Italy's 'Own Problem' May Be World's, Too

Fifty thousand more Italian soldiers are about to depart for Africa, according to dispatches from Rome.

Mussolini has ordered their mobilization in connection with the Abyssinian dust-up; and the dispatches explain that, while he isn't exactly hunting for trouble, he "wants to show Europe that Italy can solve its own problems" without the aid of the League of Nations or anybody else.

This is a praiseworthy bit of individual self-reliance, no doubt, and should be accepted gratefully in a world where self-reliance is becoming a rare virtue. And yet this business of solving your own problems, in the field of international relations, is not quite as simple as it may seem—for the excellent reason that when you set out to solve your problems you are very apt to raise a new set of problems for somebody else to solve.

It is not hard to find illustrative examples from history.

For many years prior to 1914, the "Serbian question" was one of the most weighty problems confronting the government of Austria-Hungary. We can understand it best by pretending that California, New Mexico, Arizona, and Texas were almost solidly populated by Mexicans; that these Mexicans all wanted to get back under the Mexican flag; and that the Mexican government connived with them in a campaign of terrorism by which American governors in these states were assassinated and American buildings were bombed.

Such a situation would seem unendurable to us; and that is precisely the way an exactly similar situation seemed to the government of Austria-Hungary in 1914, so that, when the Archduke Franz-Ferdinand was killed, the government anticipated Mussolini's program and set out to solve its own problems without any outside assistance.

Well, there is not much use going into details about what happened next. For Austria-Hungary to solve her Serbian problem meant the creation of a new problem for Russia; for Russia to solve that gave Germany a problem; and after a few similar progressions, the whole world found itself with a series of interlocking problems which resulted in the death of some millions of men.

Discussing the affair at this length is just another way of saying that national relationships are so extraordinarily complex these days that no nation any longer has any external problems which affect itself alone.

The world has shrunk too much. Whether we like it or not, we shall all, eventually, sink or swim together.

NRA Breakdown Calls For Change in Plans

It is generally taken for granted that the administration and the business community must find a new method of bringing about business recovery, in view of the supreme court's NRA decision, and that this method must include some better system of applying those controls which fell to the ground in the sick chicken case.

Since most people agree that something in the nature of a constitutional amendment would be necessary to bring this about, it is apparent that any such program would take a very long time to put into operation.

It might be more stimulating to look in an entirely different direction. The reversal of NRA fortunes unquestionably brings the New Deal program to a halt; but the field of government control of business is not the only one in which a fresh course could well be charted.

For it is worth remembering that the NRA was not merely a scheme for integrating the business world through government action. Its basic philosophy was the notion that recovery could not take place unless prices were kept up, and this, in the condition of the last few years, was possible only through restriction of supply.

As the NRA collapses, the chance of putting this policy into effect collapses also; and it is worth asking ourselves whether a change of course in this field might not be advisable.

