SIGNS VS NEW YEAR

The first day of the New Year 1921 dawned with every indication to the Sentinel that the coming year is to be one of the greatest happiness and rarest prosperity. Many sensible things occurred during the night and day that have convinced us of the truthfullness of this indication.

First, New Year's night one of the Sentinel's employees dreamed nearly all night of money, literally piles of it, which he thought in his dreams belonged to him. In fact, he thought that he had so much money he had to use several banks in which to deposit it. This dream, in order to come true, he told Saturday morning before he ata his breakfast

Second, Saturday morning as the editor of the Sentinel was coming down to the office to begin his day's work in the new year, what should he first see but the hind foot of a big. husky rabbit lying in front of the office door. The editor picked up this rabble foot and seemed very proud of his find. The reporter is keeping this tok n of the editor's good luck beside his typewriter so that this article might be better inspired and that it might bring better luck to the many readers of the Sentinel for the coming year. However, the "boss" says that the rallit foot belongs to the

Assured that their children shall not starve, the parents can make shift to keep body and soul together, and for families thus salvaged there is promise of better days ahead. Had it not been for the capitalism which so many of the ignoramuses of high station in Europe are forever attacking, there must have been millions of deaths by starvation in Europe. It is only the countries where capital fertilizes industry that are contributing to international charities. The countries where capital is scant and property illy protected have nothing to give because their people are never much above the bread line themselves. NACOGROCHES TRADITIONS

It may be true that truth is stranger than fiction in some instances, and are truer than history, at times.

I have recently reviewed the autobiography of David Crockett, the famous Tennessee backwoods hunter. politician, patriot, hero and have read some other recorded history of his peculiar and eventful life.

These publications do not fully accome to me through sources that I though reliable, about Crockett's the famed Alamo, at San Antonio, where he bravely gave his life for Texas, together with the 185 other

These published histories tell that he left Tennessee for Texas, and went via Little Rock, Ark., to Fulton, on the Red River, where he took boat and descended to Natchitoches, La., and from there he went west on horseonly one night.

I was told by the original Grandma Roberts, wife of the noted John S. Roberts, who owned the "Old Stone Fort" in her fine old house fronting on the south side of the public square or main plaza, facing the Stone Fort which fronted this plaza on the north side, that she lived in this house when Crockett came to Nacogdoches, and that the people of town gave him a dance one night in her house. I think she said she danced with him on the very floor where we sat. In his autolography Crockett does not refer to this event, though he resites other similar social events. As the ordinary stranger takes his seat in the gallery and surveys the house of lords, he sees much to charm his eye, to kindle his imagination, and even to stimulate his sense of reverence, writes a correspondent of the London Times. He feels humbled, if not intimidated by the almost religious solemness of the place. It is glowing in gold and colors. All the glory of the "tiger moth's deep damasked wings" gleams in its splendid decorations. Yet there is nothing gergeous in the scene. The subdued light of a cathedral-"dim and yellow," as Shelley found it in Milanprevails, transforming things that might otherwise strike upon the serves as garish into a delight to the eve, and an inspiration to the mind. Everything heightens the impression that one is in the beautiful chapel of an ancient cathedra rather than in a modern legislative chamber.

The lofty stained-glass windows have blue and crimson figures of the kings and queens of England. Most of them were worldly minded men and women, but like saints they look in their antique garments, and the seeming of rapt meditation and eestatic introspection on their faces. Between the windows are pedestals on which stand large bronze statues of knights in armor, grave and stern of aspect, leaning on their naked swords and lances. They recall times when the battle of principles was fought not with words of subtle-minded and ready-tengued men in frock coat and. silk hat, but with sword and battle axe, wielded by brawny soldiers on prancing steeds.

FOUGHT WAR OVER LAP DOG "SQUEEZE" POPULAR IN CHINA

Matter of History That Conflict Between the Florentines and Citizens of Pisa Began Thus.

One of the bitterest of the minor wars of history was fought over a Florentine emissary attending the corsaw and admired a lap dog belonging to a cardinal. The church official, noting the admiration, promptly assured the Florentine that the dog was his. and the emissary agreed to send for it. The ambassador from Pisa saw and admired the same dog, and was just as promptly promised it on the morrow. Both men sent for the dog. but the Florentine's servant, being first, carried it away. The citizens of Rome, hearing of the incident, began termed graft and that form of squeeze to joke about it, and the visiting Flor- is what makes the military governors entines were especially vicious about of the provinces and the politicians of the matter. The application of the phrase to Ireland probably at first arose from a printer's error.-New Orleans Times-Picayune.

The Printing Telegraph. During the five-year period 1912-1917, the printing telegraph came into extended use by telegraph companies, press associations and railroads. The printing telegraph consists essentially of a sending instrument, equipped with a keyboard similar to that of a typewriter, electrically connected with a receiving instrument in such a manner that the latter automatically reproduces what is typewritten on the sending instrument, Without the prints ing telegraph it would have been difficult or impossible to handle the increased telegraph business during the great war.

