SINCLAIR TO KEEP CAMP IN RANGER INTACT

Ranger was assured today that the town would not lose any families because of the Tee Pee-Sinclair deal, J. E. Meroney, president of the Chamber of Commerce, announced after a conference with Sinclair officials at Fort Worth.

Meroney made the announcement after a committee composed of Meroney, R. V. Galloway, W. S. Adamson, Hall Walker, L. R. Pearson and L. H. Flewelling had gone to Fort Worth Saturday to confer with officials to see if the trade between the two companies would mean moving of families from Ranger or closing of the Sinclair-Prairie camp here.

"We were met with a most cordial reception," Meroney said, "and were assured that our visit was appreciated."

Members of the committee stated Saturday afternoon that they were told that E. L. McMillen would be transferred to a more central location and would be promoted to division superintendent.

It was stated that some families might be moved, but that in the end Ranger would not lose by the deal, as other families would be moved to Ranger to offset any loss of population suffered through their transfer.

The committee was assured that the camp would not be abandoned, and that it would be maintained, as at present by the company.

Officials said that they felt kindly toward Ranger, as they had been extended many courtesies here, and that it had been possible for them to maintain a camp here as cheaply, if not cheaper, than at any other point. It was intimated that this was one of the reasons for maintaining the camp here at this time.

No details were given the committee as to what changes would be made in the personnel of the company here, but it was repeated that though some families might be moved in and Ranger would be just as well off in the long run as if the trade with the Texas Pacific Coal and Oil company had not been made.

A number of Tee Pee families have moved to Ranger from Thuber, it was pointed out by Meroney and with the Sinclair families remaining, it will mean that Ranger will really gain by the deal, inasmuch as the town is getting a number of new families.

Funeral services for C. W. McGlothlin to be held here today.

Charles W. McGlothlin, 51, who had worked for the Sinclair here for about 15 years but who had been recently transferred to Hamlin, was fatally injured when a derrick was pulled in on him last Thursday morning when he with others were pulling tubing from a well near Hamlin.

McGlothlin died from his injuries at 9 o'clock Friday morning at a hospital in Hamlin.

Funeral services will be conducted Sunday afternoon at 3:30 at the Central Baptist church in Ranger. Services are to be conducted by Rev. K. C. Edmonds.

Commerce Aide President Ousted

Threatening to stay in Washington "until I clean up this town," Ewing Y. Mitchell (above) of Missouri, was removed by presidential order, after more than nine months controversy, from his post as Assistant Secretary of Commerce. #### Eastland Included In Appropriations For Post Office

Eastland was included in the list of Texas cities eligible under a new appropriations bill for post office structures, being listed for a $74,000 building.

The house of representatives has passed the second deficiency bill which included an appropriation of $58,000,000 for public buildings, outside the District of Columbia.

Congress recommends in the bill, which now goes to the senate, that the treasury and post office departments select buildings from a list of approximately 1,200 cities.

It is not mandatory, however, that selections be made from the list, the two departments being given discretionary powers.

BABY STILL ILL

L. Davenport this week, attorneys and court records disclosed Saturday.

County Supt. C. S. Eldridge indicated the school controversy would be ironed out by the county board.

MAN ADMITS SLAYING OF YOUNG GIRL

PEORIA, Ill., June 22.—Police today said that Gerald Thompson, 25-year-old machinist, has confessed he murdered Mildred Hallmark, 19, because she bit his hand when he tried to make love to her.

Thompson broke down after 20 hours of police questioning. He confessed, police said, when Mildred's bloody garments were tossed into his lap. He followed her Monday, he said, to a cemetery and forced her in his car. When she resisted his advances he struck her on the chin.

Within the next few days announcement will be made in regard to the hours of the children's story hour to which all the children of Ranger are invited.

Wanted—A $400.50 Idea!

"Then take this honey for the bitter cup, There is no failure except in giving up."

Staking their plans for the future on these words, the Board of Trustees of the Ranger schools and the auditorium committee are scratching their heads for new ideas to raise money to pay for the 300 auditorium seats recently bought.

The seats cost $400.50. They were to be paid for out of the school's part of the proceeds from the recently-staged Passion Play.

But the play has come and gone and the school is not one penny better off. Not one cent did the school make and it required considerable maneuvering on the part of those who were responsible for bringing the play to Ranger has taken a considerable loss, and inasmuch as they were acting in good faith, the loss should be borne by the community as a whole. But as for the play and its failure to show a profit that now is the proverbial "water under the bridge."

