DON'T LET POLITICIANS BREAK UP FRIENDSHIP

We once knew two veterans of the war between the states. One had followed Lee; the other Grant. For many years after the war they had been closely associated. Yet never did they discuss—which was often—the right of the Southern States to withdraw from the Union without the discussion becoming scrimonious.

After each discussion they parted, each swearing never to speak to the other.

But their anger was fleeting, their friendship firm. When the one who had worn the Grey was stricken by a fatal disease, no mother over the sick bed of her only child was tenderer in attentions than the man who had worn the Blue. Either would have given his life for the other.

Which leads us to Texas politics:

The race for the United States Senatorship is over. Between neighbor and neighbor that race has caused sharp differences of opinion; it has caused spurts of hot anger.

But these two veterans wear firm friends despite their disputes, so we hope that Texas neighbors will remain neighborly despite the clash of political differences. Let those spurts of anger melt and not solidify.

You know, all the political races in the world, according to our way of thinking, are scarcely worth losing your friend over. Whether Biffkins or Bluffkins adorns some public place is not so important as whether you keep your heart pure from the poison food of anger.

Be like those veterans: Have the courage of your convictions. Favor some one candidate in the race and the things for which he stands. That is to be a citizen who takes proper interest in politics.

But after the battle of the ballots is over, remember that though your friend has differed with you in politics, you have chosen him for your friend, not because he is for this or that party, or this or that office seeker, but because you have found him possessed of those qualities that appeal to your mind and to your heart.

One of the most affecting episodes in the Bible is not who was chosen to lead the children of Israel out of the wilderness; but one of the most affecting episodes in the Bible is the friendship of David and Jonathan.

Don't let politicians stain and soil one of the purest things on this earth called the earth. Keep your friends.—Ex.

ROAD BUILDERS TO MEET

With an organization that promises to be one hundred percent effective in perfecting arrangements not under way, the Thirteenth American Good Roads Congress and Fourteenth National Good Roads Show to be held in Chicago January 15th to 19th next will by far eclipse in program and attendance any good roads meeting in the world. Both events will be held under the auspices of the American Road Builders' Association, the largest and oldest good roads organization in the country. Road builders to the number of 11,000 will hold their twentieth annual convention in Chicago during the congress. Many prominent speakers will attend, including high officials of the Federal government, several governors, hundreds of state highway officials and mayors of American and Canadian cities as well as thousands of engineers, contractors and good roads enthusiasts.

It is the intention this year to separate the congress and show by holding the former at the Congress Hotel and the latter at the Chicago coliseum. This arrangement will obviate the necessity of shutting down the operating machinery during the sessions and eliminate the noise that has proved so annoying to speakers and delegates heretofore.

According to President Wasser of the American Road Builders' Association, "the program for the congress, as it is being worked out by the Program Committee, will be the exact reversal of our previous ones. Instead of avoiding controversial subjects as in the past the program next year will be made up almost entirely of controversial subjects of interest to the road-building movement as a whole. This, we believe, will greatly increase the interest in the program and will provoke highly interesting and instructive oral discussions from the floor."

Beware of Poison

In the western mining camps of Bret Harte's stories of roistering gold digger or cowboy, breezing into a saloon, would summon the assembled company to the bar and jocularly bid them, "Nominate your poison."

Such an invitation, couched in those words, hardly would be a joke nowadays. In many cases the designation "poison", as applied to the beverages dispensed in liquor shops today, is the literal truth.

This is brought home by a report which has just been issued on the ravages which have been inflicted by wood alcohol during the first six months of 1922. The information cannot be dismissed lightly as the propaganda of "drys". It has been given out by the National Committee on the Prevention of Blindness.

It is stated that from January to June wood alcohol caused 130 deaths and 22 cases of blindness in the 21 states from which figures have been obtained. Moreover, it is added, these figures do not begin to measure the total loss of life or sight through the drinking of bootlegger's whiskey containing wood alcohol, since many relatives and friends of the victims of wood alcohol try to conceal the real cause of death, and in some cases succeed. And as the deterioration of sight resulting from wood alcohol poisoning often is a gradual process, it is not easy to obtain accurate records of the total number of cases of blindness and partial loss of vision resulting from this cause.