Edible Oysters in Solid Rock.

Edible oysters that live with their shells imbedded in solid rock, like the fossil of some extinct creatures, have been discovered in Coos bay, Oregon. The fact that they are fairly abundant makes these strange mollusks no less a curiosity, and the university of the state is now engaged in a study of their origin and mode of life. Because they are considered an exceptionally delicious food, the investigators are also examining into the possibility of their propagation for the mar-

REAL TURK NOT MONEY MAD

Recognizes There Are Higher Things In Life Than Practicing Buying and Selling.

The real Turk, unlike the so-called mongrel Turk, does not have to impress his sense of superiority on others. And, although the latter is always eager to do business with you. according to Mr. Herbert Gibbons in Asia, the real Turk is often quite indifferent.

Some real Anatolian Turks are merchants and sit in the bazaars. But they will not go out of their way to make a sale, and they really do not care whether you buy or not. Often they ignore strangers; sometimes they rebuff them. When you meet with this type in the bazaars where all the Jews and Gentiles are hard after your money, it is like a dash of cold water in your face.

Once in a little open shop I saw a rug that attracted me. I started to enter, but the crouched figure on the mat put out a long-fingered left hand. grasped firmly my ankle, and removed my foot outside the threshold. I thought there must be some superstition about which foot went first; so I tried the other. The same left hand proved again its strength. All the while the merchant did not speak or look up. But he never asked me to buy anything, and I did not want to risk his friendship by making a second try for the rug. There are more important things in life than buying and selling.

A stop-watch and a nose-cui are all the apparatus required. while the precise instructions as to carrying out the experiment are equally simple. The time the man can hold his breath before the inevitable and forceful sensation of the need to breathe compels him to give way is noted. The average time in the norma fit pilot is 69 seconds, the minimum being 45 seconds. Nearly all cases with a time record as short as this were rejected on medical grounds apart from this test.

Not the least interesting part of the test as applied to airmen is the reply given when the examfnee is asked what caused him to give way and breathe in, the normal response being: "I had to give up," or "I wanted to breathe." Under conditions that point to unfitness for pilotage the reply may be: "I felt giddy" or "squeamish" or "flushed," responses which indicate that other nerve centers are involved besides the true bulbar respiratory center.

SMALL TOWN WITH A BIG LIVE STORE

(By Jules A. Johnson.) When a merchant builds a $100,-000 store in a town of 3,000 people, he is very likely to be set down as crazy. That is what people said of Fred P. Mann of Devil's Lake, N. D., when he did that very thing back in 1907. "The town will never support a store half that size," they declared.

The old-timers laughed when he put in such new-fangled ideas as a rest room for women, a booth that served coffee free on Saturday afternoon and musical programs for special occasions. They told Mr. Mann that the folk, unused to such splendor.

The store is now doing a business of about $750,000 a year. How does the natural process of deflation. Mr. Mann do it? He is a naturalborn merchant, but he makes no claim to genius. He says he merely tries to keep his mind open to new ideas, and move along with the times, and possibly get a little bit ahead of them once in a while. But it is of little use to hove up-to-date ideas if one does not spread them. He attributes his remarkable success to advertisingadvertising in every possible form.

Three years ago he set out to learn why one-third of the business in his state was going to the mail-order houses in large cities. His survey proved to his satisfaction that it was because 10 percent of the local merchants were "live advertisers." Since then he himself has made greater inroads than ever into the business of the Chicago mail order houses. "You can do a big business anywhere," he says, "if you go about it right."

The above is clipped from the Bryan Eagle. It carries with it a lesson so practical on the subject of advertising that the News reproduces it.

This would seem to indicate that the oil industry is becoming much less hazardous as a business venture, due, of course, to the improvements made in drilling machinery, to better methods, and to greater scientific skill by geologists in locating oil. This record does much to remove the oil producing industry out of the speculative field and put it on a more substantial basis, although, of course, there will always be a certain element of risk in oil ventures.

The high percentage of production in the coastal fields is especially gratifying as showing a degree of dependability, and giving the industry a permanancy in this part of the state which will mean much to the future of Houston.-Houston Post.

SAW MIRAGE ON SIDEWALK

College Professor Records Interesting Observation He Made on the Streets of a City.

A curious case of sidewalk mirage was described by Prof. F. W. McNair of Michigan College of Mining. Prof. McNair wrote in Science:

"I was walking eastward on a cement sidewalk on a street running nearly east and west, and moving up a moderate grade which joins a nearly level stretch of walk. On reaching a point which brought my eye slightly above the level portion, and at which normally the level stretch would have heen seen in its entire length, but much foreshortened, I observed inof clear dark water covering the entire width of the walk and brilliantly reflecting moving persons and other objects in sight beyond it.

