride does not come to him portionless, but usually with a dowry of cows, goats, and sheep, a span of oxen and a quiet riding horse. To each child that is born a well-to-do Boer likes to assign certain farm stock as a "nest egg" for a future dowry or as a start in life.—London Daily Mail.

Exchange for Woman's Work.

New York is one city in which an exchange for women's work has succeeded. The annual report of the exchange for the last year shows that the weekly sales averaged $1,000. The exchange covers many fields of effort and conducts a number of departments not undertaken by movements of this kind elsewhere, among them an advertising department, which issues an exchange catalogue.

To Study the Northern Lights.

A Danish expedition has gone to the north coast of Iceland for the purpose of studying, during the coming winter, the northern lights, which are magnificently displayed in that country. Elaborate electric and photographic instruments, in the use of which the members of the expedition have been trained for several months past, were taken along. The leader of the expedition is the head of the Danish Meteorological office, Dr. Adam Paulsen. There are many theories about the aurora, and Dr. Paulsen hopes to clear up some of them before he returns.

Organize Against Married Women.

The single working girls of Boston are organizing against married women who work in restaurants and big stores for big money. The girls think that women who have husbands to support them ought to stay at home and not interfere with other girls who are compelled to work for a living. In many cases where married women work in restaurants and big stores they are wage-slaves for some worthless husband. Comparatively few married women struggle for the pittance in big stores for big money.

Railway for the Philippines.

A 25-mile railway for the Philippines was recently packed in the hold of a steamer at San Francisco. Everything needed for the railroad was sent except the ties, which will be obtained in the islands. It is said that the railway will be used to extend the thirty miles of railroad now owned by the American troops.

Motors in the German Army.

This year in Germany traction motors were used for the provisioning columns, and although the roads through the Black forest were steep and in places bad, the experiment was most successful. There were exceedingly few accidents, and the motors effected a great saving in both men and horses.

How Paul Kruger Got Religion.

Paul Kruger is now one of the most religious of men. He was brought up in a pious Dutch family and was never a bad boy, but it is said that thirty years ago, when Kruger was a young married man, he "got religion" in a most striking and characteristic way. One day he handed an open Bible to his wife and asked her to read several chapters which he had marked. While she was reading he left the house. For several days he was missing and finally a party of friends went out to look for him. They came back without trace of the missing man, only reporting that they had heard some one singing far off on the mountains. A day or two later another searching party went out. This time they found Kruger in a condition of almost complete exhaustion, having gone entirely without food or water during his absence. He had gone up into the hills to wrestle with himself in prayer.

Marines Have Too Few Generals.

In France's navy there are forty-five admirals to 1,769 officers and 41,536 men. In the army there are 330 generals to 21,488 officers and 549,996 men, while the marines have seventeen generals to 2,195 officers and 52,395 men. The marines complain of the inequality in the proportion of generals, they having but one to about 124 officers, while the army has one to sixty-five.

Appreciated the Performance.

At an Uncle Tom show in Emporia, Kan., the other night, the people made merry over the death of little Eva, laughed at each cruel blow upon the back of Tom, applauded when mamma Topsy was caught stealing, and yelled "sic 'em" while the bloodhounds were chasing Eliza.

Wonders of the Locomotive.

The story of the locomotive sounds simple in the recital. The wonder of one reflects on the speed and nicety with which cumbersome parts are made to do their duty. The piston and connecting bar of a modern locomotive weigh some 600 pounds. When the speed is sixty miles an hour these parts travel back and forth five times a second.

An Ancient City Ceremony.

The ancient ceremony of paying a certain number of horseshoes and the cutting of some faggots in honor of her majesty for certain purposes by the corporation of London from the crown, will take place this morning, before the queen's re-appearance, in one of the registrar's departments of the royal courts, of justice.—London News.

FIRST MACHINE TOOL.

Potters' Wheel Appears on Monument of Ancient Egypt.

There can be very little doubt that the potter's wheel, or potter's lathe, as it is also termed, represents today the most ancient form of machine tool known. Among the many occupations and habits of the ancient Egyptians, the potter and his wheel have been found frequently depicted, and it is curious to note that through the almost countless generations since that time this crude type of lathe has undergone no material modification. The primitive form was evidently a small round table, set on a pivot, and free to revolve, being turned by hand at intervals; and to this device there were added in the course of time such simple conveniences as a table to support it and a foot by a hand power, turning arrangement displaced, in recent years, in possibly a few isolated cases, by actual engine power driving. In general use, however, the potter's wheel of the present time bears all the characteristics of the one which, 4,000 years or more ago, served to turn out pottery attesting unsurpassable taste and skill. It is curious, too, that in some of these ancient records are there shown examples of the forerunner of the common turning lathe as we know it today, even though the art of turning may be traced back to a very remote period. Among Egyptian antiquities that have been found at Thebes and other cities there have been many specimens which exhibited indubitable signs that the material, while in rotation, was subjected to the action of a tool held at rest—legs of stools and chairs, for example, and lamps and musical instruments—and in later centuries, among the Greeks and Romans, the lathe was undoubtedly in common use. Unfortunately, however, none of these early writers have left any account of the lathe and tools employed by their contemporaries. Cassell's Magazine.

The Language of Colors.

