U. S. NAVY TO KEEP SHIPS IN TROUBLE ZONE

WASHINGTON, July 22.—Re-establishment of a European squadron of the United States navy, to be maintained permanently, was foreseen by Secretary of State Cordell Hull today, as a possible result of general conditions in Europe.

Prior to 1929 the United States navy regularly maintained two or more vessels in European waters. Hull was questioned on the American foreign policy in connection with the dispatch of two warships, the Oklahoma and Quincy, to Spanish waters, as a precaution to protect Americans in war-torn Spain.

Hull admitted it may be necessary to maintain warships permanently in the eastern Atlantic and the Mediterranean.

Perhaps This Is Last Of Teacher Baiting

The schoolmasters and schoolma'ams of the nation are taking their summer vacations these days, and heaven knows they have earned them. And as they take it easy in whatever vacation haunts they have chosen, they probably put in at least a part of their time wondering if the slowly rising tide of prosperity won't at last cause the nation to let up on them a little.

For the school teacher has had a tough row to hoe these last few years. He has been nobody's friend, the target for every crank and demagog, the No. 1 item on everybody's list for economizing. You can hardly blame him if he is hoping that things will start being different pretty soon.

When the depression came, the revenues of states and cities had to be cut. Where did the cutting start? Why, right in the little red schoolhouse, to be sure—and in the big new high school, the expensive technical school, and the university campus.

First the teachers found their pay being reduced. Then in case after case, they found that the checks weren't coming through at all. The famous Chicago situation, where teachers existed somehow for months, and even years without seeing a red cent of pay, was only the most spectacular of many similar situations. Just how the teachers lived is not quite clear; but they gritted their teeth, tightened their belts, and hung on somehow.

Then, as the worst of the economic pressure passed and things grew a bit easier along the economic front, the witch-burners began to light their torches and go out on the prowl. Here, once more, the school teachers were the first and most obvious target—an ideal target, for the average teacher simply cannot answer back when inquisitors get on the trail.

From the things that happened thereafter you would almost suppose that our teachers had been convicted, en masse, of trading with the enemy in wartime. State legislatures and city councils thought up binding oaths for the teachers to take. Investigating committees groped their way through textbooks and lectures.

Young women who had their hands more than full trying to get irrepressible youth to pay a little attention to the intricacies of plane and solid geometry were solemnly asked if they believed in the Constitution from kiver to kiver. Only the football coaches escaped.

This wave, like the wave of economizing, is beginning to die down. The teachers have lived through it, and—except for those weary souls who are grinding their way through summer school—are taking a little well-earned summer rest.

As they rest, you can't blame them if they are hoping that the country's return to prosperity will cause their fellow citizens to leave them alone and let them get on with their thankless ill-paid, and tremendously important job.

THE WEDDING OF THE WINDS

Pounds Issues a Statement to the Voters of Precinct

W. G. Pounds, candidate for county commissioner from Precinct 1, has issued the following statement to the voters of the precinct:

To the Voters of Precinct 1, Eastland county: In making my announcement for commissioner of Precinct 1, I promised to make a statement later on in the campaign.

I have not made you any rash promises as to what I would do if elected, but have promised to do the very best that I can with the funds available, and not to show any favors to a special few.

I believe that your commissioner should at all times see that each locality gets its pro rata of work and that the funds should be as evenly distributed as possible.

I have at all times advocated a balanced budget where possible to do so. I believe in a living wage for the working man and will go on record to attain this end, when given an opportunity to vote on same.

I wish to express my regrets in not being able to attend the speakings in this precinct, on account of having no way to go, and I don't think it advisable to speak in my home town after having missed other dates.

I also wish to thank the people of this precinct for courtesies shown me in this campaign and hope you will see fit to give me a vote next Saturday, July 25.

—W. G. Pounds, Candidate for Commissioner, Precinct 1, Eastland County.

THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON WITH RODNEY DUTCHER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

NEA Service Staff Correspondent WASHINGTON.—First report of alleged irregularities to the Senate committee which will investigate campaign expenditures has to do with thousands of purportedly faked poll tax receipts in San Antonio, Tex.

