BRIAND IS COMING TO REPRESENT FRANCE

Washington, Aug. 16.—The hope of American officials that the disarmament conference will be a diplomatic conclave of the first order was strengthened when France informed the state department that she would send her premier, Aristide Briand, as the head of her delegates of diplomats.

The decision is expected here to be followed by similar moves on the part of other powers, investing the gathering with extraordinary significance, giving it much of the plenary authority that was possessed by the council of the heads of the states at Versailles.

The French notification came in the form of a message from Premier Briand himself, transmitted through the American embassy at Paris, saying merely that the ambassador would take pleasure in personally representing his country at the conference.

U. S. CAVALRYMAN MAKES THINGS LIVELY

Brownsville, Texas, Aug. 16.—Mexican authorities at Matamoros, opposite here, today are detaining Private Morgan, a fourth United States Cavalryman, who last night startled residents on either side of the Rio Grande by dashing on his horse across the international bridge, and after evading both American and Mexican customs and immigration guards began a wild ride through the city of Matamoros with several Mexican officers in pursuit.

HOUSE REFUSES REDISTRICTING BILL

Austin, Texas, Aug. 15.—The house refused to adopt the free conference report on the senatorial redistricting bill.

FIRST OPEN SESSION OF IRISH PARLIAMENT

Dublin, Aug. 16.—The Irish republican parliament met here today in the first open session in its history to consider the British government's peace terms. One hundred members were present, including those released from prison. A great audience crowded the gallery as Eamonn de Valera led the members into the chamber.

In opening the Dail Eireann, de Valera reiterated Ireland's claim for separation from Great Britain and declared that the only government the people recognized was the ministry of the Dail Eireann. It is understood that formal consideration of the British government's offer will not begin till Thursday. It is thought this program was arranged so that Haggy J. Boland, representative of the Irish republic in the United States, might participate in the debate. Boland is en route to Europe.

Valera said he and his colleagues had adopted toward England the principle laid down by Cardinal Mercier of Belgium toward Germany that external authority is unlawful. He said the Irish stood for the ideals enshrined in the American Declaration of Independence. He provoked laughter by describing the British attitude as that of a great nation demanding guarantees for its safety to a small state. He added that the cabinet did not think the British proposals just. Valera pointed to the virtually impossible conditions surrounding the negotiations with Britain. He declared the position was that of a man unarmed facing a man pointing a pistol. He said there were people who wanted to negotiate to save their faces, but the Sinn Fein would not negotiate to save faces, but to save, if possible, bloodshed and for right and principle.

Soldiers Remobilized

London, Aug. 16.—All soldiers on leave from Ireland in Aldershot and Farnborough have been ordered by telegram to return to their regiments immediately.

Belfast, Aug. 16.—It is reported here that military authorities in Ireland have cancelled all leaves of absence of officers and men and that those away on holidays were recalled. It was stated this precaution was taken as a precaution against surprise only.

Ulster Unchanged

Belfast, Aug. 16.—After the meeting of the Ulster cabinet today an official report was issued stating that the general situation had been carefully reviewed and there was absolutely no change in the situation, so far as Ulster is concerned.

THE CLOSING DAY

Austin, Texas, Aug. 16.—The senate today concurred in the house amendments to the senate pink boll worm bill. The measure now goes to the governor.

Both Houses Stand at Ease

Austin, Texas, Aug. 16.—Within a few minutes after convening today both branches of the legislature were standing at ease for lack of work. Various free conference reports were awaited. The house bill providing that the available school fund of the State University be used exclusively for permanent improvements was defeated by the senate.

1,000 SPOTLESS BEDS FOR 5 WOUNDED DOUGHBOYS

Chicago, Aug. 17.—With two miles of spotless white corridors, 1,000 beds and all the equipment of a brand new hospital at their disposal, 5 wounded doughboys are "sitting" on top of the world at Speedway hospital, the government's $10,000,000 structure at Maywood, Ill.

The hospital was opened a week ago and so far has received only five inmates.

"It's pretty hard in some ways—only us five guys in the place," said Sergeant Harlow B. Garthwalte, late of C company, 6th field signal battalion.

"We've got three majors, two nurses and two orderlies worrying over us. They're killing us with kindness. Why we've got one major detailed exclusively at swatting mosquitoes.

The hospital, which is four stories high, is one-half mile in length.

GOVERNOR HAS CALLED ANOTHER EXTRA SESSION

Austin, Texas, Aug. 17.—After a conference with the president of the University and A. & M. College the governor announced that he would issue a call at 10 o'clock this morning for the second session of the Thirty-seventh legislature. The governor stated that only educational appropriations would be submitted.

House Failure Causes Surprise

Austin, Texas, Aug. 17.—The refusal of the house to adopt the free conference report on the educational bill came as a surprise to most members of the house, a partial poll late last night showed.

Ten Hours Between Sessions

Austin, Texas, Aug. 17.—The governor called a special session of the legislature this morning. The hour set for its convening is 10 o'clock August 17, 1921, ten hours after the legislature adjourned sine die. The governor submitted but one subject—to provide funds for the upkeep of the state institutions. Failure of the legislature to agree on an appropriation bill for the educational institutions necessitated the call. Although he submitted but one subject, the governor included in his message any other subjects which he might see fit to submit. Assistant Attorney General Keeling participated in the conference of the governor with the heads of the University and the A. & M. College. Although a number of legislators departed for their homes last night and early today, it is thought there will be a quorum in both houses.

Both Houses at Work

Austin, Texas, Aug. 17.—Speaker Thomas called the house to order at 10 o'clock this morning and Lieutenant Governor Davidson rapped for order in the senate simultaneously, in accordance with the governor's proclamation.

Original Appropriation Bill

Austin, Texas, Aug. 17.—Senator Dudley, chairman of the finance committee, announced that he would introduce the educational appropriation bill as originally prepared. This bill does not carry the salary reductions made by the house and free conference committee. It is expected the legislature will adjourn within two weeks.

NEW BALKAN REPUBLIC

Belgrade, Aug. 15.—The Magyar and Yugoslav elements of Southeastern Hungary held a monster meeting at Funpkirchen, 100 miles southwest of Budapest, last night. It was reported here that the Republic of Baranya, the name of the province of which Pecs is the capital, has been proclaimed, with the presidency offered to Count Karol II.

31 CHINAMEN COMING TO DISARMAMENT MEETING

Pekin, Aug. 17.—China's delegation at the conference on disarmament and Far East questions to be held in Washington late this autumn will comprise 31 members. It will consist of a chief and four associate delegates, ten councillors and sixteen clerks, according to a tentative decision reached by the cabinet yesterday. Dr. Philip Tyau, at present, councillor at the foreign office, who probably will be the chief secretary of the delegation, will leave for the United preliminary arrangements.

DEADLOCK IS REACHED IN FAMINE RELIEF

ABILENE LABOR TROUBLES

Abilene, Texas, Aug. 17.—A crowd of white men, estimated at 100, gathered at the site of a church being erected here this morning and took charge after ordering a number of Mexican and negro workmen away. The white men were quoted as saying they only asked a square deal for white men, and asked that they be given preference over Mexicans in employment. There was no disorder.

A SLIPPERY TAX CLIMB

Different from its joyride into power is the republican party's slippery attempt to climb the steep grade of a federal tax. Already there is ominous skidding at the outset of the effort to pull the Harding machine up the mountain of four billions a year. The growing agitation within the ranks of the administration is voicing its alarm over the slewing toward more tax trouble—the proposed $10 federal tax on every automobile, the three-cent postage, the two-cent stamp on all bank checks and the increased levy on tobacco.

Besides the inequality of taxing a $500 automobile the same amount as a $10,000 one, motorists pay in state license fees a higher tax than is exacted from any other property owners, and some states assess as much as $1 per horsepower. There is disagreement also among republicans over the need of putting a two-cent tax on checks and a three-cent stamp on letters. Coupled with the proposal to reduce the surtax on big incomes and to abolish the tax on excess profits, the suggestion is viewed as favoring the large interests at the expense of others.

Politicians in Washington cannot realize too soon that they are on dangerously slippery ground by continuing the notion of spending all the government money that can be grabbed, instead of saving wherever possible—and saving, not a few millions, but sometimes in the ten figures. An idea of the carnival they started to make can be formed from the total of appropriations asked for—eight billion dollars. Today's cash in the treasury and the four billions Secretary Mellon expects to raise from taxes the coming year would approximate six billion dollars, or two million less than the wasters have schemed to squander.

THE HIP POCKET DEFENSE

The "Hip Pocket Defense" is a disgrace to our criminal procedure. Murderers troop along the highways of the land because this fictitious and fraudulent plea has been accepted by the juries as justification of their red-handed crimes.

Time and again it happens that the killer swears he saw the victim he slew reach for the hip pocket, although that victim was unarmed.

