AN UNUSUAL OPERATION WAS PERFORMED

Another Child Was Found Inside of a Five-Year-Old Child Last Week.

A very unusual operation was performed at the Nacogdoches Surgical hospital last week.

A baby girl, about five years old, was brought to the hospital suffering with something that had refused to yield to all treatment hitherto administered. After making a thorough investigation, the surgeon in charge diagnosed the trouble as of an internal nature, for which an operation would be necessary, and, upon cutting into the abdomen of the child, found another child which was connected with and supported by the intestines of the outer child.

The internal child was not fully developed, having several deficiencies, but sufficiently developed to establish its identity. It was cut loose from its connections and removed, and the intestines of the real child sewed up and placed together in their proper places, and the patient is still living, but was so low in vitality when the operation was performed that she will have a hard fight for her life.

While the case is very unusual, and the average person never heard of such a condition, it is not new to the medical profession, there being similar cases like it on record.

The afflicted child has always been very bright and sweet, which, with the unusual condition she suffered, makes unusual interest with those acquainted with her and the details in her recovery. She is perfectly conscious and talks hopefully of her recovery.

Unusual attention and care is being given her at the hospital and nothing will be spared that will contribute to her recovery.

Knife Was Corroded and Saw-Edged From the Action of Stomach Acids.

Chicago, Nov. 23.—The table knife which Mrs. Elizabeth Hochsberger finally persuaded surgeons she had swallowed while in a delirium due to illness eight months ago, was taken from her stomach today by an operation at the West Side hospital. The knife was corroded and saw-edged from the action of stomach acids and physicians said that nature had made heroic efforts to digest the implement.

The woman rallied well from the operation. When she first told of having swallowed the knife, physicians said her story was a figment of the imagination, but yesterday she prevailed upon them to search with the X-ray and the resulting photographs vindicated her.

Dr. J. A. Drewry has a late letter from his son, Bob, who is in the U. S. navy on the warship Yorktown. He wrote from San Diego, which is the extreme southern city on the Pacific coast in California. Bob says he is having a huge time and he has seen the wonderful Panama canal and other interesting scenes and lands.

For Your Land's Sake

AN AVERY REVERSIBLE DISC HARROW is the "thing." Study the illustration. Can't you see that it is the simplest in construction and easiest in adjustment of any Disc Harrow made?

Can be reversed in three (3) minutes and without the use of any wrench—there is not a nut to be removed in reversing the disc.

A separate "angling lever" for each set of discs gives you a wide range of adjustments that can be made without leaving your seat. By loosening just one nut on each side the discs can be made any distance apart that you will ever want.

There are a whole lot of other good things we could say about the AVERY REVERSIBLE DISC HARROW, but then we want YOU to come in and see for yourself. Just come in and say that you want to see "one of those Avery Disc Harrows." We will be glad to show you.

Thanksgiving

AND WE'RE THANKFUL.

WE'RE THANKFUL that we're alive, instead of being shot full of holes; that we're all good American citizens of the BEST COUNTRY on EARTH; thankful that business is good; that PROSPERITY is here, and getting stronger every minute; we're thankful for your confidence in us, and the good trade you've given us; yes, for all these things and many more, we're thankful.

AND SO it is altogether fitting and proper that we all show our thankfulness at this time; that we express it in our appearance, as well as hold it in our minds; that gloom be banished and joy be unconfined. Every man, woman and child under the "STARS AND STRIPES" has reason to be thankful this year. Dress Up! Put on your best. Cheer Up! and look the part, for this is—THANKSGIVING.

GENERAL CARRANZA BANQUETS FERGUSON

Conference Takes Place on Mexican Soil—Mutual Felicitations Mark Banquet.

Laredo, Texas, Nov. 23.—Gov. Ferguson of Texas today visited Gen. Carranza in Nuevo Laredo, where, after an hour's conference, the Texas executive and party were guests at a banquet given by the Mexican leader. Gov. Ferguson's program had called for a meeting on the international bridge, but the conference and banquet took place on Mexican soil.

Mutual felicitations marked the banquet.

DEAD AND WOUNDED STREWN ON FIELD

Red Cross Workers Are Overwhelmed by the Great Number of Wounded.

Geneva, Nov. 22.—The unbridled fury of the battle for possession of Gorizia and the heavy loss of life occasioned thereby, are emphasized by advices received at the Swiss frontier from Laibach, Austria. It is said thousands of dead and wounded men are lying between the Austrian and Italian lines, having fallen in the endless succession of attacks and counter attacks.

The battle proceeds without rest for the exhausted soldiers. Red Cross workers are overwhelmed by the great numbers of wounded.

O. M. GIBBS, Editor

With nearly seven hundred thousand dollars on deposit in banks of this city, there is no further excuse for delaying the building of the street car line from the depot up town. Come across, "fellers," while you have the money.

Our linotype operator is wondering what we will say today about the proposition to build a street car line from the depot up town, and, really, the "soap" is running low, but we need the line just the same. After a town gets paved streets, water and sewage, electric lights and all other modern conveniences, there is one thing lacking yet. We must have it, "fellers."

Organization and co-operation is the best competition. The town that has it, holds all its own trade, explores new avenues and stimulates those industries which bring more wealth into the community. They can also get a line on the people who wilfully refuse to meet their obligations, and save to the man who does pay his bills the loss suffered with those who do not. Organization and co-operation is the modern method, and the town that employs it leads the onward march of progress and prosperity.

The man in charge of the circulation department of The Sentinel has been making a pretty close canvass of the different parts of the city lately, and is becoming discouraged for the reason that he can find but very few houses to which the paper does not go. But he has let no one escape whose name was not already enrolled, and the paper now goes to nine-tenths of the people within a radius of a mile out each way, making it a very fine advertising medium for the merchant or others with something to sell quick.

Jacksonville precinct has suffered a second defeat in an effort to vote a bond issue of $150,000 to be expended in road improvement, lacking thirty-three votes of having the required two-thirds majority. In a section of such thrifty and prosperous truck growing where farmers need the roads over which to haul their produce to town in mutual interest with the people of the town who need good roads to get to the country for a square meal, we are surprised that the verdict was not unanimous in favor of the improvement.

The Center Daily Optimist utters a great truth in the following: "Where business men never meet and talk over their mutual interests, they will become selfish and there is where 'knocking' and a lack of healthy co-operation comes in and does its destructive work." Co-operation is better for all concerned than competition, because, when the business people get together in a spirit of mutual interest, they will pull together in matters that build more trade for the town in the way of encouragement to industrial life and assist in finding the best markets for the raw products of the country.

It is the ambition of The Sentinel to be of the greatest possible good to its patrons and readers. We do not aspire to conquer some great political battle, or rival with Henry Waterson in the coinage of new words and phrases—we are for the people of Nacogdoches, Nacogdoches county and East Texas. We want to be of service in the material, moral and social upbuilding of the people we serve, and if there is any instance in which we can serve you legitimately, do not hesitate to get up close to us and unfold the plan. You will find us easy of approach in all matters, and true as steel to every trust and every obligation.

We all make 'em. The dignified Dallas News for instance the other day had the heading, "Cotton Seed Prices," over the belligerents' official war statements.—Denton Record-Chronicle.

The attention of our readers is directed to an interview with Prof. Davis of the extension department of the university, which will be found elsewhere in today's paper. Prof. Davis is bringing a message to the county that will be worth millions of dollars and save many lives if it is appropriated as he and the department representative craves.

The new life that is being aroused in the agricultural affairs and educational conditions insure new prosperity and happiness for old Nacogdoches county. We have the greatest country in the world insofar as natural resources and climatic conditions are concerned, and with the full development that is now approaching, we will have the greatest country in every respect. Come to Nacogdoches.

