'Trick' Cotton Checks Prepared for Farmers

BAILEY ENTERS PLEA OF NOT GUILTY TODAY

By United Press
DALLAS, Aug. 16.—Harvey Bailey, notorious desperado, pleaded not guilty today before U. S. Commissioner Lee Smith to the kidnaping of Charles F. Urschel, millionaire Oklahoma oil man, and was ordered held for trial under bond of $100,000.
Four others arrested at the secluded farm hideout with him entered similar pleas.
Commissioner Smith set bond for the other four at $50,000 each. The defendants are R. G. Shannon, at whose farm the escaped Kansas convict was captured, his wife and son, Armon Shannon, and the latter's young wife, who were nervous and sullen throughout the session.
Bailey, recognized as the brains of the kidnaping plot, shrugged his shoulders to newspapermen's questions about the bond amount.
"That's plenty of bond, but I've got nothing to say," he said.
Smith questioned Bailey after reading the warrant from Oklahoma City accusing him of the kidnaping. Bailey pleaded not guilty and added, "I'll waive a hearing."
The senior Shannon told the commissioner the bond was unreasonable and named two attorneys he wanted to represent him.

Mars Defense of Mrs. Costello

Mrs. Jessie Costello, charged with the murder of her husband, received a setback in her trial at Salem, Mass., when her closest friend Mrs. Clara E. Bisson, above, contradicted the accused widow's claim of being unfamiliar with capsules. The prosecution has sought to show that Mrs. Costello gave her husband cyanide in a capsule.

Church Standings In Prosperity Club To Be Announced

The standing of the various Ranger churches in the "Prosperity Club" Campaign will be announced in Thursday's Times for the first time since the beginning of the campaign. This was done in order that the church organizations might be able to roll up a bigger vote for the first announcement.
Each day for the rest of the campaign the standing will be published and every church member will know just how his church is going and how hard he and his friends are going to have to work to earn the $75.00 capital prize.
Every church in Ranger is going to receive some cash prize when the campaign ends on Saturday, Sept. 16th. The amount of that prize will be determined by the amount of work the members have done which will be reflected in the number of votes they have. Some church will receive $75.00—and that is a sum worth working hard for.
As an indication of what the church women of Ranger think of the "Prosperity Club" we will quote a Ranger merchant: "There was a woman waiting here at the store this morning and wanted me to open up to give her the votes on merchandise she bought yesterday." That's one example. Another is that several women of one church were out making house to house calls and asking housewives to save the votes for THEIR church.
There is a ballot box in each of the business houses who are making possible the campaign and award money. They are: Piggy Wiggly, Harrow's Bakery, Ranger Times, Ranger Steam Laundry, Oakwood Jersey Dairy, Oil City Pharmacy, Dry Cleaners of Ranger (Bill's Dry Cleaners, City Tailors, Ranger Dry Cleaning Plant, Rogers Bros., and Modern Dry Cleaners), Quick Service Garage, Zuela Beauty Shoppe, Montgomery Ward & Co., A. J. Ratliff, Killingsworth, Cox and Co., Hasen Company, M-System Grocery and Market and Boler Grocery and Market.
Always get your votes, write the name of your church on the back and cast them in the ballot box. Every penny spent or paid on account means one more vote for YOUR church.

Confessed Slayer in Jovial Mood

Apparently unworried by the fact that he faces trial for his life for the murder of Oliver Baily, Cincinnati socialite, John Hinkel, 17, is shown as he breakfasted in the diner of the train carrying him back to the Ohio city from Meridian, Miss., where he was captured. Hinkel confessed the killing, authorities claim.

Hon. Maury Hughes of Dallas, chairman of the state democratic executive committee, will be the principal speaker at a county-wide rally to be held on the courthouse lawn in Eastland, Saturday night, August 19th, at 8:00 o'clock.
Mr. Hughes favors the repeal of the 18th amendment—the beer amendment—and the adoption of the proposed $20,000,000 relief bond issue as well as President Roosevelt's National Recovery program. He is a fluent and eloquent speaker and well qualified to speak on the matters foremost in the minds of the people today, and which are to be settled by the people at the polls one week later.