The hip pocket plea is fraudulent because it is seldom, indeed, that any gun-toter carries his gun there. It would be almost as reasonable a defense to say one was in the act of reaching for his hat or his vest pocket.

Our reformers are moving heaven and earth to stamp out bootlegging and other crimes, and this very legislature is considering a most extraordinary change in the laws to enforce prohibition, when, after all, the outstanding crime in this country is homicide.

Why is not something done to protect the sanctity of human life? We have built up a system of procedure, technically, and confusion in behalf of murderers that shames our jurisprudence.

The so-called "hip pocket defense" has outlived its day in this civilized commonwealth.—Houston Post.

LIVING LONGER

While the method pursued by Dr. A. J. E. Savage of New York, to demonstrate that the "big men" of today are living longer than their historic predecessors of Greece and Rome is hardly scientific, it discloses some highly interesting facts. Dr. Savage took a list of 41 business and financial leaders of America and compared their expectations of life with the ages at death of an equal number of ancient worthies whose lives are recorded by Plutarch. The average life of the Americans is 63.8 years and to this is added the expectation of life bringing up the average to 74.3. The average age at death of the ancients was 55.7. All the Americans in the list, which includes Armour, Gary, Eastman, Ford, Kahn, Morgan, Rockefeller and Schwab, are men of civil pursuits, commercial and financial or industrial, while the category of ancient numbers warriors like Caesar and Alexander and scholars and statesmen.

Whatever may be thought of the basis for comparison, the conclusions of Dr. Savage will coincide with the general opinion. The average length of human life has been increasing through the centuries. "In the sixteenth century the best estimate to be had places the average at 19 years. At the close of the eighteenth century it was a little over 30 years and now it has so increased that we shall have to readjust our definition of the length of a generation." In the list of America's living leaders only two are under 50, "and there are but few of the others who would have appeared on such a list when they were only 50."

The rush and hustle of modern competitive business life do not seem so inimical to longevity as the conditions under which the ancients lived. Great scourges devastated whole nations while diseases with which modern medical science is able to cope successfully took their daily toll of victims. It would be strange if mankind would not have profited by the discoveries of Lister, Pasteur, Roentgen, the Curries and others as well as by habits. The prediction is made that at least 15 years will be added to the present average life of 50. It does not seem impossible of attainment.

REPUBLICANS TURN ON HARDING

The broadsides delivered against the Harding administration by two republicans in the house, Keller of Minnesota and Frear of Wisconsin, in connection with tax revision and tariff matters, are reminders of the widely different elements that gave the G. O. P. its victory last fall and that the end of the "sweetness and light" period is at hand.

It is of particular interest that Mr. Harding is now being accused within his own party of one of the things on which he was wont to inveigh against Wilson—despotism. In fact, the Minnesota representative accuses him of having assumed more power than any other occupant of the White House. After saying that "a little dominant minority" has tied down the safety valve of free discussion until an explosion impends which will scatter the republican party from Maine to California, he proceeds:

"The president has assumed more power than any of his predecessors and tells congress what bills to pass and what not to pass. Bills concocted in secret conferences are introduced without being referred to responsible committees."

The Wisconsin critic charges that a dyestuffs monopoly is seeking to influence members of the cabinet, and that never did an "invisible government act with more brazen effrontery."

With the senate expected to tear to pieces the tariff bill passed by the house, and with wide differences of opinion over tax revision in the main continuing between republicans, President Harding, it would seem, must soon change his view that "government is a simple matter." Indications are that it will not be long before the president will feel the need of sympathy. In view, however, of his lack of consideration for his predecessor, he may find himself not in the best position to get it.

A New Yorker wants the twentieth amendment to the constitution to limit the size of fortunes. These republican times already have put the fortunes of a vast majority on the toboggan.

"Speaking of Women—"

IRVIN COBB points out that feminine shopping does not necessarily imply buying. It means hard work for everyone concerned—but seldom results in a transaction involving money.

As a country minister once declaimed: "King Solomon said, and I partially agree with him . . ." We only partially agree with Mr. Cobb on this subject.

It is true there are still some aimless shoppers left. But they are in the minority. Today most women—as well as most men—are well-informed buyers, with a sound basis for comparing stores and values. By buying goods of recognized merit they save themselves the throes of old-time "shopping trips" and at the same time get a better and bigger money's worth.

Most women read the advertisements that appear every day in their newspapers. They make a practice of keeping strictly up-to-snuff on new developments, innovations and improvements. They know just where to go for "this" and who in town keeps "that."

When they shop they generally know just what they want, where to find it, and how much to pay. Their knowledge saves them endless trotting, wearsome questioning and haggling.

The advertisements have taken the "hop" out of shopping.

Isn't that worth while?

COST OF REVENUE COLLECTING

A resident of Brooklyn has been notified by the commissioner of internal revenue that an audit of his income tax return for the calendar year 1918 reveals an underpayment of one cent. As provided by law, the commissioner warns the taxpayer that "to avoid penalty and interest" the one cent must be paid at a specific date.

This reads like a joke. It is, on the contrary, a serious procedure, unavoidable if the law is administered justly. The fact that the amount involved is the smallest amount possible to collect in our currency is of no significance, save as it exhibits the extreme care taken by the bureau of internal revenue to see that no single cent justly due Uncle Sam is withheld, neither builtily or ignorantly. It is an instructive incident, the lesson of which should not be lost on congress, which even now is wrestling with the problem of taxation.

Not infrequently argument is made favorable to some proposed form of taxation that "it would be easy and inexpensive to collect." Other propositions are rejected on the ground that it would cost too much to collect the revenue that might be derived from them. Some 5,600,000 individuals and corporations make income tax reports and the expense of collecting the taxes they pay is more than $27,000,000. The auditing of accounts must account for the greater part of the expenditures. And yet the bureau is years behind in the auditing of returns.

Gathering the federal revenue is apt to cost more rather than less unless congress finds sources of income that will yield without the necessity of a great force of checkers. It is no simple matter to devise a revenue system that will operate with a sort of automatic honesty. But the simpler the system it better. It costs about 50 cents to collect every $100 of revenue. That this is too much may be deduced from the cost of the underpayment of one cent by the Brooklyn man.

NACOGDOCHES MAN IS INJURED IN WRECK

Mr. Jim Chamble was here today from his home near Huntington, having returned from Forney, Texas, last evening, where he visited his son, Marvin, who was injured in an automobile accident Sunday night at 10 o'clock. The young man lives in Nacogdoches and was returning from Dallas over the Dixie Highway in a large car, which, in an effort to turn abruptly at right angle under considerable speed, was turned over. A companion in the machine was unhurt, but Chamblies, who was driving sustained a broken thigh, a broken nose and other painful injuries. The accident happened near Forney and the victim was hastened to the sanitarium at that place, where he will be under the care of that institution for ten of fifteen days. Those who witnessed the occurrence say that it was nothing less than miraculous that greater damage was not done, and those concerned are to be congratulated on escaping as lightly as mentioned.—Lufkin News.

PROBABLY THERE

Nacogdoches received its first bale of new cotton Tuesday of this week, which was to be sold on the streets of that town this morning. It was grown by L. R. Kendrick of Melrose. Nacogdoches is the county seat of the county by that name, and is situated just twenty miles from the city of Lufkin.

Yes, rumor has it that a place called Lufkin is somewhere about 20 miles southwest of Nacogdoches. Some people, whose eyesight is said to be extra good, even claim to have seen it.

PRESIDENTS FATHER WEDS OFFICE NURSE

Monroe, Mich., Aug. 12.—Dr. George T. Harding, 76 years old, father of the president, was married here Thursday to Miss Alice Severns 62, by the Rev. Frank T. Knowles, pastor of the Monroe Presbyterian church. Miss Severns has been a nurse in the office of Dr. Harding at Marion for many years. The couple drove here in an automobile, obtained a marriage license and sent to the home of Rev. Mr. Knowles where the ceremony was performed.

Dr. Harding and his bride left the city. Their destination was not known. They were accompanied here by a younger couple from Marion. Their names were not revealed.

Upon his arrival at the county court house here Dr. Harding obtained a marriage license and asked to be directed to a Baptist parsonage. As there is no resident Baptist minister here he was directed to the home of the Rev. Mr. Knowles. Dr. Harding made an ineffectual attempt to withhold announcement of his marriage. He refused to talk with newspaper men and when asked by the Rev. Mr. Knowles if he was the father of the president, he declined to answer.

NACOGDOCHES TRADITIONS

(By J. E. Mayfield, M. D.)