According to tradition, sky-blue denotes amiability, gentleness and power; pale yellow, riches, knowledge and deceit. Orange is significant of splendor, intelligence and falsehood, while rose-pink is emblematic of youth, gaiety and affection. In a dark tone it reads joy, victory and love. Damaak red pertains to dignity, pomp and ostentation. Dark blue belongs to friendship and fidelity, combined with peace. White, represents purity, innocence and refinement; gray, sadness, indifference and age; violet, nobility; maceon, if in very rich fabric, modest elegance, but more commonly it belongs to poverty and resignation. Tender silver-green is the accompaniment of youthful hope; deep green indicating vigor, strength, trust and plenty. Colors are of great antiquity, and frequent mention of them is made in the Bible. To the ecclesiastical we are indebted for carmine and scarlet; ivory and bone black are produced from ivory shavings; the cuttle-fish supplies sepia; and from the camel we have Indian gold. Turkey-red is produced from the madder plant, which grows in Hindoostan; Prussian-blue is manufactured by fusing horses' hoofs with impure potassium carbonate, the natural earth of Sienna furnishes raw sienna, and that of Umbria, when burnt, umber. Every nation out of Europe employs a different hue as its sign of mourning. For instance, faint brown, to symbolize withered leaves, is worn in Persia, the Ethiopians and Abyssinians don smoke-brown as significant of earth; the Chinese array themselves in white, emblem of white-handed hope, andapphire blue is chosen in Bokhara. In Egypt and Burmah yellow indicates losses, the shade of the sere and faded leaf, and in Turkey we find violet fashions the garment of grief.

Dress Allowances of Royalty.

Some people wonder what sum is put aside for dress by the daughters of royal houses. An enterprising fashion writer tells us that before her marriage the duchess of Fife had a very small dress allowance—about $1,500 a year. Besides yachting and everyday dresses and all the usual costumes required by a girl of the upper class, royal princesses have also to wear the costly and elaborate dresses which their rank demands at the weddings of their near relations. They are, however, fortunate in having sturdy and beautiful furs, priceless furs, and marvelous jewels, all of which can be used over and over again. On the whole it may be asserted that a frugal princess may spend as little as $5,000 a year on her dress while her more wealthy and extravagant one may find her dress bills amount to ten times that sum. The queen of Italy spends far more than does her beautiful young daughter-in-law, the crown princess of Naples. The empress of Russia, who was born and bred a European princess, is able to indulge her widest fancies in dresses with the greatest extravagance. In the daytime she mostly wears tailor-made coats and skirts and in the evening favors the purest white materials.—Philadelphia Times.

A S. CAIRO.

The spacious public square of Cairo, Egypt, is called the Esbekeeyah. It contains nearly half a million square feet, and is surrounded by the principal hotels and prominent buildings of the city. In order to prevent inundation by the rise of the Nile, a canal was built around the square, which is now used as a public square, and there are theaters, cafes, and other places of amusement on it. It makes it easily the center of life of the city.

The Vocabulary of Civilization.

If the English language is soon to be the universal tongue, one is inclined to feel rather sorry for those who have to acquire it. For, according to a German statistician, who has made a study concerning the comparative wealth of all the languages of modern civilization, ours is the only one which heads the list with the enormous vocabulary of 260,000 words. Germany comes next, after a great drop, with 80,000 words; then follows Italy, with 75,000; France, with only 30,000; Turkey, with 22,000, and Spain, with 20,000 words. Fortunately the literature of a nation does not depend on the number of words in its vocabulary, for did not the French masters of the pen in the seventeenth century work with the small capital of 3,000 words?

Is One Soldier Left Behind.

When Southend, an Essex village in England came to send off to the war its quota of reservists, only one man for the reserve could be found. But a big and excited crowd having assembled at the station, the one man reserve was carried shoulder high onto the platform. Then the band played. As the train was starting the musicians struck up the plaintive farewell air, "Auld Lang Syne," and handkerchiefs were waved and the air rang with the desolating cries of "Goodbye!" and "God bless you!" The train at last commenced outside the station. Then the reservist to whom they had bidden farewell was standing on the platform. He had been left behind.

Will Do Away with Stamps.

English postal authorities are making experiments with an automatic letter mailing device which will do away with the old style of "stick-with-a-stick" postage stamp. The new apparatus resembles a slot machine, and is an adaptation of this idea. It can be placed in the street corners, or in the postboxes. By putting a penny in the slot the letter is thrust into a slot and presto changed to a dry or riband stamp with a stamp on the corner of the letter. When it can be dropped into the box. The machine cancels the stamp with the date, time of day, etc., all at one operation. There are different slots for the different denominations of stamps. If this machine proves the success which its inventor hopes it will do away with the present method of stamping and prove an economical device for the postal service.—Philadelphia Record.

How Hussars Got Their Name.

Hussars do not derive their name from any sort of war cry or cheer. The name is from the Magyar word huzsar, meaning the 29th Hussars, an cavalry officers, were at first confined to Hungary. In 1445 the crown passed a law compelling the peasants to supply one man out of every 20 of their number, and that man a horseman, to the army of the state. The first hussars were recruited from the inhabitants of the immense Hungarian plains—strong, hardy fellows, with sinews as supple as steel who spent their life in the saddle. To the present time the Hungarian hussars are considered to be the finest body of light horsemen in Europe.—Stray Stories.

Watch the Rush for Fire Extinguishers.

