FIRST BALE NEW-COTTON:

Grown By Ed Berry, Negro, Near Chireno And Bought by Thomas & Richardson—Brings About 24 Cents Pound.

From Tuesday's Daily:

The first bale of new cotton, marketed here this season, was brought to this city this morning, and at one o'clock this afternoon was auctioned off, being bought in by Thomas & Richardson. The cotton was grown by Ed Berry, a negro, and was grown by Ed Berry a negro, and was grown on W. D. Lambert's farm near Chireno. The cotton was ginned by W. D. Lambert at Chireno, yesterday was brought here this morning, arriving in the city about nine o'clock. Thomas & Richardson bought the cotton at thirteen and three quarter cents per pound, in addition to which a premium of something like forty one dollars was given the negro. Today's bale is some ten days later than last year's first product, the 1908 bale coming here July 28. It too was purchased by Thomas & Richardson, the price being ten and three eighths cents per pound. The 1908 bale was grown by J. R. Edwards at Swift and brought a total of $52.95 the bale weighing 510 pounds, in addition to which a premium of about forty dollars was given. This season's cotton was brought a much greater distance, the farm on which it was grown being about twenty miles from here. Berry's bale weighed 400 pounds, the total amounting to $61.82 to which is added the forty one dollars premium and $5.25 for seed. This brings the grand total to $108.12 or 24 cents per pound. The record price for small towns so far this season is held by Belton, that place having paid twenty two cents per pound. Today's sale here breaks that record by about two cents, and indicates strongly that this city is by far the best cotton market in the state.

GOODBYE—DEAR OLD LUFKIN

Baxter From Tyler, and "Rube" Smith, An Ex-Missionary, Fail to Deliver The Goods For Lufkin—Sensational Ten-Inning Finish.

In one of the most interesting, exciting and wholly sensational finishes on the local diamond this season, the Nacogdoches Missionaries took the College Chums into camp yesterday afternoon and inflicted a drubbing nigh on to brutal. The tenth inning was the hair raising period and one that won't be forgotten soon by the local fans and enthusiasts. Baxter, the speedy twirler from the old capital of Smith county, was as wild as land agents in the Panhandle and those he didn't walk—he hit. Nine innings of such doings cured him well, and he seemed only too glad to retire—in favor of "Rube" Smith, the one time "man of mystery," who use to wear a Missionary uniform. The latter gentleman misjudged his own ability and the Nacogdoches boys pounced down on him unmercifully. He simply didn't have it—and the awful fact dawned on him too late. Had Baxter remained in the box, Lufkin may have won the game, though the chances were rankly against any such termination. The College Chums hit the ball pretty rapidly the first few innings, but Leveritt settled down to business afterwards and allowed but few more safe ones, while quite a number were given strikeout degrees in the secret work that he seems to be a past master in. Support was good—in fact on both sides—about the same number of errors being marked against each team. The Lufkin boys opened the display in the second inning, getting two runs, then added another in the third time up. The Missionaries failed to do a thing in the scoring line till the fourth when one lonely was chalked on the blackboard. Fifth passed and the sixth saw another go up for the locals. It looked better till the seventh when the boys from across the creek spread themselves for three runs—five to two looked bad. In the eighth however, Baxter promptly filled the bases as usual and two more runs were placed to the credit of the Missionaries, and in the ninth the dose was repeated, resulting in one run and a tie game—five and five. That looked some better, but when Townsend landed for a single, stole third—while two men were getting out. Huett walked and Hamilton got a three-baser,—well feelings reached a below normal stage. Spear then singled and Hamilton scored,—eight to five. Awful,—wasn't it Mabel? Smith went in the box for Lufkin. It looked dangerous and real sorrow was expressed

Then Jack Johnson walked right up to the plate and tapped the "man of mystery" for a clean two-bagger, winning the game, — nine to eight, seven or which has been made in the two of the tenth inning. McKINNEY is the next city to fall in the line of progress, and announces that she will build a creamery. In the meantime the people of the good old town of Nacogdoches continue to send away for their butter and other dairy products.

JUDGE Wear of Hillsboro, has made a decision that is calculated to hurt Texas. It was made on one of those little technicalities—flimsy and foolish it seems—but sufficient to hurt the Texas schools. Laws and judges need reforming along with some other things.

PEOPLE who talk over the telephone are usually people who have business to transact and they resort to such because it is supposed to save time etc.—therefore the best service possible is the only kind the people are entitled to. And that is the kind the people pay for,—the very best possible.

THE notices that are being sent out relative to the State Fair at Dallas, reminds us very forcibly of the fact that this county has secured no space for exhibits. Nacogdoches county is missing an opportunity that would be worth much, in not making arrangements for a display at the biggest exhibition in the South.

Now that the Federal Government has come to life on the building site proposition, it looks a little better. When the Government buys a piece of property it is a pretty good sign that they intend to use it for something. Nacogdoches will likely have a Post Office Building one of these days,—even if a long time off.

HENDERSON has received her first bale of cotton, and to show the appreciation a nice little premium was given the man who marketed the product. It is all well and nice and when bale No. 1 rolls in here possibly a good reward will be paid. But the best way to do that is offer the reward first,—and the farther the distance brought, the bigger should be the purse.

Just a little more interest in the affairs of the city will be worth while. The merchants and business men are here for a similar purpose, and along with that are for the upbuilding of Nacogdoches and the county. In this latter work a co-operation must be had or the desire will not be accomplished. Mr. Merchant and Mr. Business man should get together and formulate some plans for the future,—the fall trade for instance.

ANOTHER BIRTHDAY.

From Friday's Daily:

The Daily Sentinel was ten years old yesterday, and today begins its journey toward the eleventh mile-post. On August 5th, 1899, in a little room upstairs in a building which has since been succeeded by the handsome Redlands Hotel, The Sentinel came into existence, a three column, four page sheet, printed on a job press. The total assets of the office at the time, in addition to the press, was two cases of type, a tomb stone for make-up, and a lot of energy and determination to succeed. After about one year's existence there, the office was moved to the little brick building on Church street, erected especially for The Sentinel, and which is still standing. Five years there and then into its present home, purchased as permanent quarters for the Nacogdoches Daily Sentinel.