FARMERS CAN RECEIVE PAY UNDER PLAN

Checks Are Prepared In Order To Get Around Old Law On Payment.
By United Press
WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—The agriculture department today prepared "trick" checks for immediate payment of about $100,000,000 to cotton planters on their crop reduction contracts without deduction of debts they owe the government.
The checks were designated to get around legal complications arising from the millions of dollars the farmers owe on government-crop, feed and mortgage loans.
A typical check reads: "Payable to John Smith and the Governor of the Agricultural Credit Administration." The latter part of the phrase was rubber stamped on the checks.
If John Smith owes nothing to a governmental agency, he will get cash in full, just as though it were made out to him alone. And even if he does owe debts to one or another of the federal loaning bureaus, the chances are that he will be able to cash his check without deductions.
The complicated situation arises from the fact that the cotton farmers who have $110,000,000 coming to them owe the government about $40,000. The various governmental agencies have decided to waive deduction of all but $10,000,000 of these debts.
Non-Jury Cases Disposed of In 88th Dist. Court
The 88th District Court has been working on the non-jury docket this week and has disposed of several cases.
On Tuesday Judge B. W. Patterson rendered a decision in the case of James Shaw vs. Tom Harrell in which a previous order had substituted E. C. Brand, recently appointed as State Banking Commissioner, as the plaintiff in the case. Judgment was allowed the plaintiff in the sum of $758.45 with interest from the date of the hearing.
In the pleadings the Eastland County Lumber Company was included as a party to the suit but judgment was disallowed as against the lumber company.
A decision was also rendered in the case of Pauline Gibson vs. W. E. Gibson in which divorce was granted to the plaintiff and she was allowed the custody of the children, Basil Byron, aged four years, and Billie Rae, aged 20 months.

LAWYER ADMITS HE POISONED FOUR PEOPLE

By United Press
HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Aug. 16. Mark Shank, an attorney, admitted to authorities today that he poisoned a man, his wife, and their two children because the man "knew too much." An automobile with a dead man at the wheel, a dead woman at his side, and two dead children in the rumble seat, crashed into a fence on the Little Rock highway last night.
Shank jumped out and fled into the woods. He was captured soon afterwards.
The dead were identified as Al-len Cooley of Akron, O., his wife, and their 10 and 7 year-old sons. A third child, four years old, was not harmed.
The district attorney announced Shank admitted placing poison in grape juice the motor party bought at a roadside grocery.
Shank said he was an Akron lawyer and had engaged Cooley to steal papers from the Akron prosecuting attorney which involved a "big shot" Shank's firm was defending. Cooley fled to Hot Springs and Shank followed to devise some means of disposing of him, Shank confessed.

Government Is Nearing Goal of Balanced Budget

By RICHARD L. GRIDLEY
United Press Financial Correspondent
WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—The federal government is near its goal of a balanced budget, except for heavy emergency expenditures which the administration believes should be paid for over a period of years rather than out of current receipts.
The emergency expenditures, including the $3,300,000,000 public works program and other extraordinary activities, are not carried in the "ordinary" budget. The public works costs are to be amortized over a period of years by special taxes of $225,000,000 annually voted by the last session of congress.
Steadily rising tax revenues from legalization of the sale of beer and increased business activity, together with large reductions in running expenses of the government, have virtually achieved a balanced budget for ordinary operations.
In the first ten days of August the treasury collected in taxes and other income a total of $79,453,924 and spent $78,835,515 for running expenses.
Not included in the above figures were $62,407,200 spent in the first ten days of August for emergency relief expenditures such as Reconstruction Finance Corporation, public works and emergency conservation work.
From July 1, the start of the current fiscal year, to August 10, income of the government amounted to $242,667,485. Ordinary expenditures, including many millions of a non-recurring nature, came to $274,401,484. This $32,000,000 deficit in ordinary operations is expected to be made up when full effects of the economy program are felt and September quarter income tax payments come in.
The total income of $242,667,485 from July 1 to August 10 was nearly double the $127,114,974 collected in the corresponding period of last year. Total expenditures, including emergency this year, were $412,161,427 against $654,512,886 in the corresponding period of last year.

