Several Lives Lost in Corpus Christi Hurricane Curves into Gulf Again Says Brownsville Clerk

SAN ANTONIO, Sept. 15.—At two o'clock this afternoon telephone communication was momentarily restored with Corpus Christi, when it was learned that several deaths by drowning had occurred there.

It is reported that water reached the second story of the some of the business buildings, and was also reported that the down town section was under martial law.

HURRICANE CURVES OUT IN GULF AGAIN

BROWNSVILLE, Sept. 15.—Via Army Wireless to The Associated Press.—Brownsville suffered no material damage from the high winds accompanying the tropical hurricane which touched the Texas coast early Sunday. The hurricane itself apparently did not hit the lower coast coast country.

Point Isabel escaped without serious damage. Many frame buildings on the lower Rio Grande valley were raised by the wind.

Weather men here believe that the hurricane has curved out into the Gulf again.

DEATH LIST WILL REACH OVER 160

CORPUS CHRISTI, Sept. 17.—The known dead at Corpus Christi passing through the morgues up to this morning totaled 62, with 50 known dead at Rockport, 30 at White Point, 14 at Rockport. The death list is now known to exceed 160. Bodies are being brought in badly decomposed.

Today, more than seventy hours after the tropical storm and tidal wave tore huge rents in this city and its environs it was still impossible to estimate accurately the loss of life.

Great piles of wreckage may conceal numerous bodies, and hundreds of men are exploring them. Unofficial estimates place the total fatalities throughout the stricken area at 2 to 3 hundred, and property damage at fifteen millions.

Bodies were washed ashore last night on the northern side of the Neuces Bay. Hundreds of volunteers are coming here to lend assistance, and relief supplies were arriving rapidly today.

Having subsisted since Sunday on a limited amount of food brought from Kingsville, three thousand people made destitute by the storm were given relief today, following the arrival last night of an emergency train sent from San Antonio by Major General Dickman, commanding the Southern Department. Lieut. Col. John A. Porter, who directed the Galveston relief in 1900 and in charge of Belgium relief work recently, came in charge of the train and assumed charge of the Corpus Christi district, now under military rule. He brought rations, tents, cots, medical supplies, and other necessities.

The military discipline tightened today when the services of every available man were required in the organized work of clearing the streets and effecting sanitary relief, and prosecuting the search for storm victims. A drenching rain began falling at 9:00 o'clock today, handicapping salvage parties, and relief committees.

The downtown business houses have suffered a complete loss of practically all of their stocks, and will not be able to resume operations under two weeks, it was estimated. Captain March was dispatched early today to Rockport, Aransas Pass and Portland to report on conditions there with the view of extending the relief work in every needed section.

WATER SIX FEET CORPUS CHRISTI

DALLAS, Sept. 15.—The telegraph and telephone companies took up the task of untangling their wire systems in the Texas Gulf Coast section from Corpus Christi to Brownsville today, where yesterday the tropical hurricane swept in from the gulf, severing wire communication and doing considerable other damage.

Meagre reports today do not mention fatalities. The last word from Brownsville was an Associated Press dispatch via army wireless from Fort Sam Houston, which referred to the conditions up to four Sunday afternoon, when the wind was fifty miles an hour, and it was raining in torrents.

Corpus Christi, just before communication was severed late Sunday, reported six feet of water in the streets. Galveston has apparently recovered from the effects of the storm, which caused three feet of water in the business district from tide-water. The seawall saved the city from great damage.

Fears are expressed of probable loss of life around Corpus Christi Bay, as there is much low land there. Former residents of Corpus Christi said if the water was six feet deep in sections of Corpus Christi as reported it

Do You Buy Or Sell Hay At $40.00 Per Ton?

When paying 2 cents per pound for hay do you stop and think about those "little patches" of grass that you could have saved but which you DIDN'T SAVE?

Be a seller. It is more pleasant and profitable to sell hay at $40.00 than it is to buy at the same price.

We want to sell you a mower and rake. We'll make money when we sell and you'll make money when you buy.

Let's get together on this important matter. It's money to you, it's profit to us—but it's mighty hard on the fellow who has been selling you hay at 2 cents per pound.

Next spring will you be buying or selling hay? It's up to you.

Cason, Monk & Co.

A good second hand hay press, hay rake and gasoline engine for sale. We want to sell quick. Our prices will prove it.

WEEKLY SENTINEL

RALTON & GIBBS, PUBLISHERS

It is claimed by some authorities that liquor is a great obstruction to reconstruction abroad. Then certain committees of a certain senate must have a well stocked cellar.

The tropical hurricane landed on the coast near Brownsville yesterday, and passed on into Mexico, where it will be dissipated in the Mexican mountains. But then Mexico is a dissipated country, anyway.

Now a dispatch asserts that the insurgent miners may upset the British government soon. If such as that happens now, what will take place about December and January, when the weather gets cold?

A contemporary says that notwithstanding the fact that the door of opportunity is always open, nearly everyone tries to enter by crawling through the key hole. Which probably explains why so many of us fail to attain the threshold.

"Employee Gets More Pay Than His Boss," shouts a headline in Beaumont's leading afternoon newspaper. But we didn't read the story, for we're not interested in linotype operators and their salaries.—Beaumont Journal.

A contemporary suggests that the school boys will be wanting time and a half for overtime next. The full-grown development of yesterday's school children would indicate that the hickory stick process might be adopted again with more beneficial results.

One dispatch announces that the forces of Admiral Kolchak have stopped retreating, while a Bolshevik dispatch says that they have captured 45,000 within the week. Which demands us of the news reports issued during the war with Germany. You may take your choice.

High Cost of Living has been abbreviated because of its numerous use in the headlines. The same might be done with Foreign Relations Committee, making it F. R. C.—but then somebody might think you were talking about the Fool Republican Committee.

A storm has been scheduled to hit the northeast Texas coast for the last day or so, and the coast papers have been displaying large headlines the past few days. Even the Lufkin News has been alarmed, and is stating that Lufkin is directly in its path. Let us hope for the best and prepare for the worst.

What do you know about this? The Pall Mall Gazette of London says that America can lessen industrial and social unrest in European countries by keeping down American food prices! Evidently the paper must think we have an all consuming love for the European countries, and that it is immaterial with us what prices we pay for foods. We'd like to lower the food prices alright, but we doubt if it would be for the cause above mentioned.

Germany is entertain hopes that the U. S. senate will not ratify the peace treaty, and that the United States will make a separate peace with her, which it seems would give her a much more desirable peace. In the speech of former Minister of State von Scheller Steinwartz, many complimentary things are said about Chairman Lodge of the committee. In striking contrast President Wilson on the same day says "We fought Germany that the world might be a fit place to live in. And the world will not be a fit place to live in as long as any great power can do what Germany did." So then the question is reduced to a matter of what Germany desires or what the nations of the world desire. Will a few senators block it?

Noting the fact that The Sentinel pen pusher had been having a lot to say about Nacogdoches profiteers, and that firms in Houston were selling merchandise at retail cheaper than it could be purchased wholesale, a certain firm in Nacogdoches called us the other day, and showed us the wholesale prices on goods that he was selling, together with the retail price, which evinced the information that he was selling articles at retail at the same price and in many instances cheaper than he could purchase it at present wholesale. This is indeed refreshing. The Sentinel did not mean to leave the insinuation that all firms in the city were profiteering. Far from that, but at the same time it is an undisputed fact that some firms are making overcharges on various articles.

A FERTILE SOIL.