During the ten years existence, it has not failed to greet its readers a single afternoon, excepting the date of the death of its founder, R. W. Haltom, and Christmas holidays. During these ten years too, it has endeavored to fulfill its mission as a local newspaper, and we believe it has succeeded fairly well. While possibly it has not come up to the standard set by some, it has at least given a daily record, complete as far as available, of the doings and happenings in our little city, and has given the people the very best that patronage would justify. The business men and people as a whole, have supported it as well, no doubt, as they could, and we appreciate it to the fullest extent. In that time three other daily papers have made their debuts, and in turn have passed out. This is said with no degree of boasting, but merely as a matter of fact, and for the purpose of impressing the people that The Sentinel is here for them, visits daily, whether sunshine or cloud, and the support that has made such possible is acknowledged with a pride begot by friendliness.

In the future as in the past, the Sentinel will continue to be of and for Nacogdoches, this county and section, aiding in any and every way the upbuilding of the best country in the world. Another matter too, and this is,—every dollar spent with the Sentinel has been put right into the business, and the original policies of the paper have been maintained and will continue as the guiding spirits. The press on which the first issue was printed is yet in possession of the Sentinel, as are the two cases of type, while the old tomb stone, the improvised make-up, is also still the property of the paper. Other modern stuff of course is now in use, but the old-time material is here—and to stay. In conclusion we desire to express our thanks to the business men and the citizens of Nacogdoches for the friendship shown, the patronage extended and the co-operation lent us,—and to all we wish success and assure them the very best possible by the Sentinel during its eleventh year of living.

The school apportionment being cut from $6.75 to $6.00 doesn't sound very good to the people of Texas who have children to educate and who bear the burden of government. Something radically wrong when the children are to be deprived in order to make a few points somewhere else.

MEN who have traveled considerably this season through other portions of the state, always return here with the most flattering talk about East Texas and her crops. There is no section in the State that promises so much for the farmer, laborer, merchant and banker. The most splendid prospects for some time are something to be proud of,—and the people of this country are.

WHILE the folks of this good old town are doing this, that and the other, for the good of the town, it would be a good idea to close up the dives, hovels and nests, where lodge the scrapings of the earth. And the vags who lie around the streets, living on the labor of others, with never a lick of work to their credit, could be given some attention without causing any disruption in a business way.

LOTS of farmers were in town Saturday, some trading and some merely here to meet the people and to see what is doing in other sections. Most all of them report good crops, including both corn and cotton. In fact the entire county appears to be in a most excellent condition and the people are contented along with the prosperity. It is believed that the best crops for many years will be harvested this season.

WHAT is this we hear, Mr. Bryan coming to Texas to reside? Going into politics, too? Gee, that will remind the old timers of the days of the carpet bagger, who wanted an office before he patronized the town's tonsorial artist.—Waco-Times Herald.

A rose by any other name would smell as sweet, and a Democratic carpet bagger smells to heaven as loud to "the old timers as one of Republican stripe." But it is now said that Mr. Bryan does not expect to more than make his winter home down by the Rio Grande. However, Mr. Bryan may become through his winter residence so enamored of Texas that he will take up with us permanently and things may happen, for it is hard for a professional politician to keep out of politics. But Mr. Bryan is a very eloquent man of unimpeachable private character and Texans, regardless of political differences, would be glad to welcome him to Texas as a desirable citizen. And he should be congratulated that even so late in life he intends to repair the mistake of his youth in not casting his vote, among God's people in God's country.—Cleburne Enterprise.

EAST TEXAS.

(From the New York Commercial.)

East Texas is a large territory, comprising some twenty counties, and may appropriately be designated the fruit belt of Texas. It is a timbered region, with undulating surface and a great variety of soil. Water of fine quality and abundant quantity is obtained in wells, springs and clear running streams.

This part of the state has been the least exploited, mainly because the lands are not held in large blocks that would appeal to the colonization companies that have been advertising so extensively the gulf coast country and West Texas. Therefore East Texas is comparatively little known to the outside world; although one of the best sections of the state for those of moderate means who desire to make permanent homes in Texas.

The United States department of agriculture has established hundreds of experimental farms in this territory to demonstrate results that may be obtained by scientific agricultural methods. It has been clearly shown that the farms can be made to produce more than double the yield of the past, and forty to sixty bushels of corn, or one bale to one and a half bales of cotton per acre, are now being obtained from lands that have been yielding only fifteen to twenty bushels of corn and one-third to one-half bale of cotton an acre.

The farmers are profiting by these demonstrations by adopting the methods introduced at the experimental farms, and the benefits accruing to the whole country are incalculably great.

The methods of cultivating, harvesting and marketing fruits and garden truck are also undergoing a marked change, as a result of practical demonstrations made at the experimental farms. Instead of rushing to the markets with fruits and truck for a few weeks after the ripening season commences—until the markets become glutted and the prices paid no longer even detract the expense of shipping, and then leaving the balance of the crops to rot in the fields, it has been demonstrated that every farmer should provide a home canning outfit and should can all the fruit and vegetables that can not be profitably sold in the fresh state. When this method becomes universally practiced the season for marketing the products of truck farms and orchards will no longer be confined to a few weeks, and these products may be sold at any time during the year, as is the case with cotton and corn.

East Texas shipped last year approximately 3000 carloads of tomatoes and peaches, and there is no way of estimating the quantity left to rot in the fields after the market became glutted. It is too early to get reports on shipments this season, but from the little town of Jacksonville alone there have already been shipped about 250 cars of tomatoes.

While peaches, Irish potatoes, tomatoes, and strawberries have been the crops most extensively grown heretofore, many other kinds of vegetables and fruits could undoubtedly be grown profitably. Pears, blackberries and asparagus would pay well, and yet but little attention is being bestowed upon them.

The growing of fine grade tobacco promises to develop into a great industry in the district around Palestine, Nacogdoches and Crockett. At Palestine something like fifty acres is devoted to growing the "wrapper," a grade of tobacco heretofore obtainable only in Cuba. It is grown under a shade, the field being covered with slate or cheesecloth, but the product sells at prices ranging from 50 cents to $2.50 a pound, and as the yield from one acre is 800 to 1200 pounds it is a very promising industry.

