THE HEATING PLANT IS IN OPERATION

School Building Is Now Snug and Warm and Teachers and Children Comfortable.

Supt. Davis informs The Sentinel that the new heating plant for the school building is now in operation, and that the teachers and children, from the smallest tot to the grown-ups, are comfortable and happy.

A first-class system has been installed, which is far superior to the old system, and in future the school building will be the most comfortable place in the city, now being arranged so that the temperature can be kept at any degree desired.

Much inconvenience was suffered in the delay of the installation of this plant but it was one of those unfortunate circumstances for which no one was to blame and could not be avoided, and the officials and teachers of the school are very grateful for the patience manifested and the loyalty of the children who continued in attendance.

3 DEAD, 2 MISSING; TRAFFIC CRIPPLED

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Dec. 15.—Three men are known to be dead, two others are missing and hundreds of passengers are imprisoned in trains near this city as a result of the blizzard which last night tied up traffic in the Hudson river valley. Fatalities occurred at Beacon, Hudson and Colonio, and the missing men are Milton Johnson and William Bogardus of Poughkeepsie.

An avalanche is said to have occurred at Storm King. The roof of an evangelistic tabernacle at Beacon collapsed just after the audience had left the building and a number of factory roofs have been crushed by the weight of the heavy snow. A large gymnasium at the Riverview Military academy here collapsed.

HUGE SUM ASKED IN NEW DEFENSE BILL

Washington, Dec. 14.—An increase of nearly 300 per cent over the sum spent last year for big guns, coast fortifications and ordnance included in the general preparedness scheme is asked for in the fortifications bill prepared by the war department. Last year $23,305,123 is asked.

The bill provides for $2,533,000 for new coast defense works, and itemizes eighteen new emplacements to be constructed as against eight built last year. Appropriations of $1,867,000 for the purchase of other new sites for forts, $3,000,000 for ammunition for sea coast guns and authority to contract for an additional $3,500,000 in ammunition are included.

A Good Stalk Cutter Will Save You Money Every Year

Are you one of those farmers who burn all your stalks and then buy fertilizer? Why don't you stop that foolishness? You know that there is fertilizer in every stalk that grows. You know that if you cut the stalks into short pieces and "turn them back into the soil" that you put that fertilizer right back into your land.

It means better land, larger crops and more money to you if you will use an AVERY CYCLONE STALK CUTTER. THE CYCLONE is built entirely of steel and iron. The wheel boxes and spindle bearings have dust-proof self-oiling caps, making the machine easy running and very durable. The springs send the knives down every time with a "hack" that cuts and these same springs also take up the "jolt," making it easier on the driver. The blades are made of true temper, best grade steel, with sharp-cutting edges on both sides.

There are many other things about the AVERY CYCLONE but we want you to come in and see for yourself. Come in and talk to us.

PLANS TO DESTROY MUNITIONS PLANTS

San Francisco, Dec. 14.—Plans for the destruction of munition plants at Aetna, Indiana and Ishpeming, Mich., were revealed today when details of indictments returned against three alleged conspirators in German plots were made public.

Possession of evidence which federal officials declare to be "the most vital to the case of any yet discovered," became known through the detailed report of testimony alleged to have been given by Johannes Henrikus Van Koolbergen, now in Canada.

DOCHES COMMANDRY ENJOYED BANQUET

Had a Most Interesting Meeting Last Night With Inspectors Present.

Nacogdoches Commandry No. 55 had a big meeting last night, the occasion being the visit of Mr. Harry C. Webb of Houston, special representative of the Grand Commandry of Texas, who came to inspect the Commandry at this place.

The meeting was called to order at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon and in the course of the meeting the degrees were conferred. At 7 o'clock the members, with their honor guests, repaired to the Redland hotel where twenty-five plates were laid and a very swell banquet was spread with the following menu:

Soup, mock turtle a la Anglaise; oyster cocktail, celery hearts, head lettuce, French dressing, sliced tomatoes; saute fillets of mignon, chicken a la king, mushroom sauce; roast young turkey, cranberry sauce, snowflake potatoes, early June peas, candied Louisiana yams, Waldorf salad; Boston cream pie, pumpkin pie, New York ice cream, assorted cakes, cafe noir; after dinner mints.

Sir Knight R. F. Davis acted as toastmaster for the occasion and many eloquent responses were made, altogether making up a most enjoyable occasion which will long be remembered by those present.

Those in attendance are very loud in praise of the splendid manner in which the banquet was handled and the

WAREHOUSE FOR PRODUCE.

With the adoption of cotton warehouses in every community, where the staple can be stored and held for better prices, a plan that is proving highly satisfactory, suggests the idea of similar facilities for the other products of the farm. In fact, warehouse facilities for the other products which are more scattering and less staple by reason of the lack of facilities for concentration and market, is more needed.

The government agencies and bureaus have lately been giving much attention to the matter of co-operative marketing urging the farmers to assemble and ship their produce together so that it can be sold in quantities for which there would be a market. The idea is a most logical one, but could be improved upon with suitable warehouse facilities where the stuff could be stored and held until there was a suitable demand and sufficient quantity to sell to the best advantage. This warehouse should have a keeper whose business it would be to care for the stuff entrusted to his care, sell it when the market was right or upon the advice of the officers of the association, and remit to each man his pro rata part of the consignment.

The plan would involve considerable bookkeeping—but it takes bookkeeping to keep the record straight. When a farmer brought in a load of produce he would be given a receipt for it. The item would be entered upon the books, and, when sold, check would be drawn in favor of the farmer for the gross amount of his part, less commissions, and the account closed.

The attendant of the warehouse would keep the trade advised as to what he had in stock and from him the farmers could keep in touch with the market quotations on the various produce of the farm, making it a clearing house between the farmers and the markets of the world.

There are so many advantages with a plan of this kind, rightly managed, that it would be impossible to enumerate them all in one article. More prominent among the advantages would be the opportunity to equalize the price realized by all for their produce. A farmer may have but a few gallons of syrup or a few bushels of potatoes to sell. He brings it to town and not infrequently finds that his more energetic neighbor has been in with a load ahead of him, supplying the demand. Not having enough to ship and no place to store his produce, he hauls it back home in disgust and increases his cotton acreage for which he knows there will be a demand at some price. The warehouse, which should be a commission house as well, could supply the home merchants from day to day as they have need, they in turn supplying the local trade and thereby all farmers would participate equally in the market of their stuff, as well as enjoy a better price for the reason that the market would not be "glutted" at any time.

This is a plan that could be worked out in every town, big or little, and there will never be any stability in the market of farm produce until it is.

The grocery business of the world is handled in a similar manner. Every town of importance has a commission grocery and the farmers must do likewise before they come into their own.

Let's begin at Nacogdoches, where all the other good things of Texas were begun and maintain supremacy of parental civilization.

Smokestacks and dinner pails make towns and cities. Let's build some more smokestacks and the dinner pails will follow.

