SOME NEW FEATURES IN RURAL SCHOOLS

County Supt. Stripling Is Introducing Some Very Practical Innovations.

When the reporter asked Prof. Stripling, county superintendent of public instruction, for the news in his department yesterday, he granted an interview in which we have gathered a story that will make interesting reading to those interested in the educational interests of the county.

The first information we gathered was that Miss Bessie Mason, who holds a degree in domestic economy from the College of Industrial Arts, has been employed by the superintendent to visit certain schools of the county which will agree to cooperate with the work and arrange for her service, and give lessons and demonstrations in all branches of domestic economy, assist in the organization of mothers' clubs, etc. She will, among other things, give lessons on how to dry clean and press clothes, how to care for the sick, how to beautify the home and premises, how to maintain sanitation of the premises, how to prevent disease, and will teach girls how to make their own clothes. She has been in the country about a week and has contracted with Supt. Stripling for eight months' service.

Supt. Stripling will solicit the co-operation of the schools served in some practical way to finance this feature, and is so enthusiastic in the belief of the great service that will be rendered that he contemplates no trouble along this line—and should have none.

In discussing this work Prof. Stripling said, in substance, that

Prices on Wire

—like on Cotton, Cottonseed, Hogs, etc., have gone very high and it looks as though all these prices will go much higher. When prices started up we bought five carloads wire, nails, etc., and are going to sell to you—until this stock is gone—at much less than the market price. You will save about 20 cents on the dollar if you buy your fencing before this supply is gone. Better buy at once to be sure.

Our stock is very complete—includes all styles and sizes. Come in and talk to us about your fencing. We will appreciate your trade but unless we have "just what you want" there will be no obligation on your part to buy.

Remember, we sell the fence with the "Live-wire, Lock-joint and Tension-curve." This means a whole lot to you. Ask us why.

the tendency of the times, with which he was in hearty accord, was to make education more practical, training the hands as well as the heads; and that through this method he is bringing advantages enjoyed by the high schools in the towns to the rural schools. He contemplates an elaborate extension of this service, hoping to promote a rural school fair, organize a boys' hog club, and inaugurate a road-working contest with the different schools, giving prizes to the schools which provide the best roads to their respective school houses.

Another big feature that will soon engage the attention of the rural schools will be the visit of Dr. Ellis and his band of workers of the extension department of the university, who will spend nine days in the county, beginning Nov. 15. For this work the schools will be formed into convenient groups, letting the schools near each other form into a group and gather together at the most central point for a day. For this day the schools of the group will be suspended, and the children and patrons are requested to gather, bringing their dinner, and spend the day in picnic fashion. Dr. Ellis and his co-workers will consume the day with lectures, demonstrating and showing by lantern slides many things that are of vital interest along the practical lines that will not only be instructive to children, but to the citizenship as well, and every one who can possibly do so should attend. Prof. Stripling made a trip to Austin to get this feature, and by personal effort secured more time for this county than any other county in the state has been able to secure.

Altogether, it will be noted that a great campaign has been planned for the rural schools of the county for the remainder of the year, and the superintendent should have the hearty co-operation of the people served in the splendid line of work.

A correspondent writes the Sentinel that Bob Falcon had the misfortune to get thrown from his race horse on Oct. 17 while trying his speed, but fortunately was not hurt seriously.

UNITED STATES EXTENDS CARRANZA RECOGNITION

Several Latin-American Countries Take Similar Action Today at Washington.

Washington, Oct. 19.—Formal recognition by the United States of the de facto government of Mexico, with Gen. Venustiano Carranza as chief executive, was accomplished at noon today by the delivery to Gen. Carranza's representative, Eliseo Arredondo, at the Mexican embassy, of a letter from Secretary Lansing. Recognition letters from the Pan-American conferees, similar in tone, also were received by Mr. Arredondo.

The communication from Secretary Lansing was sent by messenger, and later Mr. Arredondo was invited to the state department by the secretary for a general conference on Mexican affairs. Tomorrow Mr. Arredondo will start for Saltillo, Mexico, to meet Gen. Carranza, and present to him the letters and notes of recognition from the several governments of Central and South America, which arrived during the day, in accordance with the decision of the Pan-American conference yesterday.

MEXICAN BANDITS SLAY AND LOOT AMERICANS

Rebel-Outlaws Stage Most Spectacular Train Robbery in Many Years in Valley.

Brownsville, Texas, Oct. 19.—Twenty Mexicans, who claimed to be followers of Luis de la Rosa, leader of the self-styled Texas revolution, last night perpetrated the most spectacular and bloody train robbery of many years in the southwest, at Olmito, seven miles north of here. They mixed race hatred with robbery. As a result, two men were dead today, another dying, and four wounded. Bullets caused all except one of the casualties.

The hold-up took place on the St. Louis, Brownsville & Mexico line, the only railroad entering the lower Rio Grande valley. The Mexicans, as they shot and robbed, cried: "Viva Pizano, viva Carranza!" Pizano de la Rosa's coleader in the Texas outbreak.

The robbery occurred three miles from the Rio Grande, across which it is believed the bandits afterward escaped into Mexico.

The dead: Corporal McBee, Third United States cavalry, shot. Engineer H. H. Kendall, pinned beneath engine.

Probably fatally injured: Dr. E. S. McCain, deputy state health officer at Brownsville, shot in abdomen.

Injured: Harry J. Wallis, Brownsville, shot in arm. R. Woodhall, fireman, scalded and bruised.

Claude J. Brishear, Troop A, Sixth cavalry, shot in jaw.

C. H. Laymon, Troop D, Third cavalry, shot in the neck and leg.

MARRIED AT THE COURT HOUSE YESTERDAY

Oscar Cummins and Miss Alma Kolb, of the Dunham community, were married at the county clerk's office yesterday afternoon, Squire Huston officiating. Mr. Cummins has been employed by the Frost-Johnson Co. the past three years, and his fair bride is a sister of John Kolb, with whom she made her home.

General Villa was reported dead again a day or two ago, but like the proverbial black cat, he has plenty of lives to spare, and is still doing business at the same old stand.

The esteemed Timpson Times is likely to start something in the following paragraph: "If all the world loves a lover, we wonder how the Republicans like Woodrow Wilson?"

An exchange wants to know what has become of Felix Diaz. He is possibly resting in some secluded, sequestered spot while Vic. Huerta is "saluting the flag" of an American prison.

The Sentinel this week is turning out a job of ten thousand impressions for a customer in Kansas. The order is somewhat removed from the place of manufacture, but railroad trains remove distance.

Some author has said that "it is not in the possession of things but in the beautiful use of them, that we gain satisfaction—a thing in itself is only a thing after all." This philosophy is a qualification of the adage that all happiness comes in anticipation.

The best proof that Nacogdoches is the farmer's best friend is the fact that her merchants are giving preference to their produce, and will handle nothing else so long as the farmers can supply them. Come to Nacogdoches!

To complicate or increase the matrimonial attractions of the White House, it is now announced that another of President Wilson's daughters will wed, and that a double-wedding will likely follow. Since the President is a great advocate of neutrality, we suppose everything is safe.

With the facilities afforded with the new building, which will be ready in time for the next term, Nacogdoches will be able to cope with the leading cities of the state in educational matters. And the small city renowned for its good schools and good churches catches the eye of the most worthy class of homeseekers.

In its issue of Wednesday the Jacksonville Daily Progress had to carry twelve pages to accommodate the rush of advertising. The Progress is all that its name stands for, ranking as one of the leading little dailies of East Texas, and Jacksonville is a mighty good town, making a good combination.

The Sentinel has had so many visitors, both ladies and gentlemen, who came in to see the new machine work during the past few days it is impossible to make personal mention of their visits, but we appreciate their visits just the same. The Sentinel keeps "open house" to its many friends at all times.

We glean from the San Augustine Tribune that the court house of that city was fenced over-night recently, and that some mystery attends the matter of who did the work. Possibly some patriotic citizen, with more or less political ambition, deemed it wise to fence in the "court house gang" in the "budding stage" of another campaign.

There is never a day now that Nacogdoches doesn't have from one to several prospectors, and many new people are coming to make their home in the town and vicinity. We have room for them and many more—and you can pin your faith to the prophecy that many more are coming. There are people all over the world hunting for the opportunities we have to offer, and many of them are going to find them within the next few years.

As an illustration how a little manufacturing enterprise, making something for which there is a demand, will grow, we note in the columns of the Tyler Courier-Times that an overall factory of that city is advertising for seventy-five additional women and girls to operate machines and that more than one hundred machines are in operation. This activity is followed with a payroll and dinner pails, which, in turn, makes business for the merchant and all avenues of trade.

SOME PROSPECTS OF PEACE IN MEXICO.

There were not wanting a number of eminent military men who believed that the government of the United States should recognize the Huerta regime when it was in power. Not that it was either good government or in any particular meritorious or even respectable, but because they considered it a nucleus around which something like order and civil government might be formed—the best that could be done under the unfortunate circumstances, as they said. On the other hand, there are now some who criticize severely the decision to recognize the Carranza government. They point out the failures in Carranza's record and the numerous weak places in Carranza himself. They seek to overlook the fact that in cases of this sort our nation and other nations must do the best they can; that it has been found that the Carranza party is the only party in Mexico which possesses the essentials for recognition as the de facto government, and the parties engaged in the Pan-American conference have so reported to their respective countries.

This unanimous decision to recognize Carranza is set down as the most important diplomatic step in the Mexican situation since the United States decided to withhold recognition from Huerta. It means that the Carranza government will receive the moral support of the United States, and that an embargo on the shipment of arms to opposing factions will be laid as soon as recognition actually is extended.

Secretary Lansing made it clear that while the United States could not condition recognition upon the giving of amnesty or the settlement of other questions of a strictly internal nature, satisfactory assurances on these and other subjects have been received from the Carranza government. These guarantees are as follows:

1. Foreigners will be protected in their lives and property.
2. The Carranza government assumes full responsibility for claims growing out of the revolution, and will adjust them equitably by means of international commissions.
3. No one will suffer in his life and property on account of religious beliefs; all priests and nuns who have not taken part in Mexican politics will be permitted to return and obey the Mexican laws governing the separation of church and state.
4. A decree of amnesty is in preparation which will enable all elements, irrespective of political affiliations heretofore, to return to Mexico with the exception of those guilty of complicity in the plot to kill Madero and Suarez, or who are charged with civil crimes. A few political leaders who have hitherto opposed the Carranza government will not be permitted to return until the government is firmly established, and then only if they will pledge allegiance to it.