Hog raising is receiving a good deal of attention, as the hogs may be kept on the waste products and at little or no expense. Fine milk cows are taking the place of the old-time "Texas steers."

A BUTTER factory for this city would be one of the best enterprises that the people could get. The daily consumption of that product in this city alone would almost use the entire output. From a financial standpoint a creamery would undoubtedly be a paying investment,—if run right,—to say nothing of the good it would do in causing better and more cows. The farmers of the county will subscribe for a good portion of the stock, as well as supply the cows, if the business men will do their part. The opportunity for a creamery is at hand.

ACCORDING to an exchange there are only eleven candidates for gubernatorial honors in Texas. Of course it is to be regretted that the number is so small but as long as there is life, there's hope. The fall trade,—holidays,—and then watch the political pot in this state begin to boil.

It's one of the best parts of the grand old Texas, but wholly lacking in enterprise. Just watch Dalhart get there on the Fair. She'll come through without a flicker.—Dalhart News.

Poor old East Texas? It's to laugh—long and loud. The best place under the broiling sun, where people are happy, prosperous and contented. Where the cares of life that come with living in other sections are unknown and where the good things on this earth are as plentiful as sage grass on the Plains, Poor old East Texas? And does prolific corn, cotton and grain crops make it poor? Do the finest tobacco fields this side of old Kentuck,—and the finest ribbon cane syrup every twisted from a mill make it poor? Do the abundant yields of fruits and vegetables and the herds of fine dairy cattle and pens of good horses, to say nothing of big porkers make it poor? Discard that hard boiled, hat, Drake, get a wide brim acclimatizer and have the town council pass an ordinance against the wind blowing so awfully hard in Dalhart.—Luck to the fair.

ARE the citizens of Nacogdoches satisfied with conditions as they now exist, or do they want to better matters? 'Spose we get up another series of trades days. They are good things and no doubt. The business men are urged to take some action.

FIRE DESTROYS A TOWN.

Melrose, Ten. Miles East, Suffers Disastrous Conflagration Last Night — Cigarette Responsible For Flames — Re-Building Commenced

From Thursday's Daily:

The little city of Melrose, inland town about ten miles East of Nacogdoches, was almost totally destroyed by fire last night, only two store houses of the six or seven remaining this morning. The origin of the fire is unknown, but is believed to have been caused by a cigarette stub, as the blaze was first discovered among some shavings in the confectionery store of Will Alders. According to the information given the Sentinel early this morning by telephone, about nine thirty o'clock last night a blaze was seen in the store of Will Alders, which was located about the center of the block. The alarm was quickly given but by the time a bucket brigade could be organized, the entire store was almost enveloped in flames making it impossible to save that building or any of the contents. The store was broken into, and which added fury to the flames the fire spreading quickly to Dr. Robertson's office, drug store and dwelling, then his barn and to Will Alders home in one direction, while on the opposite side the general merchandise store of Stripling & Morris and the ware house of J. W. Mast were destroyed. That completed the destruction of that side of the street, being all the buildings close in, while the street in front was located the postoffice and the main building of J. W. Mast. All of these places caught fire, but the heroic work of the fifty or seventy-five people with their buckets and other fire fighting apparatus saved them from burning. It is understood that Will Alders had no insurance whatever, either on his residence, contents or stock of goods. He saved a few of his house hold goods however. His loss is placed at between five and six hundred dollars, —four hundred on the stock of confections, cold drink fountain, fixtures etc. Dr. Robertson's loss is placed at about the same, with no insurance. He saved a small part of his household effects and his buggy, but drugs and office fixtures and barn are a total loss. Stripling & Morris saved about half of their stock, some four or five hundred dollars worth, —and carried no insurance. J. W. Mast places his loss on the ware house at twelve hundred and fifty dollars with about nine hundred insurance.

A young man by the name of Roy Harvin while fighting the flames became over heated and fainted, but this morning is reported all right. It is stated too that a meeting of the business men of Melrose was held this morning and all have decided to rebuild. Dr. Robertson has already ordered material for his residence, store and office and J. W. Mast will likely erect another ware house at once. No expression has been heard from the other two losers, but it is the general belief that they too will rebuild. Our informant at Melrose stated in connection with the matter, that some new stuff was gotten in late yesterday afternoon at Alders store, and in unpacking and checking up, the shavings etc. from the cases were left around the soda fount, and afterwards a crowd was in there smoking and talking, — the supposition being that a cigarette was thrown among the packings. All of the stores closed about dark and no trace of fire was seen at that time.

The second couple came from the opposite direction, the groom from the Pelican state and the bride from some point in Texas, farther East than here. They too were joined in holy wedlock by the official, and left on an afternoon train for Louisiana to reside. Neither of the couples were young looking enough to be runaways, yet the fact that they came to Nacogdoches to get married causes the suspicion that parental objections may have been.

Rains Are Beneficial.

The showers which fell Saturday afternoon, Saturday night and yesterday are the cause of many smiles on the faces of the farmer folks and business men alike. While the rains are not sufficient to do any great good, yet they will help considerably. Cotton has been needing moisture for several days and tobacco would have suffered had it remained dry longer. The first harvest of the latter product is about finished, and the crop is said to be fine both in yield and quality. The second crop now in making promises much with showers, and the recent ones help some.

Leaves For Waco.

Captain H. H. Cooper, postmaster, and Mrs. Cooper, left on the noon train for Waco, Texas, where they will attend the twelfth annual convention of the First Class Postmasters. Captain Cooper is slated for a talk on "Innovations in the Postoffice" and his number will no doubt be an interesting one as he has made many innovations here, for the good of himself, the employess and the patrons. He and Mrs. Cooper will be away several days.

AN EARLY SHOOTING AFFAIR.

Esmas Loftin, Negro, Fires Several Shots At Ella Wheeler Then Endeavors To Escape — Captured After Three Mile Race.