"The sky was clear, the air cool, the sun high. It was about 3 o'clock p. m., local fime. There was a moderate breeze. The angle of observation was very small, probably not above three degrees. A step or two either but within the proper limits, the illusion was definite and continuing. The weather bureau report for the day indicated that approximately 80 feet above the spot where the mirage was observed the air temperature was about 60 degrees F. and the humidity about 63 degrees.'

BELIEVE DEVIL RULES EARTH

Probably Queerest Religious Faith Is That of Tribe of Kurdish and Arabian Blood.

One of the strangest religious sects in the world is known as the Yezedi, a race of mixed Kurdish and Arabian blood. They worship the devil, and believe he will rule the earth for 10,000 years, 4,000 of this number having already passed. On the theory that Jesus is good, and will not harm them, they give most of their devotion and sacrifice to the devil who, they assert, will at the end of the next 6,000 years, be put into hell, where he will weep so hard he will put out the fires, and then will be pardoned and given back his rightful place in

The Yezedi believe that there were 71 Adams and a similar number of Eves, and that the originals once had a great dispute as to who was the most important, the man or the wom-To prove the matter the women spit in one great jar and the men in another, and the jars were the sealed for nine months. Words in English Language.

The number of English words not yet obsolete, but found in good futhors, or in approved usage by correct speakers, including the nomenclature of science and the arts, does not probably fall short of 100,000, says George Perkins Marsh. Few write s or speakers use as many as 10,000 words, ordinary persons of fair int ligence not above 3,000 or 4,000. If a scholar were to be required to nar without examination, the authors whose English vocabulary was the largest, he would specify the all-enbracing Shakespeare, and the all-knowing Milton. And yet in all the works of the great dramatist there seem not more than 15,000 words; in the poems of Milton not above 8,000. The whole number of Egyptian hieroglyphic symbols does not exceed 800, and the eutire Italian vocabulary is said to be scarcely more extensive.

Egg Shows Miracle.

One cannot find among the multitude of wonders in nature anything more marvelous than the development of an egg, writes Elsa G. Allen, in the American Forestry Magazine. Whether it be a butterfly which flourishes for a day, only to die after depositing its eggs, or a reptile which lazily leaves its eggs with only the warm sand to mother them, or a fish, like the salmon, which with incredible strength, jumps the rapids to spawn in the upper reaches of rivers, or most appealing of all a bird which builds a beautiful nest for its treasures, the egg in every case is structurally the & same, and the miracle of life unfolds according to the same laws of cell

Modern Words Traced to Trees.

While the ancient Greeks fancied that every tree was possessed of its own peculiar spirit, and nature lovers insist that trees have personalities even as men and women, it is only patural that men have paid tribute to the tree. The leaves of plants named the leaves of books, and the word "folio" traces back to "foliage." The word paper comes from the old papyrus plant, and the word "Bible" is the Greek name of the plant, according to the Minneapolis Journal. The word "book" is derived from "beech," and the "codex" originally meant tree trunk. It is because men have found the trees kind friends and interesting subjects that they have been paid so

Communities shouldn't worry for fear that local newspapers are making too much money thinks the State College of Agriculture; on the contrary, it is to the advantage of the community that its local newspaper shall be prosperous, in the college's opinion. Some of the difficulties of newspaper publishing are pointed out in an editorial headed "Prices and Printers" in the current issue of the Extension Service News, issued by the college. The editorial follows:

DRAWN WITH MASTER HAND

Walter Scott's Portraits of the Past a Notable Contribution to English Literature.

No wonder that Walter Scott, who, having shown the world in the Minstrelsy and the Lay that he was editor and poet, and being himself a novel reader, should be utterly dissatisfied with the quality of the existing supply. The French Revolution, distinguished by its leveling principle and action, had ended in substituting a feudal empire for an effete monarchy; and even when Napoleon was redividing Europe into kingdoms and principalities for his family and his followers, there had sprung up-or rather revived-a deep devotion to the chivgrafted grace into history and breathed reality into song.

To this feeling, this principle, Scott had ministered in his poems; and now, acknowledged head of the remantic school, he resolved to extend its limits, beyond the ballad to the narrative poem and use prose as the more suitthe past as it seemed in the eyes of men who were dubious of the present and afraid of the future-noble, stately, glittering and gay, with the pulse of life ever beating to heroic measures. His view of feudalism in "The Talisman," "Ivanhoe" and "The Fair Maid

MIXED HUMOR AND TRAGEDY

Writer Tells of Relieving Touch in the Midst of Scenes of Revolt in Ireland.

