Stadium Bonds to Be Distributed By Finance Committee

Distribution of the football stadium bonds and collection of the money pledged to help build the Bulldog Stadium, was started today with F. P. Brashier, chairman of the finance committee, and L. S. Riehm, dean of the Ranger Junior College, making the collections

The bonds were sold at a mass meeting held late last spring, at which time Ranger's part of the WPA project was pledged. The bonds have been printed and signed in order that rapid delivery might be made.

Other committees were busy to-day gathering up the pipe that will be needed to construct the sta-dium, and part of the material has already been placed on the grounds. Sucker rods to re-enforce the concrete piers has been secured and the concrete work was due to be started immediately.

Work of plowing up the field proper was to start today and the playing field made ready for sod-ding as soon as possible.

The Ranger Townsend Club No. 1 makes this final announcement relative to the county-wide rally to be held in Ranger tonight:

Germany Fortifies 'The Hon. Fred O. Jaye, candidate for congress, who has the endorsement of the Townsendites, will have a message of paramount importance and interest for every man, woman and child, and will also state his platform in detail. "Announcement is made by the club that they have secured the well known Goober Grabbers String Band par excellence, to furnish the musical entertainment. "Everyone is invited and urge to attend this rally tonight at o'clock.

ORANGE, July 13.-County at-torney James N. Neff filed a murder charge here today against Mrs. Thalba Sarber, 40, who shot her husband to death as he lay sleeping in his home at Vidor, near here.

Mrs. Sarber was lodged in jail here after she was alleged to have fired a bullet into the head of her husband, H. W. (Martin) Sarber, Vidor constable. She refused to make a statement concerning the Neff said no date was set for a preliminary hearing.

Henry Sarber, 14, a son, told officers he disarmed his mother before she could carry out a threat to kill four other members of her family and herself.

The constable was sleeping when Mrs. Sarber fired a pistol ably never will forget how her bullet into his head, the boy said. During the 1934 season the comely legs served as more than She then went to the side of a bed where her two-year-old daughter, Madine, had been asleep.

Madine began screaming and Henry ran into the room. "I saw mother standing over the bed with father's pistol in her hand," the boy told officers. "I grabbed the pistol from her hand and called for help."

Sarber was taken to a hospital in Beaumont, where he died.

Diplomats Are Found Holding Hot Potato

If you will keep a close watch on the diplomats of the English-speaking world these days, you will discover that they are making every effort to perfom an undignified act gracefully. They are trying to get their fingers off a very hot potato.

For England, the potato was grown in Ethiopia and dug up by that spirited agriculturist, Benito Mussolini.

Mussolini sent troops down into the ancient homeland of the Queen of Sheba, and the British lion began to bristle and growl. A fine spirit of international idealism swept the British Isles, a spirit fused with the traditonal anxiety lest outsiders poach on British preserves.

The fleet was sent to the Mediterranean and the air was filled with solemn warnings about the terrible things that would happen to an upstart nation that dared defy Great Britain.

But Mussolini filled the air with more potent thingsto wit, up-to-date bombing planes, from the cockpits of which keen-eyed young Italian pilots could peer down on a singularly helpless British fleet. And it wasn't long before the British discovered that it wasn't their day to fight. * * *

Mussolini blandly defied England's fleet and ignored her threats, Ethiopia today is solidly his-and British statesmen are trying to find a neat way of retreating from a position thye cannot possibly hold.

But if their plight is pitiful, consider the situation at Washington.