From Saturday's Daily:

Esmas Loftin, a negro of unsavory reputation, and who is seldom out of trouble of some nature, is again journeying behind the bars of the Nacogdoches county jail house. It seems that Loftin had been out of town for some time, and returning this morning went to the house of Ella Wheeler, on Taylor Avenue, in the neighborhood of the Show Case Factory, where it is said he had been in the habit of staying when in the city. The negro woman objected to him entering the house and becoming angered, Loftin whipped out a big, ugly looking sixshooter and fired a number of shots at the woman. She ran out the back way screaming, giving a general alarm to the surrounding country. In a few minutes a crowd had gathered to investigate and Sheriff Spradley arrived with the dogs. In the meantime Loftin had taken to the woods northwest from the street. The dogs were turned loose and after one of the most exciting short races recorded, the negro would-be murderer was treed in the southwestern part of the city. He had changed his course after reaching the woods, turning back toward town, coming in by the oil mill and along the rail road going in the direction of his father's place, which is about two miles from Nacogdoches. Before taking to the tree, Loftin had given his pistol to another negro, with the advice that he go and meet the officers and have them stop the dogs, as he would give up, and before they reached the hiding place, Loftin called to the men to not let the dogs hurt him, as he would come down. He was brought to the city and lodged in jail. As far as can be ascertained, none of the shots hit the woman, though they were fired at close range, and seemed to be meant to kill or cripple.

Simon Mintz left this afternoon for Beaumont to be away for several days. He has purchased an interest in a merchandise business there and goes down to look after the affairs. Mr. Mintz says that he has not yet decided whether he will move the stock here or not, and that during his absence Dee Brown will have charge of the business here.

Returns From A Summer Visit.

"Uncle" Cal Fall returned last Saturday from an extended visit to friends and relatives in Arkansas. While away he put in considerable time hunting rattlesnakes he says, and to show his skill in finding them, brings back a couple of rattles and a hide, which he presented to The Sentinel office. One set of rattles was from a Diamond Rattler and the other from a Velvet Rattler. "Uncle" Cal went to the Memphis reunion from Arkansas and of course hasn't forgotten the affair. He was very much disappointed however in the accommodations afforded the old soldiers in the Tennessee city, and says he will never attend another unless it is in New Orleans or some point in Texas.

Nacogdoches Looks Good.

C. W. Butt, who returned yesterday from an extended trip to various portions of Texas, says he comes back with the spirit of "Nacogdoches is best." He reports crops in other sections not as good as in this county, and that general conditions do not indicate that any section has it over Nacogdoches city and county. In Marlin, he states, that the weeds are worse than any place he has visited, and people have to take the middle of the road in some parts. Corn in that particular section is not good, but cotton looks promising.

County court adjourned Saturday for the term, after having been in session some three weeks. Considerable business was disposed of, including pleas of guilty, dismissals, continuances and verdicts of guilty. Saturday was given over to the hearing of petitions of new hearings etc.

—Rev. J. H. Case and L. W. Bell, of near Mahl, were in the city today on business. They report crops good in their localities and state that cotton is opening rapidly.

Good streets, — better streets,—are mighty good things. Push them along. We need them badly and besides we need some street crossings too.

EVERY little bit helps is mighty true in regard to cities as well as individuals. A mattress factory has begun, a broom factory is being talked and the butter factory is now in the incubator. Talk and push for Nacogdoches.

THE folks, some of them, say there will be something doing of interest to all, pretty soon. Well, let it come. No city can have too much doing in a commercial way, and no city can have too many industries.

THE butter factory is causing more interest among the farmer folks than it is among the town people. This is not at all unnatural, though one people will reap no more benefit from such an enterprise than another.

THERE is more building going on in this city now than for twelve months,—at one time. That means prosperity and business activity. It means the people have confidence and are willing to turn some money loose for improvements. Only more of it ought to be turned loose.

THE dives, hovels and hanging out places of the scrapings ought to go and will go if the people will. Such places as are now in existence in this city are disgraces, and if they can't be rid of one way, they can another. Move them out—decent towns ought to furnish no lodgings for the degraded beings of either color.

THE people in the bloomin', boundin', west are very much elated over the recent rains, and are talking about it as if moisture was indeed a scarce article in that section. Those folks who really want the best seasons in Texas, ought to come to this part,—you can't head old East Texas in anything.

THE Nacogdoches Sentinel thinks that, in view of the fact that it is said that every time a fellow tells a lie his toe wiggles, it would never do for Editor Stump of the Port Arthur News to go bare-footed, as his reputation among his own people for truth and veracity would be forever ruined.—Orange Leader.

PALESTINE is about to get in the lime light again, and is seriously considering getting a man to "boost" that city. Commercial secretaries, where the people are behind them, physically and financially as well morally, can do a world of good, and Palestine can profit much by getting a good man to push the town.

How many of the business men are taking stock in the butter factory? Are there enough interested to get the enterprise? It is a mighty needed one and will pay good dividends in many ways.

A LAW that is good for one man is usually good for another,—and there should be no discrimination in such things. If it's not good for one,—it is not for the other fellow,—so get shut of it as quickly as possible.

CERTAINLY, through the Summer months we can do without street crossings very well, but when old Winter rolls around and the people begin to wade mud neck deep to a cur dog, then oh, if we only had some street crossings. It's the truth.

THE first bale of cotton is in and reminds us very forcibly that the fleecy staple will come rolling in rapidly a little later. The merchants should let the farmers of this and surrounding counties know that Nacogdoches is the best cotton market in this section.

THE surrounding towns and cities are getting busy on the cotton proposition, and unless the business men of Nacogdoches get together, lots of the product that should come here, will be diverted. This is the best market in this section if the people only knew it.

Yes, trades days are mighty good things for a village, town or city. Nearly every merchant and business man will agree on that proposition. But agreeing is not doing anything;—in fact the only way to accomplish a thing is to get to work.—Do the people want the trades days again?

WITH the best crops for several years, and farmers practically on a cash basis to begin, this section bids fair to eclipse all others in the prosperity line. Cotton, corn, tobacco, ribbon cane syrup and some good hogs together with a few side issues are just a few of the assets of the East Texas farmers.

ARE the business men of this city willing to help in the butter factory proposition? Not only help in the way of buying the product and in moral support, but willing to take stock in the concern? The farmers over the county are interested and will not only put money into the enterprise but will furnish the raw product. The time for a creamery is at hand, and if this city really wants one, the opportunity is at hand.