What is concerning the school board now is the question of how to raise the money to pay for those seats? The first shipment of 300 seats was necessary to take care of those who wished to see the Passion Play. They were bought on a gamble, so to speak, the board taking the chance that the play would net the necessary cash to pay for them. On the face of things, there will be those who will ask why the seats were purchased before the money was on the barrel-head. The answer is obvious. If the auditorium was to be used for the Passion Play the seats were a necessity, the American people not being sufficiently Oriental at this stage of the game to sit on the floors of buildings.

And after all, 300 seats was a small lot compared to what is actually needed to meet the seating capacity of the new recreation building and auditorium.

Presbyterians to Have Encampment For Young People

The Buffalo Gap encampment of the Presbyterian church begins Monday, June 24, and continues for a week.

With great live oak shades, an unusually fine concrete swimming pool, ball park, tennis courts, mountain climbs, and study courses offered in Bible study, church missions, world-building, this is one of the best places in the west to spend a brief vacation. Expenses are very moderate.

Father of Ranger Man Dies at Home Of Son at Clyde

Bob Rutherford of Ranger received a telegram from Clyde, Texas, Saturday morning announcing the death of his father, J. E. Rutherford, who died at the home of his son at that place early Saturday. Mr. Rutherford was born in Arkansas and had lived in Texas 28 years. He was in Ranger less than a month ago and visited at the home of his son.

Last September Mrs. Rutherford, wife of the decedent, was a visitor with her children at Clyde and was suddenly taken ill and died as did her husband.

The body was taken to Jordan-ton where interment was made Saturday afternoon.

There were 12 children born to the family, eight boys and four girls, all of whom survive except Luke, who was killed in an explosion five years ago. The children are Tolbert, Clyde, Bob, Jack, Mrs. Grace Cooksey, Berkeley, Mrs. Sadie Lee Holcroft, Fred, W. E., Mrs. Clarence Derring, and Miss Kate Rutherford.

ALASKAN COLONISTS SEND OUT APPEALS FOR HELP

WASHINGTON, June 22.—Appeals from relief administration colonists in Alaska for correction of "intolerable conditions" today brought promises of a thorough senate investigation.

The senate, after hearing a report that "nearly every one of the 2,000 colonists is sick and there is only one physician and a nurse," ordered Harry L. Hopkins to report on conditions in the colony.

Telegraphic appeals from the colonists in the far north and reports of a possible epidemic, spurred senate action. Hopkins promised a report "will be forthcoming promptly and in full form."

The colonists were selected last spring from relief rolls in Minnesota, Michigan and Wisconsin. Civilian Conservation Corps men preceded them to Palmer, site of the Alaskan settlement. Government ships transported them to Alaska last spring.

Since then reports of discontent have trickled back to the states but have been minimized by relief officials. Some CCC workers are reported to have left to return to the states.

NAVAL TALKS DO NOT BRING MUCH ACCORD

PARIS, June 22.—Important Franco-British armaments conversations ended today with an authoritative statement that they failed to find a basis of understanding because of resentment over the new naval agreement between Britain and Germany.

It was said the conclusion of the talks between Capt. Anthony Eden of England and Premier Laval of France found the French statesman prepared to "listen to Eden" when the British diplomat returns from conversations with Mussolini at Rome. Eden was satisfied with his negotiation here.

LONDON, June 22.—British and German naval negotiators, in three days of discussion, have failed to agree on three main points, it was understood today.

The British-German agreement calls for a 35 to 100 ratio of strength for the German and British fleets. Technical points on which they have not agreed are:

- 1—The number of ships Germany intends to build by 1942.
- 2—The rate of construction of ships built.
- 3—The size of ships and guns.

Truckers Arrested In Hot Oil Drive

With her she brought 250 new hymns, an opera, and a costume from every land visited.

PICNIC FOR LONE STAR IS BIG SUCCESS

A thousand smiles spread over Eastland Saturday as hosts of cheerful Lone Star Gas Company employees and officials gathered for the Silver Anniversary employee picnic in City Park, Eastland.

Pipe line walkers, compressor station engineers, distribution managers, and meter readers joined hands with high officials from Dallas in celebrating the 25th year of natural gas service to the public of Texas and cheered the address of welcome by Mayor C. W. Hoffmann.

