Football Boys To Eat Ice Cream As New Coach's Treat

Coach Baker Wright announced today that an ice cream supper for all football players and "all school boys interested in athletics of any kind" would be held at the Willows Thursday evening at 7 o'clock.

In addition to the boys the members of the athletic committee, Supt. W. T. Walton and J. C. Powell will attend.

The get-together has been planned by the coach, with the cooperation of the athletic committee, in order that he might meet all the prospective football candidates and find out more about his prospects for a team for the coming year.

"The affair will be very informal," Coach Wright said today in commenting on the meeting, "and I expect everyone to have a good time. There will be all the ice cream the boys can eat—I hope—and I would like for any school boy interested in any kind of athletics to meet with us."

Cole's Golf Prizes Almost Complete A Nice Matched Set

Houston Cole, young Ranger golfer, has been making some valuable additions to his stock of golf clubs and bags recently, after playing with borrowed clubs during his earlier tournament competition.

Just recently, at Fort Worth, Cole won a matched set of woods, of which he is very proud. The clubs are worth about $35.

And more recently he won a $65 golf bag, "almost big enough for me to live in," as he describes it, at the Brownwood Country Club invitation tournament.

So that fixes him up rather nicely, except that he hasn't a matched set of irons, as yet, but has hopes of winning some other tournament which will complete his stock of clubs.

"I have just some odds and ends for irons," Cole said today. "What I would like to win now is a matched set to go with the other clubs and bag I have won this year."

So if anyone knows of a nice golf tournament anywhere that has a set of matched irons as a prize Cole will go out and try to win them. And if he does his golf equipment will be about perfect.

Dr. Estes spoke of the dignity found in Rotary because its members are just in life as ministers of service. Further that the country is in need of leadership today as Rotary clubs are training schools for men developing character and leadership in their committee.

He told of once having a train stopped when he found it passing through a small town where there was a Rotary meeting long enough for him to register and keep up his attendance, so important did he consider that phase.

Boyce Dwiggin, superintendent of county schools, was introduced as a new member. Chas. M. Estes, son of Mr. Estes, was a visitor.

Miss Loyse Terry of Iowa Park was selected as home economics teacher by the school board at the meeting Tuesday night.

Jackson Campsite Of 1816 Is Found

BOGALUSA, La.—One of the campsites where Gen. Andrew Jackson, Major Gen. John Coffee, Major Howell Tatum and Capt. George Walton, Jr., camped Nov. 29, 1816, on their way to the defense of New Orleans has been found by Col. J. J. Walton, grandson of Walton.

The site is two miles west of Bogalusa near a spring on the banks of Bogalusa Creek. Original journals of the officers, now in the archives of the war department, aided Walton in his search. A former government official at Tylertown, Miss., found an old saber on the site a few years ago, and other citizens have found rifle balls and old gun flints of the sort used in the War of 1812.

Walton's home is at Emporia, Miss.

Garrett Says The Patman Invasion Is A Good Sign

"The people of the 17th congressional district are able to handle their own affairs and elect their own public officials without the interference of outside politicians," said County Judge Clyde Garrett, candidate for congress, when informed that Congressman Wright Patman of Texarkana would stamp this district in behalf of Congressman Tom Blanton.

"When he was running for office in east Texas nobody from this district went over there or stuck his nose in the affairs of that district. Those people would have resented such interference very much. Likewise the people of this district will resent it. They are intelligent enough to take care of their own affairs."

Garrett declared that Patman's invasion was an admission that Blanton is desperate.

He pointed out that congress is like a "club." The members, whether they like one another or not, don't like to see one of their number defeated, he explained. "They don't want the people to get the idea of change. Their own folks back home might get the same idea."

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—Pressure of increasing relief need aggravated by drought, forced the Roosevelt administration today to relax public works employment restrictions and add about $600,000,000 to job-making resources.

President Roosevelt abandoned the policy of requiring 100 per cent relief labor on jobs financed in part with grants from the new $300,000,000 PWA fund.

Strict application of the original regulations was found to have eliminated at least 11 states, including Texas, from participation.

