MARRIED SUNDAY.

Last Sunday evening about 8 o'clock, Mr. L. D. Power and Miss Leila Daniels drove up to the residence of Rev. John N. Wilson, and, seated in the buggy, were married with the beautiful ceremony of the Methodist church, Rev. Mr. Wilson officiating.

The happy couple comes from good families and have many friends, with whom The Sentinel joins in congratulations and good wishes.

RECEIVES SAD NEWS.

Prof. and Mrs. H. H. Hall received the sad news this morning of the death of Mrs. Hall's mother, Mrs. Schultz at Longview. They left on the 1:05 H. E. & W. T. today for Longview where interment will be made.

Mrs. Schultz is of one of the best known and highly respected families of the state and has many friends who will be pained to learn of her death.

The friends and acquaintances of Prof. and Mrs. Hall will join The Sentinel in extending sympathy in their hour of trouble.

WORK ON NEW SCHOOL BUILDING PROGRESSING

Workmen began pouring the concrete this morning in the construction of the new high school building and from all indications it will not be long before Nacogdoches can boast of another magnificent school building as a fact.

The actual construction of the new North End school building has also begun, which will reflect much credit upon the Nacogdoches school district.

Both buildings are of modern architecture.

COUNTY COURT.

Three cases were disposed of in county court Monday: Dewitt Grissom, carrying pistol; not guilty.

Mansfield Fly, bootlegging, (two cases); twenty days in jail and $2 fine in each case.

A new German machine cleans and sorts medicinal tablets, rejecting broken ones, and packs them in boxes or tubes at a rate of from 150,000 to 200,000 a day.

DISCUSS DEFENSE PLAN WITH WILSON

Washington, Nov. 16.—President Wilson plans to work all this week on his message to congress and expects to have it finished before Thanksgiving day. He discussed some features of it today with the cabinet.

National defense will be the principal subject treated. The message also is expected to take up recommendations for raising additional revenue.

Conservation measures which failed of passage at the last session of congress and the Philippine bill will be endorsed again.

At today's meeting each department head submitted his views on what important matters should be urged upon congress. The President will begin immediately to write the message, doing the work himself on his typewriter.

Because revenue-raising legislation must originate in the house, the President will confer further with the house leaders before finally deciding on his recommendations as to how the additional revenue needed for the defense plans should be raised.

The annual reports of cabinet members will not be made public until after the President delivers his message to congress. Wilson will take into consideration, however, the recommendations of his official advisers.

Attorney General Gregory, after the cabinet meeting, revealed that he is considering recommending amendments to the Sherman anti-trust law, so that the federal government can better proceed in alleged plots to blow up munitions factories and vessels. He said at present it was difficult to find laws covering the cases already investigated.

Secretary Garrison informed the President that he thought it advisable to make public the recommendations of the general staff of the army on strengthening the military branch of the government. It was decided that the army general staff's general report would be made public, but not until Secretary Garrison's report is given out, after the President delivered his message to congress.

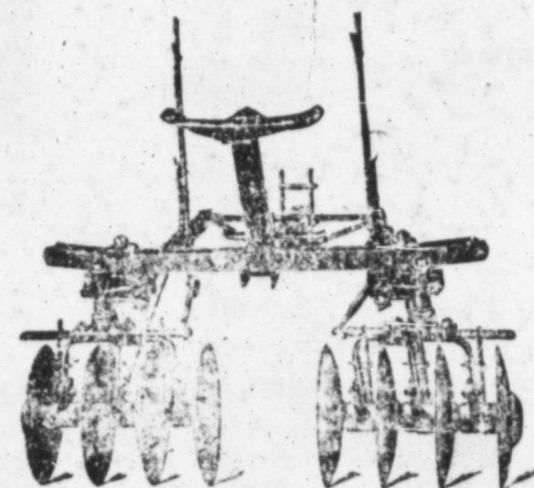

DISTINGUISHED VISITORS IN CITY LAST NIGHT

Prof. B. Youngblood, a director of the extension department of the A. & M. college and Prof. W. S. Hotchkiss, superintendent of the Troup agricultural station, were arrivals to the city yesterday afternoon, returning with our Mr. McNess, who had been for a little visit to the Troup station. They went out to the local station with Mr. McNess, making an inspection of the work being done, and came back to town last night.

In speaking to the reporter, Prof. Youngblood said that he was pleased to find that Mr. McNess had everything in fine shape, and one of the very best stations in the state, now prepared to do a great work in its line and was also pleased to learn that the people were coming to appreciate the work of the station more.

The visiting gentlemen left on a night train for a visit to other points.

New Shoes, Hats, Clothing, etc., arriving daily at The Texas Store. Call and see them.

For Your Land's Sake

AN AVERY REVERSIBLE DISC HARROW is the "thing." Study the illustration. Can't you see that it is the simplest in construction and easiest in adjustment of any Disc Harrow made?

Can be reversed in three (3) minutes and without the use of any wrench—there is not a nut to be removed in reversing the disc.

A separate "angling lever" for each set of discs gives you a wide range of adjustments that can be made without leaving your seat. By loosening just one nut on each side the discs can be made any distance apart that you will ever want.

There are a whole lot of other good things we could say about the AVERY REVERSIBLE DISC HARROW, but then we want YOU to come in and see for yourself. Just come in and say that you want to see "one of those Avery Disc Harrows." We will be glad to show you.

EVERYTHING IN HARDWARE AND FARM SUPPLIES.

STATE MAY PURCHASE TWO PEN FARMS

Austin, Nov. 16.—Gov. James E. Ferguson will go to Huntsville tonight for a conference with the penitentiary commissioners and to consider the advisability of buying one or two other farms for the penitentiary, which has been offered to the state.

Not only will this matter be given attention, but likewise will the governor confer with the commissioners with regard to occupying the Eastham farm, purchased recently, and for the crop planting on all penitentiary farms.

A GOOD BANK STATEMENT.

Elsewhere in today's paper will be found the statement of the Commercial Guaranty bank, which makes a mighty good showing, and dispels the idea of a scarcity of money in the country or justification for the cry of hard times in the county.

The statement shows deposits to the amount of $465,943.58; available cash, $212,530.34; capital, $60,000.00; surplus and profits, $61,423.02.

Considering the depressed condition of financial affairs from which the country is now recovering, the officials of the bank have just cause to be proud of this statement and the country has cause for congratulation for the reason that the arteries of finance show the best evidence of returning prosperity.

MONEY SAVED.

I saved money by trading at The Texas Store.

Mrs. Arthur Stevens and baby of New Hope are visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. U. Bose.

WALNUT GROVE.

The health of our community is improving, although few are still contending with chills and fever.

The farmers are very busy this week getting through with their peanuts in order to begin making syrup.

We have just finished one of the most up-to-date rural school buildings of this county. It is well equipped with new single desks, teachers' desk and chairs, chart, globe, maps and blackboards. All that is now needed is a library and we hope to have it before another year. We are glad to say that the patrons of this community are awake to school interests. This being the third year for the present teacher, Miss Mae Hall, we are putting forth every effort to make it the charm.

Mr. James D. Greer, the agricultural agent of this county, accompanied by Mr. A. Smith of Center, visited the school here, making interesting talks on agriculture. Their talks were greatly enjoyed and several boys intend to join the club.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Baird, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Richards and son, Olin, left for Beaumont Friday to attend the fair. From Beaumont they will go to Port Arthur to visit Mr. and Mrs. Richards' two sons, Bertie and Homer Richards.

The young people enjoyed a singing at the home of Mr. Burns Friday night.

D. R. Boatman and wife spent Saturday and Sunday in Pine Hill community.

Leila Thomas is out of school this week on account of illness.

The following pupils were on the honor roll the past week: Pearl Parrott, Thelma Carroll, Willie and Walter Curry, Louis Carroll, Eugene Carroll, Hollis

Carroll, Frank and Lester Lutes, and Jim Hilliard.

The prayer meeting was well attended at the last meeting. Some visitors from other communities were present.—L. E. C.

LICENSED TO WED.

Since the last report, marriage licenses have been issued to the following:

J. P. Noble to Lula Rowlette. Herman Seale to Julia Hurst. Tom Childress to Jesse Simpson.

W. F. Rintzell to Mabel Ezell. D. V. Power to Lela Daniels. Joe McAny to Ada Waters.

Monroe Wade to Laura Ward (colored).

MR. A. CURRIE WAS A VISITOR YESTERDAY

Mr. A. Currie, a prominent real estate man of Shreveport was a visitor to the city last evening, returning from a visit to Chireno, where he has some realty interests in the oil field.

Mr. Currie is very enthusiastic in the belief that there is a big oil deposit somewhere in this section and firmly believes that if sufficient test is made a big field will be brought in. During this year he has done considerable advertising and met with many oil men in an effort to interest them in the Chireno field, and yet hopes to get something substantial under way there, but is menaced with the holdings of some big companies who will not do anything or let any one else in.

The Temple Telegram observes editorially that you will never arrive if you camp too long near the House of Never.

People who wanted a little frost on the pumpkin vine now have cause for rejoicing—but, as in everything else, there is another side. Some of us had not provided against the day.

At last the chill of winter is approaching when more clothes and more feedstuff and foodstuff will be needed. The wise merchant will use a little printer's ink in informing the public what he has in this line.

With the near-approach of Thanksgiving, Col. Geo. Bailey of the Houston Post would advise a little more corn being pitched to the turkey. Christmas is also on the way, which will be followed in close approach with the limit of time for paying poll taxes. "What have you done with last summer's wages?"

The Beaumont Enterprise is out with a seventy-two page special edition, promoting and exploiting the interests of the forthcoming fair in that city. The issue is a very creditable enterprise in progressive newspaper making, and reflects credit upon both the city and the publishers.

A bunch of progressive Texans are arranging to run a special train to Washington a few days before the Democratic national executive committee meets, Dec. 7, to put forth Dallas' claims for the meeting of the national Democratic convention—and when Texans go after anything they usually get it.