The Nacogdoches Sentinel evidently knows a good thing when it sees it. We note that The Sentinel has adopted the "Sunday habit." And what is more, The Sentinel has its grammar on straight, too.—Longview Times-Clarion.

A new paper, established in a West Texas town, is offering a reward of $2 for the best lie contributed. But for the fear of awaking a discussion that we are trying to put to sleep, we could give the name and address of some people who could fill the bill and who would capture the prize with the first count.

With concert of action in all matters of public concern and the judicious employment of our patriotism, Nacogdoches could have ten, or fifteen thousand population within the next two or three years as easy as it can remain in the old rut. Let's wake up and get busy, fellers. We have the location and resources inviting the development.

St. Louis captured the national Democratic convention, but Dallas gave her a good race, coming second in the race for the prize. St. Louis won on the appeal that the convention would insure Missouri for the cause of democracy in forthcoming election, and upon this plea Texas could afford the sacrifice. The convention will be held June 14.

The industrial enterprises we have bring much new money to our local circulating medium, and help sustain the commercial and industrial life of the town. With the number multiplied by two, and double the development of our agricultural resources, it is easy to figure that we could sustain a town double the size of Nacogdoches' present proportions.

With the approach of another season of good times, the people of Nacogdoches county should not longer delay the matter of a thorough investigation of what the bowels of the earth in this section contains. A good producing oil well would put the county on a boom that would exceed anything ever dreamed of by the most optimistic. It would bring millions of dollars of new money to us and this money would circulate through every avenue of trade.

Two of the greatest evils of frail humanity is profanity and exaggeration. If people would neither lie nor "cuss" they would not abuse and slander their fellow man; neither would they be so apt to commit fraud of any kind for the reason that they could not explain it. With the logic of the same reasoning they would live up to their promises and obligations and a new day would dawn in the integrity of the citizenship of the country.

Baptists of Texas are planning to spend a total of $750,000 in the state during 1916, according to the budget tentatively decided upon in the convention being held at this week. Of

With the display of so many holiday goods in the different stores of the city it doesn't take a calendar to determine that Christmas is near. And if we may forecast the splendor of the occasion by this display, a great season approaches. "Do your Christmas shopping early and avoid the rush."

The Texas division, United Daughters of the Confederacy, in session at Austin this week, declined to congratulate President Wilson on his approaching marriage to Mrs. Norman Galt, speakers opposing such a resolution frankly declaring that the President's behavior was "too undignified for the first gentleman of the land."

If a man is a good Christian, a good prohibitionist, or a good citizen he will not have to go around proclaiming it at every opportunity to let the world know it. The most convincing evidence is contained in the living of the life which reflects these beauties. "By their fruits ye shall know them."

In making preparation for the celebration of the holiday season, let us not get away from the idea that the true purpose of this occasion is to celebrate the birth of a Savior of the world, who came to bless and save humanity, and that revelry, dissipation and kindred evils employed upon such a sacred occasion could be nothing other than an abomination in the sight of the Holy One.

The doctors of Orange occupied the pulpits of the different churches yesterday delivering lectures on the prevention of the spread of tuberculosis. Thus we are again reminded that the faithful doctor is the most unselfish of all professional men, giving away that which will destroy his business and he should have first consideration in the payment for that which he does charge.

If the report were to gain currency that a pot of gold had been buried somewhere in the community, the earth for miles around would be excavated. It is known that some oil is buried in the bowels of the earth of this county, and, with the same digging employed with rotary drills, we might get something better than just one pot of gold. Come on, fellers, and let's dig while the digging is good.

Longfellow says: "Lives of great men all remind us we can make our lives sublime, and, departing, leave behind us footprints on the sands of time." But the footprints made in celebrating the Christmas season in a modern way are not all sublime. Sometimes they are crooked tracks, indicating that a civilized Christian gentleman has passed that way with his Christmas spirit on wrong-side-out.—Center Daily Optimist.

WOMEN AS LEADERS IN EDUCATION.

Of the 12,000 conspicuous positions, largely of an administrative character, listed in the 1915-16 Educational Directory just issued by the interior department through its bureau of education, 2,500 are held by women. There are women who are college presidents, state superintendents of public instruction, county superintendents, directors of industrial training, heads of departments of education in colleges and universities, directors of schools for afflicted and exceptional children, and librarians.

Twenty-four of the 622 colleges and universities listed in the directory are presided over by women. Of the nearly 3,000 county superintendents in the country, 508 are women. The tendency to fill this position with women is almost wholly confined to the West. One state, Montana, has not one male county superintendent. Wyoming has only two, Kentucky is the only Southern state that utilizes women in this office; the state has twenty-six as county superintendents. On the other hand, there are only twenty-six city superintendents in a total of over 2,000.

Seventy institutions for the blind are listed in the directory. Of the seventy-five state schools for the deaf, ten are under the leadership of women, and of the twenty-two private institutions of the same character, sixteen have women superintendents. Of the thirty-one private institutions for the feeble-minded, twenty are under supervision of women.

Fourteen out of eighty-six directors of industrial schools are women, and forty-eight of the 200 schools of art are in charge of women. Women have a monopoly of library positions. Out of 1,300 public and society libraries given in the directory women supervise 1,075.

The Government bureau of education itself exemplifies the call for women in executive educational positions; eleven of the thirty-three bureau officials listed in the directory are women.—Austin Statesman.

WHEN THE CLOCK STRIKES.

Great wars have their own way of ending, and little groups of detached individuals are as helpless in forcing, or even accelerating, the conclusion of hostilities as they are in restraining the deeply-emboweled convulsions of Vesuvius. The humanitarian sentiments of people who can not refrain from registering their protest again and again, while so terrible a conflict continues, must command universal respect and sympathy, yet the present struggle in Europe will not stop because they wish it to.

Noble men and women in thousands were incapable of anticipating so tremendous a war as burst upon the Christian world sixteen months ago. The event has proved that they did not know the world they lived in. The causes of the war were there, and there they had been for years and years, while such beautiful spirits as Jane Addams and such idealists as Mr. Ford lived in blissful ignorance of the possibility of a whole continent suddenly turning into an inferno. The shock, when it came, was necessarily appalling, but people who had no conception of the proximity of the catastrophe, because it was in them to idealize mankind beyond what the facts warranted, may not now assume itself out, a Vesuvius ceases to explode, or even to utter in its deep-level delirium, and so this war will come to an end. All the love and beauty of spirituality and faith in God that dwelt in the world could not prevent the war from coming; and, just as they failed to prevent the coming of it, so will they fail now to hasten the ending of it by pitiful little schemes for a continuous conference of neutral nations or by bombarding the President of the United States with a hundred thousand telegrams imploring him to help "end the war in Europe."

This is said with no thought of disrespect, with no levity in the presence of the ceaseless anguish of sensitive and noble souls over the world's demonic furies; it is said rather in the belief that the responsible pilots of the people in all the countries today are the most anxious of mortals to end the strife; and that they can be and, in any event, must be trusted, because of their exceptional knowledge of facts and insight into conditions, to initiate practical peace measures when the clock strikes the hour.—Springfield (Mass.) Republican.

