Ranger Day at Ft. Worth Is Subject Of Rotary Talk

C. E. May, Edwin George, Jr., H. P. Earnest and B. C. Johnson each had two minutes on the Ranger Day program in a general explanation of certain points in Rotary and their meaning.

S. P. Boon had charge of the program and explained the Ranger Day at Fort Worth and told of the work that had been done and urged all Rotarians as well as all the citizens of the city to get behind the movement as it was well worth the money and that Ranger would certainly get its money's worth from an advertising standpoint alone, besides the trip, fellowship and seeing the good shows that are a part of the Fort Worth Centennial.

Boon gave the program as outlined to date and said the band, under director Minnick, would have a large part on the program and would also be on the air. The American Legion Tickville band, under the direction of Dr. Harry A. Logsdon, would be on the program for an hour and would probably play at different points in the Centennial grounds.

There would be the broadcast program and other means of advertising Ranger, all of which will take the cooperation of the community, he said.

The general motorcade will assemble around 1.30 on Wednesday afternoon, Sept. 9, and be furnished with ribbons, hat bands and pamphlets, and given instructions as to how they can best serve at the show.

It was also announced that a trouble car would accompany the motorcade.

Mrs. M. H. Hagaman is hostess and Miss Ella Sue Kuykendall is sponsor and will be at the booth operated by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

Milburn McCarty, vice president of the West Texas C. of C., Judge Clyde L. Garrett, W. H. McDonald, Judge Adamson and R. V. Galloway have been invited as special guests for Ranger Day.

At the close of the meeting, President Fontaine appointed a committee composed of W. T. Walton, R. B. Canfield and S. P. Boon to investigate and see what was the status of the Milk Fund for undernourished children in Ranger and report back to the club next week.

D. Joseph has charge of the program next Wednesday.

Band Benefit Game To Be On Friday

A 20-minute concert by the Ranger Band, which is to make the trip to Fort Worth on Ranger Day, and two softball games, will be featured at Municipal field Friday night. The proceeds of the games will be used to help defray expenses of the band to Fort Worth September 9.

After the band concert the first game of the evening will be staged between Robinson Grocery and a Gorman team. The Gorman team is reported to be a fast bunch of ball players who will put up a good game.

The second game is tentatively scheduled between Powell's Grocery and another girls' team, probably from Throckmorton.

Playoff Series to Continue Tonight

The second of the playoff series games between Lone Star Gasoline, winner of the second half, and Lone Star Gas, second half winners, will be played tonight at Municipal field.

Lone Star Gasoline was winner of the first game by a score of 9 to 7 and another close game is anticipated for tonight.

Farm Real Estate Taxes Reduced Third Since 1929

A 36 per cent reduction in farm real estate taxes per acre from the year 1929 through 1935 is shown by reports of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics.

The tax last year averaged about 37 cents an acre the country over although it varied widely in different sections. This compared with 58 cents in 1929. The 1929 rate was the highest in the Nation's history.

Farm taxes doubled between the years 1900 and 1913, and doubled again during the next seven years. In 1920, the tax per acre was four times that in 1900. In 1928 and 1929 it was nearly five times that in 1900. Now it is about three times the 1900 levy.

The sharp rise in taxes from 1900 through 1929 is attributed largely to rapid expansion in local and state services—chiefly road-building and education. There was, however, a rise of about 73 per cent in the general price level during this period, and likewise a rise in the prices of things and services which governments buy.

Economic depression from 1930 through 1932 sharply reversed the farm taxation trend. Rates fell as local expenditures were curtailed through the elimination of some public services and the shifting of the cost of others to the State and Federal governments.

MAN SOUGHT IN MURDER OF TEXAS WOMAN

By United Press
LA JOLLA, Calif., Sept. 2.—A thick-set man with a protruding lip was sought by police today as the sex-mad slayer of Miss Ruth Muir, 35, Y. W. C. A. executive whose beaten body was found on an exclusive beach Monday night.

A few strands of brown hair found in the hands of the murdered daughter of a San Antonio banker will identify the slayer if he is found, police believed.

Two neighbors of the parents of Miss Muir said that while walking along the ocean front Monday night they sat here on the beach a heavy-set man with a protruding lip.

SAN ANTONIO, Sept. 2.—Miss Ruth Muir, killed Monday in California, was the daughter of Joseph Muir, vice chairman of the board of the First National Bank here. Her brother is a trust officer of the same bank.