THE Bartlett Tribune has dropped back into the "once-a-week" habit, having found the semi-weekly impracticable. Cates will probably remember in the future, that a newspaper must make expenses or change, as some of the other folks who are now trying to run semi-weeklies in once-a-week towns will also do. However, the Tribune is a mighty good paper and has a mighty progressive man behind it.

A BUSINESS man said Saturday that Trades Days were good things and he believed the Sentinel ought to keep urging the people to get in line again. The Sentinel is, as it has always been, for the upbuilding of the city, county and section. Trades Days are good things,—no question about it. But one man, nor a few, and one paper can't agitate a Trades Day, put it on and then engineer it to success. It takes the entire people to do a thing like that. Now the Sentinel wants to hear from farmers, merchants, business men and citizens. Write or tell what you think about the matter,—and if sentiment is for it,—well we'll try Trades Days again.

ERRORS sometimes occur in print same as anywhere else, and usually the perpetrator of the crime has to dodge corners until the smoke clears away. It's lot of fun though—some times—to watch the other fellow cut the dark places, especially when you know you are safe.—Nacogdoches Sentinel.

And did you notice that some people can tell you about the errors in your paper, which have been overlooked by the one correcting proof, but when you get out a paper full of news they fail to tell you that it is appreciated, but such is the life of newspaper man.—Polk County Enterprise.

THE West is waking up and insisting on having a seat at the first table. The El Paso Times thinks East Texas has been running things long enough and makes this earnest plea for recognition:

For many years this section has been the burden bearer for the more populous east. It has had no right which East Texas thought worthy of consideration, and its interests have been disregarded uniformly. It has been denied any share in the state offices, its legislative needs have been ignored and it has been taxed out of all proportion to its wealth and population. All that East Texas has to do "to get together" with this section is to show a disposition to give West Texas a square deal. Being a square people, West Texas asks no favors at the expense of the other sections but asks that their rights be respected and their interests be regarded.

There should be no sectionalism in Texas. The state is big and the interests of her citizens are diverse; but this bigness and diversity are safeguards against sectional rule. The western portion of the state has furnished several state officers in recent years and the last legislature provided a state normal school and two experiment stations for this section. Immigration is pouring into the West faster than into any other portion of the state, her citizens are alert and active in the work of material development and the crop of state politicians of power and influence will come in due time. The Western man is a poll tax payer, and the support of the West is beginning to be earnestly sought by candidates. In a word, the West is coming and coming fast.

THE COUNTRY BOY.

It has been waggishly said that you can get the boy out of the country, but that you can not get the country out of the boy. In the sense in which this was meant, it is untrue; in an unintended construction, it is gratifyingly true. The author of the foregoing epigram meant to say that, despite all cultural agencies that may be brought to bear on the boy reared in the country, he can never acquire fully the urbanities or life—that the country boy will always be a boor in nature, and that the rustic may not acquire more than a very unreliable veneer of culture. For the retutation of the interpretation no serious argument is needed. In every city a large proportion of the most refined stratum of society is composed of people who were reared in the rural districts.

Choosing to convert arbitrarily the foregoing imputation against the country boy to interpretation demonstrably true, it may be said indeed that you can not eliminate the country from the boy. The young fellow who enters upon active life among his fellows, with his life sweetened by the songs of birds and the fragrance of clover blooms, and with his body rugged and sinuous from days of honest toil in the open air, has an incalculable advantage over the all too common enervated youth of the pavements. The boy of country rearing has a reserve fund of energy upon which he may draw freely in life's strenuous contest. His nerves are calm and steady. His body is a well-kept machine, strong to endure the heavy dratts which life necessitates. His constitution is not shattered by the incessant din of the city, nor through excessive external stimuli has life grown effete for him.

With admirable equipoise, then, he goes to the city, to become numbered within the next two decades among the successful men of affairs. In the cities it is a common saying that each generation of leading business men is recruited from the ranks of the country boys. Apparently, the pavement is inimical to the production of rugged men. Once when Mr. McKinley and his cabinet were traversing the state of Illinois, those in the car with the president observed him looking intently and amusedly at something outside. Being asked what it was that he saw, he replied: "I was just watching that bare-foot boy yonder leaping from warm place to warm where the cows he is driving have been lying, and I was recalling the times when I used to do as he is doing." In the conversation that followed it developed that every member of the cabinet had warmed his feet similarly, and that each had been reared on a farm.

It is a matter greatly to be deplored that so many young men, blessed with the superb equipment that comes from spending one's early life in the country, should so often be denied the opportunity to develop their latent powers. In this connection, the latest biennial report of the board of regents of the University of Texas presents figures, at once significant and encouraging. It is shown that the number of farmers' sons attending the University equals the combined attendance of the sons of merchants and lawyers, the two occupations furnishing the next largest numbers. Even taking into account the fact that Texas is an agricultural state, it is yet of interest to know that so large a class as the merchants, and a class so committed to higher education, as are the lawyers generally, should be thus surpassed by the farming class is tangible proof of their confidence in collegiate instruction. Texas is fortunate in maintaining an institution of a high order that appeals to the agricultural class.

HON. A. S. HAWKINS of Midland, Texas, is a candidate for Lieutenant Governor,—he says so himself. Mr Hawkins will be remembered as the gentleman who resigned from the Senate when the Bailey issue was rampant, and in a special election was defeated. After apologising for getting into the race so early, the man from West Texas says:

I think the anti-pass law should be amended so as to permit the exchange of newspaper space for transportation at the usual rates, where the transaction is bonafide as to all parties. My past record in the Legislature is in harmony with this position.

Resigned from the senate rather than substitute my personal judgement for the instructions of my people on a question then pending. For my action in this matter I have been praised by some and ridiculed by others; but I am still of the opinion that a Democratic Representative should resign his position rather than violate the instruction of his party.

In this connection, will say that the Democrats of Texas have already instructed in favor of submission, and if elected Lieutenant Governor of Texas I will so construe their action, and act accordingly, unless instructed to the contrary.