Longview had a street car which was drawn by a little brown mule to transport the passengers from the junction up town for many years. When the business demanded better service, a first-class electric line was established, which belts the square and runs from the depot up town upon the arrival of every train. Longview was no better or larger town than Nacogdoches when the electric car line was established.

In a divided opinion, Presiding Judge Prendergast and Judge Harper concurring and Judge Davidson dissenting, the court of criminal appeals upholds the validity of the permanent warehouse act of the thirty-third legislature in the case of ex parte Dabney White from Smith county. Mr. White is secretary of the Texas Ginners' association and violated the law purposely to test the constitutionality of the act. The violation was for failing to make three true and correct samples as required in the provisions of the measure. If there are ginners over the country who are also failing to observe this provision it would be well for them to mend their way.

The progressive citizenship of Center have organized themselves into an "Improvement League" and are getting busy in an effort to make the old town what it should be. If they hold out (we say this not in doubt of them, but because so many fail) old Center will take on new life and will come into its own. No town ever grows faster than the majority of its citizens will permit, and will not grow in the absence of their efforts. Like all the towns of East Texas have done in recent years, Center has lost some good propositions that a live commercial club and a harmonious citizenship could have captured. Nacogdoches has done the same. Let's have a general awakening in East Texas, each town with a live commercial club and the whole allied into an East Texas Development league. With such co-operation, old East Texas would make the world sit up and take notice in a few years, and instead of it being a burdensome service it would be the most interesting and profitable pursuit in which we could engage. Any man will admit that he can do better, no matter what his calling may be, in a live, growing town; then why not contribute something—or rather, INVEST something in that which will make these conditions.

COUNTY NEWSPAPER EDITORIALS.

The Billings (Mont.) Gazette says that often times country editors, the proprietors of weekly newspapers, fail to make any editorial comment upon questions of public interest, leaving such matters to the discussion of the dailies of the large cities in their editorial columns. It is pleased to note that there has recently developed a tendency to increase the amount of editorial comment in some of the weekly papers. The Gazette very properly concludes that it is the weekly newspapers and the dailies in the small towns that represent the sentiment of the nation and that mould public opinion and not the newspapers of the great cities; that the editor in the small town comes in close touch with his constituents, while the editor of a great daily sits in his sanctum, where of necessity few enter, and formulates his editorial policy from a narrow personal viewpoint rather than from contact with the people of his community; that in consequence he is more apt to reflect the views of some one man or group of men, while the editor of the country paper usually reflects the views of his people.

There is no controverting the logic of the Gazette's contention, especially in its application to issues in which the sentiments or views of the people are of prime importance. Another and still more important reason why the country editors should editorially discuss the important issues and events of the day is that, generally speaking, they are men of better capacity than the average of persons employed upon the staffs of some great newspapers of the country. There are many newspapers otherwise great which lack much of being great from an editorial standpoint. In the case of the country editor there is that freedom in the treatment of any subject which rarely is enjoyed by writers on large newspapers who are too often handicapped by the views and business interests of its leading stockholders or the policy of the business office. Probably after all is said the force and influence of any paper depends upon the capacity of its editors, its editorial policy and its manner of conducting it. The influence of modern newspapers is no greater than its merits, while no journal has influence for evil under present conditions.

The time is long since past when it was possible for any newspaper to mislead the masses. If its editorials stand the test exacted of them by intelligent readers they are necessarily influential, otherwise they fall flat and fail of their purpose.—Austin American.

A scientist is reported as having said that people must have brains to worry. That is true. Only people without brains haven't anything to worry about except not having brains. But how about not having brains when only persons with brains can worry? Give it up.—Corpus Christi Democrat.

All idiots are optimists but not all optimists are idiots. Man's natural instinct makes a pessimist of him, but by the judicious use of brains he becomes an optimist without first having worries, else his optimism would be a negative pessimism. Optimism is a positive goodness, not a negative badness. Ignorance is bliss but ignorance is not freedom from worries, and—finish it out yourself if you have the time.—Abilene Reporter.

WHAT DO YOU THINK?

After reading the following brilliant review of the matter in the Brenham Banner, we have decided that the thoughts of the boy who was run over by the yearling, or the Dutchman overcome in some disappointment which preyed upon his emotions, offer the only valid answer:

When you meet a fellow on the street and his face is warped and twisted by an unholy scowl, what do you think?

When a lazy duffer hogs a whole seat on a train and lets a tired woman stand with a baby in her arms, what do you think?

When John Smith whispers into your ear that Tom Jones "is a good one to look out for," but that you must not tell anyone that he (Smith) said so, what do you think?

When one woman tells you that another woman "is the biggest gossip in town and that the gossip's own closet is jammed with skeletons," what do you think?

When a politician promises you the earth with an iron fence around it and the moon with all of its green cheese if you will only vote for him, what do you think?

When a public official forgets all of his promises and loses his good resolution and becomes as blind as a bat as soon as he is inducted into an office, what do you think?

When a man coughs up a stiff prayer in church on Sunday and then skins you in a sharp deal on Monday, what do you think?

When a preacher tells you of the glories of religion and of the benefits of purity in your own daily life, and then goes off and eats his Sunday dinner with the biggest old church hypocrite in town, what do you think?

When you hear a fellow bragging of the great deeds he has done and you know he is lying faster than an automobile can speed, what do you think?

When a man tells you a smutty story of some good woman and you know her character is as white as his soul is black, what do you think?

When you hear a young braggart making suggestive remarks about every young girl in town except his own sister, what do you think?

When a man owes you a dollar and crosses the street to avoid meeting you, what do you think?

When a girl leads a man on to declaring himself and then deliberately tosses him over without compunction, what do you think?

When a man trifles with the affections of a good woman and then is not honorable enough to live up to his word, what do you think?

When a duffer borrows a five spot from you and promises to return it tomorrow, and tomorrow never comes, what do you think?

When a man looks you in the eye and tells you a deliberate lie, and you know that he is lying and that he knows that you know it, what do you think?

And if you should happen to do any of these things, what do you think other people would think?

DALLAS CONVENTION PARTY HAS $100,000

Washington, Nov. 21.—Cato Sells, commissioner of Indian affairs, and member of the Democratic national committee from Texas, today received word from Mayor H. D. Lindsley of Dallas that $100,000 had been raised to secure for Dallas the 1916 Democratic national convention. The message said a special train would bring Texans here to urge Dallas' claim before the Democratic national committee at its meeting Dec. 7.

IS IT WORTH WHILE?

"Dusk and the twilight falling—"
And a soldier—only a soldier lad—stands, leaning on his musket, at the grave of a fallen comrade.

You probably have seen the picture in silhouette of a promontory overlooking the fabled Aegean sea, of a rude cross erected over a grave and of the lone soldier keeping silent vigil there. It tells only an incident of the tragic story of war.

The roughmade cross marks the resting place of "only another" killed in battle.

And the sorrowing comrade who stands near is probably wondering: "Is it worth while?"

He is thinking, as he stands near, of not only another slain hero, but of a mother miles and miles away, perhaps right now scanning through her silver-rimmed spectacles the long, long, casualty lists.

Her eyes as tired as her hair is gray refuse to be moved until with aching heart for others and a gasp of relief for herself, she has read the last name—and her boy's is not there!

But in a few more days she will know—how could she have expected otherwise—that it has happened. And then—! She will soon join him in the great beyond.

And the comrade near the cross is perhaps wondering how long 'twill be ere another gray-haired mother will know, too.

But soon his reveries must end. Soon his thoughts must turn from home, friends and loved ones. Unseen tears will vanish. He must turn again to the business of war, of the slaughter of an unknown, unseen foe.

And now he's in the thick of battle. Shrapnel bursts on all sides. There's a desperate charge from the trenches. Shells whiz by, and—more comrades fall. With a demoniac fire in his eyes he hurls grenades with curses and presses the point of his bayonet into the breast of some other mother's boy.