Pressure on the committee, chairman of which is Senator Loneragan of Connecticut, to investigate the charges has been strong, since the congressional district involved is that of Representative Maury Maverick, one of the most popular and valuable members of the House.

Maverick is having a hard fight for renomination—equivalent to re-election in this heavily Democratic territory—because of the huge sums of money being spent to defeat him.

It is understood here that Maverick is one of several congressmen marked for political death by power interests, as a result of his active participation in the battle for the public utilities holding company bill.

His most important antagonist is Ralph W. Morrison of Texas, a utility man, the only political appointee to membership on the Federal Reserve Board. Morrison is reported to have expressed willingness to spend as much as $150,000 to defeat Maverick and is said already to have spent tens of thousands to elect Maverick's opponent in the primaries of July 25.

MORRISON recently submitted his resignation from the Reserve Board, but Roosevelt thus far has refused to accept it. Meanwhile, the president on his southern trip paid a special visit to San Antonio and its Alamo "to keep a promise I made Maury Maverick," which meant as strong an endorsement as a president can give.

a candidate in party primaries. Morrison's chief claim to fame comes from his successful handling of the Hamilton Dam power project on the Lower Colorado river, which had been started, but left uncompleted, by the Insull interests. After failing in attempts to get RFC and PWA loans for development, he got a bill through the Texas legislature to create a state power authority to take it over.

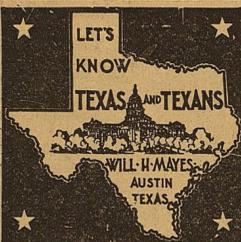

Then it was fixed up for the power authority to get a $12,500,000 loan and a $7,500,000 grant from PWA. Morrison is reported to have made a profit of $800,000 on sale of the dam to the power authority, which bought it with PWA funds.

POLITICIANS of the major parties are keeping quiet about the Union Party candidacy of Congressman Lemke, backed by Father Coughlin, and probably will continue to do so.

Strangely, perhaps, radicals who believe in a third party of one kind or another are hurling the bitterest denunciations at Lemke. Communists have charged that Lemke is a stooge for Landon and the Liberty League.

The American Guardian of Oklahoma City, leading Socialist weekly, charges that Lemke has "definitely tied his organization to the openly Fascist 'Third Party' outfit of Newton Jenkins in Illinois," that he announced "perfect co-operation" with Jenkins after a conference; and that Jenkins has appeared with uniformed Nazis on the platform at official Nazi meetings, is openly anti-Semitic, and favors hanging "labor agitators" to lampposts.

And the militantly progressive Nation is out with a critical article entitled, "Lemke: Crackpot for President." (Copyright, 1936, NEA Service, Inc.)

Q. Where was the town of Fairview located? C. C., Yoakum.

A. In the western part of Wilson county, three miles west of the old San Antonio and Oakville road, five miles east of the San Antonio and Tilden road and some three or four miles north of the road that ran from Floresville to Pleasanton. Once a prosperous village, it is now a scattered community.

Q. Was there ever a Texas town named Hayrick? E. E., Chapel Hill.

A. It was the county site of Coke county when that county was established in 1889.

Q. When was Texas Agricultural and Mechanical College opened? A. G., Hearne.

A. In October, 1876, with only six students. The third year attendance had increased to 248.

Q. Which is the oldest of the State Teachers College? R. W., Killeen.

A. Sam Houston Normal Institute, established at Huntsville in 1879.

Q. Where are apples most successfully grown in Texas? E. E., Des Moines, Iowa.

A. Apples are grown in north and west Texas for home use, but not on a commercial scale except for nearby shipments. The quality of the Davis Mountain apples equals any grown in this country.

Q. Please tell me whether the Mexican government permitted Free Masonry in Texas before 1835. R. C. S., Cleveland, Ohio.

A. There was nothing in the colonization laws or in the empresario grants prohibiting it.

So Much for Love

BEGIN HERE TODAY
HELENA DERRICK, youthful head of the women's sports department at Helvig's store, goes on a week-end party at Great Mountain Lodge. There she meets handsome PETER HENDERSON. It is a case of love at first sight between them. Peter asks Helena to marry him and the ceremony takes place.

