MRS. J. T. SEALE

Mrs. Mary Seale, widow of the late J. T. Seale, died at an early hour Tuesday morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Julia Edwards, in the western part of the city, aged 77 years, after an illness of six weeks.

Mrs. Seale was born at Pineapple, Ala., and moved to this section in 1872. She is survived by four sons and three daughters, all of whom reside in Nacogdoches county. They are Tom, Robert, Jack and Charlie Seale and Mrs. Lula Lavender, Julia Edwards and Mary Fezzell. Two are dead.

ROGERS-HILL

Mr. Robert C. Rogers and Miss Lillian Hill, a handsome young couple from Appleby, were married Tuesday morning at the Methodist parsonage by Rev. E. G. Cooke. The bride was not quite 18 years of age and some delay occurred in securing a license, but the father telephoned his consent and the way to matrimony was smoothed out. We extend congratulations.

HALBERT-STIRLING

Mr. S. H. Halbert and Miss Lillie Stirling were married at the Methodist church at 9 o'clock Sunday morning, the ceremony joining two of our most worthy and deserving young people. The groom is one of the city's progressive and successful restaurateurs and enjoys the esteem of all who know him. The bride is one of our most deserving young women, formerly employed at the telephone exchange here, and has a wide circle of friends who wish her happiness and prosperity, sentiments which the Sentinel heartily endorses.

FREEMAN-WILKERSON

Captain F. J. Freeman and Miss Bernice Wilkerson were married Tuesday night at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Lee Wilkerson in this city in the presence of a few relatives and intimate friends.

WOODMEN CELEBRATE

There was a big banquet and jollification at Woodmen Hall Tuesday night, the affair being in celebration of the consolidation of the Melrose and Appleby camps with the Nacogdoches camp. Eloquent speeches were made and the right hand of fellowship was extended in the heartiest manner. Smith's Novelty Four furnished good music and a most enjoyable time was experienced by all.

Dave Miller, a young white man of 23 years, is in jail charged with stealing 2 sides of meat from Mr. Bob Nettles of the Union Springs community. Miller carried his plunder to the woods some distance away and hid it, but left a broad trail for Sheriff Woodman and Deputy Ernest Weatherly to follow. Mr. Nettles is rejoiced at the quick recovery of his bacon and the officers are entitled to credit for their prompt and successful work in locating the loot and arresting the alleged purveyor.

FINAL PLANS MADE FOR TICK ERADICATION WORK

With the arrival of T. W. Hawkins, State inspector of tick eradication work in this district, final plans for the inauguration of work were completed Tuesday. County Judge Chester H. Bryan held a conference with J. J. Settegast, Jr., J. M. Fost, Jr., J. F. Hanes and other leading cattlemen. Methods of co-operation of all concerned in the tick eradication in Harris county were discussed, and plans for having the work well under way by April 1 were completed.

Mr. Hawkins will make his headquarters in Houston about April 1, he stated. He has jurisdiction over eight counties, including Harris—Houston Post.

Dr. W. R. Sibley has returned from the East, via Houston, where he attended the State Dental Association. The doctor is very enthusiastic over his post graduate work and will leave shortly for El Paso, where he will make arrangements to move his family, and enter into the practice of his profession.

Delegates to the Epworth League Institute remaining over in Lufkin Sunday were Misses Virginia Baxter and Margaret Gaston of Nacogdoches, the former the guest of Miss Margaret Peavy and the latter the guest of Miss Florine Fuller; also Miss Maude Espie of Timpson, who was the guest of Miss Grace Fite Campbell. The visitors expressed themselves as being highly pleased with Lufkin and its environs.—Lufkin News, 20th.

FOR SCHOOL TRUSTEES

In response to a numerously signed petition, Mesdames F. R. Penman and George T. McNess announce today as candidates for trustees of Nacogdoches Independent School District. The fitness of these candidates cannot and will not be questioned. They are women of intelligence and refinement, and certainly have the interests of the school at heart. As the mentor and guide of childhood, women by nature have a closer and more profound knowledge of the requirements of children than men could possibly have. The most blessed word in all the world is "mother," because it means the beginning and the end of love and sacrifice. And the mother of a child has the mother-love for all children, because nature has so ordained. Women, therefore, would make the very best of school directors, and the two named above would be second to none.

The many friends of Miss Willie Mae Swanson of this city will be glad to learn that she has been appointed to fill a position in the Dallas office of the United States Civil Service Bureau. For the past three years Miss Swanson has been a teacher in the McKinney public schools. She will accept her appointment and begin work March 27.

In a Chicago school girls are taught to scrub floors. These Chicagoans have some queer notions.

MANY ARRESTS MADE IN BANK FAILURE CASE

Okmulgee, Okla., March 22.—Fifty-one warrants were delivered to Sheriff Sowers today by the district court clerk for the arrest of persons named in 23 indictments returned last night by the grand jury after investigation into the failure of the Bank of Commerce here.

WILL PRESENT NOTE TODAY

Paris, March 22.—The American note regarding the payment of costs of the American army of occupation in Germany and addressed to the European Allies reached the American embassy yesterday and will be presented to the Allies today.

AMERICAN STUDENTS TO MEXICAN UNIVERSITY

Austin, Texas, March 22.—Several students of the University of Texas are planning to attend the summer sessions of the National University of Mexico at Mexico City. It is stated that the widespread published announcement that was made recently of the arrangements that have been made for taking care of American students who may attend the National University this summer has caused several hundred students of the colleges and universities of this country to decide to take advantage of the opportunity that is offered them to visit Mexico and at the same time broaden their education. It is stated that some of the Eastern educational institutions will contribute as many as one hundred students each to the summer sessions of the National University of Mexico.

POLITICS IN DIPLOMACY

There is a tradition in the United States that the domestic disputes of the American people stop at the shore line. In dealings with the world Americans are a nation; at home, no less a nation, but privileged to war bloodlessly over the democratic course of government.

Senator John Sharp Williams said a needed word when he reminded his colleagues of that tradition. Ever since the era of Henry Cabot Lodge, and inspired by his narrow and ill-tempered leadership, the United States senate has degenerated in its national viewpoint, has sacrificed all those fine characteristics that go to make up national dignity and prestige. To Lodge and his kind party seems to be first, the nation second; politics the supreme vocation and statesmanship merely the cloak and mask for the dark work of party intrigue.

Never until the ascendancy of Lodge has this country seen its international relations flung nakedly to the world as acrid domestic issues. Never before has the world been invited to explore dorisively the shallow depths of which the political partisan is capable. Lodge saw no shame in it when the League of Nations was the target of his personal prejudices, therefore it is in keeping with the taint of his career that the treaties he fosters are converted into party washings to be cleansed noisily in the Atlantic and Pacific oceans with full publicity.

The United States senate is at a low ebb; low in statecraft, low in oratory and low in patriotism. Here and there lingers a figure, tragic in isolation, outraged at the absurdity of littleness and selfishness, demanding in the name of the American people a recovery of the supreme national viewpoint.

It is time for that recovery. This people gained its moral leadership among the powers of the world because it is a nation of undivided faith and purpose. These triflers with personalities, these little politicians who beggar statecraft to satisfy their individual vanities, who squabble in the open air to invite the mockery of the world, are unworthy of the American tradition and usurpers of the honor rightfully entrusted to the senate.

The print of Lodge is destructive. It has permeated the body in which he has accumulated so much mispent influence. The results are seen in national humiliation.

A friend of Max Oser says he is sure the Swiss would not marry Miss McCormick for her money. That seems plausible, in view of the prevalent opinion that it's not the girl but the money he is marrying.

KNIGHTS OF VISIBLE EMPIRE GIVEN CHARTER

Oklahoma City, Okla., March 21.—The Knights of the Visible Empire, an organization formed in the Healdton oil fields in Carter county following the fight which resulted from efforts of white robed and masked men to punish an alleged bootlegger, was granted a charter here Tuesday by T. J. Kendle, acting secretary of state.

MOTOR LICENSING INCREASES

Austin, Texas, March 22.—Up to March 15 there had been 372,248 motor vehicles registered with the State Highway Department, which makes an increase of 30,000 over the corresponding period of last year. The number of motorcycles, registered was 2038, chauffeurs' licenses issued 6523, dealers' licenses 1379 and transfers totaled 28,995.

STILL IMPROVING

Wichita Falls, Texas, March 22.—Congressman Lucian W. Parrish spent a fairly comfortable night and his condition early today showed a further slight improvement, his physicians say.

BIG OIL FIRE

Houston, Texas, March 22.—Officials of the Humble Oil Company estimated today that the fire which destroyed two oil reservoirs yesterday caused a loss of approximately 350,000 barrels, valued at $500,000.

GUARD NEGRO MURDERERS

Waco, Texas, March 22.—Captain Hamer and Ranger McMordeie of the Texas Rangers will bring Bennie Young and Cooper Johnson, the two negroes charged with the murder of W. H. Barker and wife and Homer Turk, 13, at Concord on the night of February 11 from Waxahachie to Waco today. The trial is set for tomorrow. Six Rangers will guard against possible violence.

ANTI-KLAN CANDIDATE

Austin, Texas, March 22.—Constable Charles Hamby has announced as a candidate for Sheriff of Travis county on an anti-Ku Klux Klan ticket, subject to the democratic primary. Sheriff Miller, who is a candidate for re-election, admitted to the grand jury several months ago that he was a member of the Ku Klux Klan.

IN HANDS OF JURY

Kalamazoo, Mich., March 22.—The case of John Duval Dodge, the young Detroit millionaire accused of driving an automobile while intoxicated, went to the jury today.