Referring to the growing tendency toward Bolshevism in this country, and the atheists' connection with it, State Press in the Dallas News says: "But the atheists who make atheism what it is are those who seize upon the hope that this world is all there is, because they propose to get all they can out of this world. The Bolsheviks on Boston Common are a good and recently discovered example of the type. At the very moment when restraint is lifted, as signified by the cessation of authority by the police, the Bolsheviks began robbing and rioting—confident that this world is all the world there is, therefore to be made the most of. One Bolshevik gambler, after winning $200 in a street game, was knocked on the head and relieved of his wad by a professional thug—professional thugs always having a certain advantage over those in other professions. The bolshevism developed in Boston lies dormant in every other city, and is held in restraint only by the forces of law and order. What happened to Boston on a small scale—plundered stores, assaulted women, unrestrained hoodlumism—is exactly what happened in Russia on a national scale, and Russia is the pride of the atheist because the Bolsheviks and their leaders are avowedly atheistic. To deny God and make sport of the hereafter may be in keeping with some men's ideas of intellectual courage, but it is not significant of intellectual strength. The civilizations of the past were lost through the inability of the better elements to withstand the onslaughts of the worse. Barbarism in every age attacked whatever of culture had developed, and barbarism is at its old game again in the twentieth century. Whether it shall avail or not depends upon whether humanity has the courage to hold fast to that which is good."

There is much logic and truth in the News' discussion. Christianity and the triumph of the forces of right can only keep down the Bolshevistic spirit that is becoming so alarmingly evident in the United States at the present time.

However it is not to be stated in this connection that the forces of Christianity are dying down or losing their power at the present time. The Bolshevistic spirit is gaining ground in the United States because of the disturbed conditions, and has its inception from foreigners of atheistic belief who have invaded our shores from those countries not so enlightened with Christianity, and joining hands with the few in this country.

President Wilson has said in his speaking tour, that it would be necessary for the United States to ratify the peace treaty and the league of nations in order for the rest of the world to know what America was going to do, and settle the conditions. And this is a very logical statement. The anarchistic forces are going to run riot until matters are settled and the world is returned to a substantial, solid peace footing. We believed that President Wilson was leading America in the fight for right and on the side of God and christianity when we were in the war, and we gave him our support and won. It is certainly not flattering to the loyalty of the United States for us to quit before it is over and settled.

USE OF HOME PRODUCTS.

Houston Post. In commenting upon the complaint in the Post of a short time ago that Texas people spend too much upon imported canned goods, instead of packing and using products grown right at home, the Charlotte Observer suggests that Texas organize observation parties and send them into North Carolina. "The State from which Texas is largely descended to learn how the Tarheels produce large supplies of vegetables and fruits, and pack and distribute them for home use.

According to the Observer, the products put up by householders and packing clubs in North Carolina are in active demand by the wholesale and retail trade in that State. "So universal is this demand that the entire canned production of the state is under requisition in advance from one season to another, and this demand does not spring from State pride alone. A North Carolina can of tomatoes, or apples, or peaches, beans or any other product, may be opened with no apprehension of finding a wad of solder, a bit of rag, a tuft of hair or clods of dirt in it. The product may be relied upon to be found as clean and as wholesome as the day it was picked from the trees or gathered from the garden," says the Observer.

All of which is very true. The people of rural North Carolina have no superiors in the practice of thrift and wholesome living. Even those with small holdings of land live comfortably and have an abundance of good food at all times, for they long ago learned how to raise what they need and how to preserve those products.

As the Observer says, North Carolina is but a township compared with Texas, but Texas should 'come back home' to learn how to do some things. Texas has the soil, the climate and all the other facilities for feeding itself, but what it needs to learn is the North Carolina way of taking a pride in its local products and demanding them in preference to outside goods. It's the state of mind that needs to be changed in Texas. It will be a great day for Texas when food supplies preserved and packed at home are requisitioned a season in advance, instead of languishing on grocery shelves in uneven competition with goods put up in cans thousands of miles away.

What is needed is an educational campaign among the people in the use of State-made products, particularly canned foods. Some North Carolina instruction will be valuable to us along this line.

A few days ago The Sentinel said that the oil reports from Angelina county would indicate that the price of booze was still within reach. The Lufkin News says, probably in reply: "If the oil indications were as good around Nacogdoches as they are around Lufkin it would pay enthused parties handsomely to inaugurate a distillery in close proximity to that town. There are those getting mail at that wayside postoffice who would make the enterprise a howling success." But in that event Nacogdoches would be behind the times. A distillery doing a "howling" business was unearthed in Angelina county recently—even before the "oil indications" were in sight. Probably the contemporary had forgotten this event when he made the above comment, or else he would have recognized the logic in the old saw "People who live in glass houses should not throw stones."

'Tis true that the United States has a problem on her hands in regard to the obstinacy of the foreign relations committee, but at any rate none of the states are sending an "invisible" president to a foreign country in the hope of gaining assistance and recognition. We refer to Great Britain's problem in reference to the Emerald Isle.

One thousand men of Okulgee, Okla., have signed a pledge to wear old clothes for three months and as long thereafter as they will last, or until prices are reduced. Nacogdoches also has an "old clothes" club, but it was not necessary to sign a pledge to recruit the membership.

Artificial limbs were used in Egypt as early as 700 B. C. Although the report does not so state, we presume that "artificial faces" and "figures" were also in evidence at this early date. The present state of proficiency would indicate that it would take about that many years in reaching its present perfection.

If it became generally known in Texas that houses have rented in Mexico for 11c a year, it might be necessary for the Mexican government to pass immigration laws of some sort to stop the influx.

General Obregon announces that in event of an armed invasion of Mexico by the United States he would take the field against this country. Brave man—he is running for president.

A young man in Clifton, Texas swallowed a dollar, and it cost him $123.00 to get it removed. And he could have swallowed that much food without even tasting it.

NACOGDOCHES TRADITIONS.

And in those days of auld lang syne, in the 30's, a young wanderer named Isaac Lee, came into this vicinity, and became a permanent citizen. He hailed from a point in Louisiana named Nutt's hill, which is in the highlands bordering the beautiful valley of Bayou Rapids, a few miles west of the city of Alexandria, La. He was not of a daring disposition, causing him to venture into wild Texas, but he was rather of a pious and peaceful turn. Leaving his ancestral home, family habitation and graveyard on this high hill, he found and settled upon the similar high hill one mile east of the public square in Nacogdoches.

This place was afterwards the Jennings home, and then, as time passed the Reid, Hyde, the Mayfield, the Parrish, the Dick Orton, the Allan Seale and the Gillette home. Indeed it has stood for many changes and events of importance. It was one of the originals. The big read passing it was then further north than now, going around the steep Orton hill, Isaac Lee opened a small farm on the west side of his house, on the slope towards town. This house was originally one room, built of heavy pine logs hewn in the woods nearby. It was 20x20 feet, and had an upper room and an old time stone chimney, with big fire places, both above and below. His choice of a home site proved unsatisfactory. It was too far to water, 75 feet to dig a well and 600 yards to the spring under the big hill. So he made a change, by removing his homestead to a point near a spring, then vacant land near the present Frost-Johnson mill, and he obtained a patent from the state for a labor of land 77 acres, including his chosen homestead. There he built a double log house of the usual form, and adding various necessities and comforts, he resided there many years. This labor of land took in all the space of the present saw mill plant and Lee cleared and cultivated it. Among other domestic accessories he owned many cattle that ran at large and fattened in the extensive wild woods east of it, and he operated what was called a spring house.

This meant a place fitted up at the spring to keep his abundance of milk and butter in the cool spring water. Sam Houston delighted to stay out there in the war summers and drink cold buttermilk and sit on the front porch and talk with Lee. Oh, the birds and blossoms and delights of those good old tallow candle times! And to think of the brogan shoes, straw beds and venison, the tin cups, water gourds and steel knives and forks.

Isaac Lee left descendants. One of them, Larkin, owned the Tom Burrows place, and he was the father of Tom's wife and of Ed. Lee, of Alto. But a most important point in Isaac Lee's career was that he owned a negro man who amounted to a great deal in life.