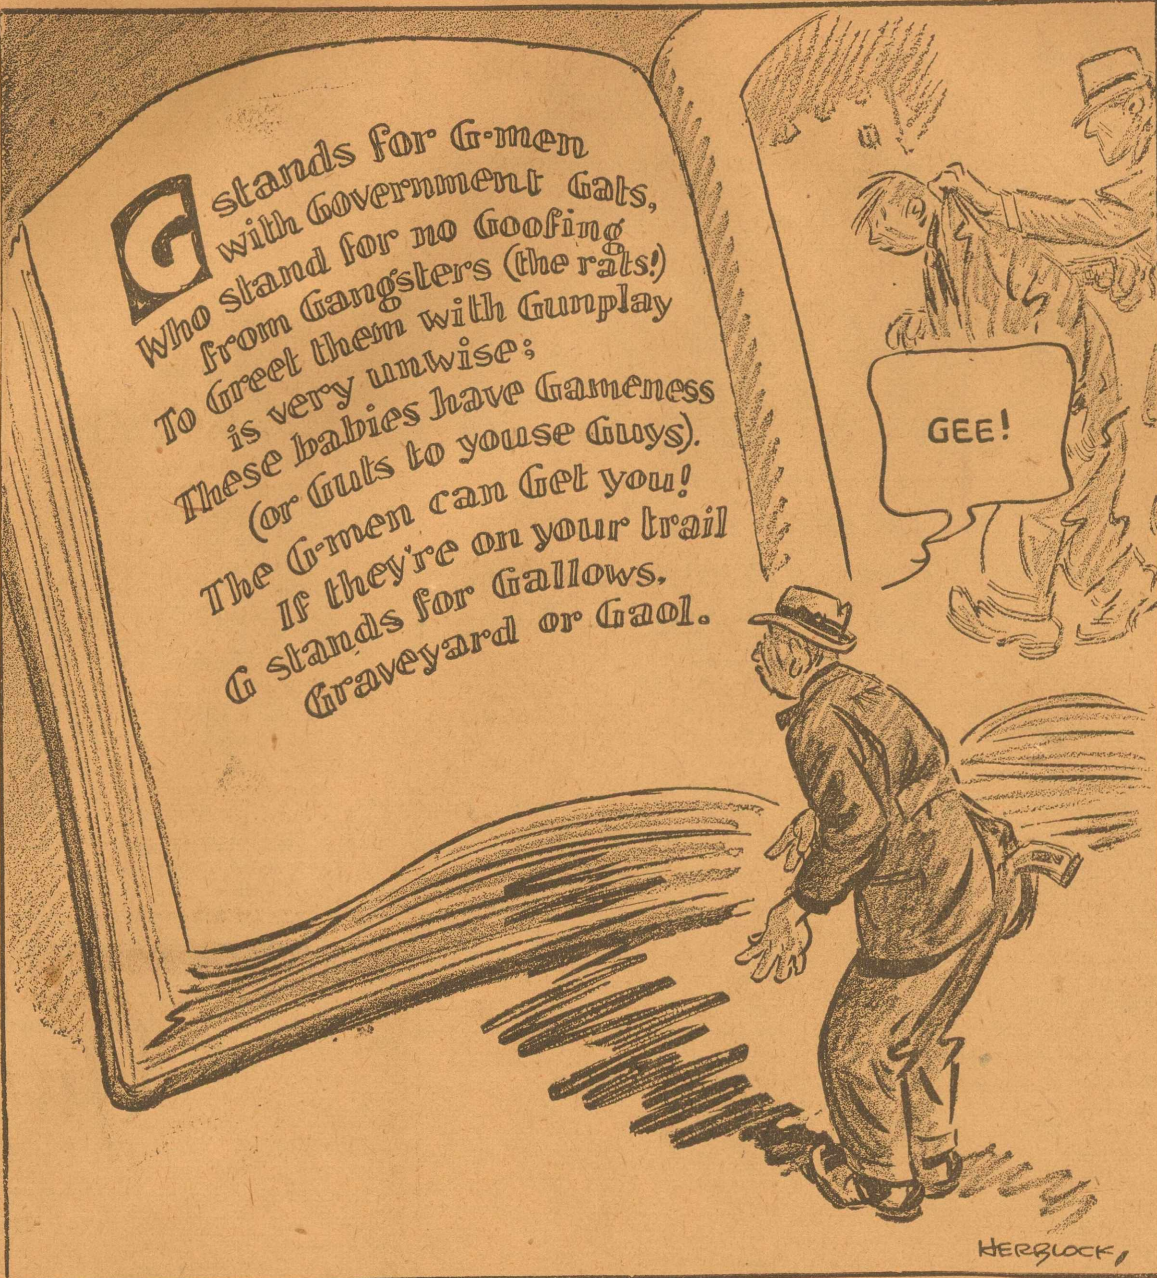

When you try to bring about recovery by maintaining good prices you run the risk of mistaking the symptom for the disease. Falling prices, or a low price level generally, are not the cause of bad times; they are the result of bad times.

If you undertake to boost these prices by cutting down on the available supply of goods, you are not getting at the underlying trouble. The real trouble is the fact that production at a profit is not possible for the bulk of the producers.

In other words, it is the flow of goods itself, rather than the price level at which the flow is taking place, that is important. And the downfall of the NRA may give us an excellent chance to re-orient our policy so as to deal with the trouble itself instead of which its painful symptoms.

We have been trying, so far, to bring about prosperity through the control of an artificial scarcity. In some ways this has borne an unfortunate resemblance to the labors of a man who tries to lift himself by his own bootstraps. We may be better off if we get away from the notion that we can help ourselves by the use of scarcity, and turn to the idea of trying to work the trick by stimulating abundance.

PRIMER FOR CRIMINALS

Black Widow Spider Deadly as Rattler

Many people have found to their sorrow that the harmless looking little Black Widow Spider is extremely poisonous. Deaths have been reported from the effects of the poison and "dangerous as a rattlesnake" has become the manner in which people regard this spider.

