HAS REGULAR FALL SALES OF CERTIFIED PULLETS

Standardization of poultry has been a state-wide movement in Kentucky for about 7 years. In 1914 there were 7,000 purebred hatching eggs sold in two counties only. The quantity of standard hatching eggs and the number of counties using them have steadily increased each year until during 1921 the county agents of the United States Department of Agriculture and the State Agricultural College reported 597,645 certified hatching eggs and 23,000 day-old chicks in 76 counties.

The popular varieties were White Wynadottes, Barred Rocks and White Plymouth Rocks and Rhode Island Reds.

A striking development of the Kentucky purebred poultry movement has been the sales of certified pullets held in November in most counties. It has been a practice with the bankers and business firms all over the state to support the efforts of the county agents by advancing hatchings to responsible farmers or club members, with the understanding that the eggs will be paid for by the return of two certified pullets on a certain date in the fall. As soon as the pullets are assembled in a community or county the banks hold their annual sale, thus increasing the introduction of better stock and realizing on the amount invested in eggs for hatching. Pulaski county is noteworthy for having gone far toward ridding itself of mongrel chickens.

Sheriff Woodlan reports that his hostelry has fewer guests at the present time than for many months past. The inmates in the jail now number only four. This however, is not the record, for at one time in the past the jail had but one inmate for a time.

A Certain Rich Man

John D. Rockefeller once said: "The first essential to building a foundation for business success, is the establishment of credit."

John ought to know. He has established a pretty fair credit, himself. A man's credit need not necessarily be backed by millions. He may be poor and still have credit, for credit is influenced by what a man really is; by what he does; how he uses his money, talents, time; by his family, church, social and banking relations. An account at our bank will help, too.

"BE IT EVER SO HUMBLE"

"There is an issue involved in the housing problem far greater even than the present temporary shortage of housing facilities throughout the country—it is the issue of home ownership," says Secretary Hoover. "Census returns," he continues, "demonstrate that our percentage of tenantry is too high, and if we are to have a happy, contented and stable population, we must increase the number of those who own their homes." The idea expressed cannot be accented too much or voiced too often. A nation of home owners is invulnerable to the assaults of agitators and revolutionists. Every additional home owner is an asset to the community. Owning one's own plot of ground and a house of themselves make one interested in public affairs. Thus there is a dual effect.

It is a trait of human nature for one to take better care of one's own than of another's property. Selfish interest dictates that course. For that reason it is not difficult in walking through a street to make an intelligent guess whether the houses are occupied by owners or renters. It is needless that there be houses for rent. Such property fills a public demand but there are renters who could own houses if they but made the effort. One pays rent year after year and has nothing to show for the expenditure at the end of the term. The same money invested monthly in the purchase of a home will cover two-thirds of the cost, at least. Building costs are high, but rents are higher. Surely it is not more expensive to pay over a period of years about what would be paid in rents and have the house at the end than to keep on renting and have nothing but the occupancy of another's house to show for the outlay.

1921 LYNCHING RECORD

There were 63 persons lynched in the United States in 1921. Of these, 62 were in the South and 1 in the North. This is two more than the number, 61, for the year 1920. Of those lynched 59 were negroes and 4 were whites. Two of those put to death were negro women. Nineteen, or less than one third of those put to death, were charged with rape or attempted rape. Four of the victims were burned to death. Three were put to death and then their bodies burned. The charges against those burned to death were, murder, 2; rape and murder, 2.

The offense charged against the whites were: murder 3, rape 1. Of the women put to death one was charged with assisting a man to escape who had killed an officer of law. The other charged with inciting racial troubles. The offenses charged against the negro men were: murder 11, attempted murder 3; rape 15; attempted rape 3; killing men in altercation 4; no special charge 3; wounding men 4; furnishing ammunition to man resisting arrest 2; leaders in race clash 2; charge not reported 3; assisting man to escape who had killed officer of law 1; making improper remarks to woman 1; threatening to kill another 1; entering young woman's room 1; insulting woman 1; writing note to woman 1; attacking a man and woman 1.

The states in which lynchings occurred and the number in each state are as follows: Alabama 2, Arkansas 6, Florida 5, Georgia 11, Kentucky 1, Louisiana 5, Mississippi 14, Missouri 1, North Carolina 4, South Carolina 5, Tennessee 1, Texas 7, Virginia 1.

There were 72 instances in which officers of the law prevented lynchings. Of these 8 were in Northern states. In 1920 there were 56 such instances, 46 in Southern and 10 in Northern states. In 66 of the cases, the prisoners were removed, or the guards were augmented, or other precautions taken. In 6 instances armed force was used to repel the would-be lynchers. Concerning the cases of lynching, there were 10 instances in which prisoners were taken from the jail and 15 instances in which, before reaching a jail, they were taken from officers of the law.

HOMELY ON SPEEDING

The expression is common in reference to the highway between Lufkin and Nacogdoches that it "is some road." Strangers have been heard to make favorable comment upon the roadbed, saying that it will compare favorably with many of the best in the state. It also offers a temptation to some motorists that it is almost impossible to resist—that of "stepping on it." This dangerous practice will no doubt continue more or less for some time to come, as no amount of logic or reasoning will appeal to the fellow who wants to "burn the breeze," and he intends to burn it regardless of the safety of himself or others along the way. As matters now stand, the careful driver has no assurance that he will escape injury or possible death on this highway, not as a result of his moderate driving, but due to the speed maniac who may either hit him head on or bump him off the highway from behind. It was remarked this morning by one Lufkin citizen that the fellow who goes out on this road at the rate of 45 to 60 miles per hour may rest assured that he will be passed many times by those who are not content with any schedule under 70 miles. This fellow said the other day he was driving at 30 miles on the road mentioned, and some of the high powered cars passed him almost as if he was standing still. His rule is to get as far to one side as he possibly can when he hears a horn behind him and to do the same thing when he observes some one coming toward him in a hurry. There are several gasoline engines in this vicinity that are very dependable and may be depended on most any day or night to hum "Nearer My God to Thee" out on this road that stretches away for a distance of twenty miles almost as smooth as a floor. Happily, this is a land of flowers which may be gathered in profusion for the coffin lid and there are ministers available for conducting the last sad rites for the departed dead.—Lufkin News.

A CHURCH-GOING PEOPLE

An unofficial census of the house of representatives at Washington shows that of the 435 members only 24 are unaffiliated with any church. Of the 96 senators only four are non-church members. In both bodies denominational affiliations are roughly proportional to the numerical rank of the churches in the United States. This was to be expected but some persons may be surprised to find the total of church membership so large in both branches.

If house and senate are as truly representative of the population of the country as they are supposed to be, there should be no ground for surprise at this showing. Most adult possess at least a nominal connection with some church. "What church do you belong to?" was asked of the man in the story, who replied that he was not a member of any. "Then what church do you stay away from?" pressed him interrogator. Practically all men and women in America either belong to a church or "stay away from" a particular one which their parents attended.

Not everyone is aware that our government conducts a church census every 10 years, not at the time of the taking of the regular population census, but "in between." The first was in 1906, under provisions of an act of congress passed four years previously. The second was in 1916. The next will be taken in 1925. In 1906, this special census showed there were 35,068,000 church members in the United States. In 1916 there were 41,926,000, a gain of 19.5 percent. The population during that period increased 17.1 percent.

Even persons who never enter a church owe it a debt for its influence on community life—a debt that most are frank enough to acknowledge. Christmas day, the greatest religious festival of all the year, witnessed crowded churches. What an inspiration it would be were that attendance approximated on all the Sundays of the coming year!

IGNORING VETERANS

Postmaster General Hays is a busy little fellow out to make friends for himself and the republican party he has signally served as national chairman. Loquacious and versatile he endeavors to make all elements of the population feel under obligation to him.

But with the service men he has struck a snag. They have found that service men have been discriminated against in the appointment of postmasters. Numerous instances are cited where former service men who stood at the head of the eligible list have been ignored by the appointive power and tried and trusted republican politicians named in their place.

Democratic senators, acting in behalf of these service men, get from postoffice departments the melancholy information that Mr. Hays holds that the law does not give preference to men who served in the world war beyond crediting them with five additional points to the grade they make.

Here is but another illustration of the determination of the republican organization at Washington to make a mockery of civil service as applied to the postal department. Neither the merit of the soldier, the sailor nor the civilian counts against the pull of the politician.

If goloshes were not in style a woman could not be hired to wear them.

A DOLLAR BILL

Have you a dollar bill in your pocket? Might be well to take the bill out and look at it and think about it. Suppose you spend it; are you ever going to get any part of it back again? Are you spending it in such a way that you get benefit not only from the thing you buy but actually from the use of the bill after it has gone out of your hands? That sounds like a foolish question, but it isn't.

There are two ways to spend money. One way is to spend it so that it will never do you any more good. The other way is to spend it so that it will benefit you, perhaps directly, perhaps indirectly, after you have passed it over the counter in exchange for what you have bought.

Wouldn't you like to have a string attached to all the money you spend, so that you could make sure to get some of it back again?

Let's take, for example, a city of 100,000 population. Half of that population spends its money in its own home city. The other half sends its money elsewhere to buy what it needs for its own consumption. Then, half of that city is supporting the other half. Half is paying the taxes; half is supporting the schools; half is supporting all the stores, banks, etc.; half is putting all the money in the pay envelopes.

It is a half-town. Half of its people are but half-citizens. They live in their town and support other towns.

Are you a half-Nacogdochan? Do you live here and spend your money somewhere else? Do you think it is good business?

When you spend your dollar in Nacogdoches part of it goes to enable the people here to buy what you have to sell. Part of it goes to pay for your schools for your children. Part of it goes to pay for fire protection for your home and police protection for your family.

Had you ever given thought of this phase of the art of spending a dollar? It is an art, as well as business and common sense.