L. B. Denning, president, and Frank L. Chase, vice president and operating manager of the Lone Star Gas Company responded to the address of welcome.

Denning outlined the history of the Lone Star Gas Company which he organized in 1909 and related the obstacles overcome in those early days in building a great gas service organization which has brought modern comforts and conveniences to more than a quarter million Texas families.

Lone Star's leading part in the development of oil and gas resources of Eastland County were outlined by Chase. He pointed out that company interests and Eastland County economic interests were so closely interwoven that neither could continue in prosperity without the other.

Frank V. Williams, Eastland division manager for Community Natural Gas Company, introduced the visiting officials.

"We are proud of the fact that all officials of the Community Natural and Lone Star Gas companies live and own their homes in Texas," Williams said in introducing Denning and Chase. "Years ago some of our officials came from other states to pioneer natural gas service in Texas, and remained to build us a great natural gas system and become loyal Texans. Mr. Denning and Mr. Chase are two of these."

Other company officials from Dallas were D. A. Huley, newly elected vice resident; Chester L. May, vice resident and general manager of Community Natural Gas company; Will G. Grant, director of advertising and public relations; J. H. Dunn, reduction engineer; Alton Allred, assistant safety supervisor; Paul C. Coffin.

LONG BLOCKED IN ATTEMPT TO SEIZE CITY

Funds Supplied To Pay City Workers, Whose Pay Was Block' By Huey Long.

(Copyright 1935 By United Press) NEW ORLEANS, June 22.—The federal government intervened today with funds and moral support to prevent the New Orleans municipal government from falling into the hands of Huey Long.

The federal emergency relief administration advanced funds to assure operations of 10 municipal services. Observers agreed that had the federal funds not been forthcoming the old regular political organization, in nominal control of the municipal government, would have had to surrender to Senator Long.

Garbage collectors went on a strike yesterday, leaving refuse to accumulate in the city because of the blockade the Long-controlled legislature had established around the treasury. They had not been paid in two months, nor had any city employees.

In any city this accumulation of garbage would have been serious, but in New Orleans it was doubly so because of the farm climate. The citizens were as greatly alarmed as the "old" regular officials, waiting in city hall for something to develop.

Cotton Is Talked By County Group With State Body

County cotton control board members and County Agent G. Metz held returned Friday from College Station where they discussed Eastland county's cotton contracts with the state board.

Farming conditions in Eastland county are more favorable than those College Station and section, where heavy rains have wrought damage, County Agent held and members of the board observed.

Cotton board members on the trip were Felix Boland, Seranton; Joe McNeely, Kokomo, and Ira Swift, Rising Star. J. B. Hart of Eastland, office secretary, accompanied the group.

Milton Lawrence, attorney for Lowie in the first trial in which jurors were dismissed March 24 after failing to agree, will represent the defense.

Prosecution will be led by Criminal District Attorney Grady Owen.

G. L. Davenport, judge of 91st judicial district, will preside.

Another Teapot Dome in U.S. Shipping?

If any appreciable percentage of all the charges against American merchant marine subsidy practices be true, the situation demands review and reform almost as badly as the Teapot Dome mess did.

It is not merely that we have the old familiar charges of dishonesty and inefficiency; not merely that our government's effort to protect the lives of American travelers at sea is reported to have broken down; more than this, we seem to be defeating the very purposes for which the subsidy law was passed.

The whole idea of the subsidy, of course, was to build up our merchant marine.

Under the law, government loans are made for ship construction, government moneys are paid to ship operators in the guise of mail contract fees, and government-built ships are sold to private operators far below cost.

This was justified on the theory that it was the best way to build up a merchant marine service which would be of commercial value in peacetime and of great military value in time of war.

And yet one of the charges made by the special Senate investigating committee is that all of this has been useless. This committee asserts that, in spite of all these subsidies, the merchant marine is steadily declining.

It declares that even with the best possible administration, the present subsidy plan could not succeed in rebuilding our commercial fleets.

A subsidy plan is, in the very nature of things, open to abuses.

When you have the government shelling out huge sums to private concerns, you open the way for all kinds of trouble. Under any administration and in any field of business, this will be true.

Some official is bound to weaken under pressure; some business man is bound to unsheath his chisel and start using it.

It takes the strictest kind of oversight to keep such evils at a minimum; where the overseeing is not strict, the evils will multiply like mushrooms.

That is what we let ourselves in for with the subsidy plan. Now if, on top of all that, the plan doesn't do what we hoped it would do, the argument for some new method of conserving our merchant marine becomes overwhelming.