There is no country in the world like Ireland. Even its serious attempts at revolution have a humorous side. Just as there is a touch of sadness in the wildest Irish merriment, there is a bit of good humor in the midst of its most tragic earnestness. Miss Dorothea Conyers, in her Sporting Reminiscences, tells an incident of one of the Sinn Fein uprisings:

The barrier on the Wellesly bridge was most imposing, and I remember rushing down to see it and upsetting a neat stack of bayonets, but no one minded. An irate old lady in an ass cart was trying to pass out just as I got there. Wheeled traffic had to go round by another bridge.

Historic Estate on Market.

The Stoke Park estate, once the home of the Penns, has been placed on the market. On this property is a monument put up by John Penn in memory of the poet, Gray. On three sides are quotations from the Elegy, on the fourth is an inscription saying that the stone was erected in 1799 "among the scenery celebrated by the great Lyric and Elegiac Poet," and that "lies unnoticed in the adjoining churchyard under the tombstone on which he piously and pathetically recorded the interment of his aunt and lamented mother." The hope is expressed that the property will not fall into hands that will permit this monument, "which in a sense has become historic, to fall into ruin."-London

Wartime Lumber Consumption. The consumption of lumber during the war has been approximated at 6,-500,000,000 feet, board measure, by the United States forestry service, Of this amount of lumber purchased directly by the various government departments, the army consumption was nearly 5,500,000,000 feet, the navy consuming more than 120,000,000. During 1918 the Emergency Fleet corporation consumed for ship construction approximately 800,000,000 feet. Lumber needed for boxes and crates alone required approximately 2,000,000,000 feet. SHRINE'S MEANING NOT PLAIN Erected to the Memory of Japanese Maid, But Its Precise Idea Hardly Apparent.

One of the pretty shrines of Japan is based on the story of a beautiful girl, and to this day occidentals can not figure out if the shrine was to perpetuate a tragedy or an honor. The story is that Yamatodake, one of the greatest warriors in the history of the country, halted for a night at the village of Shimodaira. He was weary of battle and strife, and sent out word to the village that he wished to be entertained by the prettiest girl there. Kemachiya was selected, and it is told how she spent the evening singing and dancing for the warrior. He went on his masterful way the next morning leaving the little maiden to mourn his passing, and to give birth to his child in due time.

Now, the child died, as did its mether, and the village erected the shrine, and every few years it is rebuilt and made more beautiful. But what no occidental can discover is whether the shrine was built to remind the citizens of the militarism of the old days that trod with relentless heels on beggar and wealthy alike, and thus to pay tribute to a tragedy, or whether it was built to show that the great warrior honored the humble village by

Thus to an enthusiastic amateur we are indebted for one of the most popular and beautiful of our garden flowers."

In Denver they tell a story of a newly rich family that became discontented with the services of their old physician, despite that fact that for many years he had kept all of them in excellent health.

In 1868 not enough cigarettes were consumed in the United States to be subjected to the internal revenue tax. Today the population of the country, male and female, is burning up 127,-000,000 cigarettes every day, or 46,500,-000,000 in a year. During the last ten years the consumption of cigarettes has exceeded that of cigars.

EVER BILIOUS?

Charleston, Miss.—Mrs. R. V. Heins, of this place, says: "I have never had to use very much medicine, because if I felt headache, dizziness, or colds, bad taste in the mouth, which comes from torpid liver, I would take a dose or more of Black-Draught, and it would straighten me out and make me feel as good as new. We have used in our family for years and it certainly is the best liver medicine I ever saw. It has not only saved me money, it has helped keep my system in shape, and has never weakened me as so many physics do. I recommend it to my friends and am glad to do so." Black-Draught is the old, reliable liver medicine which you have doubtless heard much about. When you feel badly all over, stomach not right, bad taste in your mouth, bilious, or have a headache, try Thedford's Black-Draught. At all Druggists.

St. Joseph Woman States She Was On Verge of Giving Up When Friend Recommended Tanlac

"My quick and complete relief by taking Tanlac was certainly a very welcome surpirise to me," declared Mrs. Maggie Brown, of 604 East Kansas Ave., St. Joseph, Mo.

"For two years," said Mrs. Brown, "I suffered from a nervous, rundown condition and felt tired and worn out all the time. My appetite was poor, I ate scarcely anything and became so weak I could hardly get around and even a little housework was a burden

"I had terrible headaches and dizzy spells, my nerves were upset by the least little noise and I was so restless to sleep well. "I could tell I was improving right along before I had finished my first bottle of Tanlac. I have taken four bottles and my appetite is just splendid. I am never troubled with indigestion, and I have already gained ten pounds. My nerves are perfectly normal and I never slept better in my life than I do now. Tanlac has restored my health and strength, and I certainly do recommend it to anyone in a condition like I was."

Tanlac is sold in Nac , toches by Stripling, Haselwood & Company and Swift Bros. & Smith and in Garrison by the Dale Drug Company and all leading druggists.