Suppose both halves of the 100,000 population of our example-city spent their money at home: Is it not sensible to say that the number of stores would be doubled or that the business of the existing stores would be doubled? Is it not sensible to say that the city's income could be increased, or taxes reduced, or both? Is it not sensible to say that there would be more employment, more school room or better schools or both, more growth more customers at your store?

There is the secret of city-building. More people, of course; and all these people doing their level best to boost their city. You do not have to go out and make a lot of booster speeches to help your city grow, to bring more customers to your stores, to increase value of weekly payrolls in your city. The silent spending at home, day in day out, week in, week out, year by year—the passing of dollar bills from hand to hand in your home city—that is what makes the growth.

Money is like the red blood that makes your body healthy. Let it go out through a wound and you must stop it, flow there or you will die. Let it circulate properly through your body and you are in good health. Money circulation makes for business health.

Of course in no city does half the population spend money away from home. The percentage in any town is not large because most people understand the folly of sending dollars away with no hope of getting any further benefits from them. But so long as there is one man, one family, in a town, that spends money elsewhere, money that ought to be spent at home, so long is there one man, one family, that understands citizenship but halfway.

Are you a half-Nacogdochan? Now put that dollar bill back in your pocket and when you take it out to spend it be sure to tie a string to it.

Perhaps they held up that Irish peace for all these years so as not to cause trouble.

Getting away over the 10-year holidays would be the idea of some men when it comes to work.

Further installments of the Lindenfield Wall Street "bomb" serial from Warsaw may be postponed on account of press of other business in the department of justice.

What puzzles the average onlooker is, if all the delegations at Washington are so strong for peace, why they should fuss so much about their relative capacity to make war.

Colombia has ratified the treaty restoring "cordial friendship" with the United States—for a consideration of $25,000,000. Money talks in Colombia, as elsewhere.

In other words, peace is something at which Ireland is green.

NO REAL PROOF YET

So far the country has not found evidence in anything that has been said to substantiate Senator Watson's charges, to show that there were wholesale hangings of men without courtmartial in the American expeditionary forces. There have been isolated instances of wrong-doing, but there has been no evidence that American officers, as a whole, or even in considerable number, treated the men under their command harshly, or with undue severity.

In an army of several millions of men there will always be some things that should not occur, just as in a city of several millions, or even several thousands, there are many things that are wrong, many men and women who conduct themselves improperly, many persons who treat others harshly, many actual attacks with intent, sometimes successful, to kill. If Senator Watson fails to prove his charges to the satisfaction of the public, he will have proved, indirectly, that the American army was the most remarkable army that ever existed, in its comparative freedom from harshness and brutality.

There are men whom a little brief power causes to be czarlike. They do things that should not be tolerated, and it no doubt is true that some officers of the American army were unworthy of the uniform they wore. The mischief in Senator Watson's charges is that the public is being led to think that the isolated instances are examples of the conduct of many officers, and many enlisted men. Soldiers are but men. But let us not forget that the American army was singularly free from the ill-treatment of men by officers. Hardships there were that had to be endured, yet most officers think of their men and endeavor to give them the greatest possible comfort consistent with the duties of soldiering.

There has been a breaking down of the caste line between the officer and the enlisted men for the reason that so many enlisted men became officers and so many persons from civilian life became soldiers. It will not be at all surprising if the result of Senator Watson's investigation is to prove the very opposite of what he is trying to prove.

Even woman no longer hides behind a skirt.

OBITUARY

Etta C. Murdock, daughter of J. L. and Caroline Murdock, was born in Dale county, Alabama, April 27, 1870, and in 1895 the family removed from Alabama to Texas, and settler 5 miles north of Nacogdoches and thence to Martinsville in 1898, at which place she lived at the time of her death.

During all her life she loved her home and kindred devotedly. Her manners were firm and gentle, her conversation was kind and pleasing, her character was pure and true. She always was ready to give good advice to her loved ones.

At the age of 18 she was converted and joined the Baptist church at Pleasant Hill, near Ozark, Ala., in whose fellowship and delightful communion she lived a consistent member until called to the church of the first born in Heaven.

Although so good and pure in life and conduct, she was called in the wonderful Providence of God to endure many afflictions and sorrows. Out of these, however, she rose higher in spiritual life and hope. She was so abundantly sustained by divine grace in her last days that she suffered without complaining. As she neared her sweet home in the heavens she told us that she wanted us to meet her there. She said her way was clear and she wanted to go and live with Jesus, where there would be no more suffering.

During her four weeks of suffering she tried to sing several songs, but could only say a few words at a time. The following is a part of stanzas she sang.

This world is not my resting place,
Let me go to my home in the mansions of rest,

Savior more than life to me,
How long, Dear Savior, Oh! How long.

Thus, in her earthly home she breathed her last at 7 o'clock p. m., December 1st, 1921, aged 51 years, 7 months and 4 days.

Followed by a large concourse of sorrowing friends and relatives, she was laid to rest at Pilgrim Rest church at 2 p. m., December 2, 1921.

Borne by angels on their wings
Far from earth the spirit flies,
Finds her glad and sits and sings,
Triumphant in Paradise.

Her sister,

TWO OF COUNTY TOWNS SUFFER CONFLAGRATIONS

Wednesday night was a sad time for two of the pretty and prosperous towns of Nacogdoches county located on the E. & W. railroad north of this city.

At Appleby
At 7:15 fire started in the drug store of Weatherly Bros., resulting in a total loss of stock and building. Little was saved, and that in a damaged condition. It was learned the firm carried insurance.

Scogin & Weatherly, general merchandise, were the heaviest losers. They carried a large stock, practically all of which was destroyed. They were partially insured.

E. W. Dennard's barber shop was destroyed, though most of the fixtures were saved. No insurance.

A. L. Mangham's restaurant and small stock of groceries were almost a total loss. He was partially insured.

The two buildings occupied by W. J. Shepherd as a grain and feed store were burned, but considerable of the stock was saved. The buildings were owned by the Nacogdoches Grocery Company, it was learned.

Blackshear, White & Company's feed store was among the lost, but most of the small stock on hand was saved.

J. P. Coon saved practically all his stock of groceries and feed, though the building, which was owned by Mrs. M. N. Ballard, was a total loss, with no insurance, the policy recently having lapsed. The postoffice was in this building, but everything therein was saved.

Weatherly Bros.' drug store, in which the fire originated, was almost a total loss, the small quantity of fixtures and stock being badly damaged.

Just how the fire started was said to be a mystery. Before it was discovered it had gained such headway that the heroic fight made by the citizens was of no avail in checking the flames. All the west side of the public square was swept clean. The wind was light, which enabled the bucket brigade to save the buildings on the north and east sides. It was stated the loss will far exceed the insurance carried, and the calamity falls heavily upon the little town. The buildings destroyed were all frame.

At Garrison
Later in the night the beautiful little town of Garrison suffered heavily from a fire which started in the rear of E. C. Beck's grocery. The building and stock were a total loss, partially covered by insurance.

Next to go was the general merchandise establishment of A. C. Irwin, from which practically nothing was saved, except a small quantity of flour and feed stored in the rear end. Mr. Irwin carried a large stock of varied and valuable merchandise, and the loss was heavy.

Next to the Irwin store was the grocery and feed house of John D. Wilson. The building and about all the grocery stock was lost, but nearly all the feed and flour were taken safely from the house.

Frank Hart's barber shop had its fixtures badly damaged in removal from the building, which was not burned.

D. D. Turner suffered considerable loss in damage to his equipment when salvaged. The building also was saved.

Though the building occupied by P. V. Dale as a drug store was not destroyed, practically everything was smashed to uselessness in the removal.

The three buildings falling victims to the flames were all one-story brick structures. This fact, coupled with the hard, intelligent work of the citizens, is all that saved the town from destruction. As it is, the loss was heavy and will prove a severe blow to the progressive little city, but there appeared to be an optimistic feeling among all the people, and it was said the buildings destroyed would soon be replaced by still more substantial structures. It was learned all the sufferers carried more or less insurance.

The residents of both Appleby and Garrison are "game," and will not be cast down by the misfortune which has been visited upon them.

SHINNY'S VICTIMS
New York, Jan. 2.—Four more victims of bootleg liquor were received at Bellevue Hospital today, which swelled the toll of New Year's revel, which claimed three dead, sent here to hospitals.

Five more victims of poisonous liquor were taken to hospitals in a critical condition before noon. Two were women, one of whom was found unconscious at an apartment entrance. Three deaths by violence were reported on the police blotter New Year's Day.

TEXAS CROP REPORT

Winter Wheat

The acreage of winter wheat planted in Texas on December 1st, 1921 is estimated to have been 1,734,000 acres, or 80 percent of that planted on a corresponding date in 1920.

The low condition prevailing is a record for Texas, being but 42 percent of a normal condition as compared to a condition of 89 percent in 1920 and 85 percent the ten-year average.

This condition figure is a reflection of the adverse weather conditions which have prevailed over most of the wheat area during the late summer and fall months. In many sections no rain fell from late July until late October and as a result preparation was delayed or made impossible in many instances. Early plantings which had enough moisture for germination and a fair early growth have withstood the dry fall fairly well, intermediate plantings in many cases germinated and while much of the later plantings have not had sufficient moisture for germination but this last condition may prove a benefit rather than a misfortune as winter rains will probably carry it through once it is started.

The reduction in acreage is a reverse of the conditions expected for every indication pointed to a greatly increased acreage. This increase would have been real but for the very dry fall weather and this alone was the one important limiting factor. No insect damage has been reported from any section.

At the time that information for this report was gathered there yet remained six weeks of planting weather, which, with favorable conditions prevailing would greatly augment the acreage. On the other hand it must be remembered that this report covers planted acreage and abandonment of acreage, if any, will be shown in the spring report.

Rye
The same conditions which have adversely affected winter wheat have also affected rye. The acreage is estimated to be 9,000 acres or 70 percent of that of 1920. The condition is 40 percent of normal.