Ems Lee, as he was then called, afterwards adopted the name Emsley Burrows. "Uncle Ems" as he was later known, became a Presbyterian preacher, (Cumberland) from association with his owner. They were very fond of each other. Lee was poorly educated, but he taught Ems to read the Bible. That was all the education Ems wanted. But in his life that was the chief sentiment. He was an effectual preacher. When Simpson's camp ground was in its glory Ems was at times called upon to preach to the white congregation. And Uncle Isaac Lee was highly elated, and when shouting took place Uncle Isaac Lee was among the loudest. And when the old man died he willed to this faithful old servant his freedom and his home, the old Isaac Lee place, where Uncle Ems lived out his life, leaving behind him a good name and work in the church, and worthy descendants, an honors to his memory.

Little did the political abolitionists of that day know of the attachments and relations between such good old darkies, and their owners, true to the core.

COTTON GINNED.

The government report shows that there were nine bales of cotton ginned in Nacogdoches county, counting round as half bales, from the crop of 1919 prior to September 1st, 1919, as compared with 2,646 bales ginned to Sept. 1, 1918.

This report shows a vast difference in the cotton crop of last year as compared with this year. Of course it is true that the crop this year is very much later than it was last year, but there is going to be an enormous shortage also, if all reports are correct.

"PEOPLE TALKING OF TEXAS WHEREVER YOU GO"—TERRELL

AUSTIN, Sept. 15.—"People are talking of Texas wherever you go," said State Comptroller H. B. Terrell, who has just returned from a trip to the eastern part of the country. Now the New Yorker is sending his salesmen to Texas where they are disposing of millions of dollars worth of long time securities.

"This is the result of our newly discovered oil fields, our bumper crops and general prosperity of our people. I look for our people to become heavy buyers of municipal and county bonds in the near future.

1,400 OIL COMPANIES LISTED TEXAS CARRY PROVISIONS

AUSTIN, Sept. 15.—Nearly 1,400 oil companies in Texas have been listed by the railroad commission in carrying out provisions of the oil conservation laws. These companies have made reports of their production, earnings, etc., as required by the law, and information contained in them is now available for stockholders.

Commissioner C. E. Gilmore, who is now in charge of this department, says that he expects the list to be some considerably larger, as each mail brings inquiries concerning companies which are not included in those which have made reports. Another call for reports will be issued soon, he says, and companies failing to respond will be made to feel the effect of the new law.

W. A. Farling of Terrell was a visitor to the city yesterday.

AMERICAN COOLNESS SAVES MANY LIVES

MIAMI, Florida, Sept. 13.—Many hours before the storm, which sunk the Ward liner Corydon, in the Bahamas channel Tuesday with the loss of 27 lives, a vulture followed the ship, perched on her spars, while the panic-stricken crew, believing in the superstitions of the sea, were convinced that they were doomed. This story was brought here by eight of a crew which drifted fifty-three hours in an upturned boat, battered, bruised and without food and water. All day Sunday the ship pursued her way in a calm sea, with light winds, and the great bird hovered overhead.

Sunday night and Monday the Corydon staggered through smashing seas. Monday night every member of the crew was engaged in a desperate battle for life. Tuesday control of the ship was lost.

When the vessel went under Americans in the crew kept their heads and saved the lives of some others.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—The Plumb plan for a tripartite control of railroads under government ownership must be "buried beyond all hope." AN OLD RELIABLE FAMILY REMEDY, recommended for coughs, colds, tickling of the throat, spasmodic croup, whooping cough, la grippe, and bronchial coughs, hoarseness, etc.

The First Dose Gave Relief

C. E. Summers, Holdrege, Neb., writes: "Some time ago I contracted a very severe cough and cold due to exposure. My cough got so bad I could hardly sleep for two or three nights. A friend of mine recommended Foley's Honey and Tar Compound, and I got a bottle. The very first dose relieved me. I took a second dose before going to bed and can truthfully say I did not cough once all night. By using as directed the next two days my cough was entirely gone, and I give Foley's Honey and Tar full credit for my speedy and permanent recovery."

For more than thirty years Foley's Honey and Tar has been used with satisfaction and success. Sold by Stripling, Haselwood & Co.

How We Go At It

First we look into the battery to see if you put water in it.

Then we use the hydrometer which is the one reliable way of knowing the condition of its charge.

Then, if no special cause of trouble appears we put it on the line to see if it will take a charge.

But if there is plain indication of serious trouble we open the battery up and find out exactly what's what.

Don't trust your battery to amateurs or artists in guesswork, who claim they can tell inside condition by outside inspection.

Come here where you find adequate machines and apparatus to really inspect, charge and repair any battery.

OIL EXPLOITATION WEST TEX. BRINGS WATER CONSERVATION

AUSTIN, Sept. 13.—While oil development in West Texas has been a producer of wealth to land owners, to the state and to those who were developing mineral rights, there is a feature of it that will live long after the oil has ceased to flow—if it ever ceases to flow—that will be of money value to that section in localities where projects of water conservation have been carried on.

The most notable instance of this is in Stephens county. When great oil companies were seeking producing territory in all directions from Breckenridge, it was necessary for a water supply to be obtained from pumping operations. Wells were not available and perennial streams could not be found. Something had to be done. Intermittent creeks and dry branches were numerous and water scouts at first started out to buy what they thought were "water rights," paying the people owning lands along these creeks for the right to take the water that would come in flood time. After a lot of these contracts had been made and several thousand dollars had been spent, these contracts began to filter in to the office of the general attorney of the pioneer company and he called a halt and directed attention to the conservation law of the state as administered by the State Board of water engineers, requiring permits from the state for the use of water. Then these oil companies began making application for the right to construct dams, impound storm and flood water and use it. Thus it is that Stephens county will have reservoirs that will fill at each recurring excess flow of storm water, and even though the oil game may some day cease to be a producer, these reservoirs will stand and will conserve a water supply that can be used by towns and cities, by irrigation plans and for live stock production.

Under permits that have been granted recently by the State Board of Water Engineers, the following reservoirs are now available in Stephens county for the storage of storm and flood water.

Gulf Production Company—Overflow weir of concrete, four feet high on a natural rock dike in Sandy creek, a tributary of the Brazos, five miles northwest of Breckenridge, the reservoir capacity being ninety-four acre feet, or a little more than thirty million gallons.

Gulf Production Company—Overflow weir of concrete, nine feet high on a natural rock dike in Gonzales Creek, a tributary of the Brazos, two and one fourth miles southeast of Breckenridge, the reservoir capacity being thirty-two acre feet of water, or 10,482,000 gallons.

Sinclair Gulf Oil Company—Concrete dam, ten feet high across Cadoc creek, a tributary of the Brazos, fifteen miles southeast of Breckenridge, the reservoir capacity being eight acre feet or 2,608,000 gallons.

Sinclair Gulf Pipe Line Company—Concrete dam four feet high, across Caldo Creek, a tributary of the Brazos, fifteen miles southeast of Breckenridge, the reservoir capacity being 3,586,000 gallons.

J. H. Snowden—Earth dam twelve feet in height, across Gonzales creek, a tributary of the Brazos, two and one half miles northeast of Breckenridge, the reservoir capacity being twenty-five acre feet or 9,050,000 gallons.

Magnolia Petroleum Company—Concrete dam three and one-half feet in height, across Gonzales Creek, two miles southeast of Breckenridge, the reservoir capacity being six acre feet of water, or 1,956,000 gallons.

Gulf Production Company—Earth fill dam, thirty seven feet in height, across cottonwood creek, twenty miles southeast of Breckenridge, the reservoir capacity being 130 acre feet of water, or 42,380,000 gallons.

Stephens County is a badly broken country with many dry creeks. The data compiled for the Albany station of the United Weather Bureau shows the annual rainfall in that section, up to 1915, to have been 24 inches, and during the dry year of 1918 the annual for the same station was 22.25 inches, a precipitation that will produce flood flow sufficient to fill fair sized reservoirs if these are available.

PERSHING REESTABLISHES HEADQUARTERS WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—General Pershing has reestablished headquarters of the American expeditionary forces at the war department, where over two years ago he took up the task. He was given a fitting welcome.

EVER SALIVATED BY CALOMEL? HORRIBLE!

Calomel is quicksilver and acts like dynamite on your liver.

