CLUES FOUND IN FORT WORTH MURDER CASE

DALLAS, July 14.—The Dallas Dispatch today said department of justice agents were investigating a report that O. D. Stevens, named as the leader of the gang which did away with three men in Fort Worth, killed an associate two years ago. The justice agents were advised by Mrs. "Curly" Woodruff that her husband disappeared two years ago after he had had some dealings with Stevens. The woman, now believed to be a resident of Oklahoma, told the agents she was positive Stevens was guilty of the slaying at the time, but that she was fearful of advising officers.

Three victims of a triple slaying here ordered saddles and elaborately decorated chaps a few hours before they were slain, Sheriff J. R. Wright learned today, as officers sought to trace the men's movements prior to their deaths. According to the information given him by a bootmaker, Wright said, each of the three men, Jack Sturdivant, J. B. Rutherford and Harry Rutherford, Saturday ordered $85 saddles and chaps and told him they would have the money Monday.

Officers considered this bit of evidence important on the belief it would uphold their theory the three men were slain Saturday night when they made a last demand for $9,000 as their share of the $70,000 loot taken in a postal robbery here.

Meanwhile police went forward with questioning four men held in the slaying as attorneys for the men prepared to attempt to obtain their release from jail through habeas corpus proceedings. The hearing has been set for tomorrow.

Sheriff Recovered Auto Before It Had Been Stolen

The sheriff's department is so zealous and efficient in running down car thieves and in recovering stolen cars that the members of the department got themselves in a position Thursday night that caused them to wonder if they, themselves, had stolen a car.

Chicago's Underworld Is Divided In Four Gangs; Two of Bomb Era

Editor's Note: This is the second of a series of articles on racketeering in American cities.
By C. C. NICOLET
United Press Staff Correspondent (copyright 1933 by United Press)
The senate racket investigating committee will find, when it turns its searchlight on Chicago, that the city's underworld affairs are divided into four gangs, two of which present the prospect of old-fashioned boom era gunplay as the big money days come back. Already the pickup in spoils is noticeable. Forty concessions at A Century of Progress exposition are owned by gangsters. The swarm of exposition visitors has brought ready cash back to the city. As the profits grow the incentive to fight grows also—and the Roger Touhy mob is casting long eyes at the major share of loot collected by the smoother, far less tough Capone syndicate.

A BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

THEY SHALL NOT BE WEARY: They that wait upon the Lord shall renew their strength; they shall mount up with wings as eagles; they shall run, and not be weary; and they shall walk, and not faint.—Isaiah 40: 31.

GRAFTERS WILL BE WATCHED BY ICKES AND HIS AIDES

Harold Ickes is secretary of the interior. He is chairman of the cabinet board in charge of the public works measure. Congress set aside $3,300,000,000 for self liquidating projects. Harold Ickes is said to be a man of action. He was a republican leader until 1928.

He refused to travel with the Hoover parade. He voted for Alfred E. Smith and Joseph Taylor Robinson. In 1931 he declared for Franklin D. Roosevelt as the choice of independents everywhere for the office of president of the United States. He is a man of wealth. He does not believe in "honest graft." He believes that public office is a sacred trust. His latest announcement is interesting. He is pledged to put forth every effort to guard against corruption and graft in distributing the huge fund.

He has promised a close survey "to hold contracts down to a legitimate profit and insure the taxpayers a dollar's worth of value for every dollar spent." These are his words:

"The administration realizes that it would be impossible for it to allow the money of the people to be expended recklessly and extravagantly merely on the plea that it was being spent to make work. The more money that is wasted the less there will be to spend on labor." Secretary Ickes is in charge of the cabinet board. He has given the lie to the story that "insistence upon sound financial backing for each project might be relaxed in order to speed distribution of the public works fund."

It is well for the people to be reminded that this is not gift money. All loans must be paid—in coming time. There is a very low interest rate—4 per cent. All down the ages the grafters have been in evidence when it came to the distribution of huge sums of money issued by governments and those who believe in the square deal, in or out of office should be on guard to protect their own pockets from the raiders who believed that there was such a juicy morsel as "honest graft" for those who knew how to practice the game.