PRIEST IS THREATENED

Beaumont, Texas, March 22.—Only a few persons were present at early mass today at the negro Catholic church here following the publication of threats to blow up the church and the issuance of a warning signed "K. K. K." to the Rev. A. A. LaPlante to leave the city or suffer being whipped and tarred and feathered. LaPlante stated this morning that he will not leave the city.

STRONG STAFFS PROVIDED FOR SUMMER SESSIONS

Austin, Texas, March 22.—An unusually strong instruction staff has been employed for the summer sessions of the University of Texas, it is stated by the authorities of that institution. Prospects for a large attendance at the two sessions of the summer school and the session of the normal are said to be unusually good. Of recent years the beauty of Austin in summer, the many delightful bathing and pleasure resorts where recreation may be had by the students and other attractions of the capital have come to be well known to the people of the state, and these things, together with the educational advantage offered, have caused the attendance at the summer sessions of the University to increase rapidly year by year.

Spring baseball has two points of excitement—the players who are in mid-season form the first two days of practice, and the players who are going to retire to look after their extensive interests.

A GREAT WORK PLANNED BY PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Beginning April 1st, 1922, the new church year, the Sunday-schools of the Southern Presbyterian church, will make a special study of Japan and foreign mission work to be done in that country. This course of study will occupy the entire church year under a plan arranged some years ago known as the "Seven Year Plan of Missionary Education." This announcement has been made by the committee on foreign missions. The quota for the Sunday-schools for the coming year for foreign missions is placed at $60,000 and special foreign mission Sundays will be May 28th and October 29th.

The report on Sunday-school work of that church for the year shows 3365 Sunday-schools with an enrollment of 370,000. Offerings to benevolent causes totaled $455,323 by these schools. Over 1,000 new schools have been organized in 20 years and 137,949 from the Sunday-schools have united with the church in that time.

The Sunday-school is one of the greatest human agencies for developing character. Raise a child up in the way he should go and when he is old he will not depart from it. Take your children to Sunday-school and church and claim the promise.

METHODIST CHURCH NOTES

There was a smaller attendance than usual at all our services on March 19th, and this was largely due to sickness. But the size of the crowds did not diminish the benefit that we derived from all the services of the day. Our superintendent, Mr. Price, suggested the thought that maybe God was trying out the faithful ones; and he urged upon us the importance of being faithful at all times to the duties of the Sunday-school and church, assuring us that when we were worthy of greater blessings God was ready to grant them.

The sermons of the morning and evening services were preached by the pastor, Rev. E. G. Cooke, and both were earnest, powerful, appealing and inspiring sermons such as he gives us every Sunday.

The text of the morning sermon was Rev. 3:6. "He that hath an ear, let him hear what the Spirit saith unto the churches." The following thoughts are those given in this sermon.

"Life is the sum total of the forces that resist death. This letter to the church at Sardis is a clarion call to duty, a bugle blast to a church that needed it. What are those things that are ready to die in the church at Sardis? What are those things that are ready to die in the church at Nacogdoches? 1. Want of Penitence. There is always the course of penitence that proves nobility. 2. Faith is dying out. 3. Prayer is dying out.

We have to have material things to link us to the world. We need forms of worship. We need Christian fellowship, evangelism and to multiply out Christian experience as we do our activities.

The text for the evening sermon was from Romans 8:16. "The Spirit itself beareth witness with our spirit that we are the children of God." The theme of the sermon was "Conversion." We were told what conversion means, and how we may know that God has pardoned our sins, and made us a new creation. We do not have to define God to experience that feeling. The Spirit of God is the star witness that affirms with our conscience that we are the children of God. The pastor made a most earnest appeal to the unconverted to turn from their sins and to become children of God. He closed his sermon with this thought: "I want you to have no peace but that peace that God alone gives."

The delegates to Lufkin gave very fine reports of the work of the League Institute which they attended on Friday and Saturday. Their enthusiasm over the work gave us an insight into the wonderful meeting they had. They are determined that we shall have great leagues in Nacogdoches.

There will be a special program at the prayer meeting on Wednesday evening at 7:30 and the pastor urges the people to attend.

WANTS RE-ELECTION

St. Louis, Mo., March 21.—Senator James A. Reed today announced that he would seek re-election on the democratic ticket.

FLOGGINGS AND MURDER THE WORK OF MOBS

Dallas, Texas, March 21.—F. H. Etheridge, manager of a lumber yard who was flogged last night by a band of unmasked men, was back at work at his place of business this morning. He said he was stiff and sore from the 25 lashes administered by his assailants, who seized him at his home after strenuous resistance by himself, in which his 17-year-old daughter assisted him. City and county officers are working on the case, but no arrests are in prospect so far as known. Officers were assigned to guard the Etheridge home in an exclusive section. Etheridge probably will go before the grand jury today.

Outrage at Beaumont

Beaumont, Texas, March 21.—Dragged from the porch of his residence, knocked unconscious when he resisted, carried into the country and whipped, tarred and feathered, J. A. Pelt, 63, formerly of Sour Lake, is suffering from high fever and wounds today. Mrs. Pelt said she was knocked down and bruised when she clung to her husband. She said the men had no reason to take Pelt.

Murder and Flogging

Nashville, Ark., March 21.—Police today were searching for the masked men who late yesterday shot and killed Walter Gibbs, 25, as he attempted to protect Joel Harris, 60, who was taken outside the town and whipped severely after the Gibbs killing.

WAIVES EXAMINATION

Austin, Texas, March 21.—Dr. Guy O. Shirey, former commander of the American Legion of Texas, today waived examining trial on the charge of embezzlement of trust funds instituted against him here. He was ordered bound over to the grand jury by Justice of the Peace Johnson, bail being fixed at $1,000. Shirey was not present in the court room, the agreement being made by telephone yesterday.

MINERS TO STRIKE

Fort Worth, Texas, March 21.—Three hundred and fifty miners at Bridgeport will strike April 1st following failure to reach a wage agreement, according to Gus Sparling, executive committeeman of the United Mine Workers of America.

PROMINENT LABORITE DEAD

Cleveland, Ohio, March 21.—E. Corrigan, 61, assistant grand chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, died at his home here last night of heart disease. He was a prominent business man of Texas, being president of the Houston Watch Company. He came to Cleveland a year and a half ago from Hillsboro, Texas, where his body will be taken.

Berlin, March 21.—Dr. Otto Ludwig Wiedfeldt has been appointed German ambassador to the United States.

SEEMS DODGE CAN'T DODGE

Kalamazoo, Mich., March 21.—The case of John Duval Dodge, charged with driving an automobile while intoxicated, was on the municipal court docket today.

HUGHES DENIES

Washington, March 21.—Presentation in the senate today of a letter from Secretary Hughes denying that any agreement exists for future British-American co-operation led to another effort by opponents of the four-power treaty to send it back to committee. The effort brought on a warm debate.

PARRISH IMPROVED

Wichita Falls, Texas, March 21.—The condition of Congressman Lucian W. Parrish, injured in an automobile accident, who has been in a critical condition for the past 24 hours, is slightly improved, this morning, according to his physicians.

Will anybody who ever found those free seeds dispensed by congress any good for planting and of more than doubtful value as chicken feed, please speak up?

WEEKLY SENTINEL

BY GILES M. HALTOM

WHAT AILS THE RAILROADS?

Everywhere the "experts" are discussing the railroads. They talk about the "railroad tangles" and resuscitating the languishing railroads, and saving the railroads from the horrors of government ownership.

All this discussion results in the use of a good deal of good paper and ink and the making of many long articles which are tedious to read and not easy to understand. The trend of them seems to be that the poor railroads have been leaped upon by a cruel and designing government and terribly manhandled and then tossed back to their rabused owners mangled broken and bleeding.

Such expert testimony will not convince that great bulk of intelligent people who remember the railroads in better days. There are few new railroads. The railroads that are "in ruins" today are the railroads that once were considered paying property and attractive investments. They were built because the people wanted them. Once they served the people well, and then they paid dividends.

Now a curious thing has happened, which none of the experts tries to explain. The territories which these railroads served have developed marvelously; the amount of freight and passenger traffic offered then has increased accordingly; no competition has been introduced or permitted; their rates have almost been doubled, yet these same railroads are now declared bankrupt and in ruins. How can these things be?

And yet the explanation is simple and lies at the basis of the whole trouble. The railroads have been subjected to a type of greed which has victimized the people for years and which, in effect, will continue its depredations. Not content with the legitimate returns which fair business methods would have earned from these properties, the financial exploiters organized and reorganized the railroads, loading them with indebtedness which represented nothing but swollen profits of manipulators. The profiteers departed with their swag, but the burden of debts remain, heaped upon heaps, pyramided to the toppling point. And upon these "costs" the railroad failing to show earnings proclaim themselves bankrupt and beg for government restoration.

ITS GREAT CONTRIBUTION

All the friendly reviews of the first year's rule has again evaporated. Washington are silent on its greatest contribution to the public welfare. These appraisals fail to show that one year's rule has again evaporated the myth that prosperity and republicans are inseparable.

The hardest blow to republican bigotry given by the Wilson administration was the proof that the democrats can rule the nation with profit to the people. By careful planning their opponents had cultivated the legend that democracy meant adversity. President Wilson and a co-operating congress blasted that canard. It was this as much as anything that incensed the republican patriarchy at Woodrow Wilson, the man, for he had stripped the republican party of its most popular campaign clamor and demonstrated that democrats can administer affairs quite as well and better than their opponents.

No longer will the voters be fooled with the fairy story that republican rule always means a full dinner pail. That trick is forever revealed. If the voters are to be fooled, the republicans will have to try something else.