We glean from the Bowie Blade that Editor Littlepage, its publisher, has been forced to purchase a new and larger press to take care of his growing business. Mr. Littlepage was editor of The Sentinel for a number of years and has many friends in Nacogdoches who rejoice with him in his prosperity.

Hubbard says: "Every life is its own excuse for being, and to deny or refute the untrue things that are said of you is an error in judgment. All wrong recoils upon the doer, and the man who makes wrong statements about others is himself to be pitied, not the man he vilifies. It is better to be lied about than to lie. At the least, no one can harm us but ourselves." Many of our readers may take this to heart.—Sovereign Visitor.

The Sentinel does not know how long it will take to get some one interested in the matter of building a street car line to the depot—but we are not "quitters." Nacogdoches will some day have a first-class street railway system, and the first man who gets in and gets a franchise, and starts the enterprise in a small way, developing it as the town develops, will reap a rich harvest.

A dispatch from Washington says that a new line of permanent taxes to meet the nation's embarkation upon a more adequate defense program is the prediction of John M. Garner, the Texas member of the ways and means committee of the house. It is certain that the people will have to pay the expenses of the "preparedness" for which many quarters are clamoring, and is a vital part of the program to be taken into consideration.

EDISON'S PROPHECY.

Designating the European war as a crime against humanity, Thomas A. Edison takes a pessimistic view of the attainment of universal peace within the near future. Mr. Edison is no dreamer of dreams. In addition to being the world's greatest inventive genius, he possesses a sound, practical and seasoned judgment, rendering him a safe counsellor in other matters than those in which he attained renown, which makes his opinion upon any question well worthy of the serious consideration of all concerned.

"Pretty soon," says Mr. Edison, in a press interview, "we can be mowing men down by the thousands—or even millions—almost by the pressing of a button. The slaughter will be so terrific that the machinery itself will have to do the fighting."

It is, of course, easy to understand that when the duty of a soldier is restricted to the business of dying it will be more difficult to induce patriotic citizens to make that sacrifice. Even in the present conflict the use of destructive machinery in the slaughter of soldiers has robbed war of glorious personal achievements and eliminated the heroics and romance which formerly made the business of destroying men attractive to a marked degree. Modern Horatios no longer attain honors and the grateful applause of hero worshipers by trary they are fed to cold-blooded "sausage-grinders" in thousands with mathematical precision and machine-like regularity which can no more arouse the emotions and enthusiasms of spectators than the activities of modern machines in packing houses devoted to shredding beasts of the field. While past generations could proudly boast that their ancestors died upon such fields as Balaklava, Maratengo, Austerlitz, Ulm, Wagram, Sedan and Gravelote while leading battalions, following commanders in heroic charges or in resisting determined assaults upon their divisions, the use of man-killing machines and devices for human destruction will destructure and will deprive present and future generations of that consolation. There will be only the goose-fleshing confession that certain of their courageous and respected relatives were passed in trenches, pulverized by 1,000-pound projectiles, buried alive under mountains or ten-acre tracts of tillable land in upheavals produced by explosions of tons of dynamite.

When we contemplate the slaughter in the present war we are fully prepared to agree with Mr. Edison, that "war can be made so scientific that the very horror of it will help to end the war."—Austin American.

Nacogdoches has no street car line from the depot up town—but it has a mighty good place for one and it will be forthcoming some day. We would rather that some home man promote the enterprise, but if none can be found, some enterprising Yankee will see the opportunity one of these days and grab it.

Seguin, Uvalde and many other towns at first had a combination passenger and freight street car line which gradually developed into a first-class street car system, performed a great service for the public, and made the promoters rich. Light rails could be bought cheaply and a line from the depot up town could be worked out with a very small investment, considering the wonderful possibilities it would afford, perform a great public service and ultimately make the promoters rich. There is plenty of idle capital in the city to handle the proposition, and it could be put into no better investment.

WHERE LIFE IS WORTH WHILE.

Speaking of an ideal life, there is nothing better or more independent than a life on a well regulated farm in a prosperous section of the country.

In the cities and towns we are engaged in a constant game of competition one with another, always confronted with the possibility that the commercial rise of the other fellow means our downfall. But not so on the farm, where every man is a life and a producer and a consumer unto himself.

The farmer raises his grain, and his foodstuffs, and his hogs and cattle and chickens and eggs, and by his own efforts alone his table the year round is supplied and his surplus gives a sufficiency for those articles not produced on his own acreage. It makes no material difference to him whether his neighbor is successful or is a failure, for the rapid rise of one does not imply the disintegration of another.

Hard times and panics may sweep over the land, strewing the path of life with the corpses of the commercial wrecks, but the farmer moves steadily onward and is the last man on earth to feel the pinch of want. He continues to grow and thrive, his stock fattens and becomes meat for the table, his fields and his gardens furnish him the sustenance of life, and he feels, as he is, the one man of all this earth who is absolutely independent of all other men or combinations of men.

When the country is staggering under the weight of depression, and buying is slow, he still has the satisfaction of knowing that his own table will be well supplied while people in cities and towns may be looking for bread for the next meal.

We hear many people depreciate a life on the farm because of the hard work and long hours it entails, but these same people seem to overlook the fact that there is no other occupation in life which does not require its labor and its toil and its brain-racking and nerve destroying race in competition with others of its kind. And always before those engaged in commercial pursuits is the dreaded spectre of hard times or strangulation at the hands of a successful competitor.

Young men of today who are comfortably settled on a farm, or are just completing their education preparatory to a life career, should remain right where they are and never leave the green fields of the country. The great cities will offer them white lights, and dissipation and debauchery, and failure in nine cases out of ten, and death will find them wishing to God they had never strayed from the comforts of the old fireside. But not so in the country. It offers them a life of freedom, and manhood, and usefulness, with plenty to eat and to wear, and health, happiness and a clear conscience.

Now that the summer's work is over and the time is at hand when young men begin to long for the gaieties of city life, we suggest that you spend your idle moments in studying the latest and most improved methods of farming. Thumb over the pages of your farm journals, and the bulletins of the agricultural schools, and perfect yourself for a winning fight in extracting greater wealth from the mother earth, the source from which all wealth springs. Stick to the farm. It is the greatest spot on earth.—Brenham Banner.

The circumstance that the late C. W. Post, breakfast food king, left an estate of $33,000,000 acquired in a business started on a capital of $750, is another convincing evidence of the value of newspaper advertising.—Austin American.

THE FRATERNAL SPIRIT.

Some days ago the Beaumont Enterprise, in an editorial squib, condemned the practice of editors exchanging compliments. The Sentinel does not believe the esteemed contemporary meant the lack of any fraternal interest that was indicated, because it is a progressive paper, highly esteemed by the fraternity throughout the state, evidence of which is contained in the following which we take from its issue of yesterday:

"Though fires are dangerous, disorganizing in a newspaper office and sometimes cause great pecuniary loss, the Enterprise fire of Sunday night was not without its compensating circumstances. For one thing, it brought out the fact that newspapers all over the country, not only sympathized with the Enterprise in its loss, but they were ready, willing and anxious to help this paper in every way possible through supplying materials for the resumption of publication. Fortunately, a side from the press, the equipment was not damaged, and the graciousness of the Beaumont Journal supplied this deficiency.

Among the many kindly expressions followed the fire is this one from the San Antonio Express:

"Because its name well reflects the spirit of its publishers and its usefulness to the community and territory, The Enterprise, Beaumont's morning daily, will not be long handicapped by that severe loss by fire of Sunday. Always a leader in pattern and in policy, for the worthy and ambitious interests of southeastern Texas, The Enterprise will find friends enough and helpers enough to lighten its task of mechanical rehabilitation and in meeting the demands of a temporary, though costly, inconvenience.

"But this confidence in the ability of Enterprise's management cheerfully and readily to overcome any obstacle in the way of a steady progress unto bigness does not dull our understanding of the difficulty it has encountered. For its losses we are sincerely regretful, even as we are certain of its recovery from their effects with a better appearance and a more lively and useful service than ever before. The best nature and principles of the craft, too are exemplified by the Beaumont Evening Journal's tender of its plant to tide over a neighbors troubles."

Villa now plans to reorganize his army and attack Mexico City as a sort of first night for a campaign. After three years of wandering in the desert and some fighting in the towns, hombre, apparently, does not especially desire peace. Revolt means tolerably fair assurance of steady board and a few dollars pay. But all fighting and no fiesta cannot be entirely to hombre's liking. Why not six months revolution and six months rest for frolic and not enough work to hurt? In other words, an open and closed season for revolution and individual campaigns by handit leaders. In a few years the system might work around to one month for revolution and eleven months for counting the cost and getting ready for the next. By which time the leaders of revolt could be coaxed under a peace bond—and war in Mexico would pinch out.—Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

The idea was suggested to The Sentinel this morning by a well-known local citizen, and it is a good one, that some of the local merchants or wholesale people should find an outside market for the surplus syrup of the county. A neighboring town has shipped five cars this season, which was sold at a good price and brought much new money into circulation.

THE DISAGREEABLE PERSON.

Disagreeable persons, like everything else unpleasant, are shunned on all occasions and left pretty much to their own devices, which, we suppose, might be described as a species of "just retribution." Disagreeable persons, however, are not always responsible for their condition, and while it is true that a man's natural disposition predisposes him one way or the other, yet it is just as true that outside influences play their part as well. In theory we feel sorry for those who are so unfortunate as to possess disagreeable natures; in practice we despise them and do not hesitate to show our scorn. In theory we agree that the unpleasant persons must be treated with patience and gentle courtesy; in practice we antagonize them and even make enemies of them. It may be that the little bit of the old Adam which is hidden away in every human breast incites us to impatience and anger beyond our control when we are thrown into close contact with one of those disagreeable beings who rubs us in the wrong way, and all our good intentions and high purpose give way before the unexpected rise in our tempers. We are very much alive at heart; we have our good days and our bad days when things run smoothly or just the opposite; when our hearts respond to the appeals of our friends or when there is a complete lack of sympathy between us. It is probably because of this similarity in our natures that we become impatient with those who fail to respond to our advances.—Brenham Banner.