The controlling purpose is to extend full moral support to the de facto government and to thus hasten restoration of constitutional authority. In case the Carranza government fails to comply with the conditions, or proves weak and unreliable, the United States or any other of the countries represented in the conference will be perfectly free to take its own course. Secretary Lansing later explained that each country would act separately, the action of the United States not being conditioned on that of other nations, or vice versa.

While Villa and his lieutenants and sympathizers are highly incensed over this turn away from them, insist that "the war is just beginning," and declare their purpose to fight to the bitter end, it is to be hoped that the step taken at the Pan-American conference may tend to hasten the end, and that we may soon have peace in Mexico.—Dallas News.

NEWS AND CONGRATULATION.

The Lufkin News reproduces the Sentinel's report of our new school building and extends congratulations to Nacogdoches in the following comment:

"The firm of W. P. Berry & Co. was awarded the contract on Wednesday morning by the Board of Trustees of the Nacogdoches high school for the construction of a high school building, the contract amounting to $25,500, and again we doff our hat to this progressive Lufkin concern, whose scope of operations extend over the entire state as well as the adjoining one of Louisiana, and whose securing of a contract is synonymous with promptness, efficiency and satisfaction.

"The following clipped from the Nacogdoches Sentinel under date of Oct. 13 will give our readers an idea of the splendid school building our sister county is to erect for the youth of the present and the future, and congratulations being in order are herewith extended both on the excellence of the building and the selection of our townsman for its construction."

A THOUGHT.

It is better to give children character and good tastes and habits than to leave them hard cash. Human qualities are always higher things than metals and it is a strange distortion of values to find so many people hungering and thirsting for the possession of coined metals for their own sake and not for the sake of what these, which are tokens of human labor, can give when translated into their equivalent in books, furniture, pictures, flowers, or beauty of one kind or another. The only way of taking one's wealth out of this world into the next is to transform it into mental possessions, into feelings for beauty; into thought; into intellectual desire; things which we can well believe elude burial in a coffin. It is a dreadful waste of time in the world to go out of it as poor as we went into it; to bear no treasure away from this world to whatever stars one may go to; and life is wasted if one has not stored oneself with the wisdom of books and the beauty of art and life as far as might be possible.—Geo. W. Russell.

There are two kinds of optimists; we have use for only one. This man never knew a reverse; his every idea is a winner. Fortune smiles on him perennially, and he has but to imagine a success for it to be his. He unearths gems where the other man delves clay; and the other's loss is his gain. Wherever his finger rests a nugget of gold arises; he has but to smile upon the wilderness for it to bloom into a garden of fragrant flowers. How can he be other than bright and full of hope? He may be cheerful, but he is not inspiring. On the other hand, here is the man who has met failures, and learns his lesson from them. His hand is knotted by the honest toil that every re-buff has made more irksome; his body bears the scars of the wounds of his failings; and his brow the furrows of the plow of non-success. Yet he has a smile for all; and his greetings is "All is well with the world. There's a good time coming." We want him.—Santa Fe New Mexican.

Nacogdoches has two picture shows that would do credit to cities many times the size of this place, and they deserve the moral support of the people of the city. They furnish an attractive place to while away an hour after supper, and, added to the good entertainment they furnish, many good lessons are exhibited which are worth several times the price of admission. The owners are put to much expense to maintain two to accommodate the crowds for an occasional rush of attendance, when one would serve the purpose for the bulk of the time, and the people of Nacogdoches should rally with a better support which would sustain the enterprise and preserve its usefulness. In the absence of a better support the owners will seriously consider the idea of shutting down one of the shows.

YOUR JOB.

I like that word "job." It is so much more virile than "position." It indicates activity, work, red-blooded endeavor.

What about your job? What are you doing with it? What are you making of it?

A little job in the hands of a little man will always remain little, and the man will, too. A little job in the hands of a big man—big with interest, enthusiasm, determination, will either grow to be a big job or the man will grow beyond it and get a big job.

Of course, if we have a little job and lack ambition we will just naturally fold up snugly in our little job and stay out of sight, and when the boss comes along looking for a bigger job he won't see us.

On the other hand, if we tackle our job as though it were big, we will stick out all around it, and when the boss is looking for some one to go higher he will just have to see us.—New York Central Bulletin.

CHRISTIAN SOLDIERS AND STATESMEN.

In his exile on the hideous rock of St. Helena, in discussing with Count Bertrand his military achievements, the most glorious in the world's history, Napoleon was asked to name the most formidable adversary he encountered in his great campaigns. "The enemy that opened the battle with prayer," was his prompt reply. Probably the most striking illustration of the truth of his utterance is noted in the civil war. Lee, Jackson and many other less notable commanders who participated in that great struggle were accustomed to open battle with prayer. The last, but by no means least important, example of the truth of Napoleon's assertion is supplied by the Boer war in which, practically without exception, every commander offered prayer before the opening of battles in which courage crowned them glory, if not always with success, while the singing of hymns by Boer soldiers in camp was the universal practice. Whatever views we may have of the efficacy of prayer, there can be no argument respecting its sustaining influence upon the man who believes he is right and that he commands the approval of God in battling for its supremacy.

What is true of soldiers in the field also is true of counsellors who preside over the destinies of nations in the hour of danger threatening it from without and within. The people of the United States have a convincing illustration of this in President Wilson who approaches the consideration of great problems affecting this country as the result of the present world war with a most becoming sense not only of the grave responsibilities resting upon him as the head of the nation, but also of the duty he owes his God.

In the following from the Indianapolis News we have an enlightening instance of President Wilson's reliance upon the guidance of God in solving important questions with which he is so often confronted:

How President Wilson went down on his knees and led his Cabinet in prayer at a recent meeting was told here yesterday by Bishop William F. Anderson of Cincinnati, at a session of the Indiana Methodist Episcopal Conference. A United States senator told the bishop of the incident, he said. The senator had heard it from one of the Cabinet members, who prayed with the President.

"When the President arrived at the Cabinet meeting," said Bishop Anderson, "his face wore a very solemn look. It was evident that serious affairs of the nation were on his mind. He said to the Cabinet members, 'I don't know whether you men believe in prayer or not. I do. Let us pray and ask the help of God.'"

"And right there the President of the United States fell upon his knees and the members of the Cabinet did the same and the President offered a prayer to God.

"While the war rages in Europe, we in this country should thank God that in this crisis of the world, we have a chief executive who is a servant of God, and who stands with his hand in the hand of God. Every minister in the land should, every time he offers a prayer, take Woodrow Wilson by the hand and lead him into the presence of God, and ask that he be given strength to continue to be the great apostle of peace among men."

MOTHERHOOD.

Measureless suffering,
Heart-breaking fears,
Blighting anxiety,
Terror-born tears,
Tremulous watchfulness,
Quaking alarms,
Motherhood pays for
The child in her arms.

The child that ere long
Will be claimed by the throne
To fight in a quarrel
That is none of his own;
To fall in the flame
Of a murderous gun,
And rot on the field,
When the battle is done.

After the victory
Peasant and lord,
Parcel the bounteous
Loot of the sword—
Riches and fame are
The conquerors' share;
Leaving to Motherhood
Only despair!
—By James J. Montague, in Hearst's Magazine.

THE THINGS THAT BE.

I hear in my soul the battle's roll
And the sound of the muffled drums;
And my heart beats high as they're drawing nigh
For I know who it is that comes,
There's the sound of the bugle calling!
O God of the things that be,
It's all the dreams I used to dream
A-marching home to me.

My answered prayer! In the great fanfare
Of trumpets and tramping feet,
I fling back the door of my soul
tonight
And gaze down the silent street,
Away in the distance I see them—
The host of the things that be,
The hopes and fears of bygone years

A-marching on past me.

O ye who are saints and sages,
Shall I follow the battle's roll?
Shall I ride down the tragic ages
And trample the dreams of my soul?
No, I'll wait for my own battalion
In the dawn of the yet to be,
For the hopes and fears of future years
Are marching on toward me.

PERPETUAL YOUTH.

The pictures of mermaids are pleasing,
A lot of fair sea nymphs you've seen.
They always look lissome and teasing
And not over sweet seventeen.

The fountain of true youth, by thunder,
Must spring from the sea
waters cold.
We gaze at those pictures and wonder
If mermaids never grow old.

SUCH A HEADACHE.

The American Society of Phre-terms that may be used as synonyms for "hit in the head," thus conferring a great favor on those who are always looking for something new. Here they are:

Drubbed on the dome.
Bammed on the bean.
Tapped on the conk.
Bumped on the beazer.
Biffed on the coco.
Busted on the cranium.
Whipped on the skull.
Cracked on the nut.
Nailed on the knob.
Slugged in the belfry.
Lammed on the peak.
Dinged on the brain-box.

CALOMEL DYNAMITES YOUR LIVER!

MAKES YOU SICK AND SALIVATES

"Dodson's Liver Tone" Starts Your Liver Better Than Calomel and You Don't Lose a Day's Work

Liven up your sluggish liver! Feel fine and cheerful; make your work a pleasure; be vigorous and full of ambition. But take no nasty, dangerous calomel because it makes you sick and you may lose a day's work.

Calomel is mercury or quicksilver which causes necrosis of the bones. Calomel crashes into your bile like dynamite, breaking it up. That's when you feel that awful nausea and cramping. Listen to me! If you want to enjoy the nicest, gentlest liver and bowel cleansing you ever experienced just take a spoonful of harmless Dodson's Liver Tone tonight. Your druggist or dealer sells you a 50 cent bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone under my personal money-back guarantee that each spoonful will clean your sluggish liver better than a dose of nasty calomel and that it won't make you sick.

Dodson's Liver Tone is real liver medicine. You'll know it next morning because you will wake up feeling fine, your liver will be working; headache and dizziness gone; stomach will be sweet and bowels regular.

Dodson's Liver Tone is entirely vegetable, therefore harmless and can not salivate. Give it to your children. Millions of people are using Dodson's Liver Tone instead of dangerous calomel now. Your druggist will tell you that the sale of Calomel is almost stopped entirely here.

THE ONWARD MARCH of Bronchitis, and deep seated Coughs is arrested by Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

In those scrofulous conditions of the blood which invite Consumption; in severe, lingering Coughs, and Weak Lungs, which threaten you with this fatal disease, and when other help has failed—this medicine is a proved remedy.

As a blood-cleanser, strength-restorer, and tonic it is sure to benefit. In all lingering Bronchial and Throat affections, and in every disease that can be reached through the blood, it never fails to benefit or cure. In tablet or liquid form.

Mrs. J. T. Richards, of No. 614 Watter Street, Waco, Texas, says:

"I took Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for a cough that followed measles. This medicine cured me when other remedies had failed. My husband also took the 'Discovery' with good results for throat trouble and catarrh."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate and invigorate stomach, liver and bowels. Sugar-coated, tiny granules, easy to take.

