A BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

SELF DENIAL: Whosoever will come after me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross, and follow me. For whosoever will save his life shall lose it; but whosoever shall lose his life for my sake and the gospel's, the same shall save it.—Mark 8: 34, 35.

FAMOUS PROSECUTOR PUBLIC WORKS LEGAL ADVISER

Henry T. Hunt of New York has been named as general counsel to the federal emergency administration of public works. He has been practicing law in the city of New York 12 years. He has a marvelous record behind him. He began his career in the city of Cincinnati. He was elected public prosecutor. He drove from power a rascal political ring. He cleaned house for the people of Cincinnati from top to bottom. This over they elected him mayor of the ancient Ohio city and as chief executive officer his record bristled with achievements along the lines of honest and efficient administration of public affairs. Then a guiding star whispered in his ear, "Go east, young man." He moved on to the city founded by the Knickerbockers in the long ago. Now he will give legal advice, from top to bottom, to the administrators of the public works program. 'Tis well. A legal watchdog with a record like that of the Buckeye will be needed the country over.

PRESIDENT BLEDSOE WAS MISQUOTED

President Bledsoe of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe system early in the month of June saw rainbows in the sky everywhere in the territory covered by his lines. A news-gathering association carried a purported interview with Col. Bledsoe. He was quoted as having said that the Van Sweringen brothers were not rail operators but speculators, or words to that effect.

Well, the operators of the Missouri Pacific lines from president down are real rail men. They were given a great shock by the alleged Bledsoe interview. All is well that ends well. Bledsoe, in a second interview, declared that the writer of the news dispatch misunderstood or misquoted him. Let it go at that. Really, people who are living in glass houses—and today most the people are living in glass houses—should not throw rocks at the habits of their neighbors.

ANOTHER FRESH REVIVAL COMING

There is another "fresh revival" coming. Dunn and Bradstreet, in its weekly report on trade, says "that substantial conditions still are being made for employment and payroll and the flow of orders and inquiries is quickening, rather than diminishing, with buyers being pressed to action by the broadening sweep of rising markets." Referring to the recent flurry in the street called Wall, the trade bulletin reads: "The technical reaction in commodity and security markets is due to temporary relaxation of speculative enthusiasm, which merely has paused to gather strength for fresh revival." In other words, "now you see it, and now you don't."

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

By EDSON R. WAITE, Shawnee, Oklahoma

GAULT MACGOWAN, managing editor of the Trinidad Guardian, (British West Indies) Writes:

"Some time ago I said that there was no hope of a return to prosperity until those who produced also learned to sell. I pointed out that producers of primary products are the ones that advertise least. They let luxury manufacturers advertise to the trade, and forget that those who 'manufacture' crops need to advertise also.

"Now, I find cultivators of tropical products are responding to my appeal. From Martinique comes the report of a movement among banana 'manufacturers' first to find their market and then to produce for it.

"In the past, producers there—like producers most places—have first 'manufactured' and then looked for a market. They planted in hope and reaped in sorrow. Now, realizing they can grow when they want to, they are aiming to reverse the process. First make your market, then grow for it. Production then automatically regulates itself to the extent of prospective business.

"If 100 farmers gave ten dollars a year each, they would have a thousand dollars for a fighting fund to tell the world about the crops that are coming. If a few cents were collected on every bag of cocoa or coffee or other produce sold, then the fighting fund would swell into millions of dollars. And once the primary producers of a nation, or group of nations, begin to unite to preach the virtues of healthy, scientifically grown produce, planted and reaped under civilized conditions, we should cease to hear about over-production.

"For if our planters and farmers sold more, they would also employ more. And employing more means raising the spending power of the nation. Instead of the trade index-fingers going anti-clockwise as they are at present, they would go clockwise. The vicious circle would become a merry-go-round."