UNIVERSITY BUREAU'S BIENNIAL REPORT

Texas is known the world over as the original home of a certain very efficient form of city government. Not content with this distinction in municipal problems and for the purpose, also, of co-operating with the cities of Texas in needed reform in the conduct of municipal business.

This bureau now makes its first report, a copy of which has been sent to this office by Dr. Herman G. James, director. One of the most striking features of the report is a two-page map of Texas showing the cities that have applied to the bureau for assistance since its organization. Every portion of the state is represented. On page 12 occurs a list of the various and perplexing problems that have been put up to the bureau by inquiring and ambitious Texas municipalities. One is surprised that there are really in existence so many problems connected with urban life.

A list of bulletins issued by the bureau is suggestive of the research work which has been done: A Model Charter for the Texas Cities, Methods of Sewage Disposal in Texas Cities, A Model Civil Service Code for the Texas Cities, What Is the City Manager Plan? Street-Paving in Texas, Public Service Rates in Texas Cities, and so on to the number of a dozen or more.

A copy of this report, we are told, will be sent free upon application to the bureau and it will make very informative reading for anyone interested in the solution of municipal problems.

The dispatches in the big papers announce that forty cars of Northern homeseekers will arrive in Texas today, via Denison, and be conveyed to South Texas. The visitors will be handled by the Katy in four trains with ten coaches each. This is said to be one of the heaviest movements of homeseekers ever handled to Texas from Northern states. When East Texas learns the game of handling homeseekers direct after this plan, bringing them to our section in special trains and showing them a country with actual value and the great opportunities we have for legitimate investment, our country will take a stride forward, the value of our lands will be increased, likewise our production, and the waste lands will be con-

"THE MICROBE OF PROGRESS" AMONG FARMERS.

Talk about microbes, it does look sometimes as if the "Microbe of Progress" is starting a genuine epidemic all over the South! Farmers are beginning to run their farms with two to four horse-power instead of one horse-power, and getting tractors and gasoline engines to help where horses and mules can't work fast enough! Sowing legumes and getting free nitrogen from the air instead of buying it in fertilizer sacks. Old scrub cows and razor-back hogs going out of fashion, and farmers beginning to brag about having pure-bred sires with pedigrees as long as any in the First Book of Chronicles. Full corn cribs and smokehouses beginning to run out "time-prices" slavery that was once worse than negro slavery was before the war. And not only this, but farmers are finding out that a man doesn't have to live in town to be a "business man", and so are coming together in business deals to buy or sell, starting marketing associations, co-operative creameries, co-operative associations for getting any improved machinery that is too expensive for individuals to buy, co-operative fire insurance associations, etc.

Nor does the good news stop here. Southern farmers not only are learning to make more money and save more money, but they are beginning to make improvements in the home as well as on the farm. No wonder E. F. McIntyre, seeing all this, couldn't hold on any longer, burst forth into a regular Walt Mason lyric the other day, reading as follows:

"I remember, I remember the house where I was born, the little window where the sun came peeping in at morn. You'd hardly know the old place now, for Dad is up-to-date, and the farm is scientific, from the back lot to the gate. The house and barn are lighted with bright acetylene, the engine and the laundry are run by gasoline; we have silos, we have autos, we have dynamos and things, a telephone for gossip and a phonograph that sings. The hired man has left, miss his homely face—a college graduate are working his place. There's an engine and fireman, a chauffeur and vet., electrician and mechanic, oh, the farm's run right, you see. The little window where the sun came peeping in at morn brightens up a bathroom that cost dad a field of corn. Our milkmaid is pneumatic and she's sanitary, too, but Dad gets fifteen cents a quart for milk that once brought two. Our cattle came from Jersey and the hogs are all Duroc, the sheep are Southdown beauties, and the chickens Plymouth Rock. To have the best of everything, that is our aim and plan, for Dad not only farms it, but he's a business man."—The Progressive Farmer.

A message was received by friends in the city yesterday bearing the sad intelligence that T. J. McMahan was dead in Camden, Ark.

Mr. McMahan was connected with the Redland hotel in this city for some time and during his sojourn with us made many friends who will be pained to learn of his death.

No news as to funeral arrangements was contained in the messages, and we presume his remains will be laid to rest in the place in which he died.

Pain is a visitor to every home and usually it comes quite unexpectedly. But you are prepared for every emergency if you keep a small bottle of Sloan's Liniment handy. It is the greatest pain killer ever discovered. Simply laid on the skin—no rubbing required—it drives the pain away. It is really wonderful.

Mervin H. Soister, Berkeley, Cal. writes: "Last Saturday, after tramping around the Panama exposition with wet feet, I came home with my neck so stiff that I couldn't turn. I applied Sloan's Liniment freely and went to bed. To my surprise, next morning the stiffness had almost disappeared, four hours after the second application I was as good as new." March, 1915. Next Friday morning at 11 o'clock the minister will preach on the subject "Why Baptists Baptize." This day has been designated as "Old Folks' Day," with the presence of young people also desired and on this occasion Bro. Colds Need Attention.

Internal throat and chest troubles produce inflammation, irritation, swelling or soreness and unless checked at once, are likely to lead to serious trouble. Caught in time Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar-Honey loosens the phlegm and destroys the germs which have settled in the throat or nose. It is soothing and healing. A CHRISTMAS TRIBUTE FROM HENRY FULLER

He Pays Tribute to the Memory of Old Settlers and Matters of History.

I note with regret that Mrs. Nannie Mast is dead. For years I was well acquainted with her distinguished and well-beloved husband, Capt. Milton Mast. We always pronounced the name "Moss" and everybody in Nacogdoches county knew and loved Capt. Moss. If he ever met a stranger he did not know it and if he ever failed to help those who needed help, he never knew it. There are hundreds of people in Nacogdoches county today who have gone to Capt. Moss when he was sheriff and tax collector and said: "Well, Captain, I haven't any money today, so what are we going to do about it?" And Capt. Moss never failed to go down in his own pocket and pay the man's tax. I know this to be a fact, because I have seen him do it time and again. All that kind of liberality played out when good old Capt. Moss was defeated and retired to private life.

I remember when John Spradley was deputy sheriff under Capt. Moss, and it was the first official position that John ever held in Nacogdoches county. Tom Trawick used to be deputy sheriff and deputy tax collector also. Tom has been dead for 25 years; he died in February, 1889, and if I am not mistaken, Tom Swift died either in February or March, 1889. How time flies. Old Bill Burrows is also dead. He was deputy sheriff when Capt. Moss captured the desperado Bill Longley, five miles west of Keatchie, La., 35 years ago. Thereby hangs a tale.