TROUBLE AT CENTER WAS EXAGGERATED

Prof. O. J. Rushing, superintendent of the school at Center, has given out a statement anent the report of recent trouble in the school at that place in which he denies that anything serious happened and feels that an injustice was done the school with the exaggeration. The letter was addressed to the Timpson Times, which reproduced the report from the Longview Times-Clarion as did The Sentinel, and is as follows:

"Gentlemen: I notice in your paper of Nov. 12, you give a rather prominent place in your paper an account of a supposed fight in the Center school between a pupil and teacher. This is a serious mistake and I wish that you would correct it in your next issue. There is no teacher by the name of Smith in the Center school. There was a slight encounter between Lige Rushing and Mr. Harris, teacher of the seventh grade, but the boy was thoroughly conquered and Mr. Harris not injured.

"Please do not fail to make this correction. Sincerely,
"O. J. RUSHING."

It has long been known that deposits of oil and gas are to be found in Nacogdoches, and oil wells in a small way have been making some production for many years, but in the face of this proof an adequate test has never been made. For aught we know, and we have reason to believe, that there is more hidden wealth in the ground than there has ever been upon the surface, and it is encouraging to note that some new interest is now being aroused in the matter. A great oil field, in operation, would put Nacogdoches county on the map quicker than all other agencies combined, and make her citizens rich with the new wealth that would follow.

The trouble with some people is that they continually try to get even with someone instead of attempting to get ahead.—New York World.

IF I HAD THE TIME.

If I had the time to find a place
And sit me down full face to face
With my better self, that can not show
In my daily life that rushes so,
It might be then I would see my soul
Was stumbling still toward the shining goal,
I might be nerved by the thoughts sublime,
If I had the time!

If I had the time to let my Speak out and take in my part,
To look about and to stand hand
To a comrade quartered in no-luck land;
Oh, God! If I might but just sit still
And hear the note of the whippoorwill,
I think my wish with God's would rhyme,
If I had the time!

If I had the time to learn from you
How much for comfort my word could do;
And I told you then of my sudden will
To kiss your feet when I did you ill;
If the tears aback of the coldness
feigned
Could flow, and the wrong be quite explained,
Brothers, the soul of us all
would chime,
If we had the time!

BRAVE LOVE.

He'd nothing but his violin,
I'd nothing but my song,
But we were wed when skies were blue
And summer days were long,
And when we rested by the hedge
The robins came and told
How they had dared to woo and win
When early spring was cold.

We sometimes supped on dew berries,
Or slept among the hay,
But of the farmers' wives at e
Came out to hear us play
The rare old tunes—the dear o tunes.
We could not starve for long
While my man had his violin
And I my sweet love song.

The world has aye gone well for us,
Old man, since we were one;
Our homeless wandering down
the lanes—
It long ago was done;
But those who wait for gold or gear,
For houses and for kind,
Till youth's sweet spring grows
brown and sere
And love and beauty pine,
Will never know the joy of hearts
That met without a fear,
When you had but your violin
And I a song, my dear.

A SAIL AT TWILIGHT.

Gray sail against the sky,
Gray butterfly!
Have you a dream for going,
Or are you only for the blind wind's blowing?

Is there a hand upon your helm?
And do you seek some purposed realm?
Or are you but a moth that flutters far Against the candle of the evening star?

Gray sail against the sky,
Gray butterfly!
What cause has set you winging?
Are you for trade and cargoes—
or for singing?

Women
The safest Liver Medicine which you often need, is Po-Dolax. Headaches, biliousness and dizziness caused by constipation readily yield to this "May Apple" laxative. Remember that it is non-gripping and easy in action. It arouses the liver and increases the flow of bile without sickening effects. Get over that irritableness by removing the cause—constipation. No gas, no fermentation, no pain. Po-Dolax, the perfect woman's laxative. 50c a bottle. dw

RICH CASE REVERSED FOR COURT TRIAL.

The civil suit known as H. C. Rich vs. Geo. W. Eason et al, carried up from this county, has been reversed for trial, and is now subject to trial in the district court here.

The suit grew out of a report made by the grand jury in which Mr. Eason was foreman, and in which, it is alleged, reflected upon the character of the plaintiff, who was sheriff at the time, to the amount of $20,000.

Messrs. C. P. Long, Ben Williams, W. H. Williamson, H. M. Prince and B. D. Caldwell, good friends of The Sentinel from the Garrison community, were pleasant callers at this office this morning, coming around to see our new machine work.

NEGRO WAS STABBED BY-NEGRO WOMAN

C. C. Cloudy Received Dangerous Knife Wound from Cornelia Polk Saturday Night.

Out on Ireson street Saturday night, C. C. Cloudy, a negro man, received a very dangerous knife wound in the breast which penetrated one of his lungs, and later Cornelia Polk, a negro woman of this city, was arrested charged with the offense.

Cloudy was carried to the office of a local physician and kept under personal treatment nearly all night, later being removed to his home and is said to be in a very dangerous condition.

The negro woman was released under $250 bond pending a preliminary trial.

DOUBLY PROVEN

Nacogdoches Readers Can No Longer Doubt the Evidence. This Nacogdoches citizen testified long ago. Told of quick relief—of undoubted benefit. The facts are now confirmed. Such testimony is complete—the evidence conclusive. It forms convincing proof of merit.

W. H. Wood, farmer, North street, Nacogdoches, says: "I was troubled by a constant, dull ache across the small of my back. I never thought for a moment that my kidneys were out of order until I noticed that the kidney secretions began to be scanty in passage. I tried several medicines without finding relief until I began using Doan's Kidney Pills. They certainly did me a lot of good." (Statement given April 7, 1905.)

On June 4, 1915, Mr. Wood said: "I haven't changed my opinion of Doan's Kidney Pills since recommending them. I take them occasionally as a preventive but I have had little trouble from my kidneys since first using them."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Wood has twice publicly recommended. Foster-Milburn Co., Props, Buffalo, N. Y.

NEXT CONFERENCE GOES TO LUFKIN

We learn from the Longview Daily Times-Clarion that the next annual meeting of the Methodist conference will be held in Lufkin.

Several places were candidates for the meeting, but the progressive people of Lufkin got together in an effort that captured the meeting.

CHILD BURNED TO DEATH AT MAYOTOWN

Little Two-Year-Old Daughter of Dr. C. H. Evans was the Victim of a Lamp Explosion.

A sad accident occurred at Mayotown last Friday night, in which the bright-eyed little daughter of Dr. and Mrs. C. H. Evans lost her life in the flames of a lamp explosion.

The little girl and her little brother were at a table on which a lamp was sitting. In some manner the lamp was overturned, throwing oil over the child, to which the flames extended and enveloped her, burning her so badly that she died Sunday morning.

Dr. Tucker of this city was called in to treat the unfortunate child and everything that medical skill and kind nursing could do was administered, but the wounds were too severe to yield to the treatment.

Guard your kidneys; the health of the body depends on those small but important organs. They extract uric acid from the blood which if allowed to remain in the system would cause dropsy and Bright's disease. Prickly Ash Bitters is a successful kidney tonic; it heals and strengthens the kidneys, regulates the liver, stimulates the stomach and digestion, cleanses the bowels. It will prevent or cure Bright's disease. Stripling, Haselwood & Co.

DIED THIS MORNING.

From Saturday's Daily: Mr. Jim Hicks, 80 years of age, died this morning of dropsy at the home of Mr. Charley Foster, west of town. The deceased leaves three sons, Alvin, John and Joe, the latter residing in Nacogdoches county. Mr. Hicks was visiting at the home of Mr. Foster from Trinity county, although he had lived in Angelina county for a number of years. His remains will be laid to rest in the Providence cemetery, four miles west of town on the Iron Bridge road, tomorrow afternoon about 2 o'clock.—Lufkin News, Friday.

Tenderness or aching in the small of the back is a serious symptom. The kidneys are suffering. Take Prickly Ash Bitters at once. It is a reliable kidney remedy and system regulator and will cure the trouble before it develops its dangerous stage. Stripling, Haselwood & Co.

Joe Gibbs and Eugene Vonder-smith left this afternoon for New Orleans, where they will spend several weeks learning the mechanical construction and operation of linotype machines and equip themselves with the necessary knowledge for this line of work. Eugene has been holding a position with The Sentinel the past five years and it gives us pleasure to say that he has been faithful to every trust, always performing every service given to his care to the very best of his ability, always agreeable, and ambitious to not only give satisfaction to his employers, but improve himself in the service and learn the art which he has chosen for his life-work. Joe has not been with us so long, but he has had several years' experience in the work and is equally worthy and ambitious to learn every branch of the trade and equip himself for the best service possible.

Prickly Ash Bitters can be depended on to cure the kidneys, correct the urine, strengthen the stomach and relieve backache. Stripling, Haselwood & Co.

Once used it is afterward a household remedy. Oxidine at Stripling, Haselwood & Co. tf

MR. R. M. PACE WITH THE DEAD

Mr. R. M. Pace, a well-known and much beloved old gentleman of this county, passed away Saturday morning at his home in the Needmore community. He was taken suddenly ill and only lived a short time until the Grim Reaper of Death called him to the land beyond.

Mr. Pace has lived in this county about seven years, coming to this state from Georgia. He is survived by a wife and six children: three sons, all single and at home, and three daughters, Mrs. Nona Ohr of Waxahachie, Texas; Mrs. Emma Conrad and Mrs. W. Brandon of this city. Interment was made at Appleby Sunday in the presence of sorrowing friends and relatives.

The Sentinel joins the many friends in extending condolence to the bereaved.

SAD DEATH AT LIBERTY.

News has been received in the city that Miss Jettie Burt, the 15-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Burt of the Libby community, died with a congestive chill yesterday.

The funeral will occur at 3 o'clock this afternoon with interment in the cemetery at Libby.

The young lady is said to have been a very bright, sweet girl, who was loved and admired by all who knew her and her untimely death has cast a pall of gloom over the entire community.

The Burt family belongs to the best people of the county, and have a host of friends with whom The Sentinel joins in sympathy.