Calomel loses you a day! You know what calomel is. It's mercury; quicksilver. Calomel is dangerous. It crabs into sour bile like dynamite, cramping and sickening you. Calomel attacks the bones and should never be put into your system.

When you feel bilious, sluggish, constipated and all knocked out and believe you need a dose of dangerous calomel just remember that your druggist sells for a few cents a large bottle of Dodson's Liver Tonic, which is entirely vegetable and pleasant to take and is a perfect substitute for calomel. It is guaranteed to start your liver without stirring you up inside, and can not salivate.

Don't take calomel! It makes you sick the next day; it loses you a day's work. Dodson's Liver Tonic straightens you right up and you feel great. Give it to the children because it is perfectly harmless and doesn't gripe.

WEEKLY SENTINEL

RALTON & GIBBS, PUBLISHERS

Perhaps Senator Sherman is trying to make people believe that he is the author of the famous saying about what war is.

Now a New York doctor says that Carranza is an honest man. Old Diogenes must turn over in his grave at such declarations as this.

An exchange says that undertakers always finish the job they undertake. And frequently they finish the job that somebody else undertook.

Suffragettes are going to fight Bolshevism in this country. Then Bolshevism is doomed. However, if the picketing system is used we think that it would be a good idea to arm them with machine guns.

One woman is suing her husband for a divorce because he is an I. W. W. That's the time. If the move becomes general we might get rid of I. W. Wism in short order, and the motto might become "I Want a Wife."

After an absence of several days the Galveston News showed up this morning, giving an account of the storm in that city. Much tribute is paid to the city's sea wall, which held back the fury of the gulf and saved the city from inundation.

A dispatch says that the farmer's task of making two blades grow where one had grown before is becoming increasingly difficult in England. The American farmer had no difficulty in producing several where none grew before, this year—and in most instances it was grass.

"House Rents Big Item in H. C. L. Here," screams a headline in a Houston paper. It strikes us that pretty nearly everything is a big item in the high cost of living now. Speaking of house rents, however, it is not an item at all in the newcomer's expenses in Nacogdoches—he can't get one at all.

Now it is said that Greece would welcome a U. S. Mandate for Armenia. When a European country gets a proposition on its hands that it can't handle, it asks the United States to take care of it—but the U. S. has on its hands about all it can take care of in the domestic line at present.

A woman 160 years old died in England the other day, without ever knowing that there was a war. All of which goes to show that either the high cost of living is not as high in England as it is in the U. S., or else the British are sleeping on their rights, or haven't the American "mouthing" capacity.

It is said that the copper coin has almost vanished from England, and that they have to be "rationed" by English banking officials. It is thought they have probably been distributed in France, but we are inclined to believe that they have all been melted into American pennies by the Washington mint.

A new automobile, with springs that take all roads alike is on the market. The springs are shaped in such manner that the car can go over all kinds of bumpy roads without the least jar to the occupants. In other words the "sea level" of the seat remains the same at all times, and the "tide" don't rise, nor the "sea" get "choppy." Why not? If we can't get the roads we might as well take the substitute.

Much is being said about the "canned" sermons that will probably be used in the vacant Presbyterian pulpits of the country—that is using a phonograph to reproduce the sermons, and many paragraphs are stating that a good many of us have been listening to "canned" sermons so long already that we will not object if the practice becomes general. However, there should be no fear on the part of the pastors that the phonograph will disrupt their positions. There is a whole lot besides preaching that a pastor does to earn his salary.

Yesterday's dispatches announce that the drouth borrowers of West Texas are paying back the money that was given them during their period of suffering, and that it is not definitely decided just what will be done with the money, but thought that it will be kept in the treasury for just such an emergency in the future. It is a good plan, and will no doubt meet with the endorsement of the committee. In fact the need is already evidenced by the governor calling for contributions to relief work in Corpus Christi.

BOLSHEVIST PROGRESS.

The tendency of the present times, almost all over the world is toward radicalism. This is evidenced in many ways, by the numerousness of the strikes, some of which are only sympathetic, and many of them without sufficient cause; by rioting and disturbed conditions. The seed comes in most cases from Russia, where the common people have been downtrodden for many years.

In normal times, and always there is a certain element of radicalism and discontent, but which usually does not amount to anything serious. The aftermath of the war, together with the tutelage of the Russian discontents, has fanned that flame all over the world, until in many places it has reached serious proportions.

The active work of these anarchists and bolsheviks against capitalism presumably, but in reality against all organized social systems, is having some effect even in a sound common sense country like the United States. The condition in the U. S. caused by the war were such that the work of the red element would be comparatively safe and easy.

Nearly all of us are ranting about the high prices, profiteering, robbery, etc., and the radicals come along and raise their cry "Down with capitalism!" "Down with a government that don't protect us!" and similar cries. In reality their motto is down with everything, but the disrupted conditions have torn the country up so that there are a good many otherwise normal law-abiding citizens, who don't care, and who lend support to the gang.

In this manner the bolsheviks and anarchists and agitators and reds, and kindred tribes, have gotten a strong foothold in almost every country in the world. In the United States they have gotten such a foothold that their leaders go to President Wilson in conference in Seattle, and makes demands as if they were dictators.

These agitators state that many of their brethren have been unjustly prosecuted and sent to jail, etc. At the close of their conference the president bluntly told them that he did not propose to countenance the control of government by any special interest, whether it was labor or capital.

In the same connection, however, it is noted that these same leaders are probably trying to find a way to recede from the general sympathetic strike called for Oct. 8. It is said that they have perhaps found it in the fact that President Wilson told them to wait until after the International Labor Conference.

This would indicate that they have found that their organization is not quite as strong as they believed it was and that the Bolshevists and I. W. W. are not nearly in control in the United States at present. And they are not. The United States is the most fortunate of all the nations of the world today, and she has not gone bolshevist by a jugfull. The government is still conducted in a sound common sense business-like manner, notwithstanding the fact that there are some congressmen and senators who are avowedly bolshevistic.

As a general rule the common people, the middle class, still retain the complete possession of their faculties, together with a remarkably patient temper. Said temper, however, is about all gone, and we wouldn't be surprised if something don't happen to the Bolshevists of this country pretty soon if they keep up their infernal trouble. We also wouldn't be surprised if something don't happen to many a congressman and senator in the next elections.

At Luling, Texas, the crop shortage is said to be so severe that the farmers are abandoning their crops and going into the oil fields to get work. It is a fortunate thing for Texas that it has developed a new industry on a large enough scale to do away with the total dependence on what the weather may do to the cotton crop. However the shortage of this particular crop is going to work hardships in this section. In many places in the East Texas section there will be practically no cotton made at all, which in many cases means that there will be no crops made at all. The progressive and scientific element has been preaching a reduction of the dependence of the farms absolutely on the fleecy staple for many years, with bare results. Possibly this year's shortage may prove an object lesson.

D'Annunzio, the Italian post aviator, has proclaimed a union of Fiume with Italy, and is leading many soldiers in Fiume in that cause. In the event the United States marines go to Fiume as contemplated, the esteemed Italian poet may find bravery on the battlefield a fertile field for poetry with the American school.

Seventy-five cents a pound is what a Portlander paid for Oregon-grown cherries in New York. Ten and a fourth is the price at which the Salem fruit union sold 24 carloads and it was the general high price for Oregon cherries this season, except a lot sold by the Hood River Apple Growers' association at 16c. The farmers do the growing, the consumer the paying and thrifty gentlemen somewhere in the circle get the velvet—Oregon Journal.

A cartoonist pictures the profiteer behind the prison bars shedding crocodile tears. This cartoonist must have been either an impractical dreamer or else a Bolshevist—no common-sense ordinary American would conceive of that event taking place.

The cabinet of Premier Nitti of Italy is facing a crisis as the result of the denunciation of Gabriel D'Annunzio, by proclaiming a union of Italy with Fiume. In other words Gabriel has blown his horn so far as the Italian premier is concerned.

Three thousand miners struck the other day by mistake, and when they discovered their mistake they returned to work. They are very liberal compared with some other strikers, who had rigged up an excuse anyway.