MR. HARDING'S REGRET

The time-honored royal lament that the head that wears a crown lies uneasy finds no application in President Harding's regret that his White House job makes it hard for him to be a human being.

Crown-adorned heads, particularly in ancient days, were exposed to shifting winds of adversity which might at any time gather enough force to blow off crown, head and all. There was no telling when an upstart of an usurper might arise either within the gates of the kingdom or from the outside to demand the crown. And if the bejeweled headdress wasn't readily surrendered, it was almost inevitable that either the king or the usurper should pay with his head for the delay. In fact a great share of the world's history is little more than a serial story of lost heads.

But President Harding's plight comes from good motives on the part of those who make it hard for him to be both president and a human being. For untold ages the sons of men have exalted those of their fellowmen who attained high rank in the councils of the tribe. Whether such high place was won and held by accident of birth, by force of arms or by popular choice has never mattered much. Chieftain or king or president, mankind has ever set its leaders apart. It does not like to think these men only human after all.

In his home town as private citizen Warren is one of the boys—just as much a boy as he wants to be. The thump on the back with which his friends greet him, the good-natured laughter if the joke should be on him, these are evidences that as citizen he has not been set apart. He may appear in his shirt sleeves if he likes, or sun himself in his slippers on the front porch if he feels so inclined. Neither his actions nor sayings occasion comment other than that made about other citizens.

With Warren G. Harding, however, as president of the United States, the case is quite different. Here the top hat and the distinguished air must be in evidence. Not that Americans think a citizen could change his habits of life merely because he got a majority of the votes when he ran for president. No one thinks about it at all. But there is associated with the presidential office a certain amount of formality. For even democracy does still set its leaders apart. They must be prepared to pay the penalty which popularity has always exacted—not that they are better than anyone else, but just somewhat different.

AID THE EDITOR

About ninety some odd editors out of every one hundred have at times wanted to make a certain thing clear to all newspaper readers, but possibly never could make it as explanatory as they wanted it to be. The following taken from the Canton Herald, is just about as near perfect as is possible to make it:

"One of the most difficult tasks in a newspaper office is getting the facts relative to deaths, marriages, births, etc., in the community. Many people take it for granted that when a person dies the editor is familiar with every detail of the life of the deceased and his activities, when as a fact he knows absolutely nothing concerning him, but he has to get his information from other sources, same as other persons would have to do. It is the same with regard to marriages or other more or less important happenings in the community. In almost every case the editor has to dig up the particulars or to satisfy himself and the readers of the paper with a meager and inaccurate account. The average editor of a country paper has something like a million and a half things to do and think about in a week and friends can hardly over-estimate how much he appreciates any effort they make in furnishing him the facts for news items."—Lufkin News.

UNCLE SAM BROKE HIS WORD

While meditating, if you ever do on the subject of treaties, you might meditate on Korea. Korea is on the ways from home. Korea is on the other side of Japan. Possibly it would be accurate to say Korea is on the wrong side of Japan.

Yet there are interesting things about Korea. Three of them may be mentioned:

1. The United States made a treaty years ago with Korea, guaranteeing Korean independence.
2. The United States ignored, forgot, overlooked, fell down on that treaty.
3. It has never been explained to the American public why the country broke its word.

Those are interesting questions surely. Interesting because the American people are to be asked to answer them. A group of cultured and patriotic Koreans are preparing to go the length and breadth of this land specially to ask about these things. Not aggressively, but in a surprised, questioning sort of way.

It is a native experiment and, as already mentioned, interesting. The facts are incontrovertible.

A no-account usually finds it hard to get merchandise on it.

As Borah sees it, the only Pacific thing about the pact is its name.

The difference between a good disposition and an easy disposition is in the sting.

Indianapolis man, aged 32, admits having 11 wives. He has lived a busy life thus far.

There is a time when a bulge on the hip was not suspected of being anything but a bandana handkerchief.

Now that British troops have the revolution under control in South Africa is called a miners' revolt.

A market page reports that "Europe is coming back". Everything is in readiness.

OVERLAND BY BUS

No one who keeps abreast of the times needs to be argued with on the matter of shipping by automobile truck. That industry is being developed. An added impetus to this method of transportation no doubt will be given by a venture recently undertaken out of Chicago.

A caravan of six motor omnibuses took 50 passengers the other day out of Chicago on a 13-day excursion to New Orleans. Those who look with misgivings on the hardships of a trip of this kind will do well to remember that there were in the party 20 women.

Quite aside from its novelty this tourists adventure suggests possibilities in long-distance traveling that that have been considered as yet. Even as late as a little more than five years ago this trip would have been impossible because of the lack of adequate roads. Those 50 tourists, however, encountered no poor road difficulties, and they found it possible to make many little side trips which would have been irksome had they traveled by railroad.

TELL IT TO BERLIN

The newspaper comment of Europe on the note sent by Secretary Hughes through the American official member of the Reparations Commission demanding from the allies payment for the costs of the American army of occupation in Germany, recalls the warnings that were given the republican majority of the senate when it set out toward a separate and negotiated peace with Germany on the basis of obtaining all the benefits possible under the treaty of Versailles without assumption of responsibilities.

It was emphasized that, after breaking away from the allies, Washington could scarcely expect them to enforce its treaty terms. Relative to the American request for payment of costs of occupation out of collections made by the allies under the treaty of Versailles, Andrew Tardieu, former French high commissioner to America, asks: "Can the United States on the same footing with France, England and Belgium, claim their costs of occupation?" and he answers, "I think not." The general comment on the other side may be summed up:

"Tell it to Berlin."
"If the United States wants to be paid the costs of their military occupation of the Rhineland," says one of the Paris journals, "they ought to address themselves to the Germans, with whom they concluded a separate treaty, and not to the allies."

It sounds reasonable, and it can be depended upon that there will be considerable note-writing if the state department presses its demand.

BOSTON'S SUPERIOR SON

Senator Lodge has written a few books, and rather prides himself on his command of literary phrases. Perhaps he will add an analytical volume on "How It Feels When a Cultured Senator Becomes An Acrid Issue." Subordinate to the debate over the treaties there has developed a curious and possible improving issue over the Massachusetts senator.

Now all this is distinctly personal. Senator Lodge cannot object to that, for who so personal as he when Woodrow Wilson was framing treaties? The senate, or a good portion of it, is throwing pebbles at the treaties and rocks at Mr. Lodge. There is no hiding the fact that certain honorable gentlemen of the senate are trying to be nasty, and that is one thing a senator can accomplish very well.

Why is Henry Cabot Lodge the target for snipers and other verbal brickbats? Simply because he is a synonym for many things which men tolerate but in their hearts dislike. They dislike his scarcely veiled contempt for opposition; they dislike his petty vanity; they dislike his small and always personal view of national affairs. That is it; Senator Lodge has been too personal. He has made himself a personality; not on a foundation of interesting capacity, but of ill-tempered dictatorship. Hence the senate is making the treaties debate the most interesting personal experience for Senator Lodge in all the long and literary life of that superior son of Boston.

OLD CONFEDERATE'S LETTER

To the Editor of the Sentinel:

Out on a furlough from the Confederate Home at Austin for a few days. I have enjoyed myself thus far very well indeed. Over the International & Great Northern to Milano, then on the Santa Fe to Cleburne called for on my pass. I arrived in due time, and right here, I will say the railroads are doing very kind to the inmates of the home, and to the conductors. We are indebted also, for sometimes they have trouble in assisting us on and off the train because of age and other infirmities. There are many good people yet in the world and they are confined to no class or calling. Arriving in Cleburne, I soon found my stopping place and after a good night's sleep and breakfast, I proceeded to look about over the ground where the depot at this place now stands. I drove an ox team on the 4th of August, 1868, from near Atlanta, Georgia, completing my journey which was of three months duration. The contrast between my advent then and my arrival now behind a great steam engine and in a comfortable coach was great. The time seems short and what since has been accomplished along all lines in Texas looks like magic. A few steps further along through the brush I came to a road leading from Fort Graham to Fort Worth, where had been cleared away some few acres of brush, and there was Cleburne. At that time the square was laid off with one house on the east side, a couple on the south, the same on the north, while the west was full of saloons and stores—the court house under way of construction. There were some 15 or 20 families scattered about promiscuously, living in log cabins with perhaps two or three frame buildings. There were few comforts and no luxuries, but we were about the most harmonious community that ever was, the most of us being refugees and for each a fellow-feeling. On the prairie there were hundreds of cows and no butter and milk and we lived on yellow corn bread and the finest beef and pork, with no coffee to help. Now there are few evidences of Cleburne's beginning, for she is now a little city with fine residences, fine streets, good schools, good churches, good teachers and preachers, splendid water and the population hard to excel. Here I remained only a few days and enjoyed myself, it seemed to me with almost a new generation, for the old have all just about departed. The old merchants, lawyers, doctors, farmers of thirty or forty years ago whose faces and forms I see no more. After a few days my visit over, I was on my way to Nacogdoches, for which place my ticket called and where I have some relatives. This is a historical old town, next in age, I am told, to San Antonio, the oldest town in Texas, and here have lived some of Texas' earliest statesmen—Houston, Risk and others who were useful in their day. The principal part of the town is on a high ridge between two creeks, the Lanana and Bonita, while hills still higher circle the town and such of its inhabitants as live in these elevated places look down on the town proper, but whether or not in a boastful way I can not say. It is a good town with an extensive trade and all things modern to add to their comfort and pleasure. Almost anywhere in Texas you may find representatives of this old town and county and all are proud of their nativity. After a few days I shall return to the Confederate Home, a good place for him who is down and out and where there is no strife for existence. Here we have enough to eat—not a variety, but a plenty—good beds upon which to sleep, clothes sufficient and nothing to do: If sick you will be better cared for than at home or the place from which you came, because they are fixed. Coming to the home with many is like going to the grave—for it is likely life's journey will end and it affects us all more or less. I imagine the spot of ground where we shall lie is known. Death is inevitable for all. The man out in the world in the prime of life, engaged in the fight for dollars or perhaps existence, is suddenly and unexpectedly cut down. The old Confederate sits down and patiently waits the coming of the Master—he knows to be ever near, and proceeds to pass the time as best suits him. He will read a little if he can see, play cards, or dominoes, argue scripture or politics and occasionally fight a little, if necessary.