BUCKNER ORPHANS' HOME GETS BEQUEST

The Buckner Orphans' Home, located east of Dallas, will receive a bequest estimated to exceed $25,000, from a former Dallas man who visited the home several years ago and whose visit is not even remembered by "Father" R. C. Buckner, the venerable founder and head of the institution. A press dispatch from Mineral Wells last night was to the effect that R. Dyckerhoff, who died there last Sunday, left his entire estate to the Orphans' Home. His will was filed for probate yesterday at Mineral Wells.

Known to very few people in Dallas, Dyckerhoff, who was a native of Germany, lived here from about 1890 until three years ago, when he moved to Mineral Wells on account of his failing health. He was a bachelor, a recluse, and, his friends say, by choice an exile from his Fatherland.

When a young man he came to America, landing at Galveston. During his twenty-two years in Dallas he had few acquaintances and practically no intimate friends. For a number of years he worked here as a laborer and a mechanic. About twenty years ago he got an inheritance from Germany and he invested the money in property on Commerce street near the Trunk Railway. He prospered and his investments made more money for him so that by the time of his death his estate was worth, according to various estimates, between $25,000 and $50,000.

COTTON FUTURES ACT WILL BE ENFORCED

Washington, Oct. 17.—The cotton futures act, which was declared unconstitutional last week by the New York Federal court, will be rigorously enforced pending a final decision by the supreme court of the United States, it was announced late Saturday.

If the supreme court upholds the law, traders dealing in cotton futures on the strength of the New York court's decision, will be energetically prosecuted and subjected to the heavy penalties the act imposes.

WILSON APPROVES NAVAL PROGRAM.

Recommendation Calls for Expenditure of $500,000,000 in the Next Five Years.

Washington, Oct. 15.—President Wilson today approved Secretary Daniels' recommendation for a five-year construction program for the navy, to cost $500,000,000. The exact amount to be appropriated for each of the five years has not been decided, but the first year's program calls for two dreadnaughts and two at possibly three cruisers.

After the conference of Secretary Daniels, Assistant Secretary Roosevelt and the general board adjourned at midnight, it became known that the following naval construction for the first five years had been decided upon:

Two dreadnaughts, two battle cruisers, 25 coast submarines, five seagoing submarines, 12 destroyers, an increase of 8,000 in personnel, and an augmentation by 250 of the naval academy student body.

WILL DISTRIBUTE RED CROSS SEALS.

Two hundred million Red Cross Christmas Seals are now being printed and distributed by the American Red Cross and the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis, according to a statement issued by the latter organization today. The proceeds from the sale of these seals will go for the fight against tuberculosis in the communities where the seals are sold.

The organization of the Red Cross Seal sale this year will take in every state and territory of the United States, including Hawaii, Porto Rico, and the canal zone. By December 1 over 500,000 workers, men, women and children, will be engaged in the campaign.

The sale in 1914 broke all previous records, totaling over 55,000,000 seals, an increase of 22 per cent over 1913. After deducting all expenses, this left nearly $500,000 for tuberculosis work in this country. The money has been and is being expended by over 2,000 different agencies who benefited from the sale in amounts ranging from $100 or less to over $25,000. The American Red Cross announces that it will continue its previous policy of charging only 10 per cent of the gross proceeds to state anti-tuberculosis associations, thereby encouraging local work.

was raised to the surface of the water and later towed in and tied up to the quarantine dock. We put her in dry dock the next night. There was a very large, curious crowd gathered to see it when it was raised out of the water, which was about 1:30 the next morning. The next day and as long as it remained on the dry dock no one was allowed on the dry dock except navy men. It was a great sight, too, especially when they were taking out what was left of the crew. You could see them hand out a handful of ribs or other bones. They found several shoes with the flesh very well preserved within. It didn't have a very bad odor, much as I expected it would. The bones were so scattered that they were unable to identify only four bodies. I think they had enough bones to make the twenty-one men, but they were so badly broken up that it was hard to determine where they belonged. Their funeral was held at the naval station, Honolulu, on the evening prior to Sept. 9 to the sailing of the U. S. S. Supply, which conveyed their bodies to the states, or rather what was left of them. The four bodies that were identified were sent to their relatives but the other will be buried in the Arlington cemetery along side of the men who Cruz, Mexico, last year. The navy department has ordered the rest of the F boats to be placed out of commission on account of their unreliability and they are expected to be sent back with the U. S. S. Maryland which is to convoy the K class boats which will come out here next month some time. If I had known that you cared to read about, I would have sent you the papers.

Hoping to hear from you soon, I will close for this time. With love, from your son,

CALL FOR FARMERS MEETING IS ISSUED

Fictitious Future Dealing, Boll Weevil and Other Laws Will Be Discussed.

Fort Worth, Texas, Oct. 16.—The following call has been issued:

To the Brotherhood of Texas:

By the authority invested in me as president of the Farmers Fraternal Union of Texas, I hereby call the annual convention of the order to meet at the St. George hotel in the city of Dallas on Oct. 22 and 23 for the purpose of electing officers, adopting a new constitution and by-laws to be reported by the executive committee and for such other business as shall come before the convention for the best interests of the organization.

This is a proper time for the farmers of Texas to meet and discuss the real cotton situation, for the present season has demonstrated that the cotton farmer is at the mercy of the cotton gambler, who has controlled the market to the detriment of the producer. The so-called bulls and so-called bears have so manipulated the future market that it has ranged from 25 to 50 points below spot market quotations to the damage of the farmer who has cotton to sell, for, as is well known, the future price moves the great body of cotton that is sold upon the streets of the interior towns. It should be made a felony for any man, firm or corporation to sell or buy a fraudulent future contract. If the cotton market was free from these fictitious manipulations the market would be strong, firm and advancing, for we would then have actual speculation in spot cotton.

Boll Weevil Menace to Cotton.

The boll weevil pest has become a serious menace to the cotton industry and should engage the earnest attention of every cotton producer throughout the land. If something is not done to check the ravages of the boll weevil the production of cotton is threatened throughout the cotton belt. To fight and destroy the weevil we must be organized, and to this end we must look.

The new warehouse law, as it is now, is a first-class delusion and a snare, which must eventually receive the condemnation of the farmers. The law is bunglesome, expensive, and in no way can it benefit the producer of cotton. The law, as it now stands, is a politician's law, thrown to the farmer as a sop to divert his attention from the real cause of market depression.

Free Passes Condemned.

The free pass curse is another menace to the people of Texas, and especially so to the farmers. Hundreds of passes are issued to others than real farmers, who attend conventions held in his name, when the fact is that it is often the case that only a minimum number of real farmers attend the conventions. Therefore, the time has come when the farmers of Texas must ask legislation from the legislature of Texas, to abolish the free pass and stop the practice. Every farmer should stand shoulder to shoulder with Attorney-General Looney in the enforcement of the law, for it is the only protection that the people have. One of the primary objects of farmers' organizations has always been the enforcement of the law and we shall always be found standing with those who enforce the law.

The railroads have made a very low rate to the Dallas fair and this will enable our people to attend the convention. The executive committee of the Renters' union will be with us and it is expected much good will result from the conference. All labor organizations are invited to have a delegation with us and they will be admitted as fraternal delegates.
D. J. NEILL,
President F. F. U. of Texas.

RAZOR BACK HOG—THING OF THE PAST.

Are Being Replaced by Finer Bred Stock, so Says an Expert.

Austin, Texas, Oct. 17.—After flourishing for many years in East Texas, the noted "razorback" hog is gradually disappearing and within a few years will have become extinct, according to Fred W. Davis, state commissioner of insurance and banking, who recently returned from an extended trip in the eastern portion of the state where he inspected farm conditions.

"I was particularly impressed by the absence of 'razorback' hogs," said Mr. Davis, "and inquiry I found they are being replaced by finer bred stock." The commissioner said he found an unusually large sweet potato crop in the sections visited.

100 CONVICTS TO RECEIVE PARDONS

Clemency to Be Granted Other Prisoners if Recommendation Is Made.

Dallas, Texas, Oct. 16.—Governor James E. Ferguson, in Dallas to open the Texas state fair, said today that he would pardon every one of the 100 friendless convicts now in state prisons, as recommended by the board of pardons yesterday. "That is my idea of life saving," the governor said.

Gov. Ferguson added that he would hear the story of every one of the 3,800 convicts in Texas prisons, and that if more pardon recommendations were made, he would give them clemency also.

TWO NACOGDOCHES MEN LOCATE IN THE WEST

Eugene Carter, formerly of Maytown, and F. A. Clements, of this city, have engaged in the mercantile business at Van Horn, Texas. We take the following report of the new firm from the Van Horn Advocate:

"H. E. Carter, of Houston, and F. A. Clements, of Nacogdoches, and their families are here to make Van Horn their future home.

"They have in company with J. D. McGregor and son, J. D., Jr., of Lobo, purchased the stock of the wholesale and retail general mercantile business of the Van Horn Trading Co.

"The work of invoicing this mammoth stock started last Saturday and is just about completed. It is believed that this stock will invoice to around $30,000 or $35,000.

"Mr. Carter is an experienced merchant and for the past few years has managed a large commissary in the sawmill district near Houston."

I favor a moderate amount of military training in the public secondary schools. I think that studies fitting directly for citizenship and its problems are too little studied in the high schools. I should like to see the high schools vitalize more fully that part of their teaching which is supposed to bring the pupil into contact with the problems of the personal life—such a subject, for instance, as literature. It is a difficult thing to do, but it needs doing badly.

In common with a great many college teachers, high school teachers are too much inclined to teach subjects rather than to teach boys and girls.—Kenyon L. Butterfield.

INTERESTING NOTES FOR THE FARMER

The Seven Rungs on the Ladder to Freedom for Farm Tenants.

The one big point to emphasize in conclusion is that more personal property, gradually acquired, is the way to home-ownership. When a tenant has saved until he has good tools, good hogs, good cows, and work stock, he has reached a point where he is in a hundred-fold better position to get land than the tenant who lacks these things—and certainly tenfold surer to keep the land after he does get it. In fact, for the renter who has nothing at all except common working tools, the seven steps on the ladder to independence would seem to be—

1. A garden.
2. Poultry.
3. Pigs.
4. Cows.
5. Horses.
6. Better machinery.
7. Land.

The first four are necessary for self-support, for no matter how industrious a tenant may be, or how economical in other ways, there is absolutely no ray of hope for him if he regularly tries to buy a living from a store. He will be nothing but a slave working for the supply merchants, with the fruits of his labors going to them as surely as a negro's profits went to his master in ante-bellum days. There's a memorable and illuminating statement in the bulletin, "Studies in Farm Tenancy in Texas," when somebody says he has always noticed that the tenant whose wife is "a butter and chicken woman" is the one who ultimately buys a farm.