In a wholesale liquor store in New York city a fire started the other day in some alcohol which had been spilled on the floor. Within a few moments the blaze had assumed really serious proportions, and the water that was poured on it only seemed to augment it. A quick-witted employe seized some pint bottles of champagne and buried them into the flames one after the other, as one would use hand grenades. By the time the tenth one had exploded, the trick was done, and the fire engine which arrived then has no work to do. The carbonic acid gas in the champagne had killed the flames.

Boers the Ideal Pioneers.

The Boer is the ideal pioneer. From the days of the great trek, in 1837, and even before that, he opened up countries hitherto unexplored by a white man. A great deal of fuss has been made of mighty travelers, English and foreign, who have traversed Africa, to the vast pecuniary benefit of their publishers, and with no great need of farms to themselves. But there was scarcely one of the old Boer pioneers and hunters of the 18th and 19th centuries who did not accomplish feats of endurance, pluck and lengthy travels, which were ten times as trying.

How the Lover Fell.

Extract from a love story in a popular magazine. "He had no longer gazed his eyes to hers, which were of a deep violet color; than his heart began to beat with rapidity. A choking sensation pervaded his entire being, and but for the presence of an armchair he would have fallen semi-conscious at her feet. Rousing himself with an effort, he possessed himself of her hand and apprised her of his affection, to which she responded in excellent French."

The Part of Wisdom.

A Connecticut farmer who is a large user of turnips, and who has suffered heavily through the piffing operations of the villages, this year put up a notice: "You are requested to steal out of this part of the field."

Life Mileage of a Letter-Carrier.

David Ramsay, a letter-carrier who delivered mail in Alyth, Scotland, from the Kerrisdale postoffice, has just been retired at the age of 80. He figures that in the thirty-seven years he has been delivering mail he has traveled 322,000 miles.

The Weekly Sentinel.

HALTOM & HARRIS, Publishers

R. W. HALTOM, Editor.

THE city ought to expand. The census will not show us up well as the matter now stands.

THE democratic primaries of San Augustine county have been called for May 19, and the following test adopted: "I pledge myself to vote for the nominees of the democratic primaries for county officers."

IN the magnificent bronze memorial to the heroes of Texas independence, presented to Galveston by Henry Rosenberg and dedicated there last week, the city has a monument of which it may well be proud and which largely adds to its permanent attractions.

KENTUCKY republicanism never did grade very high in the political markets of this country, and with Taylor, the republican claimant for governor of that state, indicted for the murder of Goebel and hiding out from justice in a distant state, the party will be even more disreputable than in the past.

AFTER thirty years of impotency, the national government is about to do an act of tardy justice to the South by paying out five or six millions of dollars to people in this section whose cotton was seized without compensation by the government during and just after the civil war. Congress seems about to pass the bill making the appropriation.

SENATOR CHILTON is yet a comparatively young man and his admirable career in the senate, combined with his ample equipment for high and useful public service, make it reasonably sure that Texas will yet call upon him to serve her in some capacity commensurate with his talents. His career is by no means ended unless he chooses to have it so.

THE Texas floods this year were bad enough, but they were light compared with those now devastating Alabama and Mississippi. Many of the people in those two states are said to be of the opinion that the world is about to be a second time destroyed by a flood, Scripture to the contrary notwithstanding. One compensating feature is that the repairs made necessary by unprecedented railroad washouts will give employment to hundreds of flood sufferers.

WITH the prompt settlement of the senatorial issue in this state without serious friction, and the retirement of the populist party as an active competitor in business, Texas need give itself very little trouble about politics this year. The election of the state and county democratic tickets by the usual robust majorities and giving the electoral vote to Bryan, is about all there is to do. To do this is so easy a task that the proverbial political caldron will hardly reach the boiling point and there will be ample opportunity to make it a record breaking year in commerce and industry.

RICHARD CROCKER denies by telegraph the report of his death in England. Tammany without Crocker would be the play without the prince, and with all his faults Dick Crocker is one of the big democrats of this country, whose place could not be easily filled. He doesn't believe in free silver, but he has promised to support Bryan and we will need him this fall.

COL. BRYAN is making himself so delightfully at home in Texas and is evidently so fond of the state and its people that he could hardly do better than sell out in Nebraska and locate here, in the event of his failure to secure the lease of the White House for four years from next March. If he should do so he would at once take rank as our greatest citizen—Joe Bailey consenting.

THOSE people who have suppose that Bryan was weakening on the silver issue, or disposed to give it less prominence than in the campaign four years ago, have reckoned without their host. The other day in El Paso the democratic leader, in answer to a question by a reporter, said that free silver at the ratio of 16 to 1 was in all respects as important an issue now as in the last campaign.

THE Boer war with its indecisive skirmishes and general absence of thrill, is rapidly degenerating to the low level of our own miserable squabble with the natives in the Philippines. The Boers will neither fight nor surrender and their guerrilla tactics make it impossible for the British to accomplish decisive results. John Bull is up against the hardest game he has encountered since his little affair with the late George Washington, et al, during the latter part of the last century.

THE long contest between Schley and Sampson as to which should take first rank in the list of rear admirals seems to have been settled in favor of Schley. This will renew the talk of the gallant old sailor as the democratic candidate for vice president. His temperament, training and all the habits of his life would make Schley the unhappiest of mortals as the presiding officer of the stately and ceremonious senatorial club at Washington, and he knows it too well to exchange the salt sea breeze and his soft snap as the unchallenged boss of a fleet of big battle ships for any such tame and stuffy honors.