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON WITH RODNEY DUTCHER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER NEA Service Writer WASHINGTON—Labor's first tangible gain under the National Recovery Act was adoption of the code amendment establishing machinery for settling labor disputes in the cotton textile industry. Shop committees representing the employees and the management of mills are to sit on any controversy arising as to working conditions. Appeals may be taken to a State Cotton Textile Administration Board and then, if necessary, to a Cotton Textile National Relations Board in Washington. Similar set-ups are expected in other industries. The man responsible for this semi-revolutionary intervention of government in labor disputes is a kindly, youthful, silver-haired man in his fifties, known internationally as an expert on industrial management and industrial relations. Robert Walter Bruere was named by Administrator Johnson as head of a committee to investigate the stretch-out system in southern cotton mills. Stretch-out means the assignment of additional machines to workers at the same rate of pay. The system was an obvious menace to success of the recovery act and NRA has been flooded with complaints as to this abuse since the textile code became effective. Bruere returned reporting that the only remedy lay in establishment of shop committees. Conditions differed in every plant. Thousands of variables might be found in a score of factories. No, flat rule should be laid down to govern the permissible number of looms or spindles. Most textile manufacturers agreed. General Johnson approved the Bruere contention that workers on shop committees would be powerless unless they had a court of appeal. Now labor is promised a new form of recognition, which in no way qualifies its other rights of collective bargaining under the recovery act. BRUERE, who will be Johnson's representative and chairman on the national relations board, has been a social welfare worker and labor arbitrator as well as a student and writer on economics. He was one of the first to persuade industrialists to realize that the success of production engineering depended in large part on labor. At the request of government officials he came here during the war to organize the Bureau of Industrial Research, which studied production engineering for the government's benefit. He has specialized on power and coal problems and has often been called as an arbitrator in labor disputes. Recently he has been an industrial consultant. Two years ago he was sent to China on a fact-finding expedition by the Institute for Religious and Social Research. (Copyright 1933 NEA Service, Inc.)

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Soul" is the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, today. The Golden Text is from Psalm 42: "My soul thirsteth for God, for the living God."

Among the citations comprising the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "The Lord redeemeth the soul of his servants; and none of them that trust in him shall be desolate" (Psalms 34).

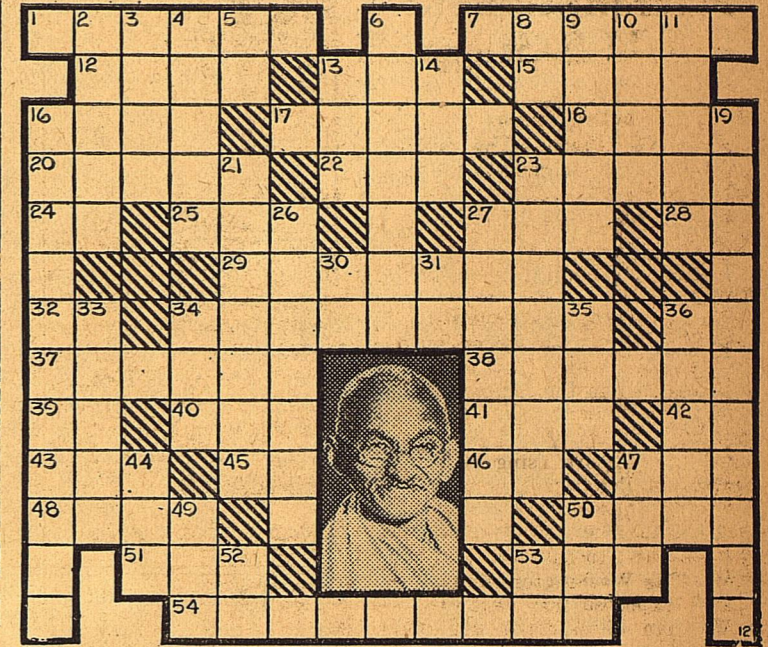

The lesson-sermon also includes citations from the Christian Science text-book by Mary Baker Eddy, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," one of which is as follows (p. 390). "We cannot deny that life is self-sustained, and we should never deny the everlasting harmony of soul, simply because, to the mortal senses, there is seeming discord. It is our ignorance of God, the divine principle, which produces apparent discord, and the right understanding of Him restores harmony. Truth will at length compel us all to exchange the pleasures and pains of sense for the joys of soul."