Why not try Oxidine at Stripling, Haselwood & Co.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Garrison of Port Arthur were in the city yesterday afternoon en route to the Arlam community, in Rusk county, where they were going to visit the gentleman's mother. They made this office a pleasant call while here, and, like all who invade the sanctum of the busy printing office The Sentinel now is, caught the inspiration and joined the paper's large family of readers. Mr. Garrison holds a good position in Port Arthur, and like all ambitious young men who go out from this section of East Texas, is making good.

DISTINGUISHED VISITORS IN THE CITY

From Friday's Daily: Messrs. L. D. Smith and W. B. Wortham, from the northern part of the county, were in the city today looking after some business interests and made The Sentinel a pleasant call while here.

Mr. Smith is one of the publishers of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram and one of the spiciest, brainiest and best known writers of the state. Some two years ago his health failed him, and in an effort to recuperate he found it necessary to suspend active work for awhile. This he could not do and stay in the vicinity of old haunts, and loving nature and the charms of rural life, he retired to a little farm in the vicinity of Fitz where he has been entertaining and employing himself with scientific agriculture—not for profit, but for the lessons nature offered the eager mind he possesses. He still does some newspaper work, and has been a great factor in the agricultural life of the community in which he is located, encouraging the people in better methods and more systematic work.

Mr. Wortham is a son of Col. Louis J. Wortham, a well-known statesman and publisher of the state. He, too, did not enjoy good health in the crowded city, his father fitted him up with a big farm and stocked it with good cattle and hogs where the young man is working out a system of scientific stock raising and agriculture that will ere long win for him a name with the prominent planters and stockmen of the state.

Mr. Smith is coming back to Nacogdoches and attend the meeting of the farmers in this city the latter part of this month, at which time our people will have opportunity to get better acquainted with him—and when they know him as we do they will find in him a prince as is also Mr. Wortham.

The only trouble with some of the peace propaganda that is being disseminated in this country is that it is likely to arouse a peaceful country to a state of belligerence against the propagandist.—Nashville Banner.

O. M. GIBBS.....Editor

President Wilson exhibited the character of the big man he is when he restored the postmaster who had been fired by the postmaster general for criticizing the President's matrimonial alliance. One of the most important "planks" of the constitution is the guarantee of a free press and free speech in matters of public concern.

With the return of prosperity to the country, and the good progress the city has been making in spite of all adverse circumstances, a revival of the commercial club and active campaign of development would do much to bring Nacogdoches into its own. We have the place and the resources; the logical course is to get them together.

The man who has been selected to fill this column with something that would get by has been suffering a stubborn attack of la grippe this week, preventing him from getting out much, as a result of which not much progress has been made in the building of a street car line from the depot up town—but the line will ultimately have to be built, and there is no use in the capitalists delaying the game.

Old Nacogdoches is so rich with historical lore, in which the blood of patriots was spilled to set up the grand and glorious republic of Texas, which subsequently developed into one of the greatest states of the Union, it is hard to get away from it. But, really, it should be written while we have men with us who have the information and should be gotten together in a book for future generations.

This would be mighty pretty weather to work on a street car line from the depot up town—but up to date we have not been able to get anybody to tackle the job. It is one of the weaknesses of human nature that people will not take an editor seriously when he first finds a good proposition, but they usually come around to it if the aforesaid editor has the perseverance to stay with them. We are after you and you had as well come across.

The Lufkin News louts: "The average Lufkin citizen is so enamored of his town that he would be content to remain here if he knew he was never to receive anything else but his mail." We knew there was something the matter with those good people, and we hope they will not have any more fires. We also hope that the trains will continue to stop in Lufkin so the people can be assured of getting their mail.

If we had anything to do with the management of the affairs of the United States government we would not turn Huerta over to Carranza for trial for the murder of Madero. Old Huerta deserves the severest punishment of the law, and should be made to pay the penalty, but Carranza has exhibited the same traits of character and would have committed the same offense with a similar opportunity.

Newspapers get "unloaded" on sometimes—and sometimes they "unload" on the other fellow. We have to make deductions as to authenticity of reports sometimes, and sometimes the deductions will not stand up when measured in the scale of veracity, but it is the ambition of every worthy newspaper man to publish only the truth in all matters and very few of them will fully give space to a misrepresentation in the most simple detail.

FORM LOCAL MARKETING ASSOCIATIONS.

Organized marketing must take the place of unwise and suicidal competitive individual selling on congested local markets before we can reasonably hope to obtain a fair share of the wealth which we are creating on our farms. It is folly to contend that co-operative marketing is impracticable in the face of the many living examples in localities where marketing associations are doubling the profits of co-operative members. It is true that it is no easy task to successfully organize and manage a selling association, but the very fact that it requires patient and persistent effort makes it all the more profitable for those who stay by it during the formative and experimental period of its existence.

In this connection, let us again sound warning against big schemes of co-operation in which it is proposed to include every farmer in the whole neighborhood or county. Successful co-operation never begins that way. Building the co-operative structure on the presumption or theory that 500 farmers, even 100 farmers, are surely going to fall right in line as loyal co-operators is like counting chickens before they are hatched. It is this unwise presumption that dooms many co-operative ventures to disappointment and failure.

The best co-operative marketing associations have started with small groups of men and have gradually enlarged the field of operation as the men in charge acquired experience and became worthy of confidence. In view of this condition, why lose time dreaming of some big co-operative scheme? If you can't co-operate first with a small group of farmers in your own neighborhood with whom you are personally acquainted, how can you expect to co-operate, in a big scheme, with farmers that you do not know?

RECIPROCITY AT HOME.

Nothing is so conducive to progress, thrift, and individual success and prosperity in a community as co-operation, harmony and good feeling between that most important element of its citizenship, its Business Men. Of course, there must always be a lively, earnest competition between business men in the same lines of trade. But there need not be and there should not be any ill-feeling, "knocking," and the harboring of small prejudices, based oftentimes upon small and trifling things too little for a business man of any size and weight to carry around with him and into his business relations.

We are fortunate, as business men and citizens, to live and move and have our being in one of the finest and best towns—we will not say: in the Valley of Virginia, but, in the world! And we should be careful not to let "little things" creep in between us and create bad blood and ill-feeling and that lack of friendliness and cordiality which is the bane of life. Individual business success does not lie that way.

This editor has many faults, but we have always been thankful that we do no harbor malice. Life is too short and that sort of thing brings nothing to any man. We, as a community of business men, should be loyal and true, and friendly and appreciative of the friendship of each other. It will not only make us happier and more content, but even in a monetary sense, "it pays." Of course, few men in public life can steer so straight that "somebody" will not take offense at something, but in such cases, if we go about it in the right way, it need not become a burden to carry around with us. The man who is always looking for trouble will find plenty of it and he, himself, will become an eyesore and a man to be shunned and let alone.—From Valley Virginian, Waynesboro, Va.

JUST PEOPLE—THAT'S ALL.

Did you ever step aside from the busy throng at the depot or some other public place and study the characters as they passed?

Here is a man of all the pomp and splendor of a royal prince, his form enveloped in the finest weave; with features as soft and clear as the driven snow.

Here a lady gowned in the most expensive fabric and bejeweled with many rare and precious stones.

And then a man clad—well, just slightly clad, with countenance that revealed a noble heart within, but with features that displayed the marks of many tempests.

And then a woman—a simple old woman, not gowned, but dressed in a common plaid, with many tots toddling close beside her. Her face showed signs of many hardships and her brood beside were evidence of a duty well done.

Did you ask yourself as you studied them: "Who are these that I look upon?"

And then the reply came silently to you from out of immensity of space—"Behold! These are creatures of a like destiny: the work of an Infinite God."

ONE-YEAR RENTING SPELLS RUIN FOR LAND.

The most destructive of all methods of renting land is the common practice of letting land out to tenants at a fixed price per acre, or a fixed price for the tract of land as a whole, contracting for only one-year periods. The poor penniless, landless victim, goes on the place with no other incentive except to get as much out of the soil as possible the first year, because there is no certainty about his remaining on the place for more than one year. He, therefore, proceeds to "skin" that land. This process, repeated, soon leaves a mere skeleton of soil. And while the tenant is robbing the soil the time merchant, who furnishes the tenant with mules and supplies, is robbing the tenant. The merchant says the risk is so great that he is compelled to charge the tenant from 40 to 80 per cent on account of the perilous risk.

In fact, if interest on investment, taxes, depreciation of buildings, etc., are taken into account, the rents which the landlord receives under this method will on the average show a net loss.—The Progressive Farmer.

APPOINTED MEMBER OF BAR EXAMINERS

Hon. W. I. Davis has received notice of appointment by the court of civil appeals at Beaumont as a member of the bar examiners for this new district. The appointment came as a surprise to Mr. Davis and the news of same will be received with pleasure by his many friends here and over the county. In this connection the Champion would use the language of a distinguished judge of one of our higher courts, who, upon receiving notice of appointment by Gov. Hogg, wired the governor his congratulations on his selection. The many friends of Mr. Davis in this county will certainly congratulate the new court in selecting him as a member of their board of bar examiners.—Center Champion.

HISTORICAL REFLECTIONS BY COL. R. T. MILNER

The following bit of interesting historical reflections was written by Col. R. T. Milner for the Rusk County News:

One who has read something of the early history of Texas could not pass through much of the territory near the town of Nacogdoches without being reminded of those eventful times: of the days when the Spanish Friars came to plead with the Indians and to persuade them to accept a religion foreign to their wandering life, and which they never had any particular use for, because, when restrained from their loved haunts, as the priests endeavored to do, they pined, sickened and died.