The Senate committee suggests two alternatives; outright government ownership and operation, or government ownership with private operation.

Whether a third scheme could be worked out, and which of these two would be preferable if that should be impossible, are things yet to be determined. Enough has already been revealed, however, to make it clear that something pretty drastic in the way of reform is imperative.

Golden Grain Crop Promising the Country Over

There should be food for all this year—at least, after harvest time. A total wheat crop of 670,000,000 has been forecast by the agriculture department presided over by the distinguished son of Iowa, Henry A. Wallace.

A winter wheat production of 141,000,000 bushels is the forecast while the department calculated spring wheat would total 230,000,000 bushels. There are 39 wheat producing countries, without counting Russia, where it is said (in the near future) the Soviet will supply sufficient wheat to feed half the world.

To remember people, wife of Soviet official traces their names in the air with her finger. Judging from the length of most Russian names, the end of a Soviet reception must find her exhausted.

Dealers Endorse Ads in Newspapers

DETROIT, Mich., June 22.—Seventy-four of Chevrolet's leading dealers, who together accounted for the sales of 38,116 new cars and trucks last year, attending a two-day conference at Detroit on sales and advertising plans for the remainder of 1935, went on record as unanimously endorsing the Chevrolet Motor company's decision, announced at the closing session, to retain the newspaper as the backbone of the company's advertising media.

The announcement that Chevrolet intended to adhere to this time-tried policy was made by C. P. Fiskin, advertising manager, who spoke in enthusiastic terms of the results the company has obtained through newspaper advertising, in which it has long been a conspicuous leader.

"We are constantly on the lookout for any means of making our appeal to the public more effective," said Mr. Fiskin, "but up to date we have found nothing to compare with the newspaper as the 'main highway' for our advertising expenditure."

Scientists have invented a "brain wash." The people who write those modern novels could probably stand a vigorous scrubbing.

Remember that consistently advertised goods must be worthy, or they couldn't be consistently advertised. Take advantage of the modern way of shopping. Read the advertisements regularly. band. "I couldn't see him go off like that. He looked so wild—so desperate. I wouldn't have slept tonight..."

A young man in worn tweeds, carrying a shabby bag, boarded a west-bound train at a Pennsylvania station that night. He stayed up rather late in the writing room. Two of his notes were posted at Manhattan Transfer. One was to Mrs. Stanley Merser, the other to Miss Sally Moon of Innicoek, New York.

Then he went to bed and tossed uneasily in the narrow Pullman. In Chicago he decided to take a plane for the rest of the journey. No passenger ships had left New York the night before because of bad weather conditions. But the rain and blowing cold fogs had been left behind in Ohio.

Michael had never been in a plane before. Below him the familiar country spread out like a checkerboard. He drew a long breath, stretching his legs in the cramped seat. It was good to have this sense of spaciousness again. In Santa Fe he left the ship. There was a jerkwater train to Roanoke or there were cars to be had. It was a matter of 50 miles. Michael burned with impatience. The train was not due to leave for an hour.

He jingled the coins in his pockets as the driver of a rickety-looking sedan came around the corner. Yes, he would drive Michael to Roanoke; no trouble at all. Silencia? Certainly, he was well acquainted with the place. A beautiful spot. The gentleman would enjoy it.

The roads left something to be desired. In places they were leoply rutted. It was a short route they were taking, the driver ingratiatingly explained.

Michael varied at the stops. The once the radiator had to be reinforced by water which Sebastian carried in a tin kerosene can on the front seat. The day grew very hot—unbearably hot.

Michael knew the very words he would say to the fair-haired girl he was seeking. He could scarcely believe that she had been, for an instant one day, his wife in the eyes of God and the law. He had forgotten, if ever he had known it, that life could be so good.

This fellow probably was riding him all over God-knows-where to collect a fare. Michael fumed at the thousand and one delays. But at long last, the single narrow street of Roanoke loomed up out of the desert. And half a mile out of town they saw the creamy walls of a long, low adobe house.

"Silencia, my gentleman," said Sebastian with a flash of white teeth. Michael's heart thudded impatiently.

School Ordered—

placed Dan Horn and Nimrod schools back into the Seranton consolidated school district, and heard in the 91st court June 14, the court has reserved its decision pending further information on the case. The decision to dissolve the temporary injunction was arrived at after finding by the court that it was the intention of the state superintendent to remand the case for determination to the county school board, instead of dismissing the appeal, leaving the 91st district court without jurisdiction in the premises.