In the west serious difficulty was caused because the grape growers could not get the Japs to go into the vineyards to pick the grapes, because of their fear of the Black Widow. In other sections of the country a similar deep feeling of fear has been felt and rightly so, for this spider has demonstrated its death dealing qualities. Fortunately, however, the Black Widow Spider is easily destroyed if handled in the right way. This control was first brought to the attention of the public by Walter S. Cooke of Durango, Colo., who experimented with Fly-Tox spray as a means for destroying the Black Widow and found it 100 per cent effective. Mr. Cooke urges that all spiders be regarded with suspicion and points out that a whiff of Fly-Tox will kill them. This suggestion, says Mr. Cooke, will undoubtedly save lives this year.

Famous woman writer says college women are better for the important project that cannot be hastily carried out. Like getting hubby to finance a new spring coat.

FORD FRICK, president of the National League, is right. There'll be more night baseball in 1936.
"Players were not handicapped in any way that I could see," said Frick, commenting on the nocturnal major league inaugural between the Reds and Phillies that attracted more than 20,000 persons in Cincinnati the other night.
The Reds and Phillies would wait a long time to deploy before a crowd of that size in daylight. You can include Saturdays, Sundays, and holidays when you say that. And this first night game was played on Friday.
Will Harridge, whose American League voted against the venture, called the night game at Crosley Field the greatest spectacle modern baseball has offered in several years. He enjoyed it.
Harridge asserted that the illumination—634 powerful lamps, each of 1500 watts—was the best he ever had seen in operation.
"Playing under lights robbed the game of none of its color or thrills," added the American League's chief executive. "There is, of course, danger of overdoing it, as baseball essentially is a game to be played under sunlight. But night baseball has great possibilities."
Handicap to Outfielders
BILL KLEEM, dean of National League umpires, explained that while players struck at more bad balls than they have in any other game he has officiated this year the umpires had no trouble in rendering decisions, except on flies into the deep outfield.
The game made it clear that outfielders labor under the more difficulties in night baseball. George Watkins' misplaying a drive by Billy Myers was an illustration. When the ball was soaring over the infield Watkins dashed in three or four steps, suddenly turned and retraced his steps, but was too late.
After a workout under lights a couple of nights before the game, Paul Derringer, who beat the Phillies 2 to 1, expressed the opinion that high fast balls and a change of pace would be more effective than curves. Derringer evidently was right, for he pulled the string to get out of jams.
Plays appear to be made much faster at night than in the daylight.
Minors Saved by Owl Game
PLAYERS complained about their living habits being thrown out of order, but will get used to that. As the late Tim Hurst said, "Think of the hours," and playing baseball even at night certainly is preferable to most forms of manual labor.
Night baseball was the savior of the smaller circuits, and there is nothing "bushy" about a plan that will help make major league franchises pay. Powl Crosey and Larry MacPhail are to be commended for their courage in introducing it in the big show.
Night baseball is here to stay—particularly where baseball no longer can make a go of it in the daytime.

Packed like silks...it takes patience and care to prepare Turkish tobacco for Chesterfield Cigarettes

Size, color, texture, condition . . . all these have something to do with aroma and flavor

Leaf by leaf, the sun-ripened Turkish tobacco is selected or rejected to get just the right kind for Chesterfield's milder, better taste. And just as much care is taken to pack the tobacco to preserve the delicate aroma during its 4000 mile journey to this country.

So important is the preparation of Turkish tobacco in making Chesterfields, that Liggett & Myers have their own modern leaf handling plants in seven important tobacco centers of Turkey and Greece.

Grandmothers of Cleburne Have Day

CLEBURNE, Texas—Other persons may observe mother's and father's day, but citizens of this

Texas town observe "grandmother's" day as well. The celebration in honor of grandmothers began 36 years ago when Mrs. A. C. White of Cleburne held a party in honor of her mother.

The idea spread to the rest of the community and now the observance is held annually on June 11.

Gardner Finds Way To Protect Flowers From Passers-By

DALLAS.—Clarence I. Browne, Dallas gardener, has a novel way of stopping persons from stealing flowers from his garden. Browne has a camera secreted in the woods across the road from his home and when persons stop to pick flowers from his shrubs he snaps their picture. A sign at the edge of the garden warns passers-by that their picture will be taken if they molest the flowers. In spite of the sign, however, Browne has snapped pictures of 32 persons, 27 of them women, who have stopped to pluck blossoms from his mimosa tree which is covered with gorgeous blossoms.