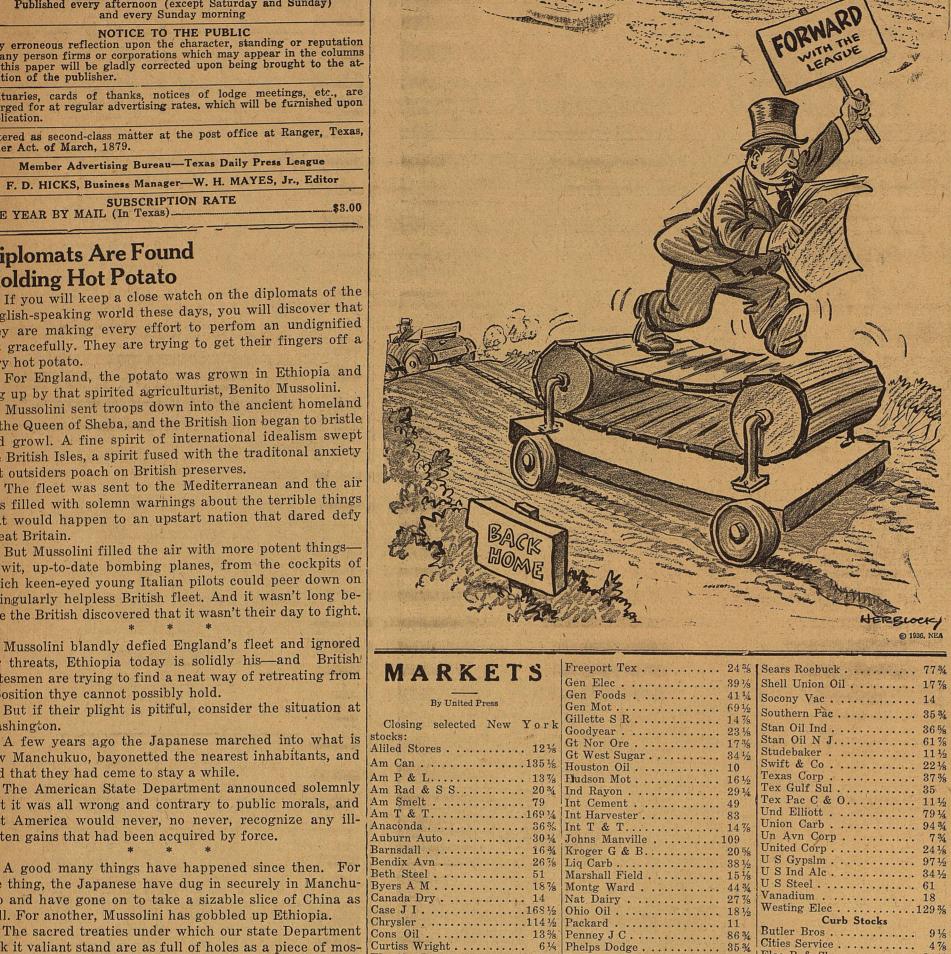

A few years ago the Japanese marched into what is now Manchukuo, bayonetted the nearest inhabitants, and said that they had ceme to stay a while.

For a high moral attitude in international politics does little good, these days, unless you are prepared to go to the mat with horse, foot, and guns to support it.

London and Washington made the mistake of adopting the attiude without having the faintest notion of using force to make it good. A dignified retreat now is their only choice.

All they get out of it is a new sense of realism in international relations.

In one convention item, "a grin lit up Farley's face." Which is quite a feat of illumination, considering how far back his face extends.

The appetizing array of cold cuts shown below is a feature of the July menu in the fashionable Louis XVI Dining Salon of Washington's Hotel Shoreham. Here Camels and good food go together. As Robert, watchful maître d'hôtel, observes: "Camels are the outstanding favorite at the Shoreham."

MACHINE-SHOP FOREMAN. John A. Merritt (on right) says: "When I've finished my meal, I shove back my chair, take out another Camel, and enjoy myself. Camels set me right! They've got everything!"

MOST VALUA-BLE PLAYER in the National Leaguelastseason -"Gabby" Hartnett. "I can smoke as many Camels as I like," he says. "A Camel with meals and after sets my digestion right!"

ON THE GO. Bill Ferguson, star salesman (right), says: "Camels give me an extra sense of well-being.'

MISS UVA KIMMEY. daringgirlparachutejumper. Miss Kimmey says: "I'm a Camel smoker. I like to smoke Camels at mealtime. They make food taste better and encourage digestion in a pleasant way. Camels don't jangle my nerves."

Camels add zest to eating - they set you right. No wonder smokers say:

MEALTIME often finds us in a state of rush and tension. The excitement and nervousness slow down the flow of digestive fluids. Remember, then, to pause for a Camel. When you smoke Camels at mealtimes, the flow of digestive fluids is helped back to normal. Alkalinity is increased. You experience the well-being that follows a meal well digested.

Camels are gentle on your throat and they never get on your nerves. Enjoy them often for their cheery "lift"... for their unequaled taste ... for digestion's sake. Camels set you right!