Now Japan is wrestling with the high cost of living. And the rice crop in South Texas ruined by the storm! Still if we could exist on what the little Nipponese men do, we would not be worried about the H. C. L.

"Nothing Secure From Profiteers" proclaims a headline. How enlightening!

Never has a man who has bent himself been able to make others straight.—Mencius.

BORROWERS PAYING BACK RELIEF MONEY

AUSTIN, Sept. 16.—Many of those who borrowed money from the West Texas drouth relief fund during the drouth which assumed proportions of a disaster, are now redeeming their notes, says F. C. Weinert, chairman of the committee which handled the fund.

This fund was raised to approximately $150,000 by contributions from over the state and loaned to drouth sufferers without interest.

Just what will be done with the fund which is now coming back has not been decided, and Mr. Weinert says he will ask the governor to call a meeting of the committee soon to consider this. The most favored plan at present is to place this fund at interest as a reserve to be used in relieving distress in a future calamity.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 13.—The tropical disturbance has already reached the mainland, the weather bureau stated, striking somewhere between Barwood at the mouth of the Mississippi and the territory west.

STORMS TOLL MOUNTS RAPIDLY

DALLAS, Sept. 16.—Mounting rapidly, as reports from heretofore isolated sections began trickling in late today, the death list as a result of the tropical hurricane which Sunday swept the Texas gulf coast at and around Corpus Christi, was variously placed at from 70 to 150. Just what the storm toll will probably be for several days, for the reports show the bodies of the victims were found at scattered points along the Neuces and Corpus Christi Bay.

One compilation, giving the total recovered at several points as seventy. Reports from Odum, Texas, said that the mayor of Sinton reported bodies of 21 storm victims gathered in a school house five miles from Sinton. Another report from Odum was that Dr. W. C. Reinhart, who returned last night from Corpus Christi said the number of dead there and at Port Arkansas and Portland might reach two thousand, and "estimated 200 to 300 bodies had drifted across the bay" from Corpus Christi and other points. There was no way of confirming this report, but it seemed discounted in view of the fact that the Associated Press was in leased wire communication with Corpus Christi up to 3 o'clock this morning, and then Corpus Christi officials said they did not believe the dead there would exceed 25.

BOATS ADRIFT OFF THE FLORIDA COAST

MIAMI, Fla., Sept. 11.—A wireless today said forty-five persons were adrift in small boats between the Fowey Rock lighthouse, and Cape Florida, fifteen miles from Miami. All are reported in distress. The details are unavailable, but it is presumed that they are members of the crews of ships which went down during the hurricane yesterday. Boats have gone to rescue them.

MINORITY MEMBERS SUBMIT REPORT

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11.—The rejection of the peace treaty with the league of nations, or the adoption of the amendments means the sacrifice by us of all concessions obtained from Germany under a dictated peace, the minority members of the foreign relations committee declared in a report to the senate today.

Prepared by Senator Hitchcock the report urged the speedy ratification of the treaty without amendments or reservations and deplored the "long, unnecessary delay to which the treaty was subjected while locked up in the committee, whose recommendations from the start were a foregone conclusion." The report asserted that these recommendations could have been made in July. Shields, of Tennessee, democrat would not sign, announcing that he favored the reservations. The other democrats on the committee signed. The minority denied the majority claim that the peace conference was still in session and had power to bring the German representatives to Paris saying that much power of compulsion was exhausted. "Germany closed the chapter by signing and by ratifying."

FOUR KILLED IN BOSTON RIOTING

BOSTON, Sept. 11.—The death today of a young woman believed to be Margaret Walsh brought the number of last night's riot victims to 4. The young woman was shot during a disturbance in South Boston, where state guards fired into the crowd. Two men were killed at the same time. Another death occurred when a man tried to escape from state guards who rounded up a dice game. He was shot through the neck. Governor Coolidge wired the Secretary of the Navy a request that naval forces be held in readiness for call to supply additional troops for Boston's protection.

With six regiments of state guards under arms the Governor had mobilized all the forces at his command.

THE FIRST DIVISION PARADES CAPITAL

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—Over historic Pennsylvania Avenue, the American Way of Victory marked out more than fifty years ago by the returning blue-clad legions of the Army of the Potomac, the First Division, American Expeditionary Force, marched at 1:30 today. It was Washington's first great parade of the war, and it was received and carried out as the Nation's tribute not alone to the veteran fighting men who marched, but to the whole great army the Nation created to make certain the utter defeat of German dreams of world conquest.

Marching in mass formation and equipped with all the guns, gas throwers, and countless other death-dealing devices of front line service, the First Division, fresh home from France, moved along the broad avenue, a living tide of sunburned fighting men who filled the street from curb to curb. In their khaki and olive drab uniforms, the men swung by as resistlessly as the spring floods of the Mississippi. Above each solid block of infantry, rose the grim line of bayonets, the blue steel glinting dully as it caught the light. Farther back came the long lines of field guns, French "75's" to which French officers have said France owes her salvation and, after all the trains and wagons had rumbled by, came a battalion of tanks, streaked and yellowed with paint to conceal them from enemy eyes, but now growling and clanking their way behind the troops in noisy response to the cheers that greeted them.

There was nothing lacking to make the parade an epitome of the whole vast army American skill and indomitable will had created to meet and beat the enemy at his own game. There were guns of all types used in France that could be moved through the streets. Machine guns, big and little, bristled among the riflemen; squat mortars to hurl bombs from the trenches; high mounted rifles which peered skyward as though still in search of enemy flyers. Some of the guns were horse-drawn, some trundled behind panting motor trucks or tractors. The show was as complete as the ingenuity of the War Department could make it, a cross section of the American Expeditionary Forces.

But it was to the lines of khaki-clad, brown faced men themselves that first interest of the thronging crowds all along the wide avenue turned. The hom ecoming of this first unit of American man power to cross the submarine infested seas was in marked contrast to its silent, mysterious, unreported departure, and the men and women along the way seemed to feel the significance of the spectacle. They recalled the days when the nation waited in wordless anxiety to hear that these same smiling, free-striding boys had come safely to a French harbor, those other days when the first word filtered back that the boys had begun to prove their courage in action, and the slow coming lists that carried the name of the men who sleep forever in France.

To one regiment of long, trim "75's" an unusual honor was accorded. The Sixth Field Artillery was placed between the two infantry brigades instead of marching with the rest of the artillery brigade behind the infantry, for it was C battery of the Sixth which fired the first shot at the Germans on Oct. 23, 1917. A standard told the onlookers that at last they saw the very guns whose thunder had carried that first message of defeat into the enemy ranks.

Up the avenue at the head of the division rode Major General Edward F. McGrath, commanding, and with him rode two former commanders of the division the first to go and the last of the divisions to come home. They were Major General William L. Sibert, who took it to France, and Lieutenant General Robert L. Bullard, who took it into action and surrendered command only to take a higher post. Marching ahead of the formations, also, came a host of officers and men who saw their first service with the First Division in France, later to go to other units as instructors.

Then came the First Infantry Brigade, marching in the French mass formation, twenty-four men abreast across the avenue, led by the 3rd machine gun battalion with its motorized guns. The infantry marched in columns of fours, four companies abreast and with officers and file closers ahead, leaving the men to form a solid block of bayonets for each battalion. The 16th infantry, veterans of the bitter fighting at Cantigny where France learned in what fashion America would and could fight and breath free again, after months of strain led the way.

At various points in the divisional line and before the wallowing tanks hammered and clattered in an uproaring conclusion to the five hour spectacle, all manner of additional units, not part of the division itself, were inserted.

IRON HORSES COMING TO HOUSTON.

The tractor demonstration slated for Houston on September 30th and October 1st and 2nd is arousing more than local interest.

It will be the second ever held in this section.

It will be the first ever held on a rice farm.

Because of the latter feature, experts and engineers are peculiarly interested.

The Houston Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring this demonstration as part of its general campaign for agricultural development.