It was a long time ago when the Spanish missionaries first came to the Nacogdoches country. It was several years before the birth of George Washington. A century before Abe Lincoln came into the world the patient followers of St. Francis were at Nacogdoches trying to teach the Redman the knowledge of the true God. At that time the word "Texas" had never been heard. The country belonged to Spain, and the Spaniards called it "New Philippines." Historians tell us that there lived in East Texas a tribe of Indians called Tejas, and that the Spanish form of that word is Texas. These missionaries were accompanied into the land of the savages by soldiers and quite a number of persons skilled in the arts of peace. They built missions which were protected by the soldiers. Yoakum tells us that "a small mission was established among the Nacogdoches Indians. Its location, at that time, was below the present site of the handsome town of Nacogdoches and near the junction of the Banita and Nana." This was in the year 1715. Historical research subsequent to the time that Yoakum wrote his splendid history of Texas reveals the fact that at least two missions were built in what is now Nacogdoches county, one at Nacogdoches as mentioned by Yoakum, one up the Agelina river fifteen or twenty miles, and a third one northeast of the latter, which would be near the Rusk county line, perhaps in Rusk county. These missions were evidently built of logs; since no sign or trace of them has ever been found by modern students of Texas history. The history of these early attempts to enlighten the Indians on the subject of Christianity would be interesting if it were possible to exhume it. About all we know is that the priests came, built missions, failed, and, after a half century or more, the missions were abandoned; and, insofar as their work in East Texas is known, it all passed away with them except the names of creeks and rivers which we, belonging to another race, have cherished from our earliest arrival until now, and in no instance have we desired to change a single one. And it was these names that caused me to meditate as I traveled over the country not many miles north of Garrison. "Goldondrina!" I had heard of it all my life, and though it is a Rusk county stream, I never saw it before. "Goldondrina!"

The names which these Spaniards gave to our streams are impressively significant. "Angelus" or Angelina; "Banita," "Nana," "Goldondrina" each signifies more than merely a name by which a thing is to be known. Goldondrina is a creek, (the creation of innumerable clear, sparkling springs that burst from the eastern slope of the famous sand-flat country southeast of Mt. Enterprise) and flows into the Attoyac, another historic creek which passes through Nacogdoches county and empties into the Anglina, though all of the Goldondrina is in Rusk county. It is a stream which, at any season of the year, attracts the attention of the traveler, and if he be a lover of natural scenery, he will either restrain his feelings or find himself in a state of rhapsody. The bottom which extends to a considerable width, after leaving the sand hills, is of a deep sandy loam, covered with many varieties of hard timber, including oak, ash, sugar maple, gum, beach, paw-paw and many others. The priests, no doubt, often left their missions and wandered over the country for miles around. The soldiers especially went out to gather up the Indians and corral them at the missions where their souls were treated in a manner becoming the age, and in this way the Spaniards became acquainted with the country and established its geography. When they came upon the Golondrina they were charmed with its beauty and immediately called it by one of the sweetest words in their language. The Golondrina is to the Spaniards what Dixie is to the Southerner.

But the scenery calculated to inspire nature's devotees is not confined to the Golondrina. Extending several miles to the north, including Lawsonville, is a land rich in everything that pleases the cultured eye or animates the soul. Not only is it a country abounding in an almost indescribable wealth of beauty, but its picturesque red hills and alluvial valleys are remarkable for their fertility, thus transforming the country during harvest time into a "perfumed Eden." The Indians naturally drifted into those sections of the country that offered the least resistance to an existence. In addition to a charming climate, the land of East Texas and a small area in and about San Antonio, furnished an abundance of game and good water, the strongest attractions to primitive man. And it was a natural consequence that where life's necessities abounded in the greatest profusion there also was found, in the largest degree, indolence and thriftlessness, thus rendering tribes so situated an easy prey to vicissitudes of uncivilized life, and exemplifying the truth of the inexorable law of the survival of the fittest.

UNIVERSITY AND A. & M. WILL PLAY FOOTBALL

College Station, Texas, Nov. 16.—The University of Texas will meet Texas A. & M. in football for the first time since 1911 at College Station on Nov. 19. This promises to be one of the best games of the year in the state, as each team has a good record to date, each team having lost one game. The entire student body of the university will be guests of the cadets on the day of the game and will be entertained by the corps while at College Station. Special trains will be run from Austin, Houston, Dallas, Fort Worth and Waco. Enthusiastic alumni, from all over the state, from both schools, are planning to attend the game in a body. Ample feeding and housing accommodations have been prepared at College, looking forward to the biggest football crowd of the year. Seats are on sale in all the cities from which special trains will be run, or may be secured by writing W. L. Driver, the director of athletics, College Station, Texas. The resumption of athletics between these two schools means something to every town in the state. There is scarcely a high school which is not represented at both institutions by one or more students.

A New York woman has invented a dining table for schools and institutions in the form of a ring, children being seated both inside and outside to save room.

DOCHES COUNTY MUTUAL BENEFIT ASSOCIATION

The Nacogdoches County Mutual Benefit association, a home insurance organization that has been doing business in the county several years in the way of a fraternal, beneficial and benevolent society, is arranging to reach out with its good work and extend its benefits to all eligible subjects of the county.

The officers of the association are: Judge J. F. Perritte, president; Hal Tucker, treasurer; Mrs. Dovie A. Rich, secretary; Alton Smith, J. F. Vonderman, A. G. Gatlin, W. A. Wade, Lake Orton, directors.

The terms are $3.50 membership fee at time of joining, and an assessment of $1.10 at death of a member. By this method, if there should be several months in which there would be no death there would be no assessment in this period of time. All persons residing in Nacogdoches county between the ages of 16 and 50 are eligible to membership.

The association has engaged W. H. Emmons to put on a campaign for new members and he will begin the work in the next day or two, pushing it for all it is worth until a thorough canvass of the county is made. Mr. Emmons has had much experience in the insurance and agency business and it is fortunate for the association that his services are available at this time.

The idea of the Nacogdoches County Benefit association is to furnish insurance to the people of Nacogdoches at first cost, eliminating the middleman's profit, maintenance of offices, salaried officers, clerks, etc., and if the people will band together in the enterprise and stick, it is the most economical insurance on the market.

WHY WE NEED THE STOCK LAW.

The stock law, or the law of enactment or custom which controls the livestock of any state or community, is the outgrowth of education which leads to better farming and better living.

The control of livestock does not necessarily mean the loss of the feed grown on the range but it does of necessity protect the livestock from disease and the crops of the industrious and intelligent farmer from destruction by worthless scrub stock which the owner allows to run at large to consume feed which does not belong to him.

The so-called stock-law should not mean less fences, but it should and does mean more and better livestock. It also means forest preservation and reforestation of our cut-over ranges which produce only enough grass to support miserably a few scrubs, but might if protected grow a profitable crop of timber.—The Progressive Farmer.

LOOK IN THE GLASS.

If you feel grouchy and out of sorts and the world seems warped and twisted from all viewpoints, look in the glass. Your own reflection will set you thinking and wondering if perhaps it is not you instead of the world that is warped.

When something goes wrong and you feel like cussing or kicking the cat there is nothing quite so efficacious as looking in a glass. You see yourself as you are and not as perhaps you think you are. All of your hard lines and your ill humor are reflected by the faithful glass, and the moment a fleeting smile begins to creep over your face the glass will magnify it and glorify it until in but a short time you will be forgetting entirely your ill humor and will be smiling from the pure joy of living.

Look in the glass.—Bro Banner.

LOGANSPOUT DRILLING FOR OIL AND GAS

We are informed that the drillers of well No. 1 for the local oil company have reached a depth of over 400 feet, and that 10-inch casing is being laid as progress is made and all things point to an early realization of the strong hope for oil.

The work is being pushed night and day, and all hands engaged in the drilling are kept busily at the wheel, and it is only a question of time now until the desired results will be obtained.

Again we urge those who have not taken stock to get it "now" while the "getting is good," for before long it will be that same old, old story, "too late, too late!" —Logansport Record.

DEMOCRATS TO MEET SOON AT THE CAPITAL

Washington, Nov. 17.—Democratic members of the ways and means committee, it was announced today, will meet here Nov. 29 to take up the organization of the new house of representatives.

The committee will have its recommendations, including the chairmanships of principal committees, ready when the Democratic caucus meets Dec. 4, two days before the opening of congress.

NEGRO EDUCATOR DIES AT HOME IN TUSKEGEE

Tuskegee, Ala., Nov. 14.—Booker T. Washington, the noted negro educator and founder of Tuskegee Institute, died of a nervous breakdown early today at his home here, four hours after his arrival from New York.

The negro leader had been in failing health for several months but his condition became serious only last week when he was in the East. He realized that the end was near, but was determined to make the long trip South to bear out his oft-expressed statement that he had been "born in the South, have lived all my life in the South and expect to die and be buried in the South."

He reached his home last midnight and died at 4:40 o'clock this morning. Specialists who had examined Washington said he was suffering from nervous breakdown and hardening of the arteries.

He is survived by his widow, three children and four grandchildren.

His brother, John H. Washington, is superintendent of industries at Tuskegee Institute.

The funeral will be held at Tuskegee Institute Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock.

COMING SHOWER

A ribbon and hose shower for Buckner's Orphan Home will be held in the basement of the Baptist church next Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Everybody interested in orphans, regardless of denomination, is invited to come and bring some ribbon or hose.

It is hoped that a pair of hose for every child in the Home will be contributed, and ribbon for each girl to have a piece for her hair. There are over six hundred children in the Home. Come. A Thanksgiving program and refreshments.

Mr. D. Rulfs has returned from a visit to his daughter, Mrs. J. C. Neyland, at Shreveport and his son, Tony Rulfs, at Houston. The many friends of Tony in the city will be pleased to learn that he has recently been promoted to the head of the sales department of the Texas Sales Co., with headquarters at Houston, quite a big promotion, and giving him a very fine position in the realms of big business. Previous to this promotion he held a position with the company at Dallas and applied himself so closely, demonstrating such good fidelity to the interests of his employes and ability to handle the position that he was given the better position.

Mr. Rulfs says that he also saw Oscar Crain, who holds a position with the same company, while in Houston and that he, too, is getting along nicely.

BOYS AND CIGARETTES.