Wages of Male Farm Labor
The average rate of wages for 1921, as reported to this office for all sections of the state is as follows: average rate per month when hired for the year, with board, $26.00; without board, $39.00; average wage per day for day labor for harvest work, with board, $1.76; without board $2.16; average wage per day for day labor other than harvest work, with board $1.30; without board, $1.77.

The rates for the same class of labor for 1920 was $42.00; $60.00; $3.25; $3.85; $2.65 and $3.25 respectively and are indicative of the changed economic conditions.

Fall Plowing
The percent of farm lands plowed this fall is shown to be 36 percent.

Straw Yields Per Acre
The average estimated yields of straw for the several grains in tons, is as follows: Wheat 1.12; oats 1.22; rye 1.35; barley 1.16.

Apples
The percent of this year's crop estimated to have been, or to be, shipped out of the country where grown, is shown to be 10 percent of the total.

RENTZELL-MUCKLEROY

One of the surprise weddings of the holidays was the marriage of Mr. F. W. Rentzell and Miss Linnie Muckleroy, which occurred Sunday at noon at the Methodist parsonage, the ceremony being performed by Rev. E. G. Cooke, pastor of the Methodist church.

Mr. Rentzell is assistant superintendent of the T. & N. O. and the H. E. & W. T. railways, with offices at Lufkin and at Houston. He is well and favorably known by the business men and the general public where his duties call him. He is not only a good railroad man, but he is a very pleasant, affable gentleman, and easily makes and holds friends wherever he goes. He is popular with men who serve under him as well as with the officers whom he serves under.

Miss Linnie Muckleroy is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Muckleroy. For the past several years she has been one of the trusted employees of the popular firm of Thomas & Richardson of this city. She is known and loved by all of our people. She leaves us with many hearty good wishes for a happy married life. Our only regret is that these two splendid people cannot make their home at Nacogdoches.

After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Rentzell drove to Appleby where they boarded a train for a honeymoon trip to Shreveport, Dallas, San Antonio and other points, after which they will be at home in Houston.

Most of Europe's money would be all right if the rest of the world had faith in what was behind it.

GOLDEN WEDDING

On Wednesday, the 28th of December, relatives and friends of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Booser, who live four miles south east of Nacogdoches, gathered to celebrate the 50th wedding anniversary of this aged couple. Both are natives of Louisiana, Claiborne parish. Mr. Booser was born in 1852 and his wife in 1849. They were united in marriage December 28th, 1871, at Homer, La.

To this union were born ten children, five boys and five girls, seven of whom are living, as follows; Jack, W. T., B. F., O. O. and M. M. Booser and Mesdames L. S. Roberts and Chas. Barker. All were present on this occasion. They have twenty-two grandchildren, nineteen of whom were present. All the children are farmers and reside in this county, with the exception of one son, who lives in Wood county. Others present were Mr. Hiram Booser and wife, a brother of Mr. Booser, and J. F. Mills, a brother of Mrs. Booser, and others relatives and friends too numerous to mention.

Mr. and Mrs. Booser came to Texas in 1884 and have lived on the present homestead thirty-one years. Mr. Booser has been a consistent member of the Methodist church for 53 years and his aged helpmeet for 62 years. They have been members of the Fairview church for 37 years. They have read the Sentinel so long they could not recall when their subscription began.

Apparently the day was happily spent, but under the surface there was a tinge of semi-sadness caused by a realization of the fact that in the very nature of things this good couple cannot be with us indefinitely. What a benediction the lives and example of these good people cast over all present. What an inspiration they furnish to their grandchildren and young friends, demonstrating that character and principle count for more than dollars and cents; that success in life is not prefaced by the dollar-mark.

As the day closed each guest bade the host and hostess goodbye, wishing them many years of health and happiness and an annual recurrence of this long-to-be-remembered event.

TEN THOUSAND VICTIMS

In this country, which has notably reduced its death average from preventable diseases and industrial accident, the death toll from automobile accidents mounts steadily. The secretary of one of the big life insurance concerns warns the nation that in 1921 not less than 10,000 lives will have gone out, victim to the motor vehicle.

Automobile accidents rank front and center among those which are preventable. They occur because of speed and carelessness or criminal negligence more frequently than from any cause over which man has no control.

In one city, which has suffered especially, the suggestion is made that any person responsible for the death of another through improper operation of a motor car be held guilty of murder and treated accordingly. It may come to that if the situation continues.

The nation as a whole has failed to regard the matter with the gravity which it deserves. There should be prompt and co-ordinated action from one end of the country to the other to put an end to this menace.—Shreveport Journal.

A revolution is under way in Portugal, but it may be a renewal of the last one.

NEW COURSE AT C. I. A.

Denton, Texas, Dec. 31.—Twenty students are now taking courses in lithotype at the College of Industrial Arts. Three lithotype machines have been installed to carry on this work. Students appreciate the fact that lithotyping is a vocation especially adapted for women. The college gives one, two, three and four-year courses, thereby fitting the students to hold any kind of position requiring lithotype work. So great has been the demand for this work that there is now a waiting list of more than thirty students from which vacancies in the class are to be filled whenever such vacancies occur. Mr. L. Rives Woodson, a competent practical lithotypist, has been employed to devote his entire time to these courses.

HJACKERS GOT HIM

Fort Worth, Texas, Dec. 31.—J. L. Faubian of Shreveport, motoring from Wichita Falls to Fort Worth last night, was seized by hijackers two miles north of Fort Worth at 3 o'clock this morning and robbed of his automobile and $117 in cash. He reported to the police today. He had picked up the robbers, he said, at Wichita Falls last night, bought them supper and was bringing them to Fort Worth.

BEHAVE, OR MOVE

Youngstown, Ohio, Dec. 31.—Geo. L. Oles, the eccentric mayor-elect, who takes office tonight at midnight, has issued an open letter to the underworld warning wrongdoers that they will have until January 7th to "love up, drink up, pack up and move, or behave." Tomorrow, Oles stated, he will address the city policemen and "give them hell."

OVERLAPPING DIRECTORATES

Washington, Dec. 31.—Persons holding two or more places as officers or directors in interstate railroad corporations were given legal permission today by the Interstate Commerce Commission to hold their various positions indefinitely.

The longer Germany puts off the installment collector of the war indemnity the more it will boost her contention that she must sell goods abroad to raise money.

WHEN WE GO RIDING

When we go riding on and after January 1, we will keep in our pocket eight cents of every dollar we have been accustomed to pay in railroad fares. Your Uncle Samuel has decided as his New Year's resolution to collect no more war tax.

To the man who travels once or twice a year this will be of small consequence, but to the salesman and the commuter it will mean vast savings. It will encourage firms to put more men on the road in the coming year, and in general it is calculated to stimulate business in a most wholesome manner.

BIG HAUL OF BOOZE

Cleburne, Texas, Dec. 31.—One of the largest whiskey hauls ever made in this section was made today when the sheriff's department seized a carload of liquor consigned to Dallas from Pharr, on the border. The consignment was billed as broomcorn.

LETTER FROM WILSON

New York, Dec. 31.—The prediction that 1922 will show the Democratic party has entirely regained the confidence of the nation was made by Woodrow Wilson in a New Year letter published today.

It adds spice to it that Senator Lodge sponsored the pact that is being explained so much.

BY GILES M. HALTOM

A PAMPERED RACE

With so many people taking advantage out of life for us, and ever trying to make a difficult task an easy one, and the romantic a prosaic one, are we not likely to become a pampered race? Will there be left, anything on which the average man in the performance of his daily tasks may still exercise skill and ingenuity?

Time was when so simple an operation as peeling an orange was an achievement. There was always the chance—a slight one, to be sure, but nevertheless, a chance—that one might peel this juicy fruit without getting its liquid contents all over one's fingers and clothes, and leaving the orange an unsightly and flabby mass of flesh and pulp.

Someone has now taken the joy out of this operation by inventing a juiceless orange peeler. A mere mechanical device has now reduced this adventure in orange peeling to a process as prosaic as that of tightening a nut on a flivver. The most unskilled boarder at the table may now go through with the process of relieving an orange of its outer covering without so much as wanting to lick his fingers during the operation or making the mouths of his onlookers water at the escaping juice.

It will not be long before someone will hit upon a method or device of consuming a half of a grape fruit without squirting juice all over the surrounding landscape. By careful selection and breeding we may yet produce cube-shaped peas guaranteed not to roll off the knife. Some clever inventor may in time give us a mechanical contrivance by means of which we can separate the meat from the bone of a chicken drumstick without our being subjected to the constant fear that said drumstick may land in somebody's lap.

Innumerable avenues are still open to the individual who has a hankering to extract from our daily tasks every element of joy and adventure by means of a mechanical contrivance. He should take care, however, not to carry this mechanizing process too far. He should leave us a few things to worry over. There is such a thing as making life too prosaic.

UNCLE SAM'S LONG ARM

The long arm of the department of justice has at last reached out for those who perpetrated the Wall Street bomb outrage more than a year ago. Never pausing, never discouraged, with grim determination, the secret service men have kept doggedly to the trail, until at last the mystery is solved and prison yawns for the culprits. The devils who play the murderous game of Lenin will hesitate before accepting other commissions for bombing expeditions in the United States. Uncle Sam is a kindly old soul, long-suffering and tolerant, but when he is aroused he never sleeps until justice has been meted out.

What a chapter of detective literature this latest achievement of the secret service would reveal were it written! More lurid than the most sensational fiction the setting, more baffling than Conan Doyle at his best the mystery, more stirring than the most exciting novel the chase and more dramatic than a movie "thriller" the climax. It is to be hoped that circumstances will permit the public to have the details in full.

NOW, THEN, 1922!

Well, folks, now that nineteen-twenty-two is with us, and the rush of Christmas buying and the period of holiday festivities are over, let's go! We have had a week or two of breathing time; everyone has enjoyed a little leisure and relaxation.