Bill Longley was a native of Lee county and all his people lived eight or ten miles in the country from Giddings, the county seat. Bill had committed many crimes and was wanted in several counties in Southwest Texas. Nobody knew that he was even in Lee county but supposed he was on the scout in some secret locality. One day a farmer by the name of Anderson, who happened to be a star witness against Bill Longley in a certain case, was plowing in his field, laying by his corn. As he drove out at the end of the row and started to turn his mule, he was shot in the breast with a load of buckshot by some person concealed in the brush outside the field just across the fence. He was killed instantly.

Investigation by officers found tracks and the paper wadding which had been used in the shotgun. The wadding was pieces of the Galveston News and on one of the fragments, a small piece of yellow paper was pasted in the usual way. On this paper was the name of Kail Longley, and uncle of Bill Longley. Kale Longley was arrested but proved beyond question that he was away from home all day on which the murder was committed. The question then was who had Longley's gun on that day. It was finally found that it had been borrowed by Bill Longley who was on a visit in the neighborhood. Bill could not be found but his trail was soon picked up and followed through several counties of east and southeast Texas. It led through Nacogdoches county by way of Chireno, through San Augustine and Sabine counties and crossed into Louisiana in transport from there it led to a point five miles west of Keatchie, where Longley was shot and hired out to a respectable farmer to now Willis, in Montgomery county. Five miles east of Willis he was doing some repair work on the house of a well-to-do farmer. The house had only one sleeping room, and this was a small side room. One night about midnight Armstrong was suddenly awakened by the sound of rapidly approaching horses feet. A few seconds later the horse halted at the gate and almost immediately thereafter a man sprang upon the gallery, aroused the proprietor and asked permission to rest until morning, also permission to feed his horse. The request was granted and the stranger was told to sleep with Armstrong in the sideroom, provided Armstrong did not object. No objection was urged and as soon as the man had taken his horse to the barn lot, fed it and returned he entered the side room, and to the surprise of Armstrong placed a winchester rifle under his head and retired without removing his clothes, and persisted in sleeping next to a window which could be opened if necessary.

An hour or so before daylight Armstrong-woke up and a gust of cold air was blowing on his face. At the same time he discovered that his partner had gone, and almost at the same time he heard the clattering of horses hoofs coming down the road. A minute or so later the riders reached the house, rapidly dismounted and asked the proprietor if a stranger had stopped there. On receiving an affirmative answer they at once scattered, surrounded the house and sent two of their number to the door of the side room to capture Longley. When the door was opened the bird had flown, and although the posse followed him several miles he eluded capture and made good his escape. On the bed half asleep he had heard the approaching horsemen and made his get away. Investigation the next morning showed that he had not put his horse in the lot, but had fed it in the woods outside of the lot and more than a hundred yards distant, not even pulling the saddle off the animal's back. It was only the work of a moment to reach the horse, slip the bridle on it and ride away, and this is exactly what he did. And to show how wise Longley was, in this respect, he had fed the horse at the rear of the house, so as to be able to reach it without showing himself in case he was followed.

I do not know how Sheriff Moss found out that Longley was near Keatchie, La., but I do know that the sheriff took Bill Burrows and they went over there and arrested Longley, as he came riding up to the house from the field where he had been plowing. The arrest was made at noon and Longley was in his shirt sleeves. He was taken back to Giddings, Texas tried and hanged. At that time Delmas E. Teague, who was deputy sheriff of Lee county, had charge of Longley from the time he was placed in jail until he was hanged and he once told the writer that Longley tried every possible way to bribe him, to let him break jail and escape. Teague was afterward sheriff of Washington county 24 years, and was recent-

SECONDS THE MOTION.

Editor Sentinel:

I read with much interest your editorial in yesterday's issue of The Daily Sentinel in which you exploit the idea of a warehouse for farm produce, to be operated in the manner of a commission or clearing house for the surplus originating on the different farms of the county and your idea appeals to me very forcibly.

Particularly was I impressed with the idea advanced in the matter of the small farmer with a few bushels of sweet potatoes or a few gallons of syrup surplus for which he could not always find a market, and, as a result of the fact, would increase his cotton acreage for which there was an established market at some price.

With the plan you propose, the surplus produce of the various farms of the community could be assembled at a place designated where stock of it could be taken and thereby be marketed in an intelligent manner which would insure better returns. If sufficient amount of a given article can be assembled it can be quoted to the markets and shipped in car load lots to the place offering the best price. If less than car loads can be obtained of any commodity, it can be handled more systematically with the new plan and made to bring a better price by reason of the more gradual market and the removal of the possibility of "glutting" the market with it on one day to be followed with a famine of the particular article the next.

All lines of successful business are handled in this way now and a plan of this or similar kind must be worked out if we ever have a stable market for our hay, grain, fruits, vegetables, etc. I hope that now the agitation of the matter has been begun there will be no let-up until some practical plan is worked out. I most heartily second your motion to begin the good work in Nacogdoches and would be glad to see the farmers of this vicinity come together and select some suitable man who could be bonded to the organization for the faithful performance of his duties—some man who is thoroughly competent and whom you know; one who is in sympathy with your prosperity and content with a reasonable commission on the service he performs. This should also be some man with a suitable building, or the business might be annexed to some of the houses engaged in a similar business with other lines in the city.

You are on the right track and I feel that if the agitation works out a system of concentrated marketing of the surplus produce of Nacogdoches county as it should be, you will have rendered your county a very valuable service not only in meeting an emergency that exists, but making possible great development in the growing of more than one crop. Just now, and for some time to come, the world is looking for food for man and beast, and that country which raises stuff to meet this demand, working out a system of marketing by which the farmer can realize the value of his products will reap the richest reward.

out anything of a misfit nature. Verily, we know now that a "modern" Christmas approaches.

An exchange suggests that the longest sentence a justice of the peace can impose is that of matrimony. And it is a sentence that all of them enjoy imposing, a fact we can prove by Judge Frank Huston of this city who is becoming very proficient in the art.

While planting shade trees this fall The Sentinel would commend the pecan tree, which would bear a most palatable nut as well as beautiful shade. Experiments have proven that the pecan tree is adapted to this particular section of East Texas and no tree is more valuable.

Just now much confusion is being aroused in political circles over the fact that it will take four primary elections next year to meet the requirements of the amendments to the election law and many are clamoring for a special session of the legislature to regulate the matter. The confusion comes in the direct vote for United States senators and presidential electors, for which primaries are designated on dates and no revenue provided for the expense of holding same.

Mr. Roland Jones of the press is another advocate of a better and more comprehensive system of marketing the surplus produce of the country and has some very practical ideas which we are trying to get him to reduce to writing and contribute to The Sentinel. An article from his pen, with the ideas developed he discussed with The Sentinel man this morning, would make interesting reading, and help lead up to a solution of the problem which has hitherto baffled all generations of East Texas.