It is possible that the refusal of merchants, manufacturers and professional men to employ boys addicted to the cigarette habit will do more to check the evil than all the laws ever passed or planned. When a boy knows that his future chance to earn a livelihood depends on his quitting the ill-smelling cigarette, the knowledge will doubtless have more effect on him than a dozen parents' or demagogues' lectures on the subject. The beauty of the thing is that no manner of deceit will avail, for the cigarette-smoking boy carries the literal sign-manual of his vice on his fingers. A Chicago boy confessed that, out of ten places to which he had applied for work, the head of not one had neglected to ask him if he smoked cigarettes. In a number of instances he was made to show his forefingers. Few people will be sorry even if the action of the employers result in cutting off some of the profit of the Cigarette Trust. The dividend paid in brain, body and muscle will more than compensate the community. —Exchange.

INEFFICIENCY OF SLANG.

To those timorous lovers of English undefiled who have trembled for the purity of our somewhat cosmopolitan speech the recent remarks on slang by Prof. Thomas A. Knott of the University of Chicago should be particularly soothing. Professor Knott does not view with any alarm whatsoever the threatening invasion of the English language by slang terms. Very justly he remarks that slang is merely the evidence of growth of a language, and that is therefore a sign of healthful vigor.

He might have gone further and pointed out the ephemeral nature of slang, which is usable only when fresh. Old slang is as distasteful as a cold fried egg. Slang must be served hot. Most of it, in fact, is thieves' patter or sport parlance lifted for a moment into polite society. As a slang word becomes generally popular it loses its distinction among its former admirers and is at once "old stuff," to be replaced by newer coinage. And so it goes. The great body of the language is a tree; slang is the mushroom growth at its foot that indicates a tree is old.

One slang term, with a thousand, perhaps, through some special merit possessed by it, becomes incorporated in the language. Language is largely composed of such happy coinage. Today the slang of ancient Greece and Rome queens it in our dictionaries and in our best literature, staring haughtily out at the vulgar upstart slang of yesterday. But the latter may be the politer speech of the twenty-first century. —Chicago News.

HON. MARTIN DIES OFF FOR WASHINGTON

Beaumont, Texas, Nov. 12.—Congressman Martin Dies left last night for Washington. "There is no use talking of appropriating more money for increasing the size of the standing army," he said, "because the army cannot now be recruited to the strength authorized. Men won't join in great numbers on account of the little pay the enlisted man receives. The army can't be made big without paying fancy prices to the soldiers or conscription. I oppose both plans. I favor the strengthening of our coast defense and improving of the navy."

WHO NEEDS IT WORSE?

Who needs a thorough course of Farm Bookkeeping and Business Training worse than the farmer? No one. That is just why the Tyler Commercial College gives, in connection with its course of Bookkeeping and Business Training, without extra charge, a series of lectures on systematic farming and a set of books especially adapted to farm accounting. The farmer who, at the close of each day's work, makes a complete record of everything done during the day, its cost, etc., is learning to study the details of the business, to watch and observe the little things, and he is compiling valuable information for reference, and at the end of the year, he knows just what each crop has cost him; where his gain and losses come from, and by his close study and application he will, the next year, lessen the losses and increase the gain. The farm needs the trained mind as badly as the store or the railroad office. The farmer needs to be able to write a good hand, to spell correctly, to figure rapidly and accurately, to know how to write deeds, or to know when they are properly written; to write mortgages, notes, contracts, bills of sale, etc. We would advise our young men who are farming or who expect to farm to give this matter careful consideration. We also give a thorough course in the classing and marking of cotton, a subject of vital importance to our young men. The Tyler Commercial College has had many a young man to take the business course with the sole aim of going back to the farm and making the best farmer in the community, and a leader in all progressive movements.

Write for catalogue, to the only commercial school in this country that is devoting any attention whatever to this subject, mentioning you are interested in Farm Accounting or Cotton Classing. The Tyler Commercial College of Tyler, Texas.

HUNTER KILLED BY ACCIDENT ON HUNT

Fort Worth, Texas, Nov. 15.—E. R. Jennings, 615 East Third street, retired traveling salesman and Fort Worth resident for more than twenty-five years, was fatally wounded by the accidental discharge of his shotgun Saturday morning near the Ten-Mile bridge, upper Lake Worth.

Jennings was hunting in company with Geo. Allen, captain of No. 1 fire hall, C. B. Crown and Charles Aldridge. The gun went off as he arose to shoot and the charge struck him in the head.

SOME GOOD STREET WORK.

Pat Murphey, the street commissioner, is being congratulated for some fine work he has recently done on Orton hill.

This has been a hard piece of road to keep in repair and has been out of repair most of the time in consequence, but it is in fine shape now, built up in a way that the repair will be very durable and hold out better.

OLD SAN ANTONIO ROAD.

Editor Sentinel:

I have been more or less interested in the present survey that is being made of the old San Antonio road, and I have noted with interest many statements that have appeared in various newspapers in regard to the old-time highway. To get at the point right off without useless palaver, I am sure that the money expended by the state of Texas in marking the old San Antonio road, as it is being marked, is just that much money thrown away. I say this because, as I understand it, some kind of sign is being placed every five miles along the route and every one of these signs are on the road as it now stands. Of course, the people who are marking the road are not to blame. They are merely making the trip, having a good time and taking the hearsay of the oldest people in each locality as to where the old road ran.

About the biggest error I have ever seen concerning the old San Antonio road was published in the Daily Texarkanian of Texarkana, Ark., a few days ago, during the meeting of the Daughters of the Republic, and was purported to have been the substance of a paper read by Mrs. Lipscomb Norvell of Beaumont. The following stand out particularly glaring:

1. She says the old San Antonio road extended from Natchez, Mis., to San Antonio, Tex.

All historians concur in the statement that the old San Antonio road extended from Natchitoches on Red river to San Juan de Bautista, on the southern bank of the Rio Grande de Norte, in Mexico. They further concur in the statement that the road or trail was hacked or blazed by Juchereau (not Jacharan) de St. Denis in the year 1714. St. Denis, with fourteen companions, made the trip across the country at the instance of Anthony Crozat, a distinguished French trader, to whom had been granted extensive as well as exclusive trading privileges by Carondelet, the French governor of Louisiana territory. Bear in mind that this was the original Louisiana territory and not that which came to the United States by the treaty of 1803 by the purchase of Jefferson.

This territory was the collateral upon which was founded or grounded the famous scheme of John Law and known as the Mississippi Bubble. When the bubble exploded Carondelet made a grant of the trading privileges to his friend Crozat. All right. In order to open up a trade with the silver mines of Mexico, Crozat sent St. Denis across what afterwards came to be known as Texas. The destination of St. Denis was Monclova. As St. Denis passed along through the trackless wilderness he hacked the trees so as to be able to find his way back. Arriving at the hospitable village of San Juan de Bautista the gay Frenchman and his companions decided to rest a few days. But instead of resting St. Denis fell in love with Donna Marie Villesecas, a daughter of the commandante. He forgot that he had even been sent to Mexico by Crozat, so interested was he in the pleasant game of making love. But Donna Marie had another lover in the person of the Viceroy at Monclova. St. Denis offered his heart and hand to Donna Marie and she probably accepted it, but just about that time the viceroy appeared on the scene, had St. Denis arrested and placed in a dungeon at Monclova. However, he promised to release St. Denis, so the story goes, if he would give up his attentions to Donna Marie and return to Louisiana. St. Denis refused to promise and a night or so later was liberated by the Donna Marie, whom he married and the twain, on horseback, after many privations and sufferings, made their way across Texas to Natchitoches, over the very trail that had been hacked by St. Denis only a few months previous.

OLDER BUT STRONGER

To be healthy at seventy, prepare at forty, is sound advice, because in the strength of middle life we too often forget that neglected colds, or careless treatment of slight aches and pains, simply undermine strength and bring chronic weakness for later years.

To be stronger when older, keep your blood pure and rich and active with the strength-building and blood-nourishing properties of Scott's Emulsion which is a food, a tonic and a medicine to keep your blood rich, alleviate rheumatism and avoid sickness. No alcohol in Scott's.

St. Denis was, a few years later, killed in a battle with the Natchez Indians. A few years ago while the writer was collecting various historical data he visited Natchitoches and found, among other important localities, the exact burial place of St. Denis, and where do you suppose it was? Under the big brick building now occupied by the Natchitoches Drug Co.; also the burial place of Manuelid Marie Villesecas St. Denis, the heroic wife of the Frenchman who left her people in Mexico and cast her fortunes with the man who laid out the old San Antonio road. The old San Antonio road or King's highway started at Natchitoches and ended at San Juan de Bautista. The idea that it started at Natchez is entirely erroneous.

2. Mrs. Norvell asserts that the windings of the old San Antonio road was determined by the location of Indian villages.

The map shows that the road ran almost due northeast and southwest regardless of hills, streams or bad location, and history says St. Denis laid it out by the compass. Take Nacogdoches county, for instance, and trace the road from the town of Nacogdoches to the Attoyac river. It runs squarely over every steep hill on the route and makes no detour whatever. After Spain had become suspicious that the visit of St. Denis to Mexico had some other object in view rather than trading in silver, in Mexico the old missions were established by the Spanish government in a chain reaching from the Rio Grande to the vicinity of Natchitoches, the last and nearest to Natchitoches being Adeas, not far from where the town of Many, La., now stands. However, Adeas never was the capital of the province as Mrs. Norvell states.

Again, Commandant Don Mier y Teran never saw the King's highway or old San Antonio road from the fact that he lived and acted in an entirely different locality. There were and are two Texas mission periods. When Chevelier de la Salle landed on Matagorda bay in 1682 and established Fort St. Louis, the Spaniards in Mexico heard of it from straggling Indians and forthwith sent out three different expeditions to locate the Frenchmen and destroy them. In the meantime, however, La Salle, trying to reach De Tonti, on the Illinois river, was assassinated somewhere in the neighborhood of what is now Rockland, Texas, and his companions of Fort St. Louis were either murdered or dispersed by the Carancahua Indians.