Now, let's gather all our strength and, with the utmost of our ability, speed up on the good time coming. Let us all make a mighty resolve to produce more, to save more, to do more business and create more business than ever before.

Let's do this NOW! Next year, and the next, and the next will be prosperous years of growth and booming business. But we can advance this good time and bring it here now, if we will. Smiling and fleet-footed, prosperity but awaits our call.

So for the sake of ourselves and our country and the world, we must put forth a gigantic effort now for progress and prosperity. This nation is too great, too potent, too solid, to remain for another day near the doldrums which hover above and about it.

Well, how are those good resolutions coming on?

THE "HUMANIZERS"

The Harding-Hughes gathering at Washington is getting down to the point where it is endeavoring to "humanize" war by regulations covering hostilities by submarines, poison gas and aerial bombing.

A sufficient illustration of the futility of attempts to humanize war was the decision of Germany to resort to unrestricted U-boat warfare in defiance to world-wide protests and citations that it could not be done under international law. What assurance can there be that in another war some country finding itself in a desperate position, yet in possession of submarines, poison gas, and aerial bombs, will not, under the plea of necessity for self-defense by any and all means, resort to even more atrocious methods of warfare than those already used?

The fiction of regulating warfare is a persistent illusion. It is fundamentally impossible because war ignores all laws and regulations but force. Regulation means tolerance of an evil when what should be sought is its extermination. The snarl over limitation of the submarine is an example. Powers assembled to confer on the preservation of peace are entangled in rival claims for preponderance in means of waging war, even though there are no foes in sight but each other!

The submarine, poison gas and aerial bomb should be banned by common consent. If the agreement to humanize war can be respected or enforced, why not an agreement to ban war altogether?

THE TOOTING ROMEO

A New York magistrate has fined an ardent youth $5 because he sat at the curb in his automobile and tooted the horn unduly to hasten the progress of the young lady for whom he was waiting. If more of these tooting Romeos received like treatment a public nuisance would soon be abated.

Almost every neighborhood has its quota of horn tooting pests. They may be delivery boys waiting for their helpers, or lovers waiting for their sweethearts, women waiting for one another to go shopping or any other somebody waiting for some one else. Night and day are made hideous, babies awakened from their naps, sick people aroused from their slumbers, church services almost interrupted, and quiet folks disturbed unfairly by the continuous honking of the horn which at the same time betrays the impudence and the bad manners of the one who waits.

It is part of the system of indifference to the public rights which some motorists have, consciously or unconsciously, built up around their cars. It should be tolerated no more than speeding or reckless driving.—Shreveport Journal.

LODGE AND RESERVATIONS

If it be true that Senator Lodge is fighting any reservations to the four-power treaty, on the ground that reservations would "ruin it," an international guffaw would go up, despite the fear that ruining the treaty would check the plan of world statesmen to cut down taxation.

For it was this same Senator Lodge who was so bitterly opposed to ratification of the Versailles treaty without reservations such as would have, in Mr. Wilson's opinion, ruined the pact.

Nothing more would be needed to indicate the partisanship, the selfishness of the Lodge school of politicians. Little he is, patriotic he was not in his fight on the League of Nations. He has proved that he changes his political opinions to suit the political winds that blow. He is out to win for himself and his party friends and nothing else matters.

Despite the universal hope of disarmament, it must be admitted that in Lodge and his ilk the United States has a mighty small brand of statesmanship representing it at the conference.

TEXAS RAILROAD DECISION BOOSTS BONDED WAREHOUSES

Recent action of the Texas State Railroad Commission, by which the cotton concentration privilege was extended so as specifically to include federal bonded warehouses, should serve as a stimulus to warehousemen operating in Texas to place their warehouses under the federal warehouse act. Under this rule the railroads are required to apply the expense bills covering the local freight from point of origin to the warehouse to the bill of lading when the cotton is shipped from the warehouse, on all cotton moving between points in Texas and originating within 100 miles of any federally-licensed warehouse in which the cotton is to be stored, when the bills of lading bear the notation "for warehousing."

The operation of this rule is best explained by an example. Cotton originating within 100 miles of Dallas may be shipped to that city for storage. A flat short haul rate is charged from the originating point to Dallas. Later the cotton may be shipped to Galveston for export. When this shipment is made the incoming expense bill is applied to the outgoing shipment, the charge being the through rate from original shipping point to Galveston. Thus a credit is allowed for the short haul charge from original shipping point to Dallas. The rule is, therefore, to the shipper's advantage, since the through rate from original shipping point to Galveston is lower than a combination of rates from original shipping point to Dallas and thence from Dallas to Galveston.

A NEW RECORD

The feat of Aviators Stinson and Bertaud in remaining aloft in an airplane 26 hours and 19 minutes, thus establishing a new world's record, is much more than a sporting event; it is another step in the direction of non-stop air voyages of great length, such as flights across the Pacific. The two flyers could have remained in the air longer; they had fuel and oil enough to permit it. This indicates that their mark will not long be permitted to stand.

Americans have set four new world's records in aviation this year. Lieutenant McCready of the United States Army rose to the height of 37,800 feet on September 28. Bert Acosta went 150 miles at the rate of 176.7 miles an hour on November 3. Four persons were taken to a height of 17,500 feet in an airplane on August 16. But impressive as these performances were, they do not have the importance that attaches to the non-stop feat of Stinson and Bertaud.

It is gratifying to Americans that America, the country in which aviation had its birth, should be foremost not only in the skill and endurance of its pilots but in airplane manufacture also.

The politicians promised more than congress seems able to deliver in the way of prosperity.

John Barleycorn was struck a staggering blow in the year just closed, says an internal revenue report, on the principle, doubtless, that like cures like.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Matthews and two children were arrivals in the city today from their home in Nacogdoches, meeting with the many friends of the former and enjoying the scenes of building and business activities on every side. As manager of and stockholder in the Nacogdoches Grocery Company, Mr. Matthews is closely identified with the business interests of Lufkin, and its growth and prosperity is as pleasing to him as it is to the many boosters claiming this little city as their home and numbering in the aggregate of something like 5,000 souls.—Lufkin News, 3rd.

INFORMATION WANTED ON PAVING PROPOSITION

Editor Sentinel: For some two weeks the Sentinel has been carrying an order for an election to be held on January 20th inst., to determine whether or not the City of Nacogdoches shall issue its coupon bonds in the sum of $150,000 for "Street Improvements," said bonds to bear 5-1-2 percent per annum interest and to mature in not less than ten or more than forty years.

The Redland Herald, some two months since, as is usual with them in discussing matters of public policy, wisely said: "The method of getting it (street improvements) presents many opportunities for MISTAKES, and a DEFINITE UNDERSTANDABLE program should be CAREFULLY worked out before a bond issue is submitted to the people for endorsement." (The capitals are mine.) That much improvement on many of our streets is sadly needed there is no doubt, and inasmuch as the city council have been considering the matter for months and doubtless have agreed upon a plan, I should be glad to have them publish same in detail advising:

1. What particular streets they propose to improve, and between what points on each of said streets.

2. The kind and character of the proposed improvement, and the cost of same per foot front.

3. If it is intended for the city, from the proceeds of the sale of the proposed bonds, to pay one-third of the costs, do they expect to have the property owners on such streets pay the remaining two-thirds of the cost, and if so what plan will be used to enforce same?

4. If property on streets to be improved is assessed with two-thirds of the cost of the work done, what length of time will be given the owners to pay such assessment, and what rate of interest will be charged them?

5. Will such assessment, if levied, operate as a lien or encumbrance against such property, and in the collection of such assessment could any of the parties' property (if not a homestead) be levied upon an sold to satisfy such assessment?

6. If the owners of a homestead shall agree with the City to pay one-third of the cost of the street improvement in front of their homes, and enter into a written (paving) contract to so pay, could the city legally enforce collection of the amount due under such contract by the sale of such homestead?

In addition to the foregoing other matters of equal or perhaps more interest to the general public will present themselves to the minds of the council, and I shall be greatly obliged if they will inform the public fully upon all such matters and particularly of their plans and purposes in connection to the end that all may vote intelligently and that the result of the proposed election may redound to the greatest good to the greatest number.

Yours truly,
D. K. Cason.

A GOOD SHOW

The vaudeville presented by the Colored Comedy Company during the week's engagement which ended Saturday night was far above the ordinary and is entirely worthy of the patronage of the public. The company is composed altogether of colored people, and there are some real artists among them. Their deportment while here was all that could be desired, their courteous and respectful bearing winning them many good wishes. The show was largely attended by whites, and all speak in highest terms of the merits of the entertainments. They are a deserving bunch.

Admirers of Mrs. Karle Wilson Baker's poetry will be delighted to learn that at a recent meeting of the Poetry Club of America at Columbia University one of her poems was chosen as one of the two best of American poets for the year. From 100 to 300 poems are usually turned in and read anonymously to a committee appointed by the club. Out of this number the ten best are chosen. These ten are then discussed, still anonymously, and from these the two best are selected, and Mrs. Baker's was given the distinction of being one of the two best.

Henry Ford advises people to reduce prices, saying that he made big money by it. The same is true of some of the Nacogdoches merchants. We can't enumerate them here, but you will see their ads in our paper. Profiteers and gougers never advertise in The Sentinel.

If you are going to take a commercial course let us give you a few dollars on your scholarship. We have a few scholarships in our office.

SHAKESPEARE IS ALL WRONG

Police Judge Rules World Isn't Stage, After All, and Finds Woman Impersonator of Men.

Police officers and detectives can spot the shifty eye of a pickpocket, the heavy jaw of a stick-up man—perhaps—and the other peculiar physical characteristics of the male clan of crime. But it takes a policewoman to detect suspicious characters by their dress. Police routine and discipline cannot, apparently, wear off the keen instinct of a woman for the style of a toque, the set of a sash, and the hang of outer garments in the back.