Whose? It matters little! The man who stood in tears at the grave of his comrade a few hours before—is this the same?

There's no time for sympathy, for fear, for thought of home or love.

It's the business of war; the business of murder and ruin.

There will soon be many more freshly made graves; there will soon be many more such scenes as the one photographed in the remarkable picture mentioned; there will soon be more comrades who will murmur in the twilight: "Is it worth while?"—Shreveport Times.

"THE TWIN SISTERS."

The present controversy about the fate or final disposition of the two cannon, carried on through the Houston Chronicle, of which I am a subscriber, caused the writer, now more than 73 years of age and a native-born of old Nacogdoches, to reflect and think of old times, the "boys" and the old cannon.

It is this way: I was born in 1842. I recollect soldiers who camped on a vacant portion of the old Charles S. Taylor home lots on the Bayou Banita. They passed the time mostly playing cards and they had quite a lot of old wagons, and after that time I became associated with the boys and the old cannon that shot a ball—one only—about four or five inches in diameter. This ball was fired by the "grown-ups" at a pine tree that standing on our present college grounds, as included under a charter to the citizens of this old town of Nacogdoches by the Republic of Texas. The ball was hurled a distance of about one-fourth of a mile and hit the center. Now, I am relating that this old cannon was on the college grounds and I saw the man aim, and he took good and careful aim, and I saw the ball sticking to that tree about twenty feet above the ground. Next I saw the gun on an Indian mound on the college campus as stated, and from that mound the next shooting was done by the boys not including this department, but I heard the sound by night, which jarred the windows and rattled the panes, disturbing the slumbers of the residents of the old town and the dead Mexicans in the grave-yard in the immediate locality of the campus referred to. Now, it came to pass that for some cause the boys moved the old cannon to the Forbe's Hill, overlooking the town, from which came the material for the old Stone Fort, recently moved by the patriotic ladies from its original site to the aforesaid college grounds, and at this place this writer participated in the firing, pealed sticks which were used in lieu of balls and watched the fight. After tiring of this way, some genius suggested clay and rocks as a substitute for wadding that would make more noise, perhaps. As I recollect, Tom Ochiltree touched it off, and also saw his head looking for the cannon where it ought to be, while others looking and thinking the cannon had kicked itself into the hill. I saw flying through space for about a half mile the front end of the old relic of our historical wars.

JAPAN AROUSED OVER CHINA JOINING ALLIES

Tokio, Nov. 21.—The keenest interest has been aroused in Japan by Washington advices that representations have been made to China to induce her to join the entente alliance. The foreign office declines to discuss the matter. Persons in close touch with foreign affairs assert no formal agreement has been entered into by China.

The explanation most generally offered in Tokio is that the allies are endeavoring to put an end to certain German activities in the Orient. Strong representations have been made at Peking touching interests of the allies. Oe is an anti-Russian movement, in Manchuria, said to be fostered by Germans. Particular attention is paid to various reports concerning the forwarding of arms to India and Afghanistan. It also is reported there have been secret moves from Asiatic countries of war material destined for Germany by way of the Americas.

THE COUNTRY SCHOOLS RECEIVE LIBERAL AID

Good Slice of the Million-Dollar Appropriation Awarded to Nacogdoches County.

It will be remembered that at the last legislature an appropriation of one million dollars was made for the benefit of the rural schools of the state.

County Supt. Stripling has been working very energetically to get a share of it and has succeeded in getting the following substantial help:

Swift	$ 400.00
Friendship	325.00
Harmony	300.00
Oak Ridge	300.00
Mahl	250.00
Alazan	300.00
Trinity	450.00
Shady Grove	350.00
Clear Branch	125.00
Jamesville	300.00
Hickory Flat	200.00
Morall	150.00
Blake	250.00
Sacul	350.00
Appleby	300.00
Chireno	500.00

Total $4,850.00

The donation to Chireno was made for the purpose of adding an agricultural department to the school and the people are so enthusiastic in the matter that they have purchased five acres of land and are getting everything in readiness to utilize the appropriation to the best advantage.

With the additional money coming into the county, and with the new interest that is being manifested from every quarter, Prof. Stripling is very optimistic over the outlook for future development and future work.

GEN. BLISS ELEVATED TO RANK OF MAJOR

May Succeed Maj.-Gen. Scott as Chief of Staff upon Latter's Retirement.

Washington, Nov. 19.—Brig.-Gen. Tasker H. Bliss became a major general today upon the retirement of Maj.-Gen. Wm. H. Carter. Col. John F. Morrison, now at Tien Tsin, China, will be promoted to be a brigadier general. Gen. Bliss will continue as assistant chief of staff with the probability of succeeding Maj.-Gen. Scott as chief of staff upon the latter's retirement in 1917.

Gen. Carter will be succeeded in command of the Hawaiian department by Brig.-Gen. John P. Wissner, now in command of the First Hawaiian brigade, who will be relieved by Brig.-Gen. Frederick S. Strong.

CARRANZA OUTLINES SOME NEW PLANS

Is to Continue His Tour of Mexico, Going First to Matamoros and Capitals.

Laredo, Texas, Nov. 21.—Ten thousand persons turned out to greet Gen. Carranza, head of the defacto government of Mexico, on his arrival at Nuevo Laredo, across the border, Saturday. He came from Saltillo, it being his second visit to the border within a month. He expects to remain two or three days and will then continue his tour of Mexico, going first to Matamoros and then to other capitals. He is inspecting border conditions in this region.

He is accompanied by a body-guard of 500 Yaquis and an equal number of men of the presidential guard. His wife and two daughters are traveling with him for the first time since the revolution began. A number of governors of Carranza staff and military officials also are in the entourage.

In an interview with the correspondent of the International News Service he outlined the following as his immediate plans:

The immediate suppression of Villa and Zapata.

The re-establishment of railway communication throughout Mexico.

The substitution of civil for military authority as rapidly as the armed enemies of the defacto government can be subjugated.

Early municipal elections.

Elections of delegates to the national chamber of deputies.

The appointment of a commission to devise a system of re-assessment of the taxable property of the republic.

He also proposes to reconstruct immediately the public school system and to reopen schools in all the localities now under civil authority. They also will be opened in other places as rapidly as possible.

A. W. Hunt, a well-known lumberman of this city, has returned from a trip to the border country and reports business resuming normal proportions in that country. He says lumber business with the Mexican people is opening up very satisfactorily, and that while railroad equipment is in bad condition, the track is in good repair and hopes are entertained that the other trouble will soon be adjusted. He also says the people along the border are looking with favor upon Carranza.

By using finely powdered ingredients and great pressure cement articles have been made to resemble porcelain.

MUCH INTEREST IS BEING AROUSED

Mr. Davis and Miss Stoltzfus are Having Fine Attendance and Interest in Country.

Mr. E. S. Davis, extension lecturer for rural schools from the University of Texas, and Miss Amanda Stoltzfus, who is engaged in the same line of work, with more particular reference to the homes, have been meeting with a splendid reception in their visit to Nacogdoches county, and much interest is being aroused in the splendid work they are doing.

They met at Harmony Saturday where Group No. 6 assembled in joint session, and report that special interest was in evidence with those good people.

Today they will meet with Group No. 7 at Nat., and look forward to another interesting day.

The reporter called on Mr. Davis at the hotel this morning, and when asked how he was finding conditions in this county, remarked, in substance, that we have some grave problems to work out in this county. "The first thing to be worked out," said Mr. Davis, "is better buildings and a better heating arrangement, and the people should wake up to the importance of having screened sanitary closets." Talking along this line, Mr. Davis made some other observations that should be studied well by the people of every section of the county. "You have too many sick people in this county. In a mixed audience you will notice a large per cent yellow with malaria and jaundice, and a sick man or a sick child can not do good service. I also see much evidence of hookworm in the children of some of the districts. There is no necessity for the people being afflicted with any of these diseases and you should have a campaign of education along these lines, teaching the people the importance of screening the houses and keeping their premises in a thoroughly sanitary condition. It would pay the business men to sell these people screen wire at cost and contribute something to a campaign in teaching the people that malaria comes through exposure to mosquitoes, typhoid from flies, and the majority of the ills from some similar cause which can be traced to the flies and insects. I never could understand why people will spend money to dip their cattle and use other means to destroy the ticks which impair the health of their cattle and will not spend a cent for the preservation of the health of their boy."