Teran commanded the last of these expeditions and while still searching for Frenchmen, which he believed had escaped into the interior he traveled far northward and on the Neches river, about five miles above where Rockland now stands, he built a fort and established a mission. Priests were left there but the place was so desolate that they abandoned it and returned to Mexico. History states that the priests took the bells from the belfry and buried them to prevent their being found by the Indians. Between the end of the first mission period and the beginning of the second there followed a hiatus of about thirty years. Old Fort Teran was about forty miles south of the town of Nacogdoches.

Of course, there is a whole lot of gushing sentiment attached to most that is written about the old San Antonio road and about how it used to be the trail of cavaliers, knights, freebooters and what-not. Previous to the coming of St. Denis there was not a house of any kind between Natchitoches and San Juan Bautista. San Antonio was still in the future and Nacogdoches was not even in imagination. Various historians have wrestled with the problem of just when Nacogdoches was first settled. Not one has been able to go beyond the year 1778, when Senior Gil y Barbo built the old Stone Fort, which formed the nucleus around which the future village was built. Twenty-five years later Sir Robert Barr and Samuel Davenport, the very first Anglo-Americans settled in the town.

If the old trail is to be marked it should be marked so even a novice could trace it from end to end and the only way to do this would be to put down steel rods every hundred or so yards on the exact line that it used to follow, be that through fields, orchards, towns, yards or anywhere.

When Philip J. Nolan came to Texas to catch wild horses in 1797 he did not come by way of the old San Antonio road, but traveled due west from Natchez by way of the Walnut Hills and entered Texas about where Texarkana now stands.

For Sick Headache, Sour Stomach, Sluggish Liver and Bowels—They work while you sleep.

Furred Tongue, Bad Taste, Indigestion, Sallow Skin and Miserable Headaches come from a torpid liver and clogged bowels, which cause your stomach to become filled with undigested food, which sours and ferments like garbage in a swill barrel. That's the first step to untold misery—indigestion, foul gases, bad breath, yellow skin, mental fears, everything that is horrible and nauseating. A Cascaret tonight will give your constipated bowels a thorough cleansing and straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep—a 10-cent box from your druggist will keep you feeling good for months.

SOME MORE ABOUT THE KING'S HIGHWAY

A citizen of this city is in receipt of a letter from Peyton T. Edwards, a former old-time citizen of this community who is now making his home in El Paso, in which he makes some interesting observations about the old King's highway, about which there has been much discussion lately.

The letter is as follows:

"I see in looking over Nacogdoches papers of week before last that the engineer who is locating the King's highway has been through the town of Nacogdoches. I do not believe there is a person now living who is as familiar with a small part of that highway (that is, that on the eastern edge of the town of Nacogdoches) as I am, and as it was pointed out to me by my father and others. It passed in front and on the south of the old Stone Fort and ran from there down Main street and about opposite where the line between the old Raguet place and the lot right south of it, upon which Miss Nelson lived, struck the street. There it diverged a little to the north and passed through the Clark place and through the Edwards place just north of the building occupied by myself and Major Arnold, in a direction a little north of east, and diverged a little more northerly and ran right south of the Holy spring, which is the spring back of the graveyard, now right on the bank of the La Nana creek; crossed the creek right opposite this spring and went up, diverging a little; then southerly by the big spring on the old Orton place, and I do not now remember whether from the spring eastward it passed to the north or south of the location of the old Orton house.

"So much of the road as lay on the east side of the creek is shown on maps in the surveyor's office, for it was the boundary line of a grant, the name of which I do not now remember, and along in the seventies R. D. Orton located a certificate on the south side of this grant line, taking in the portion of the land claimed by his mother. This location will give you pretty accurately the line of the highway at that point. I can remember when the marks of the old ford at the Holy spring were still there, but the soft yellow stone has since been entirely washed away.

"I thought I had better write you this, so that you can furnish it to the engineer because I doubt whether there is anyone living to whom that road has been pointed out between the old Stone Fort and the creek.

"When I say the highway passed through the Edwards place, I mean after my father purchased the place north of him. When I was a little boy there was a residence known as the Pollard place north of my father's, and a street running down between my father's place and this Pollard place to my father's lot. On the Pollard place was an old tan yard. When I was a small boy my father bought the Pollard place and included it in his homestead.

"Trusting that you are well and prosperous, I am,
"Very truly yours,
"PEYTON F. EDWARDS."

Alexander Hamilton—"Father of American Credit"

DANIEL WEBSTER says of Hamilton: "He smote the rock of National resources and abundant streams of revenue gushed forth; he touched the dead corpse of public credit and it sprang upon its feet." No man did more to build the Constitution of the United States than did Hamilton. He took a prominent part in every debate, and worked indefatigably on all the important committees. His genius, individuality and daring foresight are indelibly stamped upon every clause of our National Law—the law under which Americans are guaranteed for all time Religious, Commercial and Personal Liberty. During Hamilton's lifetime he used his great influence to encourage and protect the brewing industry. Among all the Fathers of the Republic none knew better than he that honestly-brewed barley-malt beers make for true temperance. This American Colossus, who was second only to Washington in the service rendered to his country, drank good beer all his days. We know of no one who has yet dared declare that in him in any way. Under the tenets of the Constitution, which Hamilton did so much to make a fact, Anheuser-Busch 58 years ago launched their great institution. During these years they have honestly brewed honest beer. To-day 7500 people are daily required to meet the public demand. Their famous brand BUDWEISER, because of its quality, purity, mildness and exquisite flavor, exceeds the sale of any other beer by millions of bottles.

CALOMEL DYNAMITES YOUR LIVER! MAKES YOU SICK AND SALIVATES

"Dodson's Liver Tone" Starts Your Liver Better Than Calomel and You Don't Lose a Day's Work

Live up your sluggish liver! Feel fine and cheerful; make your work a pleasure; be vigorous and full of ambition. But take no nasty, dangerous calomel because it makes you sick and you may lose a day's work.

Calomel is mercury or quicksilver which causes necrosis of the bones. Calomel crashes into your bile like dynamite, breaking it up. That's when you feel that awful nausea and cramping.

Listen to me! If you want to enjoy the sweet, gentlest liver and bowel cleansing you ever experienced just take a spoonful of harmless Dodson's Liver Tone tonight. Your druggist or dealer sells you a 50-cent bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone under my personal money-back guarantee that each spoonful will clean your sluggish liver better than a dose of nasty calomel and that it won't make you sick.

Dodson's Liver Tone is real liver medicine. You'll know it next morning because you will wake up feeling fine, your liver will be working; headache and dizziness gone; stomach will be sweet and bowels regular.

Dodson's Liver Tone is entirely vegetable, therefore harmless and can't salivate. Give it to your children. Millions of people are using Dodson's Liver Tone instead of dangerous calomel now. Your druggist will tell you that the sale of Calomel is almost stopped entirely here.

THE FAILURES.

We were busy making money
In the world's great game;
We were "gathering the honey"
When the vision came.
We greeted it with laughter,
Though we frowned upon
"The fools" who followed after,
When the dream had gone!

Oh, we were dancy schemers,
So we sold and bought;
And jeered the silly dreamers,
And the dream they sought.
We gave but fleeting glances
To that "hare-brained crew,"
For we took no stock in fancies—
Till the dream came true!

So much had gold imbued us,
So had greed been nursed,
We'd let the Best elude us,
And we'd kept the Worst;
We long to "do it over,"
But we cannot try,
For every dream's a rover
And our dream's gone by!

MISHAP ATTENDS THE EXECUTION OF MYERS.

Fort Worth, Texas, Nov. 10.—C. A. Montaigne, today paid the death penalty in one of the ghastliest executions ever witnessed by people in this city. When the trap was sprung the force of Myers' weight caused the trunk and head to part, leaving the head suspended in the noose of the rope. The trunk struck the floor below.

The drop was about only five feet, it was stated by the jailor, but when the trap was sprung and Myers reached the end of the rope, his body continued to fall until it struck the floor, twelve feet below, and his head encased in the black cap, remained suspended in the noose.

Blood spurted in all directions, splattering the walls and formed a large pool on the floor. The physicians quickly pronounced Myers dead and the body was removed by an undertaker a few minutes later. Sickened by the sight of so much blood, the crowd, which filled the corridors of the jail, made its way out as rapidly as possible to the open air.

27 AMERICANS LOST IN ANCONA DISASTER

Liner Torpedoed and Sunk by Austrian Submarine While in Mediterranean.

Rome, Nov. 10.—How many persons lost their lives in the sinking of the Italian liner Ancona by a submarine in the Mediterranean has not been definitely ascertained but latest advices from Naples say that 320 survivors have been landed at Tunis Ports and fifty at Malta. The number of passengers on the Ancona was placed at 482 and the crew has been estimated variously from sixty to 160. From 172 to 272 persons, therefore, are unaccounted for. It is feared that twenty-seven Americans lost their lives. They are among the missing.

The Ancona carried boats for the accommodation of 2,500 and it is possible that some of the boats are still afloat and may bring in additional survivors in the next twenty-four hours.

The Ancona was torpedoed on Tuesday morning and a Tunis dispatch to the Giornale d'Italia gives a dramatic though brief account of the attack.

"A submarine approached the Ancona towards noon," says this account, "and as soon as the steamer saw it an attempt was made to escape at full speed. The Ancona was overtaken and stopped. Then the submarine fired on the Ancona, sinking her amid the desperate cries of the passengers."

"The life boats were next attacked, the submarine likewise firing on them. A woman, a man and two children were killed; their bodies are at Bizerta."

"The submarine then disappeared immediately proceeding probably in the direction of the Aegean sea."

PHYSICIANS WILL MEET AT ATLANTA

Dallas, Texas, Nov. 11.—Atlanta was today selected for the 1916 meeting of the Southern Medical association.

Dr. Robert Wilson, Jr., of Charleston, S. C., was elected president of the association. Recommendations were adopted to petition the President of the United States and the secretary of war for a sufficient medical force in the proposed increase of the army for national defense.

WOMEN'S GIFT INCREASED.

Oakland, Cal., Nov. 12.—The woman's board of home missions was recognized today for the first time in the deliberations of the board of home missions and church extensions of the Methodist Episcopal church, now holding its annual meeting here.