Mr. W. T. Wilson, one of the prominent wholesale men of the city, called at the office this morning and commended The Sentinel upon its editorial agitation of a commission warehouse for country produce, saying that something of the kind was the only solution for properly handling the matter which has hitherto been a problem, but as he has promised to supplement the editorial with an article from his own pen at an early date, we will not quote him further. Mr. Wilson has built up a great business of his own pretty much along the lines we reviewed, and we look forward to his article with much interest, with it promising our readers a great treat in something that will be practical and valuable. We have a communication from another party along the same lines, appearing elsewhere in today's paper, and we are highly gratified with the interest that is being aroused in a matter that we believe will lead to the development of a better marketing system for Nacogdoches county, and new prosperity for our worthy farmers. We would be pleased to have other communications on the subject, either for or against, for, in the discussion of any matter of public concern, we arrive at the logical solution.

J. W. Daniel, commercial agent of the Missouri, Oklahoma & Gulf Railway Co., was a recent visitor to the city and when seen by The Sentinel man took occasion to pay Nacogdoches many pretty compliments. In the course of his remarks he said that more freight originated here and more stuff was shipped than was handled in many of the West Texas towns several times the amount of other towns.

WHY NOT AMERICAN-MADE TOYS?

The toy-age child this Christmas will not get the impression that Santa Clause lives in Germany, for it will amuse itself with playthings made in America, in France, in England and in Russia, with the accent on America.

The great war has taught us something new every day. For instance, we have learned that America can feed the world, that America is not entirely dependent on the capitals of Europe for fashion and music, that Henry Ford is not great in all things. Now we are learning that we may have an old-fashioned, extravagant Christmas without importing shiploads of toys from Germany.

One of the vocations that are being taught disabled soldiers in France is toy-making. Here is a double-barreled idea for us. We have cripples who know nothing of war. We have blind who know not the flash of powder. We have thousands of disabled men and women and children who are charges on society or who eke out wretched livelihoods because we have been in the habit of sending our money abroad for our toys and what-not.

If teaching disabled soldiers to make toys is an expedient prompted by the war, why not set up training schools for American defectives and let them make our toys?

American ingenuity like that which produced the Teddy Bear ought to keep the toy market fresh with novelties, and if German and Russian peasants make respectable livings in the creating of toys at the unusual low wages for which they are celebrated, why can't American cripples earn very respectable livings in the making of toys, and at the same time start an industry that is hardly known in America.

Bring on the toy shops.—The Star-Telegram.

GIVING IT AWAY.

America has been fortunate in that her two wealthiest men, in their advancing years, have seemed disposed to give away their money for good works rather than to leave it unbroken to form the nucleus of a fortune that might some day almost control the world. They have given away their dollars where they would do great good to the public, as a rule, will not be denied by the thoughtful. A rather widespread belief that there was something wrong with the conditions that enabled them to get so much together in the first place does not alter public approval of their benefactions. It has been said that no man can come to own $100,000,000 honestly—using the highest and broadest sense, which does not necessarily imply any lack of personal rectitude on the part of the man of great wealth, but rather a defect in the laws and customs of the country in which he made his money—and perhaps this is true. It is quite probable that never again in the history of America will poor men—as were Rockefeller and Carnegie—have the opportunity to become literally richer than Croesus.—San Antonio Light.

JAS. BUTE, DEAD.

The information is gleaned from today's issue of the Post that James Bute, a pioneer merchant of Houston, is dead.

GOOD LOGIC.

A correspondent in the Cushing Enterprise makes some most sensible observations in the following:

"The people of a small town are often unwilling to credit themselves with anything more than mediocrity. If one of their number develops more than common ability they often have no knowledge of it. If they begin to suspect it, rather than encourage they become hostile with jealousy.

"The people of a small town believe their stores, their professional men, their schools, are inferior, and in doing so they admit their own individual inferiority. Every time a citizen of a small town goes away to trade he admits that his own town is inferior and that he himself as a member of that community is also inferior.

"Why should not citizens of a small town co-operate in having the best stores, in educating their young men, and women to the highest efficiency; why themselves? Why should a small town be considered second or third rate, not only by the outside world but by the residents of the town itself?

"Just as soon as farmers and the people of a small town will begin buying everything at home, the town will begin to get bigger and better, the stores will be better, the schools and churches will be better, the professional men will not care to go away to buy cheap articles and worthless service, showing that they themselves are cheap and of no particular account."

SEVERAL ALLIGATORS CAPTURED ON SABINE

While fishing on the Sabine river at the old Morgan mill site, Sam Compton and two of the Hammond boys who live in the Morton community, discovered several small alligators playing around a hole in the river. Upon investigating, they found another alligator hiding in the hole. Procuring a pick and shovel they started to work and soon had it chained and loaded on their wagon. Then they turned their attention to the baby alligators, capturing twenty-one. They are about twelve to fourteen inches in length, while the other one is seven or eight feet long.—Longview Leader.

SHOULD PLOW OUR SOIL IN THE WINTER

How many of our farmers know what effect plowing has on the soil when done in the late fall or early winter? The effect upon the crop to be planted the following spring? Very few, if you judge by the number that plow their lands in the fall of the year, and yet every year we hear complaints about dry weather cutting off the corn crop, or causing cotton to shed from these same people who tell you that deep fall plowing kills your soil. Well, what is the difference? You might just as well kill your soil as to kill your corn or cotton by cutting off their water supply, which is cutting off their feed, or in other words, starving them. A perfect stand of corn on one acre of ground will take for its growth 300 tons of water; this is what the corn uses on the acre. If we take into consideration the amount of water that is lost by evaporation as well as what the corn uses, it will take 1,560 tons of water. For those who may not know, corn is 90 per cent water.

Now, most, if not all, of our rains fall during the winter and unless the soil is placed in such condition that it can take up and conserve for future use the water that falls during these months it runs off into branches and creeks and is lost. Not only do we lose this water but we lose the soil which it carries away with it. If the soil is plowed at least ten inches deep it is able to take care of these winter rains and store up the moisture against a drouth. How then, does the soil store up the moisture and at the same and film water which surrounds every particle of soil, and by capillary action is drawn up from one particle of soil to another until it reaches the surface and is lost by evaporation. In order, therefore, to have an abundance of film water which is continually feeding the plants that grow, it is necessary to have a good supply of water beneath, or, as we called it, the water table. This supply of water is partly maintained by the rainfall or free water which often comes to the surface of the ground in the form of springs.

Deep plowing in the fall and winter not only stores up the winter rains but it creates the soil, letting in sunlight and air which are as necessary for plant life as water. The action of water and air and heat upon this fresh-broke land makes available the plant food stored up in it, but which until broken and acted upon by the elements is not available to the plant. So, therefore, deep plowing is better than commercial fertilizer for improving the soil fertility, yet how many of our farmers laugh about deep plowing and then in the spring of the year execute a mortgage to buy commercial fertilizer with, when they have plenty on their own farms if they will only plow for it. Most of us know a little about nitrogen and phosphorus, because we buy it in the shape of cotton seed meal and acid phosphate and most of us think that is all plants need to grow on with about three plowings. If we do not think it most of us practice it on our farms, but I want to tell you this that plants cannot live on these two elements alone. All soils must and do contain nitrogen, phosphorus sufficiently available to the crops during the dry months of June and July as they often are in this county. I could write a book on this subject but my space is limited, so will tell you more about your soils in my next article. GEO T. McNESS, Texas Experiment Station No. 11.