There is much food for thought in these observations. A sick man cannot render good service or fill all the requirements of good citizenship, and if sickness becomes widespread, production is impaired, suffering is broadcast and business is crippled.

The lectures being delivered by these distinguished visitors are based upon scientific facts which have stood the test practical application, and we hope the people of Nacogdoches county will give heed to the good counsel they are bringing to them.

Mrs. James Kerr and little son arrived from Nacogdoches Tuesday. This is the young gentleman's first visit to Rusk, and inasmuch as it is to be his future home, we hope he will be pleased with his surroundings. He had many friends here anticipating his coming and all join the Press-Journal in giving him a hearty welcome.—Rusk Press-Journal.

VICTORY CLAIMED BY BOTH MEXICAN ARMIES

Struggle for Supremacy in Sonora Begun in Earnest by Carranza and Villa.

Douglas, Ariz., Nov. 18.—The forces of Gen. Carranza and those of Gen. Villa which today began in earnest the struggle for supremacy in Sonora, tonight reported that each had won a victory. The battles were fought, one near Del Rio and the other before Hermosillo, capital of the state.

A force of Carranza troops under Gen. Obregon preceding the main Calles force marching on Cananea, where Gen. Jose Rodriguez is entrenched, met with resistance at Del Rio and after several hours fighting reported the rout of the attacking Villa troops.

According to reports at Nogales the Villa forces, commanded by Gens. Gomez and Ruiz, killed 100 and made prisoners of 200 of Gen. Obregon's men, besides capturing two complete wagon trains laden with large quantities of ammunition and supplies.

The attack before Hermosillo developed a heavy bombardment resulting in serious damage to the city. This report was given credence in Carranza circles tonight, but details were lacking.

A report that Gen. Villa was wounded in a previous engagement near Hermosillo was discredited generally. The Villa forces attacking Hermosillo, however, were reported led by Francisco Urbalejo, who hitherto has been in charge of the Yaqui Indian forces fighting with Villa.

Torreón, Coahuila state, has been reoccupied by Villa troops under Gen. Canuto Reyes, en route to the city of Agua Calientes, according to advices received today.

MILITARY AVIATORS WILL MAKE WACO LAP

Fort Worth, Texas, Nov. 21.—The first aero squadron of the United States army, consisting of six military tractors, will resume its cross-country flight of 500 miles from Fort Sill, Okla., to San Antonio, Texas, at 8 o'clock today. Waco, which is 90 miles air line from Fort Worth, will be the next landing place. Captain Foulois, in command of the squadron, stated Sunday night that he expected the trip would be made in less than an hour as the weather bureau promises a 15 to 18-mile an hour breeze from northeast, which will increase the normal speed of the machines.

OBREGON THROWN BACK BY THE VILLA ARMY

Three Hundred Carranza Dead Were Left on the Battlefield, at Hermosillo.

Nogales, Ariz., Nov. 19.—The battle for possession of Hermosillo, capital of Sonora, has been in progress since late yesterday, according to advices received at Nogales, Sonora, opposite here, by Villa officials. It also was reported that Gen. Obregon, Carranza leader, was repulsed in an engagement near Cananea.

Carlos Randall, acting Villa governor of Sonora, declared today at his headquarters in Mexican Nogales that dispatches received by him today indicated that Gen. Obregon had been completely defeated in the fighting north of Cananea. Three hundred Carranza dead were left on the battlefield, according to these reports.

One elderly woman was shot by soldiers during a celebration last night in which shouts of "Viva Carranza" were said to have come from the soldiers. No one was arrested by the Villa authorities.

A long proclamation in which Villa denounced Gen. Carranza and the United States government was issued by Gov. Randall last night.

Gen. Villa personally is directing the attack on the garrison of Gen. Diéguez at Hermosillo, Gov. Randall stated, and messages from him said that the city was completely surrounded.

Villa officials were reported here to have confiscated a consignment of copper, said to be valued at $500,000, which arrived at Nogales, Sonora; today from the mines of the Cananea Consolidated Copper Co.

FEARS PREPAREDNESS WILL SHOCK WORLD

So Claud Kitchin Characterizes President Wilson's Preparedness Program.

Kingston, N. C., Nov. 21.—A sharp statement by Representative Claud Kitchin characterized President Wilson's preparedness program as a movement which will shock the world and frighten it into another armed camp even after the close of the European struggle.

"If the program goes through," declared Kitchin, "other nations will so fear the military power of this nation that we will lose the greatest opportunity ever presented a peaceful people—that of playing the role of peacemaker at the end of the greatest war of the ages."

He said this nation has a navy second only to that of Great Britain.

TO OUR SUBSCRIBERS.

As you have doubtless noticed by both statements and improvements in the paper, we have gone to several thousand dollars expense within the past few weeks in equipping the office with modern machinery with which we could give you the best county paper you ever had, and one that will bear comparison with any in the state. We did this for two reasons: First, we have confidence in your integrity and patriotism in standing by the paper in its growing usefulness; and, secondly, it has always been our policy to remain in the lead in the service we offer to the good people of old Nacogdoches county.

With this explanation, we are going to ask our friends to pay as much on their subscription this fall and winter as they can conveniently spare. If you owe more than you can pay, try to pay us a part of it; if you owe nothing and feel like paying a year or two in advance, it will meet the same purpose and help us in a time of need.

The Sentinel has never pushed or dunned its subscribers, because we know you expect to pay us every cent you owe us. You are our friends and we are your friends, and our interests are mutual. We know that with this explanation you will help us if you can, and if you will remit us direct, or be ready for settlement when our representative comes to see you, it will be doubly beneficial to us.

With grateful appreciation for all past favors, and hoping to serve you many years in the future, we are, Yours truly,
HALTOM & GIBBS.

This is Thanksgiving week, but we can't be as thankful as we would be if we had better assurances of the early construction of a street car line from the depot up town. Come on, "fellows."

This is mighty pretty weather and a mighty good time for the people of the city to get together in something for the good of the town. That town whose people work together and pull together in all affairs is the place that attracts attention, business and grows.

Pass a good word along. Tell the people you meet that you love your town and your neighbors; cultivate the practice and the feeling, and pretty soon both will love you. But be assured if you pursue the opposite course your environments will become lonely. Nobody loves a grouch or a calamity howler.

The cotton oil mill at Comanche is crushing peanuts and will make its first carload shipment of peanut oil this week. If the oil finds a good and profitable market, and the experiment proves profitable, the cotton oil mill of Nacogdoches will have to come across or get tangled up in (im)mortal combat with the fighting editor of The Sentinel, watched with much interest by people from this section. Nacogdoches county has furnished Texas with many statesmen and it will be an added honor to furnish Louisiana with her chief executive.

No little town like Comanche shall go Nacogdoches one better. A red-hot race for governor is raging in Louisiana now, in which Senator T. C. Barret is one of the contestants for the honor. Senator Barret is a native of Nacogdoches county, belonging to the well-known Barret family of the county and his race will be

THREE WAYS TO GET MONEY.

Want to get some money, gentle reader? And would you like to be told how to do it? Money making is not one of our forte, but the Los Angeles Times professes to have found the secret and passes it on as follows:

"The three legitimate ways to get money are to inherit it, to marry it, or to earn it."