The following clipping is from the San Antonio Daily Express, of Aug. 5, 1921, and is of interest to Nacogdoches, because General Sam Houston, and his descendants have been associated with local as well as important public affairs here in many ways in the long ago:

"Mrs. William F. L. Bringhurst announces the marriage of her daughter Nettie Houston, to Frank L. Busch of Mercedes, Texas, the marriage having been performed by Rev. Inman Townsley of the Alamo Heights Methodist church at the home of the bride's mother in Cleveland Court, Alamo Heights. Mrs. Busch is the eldest daughter of Mrs. Bringhurst, who was the youngest daughter of General Sam Houston, famous in Texas history. Mr. and Mrs. Busch will be at home with Mrs. Bringhurst for some time as Mr. Busch who is in charge of the radio work at Mercedes is on a month's leave of absence."

Well posted Texans all know the career of General Houston. But the fact that his youngest daughter, Mrs. Bringhurst, referred to in the clipping here given, resided in Nacogdoches a year or two with her husband, Prof. W. L. Bringhurst, and their little daughter, Nettie, some twenty-odd years ago. Prof. Bringhurst who has been dead a few years, was a high school educator and came to Nacogdoches to head the faculty of the old Nacogdoches University. His family home has been in San Antonio a number of years, and ever since his death. He was held in high esteem and his widow was also respected as a lady of high literary merit, though modest and retiring. General Houston never accumulated wealth, and his children seem to have inherited this characteristic. They also inherited much of his intellectual superiority. His youngest son, Col. Andrew J. Houston resides at or near Houston, Texas. San Antonio, Texas, Aug. 7, 1921.

Senator Culberson's health is better now than in many years, it is said.

RAILROAD TO BE OPERATED

For several days plans looking to the reviving and operating of the Carro Northern railroad have been under way. These were completed Tuesday so that the work can go ahead under the new management. A number of citizens went to Henderson Tuesday to confer with the district judge. The resignation of D. W. March, receiver, and the appointment of Mr. W. M. Ross receiver was found acceptable.

Mr. Ross will turn the management of the road over to Mr. Frank Evans who will go right to work and put the road in operation. Mr. Evans is a competent man for the work and will soon have things moving. He is a well known business man and the people feel sure he will make a success of the work he is undertaking.

STOLEN AUTO FOUND

Mr. Arch Spradley of Houston, who is proving a terror to the auto thieves of the state, and a deputy sheriff from Dallas, also an auto thief catcher, were in the city Monday morning, their mission being to locate a car stolen from Mr. Luther Prince of Houston. The stolen car was sold to a man at San Augustine, who sent it to the A. T. Mast garage in this city where it was found by the officers. No arrests have been made, though it is said that the thief is known. The auto is still in Mr. Mast's charge.

LAID TO REST

Mrs. Guy Blount was laid to rest Wednesday afternoon.

Rev. J. L. Massey of the Methodist church, assisted by Rev. C. D. Atwell of the Episcopal church, conducted the ceremonies at the home at 5 o'clock and later at the grave, where fully a thousand of our people assembled to pay a last loving tribute to the dead. It is customary to speak in tender terms of those who have closed their eyes in the final sleep, but in this instance the expressions of regret and grief bore peculiar significance because of the unflinching charity, the generous kindness and gentle Christian walk of the friend who has gone home.

Deceased was Miss Fay Hayter, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Hayter, and was 36 years old. She was married to G. A. Blount on April 25, 1906. To this union two daughters, now aged 12 and 8 years, were born.

Several weeks ago she was taken to Battle Creek, Mich., in the hope that her failing health might be restored, but medical and surgical skill were unavailing, and she passed away Saturday night, surrounded by the immediate members of her family.

Among the relatives who attended the funeral were Mrs. I. D. Polk of Beaumont, Mr. Robert Buford of Austin, Mr. Walker Buford and Miss Chassie Buford of Henderson, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Douglass of Houston, Mr. and Mrs. Graham Stewart of Fort Worth, Dr. E. A. Blount of Dallas, Capt. T. W. Blount, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Blount, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Blount, Mr. W. G. Sharp of San Augustine and Mr. McNeil Chapman of Bastrop. Hundreds of friends from other sections of the country were also here.

FIRST BALE SOLD

The first bale of this year's cotton crop brought to the Nacogdoches market was sold at auction Thursday morning in front of the Stone Fort National Bank, Mr. Robert Lindsey crying it off. The only bid was by Mayer & Schmidt, to whom it was knocked down for 15 cents per pound. The staple classed as strict middling. This bale was grown by W. R. Kendrick on his farm near Melrose and was brought to town on the 9th inst. It weighed 480 pounds.

The following sums were donated by our business men as a premium, and, added to the selling price, makes a right tidy return for the bale:

Mullins & Windham Bros.	$5.00
G. Wustenbecker & Co.	$10.00
B. M. Isaacs	$1.00
Stripling, Haselwood & Co.	$2.50

COLLINS-JOHNSON

Mr. Bonner D. Collins and Miss Lula Mae Johnson were married at 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon by Rev. Arthur Clemons of the Free Methodist church. The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Collins, who reside on South Fredonia Hill, and the bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Johnson of the same neighborhood. The Sentinel joins in congratulations and good-wishes.

County Treasurer J. F. Floyd, who has the flair of investigation, noticed while sitting on his porch Saturday evening the large number of automobiles passing both ways on North street. Offhand, he figured that cars were passing at the rate of about one per minute. Becoming interested, he pulled out his watch and timed them, finding by actual count that 70 cars passed his home in exactly 28 minutes. Estimating conservatively, Mr. Floyd calculated, with the above figures as a basis, that the cars in this country would consume gasoline to the cost of one and one-half times the value of the cotton crop grown this year as forecast by the government. In other words our people are using for this purpose alone the value of half as much again as practically our only cash crop will bring. Thus, according to Mr. Floyd's premise, there will be nothing left with which to supply food, shoes and clothing. Not a very alluring outlook, to say the least.

Marriage licenses have been issued since our last report to Mr. Eddie Bruce and Miss Jewel Welch, who reside east of the city, and Mr. R. E. Rawlinson and Miss Carrie Bone of Sacul.

ANOTHER EXTRA SESSION NOW APPEARS CERTAIN

Austin, Texas, Aug. 15.—Speaker Thomas announced this morning the appointment of the following representatives as the house free conference committee on the truck tax amendment bill: Johnson, Hill, Fly, Beavens and Sims.

The house refused to concur in the senate amendments to the senate bill raising the salary and allowance of the highway commission and passed to the third reading to the house. Under this bill the commissioners will receive $10 per day for a maximum of 150 days. The original bill carried $15 for 100 days.

The senate members of the free conference committee on the educational appropriation bill put their proposition squarely up to the house committee today and then retired. Unless their proposition is accepted it is understood a second called session will be necessary to dispose of the bill. Tomorrow is the last day of the present session.

The senators propose that salaries of University and A. & M. College professors above $2,500 be reduced 20 percent of the excess above that amount, and salaries below that figure not be touched. House members met the proposal by offering to make it $2,250. This offer was flatly rejected by the senators and caused their withdrawal.

GETS PRISON TERM ON PERJURED TESTIMONY

Denver, Col., Aug. 15.—Homer C. Jones, Stratton, Col., motion-picture show owner, is serving a long prison term on perjured testimony of a 14-year old girl, the state pardon board has been told, it was announced. Attorney C. C. Sackman, of Denver, appearing for Jones, said he had an affidavit from the girl on whose testimony Jones was convicted of committing the assault, admitting that she was coerced to testify against Jones, and exonerating the prisoner.

As the result of the statement, Warden Thomas J. Timman, of the state prison, was urged to permit Jones to file an application for a pardon to be considered at the October meeting.

Attorney Sackman said Jones was convicted because the girl was forced to testify against Jones to save other persons in Stratton. Jones is married and has three children.

JOHN PRESSLER-DIES FOLLOWING OPERATION

John Andrew Pressler, mention of whose injury was made in last week's issue, grew rapidly worse the following day and doctors' treatment following day and the doctors finally decided to operate in the vain hope of saving his life, but the injury, consisting of internal abdominal lacerations, was too severe and he died rationally from the operation and passed away about 10:30 Saturday evening.

The funeral services were held at the undertaking chapel on Tuesday, Rev. Anderson officiating, assisted by Mrs. Pemberton at the organ, and were well attended. Interment was made at the Norway cemetery.

He leaves a wife and two children he had provided for by carrying $4,500 insurance in the Western States Life and Ben Hur Lodge besides the compensation Mrs. Pressler will get from the state, $5,000. He was steady and industrious, a good husband and father and will be missed by all who knew him.

The bereaved ones have the deepest sympathy of the entire community in their deep affliction.

The above clipping is from the Myrtle Point (Oregon) News.

Mr. Pressler was born and raised in Nacogdoches and was a son of Mr. and Mrs. John Pressler.

Besides his wife and two small sons and his mother, two sisters and three brothers of Houston survive him.