ACT QUICKLY

Delay Has Been Dangerous in Nacogdoches.

Do the right thing at the right time.

Act quickly in time of danger. In time of kidney danger Doan's Kidney Pills are most effective.

Plenty of Nacogdoches evidence of their worth. Mrs. J. J. Coker, S. North St., Nacogdoches, says: "I felt miserable all the time, had no life and lacked energy. My back was weak and seldom let up paining. Dizzy spells and headaches constantly annoyed me and kept me feeling all out of sorts. It took only one box of Doan's Kidney Pills to ease the pain across my back and strengthen my kidneys. My health also improved and I began to feel stronger and well. I have had very little trouble in the past two years."

CHICAGO WON NEXT G. O. P. CONVENTION

Places the Meeting a Week in Advance of the Democratic Gathering.

Washington, Dec. 14.—Chicago was selected by the Republican national committee as the meeting place of the 1916 Republican national convention to be held June 7, one week before the Democratic convention in St. Louis.

The vote stood Chicago 30 San Francisco 13, St. Louis 7, Philadelphia 2.

The committee on apportionment decided to abide by the action of the national committee two years ago in reducing the number of Southern delegates to the convention. This means, it is said, that the convention will have 985 members instead of 1,078 as in 1912.

The committee on call also decided to abide by the laws of the various states, including those which select delegates by primaries, although it reserved the right, where the law disfranchises the Republican party, to leave the final decision as to the seating of delegates with the national committee.

THE NEWEST REMEDY FOR Backache, Rheumatism and Dropsy.

KIDNEY, Bladder and Uric Acid troubles bring misery to many. When the kidneys are weak or diseased, these natural filters do not cleanse the blood sufficiently, and the poisons are carried to all parts of the body. This causes depression, aches, and pains, nervousness, irritability, weakness, stiffness and rheumatism. In some people there are sharp pains in the back and limbs, distressing bladder disorders and sometimes obstinate dropsy. The uric acid sometimes forms into gravel or kidney stones. When the uric acid affects the muscles and joints, it causes lumbago, rheumatism, gout or sciatica. Write Dr. Pierce at once. Send 10c. for large trial pkg. "Anuric." During digestion uric acid is absorbed into the system from meat eaten, and even from some vegetables. The poor kidneys get tired and backache begins. This is a good time to take "Anuric," the new discovery of Dr. Pierce for kidney trouble and backache. 50c. at druggists.

THE SAPP CASES ARE SENT TO LUFKIN

E. E. and Louis Sapp. Charged With Murder. Transferred From Jasper to Lufkin.

From yesterday's issue of the Beaumont Enterprise the information is obtained that the cases of E. E. and Louis Sapp, charged with the killing of Richard Watts and Frank Howard, whose bodies were found in the Hardin county, early last spring, have been transferred to Lufkin for trial and the prisoners have been conveyed to the Lufkin jail.

The cases were originally transferred from Hardin county to Jasper for trial, where the prisoners have been confined in jail the past several months, having been denied bail in the preliminary trial. The Enterprise says that Judge Davis, district judge of that district, transferred the cases from Jasper upon his own motion, giving the defendants choice of either Shelby or Angelina counties and they chose Angelina. E. E. Sapp once lived in Angelina county and is said to have a wide acquaintance in that section.

Commenting further upon the report, the Enterprise says: "There has perhaps never been a criminal case in this section of the country that has attracted so much attention. Both E. E. and Louis Sapp are well known in this and adjoining counties."

"It will be remembered that Mrs. Sapp was killed while in a hunting camp on the Trinity river near Rayburn, Nov. 7, 1914, by a gun in the hands of Richard Watts said to have been accidentally discharged. All of the witnesses who were in the camp at the time of the killing and who testified in the habeas corpus hearing testified that the killing was accidental, so far as they could tell.

"Richard Watts disappeared about the first of this year. In the early part of February, a farmer living near the Big Thicket discovered a badly decomposed body in a shallow grave about thirty or forty yards from the old tram road through the edge of the thicket. By means of a peculiar piece of dental work the body was positively identified as that of Richard Watts. The arrest of E. E. and Louis Sapp by Sheriff Jordan of Hardin county followed about a month later. Upon complaint sworn out by the sheriff they were charged with the crime. Before this case went to trial on habeas corpus the body of Frank Howard was discovered about 90 feet from the Watts grave. The Sapp brothers were also charged with this crime."

DANIELS' ESTIMATE BEYOND GENERAL BOARD

Secretary of Navy Recommended 85 Submarines and Total of $499,876,000 for 5 Years.

Washington, Dec. 12.—Details of a half billion dollar navy building program under the five-year continuing plan recommended to congress are contained in the annual report of Secretary Daniels, made public tonight.

The report shows that for the first time in the history of the department the secretary's recommendations increase the expenditures proposed by the general board. In this connection the secretary says:

"My recommendation of a five-year program embraces the same number as proposed by the general board in the distribution it made in the five-year program of dreadnaughts, battle cruisers, scouts and destroyers. I recommend 15 fleet submarines, where the general board recommends nine, and I recommend 85 coast submarines as against 58 recommended by the general board. For additional reserve ammunition my recommendation is $25,000,000, whereas the general board recommends $11,000,000. They recommend something more for other craft. My total for the five years is $502,482,214. The general board's total is $499,876,000, a very slight difference for the five years, though the board's recommendation for the first year is much larger than the department's estimate."

The five-year program for new ships and completion of those already authorized reaches a grand total of $502,482,214, with large appropriations for reserve ammunition and aviation.

REPUBLICANS WILL SUPPORT WILSON

Mann, Republican Leader, Will Discuss National Plan of Defense With President.

Washington, Dec. 9.—Senate Republicans will make no partisan fight on the national defense program if it is not framed by the Democrats in caucus.

Senator Gallinger, the Republican leader, told President Wilson today that the Republicans want the army and navy materially strengthened and are willing to co-operate with the Democrats. Later Gallinger said President Wilson had told him he would not approve of the Democratic caucus making the defense plans party measures.

"I agree with the thought in the mind of the President and Secretary Garrison in the preparation of the administration plans," said Senator Gallinger at the White House. "But I have not studied all the details yet. The Republicans will not treat this matter in a partisan manner and I so told the President."

"I will honestly co-operate in working out the plans. But we will not agree to have the Democrats form their plans in caucus and then ask us to approve them. The Republicans are ready to meet the Democrats half way if the majority party is really willing to discuss this question on a non-partisan basis."

Senator Gallinger disagreed with the President on his plan for a merchant marine and for raising the money necessary for preparedness. When the administration ship bill is introduced, Senator Gallinger said, he will offer a substitute. The Republicans, however, he added, favored using the merchant marine as naval auxiliaries.