Recently Bella de Turk walked down town. She got as far as the post office. In so doing she probably passed several policemen who marked no sign of suspicious character in the passerby. But at the post office stood Mrs. Della Fisher and Miss Emily Green, policewomen. The eyes of the policewomen discerned at once that the figure of the gentleman walking by would have been set off to much greater advantage had he worn feminine dress, says the Columbus Dispatch. So they accosted him and found it was he. And Miss De Turk, fitted out in a man's cap, coat and trousers and other apparel to match, took a ride to the police station with Mrs. Fisher and Miss Green. There she refused to solve the riddle of her masculine attire and was released on bond.

"I am an impersonator of men characters, appearing at the movie theaters," she told the court. It then followed that she had neglected to change back into feminine dress after the show. Judge Berry fined her $25 and costs for the oversight and bade her remember that Shakespeare to the contrary notwithstanding, all the world's not a stage.

DULL AND BRILLIANT YOUTHS

Bright Boy Does Not Always Fill Expectations of Friends, While Stupid Lad Surprises.

An ex-headmaster of 25 years' experience has confessed that he was anything but a model boy at school.

He is not exceptional. Some boys who have no lack of brains have not the "examination mind," and in some the intelligence is too vivacious and original to be interested in routine work. There are boys who are really dull and will never be anything else, but there are also boys who are merely unconventional and boys who are apparently dull only because they are slow.

Human beings are like plants. It is not always the tree which grows and fruits the quickest that gives the best crop in the end, says the London Daily Mail. The brilliant boy does not always fulfill the expectations of his friends, while the boy who was supposed to be dull occasionally surprises everybody in after life because his mind was of the sort which takes a long time to mature.

No hard-and-fast rule can be laid down. But, as Dr. Chalmers Mitchell has pointed out, it is a general rule in nature that the longer the period of youth the greater is the intelligence of the adult.

Missed Something.

Thomas, the five-year-old son of a northern Indiana editor, attended a communion service with his parents last Sunday. The service was long, and the editor and his family were in the last group that went to the altar. Thomas went along. He had been curious.

Following the service there was no comment from Thomas until he found his Aunt Edith, a member of another church waiting in the editor's auto outside, to go to dinner with them.

"Oh, Auntie Edith," he chortled, "you missed something."

"Why, what was it?" was her indignant question.

"We had bread and grape juice," he replied triumphantly.—Indianapolis News.

Historic Warship Doomed.

The old United States warship Granite State, one of the first battleships built by the United States, is about to be dismantled. She left the ways in Maine in 1818, and for years after her completion was used as a training ship at the port of New York, where she is now lying.

In her hold are more than one hundred tons of hand-made copper spikes containing a large percentage of pure gold and silver. The machinery company which purchased her has had numerous requests for souvenirs before the boat is destroyed.

A Bacteria Census.

Not long ago there was made known the result of an examination made by one of the government scientists of the colonies of bacteria residing on the surface of unwashed fruit taken from the market.

This scientist computed the number of bacteria found on half a pound of each of the fruits named, as follows: Raspberries, 400,000; damsons, 470,000; yellow plums, 700,000; pears, 800,000; gooseberries, 1,000,000; garden strawberries, 2,000,000; raspberries, 4,000,000; grapes, 5,000,000; currants, 11,000,000; cherries, 12,000,000.

Animal Sagacity.

Instances of "animal sagacity," which have been claimed to show reasoning power, are explained by an expert to be due to extreme sensitiveness to smell, to accidental acts, or what is called "associations."

CHEAPEST HOLIDAY IN PARIS

Week in French Capital May Be Passed Quite Agreeably on Sum of Twenty-Five Dollars.

Do you know that it is possible to spend a week's holiday in Paris for $25?

It sounds impossible, but it can be done, says a writer in London Tit-Bits. The $25 does not include traveling expenses, for these vary according to starting point, route and so on.

If a modest hotel is chosen the charge is about 20 francs a night. The tourist should adopt the French habit of having rolls and coffee for breakfast and this should cost him about 60 centimes a day. Luncheon should be taken at one of the numerous cheap restaurants, where it can be obtained for 5 or 6 francs.

It should be noted that there is a small charge for cloth, plates, etc. Two francs is ample for tea and the evening meal should be similar to luncheon. The correct time for it is between 6:45 and 8:30. Sundry fares should not amount to more than 15 francs.

Altogether it should cost 185 francs for food, lodging and sundry fares. There are about 230 francs in $5, and so there remain 45 francs for sight-seeing and extras. This should be ample for many of the most interesting places in Paris, such as the Bois de Boulogne, the boulevards, the world-famed picture galleries and Notre Dame, that can be seen for nothing.

MR. JOHNSON FINDS WALLET

Indianapolis Attorney Wakes Up When He Hears Giggles From Woods on Roadside.

Rmsley W. Johnson, attorney, was taking a spin in his car on a country road southeast of Indianapolis the other evening when, approaching a little town, he saw a large, plump, leather purse lying between the wheel tracks. Mr. Johnson thrilled with the ancient pleasure of discovery. He stopped the car and climbed out, wondering silently who had dropped the wallet, and how many green or yellow crinkly ones were in it. He looked around as he alighted, and saw that the roadway was walled on either side with a pigmy forest of ironwoods, ragweeds, horseweeds and juncos, forming a jungle that crowded in as if to close the highway.

Walking back to the spot where the purse had been, the attorney rubbed his eyes. No purse was there; instead, there was a wide welt in the dust as if some object had been dragged diagonally across the right-of-way. The same moment a broadside of gleeful giggles burst from the weed jungle, left and right. Mr. Johnson did not pause. He did not even speak. He smiled slightly as he clambered into his automobile. For Mr. Johnson himself was once a boy.—Indianapolis News.

Changed Father's Text.

"We will take as our text this morning," announced the absent-minded clergyman, consulting his memorandum, "the sixth and seventh verses of the 31st chapter of Proverbs."

Never suspecting that his vivacious son and heir had found the memorandum in his study on the previous night and, knowing that his papa had composed a sermon celebrating the increased severity of dry law enforcement, and diabolically changed the chapter and verse numerals to indicate a very different text, the absent-minded clergyman turned to the place and read aloud these words of Solomon:

"Give strong drink unto him that is ready to perish, and wine unto those that be of heavy hearts."

"Let him drink and forget his past poverty, and remember his misery no more."—New York Sun.

Never Heard of Sunny Side Up.

Irvin S. Cobb, on a recent southern tour stopped for dinner at a tiny railway restaurant in a Mississippi village.

"Well, uncle, what's the bill-of-fare?" he asked the aged colored man who came from the kitchen to look after him.

"De bill o'-fare," said the old man, "am ham, eggs, corn bread and coffee."

"Then I'll have ham, eggs, corn bread and coffee, uncle," said Mr. Cobb.

The old waiter bowed and shuffled out. But a moment later he put his head through the doorway again.

"Boss," he said, "how ye gwine have dem eggs—blind or lookin' at yet?"—Detroit Free Press.

Spies Everywhere.

"How is the patient progressing?" "Doing as well as could be expected."

"Able to receive visitors, yet?" "Come around in about three days."

"Thanks, I certainly will."

Overhearing this conversation you would naturally suppose that somebody was recovering from a serious complaint. As a matter of fact, citizens who engage in home brewing can't be too careful about discussing it on a street corner.—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Benefits of Dark Food.

A party of picknickers, after a long, dusty walk reached the parking place where they spread out their luncheon. As they were setting the table, one young woman exclaimed:

"Ain't I glad I brought a chocolate cake. It doesn't show dirt."—Milwaukee Journal.

TOO STARVED TO BE HUNGRY?

There Comes a Final Stage in the Horror, When Taste for Food is Lacking.

I cannot quite bring myself to tell tales of famine horrors—the monkey-faced, pop-eyed babies tugging hungrily at the cold breasts of dead mothers lying on the frozen ground; the pitiable old women and the stoical men; the incredibly deformed starving wail whom I picked up outside of the city of Chungking; the boy on the wall of Chungking who was carrying home a starved cat for food, and in response to a query, tried so hard to sell it to me as a delicate morsel, and such general concomitants as the incidence of smallpox plague with the famine.

One of the unexpected aspects of work in the famine camps came when I was accompanying Mrs. Paxton of Chungking as she made rounds to distribute medicine to the sick among the hungry. As a matter of fact, relatively few persons ever die in a famine directly from actual hunger, but rather from diseases induced by malnutrition.

Obligingly, Mrs. Paxton freely translated for me as we went along, and we found, in pathetic paradox, that the commonest request of these starving creatures was for medicine to give them an appetite! Even when they succeeded in getting a bowl of food from the relief station, ran the repeated tale, they could not eat it, having no taste for food.

To us this meant, obviously, that the sufferers had reached the final stages, where craving for food had passed away. They were not hungry, because they were starving.—William T. Ellis in the Outlook.

NEW TOY FINDS MUCH FAVOR

Parisian Children Hall With Joy Idea Which Has Been Imported From Central Borneo.

The latest toy which Parisian children are buying, and which threatens to displace the scooter in popular favor, is a modern form of the old "jumping stick."

The new "jumping stick," which is called a "pogo," is more scientific than its predecessor, which was nothing more elaborate than a single stilt with two rests for the feet.

It is made with an India rubber pad and with a strong spring which enables its possessor to take a series of leaps without jar. The pogo was first found in use, in a primitive form, among the Dyak natives of central Borneo, who gave it that name. It was a stick with a cross-piece, on which certain favored young men used to perform a kind of dance at sacrificial ceremonies.

As the chiefs took charge of the pogos after the ceremony, hiding them until the next occasion for their use, it was very difficult to obtain them, but a French traveler who saw the dance in progress, described them on his return to Paris. From his rough sketch the new Paris toy has been made.