LIVESTOCK FREIGHT RATES

Washington, Aug. 15.—Freight rates on livestock in the Western and Mountain Pacific territory were found by the Interstate Commerce Commission today to be not unjust and unreasonable, but the commission suggested to the railroads that the present rates be reduced voluntarily to 80 percent of existing rates, the reduction not to be less than 50 cents per 100 pounds. It was suggested that the rates may be published to become effective on not less than five days' notice, the commission said.

ACQUIRING A NATIONAL SHRINE

Jefferson M. Levy has at last agreed to sell Monticello, the estate of Thomas Jefferson, at a reasonable price, and his decision ought to revive interest in the movement to purchase the historic place and to convert it into a national shrine which patriotic Americans may visit without price.

With the present demand for economy in the expenditure of public funds it is doubted if congress could be prevailed upon to appropriate funds with which to buy Monticello. An effort some time ago initiated by Mrs. Martin Littleton failed to enlist the sympathy of congress in the project, and there was no campaign of retrenchment at that time.

An even better plan than for congress to appropriate money to buy the place for the government would be for patriotic individuals and societies to unite in a campaign to raise funds to purchase the estate, and to give it to the government to maintain and keep open perpetually to the public. There are 700 acres in the estate. It would not be necessary to retain all the land, but the home and its local grounds surely should be national property.

As the home of the author of the Declaration of Independence and one of the foremost statesmen who helped to carve the new republic, Monticello has a historic interest little less than that of Mount Vernon. The Jefferson Memorial Association should initiate again its campaign to purchase the estate. A nation-wide effort would almost surely be successful. Half a cent per capita would provide the funds required for the purchase.—Houston Post.

THE SENATORSHIP

Up to this date the following candidates have announced for the United States Senate: C. A. Culberson for re-election, O. B. Colquitt, Lucian W. Parrish, Cullen Thomas, Earl B. Mayfield, Thomas B. Love announced that he would run if Culberson didn't, but as the latter is in the contest we presume Mr. Love will not be. It is a little early to forecast the result, as a number of other candidates may get in later on, but as the matter now stands we venture to predict that Culberson and Colquitt will be in the second primary, and that Culberson will be the final winner. It is all both to talk about Culberson's health being improved, he is down and out physically as all visitors to Washington know, and the chances are he will never be any better, and that he will not live through another term. His mind is clear, however, and he manages to get to his seat and vote when there is anything of importance up, although he will in all probability never make another speech. The anti-prohibition crowd will stick to Colquitt, which will put him in the second primary, while just the name of "Culberson" will get for the senator more votes than any of the other candidates can muster, and in the final race he will get most of the votes which do not go to Colquitt in the first primary. There are a lot of people who will not vote for Colquitt under any consideration and every defeated candidate will throw his votes to Culberson if possible, for one of two reasons—first, he will probably prefer Culberson to Colquitt; and second, he will know that if Culberson is returned there will in all probability be another race in the near future, which will give him another chance. The entrance of other candidates may entirely change the situation, but this is the way it looks at the present writing.—Jacksonville Progress.

AT FOM BILES BROAD-EN FARM LIFE

That the automobile has been a potent factor in relieving the farmer of the isolation which was such a drawback to rural life in former years has long been recognized. But its broadening influence is now showing itself in a new way. Farmers are being persuaded through their possession of motor cars to take long trips and see what is being done in other parts of the country. More and more of them are taking tents with them and camping at night instead of going to hotels.

Such tours have great value. They are education in ways that are not suspected. While the travelers are supposedly concentrating their attention on agricultural things they are at the same time acquiring information, which will be useful to them, concerning many other matters. And with it all they are refreshing themselves physically as well as mentally.

WHAT GREAT BRITAIN OFFERS IRELAND

Looking again at Great Britain's proposals to Ireland, it is clear that the demand for independence is not easily met by them, or the conclusion is irresistible that were they accepted by Ireland the Irish people would enjoy a far greater measure of freedom than most peoples of the world can boast, and certainly a much greater measure than the citizens of any of the States of the American Federation.

The United States is an empire composed of forty-eight republics, a federal district, three territories and one colony.

The British empire is composed of the British Isles, and other dominions, protectorates and possessions.

The American States enjoy certain rights and certain control over their domestic affairs, but not that measure of freedom which Great Britain offers to Ireland.

Ireland is offered everything the average American state has, and more besides.

The Irish government is offered control of its postal service. No American state has that right.

The Irish government is offered control of transportation in Ireland. No American state enjoys such control, and transportation is one utility that vitally touches the very economic life of a state. In this respect, the American state is wholly under the thumb of a bureau in Washington, whose tyranny is familiar enough to tens of thousands of intrastate shippers.

The Irish government is offered complete control of public health. The American seaboard states have no such power.

The Irish government is offered full authority in the matter of the liquor traffic. No American state enjoys that volition, as the large Irish populations of New York, New Jersey, Massachusetts and Pennsylvania can testify.

The Irish government is offered the right to control Irish coinage and currency. No American state can coin money or issue notes to circulate as money.

The Irish government would possess the power to control the foreign trade in all respects save the maintenance of free trade with Great Britain. No American state enjoys such privilege.

If the State of Texas enjoyed control of its interstate and foreign commerce it would be the richest and most populous state in the union within forty years. But she must sell the bulk of her cotton in foreign lands and buy her needs under the oppressive restrictions of a protective tariff formulated at Washington.

In all such matters as mentioned above the American states are under the domination of a central government.

The people of the Philippines—a people of another race and language—are dominated by the United States government some 12,000 miles distant.

The people of the Hawaiian Islands—also of another race and language—are dominated by our central government, some 5,000 miles distant.

The people of Porto Rico—a people of another race and language—are governed absolutely by our central government, some 1,200 miles distant.

The people of none of the states and dependencies enjoy the freedom to work out their own salvation or absolutely to control their domestic affairs that Ireland would enjoy under the dominion government offered by Great Britain.

It is not extravagant to hazard the opinion that if George II had offered to the colonies what George V is offering to Ireland, no one in this country at the time would have dreamed of separation and what became the American republic would probably now be the dominant influence of the British Union.

Indeed, it is evident enough that there is more freedom—freedom of trade, freedom of administration, freedom of economic effort and freedom of the individual—embraced in the proposals to Ireland than any American state can boast at this time.

In all essentials, Ireland is offered the substance of independence. What is withheld does not vitally touch the lives of the Irish people.—Houston Post.

BROWN DECIDEDLY "IN BAD"

Of Course Rich Uncle Johnson May Forgive Him, but He Feels It Is Hardly Likely.

After luncheon in a popular restaurant, Gibson Brown reached up for his overcoat, to find to his amazement that it was not there. Just at that moment he caught a glimpse of a man passing out of the restaurant wearing the coat.

"Stop, thief!" yelled Brown, and tore after the departing stranger. He overtook him at the first corner and gave him in charge of a policeman. Then, wearing the overcoat again himself, he went on his way satisfied.

"My dear," he said to his wife on returning home from the office that evening, "I had an adventure this midday."

"And I, too, Gibson, have something to tell you," interrupted his wife.

"Oh, but let me tell you mine first!" protested Mr. Brown.

"No, dear; I must tell you mine. Rich Uncle Johnson has forgiven us for our marriage and has come to stay with us for a few days. He'll probably remember us in his will now."

"That's all right," answered Mr. Brown, interested, but eager to tell his own story, "but I nearly had my overcoat stolen at lunch to-day," and he described the incident.

"Oh, Gibson," moaned the wife, "what have you done? You did not wear that coat this morning and I lent it to uncle when he went out to have a look around London!"

Brown rescued uncle from the police station, but the old man refused to forgive them the insult.—London Tit-Bits

FOLLOWED "ERIK THE RED"

Colony of Icelanders Settled in Greenland About 984, but Finally Completely Disappeared.

Erik Rufus, vulgarly dubbed "The Red," ran on to Greenland in 981. Erik's Norwegian father had found it convenient to go with his family to Iceland to escape the strong hand of the law, which was reaching out for him on account of a murder he had committed in his native land.

Young Erik had not been in Iceland long before he, too, became involved in a dispute with a fellow townsman, and with the termination of the argument Erik's antagonist was dead. In attempting to escape the pursuit of justice he accidentally discovered the coast of Greenland.

Having spent two or three years exploring the country he had found he somehow obtained the pardon of the folks back in Iceland, and decided to pay them a visit.

He insisted that, in contrast to Iceland, the new country was a land of green meadows and rich pastures abounding in cattle and every species of game. His enthusiasm, or his effrontery, worked like magic, and he went back to Greenland, which he had named himself, with a numerous following. The colony prospered under Erik's successors—it once numbered 2,000, but disappeared completely in the fifteenth century. Whether the settlers all perished or were gradually "assimilated" by the Eskimos, no man knows.