Senator Gallinger advocated a bond issue and opposed President Wilson's program of internal taxation. He practically objected to a tax on automobiles and gasoline. He said, however, that he favored lowering the income tax minimum and he believed a tax on bank checks would do no harm. He opposed a tax on iron and steel.

Representative Mann, Republican leader of the house, will discuss the national plan of defense with the President tomorrow.

SHERIFF SPRADLEY DELIVERS PRISONER

Sheriff Spradley arrived home last night from Houston where he went to deliver W. S. Witt to the sheriff of Cameron county.

It will be remembered that the sheriff's department of this county captured Witt a few days ago and placed him in jail on advice of the officials of Cameron county. At the time Witt was engaged in the ministry, preaching over the country, and it is said that several appointments had to be cancelled by his arrest. He was arrested on a charge of disposing of mortgaged property.

Sheriff Spradley says that the fellow has won his sympathy and that he does not believe that he meant anything criminal in disposing of the property. The property disposed of consisted of a wagon and team and the notes were not due, hence he used the money in an enterprise in which he expected to be able to make some money and meet the obligation when it came due, but was met with reverses which thwarted his good intentions and precipitated the crash which landed him in the meshes of the law.

SPECIAL TERM COURT FOR ANGELINA CO.

The information is gleaned from the Lufkin Daily News of Saturday that a special term of district court for Angelina county will convene at Lufkin on the first Monday in January, which will be held in session six weeks, if necessary, to catch up with the work.

The special term was made necessary by reason of the Sapp cases, which will require much time, being transferred to that court and an accumulation of other business which would not be possible to handle in the regular terms of court.

EAST TEXAS FAIR ASSOCIATION SUED

J. N. Thomas, a well-known citizen of this city, has filed suit in the justice court of this city against the East Texas Fair association for the recovery of $33 with 6 per cent interest from December, 1911, which he, as surety on a note for the association, has been forced to pay out.

In the petition it is alleged that plaintiff, with some thirty other people, executed a note for $1,000 December, 1911, in favor of Mrs. Martha Blackburn, for which they obtained $1,000 in cash for the use and benefit of the fair association, and that the officers of the association have failed and refused to refund this money, as a result of which he and the others signing the note with him are liable for its payment; that he has paid his pro rata part of said note and may be compelled to pay more, etc., and that he is entitled to judgment against the fair association as far as his liability appears.

John Hancock—"Father of the Revolution"

UPON the Declaration of Independence his name may be read without spectacles. His signature was the first subscribed to the world's most famous State document. In the most realistic sense John Hancock pledged his life and his fortune to the cause of the Revolution. He was one of the richest men in the colonies, holding investments in banks, breweries, stores, hotels, and also owning a fleet of vessels. The seizure of one of these precipitated the Boston massacre. In Revolutionary days and until his death he was a popular idol. When it was proposed to bombard Boston, though it would have resulted in greater personal loss to him than to any other property owner, he begged that no regard be paid to him because of his financial interests. While Hancock did not sign the Constitution of the United States, he used his great influence in its behalf, which awakened the gratitude of Washington. "He was prepossessing in manner, and passionately fond of the elegant pleasures of life, of dancing, music, concerts, routs, assemblies, card parties, rich wines, social dinners and festivities." Until the end of his life the people of Massachusetts loved to honor him. In the stirring events preceding the Revolution he was one of the most influential members of the Sons of Liberty. To this tireless worker for American Independence, Liberty was the very breath of life. He would have frowned upon any legislation which would restrict the natural rights of man, and would have voted NO to prohibition enactments. It was upon the tenets of our National Spoken Word that Anheuser-Busch 58 years ago founded their great institution. To-day throughout the length and breadth of the Free Republic their honest brews are famed for quality, purity, mildness and exquisite flavor. Their brand BUDWEISER has daily grown in popularity until 7500 people are daily required to meet the public demand. Its sales exceed any other beer by millions of bottles. ANHEUSER-BUSCH ST. NACOGDOCHES NEGRO MUST PAY PENALTY

Court of Criminal Appeals Affirms Decision of Lower Court.

A dispatch from Austin under date of Dec. 8, to the big papers, says: "In the court of criminal appeals today the case of Chestnut Williams, from Brazoria county, gives the death penalty on conviction of the murder of John Williams, was affirmed. Williams and the dead man were both negro convicts. According to the record, Chestnut Williams slashed the throat of his victim from ear to ear while the latter was sitting in a barber chair being shaved by another negro convict last August on the Ramsey state farm in Brazoria county. The court declared that it was a most cruel and deliberate murder."

It will be remembered that Williams was sent to the penitentiary from this county for life on a charge of murdering his wife and it was while paying this penalty that he committed the second crime for which he must pay the penalty with his life.

A BIG LAND SUIT.

There has been terminated in the district court of Angelina county a very important civil suit. The style of the case reads J. A. Donnegan vs. The East Texas Development Co., W. J. Patterson, the Angelina Orchard Co., the Angelina County Lumber Co., the Hooks & Hatter Co., and others perhaps. It is learned that as much as 1,824 acres of Angelina county land was involved in this suit, and the plaintiff claimed himself an heir to this estate. The jury, after going thoroughly into all the details, returned their verdict in favor of the defendants. Just what other turn will come about in this important suit the News is unable to say.

NO QUARTER GIVEN TO VILLA SOLDIERS

Many Executions Result From Looting of Fronteras and Violation of Women.

Douglas, Ariz., Dec. 12.—No quarter was granted Villa soldiers in the battle which started Thursday morning at Fronteras, continued northward to San Joaquin and then east through a mountain pass leading to Santa Rosa road into Chihuahua, according to Americans who arrived here today from the scene.

All Villa soldiers taken prisoners were shot on orders by Generals P. Elias Galles and Angel Flores, governors of Sonora and Sinaloa, respectively, according to the same informants, who declared that the wholesale executions were ordered as punishment to the Villa troops for looting and other misdeeds.

Some were yachts all gay and new, Which drifted at their leisure; They had no definite aim in view, But were only seeking pleasure.

A majestic ship put forth from port With a precious cargo in her hold; She had a definite aim in view— Her's was a distant goal.

NACOGDOCHES CITIZENS TAKE IT TO LUFKIN

The "Wild Animal" Is Now Sojourning in Lufkin Seeking an Existence.