Garner Announces His Reasons For Favoring Repeal

AUSTIN, Aug. 16.—Because it violates a fundamental principle of government and has not produced a satisfactory or effective solution of the temperance problem, Vice President John N. Garner calls upon the people of Texas to vote for the repeal of the 18th amendment.
The Vice President's plea was contained in a letter addressed to Roy Miller, Texas Director of the Democratic National Campaign, and released from Committee Headquarters here today. The letter in full follows:
In response to your inquiry as to my position concerning the Eighteenth Amendment, I beg to remind you that I voted against its submission when it was first presented to Congress because I believed it violated a fundamental principle of government. Since then I have availed myself of every opportunity to assist in bringing about its repeal.
In obedience to the platform of the last Democratic National Convention and on the first day of the session of Congress following, as Speaker, I submitted the question of repeal to a vote of the House of Representatives. I considered it my duty to do so because the American people, by overwhelming vote, had ratified the party platform which demanded repeal.
That the Eighteenth Amendment has not accomplished the results expected of it, even by its advocates, all will agree. That it has not produced a satisfactory or effective solution of the temperance problem is the judgement of a vast majority of the people of this Republic.
I shall exercise my duty as a citizen on the 26th of August by voting to repeal the Eighteenth Amendment and trust that every citizen of Texas likewise go to the polls and perform a similar duty. I especially urge my fellow Democrats to thus support the party and its leadership.
Very cordially yours,
(sgd) John N. Garner.

Rotarians Hear Talk On Codes

Dr. P. M. Kuykendall had charge of the program at the Rotary club meeting today and presented a talk on the National Recovery Administration and the National Recovery Act.
He read a part of the act pertaining to the code of fair competition and gave his own interpretation of it.
He said that everyone was more or less familiar with the re-employment act but that some misunderstood the clause on Codes. He said there was no authorization for anyone to put the tentative codes into effect until they had been approved by the president.
He said that now was a time for patriotism and urged the Rotarians to back the president 100 per cent in his plans.
He outlined the object of the act as being to shorten hours and to furnish employment rather than price fixing and price raising. He pointed out that the NRA desired a golden rule attitude in formulating codes.
Judge L. R. Pearson spoke briefly on codes, saying that he believed a breakdown of agriculture several years ago was the reason for recent conditions. He said that every industry should establish a code and that within 60 to 90 days we would all begin to feel the effects of the new deal.
Jack Fullbright of Thurber, E. A. Ringold and G. E. Robinson were visitors. Announcement was made of the Rotary game today with the Magnolia team from Olden.

Constitutionality of NRA Upheld

By United Press
WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—The Roosevelt administration rehabilitation program was fortified today by victory for the government in the first court test of the constitutionality of the National Recovery Act.
The decision upholding the emergency law was handed down in District of Columbia Supreme Court on an application of 49 Texas oil producers and refiners for an order to restrain the government from enforcing orders prohibiting interstate shipment of hot oil.
W. F. Fischer, counsel for the oil men, indicated he would appeal.

The gin is now ready to handle all cotton brought to Ranger and will be ready to serve the farmers of this section of the country at all times during the ginning season, it was announced today by T. D. Lauderdale, manager.

Wheat Growers Urged to Contact County Agent

Every Eastland county wheat grower is requested to send to J. C. Patterson, County Agent, Eastland, a card carrying his name and address or to give this information to the chairman of his local cotton control committee immediately.

It is not deemed advisable to circulate the entire county about the meeting since the wheat growing areas are so limited.
By the last of next week it is expected that all necessary information and contracts for the wheat reduction plan will be available. Just as with the cotton sign up it will be necessary that contracts be signed quickly when received.
Those having wheat growing neighbors who do not read this paper will confer a favor by informing them of this notice.
Eastland county has been grouped with Erath, Comanche and Hood counties to form a district and contract signers will select one of their number who will be the district director and look after the handling of growers contracts.