Previous to his decision to dissolve the injunction, Judge Davenport discussed the history of the case since the disagreement between the schools composing the Seranton consolidated school district was formed, and conclusions reached during the several trials of the case in the 91st court. He said:

"About four years ago there was an attempt to merge three or four schools, including Dan Horn, Nimrod, Seranton, Haskell and Atwell, but it developed in these hearings that two of the schools, Haskell and Atwell never joined the consolidation.

"Later by petition Dan Horn and Nimrod sought to be released from the consolidation, which was acquiesced in by the county school board, whose order was just as binding as that of the district court. This action made it necessary for the Seranton school board to appeal the case. Two avenues were open, direct to the state superintendent or to the district court. Seranton perfected its appeal direct to the state superintendent, and during the appeal it was understood that Dan Horn and Nimrod was out of the consolidation. The state superintendent delayed his final decision, but at one time, it is understood, he reversed the ruling of the county board, but rescinded, and promised the parties to the appeal a rehearing. However, he failed to act for six or eight months. Last April he is purported to have disposed of the case. Instead of entering an order on his minutes as was proper, he contented himself with writing letters stating his holdings to the opposing litigants, which were susceptible of different constructions. It being important to determine whether or not he left the order of dissolution by the county board in effect, or whether or not it was his intention to remand the case to the county board for further action. "In order to supply this information has been the cause of the delay in reaching a decision. If it was the intention of the state superintendent to remand the case to the county board for action, then the district court is without jurisdiction to hear or determine the controversy between the parties, litigants in this case."

her hand over her mouth to stifle an exclamation of terror, purely involuntary. This was a lonely place. They had been told so early and often, by many of their friends, but they had never before seen loiterers about.

Stanley pulled into the driveway and opened the door at his left. The man came toward them briskly. Violet saw it was Michael.

She introduced the two men briefly. "May I talk to you for a moment?" Michael asked. He added that he knew it was late, but the matter was urgent.

"Of course," Violet led the way into the chintz-hung sitting room, switching on lights as she went. Stanley, with a muttered excuse, left them together.

"You know where Katharine is?" Michael made it more of a statement than a question. Violet glanced at him uneasily. Really, she thought, this was a difficult spot to be in. She knew the girl had left Innicoek to forget him. Only this afternoon she had heard that he was to be married to Sally Moon.

"I called her house. Her stepmother hung up on me," Michael explained gravely. Violet, as always, felt a little thrill of anger toward Bertine. So much of this mischief could be laid at her door. That thoroughly smug, good woman...

"Katharine asked me not to give out her address," Violet said, frowning for time. If Stan would only come back into the room; she badly needed his moral support at the moment! She had liked this boy at first. There was something appealing about his lean fineness, the way his eyes were set deeply in his sunbrowned face. And the hand that held the cigarette was a good one, strong and well-muscled, the fingers slender and nervous. But you couldn't tell much about a person by looking at his face and hands. It was nonsense to say you could.

"Good Lord," blurted Michael, in the silence. "She's my wife—didn't you know that? I thought, perhaps she'd told you."

Violet stared, stung into speech by the direct attack. "She did. But you didn't acknowledge it. She thought you had played a ghastly trick on her."

"That's why she left?" "Mainly," Violet said rather angrily. The man was either a consummate actor or else he was sincere. But when she had told Stanley and Adrianson her theory of his possible loss of memory, a week or two before, they had laughed at her. Adrianson was preparing the annulment papers at the moment.

"She must think me a thorough rotter," Michael groaned. "I'm afraid she does." Men, Violet reflected, ought to pay a little for their treatment of women.

He looked at her. "I didn't remember a thing," he told her simply. "You knew—and didn't she hear it?—that I was hurt in a taxi accident?" "We did. But it didn't sound serious. She called the hospital and was told you were getting on all right. Then you came home, and neither telephoned nor tried to see her. One day you passed her on the street without speaking—" "I did?" "You did," Violet said, stealing herself against the impulse to comfort the boy. He put his head into his hands and groaned. Stanley came back into the room.

"We were going through a rehearsal tonight," Michael went on, glancing from one to the other. "I was to marry Sally Moon. Someone said the words of the ceremony—more as a joke than anything. I felt as though I'd been struck by lightning. The whole thing came back to me."