"Mounties" in With Dominion Police

Under an act of parliament the Royal Northwest mounted police of Canada was merged with the Dominion police May 1, 1920, with jurisdiction throughout Canada, and known as the Royal Canadian mounted police.

The Dominion police was a small body of men, the uniformed members of which were employed largely in guarding the parliament buildings, the mint and other government structures in Ottawa. To it was attached a number of highly trained experts, skilled in dealing with international criminals and their schemes, and having knowledge of the finger print system. These are now all members of the Royal Canadian mounted police, under the command of Col. A. Bowen Perry.

The force is now recruited to its prewar average of 1,200. Canadian government officials hope soon to be able to increase it far beyond that number, but the dominion's war debt has to date made that impossible.

Facts Concerning Eels.

Whence the eel comes and whether it goes is the text for an erudite piece of which American Consul Dennis at London claims authorship in a cablegram to Secretary Hoover.

Quaint belief that the eels were miraculously born of horsehairs dropped into ponds from horses' tails is entirely dispelled by Mr. Dennis, who comments upon research work by Doctor Smith, Danish scientist.

The eel's life history, an unfathomable mystery twenty years ago, thus for the first time is made a wide open book, and Mr. Dennis warrants these facts:

The eel lives up to eight years in fresh waters. Adult eels, living their life span, go down to tidewater, where they spawn and die. Newly hatched eels live in a cold and gloomy depth of 500 fathoms. They reappear in late winter.

Bear Island's History.

Midway between Norway and Spitzbergen, Bear Island thrusts its head, known as Mount Misery, above the cold waters. The whole island, save for moss and lichens, is almost destitute of vegetation. Long ago it was joined with the Spitzbergen archipelago; the continental shelf upon which the island sits shows a drowned valley deepening to 200 fathoms; this marks the course of an ancient river system that must have drained an area larger than the present basin of the Volga.—Scientific American.

CORNER-STONE CASKET DATA

English Historian Suggests Most Useful Things and Data to be Placed in Casket.

The manager of a huge building that is being erected in England has, says the Manchester Guardian, been considering the idea of a foundation-stone casket to be imbedded in the great mass of ferro-concrete on which the building is to stand. As a reader of Mr. Wells' "Outline of History" he has been struck by Mr. Wells' difficulty, through lack of significant material, in dealing with the world's history 3,000 years ago. As he was told that it might be of use to the Mr. Wells of A. D. 4021 if he found the information about our time neatly prepared for him. Accordingly he wrote to Mr. Wells and asked him to suggest what would be the most useful things or messages to be placed in the casket. Here is Mr. Wells' reply:

"Difficult to make suggestions. Probably commonplace things with their current prices will be of as much value as anything. Safety razor, cotton reel, bottle of pickles and that sort of thing. A mail-order catalogue, pre-war medicines and what they profess to cure. Dietary for ordinary citizens; typewriter, a sewing machine, and so forth. Dressing bag with fittings. Current book on 'How to Behave.' A cinema reel of current events. Whitaker's Almanac and Bradshaw's Continental time-tables (pre-war and post-war). Baedeker's England. Town maps and plans."

COIN OF YAP VERY DURABLE

Chief Medium of Exchange Has Been Its Limestone Wheels—Arduous to Cash Check.

If any payment should be necessary in the readjustment at Yap between the United States and Japan, the currency used would not be that of the picturesque island in the Carolines, although the coin of Yap is not subject to fluctuation in value, is extremely durable, cannot be easily stolen, and is the despair of the counterfeiter. With such an excellent medium of exchange at hand one may wonder why President Harding would immediately decline a string of Yap coins, although the large hole in the center of each might facilitate a stringing together like the Chinese "cash."

Presumably the difficulty will be better understood when it is stated that Yap's chief medium of exchange has been its limestone wheels which run up to 12 feet in diameter. To cash a Yap check would necessitate a motor truck. There are, of course, such other media as pearl shell and bags of dried coconut kernel; but to be a plutocrat of the old type you must be able to point to your collection of great discs.

What Do You Mean, Chicken?

"A blonde chicken is an uncertain and confusing quantity where a brunette one is much more understandable," says an experienced automobile.

"Whenever I see a white chicken in the distance I instantly slow down, as they always flutter around in the road, running from side to side, seemingly unable to determine which way to go, whereas the brunette hen calmly chooses the side of safety and slips off the right of way."

"Something very characteristic in the action of these two types of bird."—Columbus Dispatch.

No Haste About It.

The burglar had just begun his term. Near him was an oldish man, who studied him intently and seemed to be awaiting an opportunity to say something.

"How long are you in for?" he whispered.

"Twelve years," replied the new-comer.

The veteran looked around nervously and thrust a letter into the burglar's hand.

"'Tis in for life," he said. "Post this for me when you get out."—London Tit-Bits.

Back to the Picture Language.

A newspaper for English tourists abroad has a very ingenious scheme for showing exactly what attractions certain hotels have to offer. If there is an elevator in the hotel a picture of a small boy in uniform is shown against the name of that hotel. A garage is indicated by a picture of a motor car, lawn tennis courts by a racket, and so on. The scheme is quite a useful one, for it enables the tourist to see at a glance exactly which hotel would suit him best, and thus saves him wading through a whole lot of advertising matter.

Fruit From Cacti.

The newest achievement of Burbank, the plant wizard, is the production of cacti that bear fruits beautiful to the eye and with flavor resembling those of peaches, muskmelons, pineapples, etc., yet sufficiently unlike to render them appetizing novelties. They are very sweet, containing from 12 to 16 per cent of sugar.

These fruits may be eaten fresh or put up as sweetmeats. They are of various colors, and their juices, particularly of the red ones (which are of brilliant hues), are utilisable for coloring ices, jellies and tannies.

Tightwads.

Some men hang onto a dollar as though it were the last one they're ever going to see.

MALOMEL MAY TURN ON YOU NEXT TIME

Next Dose You Take May Salivate and Start World of Trouble.

Calomel is mercury; quicksilver. It crashes into sour bile like dynamite, cramping and sickening you. Calomel attacks the bones and should never be put into your system.

If you feel bilious, headachy, constipated and all knocked out, just go to your druggist and get a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tonic for a few cents which is a harmless vegetable substitute for dangerous calomel. Take a spoonful and if it doesn't start your liver and straighten you up better and quicker than nasty calomel, you just go back to your druggist and get your money.

Don't take calomel! It makes you sick the next day; it loses you a day's work. Dodson's Liver Tonic straightens you right up and you feel great. No salts necessary. Give it to the children because it is perfectly harmless and can not salivate.

THE WOODMAN BANQUET

One of the liveliest organizations of this section of Texas is Liberty Elm Camp, No. 210, Woodmen of the World.

If there are those who do not know this, or who doubt the statement they should have been present at the installation of officers and annual banquet held at the W. O. W. Hall last night. More than 150 of the 400 members were present to witness the installation ceremonies and to listen at the several addresses and, last but not least, to enjoy the big oyster supper.

The officers of Liberty Elm Camp installed last night are:

Hon. A. A. Seale, Consul Commander.

Jake Summers, Advisory Lieutenant.

Dr. W. R. Sivley, Banker.

J. O. (Uncle Jim) Ray, Clerk.

W. P. Burrows, Escort.

Charles Burrows, Manager.

The two hold-over managers, who, together with Charles Burrows, constitute the Board are:

Tom Summers and B. H. Wells.

Dr. T. J. Blackwell is Camp Physician.

After the installation ceremonies last night, addresses were made by District Manager S. A. Taylor of Palestine, J. E. Gould and M. T. Sheets of Jacksonville, Consul Commander Bonnan of Wells, Consul Commander George Faulkner of Appleby, ex-Consul Commander John D. Matthews of Melrose, Judge J. F. Perritte, Rev. S. D. Dollahite, H. L. McKnight and others.

From District Manager Taylor's address it was learned that the order of woodcraft is making rapid gains in many parts of Texas. He stated that the Amarillo Camp recently initiated 36 candidates at one time. Other camps show a rapid growth at this time.

Liberty Elm Camp No. 210 received quite a number of new members by transfer from the Melrose Camp which has recently surrendered its charter.

The report of Consul Commander Seale showed that the local Woodmen had been active in that timely charity work that comes always with sickness and death among the membership. His address along this line was received with much interest, and his appeal to the members for support for the order during 1922 met with a ready response.

F. R. Penman, chairman of the building committee, reported progress, and gave it as his opinion that the next annual meeting could be held in the new W. O. W. Hall, plans of which are now under way. The local camp owns a valuable lot on Main street, and, when the new hall is completed, will doubtless have one of the best equipped lodge rooms in all East Texas.

W. M. S.

The Woman's Missionary Society of the Methodist church met in regular monthly session Tuesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Will Reid. The home had been artistically decorated with holly and moss, suggestive of the Christmas season.

After a Bible lesson by Mrs. H. T. Mast and prayer by Mrs. Finley, Miss Gladys Hardeman gave a most delightful piano selection, which was very enthusiastically received. Then followed a vocal diet by Mesdames Stegall and Sturdevant, "One More Day," and after this a very charming piano solo by Miss Margaret Sturdevant. Several out of town visitors were present, among them being Mrs. Darrough of Dallas, who is visiting Mrs. George Eason, and who made a splendid talk on the work being done by the W. M. S. of the Tyler street M. E. church of that city, and to which she belongs. Miss Kate Birdwell of Dallas also favored the society with a short talk and Mrs. Aldridge of Gilmer told of the work and methods used in the Methodist church there.

Mrs. Steve King, who is visiting Mrs. Stegall gave an interesting talk on the work being done by the women of the Beaumont church. Miss Zillah Langley spoke of the St. Paul Methodist church of Houston and Mrs. Langston King, also of the St. Paul M. E. church of Houston, but formerly of Nacogdoches and one time president of the Woman's Missionary Society here, gave a most interesting and inspiring talk on the work being done among the soldier boys at Camp Logan by the teachers and members of the Sunday-schools, telling in particular of the work being carried on by the class of St. Paul's to which she belongs.