A. E. Hildebrand, General Manager of the National Tractor Farming Demonstrations, who has managed every great tractor demonstration thus far held in the United States, will have charge.

A six thousand acre rice farm has been secured within easy access of the city. The tractor people can stir up as much of this land as they like.

Three hundred acres will be flooded, and then dealt with as the cultivation of rice demands.

Large quantities of rice will be harvested and threshed.

Operations in connection with ordinary dry land farming will be illustrated, of course, and besides all makes and varieties of tractors, there will be plows, harrows, discers, cultivators, cultipackers, separators, seeders, binders, etc., on display.

Generally speaking, it is planned to have an exhibition that will bring all kind of improvements together for the people to see and study.

Rice culture will be one of the principal themes of demonstration, and tractors will be the principal subject, but there will be many other things worth looking over, as self-sustaining lighting systems, for instance.

All the great tractor companies will be represented. There will be machines ranging in size from the great tanks which broke Hindenburg's line down to little garden motors. There will be scores of them, probably not less than 200.

The authorities at A. & M. college have endorsed the demonstration, which puts it above the plane of a mere commercial venture.

Its ultimate object is to introduce tractors, certainly, but the immediate object is to show what tractors can do to help farming in this section.

There are now something like 300,000 tractors in use throughout the United States.

Texas leads the United States in agriculture, and measured by this, as well as by her population, resources, possibilities, etc., she ought to have 10 per cent or 30,000. As a matter of fact, Texas has only eight or ten thousand. The same unfavorable comparison prevails throughout the Southwest—Louisiana, Arkansas, Oklahoma, New Mexico.

The people of this section are handicapped for lack of motor driven machinery. It has been slow in reaching them because they are far removed from most manufacturing centers, and because manufacturers have never given the Southwestern market the attention it deserved.

Tractors have not been displayed here as in other parts of the country. Convenience has caused their initial output to center around the great manufacturing centers of the North and Northwest.

All this has placed the Southwest under something of a handicap, but especially since labor conditions have become so difficult.

If the 500,000 farms of Texas are to produce what they ought, and if Texas is to have 1,000,000 farms where she now has 500,000 as soon as she ought motor-driven machinery will have to be introduced and used here so that Texas may compete with her northern neighbors on an equal footing as to production costs.

As things now stand, Texas is not only unable to handle her land, but she is unable to handle it as cheaply as can those who have supplanted mule-power with gasoline.

These are a few of the considerations that induced the Houston Chamber of Commerce to sponsor a tractor demonstration.

Come and see what motor-driven machinery can do to help you. Ask your county agent about it.

Madames G. F. Garrison, P. V. Dale and John Taylor of Garrison were visitors to the city yesterday afternoon, coming down to do a little shopping.

MISS BLANTON SPEAKS HERE NEXT THURSDAY

IN MEMORY OF PURVIS.

On Sunday morning at 1:30 o'clock God call my dearest and only chum Purvis Spradley.

Purvis and I have loved each other from our babyhood. I have never really known another chum. We shared every pleasure and every sorrow together. He was ever ready to do what was right and a better hearted boy was never born. I have disobeyed my mother to be with Purvis, for when he went to Dallas to school I could not bear the loneliness so I left against mother's will to be with him. At the time I really felt mean to treat mother like that, but now I am happy that I went, for those were some of the last hours we spent together, and I now am oh! so lonesome.

Purvis was a boy that was always on the square, and appreciated every thing ever done for him. He more than worshipped his father and mother Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Spradley, and the same love was returned from both of them. They never left a wish of his ungranted. Purvis was more fortunate than the most boys who are left in their babyhood without a father or mother. He was adopted by Mr. and Mrs. Spradley when he was only about two weeks of age.

Purvis was a bright boy and had more talent than the most of us are gifted with. If he had lived I am sure that he would have some day been a great writer for he enjoyed nothing better than composing sweet poetry. Everything that he composed always had a deep and sweet meaning. I only wish it were possible for every one to read his many writings.

But when Purvis was called to leave this world he was ready to go and sweetly and gradually went to sleep without a wish to remain. Just before he drew his last breath he placed one arm around the neck of each his mother and father and kissed them "good bye," saying he was going now and was not afraid, for he was ready. In all our lives I have never did but one thing I have to regret, and that was going on the South hike, but when I left I never once thought but that Purvis would be up and almost well when I returned, for he had been carried home from the sanitarium, but had to return after I had left town. So Sunday when the sad news of his death reached me I felt stunned or almost like I was in a dream. It was the most terrible shock I have ever experienced. But Mr. Swab Myers was thoughtful enough to get a car and come to the Scouts camping ground after me, which was the sweetest favor any one has ever done for me, and I will always, feel indebted to him for his kindness.

When I reached home I found Purvis here, but I was too late to talk to him, but was so happy he was brought to my home, where I could be near him for a little while any way. And I am going to try to live so as to meet him in Heaven, for I know he is there.

So help me to walk right
For I wish to join hands
With Purvis over there.
From his lifetime chum,
EDGAR BAXTER.

NACOGDOCHES TRADITIONS.

The Eggnog branch stories, as recently recited in "Nacogdoches Traditions" is only one of many in a class of such old landmarks. And it reminds us of Tennyson's noted poem, "The Brook," which has the lines, "Men may come and men may go, But I flow on forever." The branch and its name Eggnog may flow on forever, but the day is not far distant when the noted drink called eggnog will not only have ceased to flow on forever, but when men will ask what it was and how it looked, tasted and felt, it will become a tradition. So note it be.

Again the noted Clark or Walker old homestead place in town is not the only one. The Walker old field, situated a mile northeast of town, beyond the Blake or Burrows bridge, on the Lanau, where the Logansport road crosses the bayou, was once a very prominent homestead. There was a nice suburban dwelling with fine shrubbery, shade trees, walks, garden and also a driveway to town, well graded and improved, crossing the Lanau about a quarter of a mile below this bridge. This old field and its adjacent land were well improved for it was a big thing in those early days, 1850 and it took in the present Blackburn premises and all north and east to the present Logansport road and down the Lanau for its west boundary. This road did not run where it now does. It was further west, and it was afterward laid off as now located, as a division line between David Burrows and the adverse claimants on the south of it, in settling a big land dispute. Burrows had bought 1100 acres of land for $500. This old Walker field lay vacant for many years, and was revived by R. D. Orton, about 1868.

Back in the 50's it was quite a fad with the big folks of the town to have homes just out of town. As instances, Gen. Rusk's home was a mile north. His brother David Rusk, the noted first sheriff, had his home five miles out. Ben Rusk's home was nine miles south now called Harmony. Tom Rusk lived six miles east on the upper Melrose road. Judge Blake's home was four miles northeast. N. J. Moore's home was four miles down the Marion road. He called it Egypt. You never hear his name, nor the Marion road, nor Pattonia road. Hotchkiss, who had the mill seven miles out down the Morale had a lovely country home, and his mill supplied grist for fifty miles away. Big planters with extensive plantations and "nigger quarters" and all sorts of luxuries for that day were in somewhat touch, but not exactly lined up with the town class.

Dr. Starr, who was a town leader in social and business affairs, had a farm adjoining his extensive North street premises on the east, upon lands now in town, along the Logansport road, and west bank of Lanana creek or bayou, a mile in extent. And these olden time leaders wore high heel boots, stove pipe hats and rider shirt, like the old time fence, would now be a curiosity. So would a fence worm. But these remembrances and these men of old have become traditions. It is proper to include the name of another worthy pioneer who was one of the builders of Texas, viz. Col. John Forbes.

THE THREE GENIES OF THE HAND GRENADE.

Part. IV.

Then Tommy saw his own garden, out of which soft, musical plant-voices seemed to call for him, and with a great leap of joy he jumped out of bed and ran into the arms of a Mother, who had on a simple dress of sunlight yellow and who carried a tray of freshly gathered vegetables.

Tommy could hardly keep from telling his dream this time, he was so happy over it. But he thought he had better wait for the next night.