Violet looked accusingly at her husband. "I told you so!" "Lucky it happened in time," Stanley drawled. "You'd have been in a pretty fix."

"Do you think I don't realize it?" Michael wanted to know. "I meant that night I went to New York to have the whole matter of the inheritance straightened out and to announce our marriage at once. My engagement to Sally had been a crazy affair; she didn't really want it. It was just an impulse on Sally's part. But afterward—"

"She liked the idea of the title, eh?" the older man grinned encouragingly. "That was about it."

"Well, thank God, it's no worse than it is," murmured Violet philosophically. "Katharine has been hurt—but not permanently, I hope. Whether or not she'll want to let the marriage stand, of course, is another matter."

Stanley, halting over the words, told Michael that legal steps were already being taken to dissolve the bond.

He paled. "Sorry she did it, eh?" "You can't blame her for having a second thought on it," Violet cried, coming to her friend's defense. "You scarcely made it a success at the start—although I admit now that it wasn't your fault."

He stared at them both. "Well, I'll be pushing along. Thanks for bothering with me."

Violet's ready pity went out to him. He looked so young and troubled! Her woman's perceptions told her what a wretched time he must have gone through at the Moon's. And she believed his whole, preposterous story. It was too fantastic not to be true.

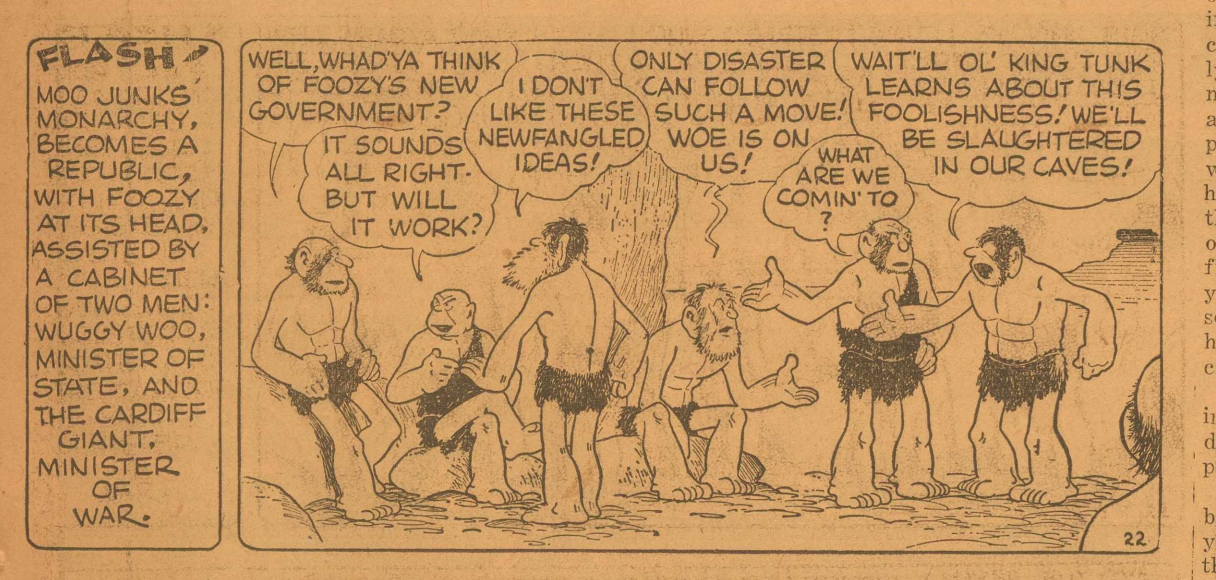

"Katharine's at Silencia, a sort of hotel at Roanoke, New Mexico," she blurted out on an impulse.

"Thank you," he wrote it down. After he had gone Stanley said gravely to his wife, "I don't think you should have told him where she is. It may make trouble. Adrianson thinks she should carry the thing through. We don't want to meddle."

Violet concealed her own grave misgivings at this breach of confidence. "I'll take all the blame, if there is any," she told her hus-

Young Oil Men Shift Attention To South Portion

Pending completion of several new wells started by Kay and Fultz, Charles Knox, D. M. Knox, and Nash and Winnefroh in the Knox pool, drilling interest has shifted southward to watch results of several tests in south Young county.

The Rubenkoing No. 2, being drilled by Nash and Windford is expected to hit pay the latter part of this week. At present 8 1/2 inch is being set at 2645.