ANOTHER ORGANIZATION OF GOOD PRODUCERS

Organization appears to be the order of the day. Poultry and egg dealers of Texas organized the Southwestern Poultry and Egg Dealers association and formulated a code for operation of the industry in Texas under the national recovery act. In the near future a meeting will be held at Dallas with representatives of Arkansas, Louisiana and Oklahoma associations to form a code for Southwestern area. All of which is a reminder that the hen is the best dividend producer in the land and fried chicken "done brown with gravy," is a dish fit for the gods.

FORMER PRO AGENT ROBBED OF A FAT PURSE

A former prohibition agent in the city of Beaumont reported to the authorities that he had been beaten and robbed of $4,500 by three armed men "in an automobile after the shades of night had fallen." A lot of money to be packing along on one person in these merry days of highway bandits, bank robbers, machine gun hi-jackers and all other types of outlaws to be found in the Southwest as well as the country over.

The industrial picture in America is changing so rapidly that what may be true today will be out-moded tomorrow.

Gasoline taxes are the backbone of a state's highway system and should not be used for any purpose other than road construction and maintenance.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

By EDSON R. WAITE, Shawnee, Oklahoma

In the stores of your city you will find obliging clerks who greet you with a smile, wait on you courteously, answer your questions politely and are glad to take the trouble to supply any information wanted. They help to make better business.