The modified regulations, as explained by Roosevelt, will permit political subdivisions to borrow relief workers from other areas when they are available. That is, Fort Worth might draw on Dallas relief rolls to make up its complement of relief roll workers on any given project.

Texas Ranges And Cattle In Good Condition Aug. 1

AUSTIN.—Livestock was in very good condition on August 1, 1936, and ranges for the State as a whole provide ample feed for fall and winter grazing. Surplus range feeds are available in the southern regions of Texas, and prospects are for a movement of cattle into these regions for grazing.

Cattle ranges improved 3 points during the month of July, when ordinarily they decline 3 points. The condition on August 1, 1936, was 85 per cent of normal, compared with 82 per cent a month ago, 86 per cent a year ago, and 80 per cent the 10-year (1925-1935) average on August 1. Ranges are in very good condition and have a good supply of feed for fall grazing, except in the counties of north central and northwest Texas adjacent to Oklahoma. Most of north, northwest, and west Texas are in need of rain to revive ranges, but the ranges in most sections carry a fair to good supply of matured grass. Other feed supplies are also ample for the greater portion of Texas.

Sheep ranges also improved 3 points during the past month, when ordinarily a decline of 4 points can be expected from July 1 to August 1. The condition on August 1, 1936, was 88 per cent of normal, compared with 85 per cent a month ago, 88 per cent a year ago, and 82 per cent the 10-year average on August 1. Sheep ranges are in very good condition. Prospects for fall and winter grazing are very good.

Livestock.—Cattle condition on August 1, 1936, was 85 per cent of normal, compared with 85 per cent a month ago, 86 per cent a year ago, and 84 per cent the 10-year average on August 1. Cattle are generally in very good condition and there will be a larger proportion of grass fat cattle than usual.

Sheep condition on August 1, 1936, was 88 per cent of normal, compared with 85 per cent a month ago, 87 per cent a year ago, and 85 per cent the 10-year average on August 1. Sheep are in good flesh, and good weight lambs are expected to be marketed this fall.

Goats are in very good condition. The condition on August 1, 1936, was 89 per cent of normal, compared with 87 per cent a month ago, 89 per cent a year ago, and 87 per cent the 10-year average on August 1.

Wool Shorn This Year Shows Little Change From 1935

AUSTIN.—The amount of wool shorn or to be shorn in 1936 is 361,265,000 pounds, according to the preliminary estimate of the Department of Agriculture. This is 3,398,000 pounds or 1 per cent less than the amount shorn in 1935, and 6,023,000 pounds or 1 1/2 per cent less than the 5-year average (1931-1935).

The average weight per fleece in 1934 and 1935 was revised on the basis of the preliminary reports of the Bureau of the Census showing wool shorn in 1934.

The decrease in wool production this year was due to a decline in the average weight per fleece, the number of sheep shorn in 1936 being but little different from the number shorn in 1935. The average weight per fleece this year was 7.94 pounds compared with 8.02 pounds in 1935. Fleece weights were slightly higher than last year in the Western Sheep States, with an increase in the weight of Texas fleeces. California and the Coast States show lighter fleece weights than in 1935.

The largest decrease in fleece weights was in the East North Central States where the average weight in 1936 was 3/4 pound less than in 1935.

The preliminary estimate of the 1936 production of shorn wool includes a forecast of fall shearing of sheep and lambs in Texas and California and of total yearly sheep shearing at commercial feeding stations in Illinois, Missouri, Nebraska, and Kansas.

The accompanying table shows the estimated wool production, weight per fleece, and number of sheep shorn in 1934, 1935, and 1936, in the 13 Western States, the 35 Native States, and the United States. The forecast of wool to be shorn in the fall of 1936 in Texas and California, and the amounts shorn in the fall of 1934 and the fall of 1935, are also shown.

Freight Car Wild On A 17-Mile Chase

ESCABANA, Mich.—A carload of pulpwood broke away from its anchorings at a Woodlawn, Mich., railroad sidetrack and coasted for 17 miles on the main line of the Escabana and Lake Superior road before it was halted one mile short of its destination, at Groes, Mich., mill.