MONEY AND WEALTH

The Russian soviet government has been taking stock and it announces that there are more than 271,000,000,000,000 rubles in circulation. This would make money plentiful were not living costs 257,000 times greater than in 1913. These figures are beyond human comprehension. They are so great that they mean nothing and a ruble in value is so small that its finiteness is irreducible. It is estimated that the total value of gold mined since the human race roughed the precious metal amounts to only $18,000,000,000. Had Russia all of it it would not provide an adequate redemption fund for the immense volume of rubles, were they rated at the pre-war and pre-soviet value.

As worthless as is the Ruble Russia has things of value. She has wealth in the soil, but communists want to get it without digging for it. She has mines, but it takes work to make them productive. As an alternative to the disagreeable task of toll and the bourgeois trait of thrift the land is buried under an avalanche of paper rubles in an effort to circumvent economic laws. In a decade the incredible and the impossible have been realized in Russia.

TEXAS CITIES GROW AS COMMUNICATION DEVELOPS

"Public telephones at the Capitol Hotel, Hutchin's House, Sabbath's Store and Hillstrom's drug store" is the way the opening paragraph of the telephone directory space reserved for Houston in the Arkansas-Texas directory read in 1895.

Interesting light on the growth of Houston is shed by comparison with the present Houston telephone directory. It has six times as many telephone stations listed as the combined states of Arkansas and Texas boasted some 25 years ago. From 650 telephones in 1895 the Houston exchange has grown to 25,000 stations, which is more than many cities with double the population of Houston. Houston now has more telephones than some entire nations, Roumania, Chile and several others having fewer than this one city of Texas.

Increase of 5,000 telephone stations in Houston since January, 1921, has been the greatest of any city in Texas during the same period. The new Houston directories if stacked one upon another would make five stacks as high as the Rice Hotel in Houston.

A FAIR ON WHEELS

The Southern Pacific-Texas A. & M. College Demonstration Train will in reality be a moving agricultural and home economic exposition on wheels, according to J. I. McGregor, agricultural agent of the Southern Pacific Lines. Those in charge of the train have been very successful in getting the cream of the prize winning livestock and agricultural exhibits from all the large fairs of the state, including the Dallas Fair and the Waco Cotton Palace and Exposition for exhibition and demonstration on the train. Due to crop failures, wet weather, dry weather, and other conditions out of control of man, many of our farmers and their families are unable to attend any of the large fairs of the state, so one of the purposes of this train is to take the fair to the farmers and their families. In addition it will afford many rural high school agricultural students opportunity to see at first hand, prize winning stock and farm products, and also opportunity to hear specialists from the Texas A. & M. College discuss these subjects. Each school superintendent in each town through which the train will pass is cordially invited to bring his school children down "in masse" and preference will be given them in going through the train and seeing the exhibits, and hearing the lectures. All members of the Boys' and Girls' Clubs in the different counties will be given special recognition, and every effort put forth to make their visit interesting and instructive.

The farm women are not forgotten. A special car has been set aside, and is being equipped by the Home Demonstration Department at the A. & M. College, to show all the modern conveniences that may be enjoyed in the farm home, and at no or very little additional cost, such as running water, kitchen equipment and arrangement, methods of cooking, canning, preserving, sewing, making make-over garments, etc.

Then, of course, the farmer, as the father, husband and head of the house, is interested in all the departments. However, every effort is being made to arouse his enthusiasm for better farming.

HISTORY OF LIGHTS

Here are some interesting facts in regard to the progress of lighting. The earliest form of lighting was a wood fire in a cave.