"Inheriting it is the most comfortable. But it is an accident, sheer luck. Neither skill nor merit plays a part. It brings the least amount of genuine satisfaction in its train. Unless one has undergone a severe probation of poverty inherited wealth is rarely fully appreciated and enjoyed."

"Marrying money may be luck, too. Sometimes it is strategy, occasionally merit. But for masculinity, at all events, it is rarely satisfactory. More generally it is highly ignominious. One has to earn every cent of it in the end, one way or another, with never an iota of credit for one's pains."

"But earning money—that is pure satisfaction. It is never luck. Money earned represents a happy quid pro quo that no other method of success has to offer. It is the one way of self-respect, proper pride. It is usually a hard way, fraught with tribulation and discomfort, the overcoming of constant difficulties and disappointments, demanding perpetual vigilance, patience, resourcefulness. But it is the one way to get money that leaves least regrets. The man's way."
—Waco Morning News.

Just why everybody in East Texas doesn't move to Nacogdoches we don't know, but some people are so slow in recognizing a good proposition that it is too late for them when the scales are finally knocked from their eyes.

"Speak but little and to the purpose, and you will pass for somebody." Talk less and work more; concentrate your energies in a more noble occupation than trying to entertain somebody with a yarn and you will get a better audience when you have something to say.

In a delirium of fever, a woman of Chicago is reported to have swallowed a knife—not a small pen-knife or toy of some kind, but a real table knife, and is still living. Her name is Mrs. Hochsberger, and the knife was found located in her stomach with an X-ray photograph. True, the story sounds very unreasonable, but think of that name and where she lives.

Doctors live up to their ethics so closely that they will not let the newspapers tell about their achievements, but we have doctors right here in Nacogdoches, some of them natives of East Texas, while others are citizens by adoption, who perform surgical operations and make cures that would put them in the hall of fame if some of their achievements were known. Nacogdoches is particularly blessed in this line.

Few towns the size of Nacogdoches can show more meritorious local industries, and we may justly be proud of them. Many larger towns are clamoring for a creamery like ours; our bottling works and ice cream factories furnish liquid refreshments of the most palatable variety to many nearby towns; we have one of the finest automobile garages in the state, with other smaller enterprises of the same character; bakeries, candy kitchens and numerous small enterprises; one of the largest sawmills in the state which ships its products to all parts of the country; the Mahdeen company, which manufactures barber supplies, is winning a national reputation, finding markets in all parts of the United States. Then, too, there is our big cottonseed oil mill, cotton compress and several large wholesale houses which serve the town and surrounding country, and banks able to finance all East Texas. Come to Nacogdoches—the center of East Texas industrial and commercial life.

NOBODY LOVES US.

It is the duty of every American to stand by his country now, for it is certain that with the exception of Americans, nobody loves America. It may be that the Belgians do, but outside of that country and our own it is sure that we are not liked.

It has all happened because we have been disposed to insist upon the observance of our rights, and those of the other nations of the world that are not engaged in the occupation of tearing each other to pieces.

We have every right to make arms and munitions of war for any and all who have the money to purchase them. Because we exercise that right Germany and Austria, who have always done exactly what we are doing, dislike us.

Great Britain seems to have taken unwarrantable liberties with our shipping on the high seas. Because we have protested there seems to be a growing dislike of us in Great Britain.

Russia does not love us as she once did, because she believes we favored the Japanese in the Manchurian war, and there is no doubt that the sympathies of the American people were with Japan in that struggle.

Japan does not like us because we have shown that we do not like the Japanese—and that is as good a reason for disliking us as any people need ask for.

For some reason or other the American has always been misunderstood abroad. Possibly it is for the reason that when he talks, he says much that he does not mean, and that when he acts he is cold, shrewd, calculating, and takes no action he is not prepared to make good. This sort of man is incomprehensible to the natives of the older countries, and nobody ever loves anybody he cannot understand.

That may not be the exact reason why we are not liked, but it will answer the inquiry as well as another. The fact remains that we are not popular—and we are nice people, too.

However, we must take the condition as we have made it and as we find it. It behooves us to get ready all sorts of things against the day when somebody will tell us specifically just why he does not love us, and what he proposes to do to us because of his lack of affection.

There is only one thing more difficult in this world than being honest or neutral and that is being honest and neutral. The man or the country which really succeeds in this almost impossible task will have enemies enough. It will just naturally please nobody.—San Antonio Light.

HOPELESS.

An English "Tommy," while stationed in a Flemish village, wanted to buy a tooth brush. Being unable to speak either Flemish or French, he could not manage to make the people understand what he wanted. After several attempts he hit upon a brilliant idea, and, entering a little shop, he proceeded to imitate the action of brushing his teeth. At first the old dame shook her head, then her face suddenly lit up with a smile. Placing a ladder against the wall, she searched for several minutes in some cardboard boxes on atop shelf. She at last found what she wanted and triumphantly handed him, not a tooth brush, but a jew's harp!—New York World.

IMPALING MAUDLIN SENTIMENT.

In an able editorial entitled "Thou Shalt Not Kill," the Fort Worth Record takes occasion to remind emotionalists who inaugurated a campaign for the abolition of capital punishment, simply because of the horror which attended the execution of a convict in its city recently, that there is no argument or reason in the contention that the gruesome incident accentuates the necessity of abolishing the severity of the punishment which the law exacts of felons in the necessary preservation of society.

The Record calls attention to the fact that there is another picture which gentlemen of the press advocating the abolition of capital punishment should place before their readers:

"It is true men and women who are opposed to capital punishment shuddered. It is true the vengeance of the law is cold and exacting at times.

"But what of the good citizen shot down without warning and, the law said, without provocation?"

What of the widow whose life was made desolate?

What of the children whose hearts quivered with anguish and whose eyes were wet with tears?

What of the divine injunction, "Thou shalt not kill?"

What of the law of society desecrated and trampled in the dust?

What of the evil example placed before others and what of the cost to the law-abiding taxpayers of the community or the state?

These are ghastly pictures, too. These are heartrending scenes. These clamor at all times to the law for blood atonement. These serve to remind the populace that the object of law is to make human life sacred and that its enforcement is for the protection of all alike.

This is not an argument for capital punishment.

"This is not a defense of the gallows barbarism.

"This is not an appeal to the passions or the prejudices of the mob.

"This is a reminder that all the maudlin sentiment of men and women whose hearts may be in the right place but whose heads wobble, should not be wasted upon violators of the law or men who slay their fellows.

"A man has a right to slay his fellow in defense of his own life. Self-preservation is the first law of nature, and statutory law upholds it.

"A man has a right to slay another in defense of his family or their honor, and public opinion, in the South at least, exonerates him for the act and vindicates its commission.

"But no man has a right to slay another without cause or provocation. No man has a right to shed the blood of his fellows and expect to escape the law's vengeance.

"There have been crimes and criminals since the beginning of time. There will be crimes and criminals while the world endureth.

"For the protection of society criminals are sent to the gallows or prison. They alone are the transgressors and not the agents of justice who arrange the details of execution or life imprisonment, as the case may be."

One of the unaccountable inconsistencies of the emotionalist is noted in the circumstance that he has an inexhaustible supply of grief and scalding tears for the murderer whose inhuman conduct in the assassination of his victim is responsible for the deserved punishment which the law inflicts, but none for the victim whom he hurled into eter-ernity, without warning, justification or excuse. It would appear that if such grief were sincere or genuinely inspired by humane emotions it would not be thus restricted to the slayer alone, but would extend to his victim as well. Yet it has never been so and none have attempted to explain this most consistent inconsistency of maudlin sentimentality.

Press reports of the crime for which the offender in question suffered the death penalty disclosed that it was the most remarkable murder which has stained the records of crime in any court of any country. Even the bungling execution which ended his miserable life could not have been sufficient punishment for the crime which he committed, no matter what additional torture resulted from the attendant accident.