This talk by Mrs. King was given in such a heartfelt manner as to call forth a splendid response from our beloved president, Mrs. Will Price, after which delicious refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mesdames Hardeman, Ails, Price and Reid.

Was Very Weak

"After the birth of my baby I had a back-ache," writes Mrs. Maitle Crosswhite, of Glade Spring, Va. "I was very ill; thought I was going to die. I was so weak I couldn't raise my head to get a drink of water. I took . . . medicine, yet I didn't get any better. I was constipated and very weak, getting worse and worse. I sent for Cardui."

TAKE

The Woman's Tonic

"I found after one bottle of Cardui I was improving," adds Mrs. Crosswhite. "Six bottles of Cardui and . . . I was cured, yes, I can say they were a God-send to me. I believe I would have died, had it not been for Cardui." Cardui has been found beneficial in many thousands of other cases of womanly troubles. If you feel the need of a good, strengthening tonic, why not try Cardui? It may be just what you need.

The man who did the shooting walked from the scene while witnesses were carrying the woman away.

IMMORALITY NESTS

Chicago, Dec. 30.—Grand jury indictments against three women owners of massage parlors, based on evidence of what State's Attorney Crowe terms "gross and increasing secret immorality," were announced today as the beginning of a determined effort to rid Chicago of this source of such establishments. Crowe announced that investigation revealed visits of doddering old beaux, some "tired business men," and some nonchalant youths to massage parlors which featured "female attendants," and which also are frequented by former feminine habitués of the old Twenty-second street district, by women from presumably respectable homes and even school girls.

TEACHERS TO HOUSTON

Fort Worth, Texas, Dec. 30.—Houston was awarded the 1922 convention of the Texas State Teachers' Association at a meeting of the executive committee here today.

FREIGHT RATE REDUCED ON ROAD MATERIAL

The decrease applies only to the Southern Pacific Lines, the Gulf, Colorado & Santa Fe, the Missouri, Kansas & Texas, the Texas Panhandle & Santa Fe, the Houston & Brazos Valley and the Texas Midland. The decrease applies also only when the county or state pays the freight charges and is not applicable for municipal work.

SEARCH FOR LOST HUNTER

Brownsville, Texas, Dec. 29.—Nearly one hundred persons in automobiles today are searching the gulf coast 25 miles north of here for George McGonicle, a prominent Brownsville exporter, who was lost from a party of deer hunters Tuesday. His companions arrived here last night exhausted after a long search.

PRIZE HUNTING STORY

San Angelo, Texas, Dec. 29.—The season's prize hunting story came out today from Crockett county, where Bascomb Cox, a prominent Ozona ranchman, was reported to have matched the speed of his horse against that of a deer on the open prairie, overtook the animal and roped and tied it. Assisted by his father, Cox branded and released the animal, the report said.

THE FLYING RECORD

Mineola, N. Y., Dec. 29.—A new world's record for continuous flying was established today by Edward Stinson, pilot of an all-metal monoplane, and his mechanic, Lloyd Bernard, when they surpassed the mark of 24 hours 19 minutes and 7 seconds in France in June, 1921, by Lucien Boussetroux and Jean Bernard. Stinson and Bertrand commenced their flight at Roosevelt Field at 8:58 a. m. yesterday. At 9:20 a. m. today they were still in the air with no signs of a descent. They hopped off yesterday in a snowstorm. They wore no electric suits, depending upon heat from the exhaust pipes to keep them warm. The machine is equipped with a 185 horsepower motor.

Landing Made

Mineola, N. Y., Dec. 30.—The Larson monoplane piloted by Edward Stinson, which broke the world's record for continuous flying, descended shortly after 11:15 this morning after having been in the air for 26 hours 19 minutes and 35 seconds. Stinson was stationed at Kelley field during war as a civilian instructor because of delicate health. He probably has trained more American flyers than any one man. He was forced to land today because of faulty oil connections.

STILL SEARCHING

Brownsville, Texas, Dec. 30.—The search was continued throughout this section today for George McGonicle Sr., the Brownsville merchant who disappeared from a party of hunters 20 miles north of here Tuesday.

France has instituted a new decoration—the Order of Physical Education—and Georges Carpentier is the head of it. Perhaps this grows out of the decoration Jack Dempsey bestowed on Georges.

DEATH OF JESSE PADON

Jesse Padon, familiarly known as "Uncle Jesse" passed away at his home here Friday morning. Mr. Padon has been in declining health for several years and especially for the last few months his condition has grown worse. He has been able to sit up but had to be helped to dress and was hardly able to turn himself in bed. He was up Friday morning. About 10 o'clock his wife found him in the bathtub dead. Just how he met his death will never be known. Mrs. Padon and other members of the family kept a close watch on him during the day and aided him to get about. Mrs. Padon was about the household duties and had gone from the house for a moment. It is presumed that Mr. Padon went into the bathroom and either fainted or stumbled into the bath tub. Water was in the tub and in his weakened condition he was unable to free himself from the fall.

Mr. Padon was in his 71st year. He was a native of Arkansas and came to Center about 1877. He was an editor and printer by profession, and aided in printing the Champion early in 1878 and was continuously connected with the operation of the paper, as printer, as owner, and as part owner until 1906, when he sold his connection with the paper to Price & Gibbs, and opened a job office here. He operated the job office until April last year when he leased it out, later selling the outfit to The Champion, Center Champion, 28th.

THE NEW DOLLAR

Washington, Dec. 31.—The new silver dollar of the 1921 design—the "peace dollar"—will be ready for distribution Tuesday, it was said at the treasury today. The first dollar of the new series struck off has been presented to President Harding. There will be about $180,000,000 of the new design coined, officials said, unless further authority is given the mint to purchase and coin silver.

ANOTHER STEP FORWARD IN COMMERCIAL EDUCATION

We have just officially been informed that the Tyler Commercial College of Tyler, Texas, has installed a complete wireless radio system to teach wireless telegraphy and telephony. The installation of this system, which is the very best on the market, is in keeping with the progress of this institution which is the largest of its kind in the country, and we are sure that the public will appreciate knowing that such training can be had in a commercial school where all commercial courses are taught in a practical manner. With this instrument, they are picking up messages from all of the foreign wireless plants including such places as Petrograd, Russia; Berlin, Germany; and Hong Kong, China. They also get grand opera from Mary Garden Grand Opera Company which they intend to furnish entertainment free to their students. Several students have enrolled for this training and on account of the growing demand for wireless operators, others will take advantage of this opportunity. The Tyler Commercial College will gladly furnish you with further information concerning same.

Filipino nationalists claim there can be no danger in turning the islands loose and free, since peace is to rule in the Pacific. Still they might wait to see if the peace holds good.

COUNT YCOMMISSIONER TEMPORARILY REMOVED

Lufkin News, 30th—Acting upon a petition of A. O. Graham and eighteen other leading citizens and tax payers of Precinct No. 4, in Angelina county, Judge L. D. Guinn has temporarily removed T. F. Richardson, commissioner of that precinct, from office until the matter may be heard on its merits at the spring term of district court.

T. L. Parker, one of the leading citizens of that community, has been appointed by the court to fill the vacancy, and it is presumed he will qualify immediately for the place. The petition to the court praying for removal of former Commissioner Richardson, is of some length, consisting of "official misconduct," which it is alleged were connected with the defendant's supervision of grading and construction of roads and bridges in the Zavalla neighborhood and the application of county funds to some of the enterprises.

Bilious Headache Made Her Almost Crazy

(Thursday Health Talk No. 37)
(By Zilar Bros.)

When the doctor arrived this woman, a refined type given to much mental activity, was pounding her head against the wall. To be sure the pounding was not vicious enough to be injurious, but the jar was all that interrupted the increasing pain and nausea. In this case the headache was due to the stomach condition. The liver was also inactive. Chiropractic spinal adjustments afforded some measure of immediate relief, enough to enable her to sleep, but it took a long series of adjustments to restore the stomach and liver place spinal nerve openings to normal and thus make normal health of these organs possible. In other cases of headache the chiropractor is quite often able to stop the pain in one adjustment.

NACOGDOCHES TRADITIONS

The history of the first railroad to Nacogdoches, when and how, if it could be recited in details, would be interesting.

There was one long before the day of the H. E. & W. T., forty years ago. It was the East Texas railroad, now the T. & N. O. branch of the S. P. from Beaumont to Dallas. It never landed at Nacogdoches. It was built part of the way on land but most of it was on paper. The civil war came up and wiped it off of the map. This was about seventy years ago. Long after its death its remains fell into the present ownership and the railroad was completed to Nacogdoches about twenty-five years ago.

The old East Texas railroad was born at Nacogdoches, and was one of the first railroads, if not the very first in the State of Texas. General Haden H. Edwards was the father of it, but he had a large following of the people along the line, which extended, or was intended to extend from Sabine Pass, then an important sea port, via Beaumont and Woodville to Nacogdoches.

A part of this road below Beaumont was completed, and the first locomotive, named the General Edwards, was operated.

The excitement and general interest created by this enterprise was almost intense. East Texas was the leading section of the state. The population here had always been in the lead and prosperity and general attractions were at the top. Immigration to Texas meant to Nacogdoches, and West Texas was in the future. A railroad here was a most important problem.

But the fates opposed the success of this most desired benefit. The civil war came on. General Edwards died at Cincinnati, Ohio, while on a trip to promote the projected enterprise. "The best laid plans of mice and men

Gang aft agley."

Reflecting upon the men who are living here now that were here then reveals the fact that they are few. They were boys then. Among these are Sam W. Reid, Jas. H. Halton, Sr., John Rusk, L. S. Taylor, F. H. Hoyt, and John B. Nelson. Of course these are not all, and their recollections of the times are limited.