Later the crowd goes swimming. Peter makes a reckless dive and is seriously injured. Linger- ing between life and death, Peter asks Helena to summon his lawyer, JOHN COURTNEY. Courtney arrives and a short time later Peter dies.

Helena is informed she is sole heir to a large fortune, including the Henderson department store. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER VI

JOHN COURTNEY looked at Helena in astonishment. "But that isn't the way Peter wanted it, apparently," he said.

"Isn't there anyone else?" Courtney studied his hands a moment before replying. "There's Peter's uncle, Roger Barnes. He has been managing the store. You see, Peter has been away a good deal."

"Then why shouldn't Barnes have it?"

"Because Peter has provided that you shall have it," Courtney told her patiently. "I want to be honest with you, Mrs. Henderson. We may have trouble with Roger Barnes. It's almost certain that he will feel the store should have come to him. I expect him to contest the will."

Helena's shoulders sagged wearily. "I'm sure I shan't fight it." She raised her eyes to Courtney. "Tell me about Leah Frazier. Peter inferred that she was your friend, but I—I know differently."

Courtney cleared his throat. "I'm coming to that. You see, Leah Frazier belongs to one of the town's oldest families. She and Peter had known each other since they were children. Then Leah went east to school, finally to Europe. Peter went his own way to a military prep school in the south, and then to Stanford. But when they returned, and were in town together, Peter called on Leah often. They were together at our local affairs. People began to take it for granted that, whenever Peter got ready to settle down, he would marry Leah Frazier."

"But he—must have planned to marry her... some time." "No doubt. As a duty," Courtney smiled. "Then you came along."

Helena's fists clenched until the knuckles showed white. "God knows I wish I—I hadn't," she looked at Courtney helplessly. "What can I do? How can I get out of this?"

The attorney shrugged. "I wouldn't be doing my duty to Peter if I suggested that to you—yet. How do you know you want out of it? The best thing for you to do is return home with me. The store is yours. You must do something with it. You can sell it to someone else, or give it to them, or you must operate it."

"What do you suggest?" Helena demanded evenly. "You're his widow's attorney now, and you have a duty to me, too."

"Well... My idea is that you should take over the store. Then if you find it—ah—inconvenient under the circumstances, you sell it for a comfortable sum. Possibly to Roger Barnes."

"I know what you mean by 'inconvenient,'" said Helena slowly. "They'll all hate me."

COURTNEY looked grim. "They'll regard you as an interloper for a time, possibly. I wouldn't mislead you there. And Roger Barnes may be an active enemy."

"And Leah Frazier?"

Courtney shook his head. "I can't answer that."

The attorney looked at his watch. "The caretaker has offered to take us to the station to catch the afternoon train. I'll see to... all the arrangements, and the services, of course, will be over there. You'll come with us?"

Helena nodded. "Of course I'll want to be at the funeral. Then I'll decide about the—other."

Courtney left the room briskly, and a few moments later Helena sought Sandra. Briefly, through a fresh flood of tears, she told Sandra Leigh what Peter had done. "But I can't go through with it, don't you see? I—I don't belong in Peter's life or in his town or in his business. I—I haven't the right."

The Leigh girl sat squarely in front of her, lifted Helena's chin until their eyes met. "Look here, child. I'm glad you came to me with this. I—I rather feel I got you into it, and I want the chance to see you through it. Answer a question for me—Who has a better right to it than you?"

"Peter's uncle. Perhaps this—this Leah Frazier."

"Nonsense! I don't know Peter's uncle, but there must have been some good reason why he was left out altogether. As for Leah Frazier, feel sorry for her if you want. But I'll tell you this, you'd better feel sorry for yourself. She'll have that town by the tail, and she'll swing it against you every chance she gets."

"But I—"

"Let me finish, Helena. You thought you were in love with Peter. I think you were, but whether it was love or just an infatuation that swept you off your feet doesn't matter now. You were willing to take the chance, and you took it. You couldn't know this was going to happen. And don't think you're being handed something free. Life doesn't work out that way. If you make a go of it in Peter's home town with what he left you, then you'll fight like hell for it and win on your own."