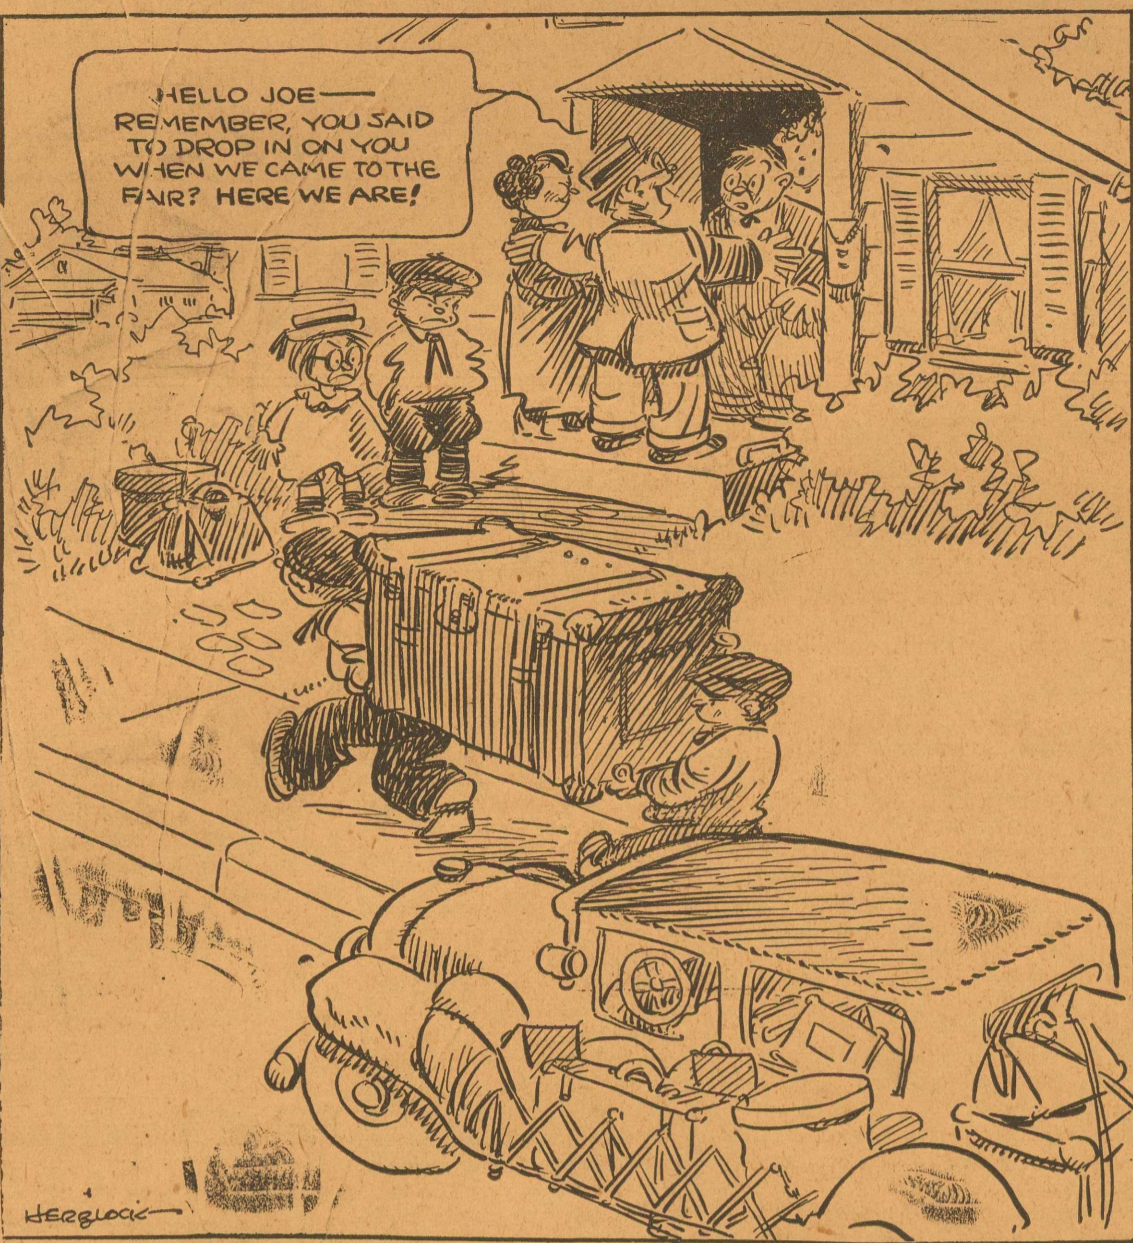

Getting the business is not always a selfish proposition. Modern business entails a certain amount of service that is of as much interest to the buyer as to the seller.

Mail order houses succeed because they advertise. You can beat them at their own game by advertising in your local paper.

Many citizens would be pleasantly surprised if they were to investigate the various kinds and classes of merchandise obtainable in their city. With this knowledge, they should spend all their money at home.

A dollar spent in your own city helps your city. Buy at home!

In addition, the Associated Contractors and the Survey and Estimate Bureau do a big business in connection with contracting and building—when there is any contracting and building. Their influence has dropped of late, except for the building revival produced by the World fair.

Humphries, dominant figure in the Capone syndicate, and tough Touhy, who, once his mob gets in the money, will be out to eliminate Humphries, are the dominant figures today. Humphries likes to use brains instead of strong arm tactics. He doesn't like being called a racketeer—he is a "business man." Good looking, six feet tall, flashy in dress, he has a dangerous capacity for calmness in a crisis.

With liquor no longer profitable and left largely to independent operators, the gangs are likely these days to turn to kidnapings, payroll and bank robberies, automobile theft and sale of stolen securities. But mostly, their income is from the extortion rackets of which "almost" every variety is practiced in Chicago.

Some of the leading extortion schemes are: Cleaning and dyeing. The racketeers operate big plants at low cost in open shop streets near Chicago. The same cleaning fluid is used over and over. Garments are returned soiled. If the customer objects, a bribe makes it clear he is lucky not to be beaten up—and there is no complaint.

Contracting. Bidders who will not split their profits with the racketeers are kept from getting contracts by force of threats.