Kansas Hard to Catch. Cars from Kansas and bearing the license plates of the state must be careful in running by a traffic policeman on a low corner of Fifth avenue, New York, says the Sun of that city. He is watching for them.

"You'd be surprised at the different places from which cars come," said the cop. "And the funny thing about it is that I seem to have to call down out of town drivers all the time. I suppose it's because they don't know the traffic rules."

"For the last two years I've kept a record of the out-of-town licenses that I've had to jot down to report. I've got one from every state in the Union, except one, and several from Porto Rico."

"The missing state is Kansas; I'd certainly like to complete the list, and so I'm looking for a Kansas driver. He'd better watch his step."

Bachelors and Children. Commenting on John Galsworthy's book on childhood, "Awakening," a critic remarks that men, and especially bachelors, are the best historians of childhood. It was Charles Lamb who wrote "Dream Children." Lamb, by the way, was scarcely an inveterate bachelor, as he would have married Ann Simmons if she had been willing, and there was also "Alice W." as well as Fanny Kelly, the actress, who refused him. It was the lonely Barrie who wrote "Peter Pan." And few descriptions of children—not dream children or Peter Pan, but of actual child life—can surpass the pictures drawn by E. Nesbitt (Mrs. Hubert Bland) in "The Treasure Seekers" and "The Phoenix and Carpet."—Exchange.

Explaining "Bo-Peep." Bo-Peep has quite a curious history, and it is not about a shepherdess, according to a writer in Pearson's Weekly. In the old days the people of England gave a great deal of money to the begging friars, whom they dared not refuse, but when the power of the monasteries declined they grew bold and jeered at the friars with the Bo-peep rhyme. Bo-peep or Bo-peep was a slang term for the holy men, and the words, "Bo-peep has lost his sheep," referred to the falling off of the spiritual flock, though, of course, in later years Bo-peep was turned into a lady.

BIG LIVESTOCK YEAR INDICATION AT STATE FAIR

Texas Farmers and Stock-Raisers Deeply Interested in Pure-bred Show.

One of the basic industries of Texas is looking forward to a great era of development if the indications furnished by the preparatory work of the State Fair of Texas are taken as evidence. The livestock department is seeing its most promising advance season, with the interest very general all over the State.

Texas has a big forage crop and livestock interests are booming.

The cause of this is found in the splendid forage crop of 1921 in all parts of the State, in the opinion of Col. Frank P. Holland, State Fair director in charge of cattle, and one of the most experienced men in the State in the livestock line. "Texas has turned to forage crops generally," he says. "And the farmers are being more richly rewarded than they ever dreamed they would be. Now the problem is to get the most profitable consumption of these crops, and the development of small, but well-bred, herds of livestock on every farm is the proper answer."

The State Fair season of 1921, October 8 to 23, will be a liberal education for the farmer and prospective stock-raiser. Premiums in livestock and agriculture total more than $50,000, and this will bring the finest bred animals in America into the show competitions. The opportunity to buy improved strains will be unexcelled.

Early entries in the agricultural department of the State Fair are bearing out the fact that good crops are being made over the State. Over a dozen counties have reserved spaces for competitive exhibits. This is an unusually large number for this season of the year.

Criminal's Fatal Slip. A curious error, due to the criminal's ignorance of science, actually kept the evidence of one murder intact for 12 months. The murderer after killing his victim, a woman, placed the body in a dry cellar and covered it with chloride of lime. He thought the lime would destroy the identity of the body, whereas it did exactly the opposite. The body was in such a good state of preservation a year after that the medical experts had no difficulty in establishing through it the vital clue to the crime and the criminal. If the man only had mixed some water with the lime he might have escaped detection.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

In one year more than two hundred and fifty-two million persons arrived in New York City by train.

GOOD RAILROAD SHOWING

A better outlook is afforded by the railroad gains showing the carriers steadily advancing in the last two months. The net earnings increased in June to more than $50,000,000, and rose in July to $54,000,000. As a business barometer, the transportation interests furnish a reliable sign of the general course of the nation's activities.

The improvement noted by the principal roads is convincing evidence that business conditions are gradually building up on a sound foundation following the period of readjustment after the abnormal influences of war times. The increased earnings of railroads bespeak the growing volume of shipments. Markets are opening for more products. In most lines there is a resumption of normal paces. With activity, when mills and mines operate again in full force, the corner will be turned for the entire country.

Those who apprehend a continued slackness are no longer warranted in predicting stagnation. The fall outlook is much more favorable than it seemed to them a few months ago.

NEW DORMITORY FOR EDUCATIONAL ENCAMPMENTS

DORMITORY

So important has become the work of the State Fair educational encampments for the boys and girls' clubs that the State Fair of Texas this year erected a cottage dormitory building especially for their use. This building is a modern one in every particular, and will comfortably house five hundred students at the time. Each

Fair season the State Fair entertains a large group of boys and girls on separate encampments, as its guests. They are royally entertained, and have free access to amusements as well as the educational features of the Fair. These trips to the State Fair are a reward for merit in club work, the contests being staged each season.

"TIRED BUSINESS MAN" MYTH

Here Are a Few Facts That Throw Cold Water on Appellation That Was Always Silly.

A chronically tired business man is an anomaly. There ain't no such animal. Nobody believes in him. A man who is tired the round of the clock from what he is pleased to call overwork—who gets up tired, and goes to bed tired, and does all his living in a tired way, is entitled to call himself by as many names as he pleases; but he mustn't call himself a business man—not unless he wants to be the object of smiles like any other incongruity. It may not be just, but it's so. Moreover, it is perfectly just in a vast majority of cases.

Ninety per cent of the business men who deceive themselves into the notion that they are tired because they overwork are tired because they don't take care of themselves, and they don't take care of themselves because they are too lazy and indolent to do it. In other words, many a so-called business man allows himself to be chronically tired, an outwardly respectable hobo in a white collar. He plays the fat boy. An unsympathetic world has a way of telling the fat boy that he will eat less, take some exercise, shake his liver and act like a normal boy he will yawn less.

Everybody with good sense knows that work, other things being equal, is a remedy for most of our ills, and not the cause of them. It can become otherwise only by a perversion of thought.—The Nation's Business.

INTENDED TO ADVISE RULER

Cabinet of President of the United States a Copy of Old Institution in Europe.

From the earliest times the king of England was assisted in his government by a body of men known as the "privy council"—men whose advice was sought in the gravest and most delicate affairs of state. But with the gradual increase of the democratic character of parliament, the real government of the nation became more and more vested in the king's parliamentary ministers, while the rank of privy councillor came to be bestowed as a purely honorary distinction upon men to whom little was confided. As a result the sovereign resorted for advice to his principal ministers and hence arose the custom of selecting the leading parliamentary members of the party in power. When the United States government was formed this idea of giving the ruler the assistance and advice of a group of picked men was borrowed from the British system, while the word "cabinet" was taken from the French, where it signifies a small cabin or room—kings and other potentates being accustomed to consulting with their ministers in a private room or "cabinet."—Columbus Dispatch.

When the Briton Got Home.

Englishman and American sitting in a room with four visible doors in it. The American got weary of doing nothing, so he said to Bob: "I'll bet you $5 there are five doors in this room."

The Englishman replied: "What's the matter with you? You can see blamed well there are only four."

American—I am game. Put up your money, and let's be doing something, anyway.

The bet was made. The American commenced to count. "One door, two doors, three doors, four doors, cuspidor, five."

Englishman—Ha, ha! Bally good. Wait till I get back to the old country and I'll pull that one sure.

When the Englishman got back to his club and found a room with four doors, he pulled the joke. He commenced to count: "One door, two doors, three doors, four doors, spittoon," and does not know yet where his foot slipped.—Chicago Herald and Examiner.

Books and Reading.

Of course, there is a portion of reading quite indispensable to a wise man. History and exact science he must learn by laborious reading. Colleges, in like manner, have their indispensable office to teach elements. But they can only highly serve us, when they aim not to drill but to create; when they gather from far every ray of various genius to their hospitable halls, and, by the concentrated fires, set the hearts of their youth on flame. Thought and knowledge are natures in which apparatus and pretension avail nothing. Gowns, and pecuniary foundations, though of towns of gold, can never contravert the least sentence or syllable on wit. Forget this, and our American colleges will recede in their public importance, whilst they grow richer every year.—Ralph Waldo Emerson.

Overlooking Nothing.

His Friend—Great Scott! That's a fine pearl you just found. It's worth at least $500.

Mr. Grabitall—Yes, and I broke a tooth on it. As soon as I sell the pearl I'm going to sue this restaurant keeper for damages.

Phosphorus Found in Japan.