THERE was a knock at the door, and at Sandra's invitation it opened and revealed a tall, cool blond.

"Miss Frazier..." Sandra said clearly, "this is Mrs. Henderson." Leah Frazier's gaze was sharp, penetrating, and under it Helena felt her face growing crimson. "How do you do?" said Leah, immediately ignoring Sandra. She turned to Sandra. "I was wondering about the plane schedule to the city. I—I'm rather upset and I don't think I'll return home for a few days."

While Leah stood there facing Sandra, Helena examined her. She was indeed beautiful. Her features, her figure were perfect, almost as though she had been done in marble by some sculptor—but a sculptor who had somehow been unable to breathe softness into his work. Her poise was a mosaic, nicely fitted together, a pattern from smart schools, from Cannes, from Paris, from Florida and Palm Springs.

A troublesome voice somewhere in her brain kept asking, "Did you love Peter? How do you know? How do you know it wasn't the new environment, the gaiety of Sandra's crowd—Peter making love to you in the moonlight—how do you know it wasn't that?"

In a sudden flash of self-revelation she saw that what she was feeling for Peter's death was not so much grief as shock. Grief was something that welled up out of the years, out of an association between two people through happiness and sorrow, through success and defeat.

But her brain was too weary to follow things out. Her life seemed to have been taken into other hands. John Courtney seemed to symbolize a fate that was steering her along in the rut of the law.

Before she could be certain of anything at all, she was on the train with him, bound for Peter's town... the owner of the Henderson Department Store and the big Henderson home she had never seen.

GRANDVIEW

We have been having somewhat dry weather, and everyone would appreciate a good rain.

Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Lewis and family of Rule have been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Prestidge.

Calvin Brown was in DeLeon Monday.

Mrs. Jim Blain is on the sick list. Her many friends are wishing her a speedy recovery.

Several from here attended the picnic at the Leon River near Alameda Saturday.

Mr. George Ferguson and sons, Bob and Jiles and Homer Scott, of Stamford, visited in the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Prestidge Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. George Duvall and family are attending the meeting at the Church of Christ, Alameda, this week.

Friends of Doran Brown, formerly of this place, now residing near Rochester, are much concerned over his severe illness. Mr. Brown was stricken with paralysis and is in a very critical condition.

On last Friday, July 17, the children of Mrs. C. M. Prestidge honored her with a birthday dinner. Mrs. Prestidge was 62 years of age, having been born and reared in Eastland county. She remembers many interesting pioneer events of the early settlement of the county. The children who were present were: Asa Moseley and family of Alameda; Mrs. A. J. Lamb and family, Mock, Lorena and Antha of this community, and Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Lewis and family of Rule. Mrs. J. B. King and daughter, Mrs. Curtis Milton of Desdemona, Mrs. J. T. Brown and son, Jack, Buddie and J. C. Stockton of Cisco were afternoon callers. Everyone wished her many more happy birthdays.

Singing was well attended Sunday evening. There were visitors from several communities present.

THERE always comes a day in summer when hot foods taste better than anything else. Of course, the hot foods of summer are not those we like in zero weather. The materials for hot weather dishes should be less rich and heating inasmuch as we have no cold to combat.

The a la Kings come into their own in warm weather. Eggs, chicken, fish and sweetbreads make delicious a la King combinations and are not too heavy for summer fare. With them serve crisp vegetable salads and baked fruit puddings. Such meals are seasonal and easy to prepare.

Several cooks have asked recently just what distinguishes an a la King from a creamed dish. Well, there never was a real a la King concocted without egg yolks. Sherry and lemon juice always are included, so that the a la King has a characteristic flavor not to be found in a plain creamed mixture.

I like to serve summer a la Kings on toast rather than patty shells because patty shells are rich morsels.

Chicken a la King
Two cups diced cooked chicken, 4 tablespoons butter, 4 tablespoons flour, 1-1/4 cups chicken stock, 1-1/4 cups thin cream or top milk, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-2 teaspoon celery salad, 2 drops onion juice, 1-4 teaspoon white pepper, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 2 tablespoons sherry (optional but good), 2 egg yolks, 1 tablespoon water, 2 tablespoons chopped pimiento, 6 ripe olives, 1 sweet green pepper.