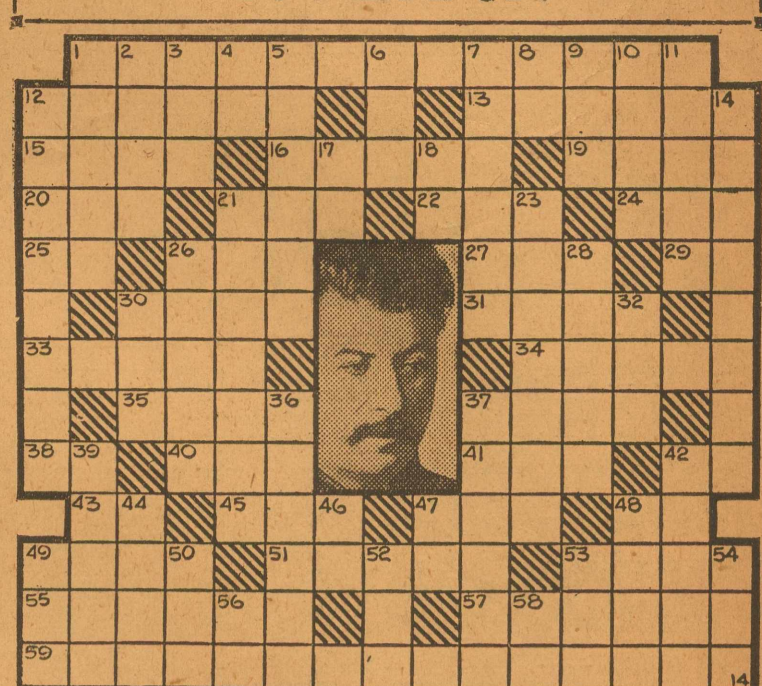

Plate glass. A merchant's window is broken. If he does not buy glass for replacement from the racket outfit at a high price, his new pane will be broken.

Butter and eggs. The dealer or consumer who objects to second grade eggs and rancid butter is readily convinced it would be "unwise" to make a complaint.

Charities. Racketeers "muscle in" on charity drives.

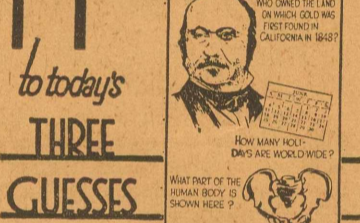

Financing. Racketeers insist on a split from legitimate business men before permitting them to borrow money to finance business

Camera Hunter On Trek Across Nation

By United Press
WASHINGTON.—A survey of the outdoor assets of America, both along the roadside and in out of the way places, is the purpose of an auto-photographic trip of Arthur Newton Pack, President of the American Nature Association. Noted as a "hunter of wild life with a camera," and active in wild life conservation, Pack is making a 10,000-mile trip that takes him twice across the continent and to Alaska.

Pack is an active campaigner against the billboard advertising which lines the nation's highways. "As we travel across the continent we are impressed with the extent to which Americans have allowed roadsides to be ruined by unsightly billboards and commercial structures," said Pack. "If the pleasure and safety of travel by automobile are to be preserved, rural billboards must come down." The main object of Pack's trip will be to photograph wild life and gather material for the official magazine of the association.

He also will give particular attention to problems of wild life conservation, which he describes as a vital issue confronting the entire United States.

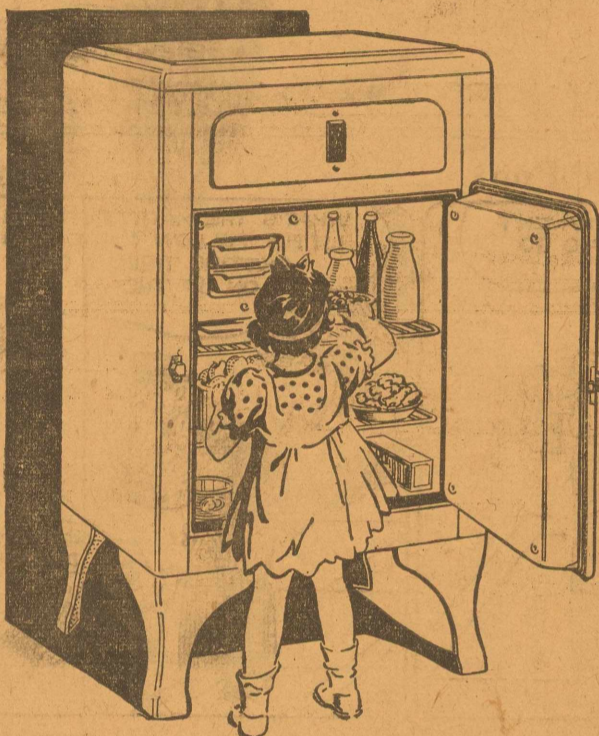

"Over great areas our game birds fast are disappearing," he said, "in spite of reduced seasons, transplanting and importation." Pack favors the formation of militant organizations in each state to combat the evils inherent in the granting of special killing privileges given the hunter.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

ELINOR STAFFORD, 26, falls in love with 35-year-old HARRIETT COLVIN, who has returned to New York after years abroad. Harriett has made a name for herself as an archeologist. He is him when her jealous, scheming mother, LIDA STAFFORD, interferes and succeeds in breaking up the romance.