A demonstration agent was giving me another incident the other day as follows: "I know a renter," he said, "who had been seeing his whole crop every year for the store account. But in the spring of last year, being a man of good character, he got a friend to endorse for him and he borrowed just half as much money as he had been paying for supplies under the time prices system. This money, borrowed at legal interest rates, with good economy, enabled him to get through the year, and after paying off the debt last fall he had enough left to run him this year without borrowing. Soon he is going to buy a farm.—The Progressive Farmer."

J. F. Little, a progressive farmer residing in the north-eastern part of the county near Carr's Crossing of the Attoyac, is in the city, having been summoned to do jury service with the district court.

IN THE DANCING FLAME.

Pity the man whose home is not lighted these long, dark evenings by the glow of a fire-place. He has missed some of life's pleasantest hours—hours that are worth their weight in minted gold.

Is there a man who does not like to dream before an open fire? If one there be, he must be a peculiar individual, without memories, hopes or ambitions.

Dreams! Dreams! They round out the commonplace sum of human life for millions. They turn the sharp edge of adversity; they temper the bitterness of disappointment; they feed the famished soul with thoughts and aspirations.

At no time are waking dreams so calm, so uninterrupted as when the dancing flames play hide-and-seek with the shadows in a room's corners and the brisk crackling of the fuel fills the silent chambers with a pleasant suggestion of warmth and life.

How many memories fly up the black-throated chimney—kind ones trooping, allay with flowers, from the halls of recollection—sad ones that come, slow-footed and somber-veiled, from the tombs of the mind!

How many pictures are painted by the tricky flames—of loved faces, and pleasant scenes—of sorrow, defeat and failure—the average experiences of the average man!

Many a secretive or sensitive soul, who hides self from himself in the garish light of day, sits down before his own fireplace and holds commune with that inner man, whose guardian angels are memory and conscience.

The long nights of winter! These are the hours for self-appraisal. When nature holds a solemn wake over the dead leaf, the fireplace is the home of a kindly genius whose power it is to wake the hidden monitor in every man—the monitor who is, at once, man's closest friend and sternest judge.—Seattle Times.

The pickpocket takes only your money; the friend who borrows your money and makes no effort to return it, takes both your money and your confidence.

An exchange solves the problem of how a man was recently drowned at Amorilla by suggesting that he must have fallen into a cistern.

"Great preparedness" sometimes causes a nation to "spoil for a fight." In the absence of the great preparation that had been made for the conflict, and the confidence the nation had in itself, Germany would have not defied all powers of the world, and other nations would have not been so arbitrary in settlement, thus saving Europe the mighty conflict it has suffered, and from which it will continue to suffer many years hence.

The New Orleans States remarks: "Dr. Turner who advertises in the Houston Post says: 'People who come to me for treatment believing their cases incurable, are seldom disappointed.' He is one doctor who for honesty and frankness has no superior." Advertisers in the Post are noted for being honest and frank in their statements to the public.—Houston Post.

That reminds us that we have a friend by the same name, "Dr. Turner," at Garrison, and it is a fact that his patients are "seldom disappointed," because he cures them if there is spark enough left to build to, but he is not doing any advertising so far away from home.

Sometimes it is not enough to merely read the headlines of a newspaper to get a correct conception of the article bearing a suggestive caption. For instance the headlines of a court trial appearing in the Dallas News read: "Stork Stops Trial of Tom Cooper Case. Defendant's Brother Is Principal Witness." Left thus, various conceptions of the matter might be formed, when, as a matter of fact, the stork visited the Cooper home and left with the mother therein a little infantile treasure which had to be seen and viewed by the different members of the family, which included the defendant in the trial.

NEW DATA ON JAPANESE COTTON INDUSTRY

A 13 per cent increase in the production and one of 22 per cent in the exports of cotton yarn marked the activities of the Japanese cotton spinning and weaving mills in 1914, according to reports from an American consul, despite the unsettled conditions in the world markets that affected industry and trade everywhere during the last six months of the year. Piece goods, however, remained practically stationary as to the total value of exports, although radical changes occurred in the shipments to China and Kwangtung to China, 27,042,188 yen worth against 19,874,822 yen in 1913; to Kwangtung, 3,408,548 yen against 9,260,554 yen. At the close of 1914 the industry boasted 369,910 more spinning spindles, 19,094 more twisting spindles, and 1,660 more looms than it had a year and a half previous.

These are among the interesting facts disclosed by the additional statistical data on the Japanese cotton industry that has recently been obtained by the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, department of commerce, and embodied in a 12-page booklet, "Japanese Cotton Goods Industry and Trade," special consular reports No. 74. While primarily issued as a supplement to an earlier publication of the bureau ("Cotton Goods in Japan," special agents series No. 86—a 282-page monograph that reviews the history of the Japanese cotton industry from the establishment of the first spinning mill), the tables presented in the new booklet are worthy of study in themselves. Copies may be obtained from the superintendent of documents, government printing office, Washington, D. C., or from the various branch offices of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce; price, 5 cents.

LETTER OF INQUIRY.

Editor Sentinel: Thirty-five years ago when the writer was a small boy, traveling the old Red Chute road that led from Shady Grove to Henderson with his father, who was taking cotton to the Henderson market, he came one very cold morning about 9 o'clock to a fire in the pine woods, by the side of the road, where some campers had spent the previous night. The fire was most welcome, because, as the writer well remembers, his nose and toes were well-nigh frozen.

Around the fire stood four small children—three girls and one boy. In the course of the conversation the largest girl, who was not more than ten years old, said her father's name was Wells and that they lived in the house, which she pointed out, and which could be seen a few hundred yards distant among the trees. In answer to the question the little girl said her name was Alma Ophelia, and the names of her sisters was Estelle Hortense and Lora D. The name of the little boy, their brother, was Wiley Pearce Wells. The writer thought these names were the prettiest he had ever heard and when a baby sister came a few months later his mother gave to her the name of Lora D. in honor of the little girl whom he found by the roadside fire in the pine woods. I want to know if any of these people are still living, and also their address. I am anxious as a mere matter of curiosity and because I want to communicate with the one especially after whom my sister was named. The Wells home was located on the road between the old R. V. M. Hutchinson place and the Carroll place where the Red Chute road intersected the Nacogdoches and Henderson road and in the Union Springs neighborhood.

If any person can give me information as to the address of any member of the family it will be greatly appreciated. H. C. FULLER, Houston, Texas. Southwest Publishing Co.

WHY SO MANY RAILROAD RECEIVERSHIPS?

Fort Worth, Texas, Oct. 19.—Henry N. Pope, president of the Farmers' Union of Texas, today gave out the following statement:

"The railroads of Texas now have approximately 5,000 miles of property in the hands of receivers, representing, according to the state tax commission, a valuation of nearly $200,000,000. The lines are as follows: I. & G. N. 1,100; Frisco, 1,175; Katy, 1,792; T. & B. V., 300; San Antonio & Uvalde, 320. This is approximately 30 per cent of the mileage of the state and 45 per cent of the total railroad investment in Texas. The question of government ownership is also hidden in this sort of a condition for a railroad in the hands of the court is operated by the government. Such a situation is a matter of concern to every citizen."

"I am sure the farmers of Texas and all the people would like to know why these roads are in the hands of receivers. Is it due to the manipulation of the property by railroad financiers; is it mismanagement of the properties; were the roads unwisely built; is it unnecessary expenses forced by law; is it due to lack of revenue or improper expenditure for any reason whatsoever? The people are entitled to know where the trouble lies. The farmer does not want legal arguments prepared by attorneys paid to 'make a case' but the plain truth from the men who manage the properties, and who have the courage to hew to the line let the chips fall where they may. We would like to hear some one representing the entire property speak out. The receivers of a railroad know the facts and are in position to make a complete statement."

TAGGART ACQUITTED ON CORRUPTION CHARGE

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 19.—Thomas Taggart, Democratic national committeeman, will not have to stand trial on the charge of conspiring to corrupt the 1914 elections of Marion county.

The case against him was dismissed today in Criminal Court on the motion of the state for the reason that conclusive evidence against Taggart is lacking. Prosecutor Rucker said.

Taggart was indicted with Mayor Joseph E. Bell, Chief of Police Perrott and 125 others. Mayor Bell recently was acquitted by a jury. Other cases pending were continued to Dec. 1.

When asked for a continuance, Judge Eichhorn said:

"There seems to be several cases in which the same action as that just taken by the state should be taken and it seems wise to give the state time to look over its evidence before proceeding."

KING'S HIGHWAY SURVEYORS NEAR

News has reached the city that the surveyors who are making a survey of the old King's Highway are camped out a few miles from the city and will arrive in Nacogdoches by Saturday.

Much historical interest attends this event, which was deemed of sufficient importance for the state to make an appropriation to have it surveyed, and The Sentinel hopes to have Dr. Mayfield and Capt. Doughie, who are familiar with both the historical features and the local interest, to give us a suitable write-up of it.

We noticed the other day a field of mighty poor; nubbly looking corn, but right alongside that field of puny corn was a glorious field of cowpeas. That means that that man's land is poor now, but that he's going to make it rich, and he'll have better corn next year. He's a coming man. Clover, vetch, and cowpeas will make him a rich-land farmer yet. Some years ago a man came down from the West to South Carolina, and when his other neighbors got discouraged and went back and tried to get him to go with them, he replied that he had two friends he expected to pull him through. "And who are these two friends?" they asked. "God Almighty and the cowpea," he replied. And they did pull him through and brought him prosperity. The man who pins his faith to the "Three C's"—Clover, Cowpeas and Cattle—will not scratch a poor man's back all his life.—The Progressive Farmer.

CHEESE, BUTTER AND BUTTTER FATS TRADE

Cheese, butter and other butter fats are again becoming important factors in our export trade after a long period of comparative inactivity. Fifteen or twenty years ago the United States was selling abroad between twenty million and thirty million pounds of butter, from fifty to eighty million pounds of cheese, and from five million to ten million pounds of imitation butter annually. In later years, however, exports of this class decreased in a marked degree and in the fiscal year 1914 had fallen far below the quantities named. In the year just ended there was a distinct revival in all these lines, with totals closely approximating the high levels touched in the decade from 1890 to 1900.

The large gains made by domestic dairy products and butter substitutes are well illustrated by figures published by the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, department of commerce, in the June "Summary of Foreign Commerce." Butter, usually averages about three and one half million pounds annually in our export trade, in 1915 went to nearly ten million pounds. During this period imports of butter, reduced by more than one-half, falling from a little less than eight million pounds in 1914 to less than four million pounds last year.