Colds & Headache

"For years we have used Black-Draught in our family, and I have never found any medicine that could take its place," writes Mr. H. A. Stacy, of Bradyville, Tenn. Mr. Stacy, who is a Rutherford County farmer, recommends Black-Draught as a medicine that should be kept in every household for use in the prompt treatment of many little ills to prevent them from developing into serious troubles.

THE DORFORD'S BLACK-DRAUGHT

"It touches the liver and does the work," Mr. Stacy declared. "It is one of the best medicines I ever saw for a cold and headache. I don't know what we would do in our family if it wasn't for Black-Draught. It has saved us many dollars . . . I don't see how any family can hardly go without it. I know it is a reliable and splendid medicine to keep in the house. I recommend Black-Draught highly and am never without it."

SINGING CONVENTION GREAT SUCCESS

The East Texas District Singing Convention which was held at Fairview church last Friday, Saturday and Sunday, was one of the most enjoyable gatherings of gospel song singers ever held in Nacogdoches county. There were many counties represented in various ways. Some counties had quartettes present, others had duettes, still others were represented by successful revival song leaders and choir directors, who united in one great mass of well-trained voices which blended harmoniously and better singing could not be found anywhere.

Two music publishers were represented by expert quartets. Professor Hooper properly managed the Seaborn quartette, and Prof. Virgil O. Stamps, the noted composer, teacher and singer, was in charge of the Vaughan Quartette, and credit is due the program committee for placing these quartettes on the program in a way that kept the interest high and attention good. It is needless to say that when either rendered a number, it had its full spiritual and musical effects on the hundreds who attentively listened.

Many good talks were made for the advancement of the Gospel song, chief among them being delivered by Prof. V. O. Stamps. He stressed the importance of training the young folks to sing; he scorched those who would fight a singing school or convention and at the same time attended other worldly attractions. His talk was the spice of the convention.

The people of Nacogdoches county and Fairview especially are to be congratulated for the hospitality extended the visiting delegates. Dinner was served on the grounds Saturday, when hundreds were sumptuously fed with plenty left over, which was served for supper in the same manner. There were many more homes to entertain visitors than visitors. Sunday was the crowning day of the convention. The church house was crowded to standing capacity and scores who were unable to gain entrance listened to the beautiful music for hours outside. All were fed and more could easily have been taken care of Sunday.

The convention closed Sunday evening at 3 o'clock. Every visitor went away thanking the citizens of Nacogdoches and Fairview for the liberal and hospitable way in which they had been entertained. All expressed themselves saying: "This was the best convention they had attended, and that its success was beyond reproach. It was really great."

C. OF C. DIRECTORS HOLD GOOD MEETING

The regular weekly meeting of the Board of Directors of the Chamber of Commerce met at 10 a. m. Friday, President Oscar Matthews presiding and the following directors present: J. M. Tucker, Link Summers, J. N. Thomas, Guy Stripling, W. C. Fouts, A. H. Smith, H. P. Schmidt, J. B. Atkins, W. D. Ambrose, R. L. Perry, J. J. Greve, W. D. Burk, J. H. Muller, C. B. Brewer and T. E. Baker.

Robert Lindsey, Willie Buchanan and Ras Shumate were present as visitors. J. M. Tucker made a partial report for the committee appointed to locate a suitable site for a free automobile camping ground, and found one place that appealed to the committee as being very desirable. Robert Lindsey called attention to what he believed to be a very desirable location and it was suggested that the committee continue its work and report at the next meeting of the board.

The secretary laid before the board the matter of providing funds to complete the dipping vat now under construction at the stock pens. This vat is being built under the directions of Inspector Hawkins, and will be built in connection with a "cleaning pen," by means of which cattle can be shipped from this place without the necessity of re-dipping them at other points.

Douglass Patton has been active in getting this vat constructed, and had collected about one hundred dollars for the enterprise. It is estimated that it will require an additional sum of eighty dollars to complete the job. Holloway Muller volunteered to raise the additional money. For this volunteer service in a good cause he received the enthusiastic cheers of his fellow directors.

The matter of sending a committee of citizens to Mexico to interest Col. Humphreys, the oil magnate, in Nacogdoches county, came up for discussion, and it was agreed that if the delegation of Rotarians who are to spend two days at Mineral Wells the latter part of the month failed to see Col. Humphreys, then a strong committee would pay him a visit at an early date at Mexico.

The secretary reported $16,000 subscribed to a bonus fund for the concern that brings in the first oil well in Nacogdoches county producing as much as five hundred barrels of oil per day. It is expected that this bonus will be raised to $20,000 within the next day or two.

J. B. Atkins made a progress report on the matter of a trades day, stating that his committee would have a definite proposition to make next week.

BIG YEAR FOR HOME BUILDERS PREDICTED

All signs point to 1922 as a big year for home builders, according to the Department of Commerce. The department's division of building and housing has studied reports of contracts awarded, analyzed figures on building permits and consulted with builders and real estate men from scores of cities, and concludes that before the year is out the United States will have begun to reduce its housing shortage of about one million homes.

Some very simple figures tell the story. In 27 northeastern states, in which over two-thirds of our people live, the F. W. Dodge Co. reports that contracts for 75,000,000 dollars worth of residential construction were awarded in February. The figure was the same for January, while December showed a total of 101 million dollars. These figures compare with a monthly average for the year 1919 of 71 million dollars and for 1921 of 73 million dollars. The showing is very remarkable, as normally December, January and February are the three lowest months of the year, and it is especially encouraging since the late summer and fall months showed an unusually large number of building projects started, to be carried along during the winter season. Everything points, therefore, to an active spring building season.

The situation varies greatly between different cities, of course, a few even having a surplus of homes, but a number of places apparently will build to the limit of their capacity. In view of general business conditions it does not seem likely that there will be any general increase in building material prices or building trade wages. In fact, the steady activity during the fall and winter months indicates that the demand for new construction is of a steady, healthy nature, that would probably slacken in case of any marked advances.

Movements in the building industry during the next few months are expected to be rather steady. Measured in floor space, the average contracts awarded during the past three months stand well above the 1921 average and very close to the high year of 1919. With such a start the year 1922 could easily rank ahead of any year since the beginning of the war.

Residential buildings have accounted for 47 percent, or nearly half of all new construction during the past three months, whereas during the years 1919 to 1921 residential construction was only 31 percent, or less than one-third of the total. Home-builders are having first call on the resources of the construction industry.

Famous Conservatory Gone.

The celebrated horticultural conservatory on the great estates of a Chatsworth hall, near Manchester, England, collapsed recently—as surely destroyed by the World war as any French or Belgian structure on the western front, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. The glass house was erected in 1836-40, and served as a model for the great Crystal palace still to be seen near London. It was itself of no mean size, measuring as it did, 277 feet long, 123 feet wide and 67 feet high. Forty thousand panes of glass formed the arching walls and roof.

Tells of Web-Footed Men.

The most curious tribe, called Agamambu, are to some extent web-footed, and the skin of their feet is "as tender as blotting paper." They live in a marsh and are so much at home in the water that they seem "to stand upright in that element without any perceptible effort." They catch ducks by diving under them and catching the birds' legs.

Their diet consists chiefly of fish, water fowls, sago and the roots of water lilies. They keep pigs, swine in cradles, underneath their houses (which are in the water built on ten foot poles), lying on their bellies with their legs stuck through the bottom, and feed them on fish and sago. The dead are buried by being tied to a stake, the body secured well above flood level.—"Some Experiences of a New Guinea Resident Magistrate," by Capt. C. A. W. Monkton.

Napoleon's Dessert Service Seld.

A French dessert dish of gilt plate, double thread and shell pattern, consisting of two sugar sifters, four spoons, a pair of sugar tongs, 24 small spoons, 24 forks and knives with porcelain handles, formerly the property of Emperor Napoleon, and bearing the imperial cipher of the bee, was sold in a London auction house not long ago. The service was the property of a nobleman whose name is not revealed.—London Times.

Wood Preservatives.

Wood preservatives are found by the United States forest products laboratory to be necessarily soluble enough in water to produce a toxic solution, though in some cases the solubility may be as slight as one-millionth. Sodium fluoride and zinc chloride are freely soluble, the creosotes as a whole only sparingly so. The nontoxic oils appear to act as reservoirs of the toxic ingredients, and to feed them out slowly to the wood.

They were talking of the city government.

"They all work together," one man complained. "First they let the trusts put up the price of coffee and tea till a poor man can't afford to drink 'em any more. Then the milk companies get after us and put milk out of our reach. Then comes prohibition and we can't buy beer at all. Thought the limit was reached then, didn't you?" "Sure," said the Idle Person, "they haven't thought of anything more to do, have they?"

"But haven't they, though?" bitterly replied the discouraged one. "Don't you read the papers? When there's nothing else left to drink but water, this blasted city government suddenly wakes up and raises the price of water. What chance has a poor man to live, anyhow?"

Coral's Varying Colors.