The next night he seemed to have to wait a long time. He almost thought nothing was going to happen. He kept traveling in his dreams through dark alleys, and dingy streets filled with pale, dirty, hungry-looking children. He got lost in these streets, and walked miles and miles trying to find his way home. He was so worn out that, it seemed, he sat down on the doorstep of a tumbled-down old house and put his face down in his hands.

"Oh I wish I knew the way out!" he cried, and then hundreds of sad little voices seemed to echo his cry, and say "We do, too."

Then he seemed to fall into a deep, worn-out sleep, to be awakened by a voice like hollow thunder, and by the grip of an iron-like fist on his shoulder. He opened his eyes to see a terrible figure in robes which seemed to be made of sheet iron that rattled as he walked. His face was iron colored and hollow jawed. His eyes were green and glaring.

"Who are you?" cried Tommy.

"I am Giant Want! Come with me sir!"

Then the terrible Giant Want took Tommy and shut him up and left him in a wretched, dark room in tumbled-down house. Tommy thought at first that he could easily get out. But he couldn't find the doors and all the windows were barred.

"Oh, if I could only find the way out!" sobbed Tommy, and he thought he heard other sobbing voices echoing his cry. Finally he seemed to fall again into a deep, worn-out sleep. This time he was awakened by a great, laughing voice.

"Tommy! Tommy! Wake up! I'm the Third-Genie-of-the-Hand-Grenade!"

Tommy opened his eyes. There in the middle of the room, on a battered three-legged table, stood a hand grenade. It shone so brightly that it lighted up the dark room. Just like purest gold it was, only more shining.

Part. V.

"Let me out! Pull the Pin!" repeated the voice.

Tommy hurried to obey orders. Out came a powerful figure with face and hair and robes all of purest, shining gold. His smile was like the brightest sunlight, and Tommy felt his heart sing at the sight.

"I am the Third Genie!" the Being said, "My name is Thrift!"

Then the Genie filled the room as the others had done, and he and Tommy seemed just to melt through the walls into the good fresh air. They passed as quickly as THOUGHT across the land, and Tommy was able to see, in all the houses, Genies like his rising from hand grenades. In all the gloomy streets a great light shone. The great golden Genies joined, and went rushing across miles and miles of air, chasing old iron Giant Want, who finally melted away under their powerful light and faded out like a dark rain cloud before the sun. Then they came back again, and Tommy saw the dark streets shining with new, clean houses, and happy, clean children, and finally he came to his own simple little home, which he loved so much.

It was all quiet in the first morning light—so Tommy just slipped into his own little bed, or he seemed to slip into it, and was just turning over for another nap when Father called, and said—

"It's your birthday, Tommy; get up and get the wonderful hand-grenade bank that Uncle Sam has sent you because you earned enough money in your garden to buy two War Savings Stamps."

And you, dear little U. S. S. G. A. soldier, have you started to earn the money in your garden to buy a War Savings Stamp, so that Uncle Sam will send you one of the marvelous Hand-Grenade-Savings Banks?

If you are a little lad or lassie—not yet 10 years old—then you must earn enough to buy one War Savings Stamp that will chase old Giant Want and bring the great Genie called Thrift into your home.

If you are more than 10 years old—almost "grown up" you think sometimes—then you must earn enough to buy two War Savings Stamps.

Uncle Sam wants every soldier in the United States School Garden Army to have one of the wonderful hand-grenade savings banks, the most fascinating souvenir of the Great War that could possibly be obtained, so if you have not already begun the earning of money in your garden, start today, and soon you, too, will have a hand-grenade with all the Three Genies, just like the one of which the Garden Lady told. Ask your garden teacher to tell you about the plan

MCCUMBER URGES ACCEPTANCE TREATY

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—The rejection of all proposed amendments to the German peace treaty, and the modification of recommended strong reservations was urged in an individual minority report filed with the senate by Senator McCumber, republican of North Dakota, next in rank on the foreign relations committee to Chairman Lodge. Attacking Lodge, the report denounced the move of the majority amendment as quite "selfish, immoral, despicable," charging that they seek to "isolate the United States from the rest of the world and abandon our allies."

The report says the majority reservations are "couched in defiant, discourteous, overbearing manner, seeming to express a jingoistic spirit that ought to be eliminated from American statesmanship." It says the reservations are designed to take the United States entirely out of the league. The Shantung amendment would kick Japan out of the league, while Shantung would possibly be lost to China.

COUNTY TEACHERS INSTITUTE OPENED HERE THIS MORNING

Old Nacogdoches is flooded with scores of pretty school marmas today, who come to attend the County Teachers Institute for Nacogdoches county, which opened here this morning, being conducted in the high school building. Every teacher of the county, who is to teach this year was present. At the time this report was prepared we were not able to get the number of teachers present, but probably a reporter will be assigned to cover the proceedings in detail by tomorrow.

At nine o'clock this morning the opening exercises were held, consisting of songs, and a devotional by Rev. C. A. Westbrook, pastor of the Baptist church.

At 9:30 Prof. R. F. Davis, superintendent of the city schools of Nacogdoches delivered the address of welcome and as usual it was a great one. Mr. Davis is an interesting talented orator, and all of the teachers were made to feel the spirit of the depth of welcome contained in his message. The response was made by Prof. H. B. Stegall, Supt. of the Garrison schools, and was also a great address.

Other features of the day's program consisted of sectional meetings, studies from the text, "The Teacher At Work," "Importance of the Inter-scholastic League Work," by T. H. Hunt, a lecture by Prof. J. R. Swanson on "What We Want to Do This Week," general sessions, "Texas Public Health Department," by a representative of the department, who is making a health survey of the city, "The Woman School Teacher," by Miss Mayo Provence, and round table discussions.

FOOTPRINTS IN THE SAND.

Young man, young woman, what kind of a life are you living? What class do you mingle with in social pursuit, and is this the important part of life with you? The Boston trouble has revealed to us the frail thing that separates so many of us from the life of the outlaw. What is your purpose in life, what is your object in living? Do you live on the theory that you had better get the most out of this life, because you know not what is coming in the next? Do you seek to climb the ladder of social prominence, and become one of the elect, whose hand must not be soiled by contact with the common herd? Do you realize that "Tis the wink of an eye, 'tis the draught of a breath, From the blossom of health to the paleness of death, From the gilded saloon to the bier and the shroud— Oh, why should the spirit of mortal be proud?"

There are several ways of living a life. There are devious things one may live for, and innumerable gods one may serve. But the grave is the test of its purpose, its usefulness. One may drift aimlessly down the stream of life, neither doing good nor harm, and be engulfed by the ocean of death without a ripple to tell the story of existence. Or you may fight your way around the snags and shallows and falls, coming out a conqueror, or you may lose. But the important part of it all is, what have you left behind you?

When your neighbors shall suffer their minds to enter the realm of shadow land, the fairy land, where memory dwells, and reverie take possession, what kind of a look is going to come on his face when he remembers you? Will it be a frown or a smile, a look of love or hate, of reverence or detestation? What kind of footprints are you going to leave on the sand of time?

You may render a service to those with whom you come in contact that will make them remember you long after the value of your possessions are forgotten. There is only one thing you can take to the grave. That is the record of your life, the book of deeds of mortal clay. Life is not a bed of ease or a bowler of roses, made only for the purpose of our enjoyment. All of us have to reckon with the eternal balance, for what we gain somebody else must lose; we must pay for what we get, for it is by the presence of pain that we are able to distinguish joy. As Knox says again: "Yea! hope and despondency, pleasure and pain, We mingle together in sunshine and rain; And the smiles, and the tears, the song and the dirge,"

WOMEN OF MIDDLE AGE

Need Help to Pass the Crisis Safely—Proof that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Can be Relied Upon.