American cheese, running at about 2 1-2 million pounds a year, went to 54 million pounds in the fiscal year 1915. Here also, as in the case of butter, the trade balance was transferred to the export side, for the year's imports of cheese last year only totaled 50 million pounds, a decrease of 133-4 million pounds from the total for 1914.

Exports of condensed milk, usually exported in sums valued at between one million and two million dollars annually, in 1915 rose to three million dollars in value, the quantity (37 million pounds) being double that of 1914.

Imitation butter contains in addition to oleomargarine oil some butter fat. The exports of this article also doubled, rising from 2 1-2 million pounds in 1914 to 5 1-4 million pounds last year.

England has become our largest foreign market for butter, cheese and condensed milk, having taken 3 1-3 million pounds of butter, out of a total export of 10 million pounds; 48 1-2 million pounds of cheese, out of a total export of 54 million pounds; and four million pounds of condensed milk, out of a total export of 37 million pounds. Canada, Cuba, Panama, Australia, and Venezuela also take considerable quantities of American butter; Panama and the West Indies are important markets for our cheese; while Cuba, Belgium, the Netherlands, China, Japan, Russia, Hongkong, Chosen, Panama, and Brazil take large amounts of American condensed milk.

These exports, while important, represent a very small proportion of the annual products of the 60 million cattle on American farms, valued at more than 2 1-3 billion dollars. As long ago as 1909, the latest period covered by the national census we produced 1,619 million pounds of butter, 321 million pounds of cheese, and 5,814 million gallons of milk, while the quantity of oleomargarine on which internal revenue tax was paid in 1914 aggregated 142 million pounds.

A dispatch from Omaha, Neb., says that, before a large crowd, Miss Minnie Kneeter, a pretty society girl, rolled a peanut around a block, starting at Omaha's busiest corner. The stunt was performed with a toothpick in liquidation of a bet on a baseball game. Futher comment is reserved to the photographers' union.

There are griefs that hang no crepe on the door bell, that wear no black garments, that close no shutters, that shed no tears that men may see, that can get no sympathy save that of the blessed Christ and perhaps the closest human brother, and must wear smiles before men and go on with life's work as if all were gladness within the heart. If we knew the inner life of many of the people we meet, we would be very gentle with them and would excuse in them the things that seem strange to us. They are carrying burdens of secret grief. We do not begin to know the sorrows of our brothers.—Rev. J. R. Miller.

SAN ANGELO WILL HAVE A BIG FAIR

The San Angelo fair will be held Nov. 2 to 6, inclusive, and indications are that the fair this year will be a record breaker, both in attendance and exhibits. $9,000 is offered in purses and premiums. All departments of the fair have already received more entries than has ever been shown in previous San Angelo fairs.

The livestock departments are in charge of live and experienced men and great efforts are being made to improve the quality as well as the number of exhibits.

The racing programs, consisting of running and harness races and motorcycle races, will be most complete, and a full field will be ready to start in every race.

There will not be a dull moment during the fair, as extra efforts are made to have an abundance of amusement features, such as broncho busting, goat roping, bull riding, aviation flights, branding contests, football games, foot races, etc., conducted daily. The old-timers' and cowboys' parade and the suffragette parade promises to surpass anything ever pulled off in West Texas.

Wednesday, Nov. 3, will be Sons of Herman Day and this will be one of the greatest German gatherings ever assembled in Texas.

The railroads will offer very low rates for the fair on Nov. 1, and for all trains arriving at San Angelo Nov. 2; with return limit Nov. 7. A genuine western hospitality awaits all who will attend.

For further information write Thos. F. Owen, secretary, San Angelo, Texas.

WHY COTTON SEED AND PEANUTS ARE SELLING WELL.

Cottonseed at $40 a ton reminds us of fortunes thrown away on the Southern plantations before the civil war, and even since the war. It comes to pass that a man can subsist without serious inconvenience upon the products of the once discarded cottonseed. So he can on peanuts. The report is that agents are now on hand to buy the entire peanut crops of East Texas and Louisiana. It is claimed that the peanuts of those sections contain 20 per cent more oil than the nuts east of the Mississippi river. The demand for the goober crop has been marvelous, and efforts to explain this recent activity have been made by different persons in different ways.

One authority claims that it has been ascertained in recent years that the peanut is the only product that can be converted into all the articles of a first-class menu. Soup, meat, bread, olive oil, milk, tea, butter, hash and many high-sounding French articles are all made of the little Spanish peanut which grows all over Texas. Others contend that cotton seed can be converted into just as many different kinds of diet as the peanut can, and is even cheaper.

The sudden increase in demand for these products may be explainable, at least in part, in another way. There are millions of soldiers to feed in Europe, and they are not half. There are millions of women and children to save from starvation. Even with seed at $40 a ton, cottonseed products are very cheap food, considering the nourishment they contain. So of peanuts—considering the food value of peanuts, they have always sold low except when retailed by the street corner parcher. Both of these articles of food keep a long time without spoiling. The life of many a war victim will doubtless be saved by this year's cottonseed and peanut crops of Texas.—Dallas News.

$100 A BALE COTTON IS NOW PREDICTED

Washington, Oct. 17.—Cotton at $100 a bale was the prediction of Congressman Heflin of Alabama today. The policy of holding cotton now being pursued in the South will bring the staple up to a price never heard of, he said.

This year's production, according to Heflin, will be only about 10,000,000 bales, of which the mills will consume three-fifths. This leaves only a bare 4,000,000 bales for munition manufacture and export.

"We have exported 9,000,000 bales since August last year," said Heflin, who points out that allowing 2,000,000 for export this year, we should still be 7,000,000 bales short.

WEEVIL DISPERSION DUE TO THE STORMS

Washington, Oct. 19.—The unusual storms of August and the very rapid multiplication of the boll weevil in Texas have resulted in a tremendous movement into Northwestern Texas and Oklahoma. This movement is probably not yet completed, nor has it been entirely mapped out. The indications are that over half of the state of Oklahoma is now infested. Information has just been received that the boll weevil is at Vernon in Wilbarger county, Texas, and at Cache in Comanche county and Minco in the extreme northern part of Grady county, Oklahoma. Unless immediate measures are taken by planters throughout Oklahoma and Northwestern Texas it can be expected that the boll weevil will do some damage next year.

The bureau of entomology advises that the planters throughout Oklahoma and the supposedly infested sections of Texas begin immediately to pick their cotton and destroy the plants. By destroying the plants the developing weevils will be killed. Two methods of destruction are available. If the plants can be plowed under to 4 or 5 inches this is the most desirable method of procedure, otherwise they should be stacked in windrows and turned as soon as dry.

After destroying the plants preparation should be made for a winter cover crop and for a rotation of crops next year.

The weevil has maintained its position in Arkansas and has probably extended its area a little farther north in the western portions. The entire state of Mississippi is infested, and the weevil is now known to be in McNairy and Hardin counties, Tennessee. Tennessee planters along the entire southern border should take the same precautions that have been recommended to Oklahoma planters.

Probably only four or five counties in the mountainous sections of Northeastern Alabama will escape infestation by the boll weevil this year. Over thirty counties in Western Georgia are already known to be infested and there is no doubt but that five more will be recorded soon. Planters in Georgia and Alabama whether in infested counties or not, should take immediate measures to destroy the cotton stalks, and prepare the fields for winter cover crops.

HARD LUCK.

There is always a cheer for the hero Who dashes about on the screen To rescue a child in an African wild In a typical tropical scene. But what of the hard-working lion Whose heart-breaking fate is to play A difficult part with a masterly art And always is balked of his prey? The hero strolls round through the jungle In quest of the child aforesaid; The lion looks down with an ominous frown From a coffee tree, right overhead. The king of beasts aims himself at him; He leaps, but he misses him clean. He rubbers around when he reaches the ground But the hero is clear off the screen. Again, on the edge of a kopie, The lion, with blood in his eye, Lies, feigning a nap in the hope that mayhap The hero may soon saunter by He does, and the lion unbuckles; He leaps like a flash through the air, And lands on the spot where the hero is not— The thing is absurdly unfair.

I think that I know how a lion On such an occasion must feel; It is cruelly wrong thus to lead him along And then dish him out of his meal. But, still, with new hope in my bosom, I am haunting the photo-play shop, For the hero may slip or the frame-up may trip And then the poor lion will cop! —James J. Montague.

She Will Recover

So her doctor said. Her friends and neighbors felt sure of it too. They have used Peruna themselves and know of its merits. That old cough that had worried her for years and years, for which she had taken all sorts of cough medicines, has disappeared. Peruna is doing the work. She will recover. Indeed, she has recovered.

Her name is Mrs. William Hohmann, 2764 Lincoln Ave., Chicago, Ill. She had suffered with catarrh of the bronchial tubes and had a terrible cough ever since a child. As she got older she grew worse. She coughed both winter and summer. Had to sit up at night. Could not sleep. "But all that has left me now," Peruna has cured me.

We can teach you. We guarantee it. We secure satisfactory results or refund the money. All tuition paid on correspondence course is credited on personal course if the student desires to finish in our school. In other words, the instructions received in the correspondence department costs you absolutely nothing where a scholarship is later bought for personal work. Many find it to their advantage even where they intend to take personal work later, to first enroll for correspondence work and utilize their spare moments until they are ready to enter since it cost nothing extra. This often saves them a couple of months' time and board in school on personal work. Others take the correspondence course with a view to finishing it by correspondence and expect a position without entering school.

Cow Hides Wanted.

Hides are in good demand and are bringing good prices, and it is worth while to handle them right. In skinning try not to cut or score the hide. Spread it out, flesh side up, and give it a heavy shower of salt. This is absolutely necessary at this time of the year. Fold it up and put it in a sack. Write your full name and address on two tags. Put one inside of the sack, and one outside. Ship by express to A. Golenternek & Co., Tyler, Texas.

Until further notice we will pay 13 cents per pound for hides handled according to the above instructions. We remit the same day that we receive the shipment and we also furnish shipping tags. Horse hides bring from $1.50 to $3 each, according to the size. We also handle wool. A. Golenternek & Co., Tyler, Texas.