Genuine coral may be red, pink, white, blue, yellow, green or black, the last being the rarest and most highly prized. The next valuable is the red coral, which is susceptible to a high polish and is most in use for jewelry, being the coral of commerce. Corals are roughly classed under two heads, the horny corals and the lime or stone corals. To the former belong the red and black forms and the white to the latter. Red coral is chiefly found in the Mediterranean. The corals found on the Atlantic coast of Florida are the lime or stone corals which are the reef-forming corals.

GHOSTS THAT REALLY LIVE

In the Modern World Some of Them Actually Make Their Living, Though Unknown.

There are ghosts in the material as well as in the spirit world. In fact some people earn their living by acting as "ghosts." Some "ghosts" often become prominent in their "profession" despite the fact that their work is little known.

Busy painters sometimes hand their canvases over to lesser known artists to "touch up" or finish off. The artist is glad of the work, the result seems to please the public.

Minor authors often practice the same thing. A man may be writing a book on the history of Mexico—let us say. He needs certain information which he knows can be obtained from reference books. Gathering that information does not require the brains of a genius, his secretary can do that quite well, while he works up the "local color" from the bare facts obtained. It is an open secret that many writers work in this way and that ghosts are often employed to "write up" books of reminiscences of celebrities. Sometimes, the work these "authors" behind the scenes do is important. They revise novels, draw "ends" together, work up "climaxes" and give dramatic effect to "situations."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

INDIANS WELCOME AT MIAMI

Seminoles Add Picturesqueness to Well-Known Florida Resort by Their Gaudy Costumes.

Visitors to Miami are always interested in the Seminole Indians, whether seen in their camps in the Everglades paddling down the Miami river or mingling with the crowds upon the streets in their characteristic and picturesque dress, made of gaudy colored horizontal stripes of cloth.

During the summer the Indians go far out into the Everglades, but in winter months they come nearer the city, and a camp of them is usually situated on the Miami river just outside the city limits. Here in a tropical jungle, on the banks of the river, they erect their huts with thatched roofs and sides, arranged in a circle with the communal campfire in the center. The number in this camp varies from 30 to 50. They go back and forth into the glades to their truck farms for provisions and for fish and game.

The Seminoles are a peaceful tribe, and cause no trouble.

Selects Strange Home.

No bird selects stranger places for a home than the house wren, the flighty, dainty, fussy little midget of a bird that carols all day and would fight a turkey buzzard or any other thing that flies. The biological survey of the Department of Agriculture says: "Probably no bird displays greater eccentricity in the selection of a nesting place than the house wren." A hollow branch or a knothole in a post or stump are his more prosaic choices. When more esthetically inclined he affects old boots and hats hung up to scare robbers from the cherries, or takes an old copper pot or tomato can lying on the roof of a back shed; or if the gardener hangs his coat on the fence when warm weather begins, and forgets it for a few days, he may find when he returns that an enterprising wren has preempted one of his pockets and has his domestic affairs under full headway.

Demon Was Cuttlefish.

For many centuries Norway has had its legends telling frightful deeds of the kraken, a great and mysterious marine creature that was a danger to sailors on the high seas. Now scientists have found that the localities in which these folk-tales flourish are the habitat of giant squids or "cuttlefish," of the genus Architeuthis, that have frequently been cast up upon sea beaches. According to Dr. James Ritchie of the Royal Scottish museum, the largest of these on record had tentacles with a span close to 30 feet. It was nine feet nine inches long from the tip of its tail to tip of its short arms, but its tentacular arms were each 14 feet long.—New York Evening Post.

For Living Game.

Hunting and its attendant outdoor life appeals to all sportsmen and is the motive for a great use of the forest lands for that type of recreation. But there is another feature perhaps little thought of, but none the less present and important in the simple presence of living game in the landscape, and there is little question but that the value of a live animal viewed by forest visitors several times during its life, has a greater aggregate worth in the recreation scheme than the same animal dead.—American Forestry Magazine.

"No," replied the deaf but earnest suffragist. "Second wife."

NACOGDOCHES MAINTAINS HER FIRE LOSS RATING

A recent newspaper dispatch from Austin has the following, which will be of interest to Nacogdoches property owners:

For the first time this year the Texas State Fire Insurance Commission has imposed penalties on towns for having had fires during the preceding years. Instead of the usual deduction of the final rate, local agents are commanded to add the penalty to the final rate, these increased charges to continue during the twelve months ending March 1, 1923.

Under the commission's orders 3 percent is to be added to the final rate in Sweetwater because of a three-year fire loss average of .798 and Cisco is to pay 12 percent additional to the final rate as its three-year loss ratio was .927.

Huntsville was today given the 9 percent reduction, as it had a loss ratio for three years of .401. The maximum credit of 15 percent off the final rate was awarded the following towns which had loss ratios for the three years as indicated: Rosenberg .074; Cross Plains, .058; Nacogdoches, .213; Henrietta, .174; Electra, .326, and Brownsville, .070.

The Cemetery Association held quite an entertaining meeting Saturday at the home of Mrs. Chas. Hoya. All the old officers were elected again and at the close of the meeting, Mrs. Roy Gray and Mrs. Blum Mast, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. The Cemetery Association is the only civic league that Nacogdoches has ever been able to make stick, but they hold together and do great work taking care of the cemetery.

SPOILS SYSTEM AND PUBLIC

The American public down in its heart despises the party spoils system and has a man's contempt for those who work it.

Under the Harding administration it exemplifies in the rankest way that ancient disreputable method much beloved in European aristocracies.

There are more than 800,000 workers in the postal department. Not one of them can rise to the top of his profession.

But the time is coming when public sentiment will blast this method. When that time comes candidates will be apologizing for or condemning the cheapness of individual morality.

BAD HABITS SEEMINGLY SET

Famous Raider, Moeve, Though Now Engaged in Peaceful Trading, Continues Career of Damage.

Although she has been rechristened and is now devoted to peaceful pursuits, the old Moeve, once notorious as a German raider, cannot reform her bad habits.

The Moeve is now the Green Brier. She was outward bound from the Mersey to Tenerife and was proceeding along the main channel when something went wrong with her steering gear and she smashed into the Planet, one of the three lightships stationed near the mouth of the Mersey and familiar to American and all other navigators.

Although the Green Brier's captain kept his steamer's head in the lightship's breach, a flood of water poured into the Planet and she soon sank. Her crew of six narrowly escaped.

The Green Brier, under the name of Moeve and commanded by Capt. Count Nicholas von Dohna Scholtdien, for a long time terrorized passenger and cargo-carrying vessels in the Atlantic, and as a result of her operations British and allied shipping suffered extensively.

Her original name was Punga. She made her first trip to the West Indies under the British flag and Messrs. Eiders and Pyffe's ownership from Newcastle about 18 months after the armistice.

The tax burden in important countries was computed for the financial conference held at Brussels. Expressed in dollars at the rate of exchange current in the summer, the Nation's Business states, it is shown that per capita the United Kingdom pays the highest taxes of $87.00; the United States is second, with $56.00; France, third, with $34.80; and Norway, fourth, with $28.80.

With the income per capita, the economists compared the present government revenue of the latter to the former—which comes nearest to showing the relative burdens of taxes today—is lowest in the United States at 8 per cent and highest in the United Kingdom at 27 per cent.

ANNOUNCEMENT OF REMOVAL

I beg to announce that after residing for seven years at the Redland Hotel, I am now located in my new offices over Eichel's Store.

Osteopathy is not rubbing, as many think. It is first structural adjustments, not of spinal vertebrae only, but of all the tissues of the body to lift the embargo from the vital organs, so that they may function properly. It is also stimulation and inhibition, of the nerve centers to control the body chemistry. The chemicals necessary to protect and cure the human body are already there and only need to be properly directed. Osteopathic treatment does that, and no guessing about it.

Remember that all curable diseases are amenable to Osteopathic treatment. It is not limited to any certain class ailments.

Generally, one Osteopathic treatment taken in time, will abort a case of the flu, or pneumonia. Governmental statistics show, that during that terrible epidemic of flu, the Osteopaths lost less than one-half of one percent in flu, and less than ten percent in pneumonia. No other treatment showed half such a record.

In future the charge for treatment will be commensurate with the treatment required to correct the structural defect found. I wish all could know what osteopathy really is. Try to find out. Where there is no vision the people perish. A cordial invitation is extended to all to visit by new location.

Yours for better health,
DR. W. H. BRUCE

Matches in China.

One of the things that practically everybody in China can afford to buy is a match and as the population is estimated at 400,000,000, the number of matches consumed reaches a great volume. Chinese manufacturers have been making matches for thirty years, but they have never made enough for their own use so that the deficiency has been made up by Japanese and Swedish manufacturers principally. During the war when the outside supply was cut off the activity of the Chinese match-making establishments increased considerably as well as the imports of material for match making.

An old woman from Sullivan county came to a recent convention held at Indianapolis, Ind., never before had she attended a convention, and she had very strange ideas of conventions—such as to thinking that they were made up of banquets, parties, etc. But this one was just a line of lectures, lectures, lectures. And the old lady did not like it at all.

At the close of the last day she went back to her hotel, weary, disappointed and hungry. She saw another delegate and began to talk to her of the week's lectures. "No, indeed, I have not liked this," she said emphatically, "and more than that, I know I shall never be a conventional woman."—Indianapolis News.

Mast-Furnishing Tree.

In Canada and eastern United States the larch, a sturdy tree, which belongs to the pine family, often grows 50 or 60 feet high and is generally known as hackmatack, while in the Central states it is called tamarack. The European variety is even taller and has longer leaves which don't beautiful autumn tints before falling.