Boxer Mission In U. S. Stopped

By United Press
PEIPING, China.—The mission in Washington assigned to the task of directing the activities of Chinese students in the United States is to be closed. Henceforth the work will be done by the Chinese legation.

In past years large numbers of Chinese students supported by returned Boxer indemnity payments have studied in the United States. But their number is dwindling rapidly. Boxer funds are now used to support Tsing Hua University in Peiping. This has been developed into a first class institution and after 20 years it has been decided to suspend the activities of its Washington mission.

It is expected that next year no more than 40 students will study under Tsing Hua University or Boxer fund auspices in the United States. Latest reports indicate that from 40 to 50 Chinese students now in America will return to China during the coming summer, either because of adverse financial conditions or because they will find adequate facilities for continuing their studies at the Tsing Hua University in Peiping.

Daughter of Famed Commoner U. S. Minister To Denmark

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is another of a series describing the work of important feminine office-holders in the administration of President Roosevelt.

By FREDERICK C. OTHMAN
WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen, snake charmer, torch singer and legislator, is America's first woman envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary to a foreign country.

She now is established in the United States legation at Copenhagen, Denmark, where a newspaper called her Denmark's 'girl friend.'

The handsome daughter of William Jennings Bryan gained her fame as a snake charmer after her election to Congress from Florida. She had invited a scientist to a Congressional committee hearing ed children, and who entered politics in the steps of her father as another outlet to her abilities and her energies.

She is an accomplished pianist and a singer of topical songs, including the "hot and low down" ones. She trained a group of British soldier-actors during the World War. They entertained their comrades in Egypt, when Mrs. Owen was there with her late husband. He was in the King's army which fought at Gallipoli and later went into Palestine.

The feminine minister first became acquainted with Denmark in the summer of 1931 when she made a tour of that country in the motor Pullman which she had used for her Florida Congressional campaigns.

She made the traditional Fourth of July speech at Rebild Park, a wild moorland in Jutland, given to Denmark by a group of Danish-Americans. She met during her journey many of the officials of Denmark, including the foreign minister and his wife, who is a member of parliament.

As a thoroughgoing feminist she says she is particularly grateful for Denmark's "extremely civilized attitude" toward women. For its txarordinary work in decreasing infant mortality and for its record of international peace.

Although Mrs. Owen has known the President and Mrs. Roosevelt only since 1930, she was one of his most ardent campaigners. As a professional lecturer, public speaking teacher, and dramatic orator, she was credited with doing much to help Mr. Roosevelt's election.

Her appointment as minister to Denmark followed, not only because she was a good Democrat, but because the President believed she would acquit herself well in Copenhagen.

BLOW-OUT PROOF RIVERSIDE TIRES

Blowout Proof because of an extra patented process:

LATEX WELDED CORDS

(100% PURE LIQUID RUBBER)

which prevent Cord Separation... the cause of blowouts

Blistering heat develops inside your tire every time you drive your car 35 miles an hour or faster! Heat so terrific that in many tires it causes cords to separate. It weakens the tire from within, causing blisters you can't see. You hit a rock or a bump. Suddenly—BANG—a blowout! It may come today, tomorrow, any minute! A blowout that can send your car hurtling off the road! The lives of your family are at stake!

Riverside tires are built to prevent blowouts! Riversides' Cords—the heart of the tire—are made from extra strong, long staple, premium cotton. Every cord in every ply is dipped in LATEX—100% pure, liquid, virgin rubber. This welds the cords into a super strong unit! It gives Riversides the strongest tire carcass made! It prevents cord separation—the cause of blowouts!

Why We Save You Money

Of course Riversides are made in one of America's largest and best tire factories. BUT—they come direct to us—minus the manufacturer's selling and general overhead expense. That's a saving. The second saving comes from Wards low cost method of distribution. These two reasons explain why we sell high quality tires for less. It's simple to figure out for yourself why Riversides are better in quality, mileage, and safety than any other tire at the same price.