The attention of our readers is called to the advertisement of the Palestine school of Business which appears on page eight of this issue. From reading the Fall announcement which lies before us we note that the principal has had large experience and great success in this line of work and is highly recommended. We suggest that each young man or woman who reads this "ad" write a once for a catalogue, it may prove a stepping stone to a successful career.

Homer Kennard, of Longview was in the the city this morning shaking hands with old acquaintances. Homer is an old Nacogdoches boy, and and this is his first visit in 5 years. He notes many changes and improvements since he went away.

W. J. Townsend came up from Lutkin at noon on a business visit.

D. 1909 the same being the 13th day of September A. D. 1909 then and there to answer a petition filed in said Court on the 10th day of August A. D. 1909 in a suit, numbered on the docket of said Court No. 89, wherein, Lula Patton is plaintiff, and Berry Patton is defendant, and said petition alleging plaintiff and defendant was lawfully married in Nacogdoches county, Texas, on 2nd day of January 1902, and lived together as husband and wife until on or about the 22nd day of October 1908. Wherein plaintiff abandoned defendant, for cruel, excessive and ill-treatment, inflicted upon her by said defendant, and has not lived with said defendant since said date of their separation. That their further living together as man and wife is unsupported, as fully set out in plaintiff's petition.

Herein fail not, but have before said Court, at its aforesaid next regular term, this writ, with your return thereon, showing how you have executed the same.

Witness, Arthur A. Seale, Clerk of the District Court of Nacogdoches county.

Citation.

The State of Texas.
To the Sheriff or any Constable of Nacogdoches County greeting:

Oath having been made as required by law, you are hereby commanded to summon Walter Walker by making publication of this Citation once in each week for four successive weeks previous to the return day hereof, in some newspaper published in your county, to appear at the next regular term of the District Court of Nacogdoches county, to be held at the Court House thereof, in Nacogdoches, on the 2nd Monday in September A. D. 1909 the same being the 13th, day of September A. D. 1909, then and there to answer a petition filed in said Court on the 4th, day of August A. D. 1909, in a suit, numbered on the docket of said Court No. 88, wherein Lena Walker is plaintiff, and Walter Walker is defendant, and said petition alleging that plaintiff is an actual bona fide resident of the county of Nacogdoches and State of Texas, and was for six months next preceding the filing of this suit, and that the whereabouts of defendant are wholly unknown to this plaintiff. That on or about November 5, 1909, plaintiff and defendant were legally married to each other in Nacogdoches county, and thereafter lived together as husband and wife until December 10, 1905, when because of harsh, unkind and tyrannical treatment this plaintiff was forced to leave defendant with the intention of never returning to him as his wife. That defendant made, immoral and illegal proposals to this plaintiff, and she being a woman of refinement, caused her great humiliation and mortification. That immediately after such proposals and propositions plaintiff left defendant and has not lived with him since.

That during the time they so lived together as husband and wife, plaintiff alleges that she was kind and dutiful wife, always performing her marital vows, as best she could.

Wherefore plaintiff prays that Citation issue commanding defendant to answer this petition and that upon final hearing hereof she have judgment dissolving said marriage and for such other relief that she may be entitled to, all of which is more fully set out in plaintiff's original petition now on file in this office to which reference is made.

Herein fail not, but have before said Court, at its aforesaid next regular term, this writ, with your return thereon, showing how you have executed the same.

Witness, Arthur A. Seale, Clerk of the District Court of Nacogdoches county.

Given under my hand and the Seal of Court, at office in Nacogdoches this 5th, day of August, A. D. 1909.

Bilious People Try It Free

Do not ignore the "little disorders" of the system. The liver, for example, is a particularly useful little organ, but must be active to be of any use. When it is active it creates gastric juices that help to make digestion perfect, and then you are well. When it is not active it becomes what is known as "torpid," and promptly produces biliousness.

There is no better cure for biliousness or any of the symptoms of liver trouble than Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, the wonderful laxative tonic of which so much praise is heard. It is pleasant to take (unlike pills and powders and such things) and acts very gently, moving the bowels without griping, toning the stomach and arousing the liver to activity, thus scientifically curing such conditions as biliousness, torpid liver, foul breath, sallow or pimply complexion, sick headache, constipation, loss of appetite, indigestion, stomach nervousness, etc., all of which are due to a slow liver.

Mack Clark, of Eastington, Ky., suffered for five years from biliousness and cured himself with Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Noah B. Hatfield, of Zions, Mo., found it the best medicine in the world for his biliousness.

You can buy a 50-cent or $1 bottle of any druggist, for they all sell it. You can buy it with the understanding that if it fails to cure you the money will be refunded. This remedy is guaranteed. However, if you would rather try it without expense before buying, send your name to the doctor and a free sample bottle will be sent to your home. Use it and if you find the remedy helps you, buy a regular bottle of your druggist. We will rest on the verdict of what this sample does.

If there is anything about you that you don't understand, or if you want any medical advice, write to the doctor, and he will answer you fully. There is no charge for this service. The address is Dr. W. E. Caldwell, 513 Caldwell bldg., Monticello, Ill.

Galveston, Texas, August 5.—(2:30 p. m.) The Texas Farmers Union today elected W. T. Loudermilk of Comanche county president for the coming year, Peter Radford of Parker county vice-President; Joe Edmundson of Anderson county re-elected state organizer, and lecturer. When the convention adjourned at noon the delegates were balloting on the office of secretary-treasurer. Miss Nellie Norton, assistant state secretary, was leading list. On the first ballot, she received sixty eight of 151 votes cast against four opponents, J. A. Kinnard, of Howard county, Ed Shropshire, of Llano county, Henry Hudson, of Tarrant county and Scott Woodard, of Erath county. It is expected that Miss Norton will be elected. The Executive committee's report today showed the association to be in the best financial condition in its history. Immediately after the election this afternoon, the Union will decide on president Neill's plan to pool the entire Texas cotton seed out put and sell outside of the state. Delegates favor the proposition. Neill said he has the support of five states for National president, Texas, Kansas, Missouri, Oklahoma and Illinois.

No particulars were learned, as efforts to get connection by telephone seemed impossible (tried three times and failed) but it is stated that the woman was aged.