BIG TRADES DAY FOR GARRISON, TEXAS

THE CARE OF HOME-GROWN FEED STUFF

For the first time in several years the farmers of Nacogdoches county have produced at home abundance of feed crops both corn and forage of various kinds, and in a good many cases crops of this nature have been grown so that there will be a surplus over what is needed for feeding the animals now upon the farms. These conditions bring up the question as to the best manner to dispose of the surplus, or that portion of the crop not needed for feeding the stock. There are two ways by which the farmers can dispose of this surplus, one to sell it either as baled hay or ear corn, the other is to purchase more stock either beef or dairy animals or pigs and feed these crops and sell them in the shape of either butter fat, beef or pork. Which is the best method depends entirely upon the financial condition of the farmer, if he is in need of ready money for immediate use, he will have to sell the surplus of his feed crops in the form of baled hay or ear corn, but if he is not forced by circumstances to sell his surplus, and has money or credit by which he can purchase extra stock, it would be best to dispose of his surplus feed crops in the form of either butter fat, beef or pork. When you sell corn, hay peanuts or cowpeas from your farm, you are selling so much soil fertility and are placing nothing back in your soil to take the place of the plant food used in producing these crops, therefore when you sell either hay or corn you are making your farm poorer, unless you spend some of the money derived from the sale of these crops in commercial fertilizer, which is expensive and not as good for maintaining the fertility of your soil as barnyard manure. On the other hand if you purchase enough cattle or hogs, better still some of both, to which you can feed the surplus hay and corn, you will receive a higher price for these crops in the form of butter fat, beef or pork, than you do as hay or ear corn, besides you will not only maintain but increase the fertility of your soil by applying the fertilizer obtained from these animals feeding upon these crops. The better and richer the feed given the animal the more valuable as a fertilizer is the manure obtained from the animal. In the case of legumes, such as peanut hay, cowpea hay and soy beans, which are high in nitrogen, and which you pay about 18 cents a pound for when you buy it in the form of a commercial fertilizer, will only lose about 20 per cent of its fertilizer value when passed through the animal; in other words, 20 per cent goes to make animal tissue and 80 per cent of its fertilizer value is still in the manure which you put on the land.

Therefore, it pays best to dispose of the surplus hay and corn crop, by having more stock and feeding the crop, than to sell it either on the local market or ship it to a commission merchant in the form of baled hay or ear corn. A great deal of waste is caused on nearly every farm by not feeding a balanced ration or by feeding too much of one kind of feed and not enough of another. From experiments conducted on the various experiment stations, it has been proved that with farm work stock in full work that a grain ration of 13 pounds and a hay ration of 14 pounds a day per 1,000 pounds of live weight is sufficient to keep the animal in good working condition.

On this station we have feed for the last three years the following ration with good results, as all of you know who have visited the station and seen the station stock. Two pounds of cottonseed meal, four pounds of corn, seven pounds of either rice bran, or when you cannot get rice bran, use wheat bran, and 14 pounds of hay. This mixed ration will keep your stock in better condition than all corn; it is not so heating in the summer time, and the animals' bowels are kept in good condition, besides, it is a cheaper ration in dollars and cents than an all-corn feed. Another good feed which all farmers can grow is six pounds corn, six pounds of oats, and 14 pounds of any kind of hay. For dairy cattle the amount of feed varies with the amount of milk given, but for a cow giving 20 pounds of 4 per cent milk a good ration is 20 pounds of hay, three pounds of oats, three pounds of bran and 1-2 pounds of cottonseed meal, all of which can be grown on the farm with the exception of the bran. Therefore, let our farmers keep sufficient

A CENTER WHITE BOY BEATS NEGRO TO DEATH

Fuller Particulars of the Tragedy Which Occurred at Center Wednesday.

We take the following report of the tragedy from Wednesday's issue of the Center Daily Optimist:

Troy Young, aged about forty years, and a negro who has been employed at the light plant here for some time past, was literally beaten to death yesterday between the hours of 10 a. m. and 1 p. m.

Alfred McCallum, aged about twenty years, and a son of John D. McCallum, was arrested and lodged in the county jail yesterday afternoon, charged with killing the negro.

The affair is yet somewhat shrouded in mystery, to that extent that official circles are very busy working on different clues and rumors, endeavoring to go to the very bottom of the case. The main facts in the case are, as a snear as can be explained, about as follows: The negro owned Mr. J. D. McCallum a past due account of something more than $3.00, and sent his son, Alfred, to the negro to make the collection, when trouble ensued between the negro and the white boy. About 10 o'clock young McCallum went to the negro who was picking cotton near the place occupied by Effie Armour, and forced him, by displaying a pistol and making threats, it is alleged, to get up behind him on his horse, and then galloped off down the road in the direction of the Crescent old mill place.

At the place occupied by Jerry Cartright, the negro jumped off of the horse and attempted to take refuge in the Cartright negro's house, where a difficulty ensued, the boy struck Young with a picket which he pulled from the fence and again forced him on the horse, it is alleged, and continued the trip with the negro in below the Crescent old mill place, where, it is presumed, the fatal whipping was administered.

The negro was found by Deputy Sheriff Jim Swamy and Constable George Estes, in the road near the old mill about 1 o'clock, to which point he was brought by Jeff Nobles, a negro who did not live a great distance from where the tragedy was committed. Young was then in a dying condition but was able to make the statement to the officers that "they beat me to death." Just what he meant by saying "they" has placed mystery in the case and instituted the search for the other parties, if such there be, and who they are.

McCallum claims that there were no other parties connected with the affair and pleads that it was never his intention to kill the negro. McCallum claims that when he went to the negro to collect the account, he (the negro) became insulting to an unbearable extent and that he merely carried him off and gave him a good whipping, and that no one else took a hand in it.

The negro was frightfully beaten from a point just below the waistline of his pants, in the back, on down below his knees, the flesh having been bruised to the bone. In some places the flesh was pricked as if it had been stabbed with spurs.

It is stated that the severe whipping paralyzed the negro's kidneys and stopped circulation, thus producing death.

In the meantime young McCallum is in jail awaiting a further investigation, but will be given a preliminary trial before Justice Swamy tomorrow.

The tragedy caused quite a bit of excitement here, especially when the news first reached town, but just what it will amount to when sifted down to real facts remains to be seen.

CHILD DIED AT HOSPITAL.

The little two-year-old child of Mr. and Mrs. Madkins, of Appleby, died at the Tucker Hospital this morning, where it had been for treatment the past ten days, and the remains will be carried back to Appleby for burial this afternoon.

The little fellow was a grandchild of Dave Slay, a well-known citizen of the county residing at Appleby.

To make the distress of the fond parents greater, we learn that they had the misfortune to lose their house and household effects by fire a few days ago.

GRAND JURY ADJOURNS AND MAKES REPORT

Nacogdoches, Tex., Oct. 15. Hon. Lee D. Guinn, Judge Second Judicial District of Texas:

We, your grand jury for the September term, A. D., 1915, through our foreman, L. N. Liles, beg leave to make the following report:

We have been in session for a period of ten days and have made diligent and careful inquiry into all violations of the criminal laws brought to our notice. We have examined 252 witnesses from different sections of the county, and as a result of our labors we have returned into your court bills of indictment in every case where, in our judgment, the evidence justified, there being in number seventy-seven, of which twenty-two are felonies and fifty-five misdemeanors. You will observe from the number of indictments returned that crime as a whole has not increased materially since the last term of your court, and that the law is being reasonably well enforced.

We feel that this county is fortunate in having such efficient officials as the Hon. W. B. O'Quinn and W. A. Wade, and we wish to commend them for their untiring energy and assistance during our labors together.

We believe, as a rule, the officers are doing their duty in regard to the enforcement of the law.

We find that there is a great deal of complaint about the condition of the district court room, it being impossible to hear, and we earnestly recommend to the honorable Commissioners Court take such steps as are necessary to remedy this deplorable condition.

We have visited the county jail and inspected it thoroughly, and find it to be in fairly good sanitary condition, and have conversed with the prisoners in regard to the way they are fed and find there is no complaint. There has been some complaint in reference to heating the jail during the winter in the past and we hope there will be no cause for complaint along this line in the future.

We now respectfully request to be discharged.

Respectfully submitted, Signed—L. N. Liles, foreman; Benj. Wilson, J. M. Stallings, W. E. Legg, R. H. Baxter, L. C. Brown, S. H. Pittman, J. S. Doughtie, W. L. Burnamen, V. E. Simpson, R. B. Walthall, Joe R. Day.

MR. J. W. KING KILLED BY A TRAIN YESTERDAY

His Remains Will Be Laid to Rest in Oak Grove Cemetery This Afternoon.

From Friday's Daily.

A message was received by relatives here last evening bearing the sad news that Mr. J. W. King, of this city, had been struck by a train while out walking, near Terrell, yesterday (Thursday) afternoon, from the effects of which he immediately died. The details of the sad accident have not been learned.

The remains of the deceased will arrive over the T. & N. O. at 2:19 this afternoon, and be conveyed to the residence of his son, Hon. S. M. King, from which place the funeral services will occur at 3:30. Rev. C. A. Tower, the gentleman's favorite minister, will come down from Athens and conduct the religious services.

Hon. Geo. S. King will come up from Houston, and many relatives and friends from other towns will come in to attend the funeral services and pay the last tribute of respect to one they honored and loved.

Joseph Watts King, affectionately known and tenderly addressed as "Uncle Joe," was born in Polk county, Georgia, on December 16, 1850, and was a son of Stephen and Polly King, prominent settlers of that county in their life-time. He moved to Texas about the time he became of age and settled near Mt. Enterprise, in Rusk county, where he was married to Miss Martha Caroline Garrison, on March 26, 1875. His good wife died March 26, 1914, while visiting at the home of her son, Hon. Geo. S. King, in Houston.

Mr. King was a member of Milam Lodge No. 2, of the Masonic fraternity at Nacogdoches and had been a prominent Mason nearly forty years. He was also a prominent church man, having united with the Methodist Church in early life, and was always active in its councils. He was a devout Christian and noted for his scrupulous honesty and high ideals. He is survived by several sisters and many other relatives in Georgia; also by four sons, Geo. S. King, of Houston; S. M. King, Marvin King and Langston King, of this city, and ten granddaughters, with whom a host of friends will enter into profound sympathy.

A WOMAN BOOTLEGGER MUST PAY PENALTY

Mrs. Sallie Britain, fourteen times charged with selling illicit whisky, a number of times convicted and with still other cases untried, will it seems, at last go to the pen, to pay the penalty of four violations of the liquor law. It is this way: At the August, 1914, term of the district court she was convicted in one case and given a suspended sentence of one year. At the following term, in February, 1915, she was convicted in three cases, drawing five years in these, which cases were appealed, but not heard from until today, when it was announced that the three were affirmed, which automatically puts the previous suspended sentence in force and it will therefore be necessary for her to serve six years for the four convictions in all, if she stays her time out.

Mrs. Britain comes from one of the best families in the county for which reason her tragic career is greatly deplored. It is intimated, and from a pretty good source, that what induced or led her into selling whisky, was selling cold drinks, including near-beer, and perhaps real beer with it, in South Houston a few years ago, where, it is said, she reaped a rich profit for some months, later returning to Center and finally, it is claimed, going into selling straight whisky, the latter the outgrowth of the first venture, or sin full ripe.