Caddo Masons to Have Big Fish Fry

Announcement was made in Ranger Tuesday that next Friday night at the Masonic hall in Caddo an old fashioned fish fry would be prepared by the Caddo Masons and that an invitation had been issued to all Masons in the district to attend. Tom Hefflin, famous Caddo fisherman, with the assistance of other local anglers have assured officers of the lodge that plenty of fish would be caught and that Masons would be welcome and all the fish they could eat would be ready.

It has been the custom of the Masonic lodge at Caddo for years to have a fish fry once each year, and this party next Friday is only in keeping with the plans of past years.

No certain program was announced, only that there would be more fish eating than speaking and that whatever program was held would be short and the main program of the evening would be fish eating.

A large crowd is expected to attend from Ranger and Eastland.

Twenty-five hundred Oil Belt softball fans saw the Imperial Valley team of El Centro, Calif., defeat the Hanlon club of Breckenridge at the Eastland field Tuesday night. The score was 6 to 1.

Officials in Eastland said they plan to arrange a game with the softball champions of Arizona, a team which defeated the Californians recently at Phoenix.

"Best game... best field... best team," remarked the Imperial Valley team manager as they left Eastland bound for a national tournament in Chicago.

The story carried in this paper Tuesday, stating that a mechanical cotton picker, invented by Mack and John Rust of Memphis, Tenn., had received its first public demonstration, was read with much interest by a number of Eastland County people who know the Rust brothers personally.

The brothers lived for a number of years in Eastland county, near Merriman, and at that time were working on their cotton picker. Later they moved to Memphis and received considerable recognition for their efforts to perfect a mechanical cotton picker that would really work.

Recently, according to press dispatches, John Rust went to Russia where he was to give demonstrations before officials of the Soviet government, while Mack remained

Missionary Ranks Engineers As The Most Effective

By United Press
SYDNEY — Where formerly a degree of doctor of medicine was one of the best attributes of missionary, an engineering degree is now considered as the most effective one in Australia.

At Milingimbi, in northern Australia, the Rev. H. Shepherdsen, head of the mission, has the degree of bachelor of engineering. His assistant, G. Sweeney, is a licensed civil engineer.

The Rev. Shepherdsen has constructed among other things a boat, a plane, a radio receiving and sending station and many other engineering devices that have had an astounding effect on the aborigine population.

His plane is named the "Flying Doctor" and is used in carrying medical supplies and necessities to both the aborigines and needy settlers along the coast.

He is at work on the construction of a passenger-carrying plane.

Texas Has Many Metals Underground

By United Press
AUSTIN—Oil and gas are by far the principal underground resources of Texas, but the Minerals Yearbook of 1936, shortly to be issued by the United States Bureau of Mines, will show great value of other underground wealth.

Metal mines in the state in one year produced 72,222 tons of ore yielding in terms of recovered metals $781,614. This computation is based on 518 fine ounces of gold valued at 635 an ounce; more than 1,000,000 ounces of silver valued at 72 cents an ounce; more than a million pounds of lead valued at four cents a pound, and 28,000 pounds of copper valued at eight cents a pound.

The bulk of the gold, silver and lead output came from the Presidio mine in the Shafter district, Presidio county. The Hazel mine in Culbertson county produced most of the copper and was second largest producer of silver. Miscellaneous lots of ore shipped to the El Paso smelter yielded a small aggregate output of gold, silver, copper and lead.

BITTER FIGHTS OCCUR ALONG WAR FRONTS

By United Press
The Spanish picture continued, today, to be one of death and destruction in almost all parts of the peninsula.

Both sides were at death grips. Neither could claim any advantage. The loyalists at Irun, although in desperate straits, held out, and the rebels were unable to gain, although they poured a barrage of artillery shells and airplane bombs into the city.

The loyalists threatened retaliation by announcing they had 20 airplanes—more than the rebel air force—ready for bombing raids. They exhibited their hatred by executing an unknown number of hostages in the city.

Madrid was bombed for the fourth time. Extent of the damage was not reported.

The loyalist city of Malaga on the south coast was bombed again by the rebels and many persons were wounded.

Fighting was general south of Madrid.

MADRID.—A rebel pilot who was forced to "bail out" of his foreign-made plane on the Estre Madura front last Monday and later committed suicide, has been identified as Ernesto Monico, 29, of Rome, government officials were informed today.

BIRIATOU.—A smashing rebel offensive against Irun was resumed this afternoon after a lull during the morning fog.