We take the following report of a visit of a Nacogdoches citizen to Lufkin from yesterday's (Thursday) issue of the Daily News of that city:

"Mr. W. I. Baker, branch manager for the Armour Packing Co. with headquarters in the city of Nacogdoches, was in Lufkin today calling upon his friends and mingling with the trade. He is a prominent character, and when found by a News reporter had something rather surprising to say concerning affairs up Nacogdoches way. The writer, who took his testimony and also his autograph, does not know just how to go at the following, but the gist of the conversation centered around a 'wild animal' that is supposed to be at large in that city, and going about seeking what it may devour upon the going down of the evening sun. Our friend in the city undertakes to clear up this mystery by saying that the citizens across this classic divide known as the Angelic Angelina have changed their brand of 'drinking whisky.' Whereas, heretofore they have been content with 'barrel goods,' many of them have switched to 'Paul Jones' and other advertised articles for sale. It also appears that Mr. Oscar Matthews has fallen for this new craze, and only on last evening found this much to be dreaded 'lion' cavorting around his very doorsteps. Mr. Geo. Fewell, who sells goods for the Nacogdoches Grocery Co., scared the ferocious beast off his back gallery as he went out in search of kindling for the early morning fire. Another loyal and law-abiding citizen who tried to render his country a becoming service was Mr. Jim Ray, who emptied an automatic shotgun in what he considered a matter of self-defense. There are stranger stories still coming from our sister city concerning this affair which has developed in such a splendid community, and the News is going to exercise every effort in keeping its readers informed as to just what is going on. It may be that martial law will be declared; it may be that the country will be scoured by armed posses; possibly mass meetings will be held and there is no telling just what turn affairs may take. Read the little paper you are reading—and keep up with the proceedings."

1,500,000 ACRES TO GO ON MARKET

New School Tracts Will Be Offered Public Jan. 1—The Thirtieth List Issued.

Austin, Dec. 10.—Approximately 1,500,000 acres of school land will be placed on the market Jan. 1, 1916, according to announcement made by Land Commissioner J. T. Robison. The commissioner has just issued a list of this land showing its location, the price and the class of land. This is the thirtieth list issued by the land office. While the great bulk of this land is situated in the western portion of Texas and is subject to actual settlement there are many acres on which actual settlement is not required. All applications for the purchase of this land must be made by mail to the commissioner of the general land office. After date of purchase the land is subject to taxation.

ARREDONDO NAMED AS AMBASSADOR

First Time in Three Years Recognized Diplomat Has Been Stationed at Capital.

Washington, Dec. 10.—The first step toward the resumption of full diplomatic relations between the United States and Mexico was taken today in the appointment of Eliseo Arredondo, Gen. Carranza's confidential representative in Washington, as Mexican ambassador to the United States.

The appointment of an American ambassador to Mexico, in all likelihood Henry P. Fletcher, at present ambassador to Chile, soon will be announced.

For nearly three years no government in Mexico has been recognized by the world powers.

The Mexican embassy here received its first information of Mr. Arredondo's appointment by the state department dispatches, which were forwarded by John W. Belt, who is representing the department with Gen. Carranza. The new ambassador probably will receive and present his credentials about the same time that the appointment of the new American ambassador to Mexico is announced.

The appointment of ambassadors restores full diplomatic relations between the two governments, which were interrupted with the recall of Henry Lane Wilson two years ago, and the subsequent controversy with Gen. Huerta.

While the American embassy in Mexico never was closed, it performed little service through the succeeding changes of authority in the Mexican capital, which shifted between Gen. Carranza, Gen. Villa and Gen. Zapata. During that time American diplomatic relations were maintained with the remaining de facto authorities through agents with Gen. Carranza and Gen. Villa and through the Brazilian legation in Mexico City itself. The Mexican embassy here, immediately after the downfall of Huerta, was deserted by Charge Algaña, who had held over from the administration of President Madero, and when, with the landing of American troops at Vera Cruz, Hr. Algaña went to Canada, the embassy was closed. Later General Carranza's agents took possession and maintained the position of confidential agents. As such, the state department dealt with them informally, in the same manner as it received Gen. Villa's agents.

COTTON CROP IS SMALL FOR THIS YEAR

Average Cotton Production for Period From 1909-1913 Is Over 13,000,000.

Washington, Dec. 10.—The 1915 cotton crop amounts to 5,338,588,000 pounds exclusive and is equivalent to 11,161,100 five-hundred bales, the department announced today in its final estimate of the season.

This is 2,300,000 pounds less than last year's record crop. The value of the lint this year, however, is approximately $78,000,000 more than last year's great crop. Cotton was being sold by farmers on Dec. 1 at 11.3 cents a pound, while last year on that date they were getting 6.8 cents. At the higher price this year's crop is worth $603,260,000, while last year's lint was worth $525,324,000.

This year's crop compares with 16,134,930 bales last year, 14,156,486 bales in 1913 and 13,033,235 bales, the average total production, exclusive of linters for the five years, 1909-1913.

J. W. Sealbach, one of The Sentinel's good friends from the Caro country, was a pleasant caller at the office yesterday afternoon.

W. L. Graves, a former citizen of Shelby county, arrived with his family last evening and they are now at home on the farm Mr. Graves recently purchased out North street. With these people a good family has been added to our citizenship who were attracted by our superior school and marketing facilities.

SANTA CLAUS WILL PLEASE TAKE NOTICE.

In remitting to the business office of the Sentinel for his paper, which he always pays for annually, Joe V. Howerton, who went to Abilene some years ago and made himself and associates rich with his close application and superior business acumen, as well as endearing himself to the people with whom he has had business dealings by his uniform fairness and integrity, encloses a quarter of a dollar extra with the following note:

"Dear Giles: Find enclosed check for $1.25. Give me credit for one year and get yourself twenty-five cents worth of cigars and smoke just like I was with you. I hope you will have a fine time Christmas, and the most prosperous of 1916 you ever had. Your friend, Joe V. Howerton."

This was mighty nice of Mr. Howerton—but the thing that gets "our goat" is the individuality of the bestowal upon the business office. Giles has already been displaying this new Christmas wealth, coupled with the brag how he and Mr. Howerton will smoke, with him doing all the smoking, the idea never dawning upon him to get a proxy for Mr. Howerton's part of the proceeding, and if he persists in his selfish way we hope Santa Claus will not bring him a thing.

If you are in need of a good young Jersey cow, now milking, telephone E. L. Coon, Nacogdoches, care Needmore line.

W. L. McBride of Chireno was in the city today and came around and "sweetened" The Sentinel with an installment of the fine ribbon cane syrup which he produces on his farm.

BEAN WAS VICTORIOUS.

In the wrestling match held at the old court house in this city last night, Alec Bean retained the championship, throwing Kaiser twice. The first bout lasted twenty-eight and one-half minutes and the second twenty-two minutes. Both wrestlers demonstrated good skill and ability and it is reported to have been a most interesting match.

Some good preliminaries in the way of boxing and amateur wrestling was interspersed, and it was a most interesting occasion for lovers of athletic sport.

Young Herman had on file a challenge for the victor and Mr. Bean will arrange to accommodate him at some future date.

Hon. S. M. King, our worthy state senator, arrived home yesterday from Austin, where he spent several days, and while in the city had the pleasure of attending the inauguration of Gov. Hobby.

Judge F. P. Marshall is able to be out again after suffering a stubborn attack of la grippe. He was taken sick while attending the grand chapter of the Masonic fraternity at Waco last week and hurried home where he was confined to his room until today, but his friends will be glad to learn that he is now convalescent and hopes to soon regain his lost vigor.