The E. C. Stovall No. 2, was deepened last week to lower pay after testing the Herron City sand and is estimated at about 125 barrels.

The second of the two wells to be deepened in that area is the L. A. Lonk Kutch, being deepened from the 1700-foot sand to the 2400-foot level. The well showed favorably several weeks ago from the upper pay.

L. A. Long's No. 2 Roark, also in the south county field, is expected to be drilled in this week. Nash and Winnefroh's Atwell B. 1 in the Knox pool is drilling at 600 feet today.

Woman Is Good Samaritan To 600,000 Workmen In The State

AUSTIN.—A Good Samaritan to 600,000 Texas workmen is Mrs. Espo Stanford, woman member of the State Industrial Accident board and only member of her sex to hold such a position in the state.

Hurt and maimed workers, their widows and children, pass in review before her seeking compensation for their losses.

"It's a fascinating job," admitted Mrs. Stanford, member since 1924.

"I think there should be a woman member on every industrial accident board in the country.

Seven states now have woman accident board members. Massachusetts, one of America's leading industrial centers, requires by law that one member of its seven-member board be a woman.

Another lady, Mrs. Jewell Swafford of Kansas City, is chairman of the United States Workmen's Compensation commission.

The board meets each Tuesday for hearings. Members are Mrs. Stanford, appointed from the employees class; Earle Adams of Crockett, an attorney; and A. M. Graves of Clarksville, appointee of the employer's class. Make-up of the board was provided in the workmen's compensation law.

About 50 cases are presented to the board at each hearing. They are studied individually by board members.

While the board is quasi-judicial in character, its job is to administer the law. As such, M. S. Stanford said, "The board must seem to lean a little toward the worker, usually unable adequately

George went to his garage to get his automobile to drive after the stolen truck. When he got to his garage he found it had been stolen, too.

Mosquito Fight Has Meant Much To Check Disease

AUSTIN.—A fight on mosquitoes and other disease bearers has been of "immeasurable benefit" to Texas citizens and has increased the value of much property, state Relief Director Adam R. Johnson said today.

In Southeast Texas, relief workers dug 525 miles of drainage ditches, drained thousands of acres of land, reclaiming the land as well as eliminating breeding places of malaria-carrying mosquitoes.

"I feel that these health and sanitation projects like our projects in school buildings, are a distinct contribution to the civilization of our state," Johnson said.

In drought-stricken West Texas, wells were dug and improved to insure healthful drinking water.

General sanitation, especially in rural districts, has been improved, Johnson said. In one East Texas county it was found that more than 50 per cent of the rural school children had hook-worm infections.

Cities also benefited in the relief program. Unemployed built 254,200 feet of sewer lines, 17,900 feet of water mains, eight sewage disposal plants, and 1,025

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

BY MARY E. DAGUE
NEA Service Staff Writer

CHILDREN love a parade. And the Fourth of July is a good time to indulge them. So let's give them a party. The July party can be held outdoors, even to supper under the apple tree—or maple if you have no apple tree handy.

A six o'clock supper makes a fine climax to an afternoon party, and I think most mothers will agree with me that a real meal at meal time is much more desirable than a lunch about 4 o'clock.

Here's a menu planned with due attention to a red, white and blue color scheme that was enthusiastically approved by my youngsters I know:

Tomorrow's Menu
BREAKFAST: Halves of grape fruit, cereal, cream, crisp broiled bacon, muffins, milk, coffee.
LUNCHEON: Creamed shrimps on toast, buttered peas, apple sauce, molasses cookies, milk, tea.
DINNER: Slice of ham baked in milk, new potatoes in cream sauce, spinach in lemon butter, red cabbage and pepper salad, hot raspberries with cream, red milk angel food cake, milk, coffee.

Fourth of July Appetizer
Liberty Bell Potatoes
Hamburgers
Independence Salad
Olives
Ice Cream in Fancy Shapes
Sponge Cake
Caited Nuts
Milk or Cocoa
Recalled From Childhood
The Fourth of July appetizer is an inspiration from my own childhood when we used to force a stick of lemon candy into half a lemon and suck lemon juice through it. Instead of lemons oranges, thoroughly scrubbed and chilled, one for each child, may be used. To prepare, cut a slice from the top of each fruit, and with a sharp knife loosen flesh from shell and cut between segments. Insert a stick of red and white peppermint candy. Stick a small flag in the orange rind and serve.

of my acquaintance prefers hamburger or wieners to almost any other meat unless it is chicken, I had hamburgers and mashed potatoes. The potatoes were molded in the form of the famous Liberty Bell—I used a flaring tea cup for the mold—were brushed with melted butter and kept hot on a cookie sheet in the oven. A pancake turner handy transferred them to the upper plates.