On one of the uninhabited islands of the Loochoo archipelago, which stretches in a long chain southward from Japan, large deposits of phosphorus are reported to have been discovered.—Popular Mechanics August.

HAD TO DO MORE THAN PRAY

Lone Beaver Found He Had Taken the Words of the Preacher Altogether Too Literally.

As Lone Beaver sat in the mission house and listened to the words of the preacher, he had an inspiration. Only by hard work had he been able to live. He worked about the Hudson's Bay company's post in summer and spent the winter in the snow-drifted forest on his trap lines.

"Verily I say unto you," said the preacher in his sermon, "go to the Lord in prayer for what you want, and if you have faith it will be given you."

Lone Beaver went to his teepee and fell on his knees. "O Lord," he prayed, "bring me a sack of flour, a side of bacon, one box of tea and one box of sugar."

He waited until late afternoon in vain. It occurred to him that as he had never seen the Lord, he perhaps had asked too much of a stranger.

"O Lord," he prayed again apologetically, "bring me only half of what I asked before."

Still nothing happened. Supper time came and Lone Beaver was hungry.

"O Lord," he cried desperately, "bring me a plate of beans."

That seemed little enough to ask, but not a bean came in answer. This was too much for Lone Beaver, and he voiced his last faith in angry words.

"O Lord," he said, "you are just the same as the Hudson's Bay company. Hunt, trap, fish or no eat."—Chicago Evening Post.

STOVE FIRST MADE IN 1855

But Dr. Neil Arnott, an Englishman, Had the Germ of the Idea in the Year 1821.

Stoves are a comparatively recent invention. True, stoves of some sort were used by the ancients and even by the savage tribes which preceded their civilization, but the first real modern "improvement in the production and agency of heat," as he called it, was made by Dr. Neil Arnott and announced to a marveling England Nov. 4, 1821, the Detroit News states.

How much stoves were in need of modernization in those days is proven by the fact that when the German, Dr. C. William Siemens, in 1850, described his first "smokeless" stoves, not only the scientific world but all properly conducted households greeted him as a great inventor.

The next steps forward were made by T. Priddig Teale in 1855 and from that day dates the stove as we know it now.

But prior to Teale's inventions the world was made acquainted by the American, Hamilton, in 1874, with a system of compressed grass, straw and other materials in such a manner that they could be burnt without producing masses of suffocating smoke. Hamilton's invention was dedicated to localities where wood was scarce. It never had much vogue, but presumably was deeply appreciated by the people whom he had in mind in devising his patent.

Favored by Nature.

Sacramento has the distinction of being the world's greatest distributing center for deciduous fruit, and has the largest almond plant and the greatest fruit and vegetable cannery on the Pacific slope. The pear orchards of the Sacramento delta produce the greatest crops in the world, the fruit being first to reach the markets each year. The delta district, which often is compared with the famed valley of the Nile, also yields thousands of tons of asparagus each year, as well as great quantities of other vegetables, while it is known throughout the nation for the variety and quality of its vegetable seeds. Lands bordering the streams of the valley produce most of the nation's hops. The eastern edge is prolific in the production of grapes and strawberries, while the recently developed rice acreage has placed California second only to Louisiana as a producer of this cereal.

Safety in Mid-Air.

A foreign investigator has made a special study of the possibilities of lightning stroke in mid-air and as a result of observation of nearly one hundred flights, in which the airships experienced some adventures with storms, he has come to the following conclusions: There is no danger to be looked for if the machine is not in the direct line of discharge, and if it does so happen there is little danger of fire resulting from the nature of and distribution of the conducting metal portion. In 30 cases where the machines were struck directly, the writer maintains that there were no evil effects and in all cases where machines fell during a storm there was no evidence of scorching of parts or melting of metal.

Gem Was Natural Thermometer.

It was a wonderful sapphire, so it is said, that led the celebrated Doctor Sorby to the discovery of the nature of the liquid sometimes found enclosed in the cavities of crystals. The gem in question contained a tube-shaped cavity a quarter of an inch long and an eighteenth of an inch in diameter, which was so regular in its bore that it served, by means of the liquid partially filling it, for a thermometer. The contained liquid half-filled the bore at 50 degrees Fahrenheit, and completely filled it at 80 degrees. A study of the rate of expansion of the liquid led to the conclusion that it must be carbonic acid.

WHEN FIRE SWEEPS PRAIRIE

Man and Beast Suffer Alike Under Blistering Heat, and the Prayer for Rain Goes Up.

Hot sunlight, winds as hot, as shimmering heat which distorted objects at a distance and made the skyline a dazzling, wavering ribbon of faded blue; and then the dull haze of smoke which hung over the land, and, without tempering the heat, turned the sun into a huge coppery balloon which drifted imperceptibly from the east to the west, and at evening time settled softly down upon a parched hilltop and disappeared, leaving behind it an ominous red glow as of hidden fires. B. M. Bower writes in "Lonesome Land."

When the wind blew, the touch of it seared the face, as the smoke tang assailed the nostrils. All the world was a weird, unnatural tint, hard to name, never to be forgotten. The far horizon drew steadily closer as the days passed slowly and thickened the veil of smoke. The distant mountain drew daily back into dimmer distance; became an obscure, formless blot against the sky and vanished completely. The horizon crouched then upon the bluffs across the river, moved up to the line of trees along its banks, blotted them out one day and impudently established itself halfway up the coulee.

Time ceased to be measured accurately; events moved slowly in an unreal world of sultry heat and smoke and a red sun wading heavily through the copper-brown sky from the east to the west, and a moon as red which followed meekly after.

Men rode uneasily here and there, and when they met they talked of prairie fires and fire guards and the direction of the wind, and of the faint prospect of rain. Cattle, driven from their accustomed feeding grounds, wandered aimlessly over the still-unburned range and loved often in the night as they drifted before the flame-heated wind.

ALL MEN OF TEMPERAMENT

Great Research Specialists, as a Class, Far More Erratic Than Average Litterateurs.

Literary men are supposed to be like women, varium et mutabile semper, and this has turned university dons against them. I once had an argument with a very dignified but not especially literary college official, writes Frederick E. Pierce in the Literary Review. "Ah," said he, "you literary men are so temperamental." Then he went on to sing the praises of certain great fact research stars on his faculty. I kept my tongue idle and my brain busy. Alas and alas! As if great fact research specialists were never temperamental. As if they never whitened the hair of their deans or blackened the bile of their colleagues. When Walter Scott entertained at his home the half-insane antiquary, Joseph Ritson, was it the urbane poet or the ill-balanced editor of accurate texts who was more temperamental? In the famous quarrel between Furnivall and Swinburne the noted Shakespeare scholar proved himself slightly more erratic than even the most temperamental poet of the Nineteenth century. Everybody knows that Byron got half drunk to write "Don Juan." How many realize that the great university professor Porson got one hundred and five one-hundredths drunk before lecturing to that same Byron at Cambridge? Porson, with his inexhaustible memory and unquenchable thirst, pouring out hexameters and iambic pentameters to his astonished classes—was there ever a more temperamental being?

Human Development.

Humanity, in its acquisition of knowledge, its hopes, its aspirations, its ideals, is in a state of steady development. In art, it is the personal expression of the artist, his individuality—shown not only in mere tricks of style, but in his state of mind, his attitude toward the world about him—which counts most in the end. And that is why art in any form is not a matter only of mere copying of facts. The line to be drawn is not always easy to define, perhaps. But one may best regard some extreme examples. The demand for subject and realism found strong expression in the vogue enjoyed by the chronos years ago. About the same class of people who made the popularity of these color points at that time today buy the original landscape etching "at $2.37, framed."—"How to Appreciate Prints," by Frank Wollenkamp.

Simple Wet Battery.

Perhaps the most simple wet cell which can be made, says Experimental Science (Washington), is from a copper wire previously heated in a blue gas flame, and a silver wire, both held in running tap water. The copper wire in the gas flame becomes coated with a film of copper oxide.

A varied effect can be produced by separating the copper and silver wires by blotting paper and wrapping them with the same material, and then pouring one of the common electrolytes upon the whole.

Sal ammoniac or sulphuric acid can be used.

Fitting.

MINISTER DISCUSSES HIS WIFE'S TROUBLES

Rev. A. H. Sykes, former pastor of the Watkins Park Presbyterian church, Nashville, Tenn., says:

"After seeing what Tanlac had accomplished in my wife's case, I am convinced that it is a medicine of great power and extraordinary merit. I do not think I have ever seen anything give such prompt results. Mrs. Sykes had been in delicate health for ten months, suffering from stomach trouble and nervous breakdown.

"I frequently sought medical advice, but Tanlac is the only thing that gave her any relief. After taking Tanlac only a short time, she was able to sit up and help with the household duties. It took it only a short time until her health will be fully restored."

