THREAT UPON KING DRAWS A SENTENCE

By United Press
LONDON, Sept. 14.—George Andrew McMahon, middle-aged eccentric who said he had been bribed by a foreign power to shoot King Edward VIII was sentenced to one year at hard labor in Old Bailey police court today.

The prosecution did not take seriously McMahon's story of foreign plotting against the king. The Attorney General suggested it was a product of his imagination.

McMahon was convicted of "producing a revolver near the person of the king with intent to alarm him."

The trial grew out of an incident July 16 when McMahon flourished a revolver during a military parade and threw it toward the king's horse.

McMahon was found not guilty on two other charges.

McMahon said he was paid $750 for the attempted assassination.

THREE BOARDS ARE MEETING AT CAPITOL

By United Press

AUSTIN, Sept. 14.—Three state boards sat here today. The state board of education considered bond purchases, rural school aid and vocational training.

The state board of health was expected to consider a reorganization of the health department for operation on a district plan similar to that now used in relief, old age assistance and liquor administration. Election of a state health officer is due in December.

The state planning board was to receive a report outlining a proposed law to combine welfare agencies into a new department. Unless that is done before the end of the year, members said, the state may lose a large amount of federal aid.

A training meeting was held in the County Agent's office on Thursday, Sept. 3, at which time the supervisors were given instructions in measuring and mapping.

The ten supervisors, who were selected by an examination, to check compliance in the 5 sections of Eastland County are as follows:

Carbon—J. D. Guy and H. W. Gilbert.

Cisco—F. S. Boland and Joe Donaway.

Rising Star—A. L. McDonald and Roland Earl.

Gorman—George Cooper and E. Blackwell.

Eastland—T. E. Castleberry and H. L. Fry.

D. D. STEVENS GOES ON TRIAL AT FT. WORTH

By United Press

FORT WORTH, Sept. 14.—O. D. Stevens, convicted mail robber, began his fight to escape the Texas electric chair today as his attorney insisted that Stevens was outside the jurisdiction of the state.

Arthur Lee Moore, Stevens' attorney, introduced witnesses to establish that the defendant was technically a federal prisoner. Moore also challenged the qualifications of Judge George L. Davenport of Eastland, to hear the case.

Davenport replaced Judge Willis McGregor of Fort Worth, on the criminal district court bench when McGregor disqualified himself because of previous service as an assistant prosecutor of Stevens.

Stevens faced charges of murdering Harry Rutherford, one of three men found dead in the Trinity river near Handley in July, 1933.

Stevens has served 18 months in Alcatraz prison on a 27-year sentence for participation in a $71,000 railway mail robbery here early in 1933. A few months later Harry Rutherford, his brother J. B., and Jack Sturdivant were found dead in the river. Prosecutors contended the three were killed in an argument over the loot from the mail robbery.

The following announcement was made by the women's department of the Eastland County Centennial Fair, starting Wednesday for four days, Monday at Eastland.

Cooking

Mrs. T. J. Haley is hoping that Wednesday morning will find many women busy in their kitchens making a choice cake recipe or perhaps a batch of cookies. Who knows but what your loaf of bread, biscuits or cornbread may be the very ones to be awarded the blue ribbon. Mrs. J. A. Beard and Mrs. Johnnie Knox are interested in these good things to eat and will assist Mrs. Haley. Do not bring fresh food before Wed. A. M.

Canning

Mrs. W. A. Martin and Mrs. W. E. Stallter will receive and arrange those choice jars of peaches, pears, plums, berries, grapes or apricots. Also in the vegetable line there will be many entries. Preserves and jellies and relishes add to the beauty of this exhibit as well as to the pantry shelf. Do your part toward making his display worth while.

All exhibits and displays of the entire fair are to remain untouched through Saturday night can be called for Monday morning.

A watchman will be on duty and your entries will be well taken care of.

Bring your exhibits Tuesday afternoon between 3 and 5:30 or Wednesday before noon, to the Elks building on East Commerce street.

Model airplanes will also be a feature of the women's department.

COMMUNISTS BLAMED FOR SPANISH WAR

By United Press
Pope Pius XI, linking the Spanish civil war with the spread of communism, presented it as a world issue in his speech today in a broadcast throughout Europe and across the ocean.