Be that as it may, she is an unfortunate woman, who is more to be pitied than censured and if her life has been spoiled by sin and blot, it is still to be hoped that she will yet be given a chance to "go thou and sin no more."—Center Daily Optimist.

INTERESTING NOTES FOR THE FARMER

Let the Renter Stick to the Farm and to the South.

A young farmer living on rented land asks us two questions:

1. Being ambitious to own a farm, would he do better to continue to rent land and try to save money for buying a farm of his own, or had he better go to work for wages with a view to saving enough to buy?

2. He is thinking of taking up "government land" in the West and has also been interested in circulars from real estate dealers in North Dakota, Minnesota, etc. and asks our opinion regarding these matters.

In answer to the first question, we believe our friend will do better to stick to the farm. He is evidently an ambitious and intelligent man, and hence all the time he is renting his land he will be learning to make himself a better and more efficient farmer. Let him resolutely determine to save as much as possible, especially avoiding purchases on "time prices." It will be better for him to deny himself and let his family deny themselves many things that they feel are really necessary, until he can get on a cash basis. There is practically no hope for a renter getting ahead so long as he buys even liberally, let alone extravagantly, on the "time prices" basis. But if he will try to avoid this great absorber of tenant's profits, we believe he can soon hope to be a land-owner.

In answer to the second question, everybody ought to know that there is practically no longer any "government land" fit for farm use—except where water rights eat up the profits. That is why land prices are advancing as they are. So long as the government offered good land in the West free to settlers, land in the South could not be high. But the only free land now is that on virtually desert plains, and a man would be foolish to waste his life and labor on it; or if irrigation is available, it is so expensive that Southern land is cheaper. Nor will any thoughtful Southern renter leave the South and hunt land in the better watered Middle Western states such as Minnesota and the eastern part of the Dakotas. It is hardly an exaggeration to say that, taking the whole South over, land can be bought here for half the price that land of the same crop-producing power will cost in the Northern or Western states.—The Progressive Farmer.

REV. M. C. JOHNSON RETURNS FROM SYNOD.

Rev. M. C. Johnson, pastor of the Main Street Presbyterian Church, has just returned from the meeting of the Synod of Texas, which was held at Paris, Texas, during the past ten days. He reports a very harmonious and large attendance, and the following items of interest to all Presbyterians in this county and vicinity:

1. The church shows the largest number of additions from conversions and on certificate in the history of Presbyterianism in America, and that the energy of the whole denomination seems to be centered in evangelization and missions.

2. The work among the Mexicans and Bohemians shows marvelous progress; the latter people having now a flourishing Presbytery in this state, and one of their ministers led the memorial service at Synod in honor of John Huss, of old Bohemia, who was the first leader of the Reformed Faith in the world.

3. The work among the French Creoles of Southern Louisiana shows an addition of two congregations, making an increase of eight churches in that section during the year.

4. The action of the Presbytery of Jefferson in receiving Rev. J. C. Barr, D. D., and the Lafayette Independent Church, together with two other ministers and six churches in New Orleans and vicinity, was heartily and unanimously endorsed by the Synod of Texas.

CUSHING TO HAVE A TRADES' DAY

The business men of Cushing met in mass meeting Monday evening and discussed the idea of having a Trades' Day. A committee composed of R. P. Johnson, J. W. Cariker, A. J. Beck and J. D. Irwin were appointed to make necessary arrangements. The above named committee met Tuesday evening and set for the Trades' Day to be on Friday, October 29. The town contributed liberally a large sum to be used in paying premiums and other expenses. Circulars will be distributed throughout this territory, advertising this occasion.—Cushing Enterprise.

THE SENTINEL HAD A DISTINGUISHED VISITOR

Prof. A. E. Day, superintendent of schools at Garrison, was in the city today, coming down to attend a meeting of the County Board, and honored this office with a pleasant call while here.

Prof. Day is building up a great school at Garrison—but he always does that wherever he goes. Beginning his career at Timpson early in life, he has been at the head of a number of the prominent schools of East Texas, and his efforts have always been crowned with success. Possibly his most brilliant work was rendered at Center, where he was superintendent some seven or eight years. Beginning with a small frame building and a school enrollment to match, he soon had many students from other places and had to have more room. Realizing his worth, and the worth of the school he was building to the community, the people provided him with a magnificent brick building, and other equipment with which to do first-class work, and he soon filled the large house, attracting many new citizens to the town who came for the benefit of the school, as well as a great host of boarding pupils.

In addition to his local work he has taught in the State Normals, served on the State Normal board, held other places of distinction and ranks high with the leading educators of the state.

If the people of Garrison will continue to stick to him in the future as they have in the past, he will build a school that will put the town on the map in an educational way. In fact, it is already on the map in this line and he will make it more glorious.

WOMAN REFUSES OPERATION

Tells How She Was Saved by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Louisville, Ky.—"I think if more suffering women would take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound they would enjoy better health. I suffered from a female trouble, and the doctors decided I had a tumorous growth and would have to be operated upon, but I refused as I do not believe in operations. I had fainting spells, bloated, and could hardly stand the pain in my left side. My husband insisted that I try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I am so thankful I did, for I am now a well woman. I sleep better, do all my housework and take long walks. I never fail to praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for my good health."—Mrs. J. M. Resch, 1900 West Broadway, Louisville, Ky.

Since we guarantee that all testimonials which we publish are genuine, is it not fair to suppose that if Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has the virtue to help these women it will help any other woman who is suffering in a like manner?

If you are ill do not drag along until an operation is necessary, but at once take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

WILSON'S DAUGHTER TO BE MARRIED.

Chicago, Oct. 13.—The story of the romance and betrothal of Frank Elbert Compton and Miss Margaret Wilson, daughter of the President, was revived in Chicago today.

With the revival of the report which neither Compton nor members of his family would deny, came the additional information that there will be a double wedding in the White House and that Miss Wilson will become Mrs. Compton on the same day that Mrs. Edith Bolling Galt is married to her father.

Wedding presents are already being selected. Associates of Compton in business declare that the announcement of the approaching wedding of President Wilson and Mrs. E. D. Galt has brought the Chicago publisher and his fiancée to the verge of making public announcement of the betrothal.

Compton is president of the F. E. Compton Publishing Company. He is forty-two years old, a widower, the father of an 8-year-old girl and the foster father of a little girl.

He first met Miss Wilson in Florida several years ago and they renewed their acquaintance last year when Miss Wilson attended the national convention of Civic Workers at Madison, Wis. He visited Miss Wilson last August at the "Summer White House" at Cornish, N. H.

The country is under everlasting obligations to the four hundred and forty concerns, individuals and organizations that claim responsibility for the increase in the price of cotton. The Herald, however, is still inclined to believe the chief reason for the increased value is that the people are in position to take their time in selling, and this with the further fact that the crop is short has added to the price.—Palestine Herald.

John L. King, of Garrison, whose visit to the city was noted in yesterday's paper, likes our city so well he has decided to locate with us, and will move down within the next ten days. Mr. King is a brilliant young man, full of life and energy, and will make the town a good citizen. He will be associated with the Sentinel, fuller particulars of which will be announced when he takes up his work.

41,000 NEW MEMBERS OF BOYS' AND GIRLS' CLUBS.

Washington, Oct. 14.—There has been an increase of more than 41,000 in the membership of various boys' and girls' agricultural clubs conducted by the State Agricultural colleges and the Department of Agriculture in the Northern and Western states. At the close of the fiscal year ending June 30, 1914, there were 110,077 members in the various club projects in the thirty-three states covered by this work. At the close of the present fiscal year, June 30, 1915, the membership was 151,194, exclusive of the enrollment in the mother-daughter canning clubs.

This work is being carried on co-operatively in twenty-six of the thirty-three states in the northern, central and western territory by the Department of Agriculture and the extension departments of state colleges of agriculture. In practically every state short courses for boys and girls and special demonstration schools have been held at the colleges and in the field. During the past year 1,557 club members attended the mid-winter courses at the colleges, 968 of these having their expenses paid by local contributions as a recognition of their achievements in club work. Of the 38 club members who, as champions in their states, districts, or counties for 1914, have become recognized as national all-star club members, 31 are now attending high schools, agricultural, or other colleges, three of the remaining seven have already graduated from high school, and one will go to an agricultural college this fall.

Experience has shown that the work in the boys' and girls' clubs can be carried on with even greater success without the aid of large cash prizes and awards. The net profits from the work itself have been found to be the best possible incentive. The members have their attention directed to problems of farm and home management, crop rotation, soil building, etc., and in practically every state in which the work is being carried on a large number of club members are now working out three and four-year rotations of crops. The profits which they derive from club work they are spending on getting an education or for purchase of pure bred stock and labor-saving machinery. Many are even buying land and thus acquiring an invaluable sense of dignity and independence.

In the canning work, 938 public demonstrations were held during the year, with a total attendance of 118,367. These demonstrations were held primarily for the club members, but parents were always invited and, as a matter of fact, more than half of those present were grown men and women. One of the great advantages of this club work, indeed, is the fact that it serves to stimulate the parents as well as the children.

FALL CARE OF ORCHARDS.

Valuable work in the control of orchard insect pests may be accomplished during the fall, winter, and early spring. Certain destructive insects are held in check only by spraying during the dormant period of trees when stronger washes may be used than when the trees are in foliage. Many insects of the orchard spend the winter on the trees in the egg, larval, or pupal stage, and their destruction in the course of pruning or other orchard work is practicable and is of much importance in keeping them reduced.

Orchard scale insects as a class are best treated after the foliage has dropped from the trees. This work may be done in late fall, during the winter when the temperature is above freezing, or in the spring before the buds swell to any extent. Spraying of apple, peach, pear, and other trees for the San Jose scale with strong lime-sulphur or other suitable wash is now very generally practiced by orchardists, and many persons owning but a small number of fruit trees in the yard also regularly spray the trees for the control of this serious insect pest. Lime-sulphur concentrate is used in spraying for the San Jose scale, and may be purchased of manufacturers or made at home. The commercial article usually has adensity of 32 degrees to 34 degrees as registered on a Baume hydrometer, and in preparing the concentrate at home effort should be made to secure a wash of about this density. Such a concentrate is used at the rate of 1

GIVE "SYRUP OF FIGS" TO CONSTIPATED CHILD

Delicious "Fruit Laxative" can't harm tender little stomach, liver and bowels.