Mr. John H. Garrett of Seagoville, Dallas county, one of the most progressive and successful farmers of the state, was a visitor in the city Friday, bringing with him several ears of corn which took the grand champion prize at the Dallas fair last year. He won premiums aggregating $144 at the 1921 fair and $123 at the fair of the preceding year. In the last four years Mr. Garrett has been awarded 70 prizes on his corn and hogs. This record is probably unequalled in the state.

ZENO COX, SR.

The Sentinel regrets to announce the death of its old friend, Mr. Zeno Cox, Sr., which occurred suddenly Sunday night at 11:30 at his home near Shawnee. His health had not been robust for some time, but his death was entirely unexpected. He and his wife had been visiting in the neighborhood Sunday, and after their return home he was seized with a coughing spell. He took a dose of medicine to relieve this paroxysm, and within a few moments he passed away.

Mr. Cox was 67 years old and was one of the best known and most highly esteemed citizens of the county. For two terms he served as county treasurer, rendering perfect satisfaction.

Deceased is survived by his wife and three brothers, John H., George and Will Cox, Sr., and one sister, Mrs. Tom Blackshear, who have the sympathy of a wide circle of friends.

Funeral services were held at the residence of Mr. John H. Cox of this city and interment made in Shady Grove cemetery at 3 o'clock Monday afternoon.

OLD FIRM RETIRES

The business of S. Mintz & Son has been purchased by Messrs. C. B. Brewer and Arch F. Millard, the new owners taking charge with the beginning of the new year.

It will seem rather odd for Nacogdoches to be without Simon Mintz as one of its dry goods merchants. He has been in business here for about 30 years and bears an enviable reputation for courtesy and fair dealing. He numbers his friends by the hundreds and deserves them. The Mintzes father and son, are leaving Nacogdoches for Dallas simply because they desire a larger field, and state that if they felt it best to do business in a small town they would rather remain here than go to any other place in America. The Sentinel wishes them success in their new location.

The members of the new firm are well known to our people. Mr. Brewer has for years been connected with the firm of Mayer & Schmidt and has a thorough knowledge of the dry goods business. Mr. Millard, who for years served as ticket agent at the railroad station here, is also well and favorably known to the public. They will conduct the business along the same lines as their predecessors, and the Sentinel predicts success for them.

FOR TAX COLLECTOR

To my Many Friends of Nacogdoches County:

It having arrived at about the time when those who seek office must let it be known to the people through the papers, and having been asked so many times by my friends throughout the county as to whether or not I expect to make the race for tax collector again, have decided to at this time to let you know that it is my purpose to do so.

I feel this way about it: I am getting old now, and, as all know, am crippled, and while this is no excuse for one to vote for another without regard to qualification, but after the years experience I have had in this office, I know that I can render efficient service, and even better than heretofore rendered.

As indicated, it is my purpose to make the race, and I certainly desire to thank the good people for favors heretofore bestowed upon me, and ask your consideration and support in the coming primary.

Your servant,
J. C. MELTON.

Clyde Shofner, the incumbent, offer for re-election as tax assessor of Nacogdoches county, and it must be admitted his record favors his aspiration and justifies his ambition to succeed himself. He has made a most efficient assessor, being fair to both the state and the individual, discharging the duties of his difficult and exacting office impartially, and satisfactorily. If the policy of rewarding faithful public officials is to be continued, Mr. Shofner certainly is entitled to the favorable consideration of the voters of this county.

AUDLEY HARRIS FOR COUNTY ATTORNEY

I am announcing for the office of County Attorney. Am now serving by appointment, having been appointed by the Commissioners' Court on January 5th, last year.

I have to the best of my ability performed my duties fairly, faithfully and impartially. If my services have been satisfactory to the people I would very much appreciate their approval by having them elect me for another term. If my services have been unsatisfactory, I do not expect to be re-elected.

Yours very truly,
Audley Harris.

FOR PUBLIC WEAHER

Wyman Windham comes before the people as a candidate for Public Weigher of Precinct No. 1. He has had seven or eight years experience in weighing cotton, and is now engaged in that pursuit. He has always brought intelligence and absolute fairness to bear upon all his dealings with the public, and it is only reasonable to assume that this policy will be continued if he should be elected to the position to which he aspires. The work of a public weigher is a very important one, and a good, capable, conscientious man in the place is a good investment. These qualifications it is conceded Mr. Windham possesses, and the voters are respectfully asked to consider his claims from the standpoint of merit. He would always be on the job and treat you right.

FOR COUNTY CLERK

The Sentinel today carries the announcement of J. F. Perritte for county clerk. Mr. Perritte is now serving his first term in that responsible position, the duties of which he has discharged in a most efficient manner. He has been constantly on the job, rarely absent from his office, and has served the people faithfully and well. In considering his candidacy the voters are asked to investigate his record, and if that is done fairly and conscientiously, there is little doubt as to the result. In Mr. Perritte as county clerk the people of Nacogdoches county have a very valuable asset, his friends claim, basing this opinion on the quality of the work he has done in the office.

TO THE VOTERS OF NACOGDOCHES COUNTY

Greetings:

I am submitting my political faith into your hands. You have never seen this name on a primary ballot. Neither has anyone by this name run for office. For all of our tribe, since they first set foot on the soil of the new world, fresh from the Emerald Isle, have been "Hewers of wood and drawers of water" for their more favored fellow-man.

I was born and reared in East Texas. The most of my life has been spent in this county, during which time I have engaged in every form of manual labor that the opportunities of this section present. I always possessed an ambition to practice law.

As to education, I was graduated from the "High School of Hard Knocks," secured by diploma from the "University of Experience." My legal training was obtained by home study and in the office of Hodges & Greve.

Into your hands I entrust my candidacy for county attorney, having by observation noticed that you usually reward the most deserving, based on merit. Submitting my political destiny to you for your careful, and I hope, favorable consideration, I am,

Yours respectfully,
Jack Varner.

FOR TAX COLLECTOR

The Sentinel is authorized to announce A. B. Stoddard of Appleby for Tax Collector of Nacogdoches county for the ensuing term subject to the action of the Democratic primaries.

Mr. Stoddard has lived at Appleby for the past twenty-seven years. Has held various places of trust, among them he was agent for the railroad many years and for the past five years has served as commissioner for precinct No. 3. He has made a splendid commissioner and if elected will, no doubt, make a good collector. Any favors shown him will not only be appreciated by Mr. Stoddard, but will be especially appreciated by his many friends throughout Commissioners' Prec. No. 3.

The preliminary hearing of Frank Manchaca, Keith Rivers and Calvin Pennington was held before Justice of the Peace Huston this morning and resulted in binding them over to the grand jury in the sum of $200 each. All three parties made bond in that amount and were released.

MEEK-BUCHANAN WEDDING

The following was handed in too late for publication in Monday's paper:

Miss Bessie Buchanan was quietly married at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Buchanan, on Logansport street Sunday morning at 10 o'clock to James Harvey Meek, Jr., of Houston, Texas, by Rev. S. D. Dolahite of the Baptist church, in the presence of close relatives.

The house was beautifully decorated in smilax, ferns and cut flowers. The bride was attired in a navy blue tricotine spring suit, with hat, shoes and gloves of grey, wearing a corsage of bride's roses and ferns.

Luncheon was served and the happy young couple left on the 11:50 train for Dallas.

Those present were the bride's brother, W. S. Buchanan, and brother and sister, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Goodson and son, A. J. Buchanan, Mrs. Clara Ziegler and Mr. and Mrs. Lee Zeagler and family, all of Lufkin, and Jack, Louise and Lilly Buchanan and the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Buchanan, and little sister, Clara Belle.

Partin's Cafe was burglarized about 10 o'clock Friday night by thieves who apparently were familiar with the interior arrangements. Entrance was effected by breaking the catch and raising the front window. Cigars, cigarettes and chewing gum to the value of about $14 were taken. Mr. Partin had taken the precaution to remove all money from the till and leave the drawer of the cash register open, making it unnecessary for the thieves to smash it.

Bad digestion robs the body of the nourishment it needs to maintain health and strength. To restore tone in the digestive organs there is no better remedy than Prickly Ash Bitters. It is the remedy men use for purifying the stomach, liver and bowels. Price $1.25 per bottle. Stripling, Haselwood & Co., Special Agents.

Tex Rickard once thought he was a scrap promoter. That was before Secretary Hughes took the limelight.

A CHARMING AFFAIR

Mrs. Beeman Strong and little daughter, Charlotte, of Houston, were the charming honorees of a most enjoyable musical evening Saturday, December 31, with Mr. and Mrs. I. L. Sturdevant as host and hostess. The following well rendered program was enjoyed by the guests.

Piano Duo—Miss Caroline Sturdevant and Mrs. Lindsay.

Violin Solo—Miss Charlotte Strong.

Reading—Mr. T. Tilford.

Piano Solo—Miss Margaret Sturdevant.

Reading—Mrs. Karle Wilson Baker.

Piano Solo—Miss Mamie Middlebrook.

Vocal Solo—Miss Jennie June Harris.

Reading—Miss Caroline Sturdevant.

Piano Solo—Mrs. Lindsay.

The numbers given by the visitors, Miss Charlotte Strong and Miss Margaret Sturdevant, deserve special mention, as they were very enthusiastically received. Little Charlotte, age ten, received loud applause for the rare talent and skill that she displayed in the rendering of a heavy operatic number, a lengthy selection from "Il Trovatore." One would hardly think that she had studied less than two years, as she played with the finish of a more advanced musician. She has already attracted the attention of a wide circle of Houston musicians, who are watching her musical career with keen interest. Miss Sturdevant, who graduates in piano from Kidd-Key this year, pleased her audience with three selections that were rendered with the precision of a true musician.

All the guests then joined in the singing of many old familiar airs, after which a very delectable refreshment course was served.