LONDON.—The Japanese embassy delivered a note to the foreign office today in effect announcing Japan's intention of possessing a submarine fleet approximately 30 per cent larger than that of the United States or Great Britain.

The decision replaces the submarine parity among the three powers established by the 1930 London naval treaty.

U. S. Gets Glimpse Of Nazi Tyranny

Possibly it is true as visitors are assured, that ill-treatment and brutality toward Jews and radicals in Germany have been abated.

It is hard to learn the truth, as news reports from dictator-ridden countries frequently leave some details to imagination.

The best thing to judge by is what is actually seen. And New York the other day got its chance to judge. A German luxury liner was about to sail. Hundreds of visitors were aboard. Suddenly a dozen young women threw aside cloaks, revealing sweaters emblazoned with anti-Nazi slogans.

They handcuffed themselves to the ship's rail, and chanted slogans demanding an end to "Nazi interference in Spain." Other agitators, who had come aboard in the guise of visitors, shouted a like defiance.

It was a foolhardy thing to do, an irritating thing. People who would attempt it could scarcely be surprised if they were kicked off the ship with little ceremony, perhaps even somewhat roughly.

But what happened, according to reliable New York reporters and others who happened to be aboard was so sickening and such a revelation of ungodly hatred as to be worth remembering. Read this account from an eyewitness:

"Four sailors were driving a little man before them with toe and fish when a husky man in white uniform, apparently a ship's officer, leaped forward, wrenched the little man's right wrist up between his shoulders. He grabbed the hand in a cunning wrestler's hold and bent it down in a tense curve of agony.

"They lifted the little man and threw him through the door. His head cracked against the post and they lifted him again—sent his spinning down the stairs."

The girl demonstrators were brutally wrenched loose from the rail and beaten, not only by sailors, but apparently by officers also.

In short, it was official. Americans who stood by and protested were sneeringly threatened with the same treatment and at least one was arrested with the demonstrators.

Possibly this exhibition right in New York harbor of Nazi reaction to Communist agitation is a better answer to those who are curious about Germany than would be reams of stories out of Germany itself.

True the agitators were out of order in an especially irritating manner and "they asked for it." But they "got it" with a peculiar ferocity and sadistic fury that reveals all too well what happens when orderly democratic government is replaced by the hatreds of class and radical warfare.

An Iowan has found a way to make each of his hens lay 365 eggs a year, just about enough to supply the new crop of campaign hecklers.

TODAY IS OURS

by NARD JONES

BEGIN HERE TODAY JUDITH HOWARD has been engaged to STEPHEN FOWLER for four years. She wants to be married and keep her job in business office but Steve will not hear to this.

Steve, realizing she is in earnest, asks to come to her apartment that evening to talk the matter over. He comes and a short time later Bob and Virginia arrive with their friends, TOBY LYNCH, Steve and Toby have an argument and the evening is awkward for everyone. Steve remains after the others have gone and begs Judith not to break the engagement.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER VI

SCREAMING, Judith watched the heavy car plow into the curb, shearing off the fire plug as though it had been lead. For what seemed minutes she stood rooted to the spot, terrified with the realization that she had caused the accident—that the driver had swerved to avoid running her down.

She ran toward the car, one hand clutching at her fear-tightened throat. Even as she ran, the severed pipe of the decapitated hydrant shot a stream of water high into the air. It cascaded down over the damaged car, drenching everything near. Heedless of the geyser, Judith fought her way to the car and looked inside. A man was slumped over the wheel, his hands hanging limp!

"I saw him hit the fire plug," she heard someone say, "so the first thing I did was call the city hospital." It was the man who had tried to help her, the man who owned the little fruit store.

A moment later an officer arrived. "She was with him," the fruit man said, pointing at Judith. The officer came toward her. "You hurt any?"

"No... I—I wasn't with him. I stepped down from the curb without looking and he—he hit the hydrant to keep from hitting me." She looked at the officer, her face pale and drawn. "Is he hurt badly?"

"Can't tell," the officer said, scribbling in his little black notebook. "There's an ambulance on the way."

"I want to go to the hospital with him," Judith said quickly.

There was the heart-stopping whine of the ambulance siren, and her words were lost in the buzzing of the crowd. With the help of the officer, Judith fought her way to the big white vehicle. "Better sit up front," the officer advised.

WORDLESS, Judith climbed to the high cushioned seat. It seemed to her a wild, reckless ride, and the high steady whine of the siren did nothing to soothe her already overwrought nerves.