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, your little one's stomach, liver and bowels need cleansing at once. When peevish, cross, listless, doesn't sleep, eat or act naturally, or is feverish, stomach sour, breath bad; has sore throat, diarrhoea, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of its little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which contains full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups.

part to 8 or 9 parts of water. Only one treatment each winter is necessary to hold this pest in subjection, but the application must be very thorough, coating all parts of the twigs, limbs and branches. This work requires a spray pump, and these may now be obtained for work on almost any scale, and range in size from the so-called bucket pump suitable for work on a few trees in the yard to the large gasoline-powered outfits employed in extensive orchards. More specific information on the San Jose scale and the preparation at home of lime-sulphur concentrate will be found in Farmers' Bulletin 50.

Cotton Futures Act Held Invalid

New York, Oct. 13.—Federal Judge Hough today handed down a decision declaring unconstitutional the law known as the cotton futures act, known as the Smith-Levers bill.

He rendered judgment in favor of Daniel T. Hubbard and others in a suit to recover damages for assessments made and collected by the collector of internal revenue.

Judge Hough, in a lengthy opinion, said the cotton futures act was technically unconstitutional because the law originated in the senate instead of the house of representatives.

"This is one of the legislative projects which, to be a law, must originate in the house of representatives," he said. "The constitution of the United States provides that all revenue bills shall originate in the lower house. This bill, I find, was introduced in the senate, and, as it is a bill for raising revenue, it is, therefore, unconstitutional."

"It is most unsatisfactory to be compelled to ground a decision on so technical a point, but such as it is, this decision disposes of the case. The bill known as the United States futures act, approved Aug. 18, 1914, never was and is not now a law of the United States."

Announcement of the decision caused a sharp break in prices on the New York cotton exchange. During the morning the cotton market had been firm, January contracts selling up to 13.08c, or more than $1.50 a bale above Monday's closing, chiefly owing to strength in Liverpool over the holiday and unfavorable weather reports throughout the South.

Within a short time after a report of the decision reached traders, prices had been carried down almost to Monday's level. When it was stated, however, that the decision would not change the status of existing contracts there were rallies from 10 to 15 points.

An exchange wisely editorializes: "There is no civilization which can civilize the blatant-mouthed brute who has no conception of gentility or consideration for the feelings or comfort of human beings." Every community has them.

10 CENT "CASCARETS" IF BILIOUS OR COSTIVE

For Sick Headache, Sour Stomach, Sluggish Liver and Bowels—They work while you sleep.

Furred Tongue, Bad Taste, Indigestion, Sallow Skin and Miserable Headaches come from a torpid liver and clogged bowels, which cause your stomach to become filled with undigested food, which sours and ferments like garbage in a swill barrel. That's the first step to untold misery—indigestion, foul gases, bad breath, yellow skin, mental fears, everything that is horrible and nauseating. A Cascaret tonight will give your constipated bowels a thorough cleansing and straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep—a 10-cent box from your druggist will keep you feeling good for months.

THE AMERICAN FARMER

(By E. F. Shropshire, manager of the Farmers Union Cotton Company.)

Success in any business or avocation, is attained only by the application of proved business rules and economy.

The business of farming responds as readily, if not more so, to the touch of the business man as his effort in any other field of endeavor.

Farming as a profession will attain success only to the extent that the farmer applies brains with muscle, diversification over one-crop methods, scientific cultivation over haphazard efforts, conservation of the soil over wasteful butchery, common-sense marketing over long periods against destructive methods in rushing on the market as fast as gathered.

The farmer must conserve his soil with as great care as the banker protects his assets, minister with as much intelligence to his growing crops as the merchant to his customer, and market with as great foresight and wisdom as the shrewdest business man, if he obtains the desired results on the fruits of his labor.

The old, wasteful one-crop method, with its soil butchery, is largely responsible for the farmer's condition. Records fail to reveal a prosperous people who do not practice diversification, scientific cultivation, soil conservation and judicious marketing, and upon these depends success.

The farmer must be progressive—make farming a business in its every detail as does the banker or merchant. In other words, if the farmer will properly care for the farm in a business way, his every want will be gratified and he will prosper beyond his most sanguine expectations.

The real farmer diversifies, produces at home what he consumes for both himself and his live stock, making his cotton a surplus or money crop; is prosperous, lives at home, schools his children and has something left for a rainy day.

The pretender plants all cotton, mortgages it to the merchant before it is out of the ground, has his corn crib in Missouri, his smoke house in Kansas, is always in debt, works his children from dewy morn until shadowy eve, is forced to market in an injudicious way as fast as gathered, has nothing left and is always cursing the speculator.

What is true of cotton is true of any other one-crop method of farming. All the eggs should not be put in one basket. One-crop method, with its attendant evil soil butchery in the growing of cotton and practically cotton alone, has largely destroyed the fertility of our soil and almost reduced the farmer of the South to a stage of penury and want.

There is no sound reason why the farmer should not be independent and prosperous, have peaceful and happy homes, give his children the advantages of our great educational system, make country life progressive and worth while, instead of the chaotic conditions that exist.

The application of business, and business alone, will save the day. The farmer should keep strict account against the cost of production of each crop, know when he is selling at a profit, and grow only such crops as yield him fair returns on his labor, putting up for market his products in the best and most attractive manner, bearing his individual or association trade mark, always an honest pack and full weights. This will enable him to sell for more and will assist largely in overcoming market conditions, creating a demand for his trade mark, and will turn, in many cases, loss into profit.

But why dwell on these things? The farmer knows better than anyone else his needs, efforts, conditions that confront him and almost holy ambition to have success crown his labors. He knows the hit or miss methods pursued in production and the more than wasteful methods in marketing. He knows he should diversify his crops, raise hogs, a few calves and colts each year, build up the soil, have prosperous homes and educate his children.

The question, then, is, Why don't he do it? The answer is, he is doing his best under conditions which surround him and advantages taken of his avocation. Our educational, financial and marketing systems are all says Mrs. Sylvania Woods, of Clifton Mills, Ky., in writing of her experience with Gardui, the woman's tonic. She says further: "Before I began to use Gardui, my back and head would hurt so bad, I thought the pain would kill me. I was hardly able to do any of my housework. After taking three bottles of Gardui, I began to feel like a new woman. I soon gained 35 pounds, and now, I do all my housework, as well as run a big water mill."

It Always Helps

against him. As to legislation, he is hardly ever considered, and when he is there is failure of enforcement, or heaven and earth are moved for repeal.

When the farmer becomes a business man he will build a new South, an organization for himself, as others have done; blot out the credit and mortgage system, change the educational and marketing systems to where they will be fair and just to him, and through legislation establish a system of land banks that will place him on an equal basis with the commercial world.

Business methods are his panacea, his royal road to independence, the elixir that will rehabilitate and make country life profitable and worth while, his savior and blessing to the nation.

PLAN $400,000,000 FOR U. S. DEFENSES

Washington, Oct. 13.—Four hundred million dollars for national defense—an increase of approximately $140,000,000 over last year—constitutes an amount which President Wilson and his advisers at present estimate should be appropriated by the next congress for the army and the navy.

As the date—Friday—for completion of the annual estimates draws near the President is giving preliminary consideration to the national defense budget out of which it is hoped to lay down a stronger naval program than the United States ever has authorized in its history and similarly a larger provision for the military establishment than has been customary in time of peace.

The President has had before him for several weeks the outlines of a military policy of a continuing character framed by Secretary Garrison, after more than a year's study with officers of the general staff. With it the President is in hearty accord, regarding it as a conservative, well-balanced program. While the details have not been revealed, a substantial increase in the regular army, probably from 87,000 to at least 120,000 men and the creation of a reserve of perhaps 400,000 men through short term enlistment service of citizens interested in military training, are said to be parts of the plan.

DISTRICT COURT.

The jury in the case of Mrs. Murchison, who is charged with killing her husband at Lufkin some time ago, and moved to this city for trial, was completed last night, and the work of taking testimony was begun this morning.

There are between 160 and 175 witnesses present, and the indications are that it will be the biggest trial of the court, but Judge Guinn hopes to complete the trial in the course of two or three days.

The state is represented by District Attorney W. B. O'Quinn, County Attorney Sam R. Sayers and Hon. C. B. Collins. The defendant is represented by Hon. W. J. Townsend, Jr., Jacksonville; Hon. I. D. Fairchilds, of Lufkin, and King & Seale of this city.

The jury is composed of the following well-known citizens of the county: J. M. Brown, C. H. Smith, J. W. McBride, B. F. Adams, A. E. Hanna, Robt. Axley, R. J. Fountain, M. F. Fuller, T. B. Fountain, A. J. Stokes, J. R. Choate and M. A. Bentley.

The Sentinel will not attempt to review any of the testimony for the reason that it is objectionable to those interested in the trial of the case, causing opinion to be formed that might interfere with future trials should there be another, and do an injustice to both the state and the defendant.

Every inch of the ground will be closely contested by the array of counsel engaged in the case, and the court house is packed with people who have become interested in the case.

Some of the state papers have representatives present to report the proceedings, by which the case will attract statewide interest.

In the case of Thos. B. Owens vs. A. C. Irwin, which was on trial yesterday, a verdict was rendered in favor of the defendant, A. C. Irwin.

The jury in the Amos Johnson case returned a verdict of guilty, assessing his punishment at two years in the penitentiary, which he accepted.

The cases of Mary Lazarine, Dock Johnson, Walter Butler, Pete Baldwin, Charley Forney and E. M. Birdwell et al., have all been continued to next term.

In the suit of Thos. D. Bonnor, trustee in bankruptcy of M. D. Stoker vs. Bertes Stoker, which went to trial yesterday, an instructed verdict was rendered in favor of the defendant.

Messrs. E. L. Deaton and Ed Ross, of Lufkin, were arrivals to the city yesterday afternoon. They are here prospecting, wanting to purchase farms in the vicinity of Nacogdoches.

In the suit of Joe Birdwell, guardian estate Elizabeth Bell vs. Sauer-Whiteman Lumber Co., which was on trial yesterday, a verdict was rendered in favor of the defendant.

The time of the court this morning was being taken with the motion for a new trial in the Burkhalter case, and this will conclude the work of the week.

The court overruled the motion and appeal was taken.

Deputy Sheriff T. G. Vaught and Constable Luther Prince, of Garrison, were arrivals to the city on the noon train.

As noted above, there are many others whose names we could not get, and there are many other visitors from different places.

PROVIDED HOME FOR THE SCHOOL TEACHER

Moral school district, which is supported principally with a Mexican colony, has set an example that is worthy of emulation by other districts in providing a home for their school teacher.

L. Cordova and his son were the leading promoters in the enterprise, and with a little help from the school funds, raised sufficient funds with which to erect the building.

Mrs. Eula Barrett, a well-known teacher of the county, who has contracted to teach the school, is the first to occupy the new building.