Cord Separation

This shows cords that have been separated by heat inside the tire. Cord separation causes internal blisters and weakens the tire. A blowout is the result!

Latex Dipping

By an extra process, every cord in every ply in all Riversides tires is dipped in Latex. This welds the cords into a super strong unit that defies cord separation and blowouts!

*RIVERSIDE TIRES

will not blow out under normal road conditions during the life of the tread if they are kept properly inflated in accordance with the specified air pressures.

Wards Unlimited Guarantee

For your protection every single Riverside tire is guaranteed by Wards to give service that is satisfactory to you. No time limit! No mileage limit! A tire has to be extra good—has to be extra safe to be backed by the strongest tire guarantee ever written!

Woodin Faced Largest Task In Treasury

WASHINGTON.—No secretary of the Treasury was ever confronted with such a task as William Hartman Woodin, who entered office on March 4, 1933, with every bank in the country closed by the panic which gradually spread through the country in the early months of the year.

President Roosevelt closed the banks by proclamation to give the country a chance to "catch its breath," and it was up to William Woodin to get them open. In less than five months the country's banks were generally reopened on a normal basis.

Much of the credit for the rapid climb out of the panic has been given to Woodin. Day and night work, slowly undermined his health, and together with the revelation of his name on J. P. Morgan's "preferred list," led to persistent reports of his imminent resignation.

etchings with as much fervor as former Secretary Andrew W. Mellon collected art and antiques.

The similarity between him and Mellon was lost beyond their love of fine arts and belief in "old fashioned" business principles. Woodin brought to the treasury a personal touch that was lacking in the previous administration and quickly made friends throughout the department.

gram and the revolutionary banking one night during the banking crisis when Woodin, after working until midnight, dropped in at the Treasury Department's press room "to see what kind of quarters they had." Shortly afterward the room was redecorated and new furniture replaced the old.

A good story teller, Woodin enjoyed exchanging jokes with his associates and newspapermen. Songwriting became one of his pet hobbies, and he plays the zither, the violin and the guitar. Frequently he composed melodies in bed.

Woodin was another of the "big business" men who have become increasingly numerous in high governmental jobs. His long and successful business career together with his close personal friendship for the President led to his selection for the No. 1 Cabinet job, despite the fact that he was a Republican and not entirely in accord with some of the administration's fiscal policies.

Born in Republican Pennsylvania on May 27, 1863, and later following a manufacturing career, Woodin was a "sound money" man to the finish, opposing such radical departures as the administration's money inflation program.

Newspapermen were astonished ing legislation. In the latter he came into sharp conflict with Senator Carter Glass of Virginia, advocate of a number of banking reforms.

Woodin spent his entire life up to his appointment as Secretary of the Treasury in the railroad equipment business. Starting with his father's Jackson & Woodin Manufacturing Co., of Berwick, Pa., he quickly moved up to its presidency. Looking for new fields, he joined the American Car & Foundry Company in 1899. He became president of that company in 1916 and made it one of the most prosperous in the country. Later he became interested in banking through a directorship on the Federal Reserve Bank of New York.

In spite of his active business and public career, Woodin wrote music and collected coins and

box. For example 5c five votes—10c ten votes—$1 one hundred votes, and so on.

Campaign opens Monday, August 14th and closes Saturday, September 16th. At close of the campaign the church receiving the largest number of votes will be presented with a $75 cash goodwill offering, and a cash goodwill offering will also be presented to each participating

Church organizations are invited to participate by calling their friends on the telephone and asking them to vote their votes for your

You individually are important in helping your church to share in these generous gifts.

To live even, you have to spend some money—every cent means just one more vote for your church.

Official nomination is not desired, as the first vote cast in favor of any church is considered a nomination and each church will be credited with 500 goodwill votes at the start. For the convenience of the public

PARIS STYLES

By MARY KNIGHT
United Press Staff Correspondent
PARIS.—There seems to be a check and double check on the stars and stripes idea for informal tea, cocktail and generally "at home" afternoons and early evenings.