Construction Boom Starts In Montana

BUTTE, Mont.—Montana is engaged in its greatest building program since the depression began, a United Press survey of 16 principal cities and towns of the state reveals.

A questionnaire answered by building officials of these cities reveals that building permits issued during the first five and a half months of 1935 was more than a third greater than for the same period of last year.

Magnetic Machine Gathers Road Junk

EDINBURG, Texas.—Large amounts of metal have been cleared from main-traveled highways in Texas recently through the use of a magnetic highway cleaner. In the 18-mile stretch between Pharr and Mercedes, in Hidalgo county, the machine picked up 291.5 pounds of nails, scrap iron, tin cans, wire, bolts and other types of metal.

Five Acre Tomato Crop Brings $1,000

WEIMAR, Texas.—Farmers of this section have become intensely "tomato-conscious" since August Shumhera, local tiller, marketed a $1,000 crop from five acres. Tony W. Glowka sold a $300 crop from two acres. Profits from tomatoes have caused a sudden turn from cotton growing.

New Stations to Warn Vessels of Coming Storms

WASHINGTON.—Decentralization of the hurricane service of the U. S. Weather Bureau on July 1 will make life easier for Washington forecasters.

The Agricultural Appropriation Act passed by Congress provided $80,000 for establishing three new hurricane forecasting centers at San Juan, P. R., New Orleans, and Jacksonville, Fla. and for strengthening the service at other stations. E. B. Calvert, head of the service, said forecasters in Washington no longer would shoulder full responsibility for issuing warnings of the approach of "meteorological sea monsters" from the Tropics, where they originate, to the southern Atlantic and Gulf coasts of the United States and to ships and islands in the south Atlantic, Gulf of Mexico and the Caribbean Sea.

Under the new program, Calvert said, the San Juan station will cover the Caribbean Sea and islands east of longitude 75 degrees W. and south of latitude 20 degrees N. The New Orleans station will serve the Gulf of Mexico and its coasts west of longitude 85 degrees W., and Jacksonville will protect the Atlantic south of latitude 35 degree N. and areas in the Gulf of Mexico and Caribbean

Sea not assigned to the San Juan and New Orleans centers. The reorganization also involves changes in the collection of observations from ships on waters in the path of hurricanes. Co-operating ships supplying information only during the hurricane season, June to November, will increase the number of their daily observations from two to four. In addition, the new program calls for a systematic scheme for obtaining special weather, tide and swell observations from the Weather Bureau's storm warning display stations at many ports in the hurricane belt.

Replacements of their machinery, automobiles and implements cost U. S. farmers approximately $400,000,000 annually. Poor lubrication is to blame for much of this cost. To help farmers reduce this expense, hundreds of farm equipment manufacturers recommend Sinclair lubricants—the lubricants we sell.

Let us tell you about it. We sell Sinclair Opaline and Sinclair Pennsylvania Motor Oils, Sinclair Tractor Oils, Sinclair H-C Gasoline, Sinclair Cup and Axle Greases, Sinclair Opaline Gear Lubricant, Sinclair Super-Flame Kerosene Sinclair Stock Spray, Sinclair P. Here are the things your car needs for Summer even though it is in perfect mechanical condition:

TRANSMISSION AND DIFFERENTIAL—Every car manufacturer says drain, flush, and refill in Spring, for Summer Driving. We use only Opaline Gear Lubricant.

RADIATOR FLUSHED—Let's thoroughly rid the cooling system of anti-freeze, rust-scale and sludge—then, no overheating.

FRONT WHEELS—A pull and re-pack every 5000 miles—needed for safety, car manufacturers say. We re-pack with tough, Opaline Universal Grease.

CHASSIS LUBRICATED—Ours is Sinclair Indexed Lubrication. Keeps your car "riding" like new.

CRANK-CASE—You know, yourself, your car needs a crank-case flush and refill. Insist on Sinclair Pennsylvania or Sinclair Opaline Motor Oil.

SPARK PLUGS—Dirty plugs can waste one gallon of gasoline in ten. Inspection free. Cleaning and adjusting at small charge.

OIL FILTER—Yours is good only for 10,000 miles. We'll check—and if you need a new one, we will replace for a very nominal charge.

SHOCK ABSORBERS—Riding's a lot more comfortable if they're kept filled. We will be glad to inspect and refill if needed.