When the car started its trip, employees immediately rushed to automobiles and raced to half dozen railroad crossings to prevent any accidents. No mishaps were reported.

The runaway car was stopped finally by a switch engine which was ordered out on the tracks ahead of it. The engine speeded up to 30 miles an hour to prevent a terrific jar when the two coupled.

SOME RELIEF PROMISED FOR TEXANS SOON

Light clouds and scattered showers promised relief to Texas from a heat wave Wednesday, as the state counted seven persons dead, crops damaged and livestock dying.

A tropical disturbance in the Gulf of Mexico, which had been hovering near the coast for several days, moved southwestward toward the Mexican shore carrying the possibility that if it moved inland rains and cooler weather would bring relief to interior Texas.

Three persons had died in Dallas, two in Fort Worth, one in Waco, and one near Mineral Wells. Dozens of others were prostrated by the heat.

Crop observers said continuance of the heat wave a few days longer would do millions of dollars in damage to the cotton crop.

Bastrop and Kosse reported a maximum temperature of 114 Tuesday, the highest in the state. Fort Worth's temperature was 112.2, the record all-time high.

OKLAHOMA CITY.—A slight break in Oklahoma's worst heat wave on record was forecast today as the state counted 10 dead during the past 24 hours.

No Lame Duck Session Expected

AUSTIN.—Possibility of avoiding a special session of the "lame duck" legislature was seen here as Old Age Assistance officials thought they would have funds to operate until January.

The new legislature will meet in regular session on Jan. 12, 1937. It will then be possible to make a transfer of money from the funds which have cash on hand to carry on pensions until new pension taxation can be devised and take effect.

Participation in the Federal Security plan is more likely to form a special session than Old Age financing. An attorney who has studied the point says any act to make the unemployment insurance features applicable to Texas will have to be in effect by Dec. 31, 1936. The same attorney is doubtful if Texas can pass such an act that will be valid without a constitutional amendment. A constitutional amendment cannot be submitted except at a regular session.

Two Frontiers Offer Study In Contrasts

Two frontiers invite the world's attention these days. One stretches for 3,000 miles between the United States and Canada. The other runs a shorter distance between France and Spain.

Along the American-Canadian frontier there is peace; peace so firmly established, so taken for granted, that there are no guns to enforce it and no one ever stops to think that it is anything special in the way of a blessing.

On the Franco-Spanish border there are guns, tension and watchfulness. From below the Pyrenees come the crackle of firearms and the smoke of battle; on the mountains, anxious guards peer to the south, and to the north French statesmen try to make out the shape of things to come in the battle smoke.

It is quite within the bounds of possibility that the question of life or death for some millions of healthy young Europeans will hinge on what happens in Spain in these next few months.

There is a contrast between these two frontiers which goes far deeper than the mere fact that one border is fortified and the other is not. The fact is merely a symbol; back of it there are two utterly dissimilar conceptions of the way human society can be conducted.

The American conception is that of a world in which men will get along very well together if they are just left alone and allowed to work out their own salvation according to their lights.

It begins with the assumption that the human race is made up of men of good will, reasonable men who will find and take the better course if they have a chance to look for it.

The European conception is the reverse. It must have walled boundaries to divide man from man. It does not admit that there are enough good things in the world to go around, but suggests that only a few fortunate groups can get them—from which it follows, logically, that the good things must be fought for.

It assumes that men must be led, whether they like it or not. Its only end is the rule of the mailed fist.

The one conception sees man as a creature of infinite possibilities, and his history as an endless progression from good to better. The other sees him as a blind brute who will relapse into savagery if he is not constantly cuffed into good behavior.

Or, if you wish to boil it all down—democracy flourishes in America while overseas it is in dire peril of extinction. And with all its faults, its inconsistencies, and its blunders, democracy is the way of hope for mankind. It calls for freedom—freedom between man and man, and between nation and nation—and it assumes that man is worthy of it.

It is a noble assumption and a great hope. Americans and Canadians have no more sacred duty than to preserve it.

Their magnificent frontier, which runs free of suspicion and fear from sea to sea, marks a road to the fulfillment of the race's grandest dream.