THREE GUESSES

Join Prosperity Club and Help Your Church and Town

For the LOVE of EVE by Lucy Walling

BEGIN HERE TODAY EVE HAYLESS, pretty assistant to EARLE BARNES, advertising manager of Bixby's department store, secretly marries DICK RADER, a construction engineer. Dick wants Eve to give up working but she refuses. The same day Eve learns that she is to go to New York for the store and must leave that night. Dick takes her to the station but throughout the week in New York she has no word from him. The days there are busy. She meets THERON REECE who is much attracted by her and she visits IRENE PRENTISS, a former schoolmate who is playing the stock market and advises Eve to do the same. Eve returns to Lake City at the end of a week. Back at the office she finds a new copy writer, MONA ALLEN, who appears to be a trouble-maker. MARYA VLAD, fashion artist, and ARLENE SMITH, stenographer, are Eve's friends. Dick and Eve spend several days at the fashionable Hotel Miramar, and then move into an apartment in an old-fashioned house. Eve works late at the office and arrives home to find Dick preparing dinner. They have a quarrel and Dick leaves. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER IX

"What do you propose doing?" Dick asked.

DICK was firm in his arguments for announcing their marriage. He repeated to Eve all the objections against secret marriages, including the embarrassment she would feel if her business friends should learn of it in a roundabout way and question her. Dick was honest and straightforward to a degree that Eve at times regarded as bluntness, but he had a certain dignity that nothing could shake and which Eve could not help but respect. And it gave her a deep sense of satisfaction to know that he commanded the respect of others.

Eve wanted each of the events of her life to stand out—to be remembered by her friends as different from the usual. Marriage customs, Dick assured her, had not come about by chance. Their purpose was to emphasize the importance of the marriage tie. To strengthen it and give it dignity.

After repeated discussions and arguments Eve and Dick compromised. It was agreed that their relatives should be informed of their marriage but that, for the present, Eve need not announce it to her business associates.

She took into her confidence a friend who was a promising young artist and asked her to design a combination Christmas card and wedding announcement. These were brought home by a very excited Eve one snowy Saturday early in December. She and Dick spent their spare time addressing, sealing and stamping the envelopes and then put them away to be mailed Christmas week. That settled, Dick was frankly relieved.

"Of course, as soon as our friends know of our marriage we will entertain," Eve began. "That's all right," Dick answered, "so long as we know they're coming. Invite them for a definite time. Don't want a lot of people horning in on our privacy when we have something else to do."

Eve was silent for a while. Then she ventured, hesitatingly, "Dick, do you think—well, you see this place is quite shabby looking. Oh, I know—it has atmosphere and all that; but, well, I'd hate to have some of the people I know find me living here."

EVE witted a little before the question in Dick's clear, steady eyes. "What do you propose doing?" he asked. "Oh, find another place." This a trifle defiantly.

Dick was silent. He was fond of picturesque old houses under ancient trees. Eve called his attention to the broken step, the dismal bathroom, the unattractive kitchen.

"I'll fix them up for your aesthetic friends," he promised. He was as good as his word. Delighted at his offer, Mrs. Brooks purchased paint and linoleum and left Dick, unhampered by directions, to transform the kitchen as Eve wished it. The walls he painted a creamy buff with deeper buff woodwork. Table and chairs he enameled in lavender. Eve hung apple-green satine over-drapes at the large, old-fashioned windows and the glass curtains were of cream net. They found an old screen in the attic, and this Eve decorated effectively and used to conceal the stove and sink.

An old mahogany breakfast table was moved in to be used as a cupboard. Eve brought home a chintz lampshade with a gay lining. This cast a rosy glow over the room. "I love it," she exclaimed when the transformation was complete. "It looks like a charming breakfast room instead of a kitchen." The gloomy bathroom was cheerful when I come home and find my husband wearing a blue flannel shirt—and tonight even boots? High boots! MY HUSBAND, of all people, not caring how he looks—!" Eve grew hysterical and rushed into the living room to throw herself on the day bed where she sobbed until quiet.