Melt butter in sauce pan, add flour and stir until smooth and bubbly. Stir in stock and milk. Cook and stir over a low heat until thick and smooth and ready to boil. Season with salt, pepper,

BREAKFAST: Cantaloupe, cereal, cream, baked French toast, honey, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON: Chicken a la King, mixed vegetable salad, blueberry pudding, milk, tea.

DINNER: Broiled lamb chops, twice baked potatoes, buttered peas in beet cups, endive and orange salad, floating island, milk, coffee.

celery salt and onion juice. Beat egg yolks with water, lemon juice and sherry if you use it. Add with pimiento and chicken to cream and cook slowly for a minute or two. Garnish with rings of pepper and olives cut from stones. Serve with hot crisp toast.

A blueberry pudding served with hard sauce puts the finishing touch to an inviting luncheon or supper. If you want to add an extra course and call it dinner serve French fried potatoes with the a la King and begin your meal with a clear beef broth garnished with tiny slivers of noodles.

Nebraska Surplus Rises Without Any Taxes On Sales

LINCOLN, Neb.—Debtless Nebraska offers an example of thrift to the nation.

The State closed books at the end of the fiscal year with $21,621,980 in cash and gilt-edged investments, an increase of $893,373 over the previous year. The increase in the cash account was more than $1,000,000.

Treasurer George Hall attributes this showing to better collections of taxes particularly among farmers who have been benefitting from a rising market.

Facts already widely known about Nebraska's state government are:

- No bonded indebtedness or any other kind of indebtedness. No income tax and no general sales tax. There is a 5 cent gasoline tax. The lowest tax levy for state purposes in America. Lower general property taxes for all purposes, state, county, municipal and schools, than neighboring states that have many of the newer forms of taxes.

Lone Star Employs Softball Players, But Only to Work

Rumors have been heard around Ranger that the Lone Star Gasoline Company is out to win the second half, by buying up all the available ball players, but this rumor has been spiked by members of the team.

Grounds, ace Caddo pitcher, Joe Hall, Elks first baseman and Darrell Talley, noted Eastland pitcher have all gone to work for the Lone Star Gasoline Company, but are not to play on the team at present, at least, as each will remain on the rosters of the teams with which they have been playing.

These three softball players have been given work by the company, along with a large number of men who have been employed recently, it was stated today, and were not hired to play with the team.

Lone Star, Caddo Winners in Games On Tuesday Night

Caddo had a hard time defeating Colony Tuesday night in the first game played at Municipal Field, winning by a score of 8 to 5, after coming from behind, while Lone Star Gasoline had little trouble winning from Texaco by a score of 20 to 5 in the second game of the double-header.

Colony took a three-run lead in the first inning, and Caddo was held scoreless until the fourth, when they accounted for two runs. They collected three more in the fifth, two in the sixth and another in the seventh.

Colony made her last two runs in the sixth. Lone Star Gasoline scored almost at will against Texaco, scoring their 20 runs in the first five innings and going scoreless in the last two, with Sewell doing the pitching for Texaco the last two innings.

RAILROAD WEEK CELEBRATION REVEALS TRAIN CRYING 'CARUSO'

Chicago, Ill.—In a Train Crier's contest, held here Tuesday afternoon, July 14th, at Wrigley field, J. A. Berti, an employee of the Milwaukee Railroad, was adjudged the 'Caruso' of all train criers. He is shown above trying out a few more calls shortly after he had been presented with the championship cup. The contest, which was one of the many features of Railroad Week in Chicago, was sponsored by the Chicago Junior Association of Commerce.

Going 'Over There'

If you're fitting tunes to pictures, this one calls for 'Over There.' WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go. The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk. Laxatives are only makeshifts. A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel 'up and up.' Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

Owing to the fact that I have been physically unable to see you in person to solicit your vote, I am writing this message in the Times to tell you that I appreciate what you have done for me in the past and also to solicit your vote and influence in the election to be held next Saturday. It is my purpose if you see fit to re-elect me to the office of Justice of the Peace of Precinct No. 2, two, to conduct the office in a fair and impartial manner as has always been my custom.—J. N.