One nest containing young was found in that vicinity, and another nest was found there almost 10 years later. There were reports of skylarks there as late as 1907, but, so far as is known, the species is now extinct in America.

Metal Teeth Made From Junked Cycle

By United Press

WOMBWELL, Eng. — False teeth made from an old motorcycle crank case are the crowning climax of a life of dental experimentation by Albert Orwin, road-worker living in the village of Jump, near here.

First Orwin tried his ingenuity on the knuckle bone of a leg of mutton but the bone was not big enough.

Then he tried using a billiard ball which, however, had the same defect, the diameter being only two and a half inches.

Success came when he melted down the aluminum from the crank case of the old motorcycle. The melted aluminum was run into an "impression" which he had taken himself.

Even so, this set is only for every-day use.

On Sundays his smile reveals a "perfect" set made from the aluminum screw tops of old thermos flasks.

Village Seeking Beauty In New War Memorial

PORT CHESTER, N. Y. — An artistic furor over a Spanish-American War memorial of a tattered doughboy who looks like a horrified animal has quieted down now that the statue has been banned and WPA sculptors are at work on a more "pleasant" model.

The giant, 11-foot clay figure carved by Karl Pavany-Ilava, 48, a $94-a-month Greenwich, Conn. sculptor, caused the greatest art battle among the village trustees, war veterans and WPA art committee that this little town has ever known.

Following an inspection by every resident, heated debates in council chambers and threats that the statue would have a "bad effect" on the war beliefs of school children, William E. Owen, state superintendent, doomed the project.

"The statue," he said, "is aesthetically unsound."

It portrays the heroic figure of a man with his uniform in shreds, his left hand hanging below his knees, his right presenting a rifle against his stomach, an expression of horror, disgust and nausea on his face. The head is small but the shoulders are extraordinarily broad, the arms long and the hands huge. The doughboy sways on legs wide apart with toes turned out.

Speaking as a Spanish-American War veteran, James May said: "We are all for it. I don't believe in war and think Ilava has done the right thing in not trying to glorify it."

"It is not the collar ad type of memorial," said Police Judge Walter Seely. "It would not inspire boys to grab rifles and rush off to war. It shows the brutalizing effect of war—war as it really is."

"There was nothing beautiful in the war," said Walter F. Praray, county veteran leader, when informed of the decision. "This statue is alive. The soldier is perspiring; he has just come over a hill; he is tired out, hungry and unhappy. He shows it. It is a great peace monument: It shows what happens when you put a gun in the hands of a young man. It makes him a brute."

But the village fathers, the mayor and the art committee overwhelmed the memorial's supporters. The village had spent $2,000 for the granite.

Mayor W. Burdell Banister protested:

"It is too ugly. It makes war appear too distasteful. It will have a bad effect on our children. Nothing like it has ever been done in the way of a Spanish-American War memorial. We need to beautify our parks and not put up a scarecrow like this. There is nothing beautiful about it."

"The head looks peculiar and the long, massive arms are like those of a gorilla. The man has a negroid expression. His left arm hangs below his knees. There is something Communist about it as a whole that I don't like."

"These men who fought in the Spanish-American War," said Dr. O. E. McKim, a veteran of 1917, "deserve something more beautiful than this. It is not graceful or beautiful."

Disgusted with the furor, Ilava retired to a nearby town for a rest.

Robinson Wins And Texaco Defaults In Games Here Tues.
Caddo's fielding was erratic Tuesday night and little support was given to Reid, who did the pitching. Robinson Grocery winning by a score of 14 to 3 in a seven-inning game.

In the second game Killingsworth, Cox won by default when Texaco failed to make an appearance, giving Killingsworth, Cox an opportunity to get out of the cellar for the first time this season. A game was played with a pick-up team, however, and the two games were represented.

The first game went scoreless throughout the first two innings, with Robinson making three runs in the third, which Caddo matched to tie the score in the fourth, but the grocers came back with five runs, made on two hits and a flock of fielding errors in the fifth to take a big lead which was never overtaken. They annexed another run in the fifth and five more in the sixth, with Caddo failing to score again.