On account of its long, tapering form, the tree is extremely useful for masts in sailing vessels, telegraph poles, and a variety of purposes, and as it is common from the Arctic circle to the United States, it is easily found for the special use for which it is adapted.

Commercial Airlines.

The regular commercial air line has already come to stay. At present the longest passenger air service running, or rather flying, on regular air service is between London and Paris. The distance of 250 miles is flown in about three hours, often less. The fare is at the rate of a shilling a mile, or 80¢ for the trip. Even today these air passengers enjoy all the luxuries of modern travel. Nearly a score of passengers are carried in a comfortable cabin, seated in upholstered chairs. The cabin is lighted with electric candles and decorated with gilded mirrors. Several transatlantic air lines are planned. It is calculated that they can be run at a profit by charging $500 for an air passage.—Boys' Life.

Nutritious Foods.

Eggs are a complete food. Meats are direct flesh builders. Beef broth is nutritious, but chicken or mutton broth is better. Veal, when young, is good and nutritious. Pork is hard to digest and should never be given to invalids. Chicken is the most desirable in the sick room as a fowl. Chicken breast may be given even before beef or mutton. The white meat of the chicken is the easiest digested of all meats when either boiled or fried well and the bird is young. Young pigeons are next. Sweetbread (the pancreas of calf) is also of value and easily digested. Fish is easily digested but of less value in strength than meat or fowl.

First Lecturer and His Fee.

Truman H. Talley writes in the World's Work: Ralph Waldo Emerson was the first famous professional lecturer. His fees were low at first. There is a letter in existence that he wrote the Waltham committee regarding his fee: "I am willing to accept the $5 you offer me, but I must have in addition three quarts of oats for my horse." He spoke ninety-eight times in the Concord Lyceum without pay, but when the fee system began, he rapidly rose from the $5 level to $150, and in the days of his greatest popularity he received as high as $500.

Tongue Glove.

A glove for the tongue has been newly patented by Gaitley Guise of Riley, Ind. He calls it a "tongue shield," and it is designed to enable the wearer to escape the unpleasantness of castor oil or other bad tasting medicine.

The contrivance might be said to have the shape of a miniature slipper without any heel portion, but when placed over the tongue is inverted. The tongue is inserted into the "toe" part and the back part of the "sole" extends over the top of the tongue toward the throat.

The device is made of thin sheet rubber, so as to be liquid proof, and is so constructed as to fit the tongue snugly without discomfort. When medicine is taken it passes into the throat without affecting the sense of taste, so that all unpleasantness is obviated.

Earliest Coinage.

Coinage originated in Asia Minor, and as early as the time of Seven Wise Men coins were in common use, according to Mary Mills Patrick, in the National Geographic Magazine. The first coins were made of electrum which is a mixture of gold and silver, and which was found in natural form in the mountains of Lydia. There were no inscriptions on them, but emblems of religious worship and of trade, the association simply indicating that the two things which the people cared most for were religion and trade.

Mr. and Mrs. DeWitt Peterson of Jacksonville arrived in the city Sunday for a visit with homefolks. DeWitt says he is doing well in a business way and likes his new home, of course, but that hasn't lessened his affection for old Nacogdoches. They will return to Jacksonville Tuesday.

ONE THING MISSIONARY KNEW

And the Knowledge Enabled Him to Score a Direct Hit Off the Bullying Skipper.

Bishop Mitchell said the other day: "Missionaries are a good deal derided and reviled since the World war. Why try to convert the heathen, people cry, when we're still so unregenerate ourselves?"

"A Methodist missionary was traveling in a steamer along the west coast of Africa. The skipper kept making fun of him. The idea of his trying to better the heathen! Why not first better his own people—get them to stop using poison gas and all that sort of thing? Missionaries were no good, anyway. An ignorant, lazy lot."

"The missionary stood a good deal of this talk, and then one day at dinner he said to the skipper:

"We missionaries are ignorant, and you, of course, know a great deal. Selling these African waters so many years, I suppose you can tell me the length of an alligator's tongue?"

"Sure I can!" blustered the skipper. "Surest thing you know!"

"Well, then, what is it?"

"It depends," said the skipper, "on the length of the alligator."

"All right. Suppose the alligator is 15 feet long?"

"The skipper looked around the table. All the passengers bent forward, deeply interested in this lingual duel—this tongue battle, so to speak."

"If the alligator's 15 feet long," the skipper said, "its tongue will be three feet long."

"Wrong!" said the missionary, calmly. "I'm only an ignorant missionary, but I know that alligators don't have tongues."—Detroit Free Press.

SPREAD WARNING OF STORMS

Stockmen Notified of Coming Unfavorable Weather Conditions in Time to Take Precautions.

Cold waves, heavy snows, high winds and blizzards vitally interest the stock growers of the great range states of the West. The weather bureau of the United States Department of Agriculture, in its endeavor to assist the stockmen, issues warnings of these unfavorable conditions which are dangers to farm animals and to those who graze on the range. These warnings are widely distributed by telegraph and telephone to large centers, but further dissemination develops on those interested. The problem has been largely solved in some of the states, particularly Missouri, by telegraphing the warning to one central point in each county, where arrangements are made to telephone information of the warnings to each community interested.

When a warning is received stockmen arrange to graze their stock near shelter, or in such a direction from shelter that the stock will drift toward it when the anticipated severe weather comes. A modification of this service consists of sheep-shearing and lambing forecasts and warnings. In early shearing and lambing districts shearing is delayed or newly shorn sheep, ewes and young lambs are kept near suitable shelter, such as coulees, where they will receive protection when wind, snow or cold rains are expected.

Drove Popular Author Too Hard.

At a recent autograph sale in New York were several letters from O. Henry, written in the beginning of his last illness. He was always dilatory about his work and tried the patience of editors. At the last they did not understand that they were urging him beyond his strength. In one of these letters he writes:

"You are sure using plenty of 'marrasmus' on me these days. I don't see why you should think I am lying about my illness. I can show you a doctor's bill that may restore a little of your confidence in human nature. I have had a bad case of nervous insomnia as I ever want to have, and the doctor has been trying to get me sleep and relief. The telephone and all my other friends were cut off for that purpose. I got some sleep last night by the free use of sulphonal and I feel some better today. . . . My work is all gone to the devil. I am lost in a wilderness of past-due stories, but I will pull out soon."

Roadless Russia.

Russia is almost a roadless land. It is inconceivable to the foreign visitor who has ever left the beaten track of the railways in Russia how a great empire can have subsisted so long and so successfully without even a pretense at roads. The secret lies in the fact that for five or six months in the year nature herself provides roads over the greater part of Russia—admirable smooth, glossy roadways over hard-worn snow. The traffic is further cheapened over these roads by the substitution of a sledge runner for the wheel and axle. This brings the cost of land carriage as near the cheapness of water-borne freight as possible, and it is the principal reason why Russia in the Twentieth century is still a roadless land.

Tropical Fish Off Jersey.

James E. Taylor, while fishing off Cape May, N. J., a short time ago, ran into a shoal of pompano, a fish that never has been found outside of tropical waters. Taylor and his son caught nearly 100 of them. Fishermen say that pompano bring as high as $1.20 a pound in southern markets. Old inhabitants say it is a sure sign of a mild winter, as tropical fish are never caught this late north of Norfolk.

FRANK ROBBINS

Mr. Frank Robbins, affectionately known as "Uncle Frank" died early Sunday morning at the Smith Sanitarium, where he had been a patient for several months. Perhaps no death which has occurred in this community in years has caused such universal sorrow. "Uncle Frank" was everybody's friend and was beloved by all, especially the children. His kindly disposition and courteous deportment won their way into the hearts of our people, and wherever he went he met with cordial greeting.

Mr. Robbins was born in Ireland nearly 75 years ago and came to this country about the time of the breaking out of the War Between the States, enlisting in the federal army and making a good soldier. After the war he settled in Nacogdoches and immediately began making friends. Among the latter was Mr. W. E. Winston, and between the two a strong attachment developed. Mr. Winston purchased a lot in Oak Grove cemetery with the understanding that he and Mr. Robbins were to be buried side-by-side. This was done, and these old veterans, who battled on opposite sides in the greatest conflict in history, now lie close together in death.

Deceased had no family. He never engaged in business here, having means for his maintenance without labor.

Interment was made at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon, and services at the grave were conducted by Rev. Father McCarthy of the Catholic church, who paid a beautiful tribute to the dead favorite.

The honorary pallbearers were Messrs. D. Ruffs and John E. Nelson. The active pallbearers were Messrs. Greer Orton, Giles Haltom, A. H. Smith, Henry Millard, Josh Henson and Arch Buchanan.

Appleby's electric lighting plant began operations Wednesday night, for the present performing only installed service. Street lights will be installed later, according to plans in view. The power is furnished by the Frisbie garage and the current is continuous. The enterprise is known as an "isolated plant", but serves its present purpose admirably. We congratulate the good people of Appleby upon their enterprise. Thirty lights were embraced in the service accomplished Wednesday night and 20 more will be added at an early date.

The size of paper money is to remain the same, and presumably it will buy as little.

This delightful, stimulating tonic helps thin, lifeless, faded hair to grow long, thick, heavy and luxuriant.

MISS NEAL PROBABLE CANDIDATE FOR SENATE

A recent dispatch from Austin says: "There is the possibility of a woman being a member of the next senate, the first in the history of that body if it should come to pass.

Advices have been received in several state departments that Miss Margie Neal of Carthage, Panola county, will probably be a candidate for the state senate to succeed T. W. Davidson of Marshall, who is running for lieutenant governor.