Chanel started the star business with her eccentric jewelry that caused such a furor here when she first exhibited it to a very limited number of friends. Soon the department stores got the hint and dashed headlong into the business of manufacturing copies of all sorts of geometric designs, featuring comets, half moons, stars and whatnots, in everything from plate glass to dishpan platinum.

But it went further. The fabric manufacturers horned in on the success of the jewelry and produced entrancing bits of fabric which almost cornered the market. Chanel, of course, had her own weavers at Lyons and elsewhere through the provinces create especially for her clients, soft shimmering fabrics printed with the designs which she herself had designated as the season's need. Probably the most popular of these is the one with the three C's with their backs all to each other, making a sort of three-leaf clover or club-shaped motif.

Economic Advantage

lege has fewer and lower fees than any other college in the state so far as we know. Thus, the year's expenses in Ranger Junior College are lower than those of private or denominational colleges and about as low as those of state schools. And in addition, board and room may be had cheaper here than in most college towns, and clothing expenses, too, are lower than in most schools, because of the fact that students feel perfectly at home in simple dresses for most of our students have shown their willingness to deny themselves fine clothes in order to attend college. Taking all these facts together, we challenge any other college to offer a year's college work as low as Ranger Junior College does.

Ranger Junior College permits students to pay for their education on the installment plan. The first payment each semester amounts to $18.00 for five courses, and then the students pay three more payments of $11.50 each semester, making the total for the year only 5 per cent higher than it would be if paid by the semester in advance. This arrangement makes it possible for many students to attend college that could not otherwise attend.

Armour & Company Signs Blanket Code

R. Doyle, salesman in this district for Armour & Co., announced Saturday that the company had signed the blanket code and were working under its provisions, pending the final approval of the code for the meat packing industry.

A code for the meat packers has been submitted, but has not received final approval, but when approved the company will comply with all its provisions.

Eve thought rapidly. Miss Allen, she suspected, was trying to "put something over" on her. But Eve had no way of knowing what Barnes had said or implied.

Ford Motor Company, Dearborn, Mich.

The reasons are worth knowing

Henry Ford, Dearborn, Mich.

Last week we told you how the 8-cylinder motor made its entry into the low-price field.

But an "8" is not the whole story. There are two varieties of the "8".

We have chosen the V-8—a motor with two banks of cylinders set at an angle opposite each other, instead of all eight cylinders in a line. There are good reasons for this.

When we take 8 cylinders and set them four on a side, the length of the motor is reduced about half; it becomes a sturdy and compact power plant. The V-8 motor is 4 cylinders long; if the cylinders were set in line the motor would be 8 cylinders long. This would sacrifice compactness.

One simple advantage of the V-type is that it gives more room in the body of your car. In the medium-size car that is built for economical operation this is important. And it accounts for the generous interior body room of the new Ford V-8.

Another advantage concerns the motor itself. The V-8 type of motor, with its two short banks of cylinders, cuts in half the distance which the gas mixture must travel to the end cylinders. This gives a more uniform distribution to each cylinder and makes a smoother running motor. Also, two water pumps and two streams of water cool the cylinders instead of one stream. This means more uniform cooling.

Other points of advantage I reserve for another letter. To mention one:—When we seemed to be slow in introducing the new Ford V-8 the delay was caused by our doing a very important thing in the interest of strength, long service and efficiency.

We were perfecting the V-8 cylinder block as a one-piece casting. As a result our cylinder block is not made of two or three castings bolted together. It is one compact whole, which permanently keeps the operating parts in perfect alignment. We cannot expect the general reader to appreciate the difficulties we had to overcome before this could be done. But if you ever have a chance to see our cylinder block casting before it goes into an engine, you will marvel that it could be done at all.

We are the only manufacturers now doing it this more expensive way. Our new car is making its way so rapidly, on its own merits, that it is worth knowing some of the reasons for its success.

August 11, 1933