BATTERY—Tested and filled to proper level. That means longer battery life. And it's free service.

We'll gladly call for and deliver your car! Phone us today!

Summer Sweethearts

Katharine Strykhurst, 20 and beautiful, allows her emotions to rule when she marries Michael Heatheroe, young riding instructor who comes into a title and fortune. Katharine's father is rich and her stepmother snobbish.

Katharine, unaware of this, believes he has deserted her. She plans to leave for New Mexico and her friend, Violet Merser, agrees to engage a lawyer in her absence to arrange an annulment of the marriage.

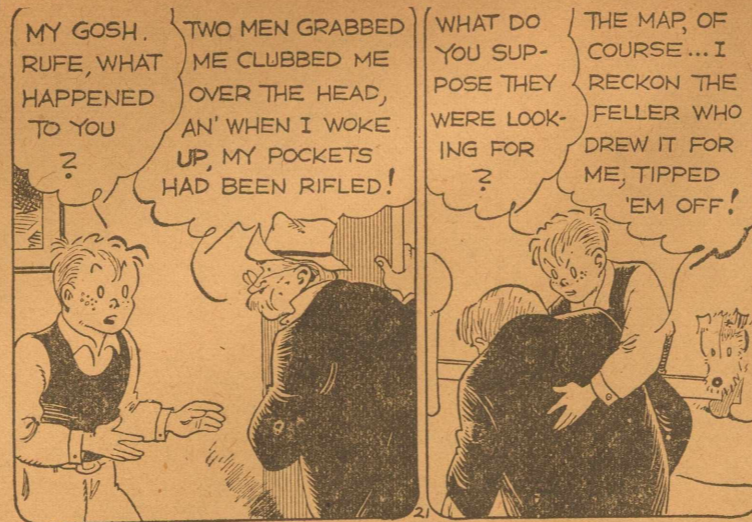

of Michael's marriage to Katharine. Suddenly during a rehearsal of the ceremony Michael recovers his memory.

CHAPTER XXXVIII
Michael dashed out into the quiet street. Dusk had fallen half an hour before. There was the scent of bonfires in the darkness. A moon hung, poised uncertainly over the church steeple. There were clouds.

names through every court in the land—"

Michael's knuckles whitened. He could stand it. It wouldn't matter to him. But Katharine—he couldn't let her do this to Katharine.

Sally's fishwife voice screamed on.

"You remember I told you from the start it was a mistake," Michael said quietly.

"That's right—that's right. Say I proposed to you!" the girl laughed him.

He released her, shrugging his shoulders. His imperturbability roused her to afresh torrent of abuse. Her father appeared in the doorway.

"Listen, kiddo," he began pacifically. "You don't want them saying in the town you were jilted, do you?"

"Let them—if they dare!" Sally cried. Her bosom heaved. Her dark hair was in a fine disarray. Her dark eyes flashed lightning.

"But that's what they'll say if you go after Michael," the old man put in shrewdly. He had been thinking deeply as he sat in his study, within sound of her vehemence. This—this would never do! His business, his reputation in Inneiock would be ruined if Sally stormed through the courts with her untamed rage unleashed.

"They'll say it anyway," the girl flung at him, not to be put off so easily.

"No, they won't," the old man told her. "No, they won't. We'll give it out that Michael had a relapse. That he hadn't recovered from the illness—that the marriage is indefinitely postponed. Then you can go off to Paris; you've been wanting to do that for a long time. You know you have—"

"You mean that? You're not just trying to calm me down?"

"I mean it. You can sail as soon as you like. Stay all winter. Frocks and hats galore—"

Under her tempestuous airs Sally shrewdly estimated the situation. But she would not satisfy them.

"I'll think about it," she said, regarding the two men between narrowed lids.

"Someone's got to pay for this," she told them. "It's not going to be little Sally."

Capital Awaits Contest Victor

An all expense trip to Hollywood and a contract for paid engagements at Radio Station WFAA, Dallas, will be awarded the winner of an amateur entertainers' contest sponsored by North Texas Chevrolet dealers, Mr. Pruet of Anderson-Pruet, Inc., announced today.

The free trip to Hollywood will include a two-day stop over at the San Diego Pacific International Exposition and an audition at Warner Bros. Hollywood radio station," explained Mr. Pruet.

Entry blanks for the contest may be obtained from Mr. Pruet, local Chevrolet dealer, who will also furnish detailed rules for the competition.