The best marbles were suggestive of cannon balls.

Ripe Olives Provide Blue
Independence Salad is made with tomatoes hollowed out and stuffed with cream cheese. Pile the cheese up lightly above the top of the tomatoes and decorate with slices of ripe olives arranged in the shape of a star.

If you can't get ice cream mold-eds in the shape of bells, you probably can get it at least in red, white and blue.

Salted nuts and candies put the final party touch to the menu.

In addition, repairs were made on 1,580 water wells, 106,170 feet of sewer lines, 11,220 feet of water lines, and 34 disposal plants.

South Plains Area May Become Big Dairying Section

LUBBOCK.—The South Plains area of Texas is destined to become one of the leading dairying centers of the country, according to H. L. Wilson, cheese specialist with the Department of Agriculture.

Wilson said he believe branches of several large cheese manufacturers would eventually locate in this area.

June 1, and 20 per cent better than the preceding month.

Good pastures and ample drinking water aided improvement in cattle conditions generally. Cows were 77 per cent normal condition on June 1, seven per cent better than on May 1, and only 2 per cent less than their condition a year ago. Cattle losses have been light since the first of the year.

The condition of sheep improved 9 points during May to 81 per cent normal, the same as on June 1, 1935.

Calf and lamb losses have been fairly heavy this year, the report said, due to poor condition of the stock.

Oregon Fears Fires In Vast Timber Area

SALEM, Ore.—Forest fires may streak across Oregon's vast timberlands with unprecedented fury this summer, forestry officials fear.

The driest May since 1890 was recorded this year. To make it worse, spring vegetation—usually a valuable check to the dread forest fires—was months behind schedule after a cold winter.

Foresters—faced by this double danger—were tightening restrictions on timber areas. Many of the areas are "closed" now, which means that all fires started by campers are to be carefully watched, licensed and in some cases entirely prohibited.

Livestock Ranges In Good Condition

AUSTIN.—Extensive rainfall in May put Texas livestock ranges in the best condition in many months, the federal division of crop and livestock estimates reported today.

East and Southeast Texas had so much rain that damage resulted, but grass over the state generally was good on June 1. Only counties yet needing rainfall are those on the western edge of the Panhandle where the drought killed the grass roots.

Cattle ranges improved 13 points in May to 79 per cent normal, one per cent more than the same month last year. Sheep ranges also were 79 per cent normal on

Electrical Device To Tell Stratas Far Below Ground

DALLAS.—How geologists and oil well drillers can form a picture of formations thousands of feet below the earth's surface through the use of an electrical device, was explained here by Dr. J. C. Karcher, inventor.

The device, Karcher explained, is known as an electric logging machine and it can be attached to rotary rigs.

Illustrating his explanation with stereopticon slides, Karcher showed the results of a large amount of core drilling in Texas and Colorado which he did especially to test the readings of his machine.

The device practically eliminates the necessity for core drilling, he pointed out, as the driller can learn more accurately what formation he is in by the electrical measure of resistance than by frequently incomplete and unsatisfactory cores.

This fact and the immediate knowledge of any change in formation giving very accurate logs are among the advantages of the device.

The apparatus will be manufactured on a commercial scale before long, Karcher said. It is relatively simple, consisting of an insulating collar above the bit and an insulated conductor tube running down through the drill pipe to connect with the bit.

Wherever Fords Go... Good Service Awaits Them

WHEN you're behind the wheel of a Ford you enjoy more than good performance — you know that good service awaits you wherever you drive.

Efficiency is an important feature of Ford service. Uniform methods and uniform tools are used. Ford Dealers' mechanics are factory trained and have at their command such modern equipment as the Ford Laboratory Test Set which eliminates guessing from engine and electrical work.

Supplementing the universal and highly organized service facilities of Ford Dealers are hundreds of independent garages and repair shops which display the "Genuine Ford Parts" sign. These supply parts which in precision and quality match those originally built into the Ford.

Low flat rates for parts and repairs and the money-saving Factory Engine Exchange Plan are additional reasons why it pays to own and drive a Ford.