Until she reached the hospital she did not realize that her clothing was soaked through from the broken hydrant. There a night nurse peeled off her dripping coat, and insisted she wrap herself in a blanket.

How long Judith sat there, hugging the radiator and wrapped in the hospital blanket, she didn't know. But at length she turned, trembling and miserable, to find a tall young man standing behind her.

"Good Lord!" he exclaimed at sight of her face, "you're chilled through. I'd better see you have a change of clothing before you leave here."

"Are—are you the doctor?" He nodded. "Yes, I—"

"Getting along fine. Just a bump. Not serious at all—but he'd better stay the night here."

"Thank you," Judith said. "The main thing now is to get you fixed up."

"I'm all right," Judith faltered. But now that she knew the man would recover, now that relief had come, she felt very weak indeed. She swayed uncertainly, and the doctor caught her firmly by the shoulders.

"Look here, young lady, I'm going to see that you have a warm shower and some hot tea. You can stay here tonight if you care to."

"No, thanks, I'd better go home."

He looked at her curiously. "I understand that you weren't in the car at all."

"That you just came along because you felt you were responsible?"

"I was," Judith said. "I was thinking about something else and I stepped off the curb without even looking up. I—I might have killed him."

THE young doctor smiled and pressed a button on the wall. "Just the same, you know, few pedestrians would see the thing through as you have. And if it will make you feel any better, Miss—or is it 'Mrs.'?"

"I'm Judith Howard." In spite of herself she answered the doctor's pleasant smile. "Miss Howard."

"Well, as I was about to say, Miss Howard, I think the injured man had been drinking just a little." He turned to the nurse who came in response to his signal. "Nurse, can you scare up a change of clothing for Miss Howard? And a cup of tea or chocolate?"

"Yes, Dr. Harris." He turned again to Judith. "I'll see you home, if I may. Sometimes taxis are a bit chilly, and my car has a heater."

"Thank you." In another room of the hospital the pleasant young nurse agreed with Judith that Dr. Harris was a very nice person indeed. "The whole staff adores him," she told Judith. "And they respect him, too. He's really going places in his profession."

She surveyed Harris did not answer, but handed her the cup of tea. As Judith raised it to her lips, he said, "I'll wait for you in the foyer. Don't hurry. My car's right outside."

WHEN she met him in the foyer he greeted her only with that pleasant smile. Not until they were in the car did he speak again, and his remark startled Judith.

"You said you'd never contributed very much to the hospital," he said, "but the fact is that, just in the space of a few minutes, you contributed a great deal. Youth and beauty—and those are a lot."

Judith laughed uncomfortably. "You looked wonderful. The moment I saw you I thought to myself, 'I must know this girl!'"

At sight of Judith's profile, so obviously revealing her astonishment, he laughed.

"Excuse me, Dr. Harris—but hadn't I better tell you where I live?" Judith asked.

He looked down at her with a disarming, boyish grin. "If you want to get home, I guess you had. But for my part, I could drive you around until morning."

Judith smiled to herself. What a breathless sort of man this was! She wondered how much was real, how much was false. Either he was tremendously sincere—or he was taking her for a fool.

Southern Methodist Will Have a "Dark Horse" Grid Team

By JAMES P. DOBBS United Press Staff Correspondent DALLAS, Texas. — Southern Methodist University, which had the "wonder team" of the 1936 Southwest Conference football season, will enter the field this fall with a "dark horse" squad. Coach Madison Bell, who piloted his squad to the conference championship last season and to a creditable showing against Stanford in the Pasadena Rose Bowl game on New Year's Day, is cautious in making predictions for the new season.

She's Giving You a Glassy Stare

Viola Wille, above, of Chicago, is wearing a monocle! Or, rather, an "invisible eyeglass," shown below, made by fitting a lens to the wax cast of an eye, a system devised by Dr. William Feinbloom, New York. Newest thing in contact lenses, his product is made mostly of resin, with enough glass to cover an eye pupil. If you haven't guessed, it's in Viola's right eye.

Of the returning lettermen, Bell said he expected the two co-captains, Johnny Sprague, blocking back and defensive fullback, and Paschall Scottino, guard, along with Bob Finley, offensive fullback and defensive halfback, to be the outstanding performers. "We lost 17 letter men by graduation, including 10 players out of the 'first string,'" he admits, "but we have 16 lettermen left — and some mighty good ones in the lot. We expect to have a strong team which will give the fans plenty of thrills."