Mrs. B. B. Street of Washington, D. C., was spokesman for the women delegates.

The woman's board, she said, had raised $842,652 during the last year, an increase of $22,406 over the previous year. Of this amount she explained $50,000 in cash supplies had been contributed to frontier pastors.

NEGRO WAS KILLED BY LUFKIN OFFICER

Officer Shoots When Negro Makes Threatening Move to Hip Pocket.

From the Lufkin News we learn that Henry Boon, a negro brakeman of the E. & W., was killed by Ira Hill, a prominent young restaurant man and deputy sheriff of Lufkin, Wednesday night.

The report says the negro was drunk and was trying to "paint up" the town when the officer attempted to restrain him. Instead of submitting to legal interference in his hilarious career, he abused the officer, at the same time making a hip-pocket play, when the officer shot him.

The officer was placed under a nominal bond pending further investigation.

PUBLIC SERVICE RATES IN TEXAS CITIES.

Austin, Texas, Nov. 10.—Who has not wondered, when paying his water bill, or for electric lights or gas, whether or not the corporation or municipality selling him this commodity was selling it up on a reasonable basis. He has even thought of writing to other cities similarly situated to find out what the rates were there. This is almost a universal experience of the Texas householders, and it was to meet this longfelt want that the Bureau of Municipal Research of the University of Texas prepared and published its 140 page bulletin entitled "Public Service Rates in Texas Cities."

Here listed in alphabetical order are over a hundred plants of Texas, with complete data regarding the rates charged for water, sewerage, electric light and power, gas, telephone, and street railway service.

"The bulletin," says the compiler, Edward T. Payton, "is purely informational. No attempt is made to comment on any of the rates it lists. Furthermore its users are reminded that the equity of public utility rates cannot be judged solely from comparative tables. The possession of the facts set forth in the bulletin, however, is the essential first step in any intelligent consideration of Texas' public service problems."

Anyone desiring to find out the status of his home town compared with sister municipalities in Texas, in the matter of public service rates, would do well to write the Bureau of Municipal Research, University of Texas, Austin, Texas, for a free copy of this important and authoritative work.

RICH AMERICANS AND GEMRAN DIPLOMATS

Involved in Bomb Plots—"Higher-Ups" to Be Exposed Soon.

New York, Nov. 13.—The inner workings of the gigantic arson and bomb plots will be exposed to the public gaze as soon as President Wilson gives the word.

United States Attorney H. Snowden Marshall and William J. Flynn, chief of the secret service, hurried to Washington today. Their mission, it was learned on the highest authority, was to inform Secretary of State Lansing, Attorney General Gregory and other advisers of the President:

First, that they know the men "higher up" in the anti-allies conspiracies hatched on American soil.

Second, that a mass of evidence has been accumulated against these men.

Third, that the evidence is in shape to present to a special grand jury with convictions almost a certainty.

If the President gives the word to proceed it is considered certain that not less than three (perhaps a dozen) diplomatic representatives of foreign governments can be criminally involved.

PROHIBITIONISTS WIN IN BEL COUNTY BY 509

Drys Oust Saloons Despite Ferguson's Campaign for the Antis.

Temple, Texas, Nov. 13.—Bell county, Gov. Ferguson's home district, went dry tonight by a majority of 509, the vote being 3,394 pro and 2,901 anti. At 10 o'clock the pro count showed a majority of 505, which was later augmented by the addition of four more ballots. This election closed one of the most bitter prohibition campaigns ever waged in the history of the state. Gov. Ferguson, it is conceded, did much to overcome what appeared to be in the beginning an overwhelming prohibition majority.

Six boxes in Temple gave an anti majority of 21 in a total vote of 1,527. Ward 1, the home box of Gov. Ferguson, showed an anti majority of 25.

Peanut prosperity is something quite different from peanut politics. For example, "It is estimated that the peanut crop of Comanche county will exceed 1,000,000 bushels." The prevailing price is 60 cents in bulk. Comanche check books are busy paying for every bushel brought in. Let's see. It requires 13 months to make a cotton crop. At that rate the little Spanish peanut has been creating wealth for Comanche county at the rate of $120,000 a month for five solid months. And making very little fuss about it, too. Talk about prosperity—this Comanche county peanut crop is buried treasure ready to be turned up by the plow. Other peanut growing counties please report.—Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

THICK, GLOSSY HAIR FREE FROM DANDRUFF

Girls! Try it! Hair gets soft, fluffy and beautiful—Get a 25 cent bottle of Danderine.

If you care for heavy hair that glistens with beauty and is radiant with life; has an incomparable softness and is fluffy and lustrous, try Danderine. Just one application doubles the beauty of your hair, besides it immediately dissolves every particle of dandruff. You can not have heavy, healthy hair if you have dandruff. This destructive scurf robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life, and if not overcome it produces a feverishness and itching of the scalp; the hair roots flamb, loosen and die; then the hair falls out fast. Surely get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store and just try it.

You Need a Tonic

There are times in every woman's life when she needs a tonic to help her over the hard places. When that time comes to you, you know what tonic to take—Cardui, the woman's tonic. Cardui is composed of purely vegetable ingredients, which act gently, yet surely, on the weakened womanly organs, and helps build them back to strength and health. It has benefited thousands and thousands of weak, ailing women in its past half century of wonderful success, and it will do the same for you. You can't make a mistake in taking

GARDUI

The Woman's Tonic

Miss Amelia Wilson, R. F. D. No. 4, Alma, Ark., says: "I think Cardui is the greatest medicine on earth, for women. Before I began to take Cardui, I was so weak and nervous, and had such awful dizzy spells and a poor appetite. Now I feel as well and as strong as I ever did, and can eat most anything." Begin taking Cardui today. Sold by all dealers.

WIRELESS TELEPHONE ACHIEVEMENTS

Reports received by the local manager of the Southwestern Telegraph and Telephone Co. describe the experiment by which Secretary of the Navy Daniels communicated his first official order by wireless telephone to Admiral N. R. Usher at the Brooklyn navy yard.

The words passed from the ordinary bell telephone on the secretary's desk over the wires to the wireless tower at Arlington, thence to New York by wireless and then by wire again to the admiral. All of this was automatically accomplished by the recently developed apparatus of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. "This foreshadows the time when the secretary of the navy may hold conversations with commanders of ships at sea just as he would with members of his personal family at home" explains manager.

"But that is not all. Before long you will be reading of the words of those on sinking ships as they cry into the thin air for the help which may and may not be forthcoming." "When Jack Binns called help for the Republic we thought the last miracle of science had been worked. Now think how it will be when the actual tones of the voice will come to us through the ether and answers may be given as the cries go forth. Orders may be issued in full appreciation for all conditions, and what was accomplished when the Republic bank will seem small in comparison as modern means are applied to the conditions of dire emergency."

GARRISON EDITOR WAS BRUISED UP

From Saturday's Daily: News has been received in the city that R. B. Walthall, editor of the Garrison News, and Bob Griffin, son of Mart Graffin, a well-known citizen of the community, had an altercation at Garrison yesterday, in which Mr. Walthall was pretty badly bruised up about the head and shoulders, necessitating the service of a physician to dress his wounds.

Both men and their families have many friends over the county who trust that Mr. Walthall's injuries may not prove serious, and that peace may be restored with them.

A PRETTY WEDDING.

From Friday's Daily:

An immense crowd of loving friends and acquaintances witnessed a most interesting wedding Thursday evening at 8 o'clock at Christ church, when Mr. Eldridge Gregg of Rusk led to the altar Miss Helena Matthews, daughter of Mayor and Mrs. Geo. H. Matthews of this city, Rev. Chas. D. Atwell performing the ceremony.

The color scheme of the wedding was green and yellow and ferns and evergreens, with yellow chrysanthemums, had been arranged into a beautiful background for the wedding party, and the church otherwise nicely decorated. Mr. Walter Robins of Austin sang "Because I Love Thee," and "Faithful and True" was well rendered by a chorus of trained voices.

Little Miss Jennie Carter Matthews, dressed in dainty yellow, and Master Jones heralded the bridal party and the ushers, Messrs. Will Pearson and Holland Smith, followed. The bridegroom and best man, Mr. Roy Boger, of the chair of languages at the Alexandria Institute, Jacksonville, and ring-bearer, Master Oscar Matthews, Jr., aisle of the church a perfect came next. Then came down the dream of loveliness. Dainty little Zirlita Kent, with her little shepherd's crook, as junior bridesmaid, followed by Miss Maurice Matthews of Corsicana, maid of honor, and two bridesmaids, Misses Tannie Stinson and Ruby Miller of our city, alternating the yellow and green in beautiful costumes of soft clinging draperies with court train and picture hats in gold, carrying shepherd's crooks.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Roy Kent, of Virginia, sister of the bride, in a handsome costume of satin brocade, with cloth of gold girdle and train with gold picture hat, followed by Mrs. Claibe Johnson in green chiffon over satin and the gold picture hat, both carrying bouquets of yellow chrysanthemums. Mrs. Johnson sang impressively, "I Love Thee, Dear," with Mrs. Robt. Lindsey at the organ, and immediately after the first chords of the wedding march were heard and little Mildred Matthews and Charlotte Strong came in soft dainty dresses, carrying tiny baskets and scattering rose petals in the path of the bride.

The bride was simply radiant in her happy loveliness and an exquisite costume of old ivory duchess satin, embroidered in pearls with veil and court train, carrying a bouquet of bride's roses, showered with lilies of the valley and leaning on the arm of her father, completed a picture that was lovely in the extreme.

Miss Helena has been one of Nacogdoches' loveliest girls and has been well loved, her Sunday school class being given choice of seats at her wedding.

Mr. Gregg is a rising young business man of sterling worth, connected with one of the first banks of Rusk, where they will make their home after a short bridal tour to different points.

As the bride ascended the stairway at her home to change her costume to a going-away gown she threw her bouquet and 'twas caught by Miss Maurice Matthews, who gracefully presented it to the bride's mother.

The happy couple left on the midnight train and many beautiful and costly gifts attest their popularity.

Lots of infant industries never grow up.