Tanlac is sold in Nacogdoches by Stripling, Hazelwood & Co., and in Garrison by the Dale Drug Co.

KING PETER IS DEAD

Belgrade, Aug. 17.—King Peter of Serbia died yesterday.

King Peter, who had been long ill, was reported seriously ill in June, but later was reported as out of danger. Nothing more was heard from the aged monarch until a few days ago. Then a dispatch said he was seriously ill of congestion of the lungs. He sank into unconsciousness Friday, remaining in that condition until Saturday. His condition became worse Sunday night, and he gradually failed until the end.

We notice in today's issue of The Sentinel quotations from John H. Parker & Co., of New Orleans, La., to the Chamber of Commerce on strict middling cotton 7/8 inch staple as 12.63 dated August 12th. The freight rate from here to New Orleans is $1.05 per hundred pounds. On that same date we were paying in Nacogdoches 11.75 for this same grade of cotton.

This is twelve points better price for the same cotton, and when the commission is deducted from the 12.63 price there you will find twenty points reduction, making a net price of 11.43 to the shipper, as against the 11.75 price to the man who sells his cotton in Nacogdoches. Then, too, this 11.43 price will have another reduction in losses in weight, which all know means not less than five to ten pounds per bale on all cotton shipped to commission men.

IS YOUR HEALTH GRADUALLY SLIPPING?

Interesting Experience of a Texas Lady Who Declares That if More Women Knew About Cardui They Would Be Spared Much Sickness and Worry.

Navasota, Texas.—Mrs. W. M. Peden, of this place, relates the following interesting account of how she recovered her strength, having realized that she was actually losing her health:

"Health is the greatest thing in the world, and when you feel that gradually slipping away from you, you certainly sit up and take notice. That is what I did some time ago when I found myself in a very nervous, run-down condition of health. I was so tired and felt so lifeless I could hardly go at all.

"I was just no account for work. I would get a bucket of water and would feel so weak I would have to set it down before I felt like I could lift it to the shelf. In this condition, of course, to do even my housework was a task almost impossible to accomplish.

"I was . . . nervous and easily upset.

I couldn't rest well at night and was . . . just lifeless.

"I heard of Cardui and after reading I decided I had some female trouble that was pulling me down. I sent for Cardui and began it . . .

"In a very short while after I began the Cardui Home Treatment I saw an improvement and it wasn't long until I was all right—good appetite, splendid rest, and much stronger so that I easily did my house work.

"Later I took a bottle of Cardui as a tonic. I can recommend Cardui and gladly do so, for if more women knew, it would save a great deal of worry and sickness."

The enthusiastic praise of thousands of other women who have found Cardui helpful should convince you that it is worth trying. All druggists sell it.

WEST RESIGNS FROM CONFERENCE COMMITTEE

Austin, Texas, Aug. 11.—Representative West, in a letter to Speaker Thomas, resigned as a member of the house free conference committee on the eleemosynary institutions appropriations bill. He said "he could not follow the instructions of the house to adhere to the Pope amendment to the bill."

The senate committee on internal improvements today deferred action until Monday on the house concurrent resolution proposing an investigation of certain oil corporations in the Midcontinent fields.

Refuses to Confer

Austin, Texas, Aug. 11.—The senate free conference committee on the eleemosynary appropriations bill refused to confer with the house committee this morning, informing the lower branch committee to advise "the house that the senate committee cannot confer with the house committee, which has instructions not to confer."

DIFFERENCES ADJUSTED

Paris, Aug. 12.—France and Great Britain have decided to refer the Upper Silesian question to the League of Nations, it was announced here. This question, which involves the drawing of a frontier line between Poland and Germany, threatened yesterday to cause a break in the meeting of the Allied Supreme Council. The suggestion for this move was made by Lloyd George and Briand concurred immediately. This decision was considered here today to have solved the crisis between France and England. The announcement that "certain insurmountable difficulties between Italy, Japan and England on the one hand and France on the other" had given rise to the solution decided upon.

Harvey Took No Part

Paris, Aug. 12.—George Harvey, representative of the United States at the council meeting, did not take any position relative to referring the question to the League of Nations, according to a French official. It is asserted his opinion was not asked. It is learned that Briand proposed to Lloyd George that the United States be asked to arbitrate the Silesian controversy, but this proposal was abandoned in favor of the British premier's suggestion. Harvey told the council this morning that the United States government had thought from the beginning that the Upper Silesian question was purely an European one, and as it is now referred to the League of Nations, on which the United States is not represented, he thought he would be interpreting the view of his government by not participating in the decision.

NEW COMMITTEE NAMED

Austin, Texas, Aug. 12.—A new free conference committee on the eleemosynary appropriation bill was appointed today by the speaker. The motion to discharge the old committee and appoint a new one automatically discarded the instructions of the house Speaker Thomas said. Thus this committee goes to conference uninstructed. The instructions given the first committee were to adhere to the Pope amendment.

The senate passed finally the senate optometry bill, which now goes to the house.

The house convened at 8 o'clock this morning, the earliest of the session. The members are anxious to complete the appropriation bills before adjournment Tuesday.

A Sunday session is talked of.

There were bullet holes in his heart and head. The body was exhumed last night by a party consisting of Chief of Police O'Brien of San Francisco, a constable of Colima, newspaper men and William Hightower, who discovered the grave. The party left San Francisco late last night on a tip furnished by Hightower. The body was exhumed by the light of a lantern.

Topeka, Kan., Aug. 12.—During the heavy rain storm Wednesday night, O. F. Engel, a Topeka merchant, discovered a large touring car had disappeared from in front of his home. CONFERENCE COMMITTEE'S REPORT ADOPTED

Austin, Texas, Aug. 13.—The house by a vote of 77 to 44 adopted the report of the conference committee on the eleemosynary institutions appropriation bill this morning. Little opposition to the report was shown.

The report of the free conference on the educational appropriation bill will not be completed until Sunday afternoon and will be presented to the legislature Monday morning, it was announced by Chairman Satterwhite of the appropriation committee and a member of the free conference committee, today.

The senate committee of criminal jurisprudence reported the Morris bill amending the Dean law favorably this morning. However, the Hall senate bill was substituted for the Morris bill by the committee. The Hall bill proposes the outright repeal of the Dean law and enacting a law duplicating the Volstead act of the federal government.

Means Death of Bill

Austin, Texas, Aug. 13.—The proposing to amend the Dean law was recommitted in the senate. According to members, this means the death of the bill.

ASLEEP ON TRACK KILLED BY TRAIN

Dallas, Texas, Aug. 12.—Maddock Day, 15, was run over and instantly killed by a train early here today while asleep on the railroad right-of-way near a crossing on the outskirts of the city. The body was discovered several hours later by the youth's brother and a companion. The three boys had gone to the crossing to meet a milk wagon and help distribute milk, but lay down and went to sleep when they found they had missed the wagon. Maddock complained of thorns when he first lay down and evidently moved over on to the track, his brother said. Maddock was a son of Mrs. W. W. Day of Corsicana and resided with an aunt here.

Few Really Have Stomach Trouble

(Thursday Health Talk, No. 17.)
(By R. W. Zilar, D. C.)

Few really have stomach trouble due to stomach weakness. The stomach is part of the digestive tract which includes the secretory glands and linings of the alimentary canal, as well as the liver, pancreas, and other intestinal organs. The stomach will appear the seat of trouble when any of these related organs are weakened.

When the trouble is directly due to weakness of the stomach itself, there is pressure on spinal nerves at what is known as "stomach place". The bones of the spine at this place have become misplaced, and the opening between has become narrowed, thus causing the pressure and interference with the normal flow of nerve impulses. When by Chiropractic spinal adjustments this pressure is removed, the normal vigor of the stomach returns and the disease disappears.

HAD GASTRIC ULCERS BUT IS WELL NOW

"A reputable local physician pronounced my trouble gastric ulcers. After three months, being unable to get relief, I tried Chiropractic. All symptoms soon disappeared and an X-Ray taken after adjustments showed the stomach cleared of ulcers."
—William Matthews, Chiropractic Research Bureau Statement No. 1269-C.

Don't Hide Your Face
Nothing is more annoying and to some people more disgusting than facial eruptions.
These disgusting blemishes are often caused by local disorders of the skin, which require medical treatment.
Occasional applications of ointments and lotions do not correct these troubles.

It is especially good for the correction of skin disorders. The rich, delightful lather of Hunt's Medicated Soap carries with it the healing medicine most needed by the skin, allowing the medicine to reach into all the tiny pores, searching out and destroying disease germs which cause pimples, blackheads and other facial blemishes.

NOTICE TO THE GROWERS OF ACALA COTTON

The following letter from John H. Parker & Company, cotton factors, New Orleans, should be of interest to you:

August 12th, 1921,
New Orleans, La.