THE prize is hereby awarded to the Waco Times-Herald for the best ten line editorial of the year published in any Texas newspaper. Here it is and it's a daisy; as good for Nacogdoches as for Waco: "The one thing to keep before ourselves, fellow citizens, is the necessity for converting raw material into the finished product. Have we wheat? Make it into flour. Have we corn? Make it into meal. Have we cotton? Make it into cloth. Have we hogs? Start up a packery. Have we cows? Get ready a creamery. Ship these products abroad.

That will give us all employment. Factories will give us a Greater Waco."

In another column we give space to a communication from "Uncle June" and Charley Clark in reference to the unfortunate killing of Sheriff Wall, intimating that the report of the affair as it appeared in The Sentinel was biased or prejudiced. Whatever construction may have been placed upon our report, we wish to say that it certainly has not been our intention to mislead or misrepresent the matter or to inject any prejudice in our comments upon the deplorable affair. True, as it is, that we are an opponent of populism, always and everywhere, it is not our disposition to misstate a circumstance or do any injustice to any one. In this instance we gave what we thought were facts as they were given us from those whom we thought were familiar with the particulars of the killing and its cause. The theory we gave was the only one we heard advanced. We attempted only to give the news, and our report was not an opinion of the editor. Sheriff Wall was the leader of his party in San Augustine county and the fact that his death resulted from personal and not political causes, justifies our editorial paragraph on the subject; for the loss of a strong political leader by reason of a private feud not chargeable to politics, must certainly—other things being equal—make for the benefit of the opposite party. The situation in Kentucky furnishes a perfect illustration of this. Goebel was undoubtedly murdered by republicans from purely political moves, and the republican party there has suffered irreparable injury in consequence. If he had been slain merely to settle a personal grudge, and the republican party had been in nowise responsible for the result, that organization would have been appreciably strengthened in Kentucky by the removal of the strongest leader of the opposition. For Constable.

To the democratic voters of precinct No. 1, Nacogdoches county:

I take this method of introducing myself to you as a candidate for the office of constable of said precinct subject to your action in the primary on the 5th day of May, 1900. In so doing I feel it proper and just to you, to say I was born in the state of Mississippi in the year of 1863, and when I was seven years old I moved with my parents to Rusk county, Texas, where I have ever since lived until two years ago, when I came to your county and precinct where I now reside. I am a democrat and have advocated its principles and voted its ticket since I have had the pleasure of being 21 years old. I refer you to any good citizen of Rusk county and to those who know me here for my past life, as well as the present, and if I should be successful in securing the nomination of said office, I will to best of my ability, discharge the important duties entrusted to me. And whether elected or not, I will cheerfully be found as ever, true to the old democratic flag, and will join hands with the great host that will carry her banner to a successful triumph in November next.

Very Resp. Submitted,
H. A. STILL.

A Wild Man and a Gun.

A young man named Calvin Haggard, who, it is said, has recently been released from the penitentiary, was arrested last night for rudely displaying a shot gun. He seems to be unbalanced in his mind, and has a hallucination that he is being chased by people who want to kill him. He came near killing a horse belonging to Mr. Conn yesterday by the accidental discharge of his gun. The man is a stranger here.

Call for Primary Election.

By virtue of authority vested in me as chairman of the democracy of precinct No. 5, I hereby call a primary election to be held at Linn Flat, May 5, 1900, for the purpose of voting upon the candidates for the various offices. Also a convention to be held at the same place at 2 o'clock p. m. for the purpose of selecting delegates to the county convention, which meets at Nacogdoches on May 12th.

W. A. Barry,
Chairman Dem. Prec. No. 5.

Died Near Trinity.

Mr. James A. Arrington died last Sunday morning at 4 o'clock at the residence of his son-in-law, Rev. H. M. Hutson, near Trinity church. Mr. Arrington was 82 years of age. He came out here about three months ago from Georgia, and had been in declining health for some time. He was buried at the Merony grave yard Monday.

Leak V'Barbo, of Martinsville is in the city. He says they killed a wild white rat about as big as a grey squirrel a few days ago. It is too wet to plow in his neighborhood.

KILLING AT CENTER.

Tom, Swanzy, son of County Clerk Swanzy, of Shelby county, was shot four times last night by Ed Metcalf and died this morning at 7 o'clock. Swanzy was a youth about 18 years of age and his slayer is a young man about the same age who lives several miles out in the country from Center.

From LaNana.

The health of this community is good at present.

This part of the country was blessed with a fine rain last Sunday, which lasted about four hours, and washed everything going and coming: LaNana creek, if it continues to rise, will soon have the whole beat under water.

Mr. Editor, if you will bring your fish-hooks and come down we will take a lay-off and all go fishing.

Paid the Taxes.

The H. E. & W. T. Ry. Co. paid this morning to Tax Collector Turner $3997.16. Of this amount $3091.47 is paid under protest, the railroad company claiming that this part of the amount is illegal. At the time of paying these taxes, the company served written notice on Collector Turner that it would file suit in the federal court at Tyler immediately to recover from Nacogdoches county and H. L. Turner and his bondsmen the sum of $3091.47, the amount of alleged illegal collection.

WE would like to hear a whole lot of cotton mill talk in this immediate vicinity.

THE Plaindealer has traded off its steam engine for a gas engine, and will soon get a new press.

Now that Chilton is out of the race we are all Bailey men, though his withdrawal may have been ever so disappointing to some of us.