The Pope pictured the outbreak as a part of the spread of Godlessness which he said is threatening civilization. He called on Christians to combat it.

The Pope's expression of horror over the war in Spain was instigated by a movement to humanize the war. The first effort to end the siege of more than 1200 persons at Toledo met with failure. The besieged rebels refused to listen to terms.

The war meantime went on with no signs of letup or any possible peace negotiations. Activities centered on the Talavera front southwest of Madrid, where news indicated the rebel drive had been checked.

In the north the rebels constituted a greater threat and General Mola started a drive on Oviedo, the next objective on the coast west of San Sebastian.

The governor said Leach could have escaped with others but chose to remain with a squad of 19 and offer aid to a remaining guard.

CCC Fire Fighters Cited For Bravery

If the government ever takes to awarding decorations for heroic service in peace time, as it does for bravery in war, some weary lads in CCC outfits must be entitled to stand in line and get pretty, bronze medals pinned on their chests.

The CCC boys work in the forests. Forests frequently catch fire, especially in times of drought. When they do, the CCC goes into action; and, in case you didn't know it, fighting a forest fire can be one of the hardest, toughest, and generally meanest jobs ever shouldered by perspiring men.

A three-star example is furnished by the recent fires on Isle Royale, in Lake Superior.

Isle Royale is far out in the lake and is preserved as a primeval wilderness. It has no roads at all and its soil is rocky and rough. This makes impossible the use of plows and tractors—two of the most important weapons in the armory of men who fight forest fires. And Isle Royale lacks sand, another important weapon.

Over dozens of square miles its rocky surface is covered by a shallow layer of leaf mold and moss, which burns like tinder. The fire crews had to lug portable hand pumps and to pump water over mile-long hose lines to fight this blaze. With pick and shovel they hacked out 100 miles of fire-checking trenches through hard rock and clay. And all the while they contended with a wind that could whirl blazing bits of bark a mile or more through the air, to set new blazes behind them.

Ben East, correspondent for several Michigan newspapers, visited the Isle Royale front during the worst of the fire and told how the CCC boys worked.

They got up at 3:30 a. m., ate breakfast, and started on a three to five-mile hike to the scene of action. They carried their noonday meal with them, on their backs; they also carried shovels, axes, picks, hand pumps, cans of gasoline, and other impedimenta.

By 6 in the morning they were at the fire. They stayed there until 6 p. m., performing the most back-breaking kind of work imaginable, under the most difficult conditions; then they would be relieved by a night crew, would trudge the long miles back to camp, eat supper, and tumble exhausted into bed—to be routed out at 3:30 the next morning for more of the same.

This says Mr. East, went on for 19 unbroken days, without a rest or let-up.

You have there a record of bravery and dogged endurance which compares very favorably with the kind of stunts that win soldiers medals in wartime.

The CCC boys met the hardest test that could have been given them, and passed it with flying colors. Incidentally, they saved thousands of acres of magnificent virgin forest for the country's national park system.

If the government has any spare medals, there must be some likely candidates for them among those Isle Royale forest fire fighters.

TRANS-PACIFIC FLIGHT

KAY DUNN, pretty young nurse, arrives at a small air terminal on Overland Airways. In the Overland office she encounters TED GRAHAM, veteran pilot of Trans-Pacific Airways, and largely due to his intervention, she is accepted for a trial period.

Two other girls, DORIS LEE and Alice Miller, are accepted on the same basis.

Kay, excited over winning the job, stops to tell Graham the news. Graham, who flies the Trans-Pacific route, is on his way to San Francisco. He shows Kay about the airport, where his plane arrives. She never doubts the wonders if she will ever see him again.

Kay meets Doris and Alice and the three discuss the day's events.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER IV

THE east-bound plane left the Central Airport at 8:05 with the three would-be stewardesses on board. They wore new uniforms of gray twill, like the pilots on the Overland Airways. As preliminary instruction they watched the regular hostess on duty.

Kay leaned back in the comfortable chair and watched the twinkling lights of the vast, sprawling city disappear in the darkness below. It was a thrilling sight.

She had to pinch herself once, like a child, to see if it were all true. Here she was on her way to New York!

Only the night before she had been one of these infinitesimal creatures down there, going home to sleep in a tiny bed. Tonight she was flying through the air!