ANOTHER MIDNIGHT PROWLER.

Two Homes On South Main Street Entered Last Night—Twenty Three Dollars In Money And Gold Watch Taken—Barefoot Track Indicate That Bey Did The Work.

Another midnight prowler was out last night and made a pretty good haul according to the missing articles this morning. The home of J. H. Summers seemed to have been the first place of entrance, the burglar going upstairs and rifling two rooms. Elbert Summers was relieved of his gold watch, and Grandpa Summers was touched for about twelve dollars. Both the money and the watch were found in the pockets, and no trace of any other ransacking is available. The other parts of the house, up and down stairs do not seem to have been ransacked at all. The next place of entrance was Mrs. Wilson's boarding house, just across the street in front of the Summers home. Only one room here was entered, Mr. Wilson of Chireno who was in the city for the night, losing something more than eleven dollars. His trousers were found on the back gallery this morning, pockets turned wrong side, indicating a thorough search of that garment. Nothing else in the room was molested. What time of the night these burglaries occurred is not known, as the prowler very fortunately failed to arouse any one at either place. Officers went to the places this morning on being advised of the affairs, but found nothing to indicate the party or parties who did the work. At the Wilson home barefoot tracks were found leading away from the house, and supposed to have been made by a boy about twelve or fourteen years of age. Officers believe however that it will be practically an easy matter to catch the fellow, as the watch is registered and will be known anywhere. It is believed that the same party or parties entered the Fitch home Sunday night, when a watch was taken.

CURES BLOOD POISON

Removing the symptoms is not all that is necessary to cure Contagious Blood Poison. The virulent germs which produce these outward manifestations must be completely driven from the blood before a real cure can be effected. The least taint left in the circulation will, sooner or later, cause a fresh outbreak of the trouble, with all the hideous symptoms of ulcerated mouth and throat, copper colored blotches, falling hair, sores and ulcers, etc.

Contagious Blood Poison is the most treacherous of all diseases. It has its victims in its power almost before they realize its presence, because its first symptom is usually a little sore or pimple so insignificant that it does not excite suspicion. But the insidious poison is at work on the blood and in a short while the patient finds he is more, or less affected from head to foot.

Contagious Blood Poison is too dangerous to trifle with. No time should be lost in ridding the blood of this destructive poison, and in no disease is it more important to have the proper remedy. Medicines which merely check the symptoms for a time and leave the real cause smoldering in the system have brought misery and disappointment to thousands. Faithfully the sufferers took such treatment, usually of mineral nature, and when all symptoms had disappeared and the treatment was left off, found the virus had only been shut up in the system awaiting a favorable opportunity to return, with every symptom intensified.

S. S. S. cures Contagious Blood Poison and cures it permanently. It goes down into the blood and removes every particle of the poison, makes the circulation pure and healthy, and does not leave the slightest trace of the disease for future outbreaks. S. S. S. is made entirely of roots, herbs and barks, all of which are healing and cleansing in their nature. It does not contain a particle of mineral in any form to injure the delicate parts of the system. S. S. S. will also drive out any lingering remains of mineral poison that may be in the blood from the former treatment. If you are suffering with Contagious Blood Poison S. S. S. will cure you, because it will purify your blood. Home treatment book and any medical advice free to all who write.

THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., ATLANTA, GA.

BROTHER HAMILTON EN GARDE.

(C. F. Drake in the Dalhart News)

Incidents are sometimes appropos. This is one. In the "dear, dull, charming, but dead old Nacogdoches," the historic, vine-embowered, rose-garlanded, ivy-covered, tradition-entwined city on the banks of the LaNana, the Bannita, where history was first really begun making for Texas; where Davy Crockett foregathered with his Spartan band; where lion-hearted old Sam Houston and his devoted seven hundred collected their Titanic forces neath the spreading foliage of the then centuries-old, grand and noble elm; where Houston gave speech as ringingly patriotic and inspiring as that with which before Bannockburn the Scottish Chieftain stirred his canny Highlanders "wha' ha' wi' Wallace bled"—to march, to do, to die under the walls of the Alamo—to obliterate with their dearest blood the ensanguined plains of San Jacinto—and place upon the azure field of "Old Glory" its greatest, grandest, noblest star—in the dear old town there lived two men. Robert Lindsey and June C. Harris, the one a promoter, the other, a splendid lawyer, and both live wires, surcharged with energy, overflowing with civic pride, vibrating with hopes and desires to build their town, and crying not "you should do this, you should do that," but "Follow us." And one fine day a few months ago these men discovered beneath the soil of Nacogdoches flowing within her very streets, a wonderful water, the analysis of which when subjected to the severest tests, showed indisputably greater strength and curative properties than even the famous waters of the Crazy Well. At their own expense these two men fitted up their wells, built, and built and hewed from the tangled growth of briar and copenwood where once had been a dumping ground for the city's refuse, a beautiful park. They turned the ugly, uninviting jungle into a dream of pastoral loveliness—then stood forth with hands all red with the toil and stress of their devoted efforts to make a city build upon itself, proclaiming the future bright for their beloved home, asking not alms, but co-operation only, a little team work from the citizens of the Stone Fort city. What were their thanks? What reception has their work been met with? What has all their expense availed them so far as the thanks of a people indifferent to the march of progress are concerned? It hath availed them naught. Read what these progressive citizens—not alone of Nacogdoches, but of Texas—say, in their home paper, upon the eve of their withdrawal from Nacogdoches. Says the "Nacogdoches Sentinel":

"In speaking of the matter this morning, June C. Harris says: 'We will open offices in Houston September first and will make that city the distributing point, at once putting in a depository for the Aqua Vitae Mineral waters. The company we have formed has unlimited capital and we expect to be able to put the waters to the four quarters of the globe. We hate to leave Nacogdoches, and still believe her people have let pass a brilliant opportunity when no effort to push this enterprise was made. Had the people shown a disposition to help us, we intended to lease the Orton pasture build an artificial lake, boat houses, bath houses, drive ways all through the plot to the canyons, and probably stock it with park animals. A natural health resort as Nacogdoches is, with these wonderful attractions for the summer tourists, and the fact that the railroads had promised to put five hundred people a day here, next season, makes it still more regrettable. But it can't be helped and we are compelled to go where we can have co-operation in another way, if not in the way we desired. Mr. Lindsey and myself will go to Houston September 1st. Mrs. Lindsey going also, but my family will not leave Nacogdoches before January 1st.'