Dick, his face white, his lips set in a straight line, remained in the kitchen, staring straight ahead. Presently he arose, cleared the table and stacked and washed the dishes. He did not go near Eve.

After a while she arose, went into the bathroom and bathed her eyes. Then she filled a bowl with suds and washed out some stockings and lingerie too dirty and fragile to trust to any hands but her own. She had intended to do this task in the morning, after Dick had left for the day's work. But she was in a perverse mood tonight.

DICK went to bed. He heard Eve turn on the living room lamp and rustle the evening paper. Then he drifted into troubled sleep. Eve awakened him. "Dick," she said in a low voice, "I'm sorry."

"Nothing to be sorry for," he answered. He had had time to think things out—to make allowances.

"I was horrid to you." "You were saying what you thought," he said. "That's all right. I want you always to feel free to speak out. That way I'll know what's in your mind."

"Well, I thought being a superintendent meant an office and a polished desk where you sat giving orders. And sometimes when I come home and you are dressed like that—!"

"Listen, Eve, I could get awfully mad at you if I didn't realize what makes you talk like that. Now, get this straight! There are still a great many things you have to learn about what makes this world go around. One of them is that the way things look doesn't alter the truth any. Another is that a man usually knows what his job requires. Rough clothes are not necessarily dirty clothes. There are days on the job when I dress up, but I'd look like a damned fool if I wore spats and carried a walking stick; when my men are erecting steel."

"You wouldn't look like a fool to me. I think if you stood far enough off from the mess, you wouldn't get splattered with plaster and things."

Dick gave a snort of anger. Eve was persistent. "Couldn't you manage that way?" she wheedled.

Dick heaved a sigh and answered with finality. "We had a tough time today and if you had seen one-half of it, I believe you'd think a pair of boots and an old suit very sensible to wear."

Eve was accustomed to having her own way. Apparently now that she was married she would have to make some concessions she had not heretofore considered possible. The idea was disturbing and she crept into bed shivering with cold and anger.

These were changes that would affect the rentability of the apartment and Dick seemed to enjoy making the improvement. "There!" he declared when he had finished the painting. "This is far more comfortable than a box-like place up three flights of stairs for the same price. We have room to turn around here."

EVE had worked out a program which she followed with military precision. Dick co-operated with her to the best of his ability. There were times when his work made it impossible for him to reach home punctually and he had not time to do the marketing, start the dinner and change into fresh clothes. At such times Eve sat unsmiling through the meal and answered his questions briefly. Dick was even-tempered through it all. The truth was that he was worried over Eve. She seemed restless and often looked tired. True, they had been married only a few weeks—crowded, anxious weeks in spite of their happiness. He decided Eve must be working too hard at the office and told her so.

"It's not that at all!" she assured him. "But after working in an office with well-groomed business men all day do you expect me to look pleased and

Modern Merriwell THE Yankees consigned a pitcher named Johnny Broaca to their Newark farm the other day for seasoning. But in some respects Johnny Broaca needs no seasoning at all. The story back of that is this:

One day last spring the veteran major leaguer, "Smoky Joe" Wood, looked over his crop of budding young pitchers at Yale. An important ball game with a picked team of town players led by Albie Booth was about to begin. Naturally Yale didn't want to be beaten by the "townies," so Coach Wood called over his star pitcher whose name happened to be Johnny Broaca.

"You work today, Johnny," said Coach Joe.

"Pardon me, Joe?" BUT Johnny, who had pitched a game a few days before, had a different idea. "No, coach," replied Johnny. "I'm not going to ruin my arm for you, Yale or anybody else. I'm not going to pitch more than once a week."

"Either you pitch or turn in your uniform," snapped the coach. "You win the uniform," was Johnny Broaca's reply.

Forthwith Johnny Broaca walked off the playing field and finished in Chapter One what was promised to be the story of a brilliant college baseball career.