5000 B. C.—Torches or lighted splinters placed in holders of stone or clay.

300 B. C.—Lamps, made of brass or bronze, became highly artistical.

50 B. C.—Romans used rushes soaked in grease—torches of the middle.

300 A. D.—Innocentians introduced candles in Constantinople.

400 to 1700 A. D.—The candle, tallow or wax, vies with the lamps and lanterns.

1700—Oil lamps, with wicks, began to be used.

1780—Oil lamps are equipped with round wicks and glass chimney.

1800—Gas lighting perfected, but candle still most universal.

1850—Discovery of petroleum, revolutionizing oil lamp lighting.

1879—Edison, apostle of light, produces incandescent electric lamp.

1885—Auer Von Welsbach produced incandescent gas mantle.

1895—Incandescent electric light made with carbon filament in glowing use.

1922—Incandescent electric light, using Tungsten filament in high state of perfection.

What will be the next?

BIG TIME AT LUFKIN

The formal opening of the Hotel Angelina at Lufkin occurred Friday night and among the speakers was Judge S. W. Blount of this city, of whose talk the Daily News of Saturday had the following to say:

"Hon. S. W. Blount of Nacogdoches, a native of the town of San Augustine, discussed 'Old and New Times in East Texas.' He gave much valuable information relating to the hardships of the pioneers of this particular section of the state, telling of the first visit to Angelina county. As an illustration of the advancement made since 1876 Judge Blount stated that his first investment in lands was one purchased a tract of land in Angelina county, consisting of 2,200 acres, which cost him a cent and a half per acre. He later sold this land to Kountz Brothers of New York for fifty cents an acre. This same land today comprises a portion of the Gallup holdings in Angelina county and is easily worth $200,000. The talk of Judge Blount was both entertaining and instructive."

Other speakers who made impromptu responses were Messrs. Sam and Eli Weirner and A. J. Peavy of Shreveport, Guy Blount of Nacogdoches and our own J. H. Kurth.

After the conclusion of this portion of the program the tables were quickly cleared from the dining room, and to the entrancing strains of music by the Rotary Orchestra of Nacogdoches, dancing was indulged in until about 1 o'clock, all agreeing the program throughout was one of the most pleasant in the history of Lufkin.

LUMBER VAR TIPS BY STATES

Arkansas is the leading lumber state in the production of red gum, hickory, ash and sycamore. California leads in redwood, white fir and sugar pines. Louisiana is first in yellow pine, cypress and tupelo. Colorado is at the top in lodgepole pine, Idaho in larch (tamarack), Montana in balsam, Minnesota in white pine, Mississippi in cottonwood, Missouri in walnut, Oregon in western yellow pine, Tennessee in oak, Washington in Douglas fir, spruce and cedar, West Virginia in chestnut and yellow cedar, Wisconsin in hemlock, birch, elm and basswood.—Information Bureau, National Lumber Manufacturers Association.

Mortality tables never seem infallible when one is waiting for a rich uncle to die.

LET CONTRACT FOR BRIDGE OVER RIVER

Lufkin News, 16th.

The Commissioners Courts of Angelina and Nacogdoches counties have entered into a contract for the erection of a bridge over the Angelina river on the road leading beyond Ewing after the said road turns off the Marion Ferry. The contract for the Angelina side of the bridge was awarded to L. C. Sayers.

A wooden bridge is to be constructed, both Angelina and Nacogdoches counties to bear the costs jointly. Wednesday Commissioners W. L. Evans, J. H. Scroggins and T. F. Richardson, representing Angelina county, met at the river with county commissioners of Nacogdoches county and arranged an agreement. The road leading to the river at that point is a plain dirt community road but an outlet across the river beyond the Bohlsen lumber mill was deemed necessary. The commissioners court was in session and allowing claims Thursday morning when a News reporter called.

It is hardly likely that the American Legion will be satisfied with the Harding reply to their criticism of Dr. Sawyer's connection with the hospitalization board, since it does not answer the Legion's original objection and is simply another evidence of the fine but questionable loyalty that drives the president frequently to the defense of one or another of his appointees. He is willing to assume responsibility for the acts of the doctor for the board, but willingness alone does not cure whatever condition obtains that must be remedied.