Brother Hamilton will please read and reflect.

The good people of Nacogdoches are apparently eminently satisfied, not to say content, with what they have—and that is much; a splendid civilization, delightful climate, enticing country, bounteous harvests, superb water both natural and mineral, in fact all the qualifications upon which to build a magnificent city or at least 25,000 population. But conservatism running to extremes, sits placidly beneath every vine and fig tree. No forwardness, no effort or disposition to grow, Nacogdoches typifies nothing so very much as a "sweet Auburn, loveliest village of the plain." Cotton, corn, tobacco, fruits and vegetables, hay and such like products scattered by the hand of a benign Providence, produce such an unstinted prosperity that want is unknown. It is scarce to be wondered at that the people of Nacogdoches and her sister cities makes little or no effort to reach out, to advertise, to attract to themselves the brawn and muscle and capital and enterprise of the outside world when one only considers the munificent natural advantages of that section of Texas.

Now, this article is not intended as any reflection upon Nacogdoches, upon Palestine, upon any East Texas city. We like East Texas and East Texas people. Out of it has come some, many in fact, of our very best specimens of American citizenship. But one may not hide a fact, strive he ever so hard, and it is a fact that ordinary commerce conserved by natural advantages and ante-bellum methods have never yet built a great city any where in this land, more especially in the South. We are confronted with new conditions every day we live and if we do not learn adaptability, how to adjust ourselves, our plans and modes of action to meet those new conditions, we shall be left high and dry upon the sterile sands of conservative respectability. Thus it is with all such towns and cities that fail or refuse to hearken to the call of modernity. We must progress, we must strive to the best of our ability, if we would grow and expand and become a civic, a financial, an industrial, a commercial force. It is the restless man who accomplishes things. It is the restless community that builds and builds and never ceases to build, and finally attains to heights of national prominence, evolving from the force of circumstances a greatness that echoes and rebounds throughout, that wrests from the hard grip of adverse fortune it may be, the fruits of enterprise. Here was Nacogdoches, with one of the most magnificent opportunities ever presented to any city in Texas to become as well known and as popular as a health resort as Mineral Wells, as Marlin, as even the most famous of any mineral water resort. Yet indifference, apathy, aye, even a selfishness that cankers upon itself, has forced the two men who would do great deeds for their beloved town, to pluck their stakes, to pack their lures and penates and remove them from the midst of such coldness, such unconcern for their own and the welfare of the community. It is to be wondered at that such places are scarcely known save as historic interest attaches to them?

We have used this example, not in an unkindly spirit, not merely to reply to another newspaper article flung forth in a spirit of sarcastic jest, but more largely to try and direct the channel of Dalhart thought along the line of resistance to such stagnation. There is a slight evidence of its existence here, and if an antidote is not applied to it, if it is not corrected, the sleepy sickness with which so many East Texas communities are afflicted will become prevalent in Dalhart, and her past splendid accomplishments will have become as naught. Shall we apply the antidote?

Thus, Brother Hamilton of the Palestine Herald has evidence before him to corroborate what he has passed by with a mild sneer. There are a few live men in the East Texas towns, but they are rapidly becoming disgusted at the indifference of their people and are surely moving to sections here their public spirit, their enterprise will be appreciated and fostered by the co-operation of their fellow citizens. The West is among them, and the call of the opportunity that lie follow here has reached within the eastern side of the State are responding to this call. They all make good, and some day poor old East Texas will find herself denuded of her best. "Tis pity, 'tis pity, 'tis true." Blessed with many things the West has not, the natural advantages are killing the towns of East Texas. Their newspaper men know it, but are too timorous, possibly, to cry aloud. (The above article is up to the people. If any one desires to answer, all or in part, the columns of the Sentinel are open. We have nothing to say.)

Letter to I. E. Birdwell, Nacogdoches, Texas.

Dear Sir, Mr.—President of a cotton mill at Union S. C., he don't want to see his name in print—had two offers of 500 gallons of paint: $1.30 and $1.25. Took the $1.25; and got skinned. He'd have got three quarters skinned if he'd taken the other.

The $1.30 was full-gallon, the $1.25 was 18 per cent short. The full measure paint was adulterated 40 per cent; the short measure paint was adulterated 45 per cent; besides benzine in the oil, don't know how much.

Devoc lead and zinc wasn't sold in the town then.

It don't pay to monkey with paint.

Devoc costs less than any of em not by the gallon, of course; by the house and year. That's how to reckon it. Go by the name.

Stripling-Leak Wedding.

Last Tuesday, August 3rd, at 8:30 a. m., at the Methodist church in Center, occurred the marriage of Miss Winfrey Leak of that city and Raiford Nicholas Stripling, of San Augustine.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dan Leak, an uncle of the bride, and was attended by a large number of the relatives and friends of the young couple.

Immediately after the solemn rites were concluded, Mr. and Mrs. Stripling left on the Santa Fe train for an extended western trip to include Los Angeles, the Yosemite Park, San Francisco, Salt Lake City and Denver, it being their intention to be gone four or five weeks, after which they will be at home to their many friends in this city.

The bride is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. E. E. Leak, of Center and is a social favorite in that city, being an unusually attractive, sensible and fascinating young lady; beloved by a host of friends. The groom came to San Augustine six years ago from Nacogdoches, his native county, and engaged in the drug business to which he has devoted his exclusive time. As a result the firm of Stripling & Burrows has grown into a large and important business, with branches at Bronson, Texas and Santa Fe, N. M.

Mr. Stripling has been connected with every enterprise looking to the advancement of his chosen town and is a director in the First National Bank, and the San Augustine Business Club, and is looked upon as one of the best business men of East Texas. He has also been active in social affairs and has many friends in every walk of life.

The Tribune welcome Mrs. Stripling to San Augustine with the best of wishes and heartily congratulates the groom upon his wise selection.—San Augustine Tribune.