Miss Neal has been active in politics in recent years and is recognized as a fluent speaker. She was a delegate to the national democratic convention in San Francisco in 1920 and was on the notification committee which went to Ohio to formally advise Governor Cox of his selection. She also served as chairman of the woman's democratic finance committee in the last campaign and has been quite active in local affairs in her section of the state. For a number of years Miss Neal was editor of the Carthage Register.

Senatorial district No. 8 embraces the counties of Harrison, Panola, Eusk and Gregg.

The new law does not become effective until April 1, 1924, but it is presumed that Senator Davidson will resign since he is a candidate for another office. If he does not resign there will be no vacancy in the Eighth District at this election, as Senator Davila is a holdover.

If Miss Neal can manage to extend her district so as to include Nacogdoches county, she is assured of a whopping vote here. Everybody in this ballwick is her friend.

MRS W. D. McCORMICK

Our people were inexpressedly shocked when it was learned Monday morning that Mrs. Fleeta (Bright) McCormick, wife of Mr. W. D. McCormick, had passed away, death coming at 10:30 o'clock.

Deceased was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Bright, and was born in Shelby county in 1888 and reared in this city. She was known and loved by all our people, many of whom were her schoolmates and girlhood companions.

She leaves besides her husband, three young children, two girls of 10 and 12 years and a boy of 8, and her parents and several brothers and one sister.

The man who kisses a girl these days is a marked one.

Watch the little folks speed home for Kellogg's Corn Flakes

It's great to see child-enthusiasm for Kellogg's; great to see every one in the family enjoy their crisp crunchiness and wonderful flavor! To sit down before a heaping bowlful of these cheery, oven-browned "sweet-hearts-of-the-corn" and some milk or cream—and fresh fruit, if it's handy—is just about the very last word in appetizing appeal! And, your good taste will prove that!

Kellogg's Corn Flakes ought to be superior—they are the original Corn Flakes! Kellogg's are never tough or leathery; never hard to eat; never a disappointment!

Be certain to get Kellogg's—the kind in the RED and GREEN package—because none are genuine without the signature of W. K. Kellogg, originator of Toasted Corn Flakes!

Don't forget, KELLOGG'S Corn Flakes are made by the folks who gave you the JUNGLELAND Moving Pictures. Coupons inside every package of KELLOGG'S Corn Flakes explain how you can obtain another copy of JUNGLELAND.

TEXAS COTTON ACREAGE INCREASED 5 PERCENT

The cotton acreage of Texas will be increased 5 percent this year, according to an estimate by the Texas Industria Congress published a few days ago. The increase for Nacogdoches county will be about 25 percent.

According to the same authority, only 19 counties will show a decreased acreage, while 18 counties report practically the same acreage as last year.

In 1919 there were 11,522,537 acres planted to cotton in Texas, the total yield being 2,971,757 bales, or a little more than one-fourth of a bale to the acre. The average for the United States was .34 of a bale to the acre.

Nacogdoches county planted 58,489 acres to cotton, the yield being .13 of a bale to the acre. Instead of a 25 percent increase, the farmers of this county would probably have done better to reduce the acreage by 50 percent. There is every reason to believe that the smaller crop would show a bigger profit than the larger.

The News learns that the father of Mr. Navarro Cox, the young and popular clerk at the Bonner Hotel, died at his home in Nacogdoches at 11 o'clock today. The deceased was a highly respected citizen of our sister city, and his demise is greatly deplored by all who knew him. The many Lufkin friends of the bereaved young man mentioned extend sincere sympathy in his affliction.—Lufkin News, 17th.

You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup.

A large crowd attended the basketball game at the school campus last Friday, and saw one of the best games of the season. The high school team of this city was defeated by the Nacogdoches high school team by the score of 14 to 12. It is reported that this is the first time our girls have been defeated since 1916.—Garrison News, 17th.

Oscar Matthews, vice president and general manager of the Nacogdoches Grocery Company, was a visitor to the city yesterday, and after a drive through the residence section where he saw on every hand houses under construction from the neat bungalow to the $18,000 residence of W. D. Newsom, expressed himself as astonished beyond measure at the building program now in progress in the old town. He stated that no oil town was building faster than Lufkin, and that such growth being a steady and permanent one spoke volumes for the future of our city. Coming from such a source, for Mr. Matthews is recognized as one of the brightest and most successful business men in East Texas, the compliment is doubly appreciated and we are not backward in assuring him of our appreciation of his words of praise.—Lufkin News, 17th.

The influenza appears to be increasing at a distressing rate, though there is comfort in the reflection that it is of a very mild type. School attendance has been seriously curtailed, both as to teachers and pupils, but the usual activities have not been abandoned as yet, and there is ground for hope that it may not be necessary to close the school, as has been done in other localities.

WHAT OUR FIREMEN HAVE DONE FOR NACOGDOCHES
 Statist Fire Insurance Commission Austin, Texas. March 13, 1922.
 Captain I. L. Sturdevant, Fire Chief, Nacogdoches, Texas:
 Dear Mr. Sturdevant—Allow me to congratulate you, as well as Fire Marshal L. I. Muller and the members of the Nacogdoches Fire Department, for confining the fire losses in your city to such extent that you have again been favored with the maximum credit of 15 percent on the final insurance rates in Nacogdoches. Trusting that the same enviable record will be maintained and with best wishes and kindest personal regards to all, I am,
 Yours truly,
 E. R. Miller,

W. M. COX

Mr. William M. Cox, one of our best known and most highly respected citizens, died at 11 o'clock Friday morning, at his home in Nacogdoches, aged 64 years.

Mr. Cox was stricken with apoplexy a short time ago, and while it was known his condition was serious, the news of his passing away was a shock to the community.

Deceased was born and reared in Nacogdoches county and all his life spent here. An honorable man, he won and held the esteem of his neighbors, and his integrity was never questioned. The close of such a life should not be viewed with grief. He has simply gone to his reward.

He is survived by his widow and ten children, Zeno Cox, Jr., John Cox, Mrs. Dolph Teutsch, Rho Cox, Anna Cox Williams, Navarro Cox, Blanche Cox and Anna Cox. One girl is dead. John and George Cox, brothers, and Mrs. Tom Blackshear, a sister, also survive him.

CO. C INSPECTED

Lieutenant Colonel W. S. Faulkner of San Antonio was here Wednesday and at 2 o'clock inspected Co. C, our local military organization, and expressed himself as being much gratified at the fine showing the boys made, saying some very complimentary things about them.

At 7:30 Wednesday night a number of our business men met Colonel Faulkner at the Redland Hotel, partook of a toothsome luncheon and heard some valuable suggestions regarding the maintenance of the company at this place, telling of the advantages to the community of such an organization and urging his hearers to get behind it with their moral and what little financial support might be required to make the armory an inviting place to the boys and visitors who might drop in. The government, of course, pays the rent on the armory and all other usual expenses of maintenance, but the place should be made so attractive that members of the company and their relatives and friends would find it a pleasant recreation point. The cost of this would be small, and our people should be entirely willing to shoulder it. Let's treat the boys right.

TRIBUTE OF RESPECT

Resolutions on death of Comrade J. S. Doughtie.
 To Camp Henry Raguet, No. 620, U. C. V., we, your committee appointed to draft resolutions on the death of Comrade John S. Doughtie, who departed this life on the 25th day of June, 1921, beg leave to submit the following report:

Captain Doughtie was raised near Eufaula, in Alabama. His father was born in April, 1847, died in his 75th year. He, in his 17th year, enlisted in the Eufaula Battery Light Artillery, which was attached to Gen Joseph E. Johnston's army. The first fighting in which the battery participated was in the battle of Little Rivers, Chickamauga, which gave its name to one of the bloodiest engagements of modern times. This said that the battery although of light guns, did valorous and heroic fighting throughout the whole of two days' strife, the 19th and 20th of September, 1863, every man of the battery stood firmly by his post. This two days of fighting brought the ratio of losses to the high-water mark, surpassing in carnage by about three to one, of the bloodiest fields of the Napoleonic age in Europe. This strife is one illustration and explanation of the "personal character and consecrated courage of the soldier of the South." Comrade Doughtie remained with his comrades from this first engagement to the end, receiving his discharge at the surrender of Johnston's army in Greensboro, North Carolina. Captain Doughtie was a faithful and devoted member of the U. C. V. organization. For several years he faithfully served this camp as commander and adjutant, was elected commander at its organization in 1902. He was endowed to the fullest, with the chivalry principles, sentiments and traditions of the South. A typical Southerner, and, as was common with the Southern born and raised, a great devotee and lover of his country and its cause, chivalrous and brave.

The camp has lost a valuable number, the country a patriotic, God fearing and worthy citizen.

Respectfully submitted,
 I. N. Dill,
 T. B. Barker.

IMPORTANT ORDER

The county commissioners at their meeting the first of the week made an order which will be hailed with satisfaction by large and small stock raisers of the county. This order instructed the tax assessor to assess range cattle at $8 per head, a reduction of nearly one-half the sum at which they have been assessed in recent years. This order was prompted by the fact that the price of cattle has fallen almost to the zero point, there being no demand and no buyers for them. It was a fair and just ruling and will be a big help to those of our farmers who have cattle on the ranges.

J. H. FURLOW

Mr. J. H. Furlow died at the home of his son, Mr. Abe Furlow, near Douglass, Wednesday night at 10 o'clock. He had been ill many months with abscesses on his lungs.

He was born in Georgia and later moved to Arkansas, where he married Miss Donie Tillery. To this union ten children were born; nine of them after they moved to Texas in 1879. Mrs. Furlow died sixteen years ago and five of the children have died.

Many relatives, friends and his children, Abe, R. J. and Shelton Furlow, Mrs. S. P. Collins and Mrs. G. R. Franklin survive him. He will be buried at 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon at Gravel Ridge cemetery.