The job of hospitalizing former service men is one that demands executive ability of high order and tact and fairness in high degree. But above all it demands all the time and attention of a director endowed originally with these qualifications. The Legion's criticism of Dr. Sawyer was impersonal. It did not concern itself with the man's professional qualifications which may or may not be equal to the elaborate task. It did insist that Dr. Sawyer in his capacity of White House physician is quite unable to leave Washington and inspect the working of his hospitalization plan. That is a legitimate objection which an over-worked president does not

WHO WAS THE LOSER

A banker while going home to dinner saw a ten dollar bill on the curbstone. He picked it up and noticed the number and went home to dinner. While home his wife remarked that the butcher had sent a bill amounting to $10. The only money he had was the bill he found which he gave to her and she paid the butcher. The butcher paid it to a farmer for a calf, the farmer to a merchant who paid it to a washwoman and she, owing the bank a note for $10, went to the bank and paid the note. The banker recognized the bill as the one he had found and which by this time had paid $50 worth of debts. On careful examination he found it to be a counterfeit. It weighed ten pounds and was a straw hat.

"Since taking Tanlac I am on the job every day, have gained several pounds and feel better than I have in years," declared David L. Hughes, 2602 S. 11th street, St. Louis, Mo., employee of the American Refrigerator Transit Co.

"I suffered from stomach trouble two years and got so I could hardly eat a thing but what it felt like a lump of lead in my stomach. Gas bloated me until I was in misery for hours. I had terrible headaches, awful pains across the small of my back and was so run down I could hardly drag around."

RAYMOND BURGESS' BODY FOUND THIS AFTERNOON

From Friday's Daily.
The body of Raymond Burgess, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Burgess, was found at 1:15 o'clock this afternoon by grappling irons operated from a boat occupied by Messrs. Tom Maroney and Billy Wortham. The body was brought up about 25 feet from the point where the boy's clothing had been left on the bank. It was in about 9 feet of water, and the spot had been sounded perhaps a thousand times by the searchers. The grappling iron caught the front of his shirt. The Tucker-Sitton ambulance was sent to the scene and had not returned when this was written.

The iron with which the body was raised was made in a blacksmith shop here Thursday night and taken to the lake.

For 48 hours searchers, working in relays, had sought the young man's remains. Practically every family in the city and surrounding country had a representative on the spot to render whatever aid he might. We have never seen men work so tirelessly. It was the touch of nature which makes the whole world kin.

RAYMOND BURGESS

Funeral services for Raymond Burgess, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Burgess, who was drowned in Blount's Lake Wednesday and whose body was recovered Friday afternoon following 48 hours of ceaseless search, were held in the Methodist church at 5:30 Friday afternoon in the presence of an audience which filled the room to capacity. Brief service by Rev. E. G. Cooke, the pastor, a prayer, a song, and a minute talk by Rev. M. C. Johnson of the Main Street Presbyterian church, were followed by interment in Oak Grove cemetery at 5:45. The pallbearers were former schoolmates of the dead boy, and the grief shown by them was shared by every one in the house. Leaving the church, a large party wended its way to the cemetery, where, in the glow of automobile headlights, Mr. Cooke recited the beautiful ritualistic service of his church for the dead, and the remains of one of the best of the community's young men were lowered to their last resting place.

It was a sorrowful time, and the heart shrinks from contemplating the agony of the devoted parents, brothers and sisters, whose loved one was taken from them so suddenly and tragically. May the bruised hearts find comfort at the feet of Him who never yet has failed to hear when one of the least of his stricken children has cried to him for solace from earthly ills.

Every night for two years, Raymond was at the writer's door in the performance of his duties, and we ever found him kindly and obliging. This daily contact had developed a warm attachment for the courteous boy, and our heart aches with those of the smitten family for the loss of their splendid son and brother.