When Elinor's aunt, wealthy MISS ELLA SEXTON, dies she leaves her entire fortune to Harriett. Then Harriett, who does not want the SEXTON fortune, tells Elinor that she will marry her and live in his home as a guest for a year. He will give the entire sum to her to divide among the relatives. Elinor agrees, knowing the money may save her father's life.

The marriage takes place next day. Harriett and Elinor have their first quarrel when she finds she intends to give all Miss SEXTON's money away, keeping nothing for herself. She also insists she will not accept alimony from him at the end of the year their marriage is to last.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXIX

A SMALL night light was burning beside Elinor's bed and she was sitting up, curling her hair and framing her oval face and touching her bare shoulders.

"Barrett," she said as he stood beside her. "I can't stand it!" Her lips trembled on the words. He sank to the edge of her bed and took her hands in his.

"I'll do anything you want me to," she went on, "but I hope you won't want me to take any of Aunt Ella's money!"

"I don't want you to, since you feel as you do about it, but I do want to provide for you—when the time comes. I don't know how I'd stand it if you wouldn't let me do that."

"I can take money from you more easily," she admitted.

"Well!" he murmured. His throat had thickened a little with his emotion. His eyes stung. "Suppose," he said, "we call this matter closed?"

"Let's!"

"I know I was harsh, child—" "Oh, no! I was obstinate but—"

"Well, it's over now." He had to stifle the "over" that was on the tip of his tongue.

She laid her hand on his and again his heart was beating thickly.

"We made rather a mountain out of a molehill," he said.

"I suppose we did but I couldn't seem to help it," she agreed with a deeply indrawn breath and a little smile.

"We were both—rather earnest!"

"Yes."

He rose quickly. "Better be on my way," he said. "Peace to you, child." Stepping suddenly, he kissed her forehead.

"We must be friends," he said a bit thickly. "Today has taught us that."

He did not understand her eyes that were crying. "I love you!" but he knew he could not stifle his, "Good night, dear."

ALONE Elinor touched her forehead with her hand and then held the hand to her lips. She had been less than a week in this house and already she was back where she had been, willing to kneel to him if he would have her.

Barrett next morning smiled otly to himself. How could he have been taken in so completely as to believe the girl really

Judges 4:4-10, 13-15, 5:1-3
 BY BEULAH K. HICKS

Deborah, a judge, a prophetess, wife of Lapidoth, shepherdess, "mother in Israel," dwelt under the palm tree of Deborah, between Ramah and Bethel in Mount Ephraim.

How her name, Deborah, which means Be, shines out in the dark days of the chosen people "who forgot God" after the death of Joshua.

As she followed her sheep over the hills and valleys she must have pondered the ways of her people, who were going off in tiddaltry and inter-marrying with the heathen people and were being punished for their deeds again. How she in her great love, vision and faith must have talked to God concerning them until they all came to her palm tree for advice and direction.

She called Barak, whose name meant lightning-flash, to her and told him that God had commanded him to go and fight the great general Sisera, and that he would be delivered into his hands near the river Kishon.

Barak thought of the nine hundred iron chariots and multitude of soldiers and refused to go unless Deborah, with her power from God, should go with him.

She was angry and told him that she would go but because of his hesitation the honor of capturing Sisera would go to a woman.

Barak took his ten thousand soldiers upon Mount Tabor, from which he could see the enemy in the valley and again must have hesitated as he looked at the great array of soldiers and chariots.

How the voice of Deborah must have rung out with courage as she cried, "Up, is not the Lord one out before thee?" Barak and his soldiers rushed into the battle.

Josephus gives a very vivid picture of how the rain and hail fell to the backs of the children Israel and in the faces of the forces of

Freighters May Visit In Memphis

MEMPHIS, Tenn. — Ocean freighters may steam up the Mississippi to Memphis the latter part of 1933, it is claimed.

Negotiations looking toward the establishment of such service are under way. A representative of a steamship line has been in communication with A. P. Fant, industrial director of the Chamber of Commerce, relative to putting the project in operation.

Other interests have signified their intention of establishing ocean freight service to Memphis, via the Mississippi, if the plan proves feasible.

Such a service would eliminate costs of transferring cotton and other commodities shipped by river barges from the barges to ocean-going vessels at New Orleans.