Mr. John Orton, who suffered a stroke of apoplexy several weeks ago, has so far recovered as to be able to come downtown, where he has received hearty greetings from his many friends. Everybody is glad to see "Uncle John" up again.

CLASS MUSICAL

The Young People's Bible Class of the Methodist church gave a musical Saturday evening, March 18th, at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Stegall, Miss Edith Lloyd, leader of recitation, as hostess, assisted by Mrs. Stegall.

Quite a number of pleasant musical numbers were rendered and enjoyed by all.

Piano Solo, Miss Mamie Middlebrook, To Spring.
 Piano Log, Miss Carolyn Sturdevant, Go Ask Your Ma Why.
 Talk, Miss Louine Loden, Leader in service.

Piano solo, Miss Gladys Hardeman, Miserere.
 Duett, Mrs. Sturdevant and Mrs. Stegall, One More Day.

It goes without saying the encores to each number were enjoyed equally as well as the original. A reading by Miss Carolyn Sturdevant, "The Whole World Must Wait While the Women Powder Their Noses." More truth than poetry in this.

One enjoyable feature, aside from the musical numbers was the contest of questions and answers hereto with your initials and first letter of your name. Had there been a prize offered for the winner, Mrs. McKnight would have easily won. The questions:

What is your name?
 What is your favorite occupation?
 What is your favorite sport?
 What is your favorite dish?
 What is your pet aversion?

The Young People's Bible Class is registered with the original organization of Wesley Bible Classes of Nashville, Tenn. The outstanding features of these Wesley Bible Classes is that they mean to the Sunday-school just what the general conferences mean to the church. There is also no limit to the wonderful work that is being done by these classes throughout the country and especially the South.

Local officers—President, Miss Louine Loden; vice president, Mrs. Robert Cason; Secretary-Treasurer, Miss Edna Earl Dent; teacher, Mrs. Forest Gee.

Committees—Leader in Devotionals, Miss Louine Loden; Leader in Service, Mrs. William Calvert; Leader in Recreation, Miss Edith Lloyd.

The class has adopted the graded system, which means that promotions will take place as rapidly as the individual members advance in their work. These advancements must be replenished by new members. Come and join; you are wanted as dweleome.

This class should grow to at least 100. Are you one?

Miss Era Mae Smelley of Mexia was in the city Thursday morning en route to Glenfawn for a visit with homefolks. She reports the situation quiet at Mexia, the recent experience of martial law having a good effect upon the conditions in that enterprising city, which had rather fallen under the influence of the tough element always congregating in new oil towns. Miss Smelley will return shortly to Mexia, with which city she is delighted.

THRIVING BIBLE CLASS

The Young Men's Class at the Queen Theater had a good number present Sunday, but nothing compared to what they intend it to be later on. A number of the regulars were absent on account of the flu, but the class intends to have a hundred in a short time.

There were 62 present Sunday and all seemed to be pleased with the service.

The boys are planning a great "Mother's Day." They will have a special program for the occasion and intend to have an attendance that day of 150. Every member is going to be there, and with a pal.

Their services are growing in interest and on next Sunday they are going to have a nice program beside the lesson.

Why Use South American Wood.

The Pennsylvania railroad, owing to the unprecedented cost of railroad ties, has decided to investigate the adaptability of the hard woods of Central and South America for this purpose. It is announced. Normally the Pennsylvania system uses from 5,000,000 to 6,000,000 ties annually. The average net cost has risen fully 100 per cent since the beginning of the war. Furthermore, white oak, which the company regards as the most desirable wood for ties, is becoming scarcer. Therefore, the company has inquired under way to determine the comparative cheapness and durability of southern hard woods for railroad ties.

Criminal's Fatal Slip.

A curious error, due to the criminal's ignorance of science, actually kept the evidence of one murder intact for 12 months. The murderer, after killing his victim, a woman, placed the body in a dry cellar and covered it with chloride of lime. He thought the lime would destroy the identity of the body, whereas it did exactly the opposite. The body was in such a good state of preservation a year after that the medical experts had no difficulty in establishing through it the vital clue to the crime and the criminal. If the man only had mixed some water with the lime he might have escaped detection.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Airmen Find Volcanic Crater.

Discovery of a huge volcanic crater surrounded by a great lava lake, in the Mojave desert, has been made by D. D. France and John G. Montijo aviators and pilots of the plane known as the Desert Bat. Flying over the wastes of the desert the two airmen, mapping a region little known to man, sighted the huge crater not far from Latic. Although the dry lava lake is shown on maps of the desert the fact that a volcanic crater existed in the region was unknown until the airmen reported their find on their return.—Los Angeles Express.

How to Check Accounts.

When checks come back from the bank a good way to straighten out accounts for the month is to paste the checks back on the stubs. The returned check is in itself a receipt and takes care of that part of the business.

The large checkbooks having three stubs on a page are a little easier to handle than the small books. A rubber band snapped around the returned checks keeps them from the blank part of the book and causes no inconvenience.—Exchange.

Brown—That's nothing; Bill Bluffum, the lawyer, still has the first one he was ever retained on.

Not Exactly Church Music.

Reverent Catholics of Dunkirk are demanding an investigation why the Dunkirk cathedral chimes, instead of playing the Angelus, are now calling the faithful to worship by exhilarating jazz tunes, with fox trot music predominating.

Fox trotting is not especially rampant in Dunkirk, but the cathedral bell ringer must have had his vacation in Paris, for, according to his astounded listeners, he has been playing recently with a pure Montmartre touch, not missing a single note.—London Mail

Surprising the Empress.

An amusing story is told by Augustin Flou in his reminiscences of the Empress Eugenie.

One day, when she was lying in a hammock, an over-zealous aide-de-camp (it was not his first blunder) noticed an old Japanese parasol which was lying long forgotten at the foot of a tree, and which had become, by the accumulation of years, the receptacle of a varied collection of living and dead insects.

Advancing with the movements of a slave of the harem fanning a sultana, the officer opened the parasol, and a perfect deluge of grubs and caterpillars rained upon the empress, who uttered a shriek of terror and sprang out of the hammock like lightning.

No Cork Wasted now.

The best cork has hitherto come from Spain, but the richest forests of fair grade cork are now in Sardinia. High prices are now paid for cork that was not salable a few years ago, for even the refuse is valuable now in making conglomerate for building and for insulating refrigerators, cork being the best non-conductor of heat and sound.

Can Hook the Filivver Now.

The latest thing in pawnshops is one for motorcars. Heretofore pawnshops have been reserved for the class that want to put up their watch or dress suit, but now, with so many workmen owning filivvers, those who are on the inside of the pawning business decided that a similar institution for motor cars would be had.

The motorcar pawnshop is located near Columbus Circle, in the heart of "Gasoline Row." Here, when the motor owner is short of ready money, he may drive his "fit" and place it in "hook." If he fails to pay back the loan with interest the car is sold to the second hand. All in all, it is said to be the most profitable business for those pioneers in the pawning line, and they always have a hundred or more cars of all kinds and conditions on hand.—New York Sun.

W. M. COX

An imperfect list of the surviving relatives of the late W. M. Cox was published in Friday's Sentinel, and in justice to the family as well as the paper we reproduce the article with the necessary corrections:

Mr. William M. Cox, one of our best known and most highly respected citizens, died at 11 o'clock Friday morning, at his home in Nacogdoches, aged 64 years.

Mr. Cox was stricken with apoplexy a short time ago, and while it was known his condition was serious, the news of his passing away was a shock to the community.

Deceased was born and reared in Nacogdoches county and all his life spent here. An honorable man, he won and held the esteem of his neighbors, and his integrity was never questioned. The close of such a life should not be viewed with grief. He has simply gone to his reward.

He is survived by his widow and ten children, Zeno Cox, Jim Cox, W. R. Cox, Mrs. Dolph Teutsch, Vernon Cox, Mrs. Dan Williams, Rho Cox, Navarro Cox, Miss Blanche Cox, Aaron Cox. One girl is dead, John and George Cox, brothers, and Mr. Tom Blackshear, a sister, also survive him.

Mr. Arthur Wilkerson of Rusk is in the city for a few weeks' rest and visit with relatives and friends. Arthur has been "under the weather" of late, but it is hoped a stay in the best town in the country will speedily restore him.

Mr. J. O. Ray, who was struck by an automobile at Main and Fredonia streets Sunday, was able to be out Monday, his injuries being not serious. A Lufkin car was responsible for the accident, it was said.

Fire in a pile of shavings at the Bonita mill caused the turning in of an alarm which called out the fire company at 12:45 Tuesday afternoon. The flames had been extinguished when the firemen reached the scene.

George Floirnoy, who recently stole an auto truck from his employer, G. F. Baxter, and was arrested in Cherokee county the day following the theft, pleaded guilty in district court Wednesday morning and was given a sentence of two years in the penitentiary.

The radiophone mentioned a few days ago has been purchased and will be here in about 30 days. An earlier delivery is impossible because of the rush of orders to the manufacturer. The instrument will be installed in the high school auditorium as soon as it arrives, and a series will be established at other points in the city to which it may be moved when desired. This radiophone will have a wave-length of 2,000 miles, enabling people to sit in the auditorium here and listen to music, speeches, sermons, etc., anywhere in the United States. The manufacturers will furnish programs for various happenings, telling of the locality where originating and the time for "listening in." It will be great.

A burning flue at the home of Mr. Will Hamilton, on Starr avenue, called out the fire department about 6 o'clock Tuesday morning. There was no damage.

A number of young people had a weller roast on Black Branch Monday night and acted a good time. Mrs. A. H. Smith acted as chaperone.