TCU's Football Hopes for 1936 Are Resting On Baugh

BY RICHARD M. MOREHEAD United Press Staff Correspondent FORT WORTH — Texas Christian University's 1936 football hopes rest largely on the true aim of Sammy Baugh, the passing and punting genius who carried the purple to national honors last fall.

Undoubtedly Coach Leo Meyer will mold an offense around Baugh, the Sweetwater youth whose passes won many games. Four senior ends and one outstanding sophomore, receiver should assure strength in the pass-catching department. The Christian line, made up of veterans averaging 200 pounds, promises a trustworthy defense.

Baugh is heavier than last season. He can stand punishment and if he plays the season through without injury T. C. U. will be favored over most opponents. Three veterans probably will be in the starting backfield with Baugh, the quarterback. They are Vic Montgomery, an able right halfback; Bob Harrell, speedy left half; and Lennon Blackmon, fullback. Abe O'Brien, sophomore, will be Baugh's understudy although Montgomery may direct the team in Baugh's absence.

Three veterans will be in reserve: Glen Roberts, fullback; Scott McCall and Harold McClure, halfbacks. Advance indications point to a ball-carrying squad less potent than in 1935 — from which Jim Lawrence, Rex Clark, Taldon Manton and Dutch Kline were graduated.

Three regulars were lost from the line. Foremost was Darrell Lester, twice All-American center. The others were Wilson Groseclose, tackle, and Tracy Kellow, a guard. Jack Tittle, Fort Worth, is first in line for Lester's job. He looked well in two appearances last year, against Tulsa University and Louisiana State. His competitor is Ki Aldrich, former All-State high school player from Temple.

Few coaches ever boasted a finer set of ends than Meyer. Four of them are seniors and all were the envy of opposing teams a year ago. The seniors are captain Walter Roach, L. D. Meyere, Willie Walls and Charlie Needham. Charles Mabry, 6-foot, 6 inches receiver, is a sophomore of much promise. A sixth end is Paul Snow, sophomore.

The left tackle position is "three deep" with big, fast men of proved worth. They are co-captain Drew Ellis, Aubrey Linne and 235-pound Bill Hale of Dallas. Right tackle probably will be filled by a sophomore, chosen from these three — Allie White, three times All-State selection at Masonic Home (Fort Worth); Russ Hinck and Abe Walker.

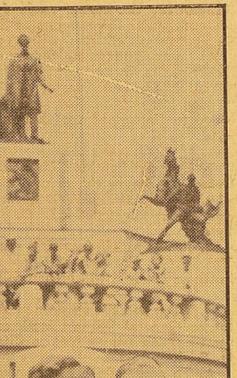

Solon Holt and Glen (Bull) Rogers are leading candidates for the left guard post although brothers of the famous TCU players are contesting their claim. The two "name" sophomores are Forrest Kline and Clifford Kellow.

The Purple's biggest loss this year was Raymond (Bear) Wolf, line coach who became mentor at North Carolina. His place has been taken by Mike Brumbelow, All-Conference guard for TCU several years ago.

The Christians expect to have a defense equal to any in the conference. Their use of defense signals (nine types of defense were employed last year) probably will be expanded. The offense will feature passes, of course. On running plays, Meyer's team will not be weak, however.

Texas Honors Site Of O. Henry's Labor

By United Press AUSTIN, Tex. — Settled after many years is the question of where O. Henry edited his paper, "The Rolling Stone," while here in Austin. A plaque had been placed on the corner of a local building which marked that spot as the site of the building in which Editor O. Henry worked. It was placed there by the freshman class of the University of Texas in 1930. Many Texas writers disagreed. Others said that the plaque

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning! Wake Up Your Liver Bile—The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk. Laxatives are only makeshifts. A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Stubbornly refuse anything else, too.

The saddest sign on road or street— "Concrete Ends—400 ft." 22 CONCRETE PAVEMENT ENDS For Safety's sake PAVE THE GAPS WITH Concrete Why do state highway departments warn the public: "Concrete pavement ends"? Because it is universally accepted that speeds which are reasonable and safe on concrete become dangerous on other surfaces. To save lives, to prevent accidents . . . demand concrete all the way. True and even, it has no high crown—is usable to its full width. Brakes are at their best on its gritty non-skid surface. Its light gray color and sharply defined edges give high visibility at night.