Enter the Villain A SCOUT for the Yankees happens to be the heavy villain behind the scenes. The scout had watched Johnny pitch several games and the two had met one dark night at the old mill near the crossroads. The scout unfolded the golden possibilities of a major league career. Frank Merriwell probably would have poked the scout in the nose and would have gone back to the campus and pitched three double-headers in successive days for dear old Eli. But Johnny Broaca listened to the scout whose message was something like this:

"You go ahead and finish your school work, and when you're ready to come we're ready to take you. And take care of your arm. Don't pitch more than once a week. Don't work in wet weather."

Johnny Broaca may become one of the greatest pitchers the Yankees ever had. Or he may prove at Newark that he's only another minor leaguer, just as many other promising college pitchers have done.

Anyway, Johnny Broaca has decided what he wants.

Geysers Used As Washing Machine

YELLOWSTONE PARK, Wyo. Civilian conservation corps workers in Yellowstone Park would like to make use of one unique convenience the park offers—a natural washing machine. Several hundred recruits recently were shown Jewel geysers. Currents in the geyser flow so that handkerchiefs may be thrown in the pool, allowed to sink into the basin, then retrieved after an eruption—thoroughly bleached and cleaned by the hot, mineralized water. Without hesitation, the entire crew tossed in a large bundle of soiled handkerchiefs while viewing the pool. Out they came, white and clean, a few minutes later. The boys were unanimous in proposing they be permitted to bring all their laundry to the pool. "And boy, oh boy—what I couldn't do with that geyser in camp," exclaimed the camp dishwasher. Rangers, however, immediately squelched all such proposals. Any wholesale use of the pool as a washing machine would clog its passages and destroy the geyser.

Kin of Bullfighter Is Entering Arena

By LESTER ZIFFREN United Press Staff Correspondent MADRID.—Rafael Vega de los Reyes, young brother of the late great bullfighter, Francisco Vega de los Reyes, "Gitanillo de Triana" (Little Gypsy of Triana), has been graduated from the junior ranks into those of the full-fledged bullfighters.

Family's Third Fighter

"Gitanillo III," as Rafael is called, is the third of a family of fighters. One brother is retired, while the other, Francisco, was gored in May, 1931, and died a month and a half later from the injuries to his groin and thighs. His death was mourned not only in his native gipsy quarter of Triana, in Seville, but by the whole Spanish nation. Rafael has been a "novillero" or junior bullfighter, for the past year, and therefore was entitled only to meet three-year-old bulls, or bulls which were slightly defective and had been rejected as unsuitable for the regulation fight.

To Receive Degree He will receive his "alternativa," or doctor's degree of his dangerous profession on Aug. 19, at Malaga. This will permit him to alternate in meeting the big bulls with the veteran fighters. Already he has contracted for appearances in Madrid, San Sebastian, Valladolid and Salamanca, and is negotiating for contracts as Barcelona, Seville, Valencia and Zaragoza.

The latest "Gitanillo" is regarded by bullring experts as having exceptional ability and grace. He is said to resemble the great Juan Belmonte with his solemn finesse and brilliant snaring of the giant animals.

DERRICK SHADOWS

By V. MARIE STEPHENS

Said Irvin S. Cobb in his incisive-splitting "Speaking of Operations," while recounting the contents of his second hospital meal.

"The nurse said this food was predigested but did not tell me by whom. Nor did I ask her. I started to, but thought better of it. Sometimes one is all the happier for not knowing too much."

That's exactly the way we're beginning to feel about his NRA business.

Just a minute . . . yes, I know we've already discussed the subject. That's all right, everyone has.

In fact, we've so plastered our windows with birds that there's nothing left but unsatisfactory peep-holes to peer through.

The whole world's beginning to look like a cross between a canary house and hunter's paradise.

And so we've drawn the feathers of prosperity about us and nibbled the wishbone of recovery . . . expecting it to agree with us with no effort of our own.

It is predigested . . . by whom, we do not ask. We only desire that we avoid anything more complicated than absorption.

This is the last course. The nuts.

Everything else was terrible. We observe goose flesh breaking out on us with the memory: 1929 . . . The soup was neither cold nor hot . . . it swam on top of itself and left a scaly sensation in our mouths. We sensed a dinner "flop."