BAILEY is all right, and now that Chilton is out of the race, most of the Chilton men will be content to give him their vote and do it cheerfully.

THE warm weather is approaching when germs of disease will be hatched out by the million in all the old trash piles about the place. Clean up.

THERE is a great deal of railroad building going on in Texas in spite of the "unfriendly legislation" so often referred to by the railroad kings.

SEND The Weekly Sentinel to a friend in some of the old states. If you want to send it out of the state you may do so for the remainder of 1900 for 50 cents, cash.

CHILTON's friends are sorely disappointed at the turn of affairs in the senatorial race, but there are no knives up their sleeves, and now we are all Bailey men.

SHORT and O'Quin are having a big time stumping Shelby county this week. They will move over into Nacogdoches county and make a number of speeches next week.

INDICTMENTS have been returned against Henry Yantsey, James and Berry Howard, Harland Whitaker and a negro named "Yellow Dick" Coombs as principals in the murder of Gov. Goebel of Kentucky, and a number of others have been indicted as accessories.

THE man who attacks the official record of District Attorney Donley, is evidently doing so ignorantly. That is, they are ignorant of the history of criminal trials in this judicial district for the past 10 or 15 years. No higher compliment can be paid Mr. Donley than when we say the court dockets will reveal the fact that he has secured as large a per cent of convictions as any of his predecessors, some of whom rank with the ablest criminal lawyers in this section.—Rusk Journal.

TEXAS people will be compelled to give politics a little more attention than any other question for the next few weeks. But when the primaries are all over there will be other important subjects to discuss, such as home enterprises, cotton mills, cleanliness of our premises and our cities and towns as a precaution against the spread of contagious diseases, and such matters that are of vital interest to every community.

PRESS C

Mr. R. W. Haltom, one of the brightest newspaper men in east Texas, has announced himself a candidate for the legislature from the Nacogdoches district. The Press hopes that he will be successful, as he is one of the ablest, most conscientious, honest and experienced men in the district and will undoubtedly represent it in the legislature with profit to the district and honor to himself.—Houston Press.

Hon. R. W. Haltom, of the Nacogdoches Sentinel, is a candidate for representative from his district. As a journalist he has served the democrats of Nacogdoches county faithfully during their struggle for prestige, and it would be nothing but right and justice that democratic voters should honor him with the position to which he aspires. He would make an excellent representative, and be an honor to his district.—Teneha New Era.

R. W. Haltom of Nacogdoches is running for the legislature and the Democrat sincerely hopes that he will be elected—not that we bear him malice—far from it. But if he can be sent to the legislature he will have a chance to unload all that surplus wealth which he has accumulated as a newspaper man, and incidentally, we believe he could be of some practical benefit to his constituents.—Center Democrat.

Reference is made to the fact that R. W. Haltom is now squarely before the people of this district as a candidate for representative. His age and experience gives assurance that he will be an active representative, wakeful and watchful at all points. His declarations in his brief address to the people, contain "much in little," and although it is a very concise statement of his platform, it is quite enough and it is strictly true. The people will define his line of duties in a general way and his judgment can be relied on strictly to lead him discreetly through the various meandering paths of duty. No one who knows Mr. Haltom will entertain a doubt of his capabilities and his inborn energy to perform every part of his duty. As a patriotic democrat he can do all that needs be done for our district in a representative capacity.—News-Chronicle.

R. W. HALTOM, editor of The Sentinel and candidate for the legislature, was in Garrison Saturday. Mr. Haltom has a number of most influential citizens of Garrison on his side, and no doubt made a good many more while here the other day, who will do all in their power to elect him to the office to which he aspires. He certainly deserves the support of every democrat in the county if untiring efforts to land the party on victorious grounds for 15 or 20 years stand for anything.—Garrison Signal.

... is the deadliest foe to disease. Let's see that the town is kept cleaner up and that our premises are cleaner than the town.

THE democrats swept the field in the Louisiana state election Tuesday, the democratic majority reaching above 25,000.

THERE are now two candidates in the field for State senate from this district—Judge Beaty, of Jasper, and Judge Teagle of Beaumont.

WE can't see what good the people can get by being bothered by the office seekers who are racing and chasing after a little office like it was a life and death case. These candidates for representative and district attorney make us weary.

H. P. FALL, Esq., has challenged his opponents in the race for the legislature to meet him at Douglass tonight at the "numerous solicitation of the Douglass people. What the object of the meeting will be told by Mr. Fall, we presume, at the appointed time and place.

It looks now like some of the conspirators in the murder of Governor Goebel in Kentucky are going to be brought to justice. The grand jury has been after them hot and heavy, and some of the high officials under the Bradley reign are getting in close quarters.

FOLLOWING is the test adopted by the democracy of San Augustine county which are liberal enough to take in about anything that can vote at all. For state and district officers the test is: "I am a democrat, and I hereby pledge myself to support the nominees of the democratic party for national, state and district officers." The test for the county ticket is as follows: "I hereby pledge myself to support the nominees of the democratic party for county officers."

THE fact that a few newspaper partisans of Senator Chilton, taking the late city election in Houston as a pretext, are criticising the Post, need not deceive any one. We had a little family row here, in which there was no politics, but these partisans are contending otherwise. Some of them are playing the part of hypocrites; they care nothing about what happened in Houston, but are angry with the Post because it supports Mr. Bailey for senator. That's all there is to it.—Houston Post.