There are many persons entirely conscientious in their unalterable conviction that capital punishment should be abolished. All just men respect their views, though differing with their opinions. There are mollicious emotionalists who oppose it, not through conviction, but to save themselves disagreeable mental rigors which all cowards experience in the presence of death at all times and under all circumstances.

Amiable gentlemen who anaesthetize the infliction of the death penalty for crime as unjustifiable, savage, brutal, inhuman and cruel, no doubt fail to recall that God himself inflicted it upon a notable occasion for a crime which, under our law, is minor in comparison to murder.

The offender's name was Ananias—his crime, common lying.—Austin American.

Lufkin now announces to the world, including the township of Nacogdoches, that we are setting on foot this week a poultry and dairy farm, which is to cater to the wants of this growing municipality. If Nacogdoches has turned "Jack" in the last few days we would be glad to hear from her. Understand, folks, that Lufkin is striking hands with its neighboring city in this East Texas development, and any and everything that helps us along is ours—ours to enjoy and make the most of until we can induce something else of note and value to come this way and "make its bed with us." It was only yesterday that the News carried the announcement that the Nacogdoches postoffice had been designated as the distributing point for all general supplies for postoffices in this section of the state. Of course, the department erred in this particular, but how was the department to know of such a blunder? The thing to do now is to make the best of it, and, amid the mass of other distributions of good things coming this way, the old home town may be expected to come in for her own. Nacogdoches is all right, so is Lufkin—all of which admits of no argument, no matter how you take it.—Lufkin News.

To be sure, a street car line all over the city would not be a paying proposition with the present population, but a little line from the depot up town, equipped with a passenger coach to haul passengers, and a flat car on which to haul freight would, and that is the reason we will not let up on the subject. Of course, we would not have the two cars hitched together, using only one at a time. The man who makes this start, and gets the franchise, will be a rich man in a mighty few years.

THE HAMMER.

Said the blacksmith to the carpenter one quiet afternoon:

"Kind words are very useful in their way.

You can sometimes tame a colt if you will sing a gentle tune

And feed him while he listens to your lay;

But when it comes to fashioning or nailing on a shoe

It's a waste of time to warble like a wren.

If you want a tidy job that does you credit when you're through

You've got to use a hammer now and then."

The carpenter took thought and to the blacksmith he replied:

"I figure on my plans with pensive joy,

But when it's time to nail the work in which I've taken pride,

A sturdy stroke is what I must employ.

Your dreamer and your schemer may be grateful to the mind,

But to do the work that should be done by men,

Though you must overwork it all resentfully inclined,

You've got to use a hammer now and then."

LACK OF OBSERVATION.

"No," complained the Scotch professor to his students, "ye dinna use your faculties of observation. Ye dinna use them. For instance—"

Picking up a jar of chemicals of vile odor, continues the Windsor Magazine, he stuck one finger into it and then one into his mouth. "Taste it, gentlemen!" he commanded, as he passed the vessel from student to student. After each one had licked his finger, and had felt rebellion through his whole soul, the old professor exclaimed triumphantly: "I tol' ye so. Ye dinna use your faculties. For if ye had observed, ye would ha' seen that the finger I stuck into the jar was nae the finger I stuck into my mouth!"

VARIETY STORE,
Nacogdoches, Texas.
Gentlemen:--

Have at last arranged my schedule for your part of the country and find that I will reach Nacogdoches in about a week or ten days. Of course I shall also come there on Christmas Eve, but on this first trip I want to leave what all the little boys and girls of your section will want. I have been thinking that the most convenient way to learn their wants would be to establish a Post Office in some place that is easily accessible to both children and myself. I really think that your store would fill the bill best.

So you make arrangements to get ready and open up a Post Office (sub station) and I shall try to be there the first Saturday in December. This information is definite and I want all the little boys and girls to bring me their letters to your store.

I shall remind you again of it, through the columns of this newspaper next week. If anything happens that you should not get next week's paper, keep this letter in mind and bring me your letters. I shall have some small gifts for each child.

Very truly yours,
SANTA CLAUS.

Low Price Was Secured Because

Austin, Nov. 23.—For $13 per acre the state has acquired, subject to approval by the prison commission, 1,200 acres of land in Bowie county adjoining the present Shaw farm, owned and operated by the prison commission. THANKSGIVING TURKEYS COSTS N. Y. $1,180,000

"Don't Eat Too Much Thank-

Food and Drug Bureau.

New York, Nov. 23.—The city health department is taking unusual precautions this year to protect New York's Thanksgiving dinner.

Extra inspectors have been stationed at the markets to examine everything intended for the Thanksgiving menu. Dr. L. Brown, head of the bureau of food and drugs, has issued a warning advising diners to remember that alcohol is bad for the liver and does not materially aid digestion.

"Don't eat too much Thanksgiving dinner," he adds. "When it comes to the meat, go light and eat plenty of vegetables. Let grape juice and soft cider be your drinks."

New York's bill for Thanksgiving turkeys is estimated at $1,180,000.

GOVERNOR WILL BACK PRO LAWS

Will Co-operate With the Local Authorities in Enforcing
Will of Majority.

Temple, Texas, Nov. 23.—Prohibitionists of Bell county will receive a "full, fair trial of their ideas," Gov. Ferguson states in a letter made public here today by Rev. H. D. Knickerbocker, pastor of the First Methodist church. Everything within the power of the chief executive of the state will be done toward enforcing the local option law, he says.

The governor writes that "when the campaign closed in Bell county and the anti-prohibitionists lost I accepted the result cheerfully and I have no enemies to punish. As governor I shall cheerfully co-operate with the local authorities in enforcing the will of the people in order that my prohibition friends may receive a full, fair trial of their ideas on this question."

With reference to that part of a letter in which Dr. Knickerbocker referred to the speeches of the governor, the executive writes:

"While I did discuss you in my speeches, you must remember that you yourself had made a few passing brief remarks that were calculated to disturb the equanimity which had theretofore been peaceful."

WILSON PUTS ADDRESS UP TO HIS CABINET

President Favors Cutting Appropriations as Much as Possible.

Washington, Nov. 23.—President Wilson laid before the cabinet today a completed draft of the address he will read to congress Dec. 7.

The President has decided to touch on the question of raising revenues for national defense, but probably in only broad terms. Some of the cabinet wanted him to devote the entire address to the national defense question, but as read at today's cabinet meeting, it deals with other legislation.

The President favors cutting appropriations as much as possible for public buildings and rivers and harbors improvements.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT FOR MEMBER

To the Worshipful Master, Wardens and Brethren of Milam Lodge No. 2, A. F. & A. M., Nacogdoches, Texas:

We, your committee, selected to present resolutions expressing the sentiment of our lodge on the death of our deceased brother, Joseph W. King, who died on the 14th day of October, 1915, beg to submit the following:

Joseph W. King was born in Polk county, Georgia, on the 16th day of December, 1850; he came to Texas when yet a young man and settled first in Rusk county, where he spent the remainder of his life, with the exception of a few years before his death, which was spent at Nacogdoches, Nacogdoches county, Texas. He was married to Martha Caroline Garrison in 1875. His good wife departed this life about eighteen months before our good brother was called by the Supreme Grand Master.

Brother King was a true and noble Christian gentleman whose every-day life was an example for those with whom he was associated. He was raised to the sublime degree of a Master Mason nearly forty years ago at Caledonia, Texas, and was a true and faithful member of the fraternity until called to the Celestial Lodge above; therefore, be it resolved,

First. That Milam lodge has lost a true and faithful member, whose life was in accord with the tenets of ancient Free Masonry, and that Masonry at large has lost one of its noblest of noblemen.

Second. That the community, as a whole, has lost one of its most patriotic citizens and one who always served his country with faithfulness and fidelity, and one whose life was noted for its high ideals and sterling honesty.