The co-pilot came along the corridor of the liner, and Kay spoke to him.

He said, "I beg your pardon. I didn't understand."

"The westbound plane that left Central Airport at 2:10," Kay repeated. "Where would it be now?"

The blond young man glanced at his wrist-watch. "Cheyenne."

Kay repeated the Indian name. "Cheyenne!"

The boy laughed, and leaned close to her. "Boy friend on that plane? Women are all alike. They won't let a guy alone even when he's in the air!"

Kay's teeth flashed. "Conceit!"

"I don't think I've seen you on this run before," he added, nonchalantly. "Just a trial flight? I'm Chuck Jones, co-pilot."

"It's my first flight," she told him. "You don't think I'll be sick or anything?"

CHUCK laughed. "Oh, we'll have smooth flying tonight—might get some bumps over the Alleghenies, but I don't think so."

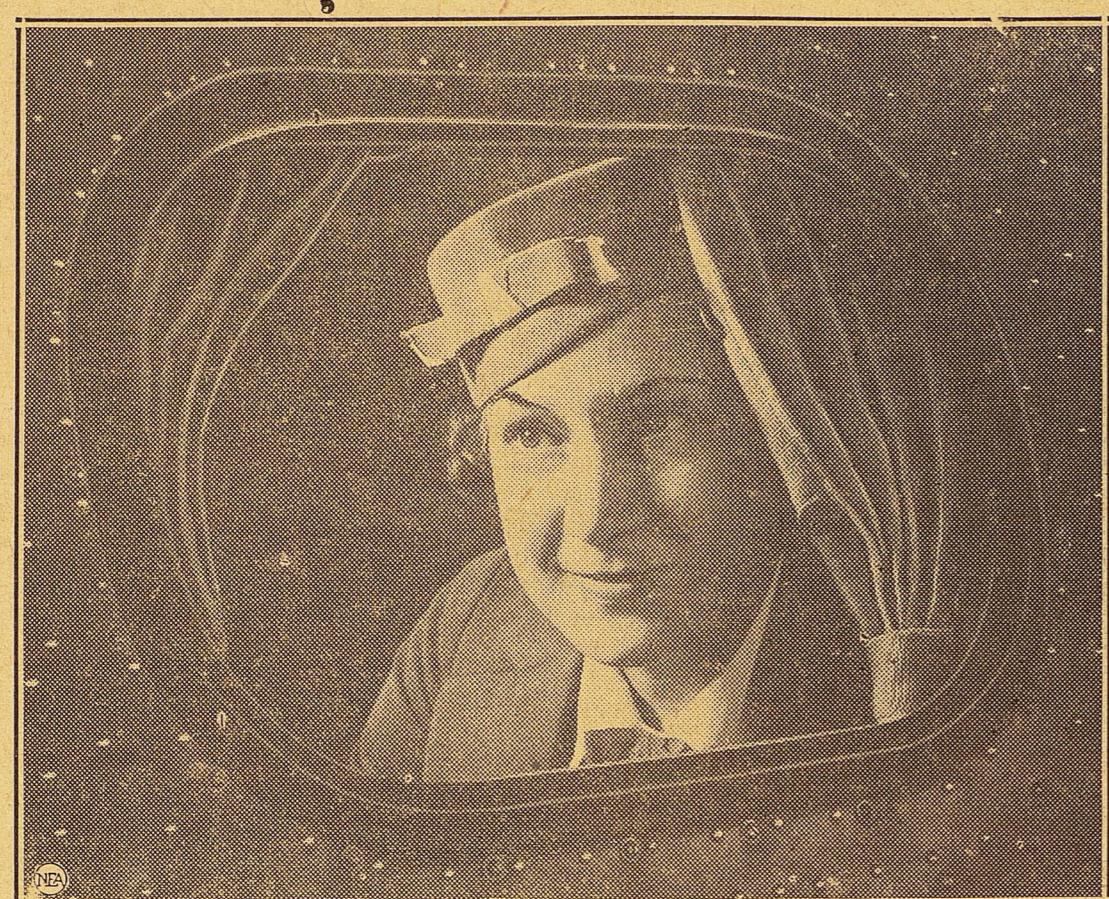

He looked around and saw the other two girls—Alice and Doris—in uniform. "What's this?" he exclaimed. "A girl's boarding-school!"