To yours of 10th inst.
Mr. H. L. McKnight,
Nacogdoches Chamber of Commerce,
Nacogdoches, Texas.

Dear Sir:

We have your letter and carefully note all you say. We would be pleased to handle the consignments of the Acala cotton, and suggest that you send us small samples by mail of your first ginnings, putting designating number or letter on each sample and we would report to you grade, staple and value on the market, which information would let you decide whether it would be to your advantage to consign here for sale.

We quote strict middling 3/8 inch staple at 12.63 and the same grade in 1 1/4 to 1 3-16 inch staple at 14 to 15 cents.

If you handle cotton in round lots, say of 50 bales or more, fairly even running in grade and staple, we could probably sell on samples to arrive, which saves to a large extent the expenses that obtain on consigned shipments.

We await your further advices and are,

Yours truly,
John M. Parkes Co.
Jas A. Avey, Pres.

Please note the suggestion that if we can sell in "round lots of 50 bales or more fairly even running in grade and staple", it will save to a large extent expenses on consigned shipments.

With a view of arranging to sell in bulk all Acala cotton grown in this county this season, we hereby call a meeting of all growers of this variety of cotton to meet in my office (city hall) Nacogdoches, Tuesday, August 23rd, at 2 p. m. for the purpose of arranging details for pooling this cotton.

Please attend this meeting and help in this cause.

Yours truly,
H. L. McKnight.

POOR TYPE OF LEGISLATORS

Some Reasons Assigned for the Assertion That Lawyers Do Not Make Good Lawmakers.

Lawyers, as a class, should of course be represented in any legislature, but their enormous over-representation in congress involves disastrous consequences, according to "Great American Issues," by John Hays Hammond and Jeremiah Jenks. Observation of lawmaking bodies in many countries leads to the conclusion that lawyers make a most unsatisfactory type of legislators. It is not that they lack intelligence but that the whole course of their professional training and practice tends to unfit them to play an important part in constructive enterprises of any kind. Throughout his career a lawyer is occupied, not with the realities of things but with the appearance they may be made to bear in legal argument; not with the consequences which flow from an action, but with the legitimacy of its origin. He is always concerned with the past as a source of precedent rather than with the future as a field for achievement. Pending legislation is often to the lawyer something which will later be discussed and interpreted by lawyers, instead of an instrument designed to effect a definite practical aim. It is largely due to the lawyer's attitude toward legislation and to the influence it has exerted upon the form and texture of enactments that so many laws passed for the purpose of removing abuses in our economic and industrial system have, until recently resulted in many lawsuits and little reform.

"QUAKERS" MERELY IN NAME

Sect in Russia, of Doubtful Origin, Has Little in Common With the Parent Body.

In consequence of the recent revived interest in Quakerism on the continent of Europe—250 years ago there were numerous Friendly settlements throughout Holland, Germany and the "pale" of Russia—the International service has been granted power by the London yearly meeting to accept applicants for membership after receiving reports from their relief workers. The latest to be thus received, says the Manchester Guardian, is Countess Olga Tolstoy, daughter-in-law of Leo Tolstoy. She has long been interested in the Friends, and the recent renewal of the Quaker activities in Russia has made it possible for her to get into direct communication with English Friends. Among some of the smaller Russian sects there is one whose members are known as "Quakers." They are apparently the descendants of some itinerant preacher of the seventeenth century, but they seem to have no direct knowledge of their origin, and lack of touch with the parent body has led to variations in doctrine and practice which today have left little but the name as a link.

Mule Attends Church.

For the last six months, says a Los Angeles correspondent, Billy Sunday, a mule, has attended church regularly on Sundays and Wednesdays. On Sunday mornings and Wednesday evenings he departs straight for Elder Henry's church in South Canal street. He goes to the rear of the church and gets as close to the pulpit as possible in order that he may hear the discourse, and he stands there with bowed head and resists all efforts to lead him away until services are over. He always returns after the services of his own accord and never gives any trouble unless an attempt is made to restrain him when services at Elder Henry's church are going on. So far the church going of the mule has not interfered with his business duties at the plant but the officers of the box factory are certain that when a revival starts at the Union church and services are held daily, that "Billy Sunday" will insist on attending them all.

Princess Buys Watches.

The Begum (princess) of Bhopal, India, who bought 4,000 silver watches to take back to her people in the central Indian state when she visited Switzerland in 1911, has just sent for another lot of 2,500 timepieces. She wants her subjects to be punctual and not rely on the sun for the time of day.

She probably is the only woman ruler of a state in India and is also called sultan. The throne of Bhopal has descended in a distaff line for more than 75 years, and many of the begums have displayed modern tendencies in looking after the welfare of their subjects, who number 695,000. The Sultan Jaham Begum succeeded to the throne in 1901. Bhopal is the principal province of central India and its capital, the city of Bhopal, has about 75,000 inhabitants.—Japan Advertiser.

New Source of Silk.

Discovery has been made of a process by which the muscular tissue of horses and cattle can be converted into silk—a use being thus found for condemned cows and horses killed because of accident or old age.

The flesh is softened by saturating it in a liquid, which separates the muscle fibers by dissolving the substance that holds them together. Then it is soaked in another liquid, which strengthens the fibers and gives them a silky character.

Silk thus obtained can be rubberized and made water proof by soaking it for some hours in a bath of rubber.

A MERRY GATHERING

An entertainment enjoyed by a number of merry children was a birthday party given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Covington Wednesday evening for their two small sons, J. C. and Sterling Cyrus.

The colors chosen for the occasion were red and yellow and the color scheme was carried out in floral decorations consisting of beautiful red and yellow cannas which added a touch of bright glowing beauty to the rooms.

Above the table were suspended alternate streamers of red and yellow which extended to dainty candy filled baskets of the same colors and marked the place of each small guest.

The table was adorned with two large birthday cakes the one bearing the initials of J. C. C., the other S. C. C. done in pink icing while the ten red and yellow wax tapers of the one and six of the other told the ages of the two small honorees.

When the cakes were cut the ring was drawn by little Miss Juanita Hall the thimble went to Marguerite Parish while Jack Chadwick and J. C. Covington were the lucky owners of the coins which as everyone knows pertains future wealth.

Delicious ice cream was served with the cake.

After romping and playing to their heart's content, the little ones departed with many expressions of having spent a pleasant evening.

Germs are plentiful in the summer air, we breathe them every minute. In health they do no harm, but to those who have a bad liver, disordered stomach or constipated bowels they mean a spell of sickness. The best way to insure your health is to take Prickly Ash Bitters. It purifies and strengthens the system. Price $1.25 per bottle. Stripling, Haselwood & Co., Special Agents.

The Nacogdoches County Board of Education was in regular monthly session Monday in the office of the county superintendent of schools. Several of the trustees of the remoter districts failed to attend, though there was a fairly full meeting.

Mrs. Cornelia Reid of El Dorado, Ark., and Miss Georgia Walker of Congers, Ga., cousins of Mayor Middlebrook, are visiting his family. This is their first visit to our city. We wish them a pleasant stay among us.

The county commissioners were to have met at the courthouse Monday to discuss county financial matters, but up to 2 o'clock the meeting had not been called to order by reason of the absence of some of the members of the court.

The more we think about that Kiwanis Club, the more we are convinced one should be organized in Nacogdoches.

FIRE NEAR LUFKIN

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Dock Bowles was completely destroyed by fire this morning about 4 o'clock, together with all contents. It is said that the family was awakened by the flames with not more than sufficient time to leave the building before the roof began to tumble down. The home was situated on the Marion Ferry road, a short distance beyond Brookshire's Lake. Partial insurance was carried.—Lufkin News, 15th.

Prolonged distress signals from a north-bound H. E. & W. T. freight engine at an early hour Tuesday morning stirred up considerable excitement and some anxiety, and caused some of the boys to hasten to the fire station to be in readiness when an expected alarm came in. It transpired, however, that the shrieks from the whistle were for the purpose of frightening from the track a mulish-mule, which had pre-empted the middle of the railroad and refused to leave it. The animal trotted along ahead of the engine for perhaps a mile, when it ran into a trestle and broke a leg. The train crew extricated it from the bridge, and it is supposed it was shot to end its sufferings. The mule belonged to Jim Pettie, colored.

The city health officer reports that, upon thorough investigation, he finds that every case of typhoid fever which has developed within the water limits of the city was contracted by parties who had been away from the city on visits; that not a case has been found where the patient remained at home. Outside the city's water limits, where well water is used for domestic purposes, a case or two developed, but not one where the city water is used. Nacogdoches still stands on her reputation of having the purest water in the state, drawn from artesian wells and bearing no deleterious substance whatever.

The prolonged steady downpour of rain late Saturday afternoon cooled the air and made people feel better. It also made some of the streets look worse.