Urbana, Ill.—"During Change of Life, in addition to its annoying symptoms, I had an attack of grippe which lasted all winter and left me in a weakened condition. I felt at times that I would never be well again. I read of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and what it did for women passing through the Change of Life, so I told my doctor I would try it. I soon began to gain in strength and the annoying symptoms disappeared and your Vegetable Compound has made me a well, strong woman so I do all my own housework. I cannot recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound too highly to women passing through the Change of Life." —Mrs. FRANK HENSON, 1316 S. Orchard St., Urbana, Ill.

Women who suffer from nervousness, "heat flashes," backache, headaches and "the blues" should try this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Still follow each other, like surge upon surge.

And so it all comes down to the final analysis that is age old. We get out of life about what we put into it, and in the measure that we sow, so shall we also reap. If then what we put into life is returned to us, sooner or later, should it not behoove us to put into it only the good, and our best? Will our name be handed down or remembered in after years because we were a social lion, or a billagee thug. Will our eed be emblazoned on the pages of history because we were a marvel at making money? Or because we never worked a lick in our life?

Let us not lift our heads above our fellows, because he is below our social plane, but work together in meekness of spirit in emulation of the Master of Men for the purpose for which we were sent, for "The leaves of the oak and the willow shall fade, Be scattered around, and together be laid; And the young and the old, and the low and the high, Shall moulder to dust, and together shall lie."

Life Was a Misery

Mrs. F. M. Jones, of Palmer, Okla., writes: "From the time I entered into womanhood . . . I looked with dread from one mouth to the next. I suffered with my back and bearing-down pain, until life to me was a misery. I would think I could not endure the pain any longer, and I gradually got worse. . . Nothing seemed to help me until, one day, . . . I decided to

CARDUI

"I took four bottles," Mrs. Jones goes on to say, "and was not only greatly relieved, but can truthfully say that I have not a pain. . . . It has now been two years since I took Cardui, and I am still in good health. . . . I would advise any woman or girl to use Cardui who is a sufferer from any female trouble." If you suffer pain caused from womanly trouble, or if you feel the need of a good strengthening tonic to build up your run-down system, take the advice of Mrs. Jones. Try Cardui. It helped her. We believe it will help you.

(Special to The Sentinel.) FT. WORTH, Sept. 15.—The Texas Republican Council will go into permanent organization on October 4th, at a meeting to be held at Dallas, according to announcement from Republican headquarters today.

The necessity for dealing with permanent questions relating to the party's interest, is given as the reason for the decision to hasten the date of permanent organization.

THE AMERICAN GOVERNMENT STILL NEEDS YOU

One would naturally think that since the war is over there would be no demand by the government for civil service employees but not so. There is a great demand. There is so much clerical work to be done under the reconstruction program, until the government is still holding weekly examinations in four hundred cities of the United States. The pay is good, the hours short and the work in Washington is an education without itself.

Young men and women who possess the right training will receive a ready welcome in Government offices, banks, insurance offices, business houses and railroad offices. Whether you must earn your living or not it is worth while to be able to do so. Education has a lifting power that can hardly be measured. It gives you the ability to think, and the ability to think gives the power to work effectively, and it is effective work for which the world pays the largest rewards.

It will pay big to spend a few months with the Tyler Commercial College, Tyler, Texas, America's largest and most successful commercial school, and secure the training that will fit you for doing, in the best way, the work that is so urgently demanded, by taking Bookkeeping, Shorthand, Business Finance, Cotton Cladding and Telegraphy. A CARD OF THANKS.

It is with the greatest pleasure that I express so many thanks to my hosts of friends and dear pupils whom I taught from 1868 to 1876. They are my dear children, and I feel so near to them. How kind they have been to their unfortunate teacher! God only knows—words cannot express the gratitude I feel toward all that have contributed to my comfort. All of this kindness was bestowed on me when fire with dire disaster, consumed my home with all relics of the beautiful past. The most substantial citizens came to my S. O. S. call, or I would have been a derelict drifting in the wide wide world. Then the dear ladies of Melrose took my interest and did the Christian act. To be so blessed! Thank God for friends!

HOSPITAL NURSE PRAISES TANLAC

Gains Eleven Pounds and is Feeling Fine Since Taking Tanlac.

"Tanlac did so much for me that I feel it my duty to tell others about this medicine," said C. M. Rhamey, a professional nurse living at the Hotel George on Sixth street, San Francisco, Cal., recently. Mr. Rhamey has been nursing patients in the hospitals for the past eight years.

"Last February," he continued, "owing to an accident in which my leg was broken I was confined to my bed for several weeks. I lost my appetite and could hardly eat anything to nourish me consequently I lost weight. I took several different kinds of tonics, hoping they would help build me up but they did me no good."

"One morning I read a statement by a lady in Los Angeles who said that she had gotten such wonderful benefits from taking Tanlac that I decided to try it myself. By the time I had finished half of my first bottle my appetite returned and I felt hungry for the first time in weeks. From then on I started right in to pick up and my appetite got better and better and I slept better at night. I have already gained eleven pounds and am feeling just fine; even my doctor has remarked how much better I am looking. I would never allow my name to be used in connection with a medicine before, but I have had such excellent results from using Tanlac that I take great pleasure in recommending it to anyone needing a medicine to build up the system."

Tanlac is sold in Nacogdoches by Stripling, Haselwood & Co., and Swift Bros. & Smith.

LEE M. WILKERSON.

To the Worshipful Master, Wardens and Brethren of Milam Lodge No. 2, A. F. & A. M.

Among all the many different types and characters of citizens of clean and progress States and Nations, one type has always stood out in bold relief in time of National peril.

The man who does his work well, who gives to his business the best that is in him during the hours of business, who loves his family, his government and his God, is the ideal citizen.

Such citizens not only mold the character of the nation in which they live, but they are in very fact that nation's character.

In all historic times of social and political upheaval and national crisis, they have been the nation's mighty rock of defense and the balance wheel of extremists and ultra-radicals on either side.

Such a safe and solid citizen was our Brother Lee Wilkerson, whose untimely death on August 1st, 1919, resulted from a railroad accident.

I sincerely deplore his loss and will ever revere his memory.

Therefore be it resolved that we extend to his family our sincere and heartfelt sympathy, assuring them that their grief is ours. We feel that sad though his loss may be to them and to us, his exemplary life and devotion to duty and services will be an inspiration. We know that the world is better for Lee Wilkerson having lived in it.

BOYS HAD GREAT TIME ON THE SUMMER ENCAMPMENT

Of the hundreds of summer encampments and schools of instruction which have been held all over the land for the Boy Scouts of America we doubt if any were more successful than that given to the Nacogdoches boys at the Shawnee Springs on September 2 to 10. There were 33 Scouts in camp all the time and many of the boys who were working came some of the time.

Shawnee is an ideal place for Scout work, as the hills, the river, the wild growth and the good water furnish all the elements necessary for the nature studies and stunts which Scouts must pass before becoming first-class, or certificate scouts. A portion of each day in the camp was given to this work, and a goodly number of the boys will be called before the court of honor in early October and receive their first class badges.

Exceptionally good work was done this summer in naming and identifying the various kinds of trees and shrubs, in sending messages from hill to hill without mistakes, in traveling through the country over hills, marshes, brakes and thickets by the compass and coming back to the place of starting without fail, also in topographical and sectional surveying of the hills without instruments save of their own making, and which was done with very creditable precision.

Many have had their first aid lessons and more will finish this week. So while the boys had lots and lots of fun, they also had a profitable outing.

It is the plans of the Scout officials to furnish the Scouts with ample facilities for their work and entertainment during the fall and winter, so that they may have frequent one night hikes for their work and physical equipment for the development of their bodies. But we want no boy to come into this great order for fun and pleasure alone, for a true Scout is willing to work and work hard to make himself useful and "Be Prepared" for any emergency and service he may be called upon to meet for his country or his God.

The boys feel under special obligations to the following citizens: To Mr. F. S. Aikman, our dear Uncle Frank, for the use of his truck, also to Ben T. Wilson and Mr. Guy Blount for trucks, and to Judge V. E. Middlebrook, Mr. Joe Clevenger and several of our veteran scouts for personal services and courtesies.