The grocers were accredited with 12 hits, many of which were garnered because of poor fielding on hit balls that should have been played for outs, while Caddo was hitting the ball safely only six times, good support keeping their number of bingles low.

Softball Takes Definite Place In State This Year

EDITOR'S NOTE—This is the first of three articles on softball in Texas.

WICHITA FALLS.—Texas should have top-flight representatives to the national tournament in Chicago September 12-15. More than 20,000 adults, business men, professional men, and stenographers, have adopted the sport in Texas since its introduction in 1930. Two statewide leagues will choose their champions from 1,000 organized teams. Few Texas hamlets are without softball parks and in many instances fields are lighted for night games.

State Commissioner Harold B. White, Wichita Falls, attributes softball's success to the fact that it is a "duffer" game—where age, girth, financial rating are no serious handicap. Adults first played the game in South Texas, where it was introduced by Californians. By 1932, the Texas Amateur Athletic Federation was sponsoring state tourney at Austin.

The sport's greatest impetus came in 1935 when a 12-inch seam ball, much faster than the 14-inch outseam pellet formerly used, was made official. It was conducive to heavy hitting and plural scoring, much to the delight of the non-paying spectators.

This summer the Amateur Softball Association of America is sponsoring a state tournament at Fort Worth. The winner in both men and women's divisions will go to Chicago for the national meet. The A. S. F. A. of which White is commissioner, is closely aligned with the T. A. A. F., first sponsor of state tournaments.

Large numbers of Texans, have been attracted to softball because it is strictly amateur. The only equipment necessary is a ball, a bat, a pair of tennis shoes and some old clothes. It does not require the financial outlay of golf or tennis. It is less violent than tennis, and requires less time than golf.

The better teams, of course, include youngsters adept at other sports, keen of eye and fast of foot. Texas girls teams go in for colorful uniforms—shorts, blouses and anklets. Women's teams from factories, department stores, and large business houses are organized into leagues. Their games probably are better than those played by men. Scores are smaller and the margins of victory less.

One outstanding feature of softball is that a participant usually does not suffer aching muscles after a big game. Long practice periods are unnecessary.

"The feature of softball depends upon its continuance as a sport for the 'duffer,'" said Commissioner White. "It will be a sport for professional players and must remain amateur to appeal to every class and creed."

Delicious Landscape Produced By Artist

By United Press
RICHMOND, Va. — A Richmond artist produces landscapes that are good to eat. The trees, the roads, the pastures and the cows are delicious.

He is E. A. Bromm, a baking company executive, whose pastime is making pictures out of icings and candy. The landscapes are astonishingly real, especially after they are framed and hung on the wall.

The trees are made of deep green icing; the fertile fields of chocolate, and the cows of peppermint-red. A cheese-colored moon hangs in a vanilla sky.

If a picture turns out badly Bromm solves the problem by eating it.

Townsendites Not To Aid Candidate

By United Press
HOUSTON—Townsend Old Age Pension Clubs have no preference between Oscar Holcombe or Albert Thomas, Democratic candidates for Congress, according to Frank J. Ashe of El Paso, Texas manager for the clubs.

John N. Snell, defeated Townsend candidate for Congress, and Fred Shipley, head of the local Townsend Club, had reported that the pension planners have favored Holcombe.

"One candidate is just as acceptable to us as the other," Ashe said. "We are asking our members to use their own judgment and vote for the man they like."

"No endorsement has been made and none is likely," he said.

The davenport in the living-room shows the wear and tear of Junior's Pony Express Days — when he sat astride the arm and larruped his make-believe pony across the dusty plains. Junior is grown-up now (or thinks he is), the davenport should be replaced. . . And here and there all through the house you'll see a table, or chair, or bed, or rugs that were beautiful and comfortable in their day. But that day was long ago.

Now is the time to replace them — at savings. And you'll find those savings in this newspaper. Read the advertisements that are bannered AUGUST FURNITURE SALES. Furniture and house-furnishings are so attractively priced that you can't afford not to bring your home up-to-date.