"A little family row," was it? Well, it 'pears that the Post got decidedly the worst of it, and its claim that there was no politics in it sounds like pleading the baby act. And who could have played a bigger hypocrite than the Post while playing neutral editorially, yet allowing its staff correspondents to boom Bailey to the skies. The Post might have continued to play the part of a hypocrite if the county papers had not forced it into a corner and compelled it to get on one side or the other. The fact is, the great Post has lost about three-thirds of its prestige as a democratic mouth piece.

WAR CASUALTIES.

The war department has undertaken to show that the casualties suffered by the American troops in the Philippine war were not so excessive as has been charged by a comparison with the losses suffered by the British army.

As to the British showing, the statement covers the returns from October 11 to April 7, nearly six months. There were 309 officers and 3944 men killed in action, by accident or by wounds and disease. There were set down as missing and as prisoners 186 officers and 3722 men, and 288 officers and 3934 men were invalided home, making the total British losses exclusive of sick and wounded in the hospital in South Africa, 765 officers and 12,600 men. It is estimated that nearly 10,000 officers and men are sick and wounded in the hospitals, showing a loss in effective strength since the beginning of the war of about 23,000 men. The number of wounded is not stated.

During the war with Spain the American army lost by death 107 officers and 2803 men. There were wounded 113 officers and 1464 men. Only 12 per cent of the American death rate resulted from wounds or occurred in battle, while the corresponding rate for the British army was 61.13. The war department statement reads as follows:

"The conditions, both military and climatic, under which the campaigns were carried on were so different that it is difficult to make any comparisons. The American campaign was carried on in the tropics in midsummer, the most unfavorable season of the year. The disease most prevalent was tropical fever. The climate in the theater of operations in South Africa is remarkably healthy. There was much sickness at Ladysmith, but that was due to siege conditions and not to climate. In the American campaign the clothing worn was as light as possible. Lord Roberts has sent from Bloemfontein for warmer clothing on account of threatened prevalence of pneumonia."

BOIES ON M'KIMLEYISM.

At the Jefferson banquet in New York a few nights ago, a letter was received from Ex-Gov. Boies, of Iowa, regretting his inability to be present, but at the same time giving vent to the following most emphatic denunciation of McKinleyism, imperialism and militarism, which was read before the assembly:

"The war with Spain was a reaffirmation of the principle underlying our own form of government that found expression in a loyal declaration by a united people that Cuba should of right be free. No nation on earth ever championed a nobler cause.

"The end came. The grip of a tyrant had been broken. Spain was at our feet, Cuba, Puerto Rico and the Philippines at our disposal. It needed but a simple demand from us to make them forever free.

"But here we halted. The word that would have made the name of America immortal was never spoken.

"Greed took the place of charity and usurped the throne of justice. We wanted an excuse for exploring the Philippines, and made a voluntary donation of $20,000,000 of gold to Spain to find one. What followed? I wish to God we could blot from the annals of our race this page of American history as it will, through all the ages to come. "The truth is we have simply changed places with Spain and snatched from her palsied hand the sword she could no longer wield and turned it against a race she had become powerless further to oppress.

"Look at the little island of Puerto Rico that welcomed us as deliverers from an oppressor's hand. What do we find? A people denied the most valuable privileges they enjoyed under a despotism that furnished our only excuse for war; a race of vassals without a right we are bound to respect, foreigners in fact, who can not enter our gates without paying tribute on the products of their toil or take unencumbered from our hands that which their needs require—yet our subjects in name, over whom the American flag is to float forever, to be ruled as our lordly will may determine.

"With unseemly haste a republican congress with a republican president struck from the statutes of their country a tariff tax framed for revenue, the only purpose for which taxes can rightfully be laid, and built in its place a huge wall in front of every port of the nation, in the shadows of which an infamous brood of life-sucking trusts have been nursed until there is scarcely a manufactured necessity of life the market price of which to American consumers is not fixed by the greed of some giant corporation.

"We are at the threshold of another national campaign. The issues upon which it is to be fought will be made by the Democratic party.

"What shall they do? Anti-imperialism, anti-militarism, anti-monopoly and death to trusts."

It will be recalled that not until about a year ago was there any talk of dropping the Nicaragua canal route and adopting the Panama route by purchase of the controlling stock in the Panama company. Since then, however, the Panama scheme has been pressed to the front to such an extent that not only has the Nicaragua project been delayed, but a new canal commission was sent to Central America to compare the routes and report. Mr. McKinley now says we ought to wait until this commission's report has been made and examined before proceeding with the Nicaragua canal measure. In this connection it is well to remember that the speculators in charge of the Panama canal shares could and would afford to spend several millions of dollars to unload their white elephant on the United States. Here is, doubtless, the true inwardness of the delay about this whole matter.—Houston Post.

DEMOCRACY THE MECCA.