Third. That the members of his family have, in his death, lost one in whom they could put their trust and be guided by Christian hands that always pointed to higher and nobler purposes in life, and finally to the Celestial Lodge above, where the soul will never, never, never die.

Fourth. We deeply mourn the loss of our deceased brother and sympathize with his relatives and friends in this sad bereavement.

REUNION OF BURROWS FAMILY YESTERDAY

From Monday's Daily:

A very pleasant day was spent yesterday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Burrows in this city by a visit of his brother, Mr. John Burrows, and wife of San Augustine. There were present all the brothers and their families except Marion, who is in Santa Fe, N. M. Their aged father, who has passed his three-score years and ten; also their only sister, Mrs. Lee Murphey, were present. Mr. and Mrs. John Burrows, with their niece, Mrs. Felix Lewis, came over in a car, returning in the afternoon. There were present on this reunion twenty-seven members of the Burrows family.

The Colds of Mankind Cured by Pines

Have you ever gone through a typical pine forest when you had a cold? What a vigorous impulse it sent! How you opened wide your lungs to take in those invigorating and mysterious qualities. Yes, Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar-Honey possesses those stimulating qualities and overcomes hacking coughs. The inner lining of the throat is strengthened in its attack against cold germs. Every family needs a bottle constantly at hand. 25c. dw

Increased safety is a potent argument in favor of the use of liquid air for blasting in German mines as it soon evaporates if the charge misses fire and there is no danger of a delayed explosion.

Rheumatism and Allied Pains—They Must Go!

The congestion of the blood in its flow causes pain. Sloan's Liniment penetrates to the congestion and starts the blood to flow freely. The body's warmth is renewed; the pain is gone. A WORTHY COUPLE.

In making a write-up of the marriage of Eldridge H. Gregg of Rusk to Miss Helena Matthews of this city, the Rusk Press-Journal makes the following comment:

"Eldridge R. Gregg is book-keeper in the First National bank in Rusk, and is universally popular with everybody here, where he has spent his entire life, and is a young man of more than ordinary business ability. The bride is the daughter of Mr. Geo. Matthews of Nacogdoches, and her selection by Eldridge as his life's companion is a guarantee of her warm welcome to the hearts and homes of our people."

WHAT CATARRH IS

It has been said that every third person has catarrh in some form. Science has shown that nasal catarrh often indicates a general weakness of the body; and local treatments in the form of snuffs and vapors do little, if any good.

To correct catarrh you should treat its cause by enriching your blood with the oil-food in Scott's Emulsion which is a medicinal food and a building-tonic; free from alcohol or any harmful drugs. Try it.

SAINTED OLD MOTHER IS NOW AT REST

Mrs. J. H. Thomas Died at the Family Residence Here Last Night.

From Monday's Daily:

Mrs. J. H. Thomas died at the family residence in this city in the early hours of last night after an illness of many months. The funeral will occur from the home at 3 o'clock this afternoon, conducted by Rev. J. N. Cunningham, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, officiating.

Mrs. Thomas was getting up in years in age, having been spared the allotted time of human life. She is survived by three sons and four daughters, as follows: Messrs. J. N., John L. and Dave Thomas; Misses Mollie and Winnie Thomas and Mrs. Parsons of this city, and Mrs. L. A. Legg of the Eden community.

Her devoted husband, who had come down the stream of time with her, and the twin fighting the battles of life together, rearing a family of useful and prominent children, was called to his reward last March, since which time the lady has been in failing health, gradually growing worse until a kind providence relieved her of her suffering. And here we are reminded of the pretty lines of the poet who said:

"Death is the port where all may refuge find,
The end of labor, entry into rest;
Death hath the bounds of misery confin'd
Whose sanctuary shrouds affliction best."

The family moved to town from the Douglas community some twenty-five or thirty years ago, where they have resided continuously since and during the long residence they have drawn about them many warm personal friends who have sympathized with the parents in the afflictions they have suffered in the evening of their lives, and whose hearts have been made sad with their death, but who would not call them back to again suffer the ills to which frail human nature is heir.

Guard your kidneys; the health of the body depends on those small but important organs. They extract uric acid from the blood which if allowed to remain in the system would cause dropsy and Bright's disease. Prickly Ash Bitters is a successful kidney tonic; it heals and strengthens the kidneys, regulates the liver, stimulates the stomach and digestion, cleanses the bowels. It will prevent or cure Bright's disease. Stripling, Haselwood & Co.

TWO DETECTIVES ARE SHOT IN DALLAS ROW

"Red" Kelly of Oklahoma City, Shoots When Detectives Enter His Room.

Dallas, Nov. 19.—Two city detectives are in a hospital with wounds and two robber suspects are in jail following a pistol battle between police and one of the robbers in a downtown rooming house early today. In absence of complications the wounded officers should recover. They are George Eimicke, shot through the hip, and Frank Smith, shot through the arm and twice through the right side. The alleged robber who did the shooting gave his name to the police as "Red" Kelly of Oklahoma City. His supposed confederate gave the name of Dave Widener, also of Oklahoma City.

The pistol fight took place after Widener had been arrested and had directed the police to the hiding place of Kelly. Widener, according to the police, confessed to two holdups last night, one at a drug store in East Dallas and the other at an oil supply station in Oak Cliff. In his statement he involved Kelly. Widener was arrested on the street following the Oak Cliff holdup on a description given by the police.

When the squad of police reached the Hawkins street rooming house where Kelly was in hiding, Eimicke was sent forward to enter the room which Kelly occupied. When the detective opened the door, Kelly sent a bullet through his right hip, bringing him down. Detective Smith leaped over the fallen Eimicke, but his revolver refused to fire and he became the helpless target of the alleged highwayman. Other police quickly filled the room and overpowered Kelly.

DOUBLY PROVEN

Nacogdoches Readers Can No Longer Doubt the Evidence.

This Nacogdoches citizen testified long ago.

Told of quick relief—of undoubted benefit.

The facts are now confirmed. Such testimony is complete—the evidence conclusive.

It forms convincing proof of merit.

W. H. Wood, farmer, North street, Nacogdoches, says: "I was troubled by a constant, dull ache across the small of my back. I never thought for a moment that my kidneys were out of order until I noticed that the kidney secretions began to be scanty in passage. I tried several medicines without finding relief until I began using Doan's Kidney Pills. They certainly did me a lot of good." (Statement given April 7, 1905.)

On June 4, 1915, Mr. Wood said: "I haven't changed my opinion of Doan's Kidney Pills since recommending them. I take them occasionally as a preventive but I have had little trouble from my kidneys since first using them."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Wood has twice publicly recommended. Foster-Milburn Co., Props, Buffalo, N. Y.

Gouveneur Morris—"Father of the P"

AMONG all the framers of the Constitution of the United States none were more adept at constructive statesmanship than the "father of the American decimal system" and originator of the copper cent. The finish, style and arrangement of the Constitution fairly belong to the brilliant and eloquent Morris. From his youth to the hour of his death he was a devoted and dauntless worker for American progress. His unrivaled ability as an orator was known throughout Europe, and his funeral orations on Washington, Clinton and Hamilton are treasured American classics. Gouveneur Morris was an indomitable supporter of the Louisiana Purchase. He it was who rescued LaFayette from prison walls and aided him from his private purse. Personally he was very handsome; his nature was impulsive, but his heart was warm and generous. He loved society, and hospitality was famous. All his life he drank the creative brews of and hops, and who will dare that it weakened his will would detract from his success, his glory and his might? It was the tenets of the Constitution of U. S. A. that Anheuser-Busch years ago founded their great institution. During these 38 years they have brewed from the finest barley and hops beers famous for being alive with natural force and nutriment. Their great brand BUDWEISER, because of its quality, purity, mildness and exquisite flavor, exceeds the sale of any other bottled beer by millions of bottles. BUDWEISER'S popularity grows daily, and 7500 people are daily employed to keep pace with the public demand.