1930 . . . The salad melted and ran through our forks, which we discovered (to our horror and embarrassment) were the wrong ones. Somehow our social advantages crept into the background. We blushed.

1931 . . . The meat was neither cuttable nor chewable. It reminded us of our banking system . . . insoluble. We remembered our manners and swallowed loudly. Indigestion was immediate. We groaned . . . almost audibly.

1932 . . . The pie crust cracked after much labor on our part . . . and descended into our formal laps with disgusting accuracy. We hid behind our napkins.

And now . . . coffee . . . demi-tasse . . .

Nothing to cut, chew, balance on perilous knives and forks . . .

Predigested! We dare not ask by whom . . . We only hope it agrees with us.

Another lump, please . . . ahhh, sweet. Think of it . . . predigested recovery . . . we gurgled and slurped and gulped. It worked!

Satisfied, we settle back and light a cigar. Never dreaming we are economic and social gluttons. We glare! Who suggested that?

 Rotary vs. Magnolia.

The Elks ran roughshod over the Legion Tuesday afternoon to take their first game of the second half of the Twilight league season by a score of 20 to 10. Nine errors by the Legionnaires, together with the 13 hits credited to the Elks, accounted for the 20 runs, while the Legion was making 12 hits, aided by only four errors, to make their 10 tallies.

Each side used two pitchers, Galloway starting for the Elks and pitching two innings, while Davis started for the Legion and lasted for four innings.

Snyder, playing left short for the Elks, turned in a good game, taking several impossible-looking chances and turning them into outs by his speed in handling the ball and getting it to first base. Errors in the outfield by the Legion players accounted for many of the Elks' runs.

Essex Sales Show A Steady Increase

For the twenty-first consecutive week, sales of Essex Terraplanes and Hudson cars have shown a steady increase, according to Chester G. Abbott, general sales manager of the Hudson Motor Car company. Mr. Abbott pointed out that sales for the week ended Aug. 5, are 119 per cent of sales for the same week in 1932, which was one of the high weeks of the year.

"A further indication of the increase of Hudson-Exsex sales," said Mr. Abbott, "is the fact that sales for the four-week period ended Aug. 5, are more than double those for the same four-week period in 1932." This period of a year ago included the introduction of the Essex Terraplane, which resulted in considerable increase of sales at that time.

HERE'S HOW

TO SPEND LESS ON MOTORING!

Do as over two out of every five buyers of low-priced cars are doing: SAVE WITH A NEW CHEVROLET! You'll spend less to begin with—because the Chevrolet base price of $445 is so much lower than the price of any other Fisher Body car! You'll make fewer stops for gas and oil, because the Chevrolet six-cylinder engine can go well over two hundred miles on a tankful! You won't have to be worrying about seeing the service man all the time, or paying a lot of repair bills because—well, Chevrolet just isn't that kind of car. It's built right and stays that way. Finally—you can look forward to getting a good price when you trade your Chevrolet in—its resale value is notably high.

Can you say all these same things about any other low-priced car? Evidently America thinks not—from the way that America prefers to SAVE with a Chevrolet.

TERRAPLANING day by day keeps the service bills away!

Let's dispose of the question of economy right away, so you can buy an Essex Terraplane just for the fun and thrills it will bring you.

Terraplane owners all over America have compared Terraplane expense with that of every other car on the road.

Their sworn affidavits (18 to 26 miles per gallon for the Six, 15 to 18 miles per gallon for the Eight, no oil additions between changes, 20 to 30 thousand miles per set of tires, 1/16 to 1/14 cent per mile for service) would convince any Supreme Court that the Terraplane was the best automobile friend any pocketbook ever found.

If you need a jury, too, the next twelve Terraplane owners you meet will give a unanimous verdict.

So, now—you can forget expense and think only of the swell time you'll have making molehills out of mountains without gear-shifting, giving the slip to any kind of traffic, sweeping quietly along smooth highways like a mail-plane on the wing.

That's Terraplaning! Just try it!