Kay laughed. "Three of us taken on today. I hope we all make the grade."

Chuck's eyes twinkled. "So do I. By the way, what's your name?"

"Kay Dunn."

Chuck Jones opened a book and neatly inscribed the name therein. Then he looked up. "Say, that's a neat combination—red hair and green eyes. What's your telephone number in port?"

Kay watched the twinkling lights of the vast, sprawling city disappear in the darkness below.

Kay laughed. "Sorry. I haven't any."

He slapped the little book shut and then stood up. "Okay by me! But when you get lonely in port just give me a wink. I'll be around."

The pilot jumped as if he had been shot, but he responded courteously.

"The plane passes over my daughter's house near Pittsburgh," the woman said. "It's on a big hill. I wonder if you'd go down low so I can see the lights of the house. I'm sentimental about those things."

The pilot's face concealed his mirth. "Sorry, madame, but at that point we can't fly lower than 3000 feet. Government regulations."

He hurried toward the rear of the plane.

"Don't look at the pilot!" Doris said. "He's just impossible!" She tossed her yellow hair. "I was standing there, trying to learn something from the air hostess when he came by and said we were blocking the aisle. And that's not all. He said, 'Get rid of some of that excess baggage, sister, if you're going to fly this line!' I turned beet-red, I know, but I'll fix that guy! He can't get fresh with me!"

KAY looked back and saw Chuck Jones' blond head close to Alice Miller's. His blue eyes were shining, and Alice seemed enormously pleased. Her broad, timid air had somehow vanished and she was laughing at something he had said.

In a minute or two the co-pilot was chewing gum and making loud noises. There were several business men, a Japanese merchant, an army officer, a priest, and four school girls. Most of them were reading magazines, glancing out at intervals toward the great blackness which engulfed them. Back in the rear of the plane two men played checkers.

After a few minutes the pilot came back up the aisle. He nodded comradely to Kay, but Doris regarded him with arch suspicion.

He stopped to point out the window, and say, "We're over the Alleghenies now—the graveyard of aviators."

But an hour later the passengers were still doing the same commonplace things to pass the time. The trip was uneventful.

"Nothing ever happens," the air hostess said, "except once in a while a passenger is sick. It's an exciting life, though. You're never sure just what might be ahead."

At midnight the plane glided to earth at the Newark Airport and the passengers disembarked.

Kay looked at her wrist-watch and judged that Ted Graham would be flying over the High Sierras now. Her thoughts spanned the continent and perhaps they reached Ted, for at that minute he sat back in his chair and thought about the three girls who had applied for jobs as stewardesses that evening. He carried a picture, tattered and precisely closeted in his mind, of Kay Dunn's face.

A. & M. Prospects

For Grid Season Unusually Good

By United Press

COLLEGE STATION — Texas A. & M. College will make its bid for the 1936 Southwest Conference football championship a d possibly national prominence this fall with a squad of 57 husky linemen and fleet-footed backfield performers—more powerful than at any time within recent years.

Coach Homer Norton and his aides are counting on their wealth of experienced veterans, 16 of them lettermen, and a handful of capable sophomores to pull the Aggies from the mire to the conference championship heights since the Cadets since 1927.

Against and in the air the Aggies expect to be more powerful offensively than last year. Jim Shockey, ace passer, will lead the Cadets' aerial maneuvers and Dick Todd, one of the most talked of sophomores ever to enter conference competition, will be the Cadets' "No. 1" ground threat.

With a line virtually the same as in 1935, but more experienced, and the backfield more adept at anti-aerial plays, Norton hopes his team also will be stronger defensively.

Eight of the Aggies' nine 1935 backfield lettermen will return. The ninth, Freddy Wright, broke a leg this summer. Of the veterans, Shockey and Todd seem most certain of regular berths.

Shockey, whose home is in Gilmer, developed into an exceptionally good passer in mid-season last year and will exercise his ability again this season in addition to some punting, Norton said.

Todd, who set a scoring record for Crowell high school with 318 points his senior year in 1934, is seen by many Aggie fans as a "New Moses" and is expected to be the backfield "sparkplug" the Cadets have needed for some years.