FIRST CARLOAD OF PEANUT OIL LEAVES

Comanche Concern Ships Product to Oklahoma—Peanut Meal Also Is Made.

Fort Worth, Texas, Nov. 18.—A carload of peanut oil, the first ever produced in Texas, passed through Fort Worth Thursday over the Frisco, en route from Comanche, where it was made, to Oklahoma City, where it will be canned and placed on the market.

The Comanche Cotton Oil Co., makers of the oil, shipped at the same time a carload of peanut meal. It went to the A. & M. college, where it will be analyzed and used for demonstration purposes.

An Oklahoma City packing house was the purchaser of the first oil. This company will offer it for cooking purposes.

"Since this oil has been demonstrated as a success it means a general boom in the peanut growing industry on the Frisco lines," said W. C. Preston, traffic manager of the Frisco, Thursday. "The Comanche company obtains its peanuts from the vicinity of Comanche. Farmers on the Frisco lines below Ft. Worth have produced 100 carloads of peanuts this season."

JAS. G. GARRISON DIED SUDDENLY THIS MORNING

Brother of Mrs. J. H. Barham—Will Be Laid to Rest at Garrison Tomorrow.

From Friday's Daily: Mr. James G. Garrison, who has been making his home with his sister, Mrs. J. H. Barham, in this city the past month or two, died very suddenly this morning at 7 o'clock. His remains will be shipped to Garrison today and be laid to rest in the cemetery at that place tomorrow.

Mr. Garrison was about 63 years of age at the time of his death, and besides many relatives in East Texas, is survived by a widow and two sons who reside in California. He had been in failing health several years and moved about from place to place in the hope that the change of climate would be beneficial to his health, finally coming on to this city where he could be with his sister and the Drs. Barham. He was a son of the late Capt. Zed Garrison, a pioneer settler of Rusk county, who moved to Garrison when the railroad was built to that place, at which place he died some years ago.

In his early life Mr. Garrison had a brilliant and useful career. His first efforts were concentrated in equipping himself with an education and he graduated from several prominent colleges, attending Yale among the number. Getting license to practice law, he began his career at Henderson, and later served his native district as district attorney. Finishing his term of office, he moved to Tyler, where he associated himself with Messrs. Herndon and Crane in a firm that was known as Herndon, Crane & Garrison, and enjoyed a large and lucrative practice. While associated with this firm the railroad line now known as the Cotton Belt was thrown into bankruptcy and Mr. Garrison was appointed receiver, which position he held for several years. Getting the road out of its financial trouble, so that he could retire from the receivership, he moved to California, where he established a branch office of the law firm of Herndon, Crane & Garrison and enjoyed a good practice for a number of years. Being attracted with the allurements of a new gold field that was being opened up in South America, he spent several years in that country, but this venture was not so profitable. Returning to the States, he connected up with a railroad line in North Texas, to which he devoted his whole attention until his health broke down.

Having spent his early manhood in this section, and coming from one of the most prominent and best families of East Texas, Mr. Garrison was known to many of the old settlers, among whom he had many friends.

AN OLD SETTLER NOW WITH THE DEAD

Mr. T. J. Roquemore Succumbs to a Week's Illness With Pneumonia.

From Thursday's Daily: Mr. T. J. Roquemore died at his home in this city at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon following a week's illness with pneumonia. The funeral will occur from the family residence at 3:30 this afternoon and will be in charge of the Masonic fraternity, of which deceased was a member, Bro. Willis of the Methodist church officiating in the religious service.

Mr. Roquemore is survived by his aged widow and seven children. He came to this city some twenty-four years ago from Rusk county and in his relations with the community has made a good citizen and kind neighbor, who was loved and admired by a great host of friends. The Sentinel is informed that this attack was the first serious illness the old gentleman ever suffered, and as the poet would say:

"Age sits with decent grace upon his visage.

And worthily becomes his silver locks;

He bears the marks of many years well spent.

Of virtue, truth well tried, and wise experience."

The surviving members of the family will miss their dear old father who has been blessed with health, a clear mind and good judgment, but they may rejoice that he has been spared more than the allotted time of man and relieved of the many ills which many inherit and suffer in the course of a life time.

Mr. Roquemore was married forty-nine years ago last Saturday, and in the evening of her life, his devoted companion of nearly half a century will miss him most, but she blessed with a family of sons and daughters who will do what they can to comfort her, and ere long she will be permitted to join him in a better world where there will be no more deaths and partings and where they may resume the companionship that will last throughout ceaseless ages.

SATSUMA ORANGES IN EAST TEXAS.

Judge S. W. Blount had on display in his office this morning a dozen Satsuma oranges which were grown on his father's old home place in San Augustine and treated the reporter to a sample which we found to be very sweet and palatable—much more so than the average orange. The tree from which these oranges came is about seven years old, and was loaded with fruit this year.

Judge Blount says that a man named Baggett, living near the same place, has eight trees which were put out about the same time, from which he gathers a barrel and upward per tree every year, and finds ready sale at home for them at 25 cents per dozen, from which it will be readily seen what a profitable crop they are.

Judge Blount thinks the red, sandy land of this section has some preservative element in the soil which makes the trees not only thrive but stand the freezes better. Proof of this is the fact that when the trees in the Alvin country were killed out several years ago these trees stood the test and continued to bear, and bear every year, with better crops some years than others.

W. T. WILSON GRAIN CO. HAVE NEW WAREHOUSE

A representative of The Sentinel, who has been for weeks watching with much interest the construction of a very large warehouse by the W. T. Wilson Grain Co., took time yesterday to stroll down and give it a careful inspection.

He found one of the most commodious and substantial structures of the kind in this section. It is on the west side of the tracks of the H. E. & W. T. about 150 feet south of Main street, extending from the H. E. & W. T. tracks back to Bremond street on the west, partly on leased ground and partly on their own land.

He found the dimensions of the building to be 60x120 feet. The floor space is 7,200 square feet. The construction, consisting of the sub-structure, to be entirely of concrete; the super-structure is galvanized iron, making one of the largest and most complete warehouses it has ever been the pleasure of The Sentinel representative to inspect.

The structure is almost fire-proof, entirely rat-proof; in fact, Mr. Wilson insists that the Nacogdoches fire department that has twice saved his wooden, shingle roof warehouse "A," once when a frame building filled with hay was burned by the side of it, will never allow this structure to burn.

It will be used entirely for sacked grain, flour and meal, and has a capacity of 25 to 30 cars. He, therefore, insists that while it may be possible to start a fire in this grain, which is not combustible, he feels confident that the Nacogdoches fire department will never allow it to burn and will speedily stop any fire that may start.

The W. T. Wilson Grain Co. has lost two warehouses and one dwelling by fire within less than a year, but they feel that so far as the grain department is concerned their trouble by fire is now a thing of the past.

It required more than a thousand yards of dirt, gravel and sand and more than 800 sacks of cement in the construction of the sub-structure.

The super-structure, as before stated, is galvanized iron, well

BABY DIED.

From Monday's Daily:

Francis, the five-months-old baby of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Barker, living some four miles southeast of town, died last night after three weeks' illness with bronchitis.

The inequality of death which snatches away the baby from the fond parents, or cuts down the young man or young woman in the commencement of life, is something we cannot understand further than expressed by the poet who beautifully observed:

"Death rides on every passing breeze,
And lurks in every flower."

But we have the blessed promise from the Hand Divine that a home in heaven has been prepared for the children too frail for the ways of this world, where we can have reunion with them in a better world where there will be no more separation.

We don't know much about Automobiles. But we do know that a Mule is sure to Backfire if you try to crank him by twisting his tail.

J. J. Frederick is doing jury service with the county court in the city this week.