"There is no reason at all why small ocean freighters with a draft or not more than 12 to 14 feet could not clear from Memphis for foreign ports," declared Major W. M. Hoge, acting chief of U. S. engineers, Memphis district.

Major Hoge said the bridges over the Mississippi are sufficient high for freighters to go beneath them without difficulty.

Recent opening of the Great Lakes to Gulf Waterways has stimulated interest in the possibility of ocean freighters for Memphis.

Roses and Bluebells Used In Pretty Party Decorations
Masses of roses and bluebells were chosen summer flowers used in the pretty floral arrangement Tuesday afternoon when Mrs. H. V. Davenport entertained with a party at her home Blackwell road in honor of the ninth birthday of her little niece, Dorothy Jean Hise.

Centering the dining table stood a vase of rosebuds entwined with runners of feathery fern. The beauty of these velvety petals were further emphasized through the appointments completing the attractive board.

Games entertained the party group until the serving of a dainty refreshment course offered with slices of the birthday cake. The pleasing hostess was capably assisted during the hour by Mrs. Albert Hise, mother of the honoree. Winners in games enjoyed named Dorothy and Alice Louise

PARIS STYLES

By MARY KNIGHT
United Press Staff Correspondent
PARIS.—It was a great day at Chantilly when the Baron Edouard de Rothschild's Vendange won the Prix de Diane, and all the smart ladies of fashion won all the couture honors of the social season here.

There was Mme. Martinez de Hoz, whose husband had an entry, Libertad, and her brunette loveliness was enhanced by her outfit of pale hyacinth blue crepe. She wore a wide-brimmed hat of the same shade, the crown of which was trimmed with lacquer red velvet. Her gloves also were of blue.

The Princess de Faucigny-Lucinge wore black and white in a printed crepe de chine, with a large black straw hat. Mrs. John R. Drexel was very gay in a dress of bright blue and white, with a large blue hat. The Countess Constantini wore black and white silk, with a white jacket and silver fox fur and a hat trimmed in black, white and green aigrettes.

Lady Bramard, who entered a horse in the race last year, had on a navy blue foulard dress with white dots all over it, and her daughter, Lady Moira Forbes, was just that lovely looking in pale blue flowered mousseline de soie, with a large white hat trimmed in blue.

PARIS.—Madame Sert, the sister-in-law of Barbara Hutton, has just purchased a Chanel evening gown of great distinction. It is of embroidered white organdie, the cobweb tracery of flowers and leaves being in black. Reminiscent of Winterhalter, the "off the shoulder" movement of a double row of ruffles looks like sleeves in front and it has a capeline in the back. Madame Sert is the wife of the Spanish mural painter who did those lovely things at the Waldorf Astoria.

The Duchess of Portland has, among other things, Chanel's number 555 made in an "off-white" shade too pale to be called pink but with a whiff of something that makes you think pink. The dress has an immensely wide skirt, composed of a myriad godets of tulle that are placed rather low and continue by their movement the line that criss-cross encrustation created over the hips. ### Industry of Italy Under Fascist Rule

By United Press
ROME.—The Fascist government has undertaken control of all the basic industries of the country in what in reality amounts to a complete nationalization of industry, but maintaining the principle of private property.

Delegates of the Ministry of "Corporazioni" have been named to a seat on the board of directors of all the basic industries. The delegates watch the progress of the particular industry and report to the ministry its condition.

The watchful eye of the industry, too, calls the attention of the management of a particular to any failure to make that industry successful. Before a new industry can be started or a new factory built, the matter must be referred to the ministry for decision. This is to prevent any too heavy extension of plants. The plan is to keep all industries as healthy as possible and not to have any idle plants due to excessive building.

The government also has control over new plants for the production of electric energy and its distribution as well as the enlargement of existing plants for the same purpose. Special authority has been given to the Ministry of Corporations and the Ministry of Public Works for this branch of industry.

Present regulations regarding the concessions of water-power stations remain unaltered, according to a previous agreement from the Ministry of Corporations.

PORTERVILLE, Calif.—A citizen walked into the bank here and handed his watchfob over to the teller saying, "they can't class me as a hoarder." The charm was a five dollar gold piece surrounded by a metal band.