The line will need only one replacement to present a solid letterman front. Taylor Wilkins, end, graduated last year, but a 210-pound sophomore, Rankin Britt of Ranger, stands ready to will the gap.

Johnny Morrow, 185-pounder from Callaway, La.; Raiborn, 185, San Angelo; Selfridge, 203, Borger; Cartledge, 185, Kirkland; Ellison, 180, McLean; Newberry, 175, Childress; Clifton, 185, Eagle Lake, and Guy, 185, Lake Charles, La.

The forward wall will include co-captain Murphy, 200-pound Brady tackle; Radoslovich, 205, tackle, Clayton, N. M.; Beck, 190, tackle, Stratford; Crowell, 212, tackle, Matador; Alexander, 235, tackle, Clayton, N. M.; and Burns, 195, Lake Charles, La.

Guard posts will be filled by Callaway, 185-pounder from San Angelo; Raiborn, 185, San Angelo; Selfridge, 203, Borger; Cartledge, 185, Kirkland; Ellison, 180, McLean; Newberry, 175, Childress; Clifton, 185, Eagle Lake, and Guy, 185, Lake Charles, La.

ARCADIA

THE COOLEST SPOT IN RANGER

Last Times Today

1936 Version: "Any Gas Today, Lady?"

"Any gas today, lady?" largely has replaced the interrogation of the ice man, particularly in sections beyond the city gas mains. An affirmative reply results in the attaching of a new cylinder of gas—"bottled gas," it is called in the suburbs, on farms, and at resorts, which has come into popularity as fuel for kitchen stoves.

Sales of such liquefied gases, which are of petroleum origin, reached 76,855,000 gallons in 1935, a gain of 36.2 per cent over 1934, and a contribution to the 326 per cent increase in the consumption of liquefied petroleum gases during the six-year period, 1930-1935. Some 21,380,000 gallons, or nearly 28 per cent, were used for domestic purposes, chiefly cooking. About 10 per cent, or 7,551,000 gallons, was mixed with manufactured gas to increase the heat value, while 62 per cent, or 47,894,000 gallons, found industrial uses, particularly in manufacturing operations where accurate heat control is essential.

Most of the liquefied petroleum gas consumed in 1935 was propane, with butane a close second, propane-butane mixtures third, and the rest pentane. Propane is the "bottled gas" used for domestic heating. Butane was consumed largely in such industrial processes as annealing, brazing, carburing, metal cutting, pre-heating, etc. Many chemical products also are manufactured from the gases.

IF PEGGY HAS A SWEETHEART -- THAT SECRET'S HERS ALONE!

Peggy Anne Landon . . . if she has a "steady," the columnists and the campus gossips can't find out who the lucky lad is.

By NEA Service

TOPEKA, Kan.—Peggy Anne

Landon, co-ed daughter of Governor Landon, will be a good candidate for a diplomatic post if her father enters the White House next winter. She's so good at keeping a secret.

Has she a sweetheart? And, if so, who is he? Wouldn't the Kansas reporters and photographers just like to know!

And do they find out? Not so you could notice it! Peggy Landon, as her friends call her on the Kansas University campus at Lawrence, discarding the middle name "Anne," keeps her own counsel about boy friends.

If she has a "steady" boy friend, not even her roommates at the Pi Beta Phi sorority house, Betty Jane Campbell and Mary Jane Haines, have been able to find it out.

Peggy Anne hasn't "dated" anyone with enough consistency to justify even rumors of a romance.

Some time ago she was keeping company with Leigh Fisher, a second-year law student from Amarillo, Texas, and a member of Delta Upsilon. But by the time columnists were printing rumors about romance, the dating had ceased.

She started the collection back in 1933 when she was appearing in "Stand Up and Cheer," her first major film after leaving the "Baby Burlesques" of the short comedy field.

Some signatures, such as that of Jay Gurney, cannot be deciphered, but Shirley knows them all by heart.

Some signatures, such as that of Jay Gurney, cannot be deciphered, but Shirley knows them all by heart.

With school out, there came news of a regular caller at 801 Buchanan street, the governor's mansion. Nobody even found out who that was.

But it was forgotten, anyway, when dispatches from far-off Estes Park, Colo., indicated that Peggy was dating a young man out there with considerable regularity during the Landon family summer vacation.

Thus the vivacious daughter of Governor Landon has kept them