Every democrat ought to take enough interest in his party's affairs to go to the primaries. On May 5th the democracy is to vote upon all the offices from governor to constable for the purpose of declaring the county's choice of the candidates. The delegates to the various conventions will be instructed in accordance with the vote of the primaries. The vote on the county ticket will be counted in the county convention and the nominees will be declared the same as is done in general elections. In fact the primaries to be held May 5th are nothing more nor less than an election. Presiding officers have been appointed, and judges and clerks will be selected to hold the primaries just as elections are held. The candidate receiving the highest vote for an office in the various election boxes of the county will be declared the nominee by the county convention. It is the intention and desire of the executive committee to have the primaries conducted in strict accordance with the election laws, and that perfect fairness shall prevail at each box. A mild and equitable test has been prescribed by the committee, which cannot fail to be satisfactory to all who have heretofore voted the democratic ticket and ought not to be objectionable to those who desire to come back to the ranks, though it may bar them from participating in our primaries. Harmony and democratic supremacy is the slogan. While many recruits will be ruled out by the test, yet the doors are open to them to return to the fold, and after they have rejoined and proved their faith by their works at the polls of the general election they will be entitled to the full and free exercise of their suffrage in the democratic primaries hereafter. This is not a severe test of party fealty and ought not to be objectionable to any who have wearied of wondering astray and are in earnest in their desire to return to the true party of the people, the only channel through which it is possible to battle successfully for the people against plutocracy monopoly, militarism and the iniquitous extravagance and misgovernment of republicanism.

Mr. Quay is losing in his own state. Nominations of candidates for the legislature is the political business that is now interesting Pennsylvania. Eighty-two districts have made their nominations. In the last legislature these districts were represented, according to a table give by the Philadelphia Press, in this way: Quayites 47, anti-Quay 15, democrats 20. The nominations for the next legislature stand as follows: Quayites 32, anti-Quay 30, democrats 20. This is based on a reckoning that the democrats carry the same districts as before. The Press says, however, that in sixteen of the districts represented last year by democrats, the republicans have nominated Quayites largely by default.—Galveston News.

Tucker, Zeve & Co. have rearranged and changed up their store until it has quite a transformed appearance. It is a pleasing feast of vision to look upon. It is now arranged into three departments, occupying three stores. The old grocery department has been taken over by the proprietors.

Doughtie, stated that his uncle, Eugene Doughtie, was apparently perfectly well on the morning of the 16th inst. and at 11:20 o'clock he was taken with a chill and died at 8:20 o'clock the next morning the 17th. Congestion of the lungs and brain was the cause of his sudden death. Interment took place at Armercus, Ga., his home, on the 19th.

Want a Hotel.

C. W. Butts, of Nacogdoches, is spending this week in Garrison, taking a rest from his business and drinking our mineral water. Mr. Butts says that health seekers and visitors of all kinds would flock into this place by the wholesale if first-class accommodations could be had near the spring. If some enterprising man would erect a large commodious hotel on one of the adjoining lots to the spring, and with a little judicious advertising he would make a "ten strike" for himself, and a good move for the town. —Garrison Enterprise.

Wisner-McCreary.

Our friend S. N. L. Wisner war married yesterday evening about five o'clock to Mrs. Gabriella McCreary. The wedding took place in Chapman & Burton's store and the ceremonies were conducted by Judge V. E. Middlebrook. A large crowd was present to witness the nuptials, and congratulations were showered upon the bride and groom by their numerous friends present. The newly wedded couple entered a buggy and departed for their home immediately after the ceremonies were over. If there are others who want to get married Chapman & Burton offer them the free use of their store for the purpose.

SHERIFF SHOT DOWN.

SHERIFF WALL OF SAN AUGUSTINE MORTALLY WOUNDED

SATURDAY BY KURG BORDERS

After the Shooting Borders Left San Augustine and up to Hour of Going to Press was Still at Large.

The terrible news was received in Nacogdoches over the telephone wire about sundown Saturday evening that another killing had taken place in San Augustine, Geo. W. Wall, sheriff of San Augustine county, was shot and mortally wounded by Kurg Borders.

Borders shot Wall with a double barreled shot gun, the load taking effect in Wall's right side, several shot penetrating the bowels and one through the right lung.

The shooting took place on the public square at the mouth of the street between Geo. Slaughter's store and the old brick saloon. Borders was in the street and shot Wall as he was crossing the street on his way to the saloon.

Wall fired two shots at Borders after being wounded, but neither took effect.

The cause of the tragedy, it is said, was the arresting and jailing of Borders two weeks before on a charge of forgery when Borders' friends offered to go his bail for appearance at an examining trial, which Wall stubbornly refused. Borders was terribly humiliated as well as exasperated by Wall's treatment, and when he was released from jail warned Wall that he would see him when it wasn't all Wall's way. Borders left town immediately after the shooting and is still at large.

Wall is still alive, but life is gradually ebbing away and it is not believed he can live many hours.

LATER.

As we go to press Mr. I. H. Hollis phones us that Sheriff Wall died at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

The Wade boys are entitled to a vote of thanks from the public for the temporary foot bridge across the Banita at the depot. It was badly needed.

Several more wagons and railroad teams came in yesterday to go to work on the new railroad somewhere between here and the Angelina river.

The Gallaway & Wright Lumber Company have bought out the Joe Clevinger mill and have closed it down for the present.

Mr. W. A. Wilson came home from a tour through Louisiana yesterday. He says high water is playing havoc in many sections he has visited.

R. H. Baxter and H. V. Sitton, of Looneyville, were in the city yesterday and reported too much rain and farmers getting behind with work in their section of the county.

Somebody put out a lot of strychnine Sunday night and as a result several dogs died suddenly around town yesterday morning. This promiscuous poisoning, however, is wrong, as it most always kills some good dogs which it was not intended for, as was doubtless the case in this instance.

F. H. Hoya is getting ready to tear down his old store house on corner of Pecan and Pillar streets. Everything has been moved out and the building will be torn down and moved away in a few days. A handsome two-story brick will grace the site it now occupies, the upper story to be used by the Masonic lodge.