"This contest is strictly for amateurs," said Mr. Pruet. "Winners of district, state, or national auditions previously held are excluded."

Preliminary auditions for contestants of the Ranger district will be held July 1 and 2 at the Arcadia Theatre. Prizes for the local preliminaries winners will soon be announced.

Final preliminary auditions will take place at the Paramount theatre in Abilene, July 8, 9 and 10. Five winners will be chosen to appear in the district's final auditions on the Melba theatre stage July 14.

"Winners in the district final auditions at the Melba theatre will reassemble at the Melba the evening of Sept. 8, when the grand prize winners for the bone will be chosen."

"The contest will be one as important from the personal appearance standpoint as from the broadcast standpoint, thus giving all personalities and all types of entertainers equal handicaps," said Mr. Pruet.

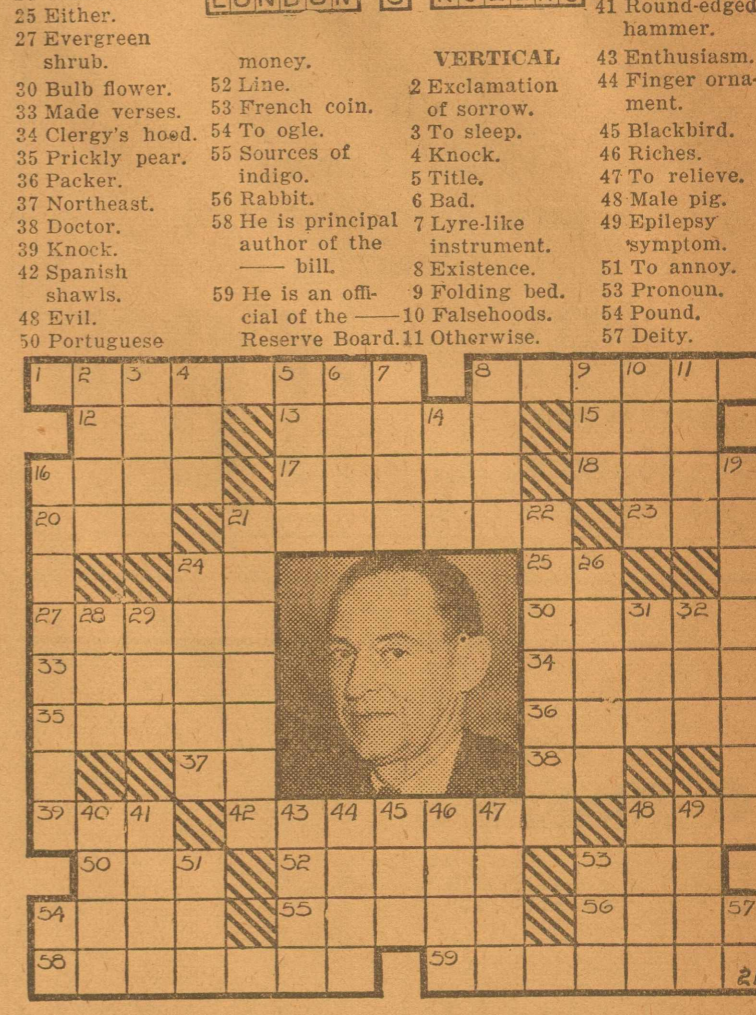

The 10 Sunday night district finals auditions in the Melba theatre stage will be broadcast over Station WFAA.

The various district final auditions, to be held at the Melba theatre, Dallas, on successive Sunday evening beginning July 7, will be gala events. The audition broadcast will last 30 minutes and will be nucleus for a full program of entertainment with music by Hyman Charninsky's orchestra.

PHILADELPHIA.—Dr. Reese James, director of a course in journalism at the University of Pennsylvania, finds that superstition rules many of his students just as it does savages.
He recently quizzed 100 students on their superstitious beliefs. He found that all had their pets and in great variety.
He learned that the cynical sophisticates of the younger generation still believe it is bad luck to break a mirror, permit a black

OAK GROVE

The health in this community is fine.
The crop prospects are fine but about 30 days late. The rains last week have put the farmers behind with their work and the weeds and grass are getting a good start and making it necessary to do a lot of hoeing.
A light rain and severe windstorm visited this community Monday afternoon at 6 o'clock, doing some damage to fruit trees that were heavily loaded with fruit by breaking off the limbs.