There have been two or three gross impositions upon the town people of late on the part of negroes begging aid to bury the dead and other charitable purposes. If this is kept up, meritorious cases will be ignored soon and no help can be obtained in town for any charitable cause. The people of Nacogdoches are liberal in matters of this kind but they get awful sore after they get caught a few times by frauds.

Sheriff Campbell returned Sunday morning from Tucson, Arizona, where went after J. C. Anderson. Anderson had been released on habeas corpus proceedings and had skipped out five hours before Sheriff Campbell arrived there. He had a long trip for nothing and returned greatly disappointed. He had not been for delay in transmitting the requisition papers, he would have had his man now safely behind the bars in the Nacogdoches jail.

WEDNESDAY.

J. F. Pirtle, of Attoyac, is in the city.

Several new brick buildings are scheduled for Nacogdoches this summer.

There are fewer country people than usual on the streets today.

The C. C. Club will meet with Mrs. R. C. Shindler tomorrow evening.

Things are moving lively at the brick yards of H. L. Austin and R. B. Shearer.

Josh Newton of Kirbyville is prospecting here, with the view to locating in our city.

H. C. Fuller is up and will be out in a day or two. He had a severe case of the measles.

John H. Brooks, of Beaumont, passed through the city this morning on his way to San Augustine.

L. Hardeman is back at his place with Hardeman Bros. after ten days lay off on account of sickness.

Nacogdoches is honored daily with the visits of scores of strangers seeking homes and business locations.

R. H. Cline, the painter, is adding greatly to the beauty of the home of A. Y. Donegan, by the artistic touch of the paint brush.

The Misses Fuller, of Melrose, who have been attending school at Austin, passed through the city this morning on their return home.

It is hard to tell which is trying to bear down on the right of way guarantee committee the hardest the railroad or our home people.

Mr. T. P. Milner is advancing his new residence on Mound street toward completion, and when finished it will be an ornament to that section of the city.

The ground is thoroughly saturated with water, and it will take a protracted drouth during the next three months to keep this county from making a good corn crop.

Esquire Jno. W. Murph, accompanied by his daughter, Mrs. J. W. Caver and grand daughter, Mrs. Dr. Brown, spent last night with Mrs. Jno. T. Lucas in our city.

The guarantee committee had a meeting last night to discuss the railroad right of way question. Committees were appointed and duties assigned them, but we are not in possession of full proceedings.

T. P. Milner has secured the contract to build the new residence of H. F. Tucker on Mound street, and began putting in the foundation to-day. It is to be a large handsome building, which will rank with the beautiful mansions which already grace that vicinity.

Our old friend, B. W. Pye, of Toliver, spent last night in the city. He called at this office yesterday and spent a half hour to the profit of The Sentinel man. Mr. Pye says everybody is behind with farm work in his section on account of the continued wet weather.

R. W. Murphey the head post master of the Douglass district, is in the city and offered to swap us his post office for a newspaper. We didn't trade out of respect and friendly consideration for him.

The people along the line from here to Douglass have offered every foot of the right of way free for the T. & N. O. R'y., if it will go that way. As it is so much trouble to secure right of way the other route, what's the matter with taking the Douglass route?

It is wrong for folks to advise parties whose land the railroad will pass over to hold out for a fabulous price for the right of way. It only forces the matter into arbitration and brings trouble, when if outsiders would not interfere everything would be amicably arranged and settled without the aid of the law.

The tickets for the democratic primaries will be printed next Monday. Better see Chairman Blount or R. W. Haltom and leave the cash to secure your name on the ticket, if you have not already attended to the matter.

Mr. E. A. Blount has gone to Angelina county, presumably to select a site for New Homer, which is hinted will some day be the "metropolis of Angelina county.

Some naughty boys, or some other naughty person or persons, caused the bicycle riders on North street a lot of trouble and annoyance by sprinkling tacks along the route traveled by the wheelers yesterday.

J. A. Richardson of Chireno, who has heretofore been referred to as the "tonguetied" man, is in the city. He says they have had more overflows in his section this spring than ever before in the same length of time. Nearly every body has had to plant cotton the second time and every farmer is more or less behind with his crop.

Taylor Moore, colored, was arrested last night on a charge of lunacy and confined in the county jail. He made the night hideous for his neighbors, the negro quarter over east of the Banita, by his shrieks and yells. His mental derangement is caused from a severe spell of sickness.

I. M. Shepherd and Capt. J. H. Garrison are preparing to erect a gin, grist mill and shingle mill plant on a large scale at Garrison. They will probably put in a round bale press, though in the event they do they have both round and square bale press.

To Candidates.

All county and precinct candidates before coming democratic primaries are notified that I will have tickets for said primaries printed on Monday, April 23, and county candidates are assessed $1.00 each and precinct 50c each for printing said tickets, which amount must be paid to the undersigned or R. W. Haltom, on or before said date, or name will not be printed on ticket. S. W. Blount, Chairman Democratic Exec. Com. Nacogdoches Co.

Notice!

There is remaining $550.00 stock in the oil mill unsold, which will be sold to the highest bidder for cash. This year's dividend is not included. Sealed bids will be received up the 10th of May, when same will be opened and party offering most will be notified.

Bids by parties living outside of Nacogdoches or adjoining counties will not be considered, as this is purely a home enterprise.
